TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Pioneers arriving half a century ago built their lonely camps and watched the light with hopeful faces. Hardships, poverty and years of work lay ahead in the new, untamed country, still wild by buffalo trails and the echo of Indian war cries. Meeting each day's problems with courage that knew no compromise, they broke the fertile sod, established their trade homes to start the pageant of progress. Smoke of their campfires has vanished in the dim past, but the monument of their achievements is eternal.

We were digging post holes on the side of a rocky hill that autumn afternoon when the red-haired girl rode up and asked the direction of a remote windmill. She was a child of a girl and her hair was clear alabaster. Her brown eyes, softened by a secret grief, searched us hurriedly from beneath the wide awning of a straight-brimmed hat. She touched the slender white horse with the heels of her boots and was gone over the crest of a hill. Her name seemed to hang on the cool wind that hovered in the canyons. My companion rubbed his eyes with the back of his hand and looked at the rim of hills from which she had vanished. We had a proof that she had passed, for her horse had left no tracks on the rocks, but the echo of her words haunted our thoughts and speculations. Months passed, and the incident sank into the limbo of forgetfulness until the day I shared the crowd's interest in the sheriff's passing with a prisoner. The red-haired man handcuffed the officer seemed too meek and too small to be a cow-thief. He wore a broad, straight-brimmed hat that I had seen before.

Destitute with an abundance of opportunity, the world's eternal flames seek to imitate rather than design a course. They stand bewildered at the intersection of destiny, and like lost and bewildered puppies, follow the cadence of friendly voices for a while, then turn back. It is better to travel the wrong road with confidence and purpose, than to sip the toxic wine of hesitation.

Atomic power may become anticipated before it is developed. In fact, a west Texas jeweler may have tapped the source of supernatural power. I studied the little ring ceremony set in a display window and failed to discover more than ordinary gold to justify a placard in the case which read: "Satisfaction guaranteed."

Blistering like the breath of an angry dragon, the wind twisted a shock of soft, brown hair that hung over the soiled bus chair in front of me. There was a blue-veined light in the eyes of a soldier beside me. He wore a tangle of battle ribbons against his dandy pressed uniform. His hands were quick and I did not see the small scissors held until he looked at me and smiled. He rolled the tiny tuft of hair between his fingers and took a small leather case from his pocket. Inside the case were many other samples, similar except for color. Some were black, dyed black, half a dozen shades of brown, reds and several blondes. Three were grey. He made a little ring out of the tuft and placed it with the others. "It is my only hobby," he said, and resumed reading his newspaper.

At the initial meeting of all high school students, the changes in the course of study will be explained, followed immediately by enrollment, issuing of text books and brief meetings of each class for Tuesday assignments.

Cpl. Henry Martin was sent to Oklahoma City in February, 1945, to take further B-29 training after spending ten months in England. After training in Pratt, Kansas, Cpl. Martin left for the Pacific area. He was home on a week's furlough to be with his brother, and other members of his family who reside at Plainview.

The association will pay a five percent cash dividend on stock of record on December 31, 1944. The amount of capital stock outstanding at that time was $40,765.00, which will mean a cash distribution of $2,038.25.

One director is to be elected. Farmers and ranchers who are not members of the association but who may be interested in the advantages of a home-owned Land Bank loan are invited to attend the meeting, Mr. Hamilton said.

"Some recent changes in the law governing Federal Land Bank loans make it of great interest to the stockholders to be present, in order that these changes may be discussed and become familiar to members and prospective members of the association", Mr. Hamilton declared.

Traweek Addresses Lions Club

Principal feature of the Lions club program Tuesday, was an interesting address by former member, Lt. Howard Traweek, of the U. S. Navy, visiting at his home for the first time in 2 1/2 years, who spoke on the subject of anti-submarine warfare.

Experience and knowledge was gleaned from the Sub-chaser Naval base at Miami, Florida, where he was stationed before being sent to Washington, D. C., several months ago furnished background for his talk. Of the many nationalities, principally Latin - American, receiving training there, the Russians were most conscientious, Lt. Traweek said. He declared that the submarine menace was much more severe throughout the war, than was generally known.

Algie Durbin, Aviation Radioman, 3/C, also the U. S. Navy, following with a few remarks concerning duties of Rescue planes and Ralph Dockendorf, chemist with the Humble Oil and Refining Co., of Baytown, reported interesting data concerning the uses of butyl as a substitute for rubber.

No Tribune Next Week

For the first time in the twelve years the Tribune has been published under the present management, no issue will be printed next week.

Following the example of several papers over the country who suspended publication for one week, in order for the force to have a vacation, the Tribune force expects to enjoy what they express as a "well-earned rest", next week.

Labor shortage has made impossible, securing of a relief crew. However, Mrs. Marvin Patton will be in charge of the office affairs during the absence of the publishers, and any items to appear in subsequent issues of the Tribune may be communicated to her at her home.

Revival services at the Church of Christ are underway, with a good attendance and much interest being shown.

Dynamic messages are being delivered by Minister O. D. Fikes, with Gordon Gatewood leading the singing.

Twins Meet After Three Years Apart

1st Lieut. Wesley Yandell and Sgt. Lesley Yandell, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Yandell, were together here the past week at the home of their parents, for the first time in three years.

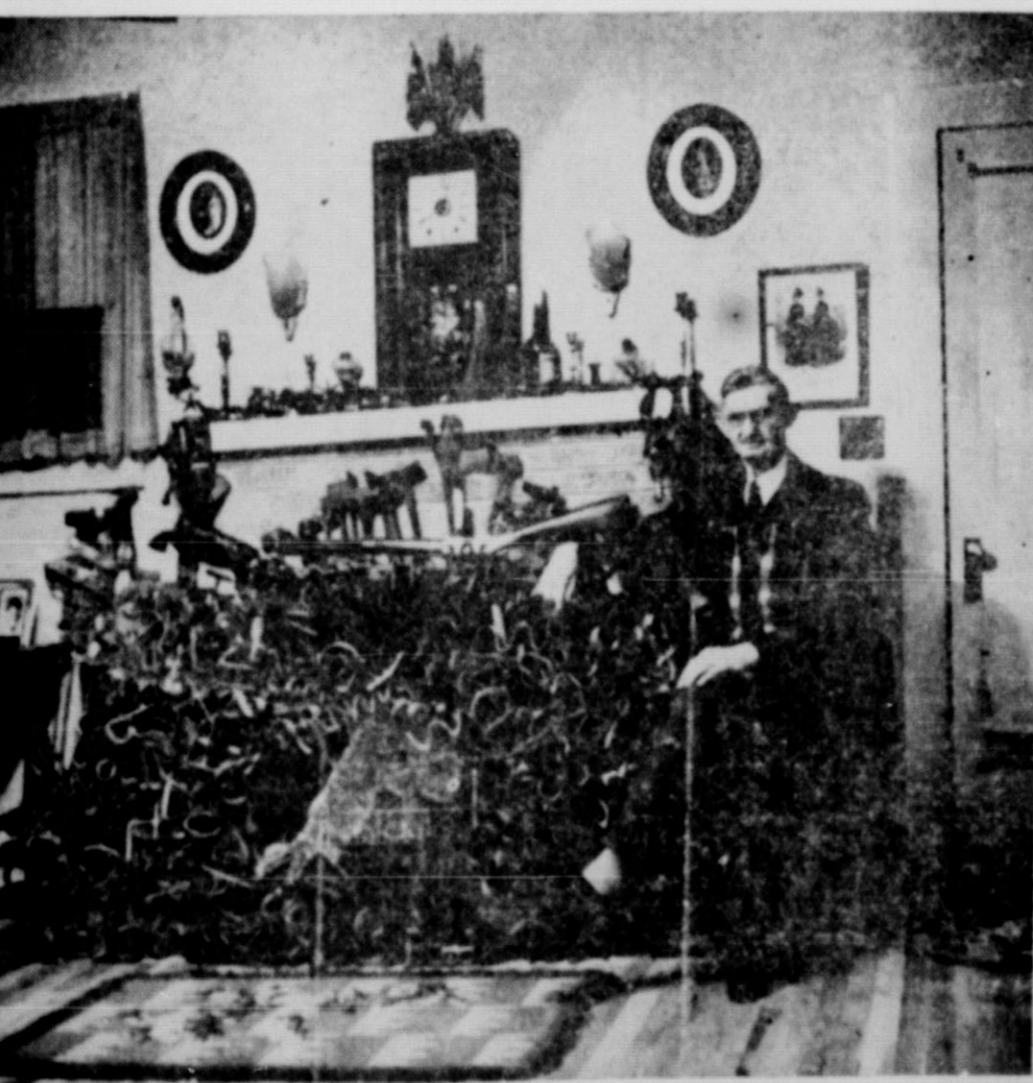

Lt. Yandell, bombardier of the 9th Air Force, returned to the states August 8, from the European theatre of operations after being overseas the past twelve months. Based in England, Belgium and France he completed 52 missions and received the Purple Heart award for wounds received in action against the enemy, July 28, 1944. He wears 5 combat stars on his ETO campaign ribbon, has 9 oak leaf clusters, the Presidential Citation ribbon, and has been recommended for the Distinguished Flying Cross.

He was in Matador from Saturday, August 11, until Tuesday, when he left for Brady where he will visit before reporting to San Antonio.

Sgt. Lesley Yandell has been stationed at Jackson, Miss., since his return to the states early in June, from the Mediterranean area.

Joining the brothers here in their visit were two sisters, Mrs. Ellis Andrews, Ralls, and Mrs. C. D. McDowell, McCamey; 2 nieces, Mrs. J. W. Bowers, West, Arizona, and Mrs. Odell Blackwell, Guthrie, Texas, and a cousin, Mrs. D. J. Sinclair of Lubbock.

Branding Irons Important To Texas History

Of interest to many old timers of this section, will be the group of branding irons shown above, from the collection of J. E. Taulman, of 3314 Avenue G, Ft. Worth, Texas. There are 57 irons in this picture, which Mr. Taulman spent several years collecting because of the important part which he felt they played in the history of the cattle industry and old cattle ranches of Texas.

The collection, together with many relics, documents, pictures and thousands of newspaper clippings (covering a period of more than forty years), pertaining to old forts, early routes of Texas, old churches and colleges, has been donated by Mr. Taulman to the Texas Memorial Museum at Austin.

The defendant, because of his harsh treatment and ill-conduct toward her; that he never provided her with a home and failed to provide for her; that he spent money on questionable charges and spent a large part of his time with other women; that he was unkind, harsh and cruel toward plaintiff and that he assaulted her with his hands and did shake and handle her in a rough manner; that such treatment caused her great worry and thus injured her general health; that on several occasions, he was guilty of excesses, cruel treatment and outrages toward her of a nature as to render their life together as husband and wife unbearable; that no child was born of said marriage, and no community property accumulated.

columnist made a race for the State office three years ago the afternoon before the primary, a letter arrived from Mrs. Driscoll saying, "I am voting for you," which was esteemed as a real honor. Many throughout Texas mourn the death of E. H. Whitehead, publisher of the Polk County Enterprise and for many years an outstanding executive in Chamber of Commerce circles, with the West Texas, the South Texas, Temple and Conroe organizations—a man of tireless energy, of great achievement, one who built for others, a true friend.

Uncle Sam Pins Ordeal On Local Women For Saving Used Fat!

Things have really been happening to fat-savings since figures since town and the most official government show that their fat savings left the excellent record of women "way behind."

But it isn't a drop too much this year, we face a shortage of 1 billion, 500 million pounds of fat in domestic supply. More of war and home-front piles made from fat are needed.

Farm folks get more meat days than most city people. It's up to them to save the skin steaks, soups, gravies, panes. Melt down meat trimmings.

It all helps you fill the fat-savings can, and you get up to and 2 red points a pound. It's not any difficulty at all. Home Demonstration or C. W. Agents. Approved by WPA and OPA. Paid for by Industry.

A PATRIOTIC VACATION AT HOME

War-time travel has convinced most West Texans that the only place to get a real vacation is at home. Creeks and lakes in this vicinity are full of fish and some of us are learning for the first time the beauties of our own immediate outdoors. A few days out in the country doesn't disrupt the household as it did some years ago. You don't have to throw out all the food in the house. Now folks just leave their electric refrigerator on "medium" and when they get back—day or night—cold and inviting foods await them.

Servicemen need every bit of traveling space available for the next ninety days, and by your staying at home this summer a little extra room will be left for these returning heroes.

Rediscover the vacation spots in our vicinity. Reddy Kilowatt guarantees that you'll write to your friends, "Having a wonderful time—wish you were here."

Cox Advises Care In Selection Of Family Physician

AUSTIN, Texas, According to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, there are too many persons who approach the choice of a family physician casually. Viewing the doctor much as a fireman, whose services are required only in an emergency, such families wait until an illness strikes, and then get hold of the first doctor who can respond to the call. While such an attitude still reasonably assures one of satisfactory medical services, it can handicap the physician somewhat, and in the long run does not permit the supervision and close personal contact which only can exist by having a regular doctor.

"Knowing his patients enables a physician to give advice on maintaining health and prevent-

Simple Precautions Can Curb Infantile Paralysis Spread

Although the term, "infantile paralysis" strikes terror into the hearts of parents each summer, the chances of children becoming infected with this dread disease are exceedingly remote.

While more than 50,000 persons in the United States die each year of tuberculosis, and more than 150,000 of cancer, the total number of infantile cases reported in any one year is less than 10,000, according to an article in the August issue of Good Housekeeping magazine.

And this total could be substantially reduced if parents would take cognizance of a few fundamental facts set forth in the article, which states in part:

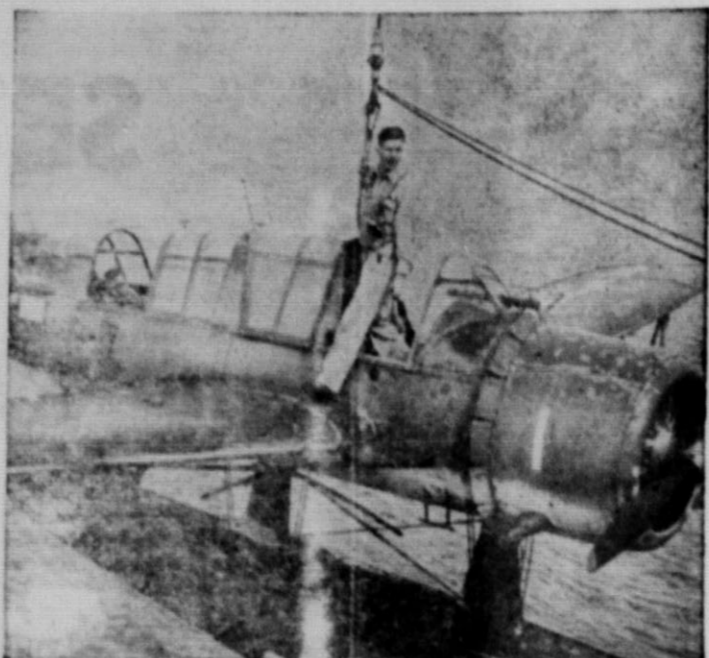

"When symptoms appear put the patient to bed and isolate him at once. Call a doctor.

"Doctors recommend that parents avoid removal of tonsils and adenoids when infantile paralysis is prevalent in the community.

"The virus of infantile paralysis is widespread in sewage and polluted water. Practice cleanliness. Avoid crowded swimming pools and bathing beaches during outbreaks of infantile paralysis.

"Teach children the importance of clean water, clean food, clean milk, and above all, clean hands when eating and drinking. Keep food away from flies. They have been shown to carry the virus.

"The infantile paralysis virus is widespread, but only a minimum number of those exposed are infected. Less than half of those infected are paralyzed."

ing disease, based on his intimate knowledge of the physical and mental make-up of the members of the family," Dr. Cox stated. "The casually summoned physician plainly cannot have this background or opportunity.

"People are far from being alike," he continued. "Bodily and mental characteristics markedly differ in members of the same family. Reactions to medicines of various types, the habits of the individual, environmental influences, and personal factors vary widely. Armed with an intelligent appreciation of these personal illness, but can act as an advisor regarding disease preventions, living habits, and the facts, as applied to the members of the family, a physician possesses the maximum opportunity to render his best service." Dr. Cox declared that in such case not only is the physician in a better position to treat general health of all those comprising the family group. He thus not only is one who cures a specific illness, but becomes a

CANNED PINEAPPLE SAVES MONEY FOR MOTLEY FAMILIES

Home-canned pineapple, put up this summer by club women of the county, resulted in a saving of $1120.00, according to a report compiled by Mrs. W. N. Pipkin, chairman of the marketing committee, under supervision of Mrs. Lois Jo Krause, County Home Demonstration agent.

The report revealed that 273 families in the county purchased 320 dozen pineapples for $3.50 per bushel, from which, 7040 pints were canned, with 1920 pints of juice. Priced at 42 points per pint, $76.320 blue points were saved in the canning.

In addition to the saving in finances, it was pointed out that the home-canned fruit improved nutrition for the families.
