More Intense Action On The Western Front

Opposing Armies Hit At Opposite Ends Of Sector

French Claim Additional Local Advances, Germans Counter-Attack

PARIS, Sept. 11 (AP)—The heavily-entrenched French and German armies struck at opposite ends of a 100-mile sector between the Rhine and Moselle rivers today as the western front see-sawed back and forth.

The morning communique from the French general staff announced the front was generally quiet during the night, but that French troops had succeeded in making one "local advance" under cover of darkness.

Their new zone of attack was on the eastern end of a line from the plateau of Bitch down into Germany's Palatinate area, between the little Saar river and the Vosges mountains.

Britain Acts To Broaden War At Sea

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Great Britain intensified her naval and economic warfare against Germany today, having lost 12 merchantmen in the first eight days of what the cabinet regards as a war that will last at least three years.

Public opinion also seemed inclined toward preparations for a long war and scorned what were presumed to be German intentions of offering peace after a lightning conquest of Poland.

The press almost unanimously backed up the cabinet's decision to base its policy on the premise of a three-year war, regarding the announcement as Britain's "withering" answer to a "peace" feeler in German Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's speech Saturday.

Furthermore, dispatches indicated final blows against Poland were not imminent. War correspondents, whose reports just are beginning to reach England, stressed Poland's army still is intact, and that withdrawal always has been part of the Polish plans.

The 12th British ship sent to the bottom was the 8,640-ton Magdalen. The ministry of information announced her sinking last night with an undisclosed number of casualties, but did not announce how or where she was sunk.

The 2,796-ton Goodwood was reported by the British Press association yesterday to have been sunk in the North Sea, and the information ministry added the name of the 4,086-ton Rio Claro, sunk Wednesday, to the official list.

The government's answer was twofold. It swung into an "unremitting" campaign of "attacks and counter-measures," and, secondly, extended machinery for its "contraband control" through stations in Gibraltar and Alexandria, at both ends of the Mediterranean, and on Ceylon in the Indian ocean.

The admiralty reported a convoy system soon would be operating "with the rest of that U-boat sinkings would tend to decrease."

The government still was concealing its military program.

POLISH DEFENDERS OF WESTERPLATTE AFTER THEIR SURRENDER

The German censors made no effort to minimize the bravery of that little band of Poles who battled for days at Westerplatte before surrendering their ammunition dump and fortress to the Germans. The caption for this picture, as approved in Berlin, reads: "Brave Polish defenders of the Westerplatte outpost captured after surrender being guarded by army, navy corps." The picture was sent to New York by radio September 9.

British On Hand?

The German counter-attacks, which the French were reported to be holding off with bayonets, were directed against the western end of the line from the Saar basin, where French troops staged their first advance.

Action generally appeared to be gaining in intensity. Identity of the forces involved remained a military secret, but it was understood the French division mentioned in a communique Saturday for a "brilliant attack" was a famous World War infantry unit.

It was believed by now the British expeditionary forces also had had time to take battle positions.

Operations, which were confined largely to contact by advance guards on both sides during the first week of the war, were reported to be involving reinforced bodies of troops as the second week of the campaign was launched.

Movements also were broadening out, with whole woods, heights and villages at stake, where earlier operations were aimed against front line trenches and pill boxes.

Aerial scouts who had been following German movements also brought back reports German troop movements in the Saar area were "bothered" by French raids on communications lines.

The war came home to Paris again with an early morning air raid alarm, the fourth since operations began a week ago today and the first since the introduction of the new policy of sounding a warning only in "imminent danger of attack."

The alarm lasted 67 minutes and was attributed to a German scouting raid in which the planes failed to reach the capital.

Premier Daladier, meanwhile, proceeded with the formation of a war-time cabinet. The premier conferred at the war ministry this

BRITISH FREIGHTER TORPEDOED, ALL ABOARD SAVED

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—The United States Lines today received a radio saying that the British freighter Biarlogie was torpedoed today off the Irish coast but that the 32 members of the crew had been saved by the United States liner American Shipper.

The message said the crew reported "all well" and that they were treated with consideration by the submarine commander.

The American Shipper turned back 150 miles on her course to make the rescue from the sinking 4,425-ton craft.

100,000-Barrel Increase Favored By Commission For Eastex Field

Policy On Other Producing Areas Not Yet Fixed

AUSTIN, Sept. 11 (AP)—A majority of the railroad commission announced today it would approve an order increasing the allowable production of the big East Texas field approximately 100,000 barrels daily for September and October.

Proposed by Commissioner Jerry Sadler and concurred in by Chairman Lon A. Smith, the order would continue the present basis of proration for East Texas but boost the allowable to approximately 490,000 barrels daily.

The announcement came at a statewide hearing attended by a big crowd of oil operators and attorneys. It was the first hearing to review the situation since the general shutdown in midcontinent oil producing states which followed slashes in the price of crude.

What the commission would do about the rest of the state's fields was not brought out immediately.

The order which Sadler and Smith said they would sign called for an immediate two-day shutdown of the East Texas field for the asserted purpose of checking well bottomhole pressures.

Sadler expressed opposition to slashing production of the rest of the state as all members of the commission recently announced they probably would do to keep Texas' crude output in line with recommendations by the federal bureau of mines on market demand.

"Conditions have changed," Sadler said. A warning crude production should be kept "well in hand" for the next 30 days, that no hasty action be taken and that Texas should maintain faith with other oil producing states which have reduced allowances was sounded by R. H. Foster of Fort Worth, who said he represented a large group of independent operators.

Issues as the hearing began were whether Texas' allowable should be curtailed below its present figure of approximately 1,400,000 barrels a day, and whether, regardless of what was done for the remainder of the state, the

Directed Verdict Denied By Judge In Weiss Trial

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 11 (AP)—Federal Judge Wayne G. Borah today overruled defense motions for a directed verdict of not guilty for the five defendants in the Seymour Weiss fraud trial and ordered the trial to proceed.

Former Gov. Richard W. Leche then was called to the stand as the first witness for the defense. Judge Borah, in giving his decision, said to the jury: "The jury is instructed to draw no conclusions from the court ruling. It is purely a discretionary matter with the court."

Defense attorneys immediately objected and reserved bills of exception, which the judge allowed.

Echoes, Sidelights On The War

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Copenhagen newspaper Berlingske Aftenavis reported today a German torpedo boat exploded in a German mine field off Trellsberg, Sweden, yesterday, with an estimated loss of 10 lives.

The paper said the explosion was seen by a Swedish steamer which was unable to go to the rescue because of the mines. A German trawler rescued some of the crew, the dispatch added.

The master of the Swedish vessel said ten perished.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—With 945 jubilant American citizens aboard, the Swedish-American liner Kungsholm, arrived from Europe today after skirting the submarine-infested north Atlantic.

The liner brought a total of 1,262 passengers, including five congressmen and one United States senator.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Mexican navy was ordered today to patrol the gulf and Pacific coastlines to prevent entry of belligerent warships into Mexican waters.

WAR NEWS CONFLICTS

By the Associated Press
Conflicting accounts in the European war make it difficult to tell where the truth lies. Each side naturally tells a story favorable to itself. Often the facts are somewhere between the two versions. Here are examples in today's news:

Warsaw: Poles say they have compelled the Germans "to retreat from some Warsaw suburbs." Germans give two accounts: one that their lines "lying in the western part" of Warsaw have been under Polish artillery fire, the other that their lines are just west of the city and the Polish lines at Warsaw's edge.

On the western front: German: "The Saarbrücken air-drome, which previously had been abandoned, was shot at by French artillery."

French: "A local advance" was scored, apparently in the Saarland area."

WITHDRAWAL FROM WARSAW SUBURBS IS ANNOUNCED

Nazi Planes Said To Be Bombing Capital City During Bloody Fighting

BUDAPEST, Sept. 11 (AP)—A broadcast from the Polish radio station Lwow today declared after four days of bloody fighting the Polish army had forced German invaders "to retreat from some Warsaw suburbs."

The report was broadcast at 2:10 p. m. The Lwow station, about 220 miles southeast of Warsaw, said German planes were bombing the heart of Warsaw, but did not estimate casualties.

A Warsaw broadcast two hours earlier had indicated the Polish army still was holding the defense lines of their capital.

The Warsaw radio said German bombs had fallen in Pilsudski square which is ringed by the war ministry, foreign ministry, Warsaw military headquarters and the Hotel Europejski where many foreigners stayed before war started.

The fragmentary report, interrupted by static, said a large number of persons were in the square, but did not mention casualties.

German radio announcements picked up in Budapest declared annihilation of Polish forces was "nearing the end" and that "many encircled troops already are beginning to surrender."

Germans announced the continued bombings of highways between Lublin and Lwow on the main route from Warsaw to Rumania. While

SALVATION ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN PETROLEUM BLDG.

Opening of headquarters for the Salvation Army's finance campaign in room 204 in the Petroleum building was announced Monday by R. L. Portwood, Dallas, sent here to direct the fund drive.

The building management has donated use of the office space, and a typewriter has been loaned free of charge by the Thomas Typewriter Exchange. Portwood said a telephone would be installed in the new office soon.

Portwood will meet with the local advisory board later this week to map definite plans for the campaign to raise funds for the ensuing year's Army activities.

GASOLINE PRICE DUE TO ADVANCE

An advance of one cent per gallon in the price of gasoline was due to take effect here Tuesday morning, retailers announced Monday afternoon.

The increase was attributed to the situation of war conditions as well as to a rise in the part of the industry to hold up the price of crude through higher product prices.

Edwards Girls To Join Others In Madison Square Garden Rodeo

When schools open this fall two Big Spring girls who had planned to attend will be staying and instead of learning will be showing the folks "up North" how things are done. The two are Mary Nell and Anna Belle Edwards, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Edwards, and they will be riding in the Madison Square Garden championship rodeo in New York.

Six girls were selected from Texas to be called the "Texas Glamour Girls" and they were chosen by E. E. Colburn, manager of the affair, and T. L. Deglin, publicity director.

Others who were selected were Fern Sawyer of Brownfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. D. Sawyer; Elizabeth Miller of Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Miller; Walter Fay Cowden of Midland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cowden, and Fay Marburger of Abilene.

The girls will dress in rodeo costume for the entire time they are in New York. They will leave Dallas, Tex., on a special rodeo train September 25th and will be chaperoned by Mrs. Sawyer of Brownfield and Mrs. M. M. Edwards.

The train will leave from Dublin since it is there Colburn has a ranch and keeps rodeo stock to be used at Madison Square Garden. Over 600 head of stock will be taken up to New York from there. The rodeo begins Oct. 4th and will last 25 days. The girls will be featured at each of the performances.

The six going from Texas have all been prominent in sponsor contests for several years and each has won one or more major contests. The latest wins for the Edwards: Mary Nell won the contest at the recent Midland rodeo and Anna Belle placed third.

Mrs. Miller won the sponsor contest in 1938 at Texas Cowboy Reunion at Stamford; Miss Sawyer and Miss Cowden featured at Fort Worth Fat Stock show this year and Miss Sawyer won first place in Colorado City Frontier Round-Up last weekend. Miss Marburger won at Waco in 1938.

Canada Gets Into The War

OTTAWA, Sept. 11 (Canadian Press)—The question of sending a major expeditionary force to Europe remained to be decided today as Canada offered her resources to Great Britain under a declaration of war with Germany.

Less than two hours after Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King sent a copy of the war declaration to the Canadian official gazette at 1:10 p. m. (11:10 a. m. CST) yesterday, the United States applied the arms embargo restrictions of the neutrality act to Canada.

It was Canada's first formal war proclamation. Upon Britain's entrance into the World War in 1914 the dominion government merely published the British war proclamation.

The prime minister said the dominion's first contributions to the war will be to safeguard British and French possessions in the North Atlantic, train and send Canadian airmen overseas and dispatch food and munitions to the allies.

The question of sending an infantry expeditionary force to Europe is to be decided, he added.

During the World War, Canada enlisted 619,000 men for service and the expeditionary forces eventually reached 450,000. The nation's casualties were 55,684 dead and 149,732 wounded. World war costs to the dominion were estimated at $3,000,000,000.

MEXICAN NAMED IN ASSAULT CHARGE

Charges of assault with intent to murder had been filed Monday against Alexandro Ramirez, Abilene, as the result of an attack on his wife.

The woman, Petra Stokes Ramirez, was in a local hospital under treatment for a deep slash across her throat and a lesser cut on her leg.

Ramirez was picked up in a street near the V. B. Mancha place where witnesses said the incident occurred.

SCOUT LEADERS TO MAP PROGRAM

Scout leaders of the Big Spring district will hold a program planning meeting at 7:30 p. m. today in the scout hut at the city park, Jack Penrose, field scout executive, said.

Scouters will hold their session following a camp meal. A. P. Gaskin, executive, said. Scoutmaster, J. W. Penrose, will be here for the meeting.

STEELS LEAD IN UPSWING

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—A wide upturn in the nation's steel producing rate to 70.2 per cent of capacity, the highest since September, 1937, was announced today as steel stocks soared to new heights for the war boom in Wall Street.

Anticipating the boost in the steel rate, key war industry traders bid steel shares up for gains ranging to more than $7. Bethlehem, spearhead of the bullish drive, led the upswing with a surge above $96, a net gain of more than $7 for the day.

United States Steel crossed $70 for a further gain of around $5. Many other war stocks were up $1 to more than $3 in one of the heaviest trading sessions of the upswing. Profit-taking stemmed the rise for a while but the market went ahead to top prices of the day after the American Iron & Steel Institute early in the afternoon reported its weekly estimate of the steel rate.

CATTLE MOVEMENT

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 11 (AP)—Cattle poured into the stockyards today in a volume not witnessed since the big drought rush of 1934, as the belated movement from southwest pastures got into full swing.

An estimated total of 33,900 cattle was on hand, almost double the 16,948 head run of a week ago.

Arrivals of hogs continued liberal, the 4,000 head reaching here today comparing with less than 1,600 a week ago.

TWO KILLED IN TRAIN COLLISION

WARROAD, Minn., Sept. 11 (AP)—Three persons were killed and several hurt today in a head-on collision between two Canadian National trains.

The crash occurred just across the border on the Canadian side. One was a long freight train and the other comprised an engine and a caboose.

Traffic And Schools

With the opening of school today sending children by the hundreds into the streets at various times of the day, it is well that we pause and consider the increased responsibility that rests on the shoulders of all who drive motor vehicles.

It means that greater care must be taken, that the mechanical condition of the vehicle becomes of greater importance, that vigilance in traffic must be doubled and redoubled.

In one West Texas city the corporation court judge has issued a warning that, in view of the opening of school, fines for speeding and running stop signs will be increased in his court.

The motorist should remember the children and drive with greater than ordinary care during school hours, especially in streets in the school zones. He should remember that the responsibility is his; children cannot be depended upon or expected to think for themselves in the excitement of play.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Life in the less stylish precincts of Avenue A has contributed more than once to the cinema entertainment of the nation. One of the earliest talkies was a little thing called "Madonna of Avenue A" with one of the Costello sisters, Helena I think, as the star.

I could never get the title of that picture out of my mind because I could never remember many pictures, silent or otherwise, which were worse. Consequently, seven or eight years ago when I first came to New York to live, I found my way down there one day to have a look at the terrain that provided the background for Miss Costello's Illiad.

The adventure was a disappointment. The movie sets in no wise resembled the street that is flung down Manhattan's East Side, next to the river. It is poorer than Job's turkey. On hot summer nights when the tank steamers churn up the muddy bottom of the river, Avenue A is visited with an odor which is similar to rotten eggs.

But it isn't really tough any more. I doubt if it ever was. The fascinating aura of crime which hung over Chatham square and the Asiatic quarter for so many years, and the tales of thuggery which even now have a place in the affairs of Hell's Kitchen, namely Tenth Avenue on the West Side, find no sequel in career of Avenue A.

Across the street from where the workmen were digging up the watermain was a little candy store. There was a rack of newspapers out in front. You could buy cigarettes and pipe tobacco there, but that's about all. That represents the commerce of the district.

Most of those kids are Boy Scouts, or Junior Boy Scouts. Two priests invaded the district years ago and organized the scout troop. They organized Bible classes and other organizations, including athletic teams, for the kids. The Ole Swimm'n' hole is a rotten pier on the East River. The lads go in naked, when they can get away with it.

Smigly-Ryds has been called the "strong man of Poland," which serves as a good way out for those whose pronouncing technique cannot quite cope with that name. Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Timid Soul

After A Man's Heart

by JEAN RANDALL

Chapter Six Buff Breaks Down The letter had come; the letter Buff had expected and dreaded. She had known what it would be like. Eleanor was slow to make up her mind, but when she did she acted with decision and entire thoroughness.

Her daughter caught her breath when she took the fat envelope from Atkins. She was far too preoccupied to observe that the foreman's manner was odd; that he fidgeted, cast a glance toward her which was a mixture of appeal and defiance, and in the end stalked away without opening his mouth.

Up the stairs Buff flew with her letter. Tim's door was open and he roused himself to mark those flying footsteps. And noticed that they dragged forlornly and surprisingly just before the girl went into her room and closed the door behind her.

Minutes later—or perhaps it was hours—he caught the sound of muffled sobbing from somewhere. He had been so far away from the ranch, been with Iris, hearing her hauntingly sweet voice, dwelling on the soft radiance in her uplifted brown eyes, that it took him some time to realize that what he was really listening to was little Buff crying in her room.

"Another love affair gone wrong," he concluded grimly. "Nothing can do about it either. Or can I? Shall I hobble in and invite her to weep on my shoulder? Did I want to weep on George's shoulder when—when—no, of course I didn't! The only thing I wanted was to be let alone. Still, girls are different—queer. Maybe she's like a bit of brotherly sympathy." He scowled. "Oh, Lord! Hate to barge in and risk being told to mind my business. Confound it! The child'll tear her own throat to pieces if she doesn't get up."

He considered the man who, presumably, was responsible for all this woe. "What more does he want?" he demanded angrily of his injured leg. "Money—I suppose Carroll's got something, and this girl's his one and only; looks—George seemed to think she's not too homely—the prestige of being a famous cartoonist's daughter. Maybe he's one of these men who resent brains in a woman," he decided. "That stuff she writes—maybe he holds it against her. But he needn't read it!" he said somewhat fiercely. "Anyway I'll bet his own heart isn't in it. He's got a girl on the wall of the living room."

He looked at his watch. "I'll give her five minutes more; then, if she doesn't stop that crying I'll make a nuisance of myself and offer sympathy. Maybe she'll be so furious she'll distract her."

It was the shortest five minutes he had ever known. The long hand on his watch seemed to race. When the limit was up, he hobbled resignedly toward the door. His hesitant tap on Buff's door was unannounced and he knocked; a good loud knock this time. There was a moment's silence and then Buff's voice, curiously muffled, replied. "Who is it? What do you want?"

"Tim."

"Without further ado, he opened the door and lunged inside. He frowned again, seeing her in a tight, unhappy ball on the bed.

"Don't do that!" There was acrid protest in his tone. "It doesn't do any good. He isn't worth it. Buff, though I know you won't believe me. As a matter of fact, he's an egotist of the first water. Confound it, why shouldn't you write if you want to, if it amuses you? It's your life, after all."

"W-what do you mean?" Her breast rose and fell firmly. "He doesn't mind my writing. It was his idea in the first place."

"Oh, it was!" Another explanation dawned on him. "Jealous, eh? Invading his own field? Well, all I've got to say is he's a louse."

"Slight Misunderstanding She jerked herself up to one elbow, swept the loose waves of hair from her wet eyes. "You shan't call him that, Tim Corliss! He's the dearest, the finest... and what do you know about him, when it comes to that? You've never laid eyes on him!"

"Nor wish to," he informed her coldly. "I know the kind of guy he is; absorbed in his own concerns—I suppose he calls it his work!—and paying no attention to anyone else unless he feels his supremacy is threatened. You're darned well rid of him, Buff, if you'd just face it."

"But I don't want to be rid of him! And you're simply silly about his being jealous. Anyway, he didn't write; it was she—Eleanor!" He made frenzied motions with his hands. "So there's an Eleanor in it, is there? I might have known. Always a triangle of some kind, straight down through the ages. And Eleanor wrote you! He doesn't show you? Doesn't it Buff?" he urged.

Tears welled into her drowned blue eyes, spilled over the swollen lids. "Of course it does," she admitted forlornly. "I knew it before, though. It's just seeing it put into words."

"Here!" He limped forward and wiped her face with his own handkerchief, thoroughly and matter-of-factly. "I don't believe crying helps. It'll only give you a headache, should think. However—Resignedly he put his arm about her. "How on my shoulder, my dear child! You've certainly earned the right to!"

She took full advantage of the handsome offer. She was homesick, lonely and unbearably depressed. She wanted Lance's big arms about her, Eleanor's soft voice to speak soothing words. Failing these, Tim did pretty well as a substitute. When she raised her head at last, she looked definitely more cheerful. She blew her nose, gave a final mop to her eyes and leaned back on her pillows. Then it occurred to her to ask:

"How did you know? Did he—write you? But, no, of course they didn't. They don't even know you're here. That you exist, so far as that goes. How did you know that?"

from Eleanor—" "Yes, you told me. I suppose he thinks he's in love with her now?" "Well, of course he's in love with her! She's his wife!" "Look here," he began sternly. "You don't want to be mixing up in a thing like that. If he's married to her, you keep out. I'm surprised at you, Buff. I didn't think you were that sort of girl."

"They Don't Want Me" "Will you let me explain?" It is difficult to be icy when one's eyes are puffed and red, and one's cheeks still glazed with tears, but Buff managed it. "Eleanor's my mother. The man who encouraged me to write is Lance, my father. Now will you stop this idiotic babble of triangles? You've been seeing too many movies," she said disapprovingly.

"Father?" he said, astounded. "Mother? But why are you crying?" "They've gone off on a motor trip." It was the only explanation she could think of but even to herself it sounded woefully inadequate.

"Good gosh!" he commented slowly. "Good—gosh. So that's it!" "What's what?" "You've stayed here to look after me; given up something you'd set your heart on doing. Buff, I—"

"I've done nothing of the kind," she snapped. "You could have stayed here with Mrs. Webb and Atkins to look after you. It's just that—that—" She felt her chin beginning to quiver and she took herself resolutely in hand. She had cried enough for one day. "They don't want me," she burst out. "That's what Eleanor said in the letter. They want to be by themselves for a while longer."

He sat down again, puzzled gasp on her. "Let me get this straight. There seems to be more here than meets the eye. Why shouldn't they like to be together? Why should you weep buckets of tears because your father and mother... Was it a trip you especially wanted to—"

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—War news far from the front: Military experts didn't expect Poland to make a last-ditch fight to save Warsaw even though it is of immense strategic and morale importance.

In the last two years the government has subsidized industry to move into that zone because it is located more centrally and is easier to defend. Munitions have been concentrated there and a number of fair-to-middling fortifications built.

However, Warsaw is an important spot. A glance at a map will show how all Poland's railroads lead into Warsaw, as American railroads do into Chicago. It would mess up our affairs considerably if Canada should seize Chicago.

OUR NAVY AND FIGS The navy is belligerently neutral these days. Unofficially, the navy will sit down and help out a troubled correspondent on a general problem of strategy, but officially it dries up like a plucked fig if the talk is turned to what Britain should do to smash in on Germany or how to meet the submarine menace.

Unofficially, about every navy officer has his own idea on how the British navy will win the war. That isn't unusual, of course. You couldn't expect sailors to admit that a navy could NOT win a war.

HARD-LUCK DAHNE Wars and crises are just one interment after another for Captain Dahne of the German steamship Columbus. The Columbus is (or was) a ship the Germans had operated profitably in Caribbean cruises for years.

He and his cargo of American cruise passengers waited out the Munich crisis at Cartagena, Colombia. He spent the April crisis on an African cruise without much discomfort, but the current crisis has plagued both him and his passengers. For safety, he put in at Curacao, Venezuela oil port. Passengers were kept aboard. After a day's stay, they took an ambling cruise, then returned to port. Later, they headed for Havana where the passengers were discharged, disgruntled as if the war had been framed for their particular annoyance.

After a brief stay in Havana, Captain Dahne took the Columbus to Vera Cruz, Mexico. He can keep her there indefinitely under international law—unless Mexico declares war on Germany. Then Mexico would get the ship.

Almost the busiest spot in Washington these days is the state department press room, a 25-foot square space into which 50 reporters may rush at times. It presents odd scenes. The neutrality proclamation found a German and a British press correspondent pounding typewriters elbow to elbow.

The German ran out of paper and turned to the Englishman. "Certainly," said the Englishman, and handed him some of his own supply. Incidentally, the German has two cousins fighting in the French army. Devil of a mess all around, what?

Hollywood Sights And Sounds HOLLYWOOD—Those warlike headlines have had one amusing effect: probably for the first time in Hollywood history, actors with phony British accents are learning to talk American again—and fast!

Paramount came rather close to re-making "The Volga Boatman," a DeMille hit of 1926, and the reason it didn't is an interesting commentary on these changing times. Story editor remembered the cliché, suggested it to DeMille, who was eager and hurriedly— "Better take a look at it first, though," counseled C.B. And the story editor, who was then Jeff Lazarus, took a look and groaned. "The Volga Boatman," innocuous as it was 13 years ago, if shown today would be interpreted as a plea for— hush, hush!—communism!

"Lovely Lupe Veles," lovely Lupe's press agent writes me, "has a hobby hardly in keeping with her usual screen characterization. For the last 10 years she has been collecting valuable sets of China."

Nice, nice. But what a hobby for a lovely little lady who admits she throws things! Warner Bros. announces Edward G. Robinson in "The Life of Tony Pastor," the vaudeville impresario—and without permission of Darryl Zanuck, who we all thought had a copyright on the Lillian Russell legend...Richard Barthelmess, a click in "Only Angels Have Wings," is just getting around to another role...He's a boy who can really pick and choose.

The other night the arlighters were out, the mob's of sightseers gathered, and the cops were on duty around a boulevard theatre—just another movie "premiere." To one officer up stepped a little old lady with the inquiry as to what it was all about. "It's a movie, lady," he explained. "Yes—but why all the fuss?" The cop thought that one over, fumbling. "Why, er, why—why, lady this is HOLLYWOOD!" was the best he could do.

The little old lady wandered away, apparently still perplexed. She must be, we decided, a normal person...and we hope she got back to her home town safely.

The ways of the newspaper reporter (as pictured on the screen) continue to amaze...There's the gem in "The Star Maker," for the latest horrible example...Here's Bing Crosby as a show producer, capitalizing on child talent, which is so devastatingly new an idea that the New York press converges practically in a body to be "granted" an interview...Notebooks in hand, pencils wagging, the three reporters ask questions with awe, listen goggle-eyed, depart excitedly (just as if they'd learned what Miller would do next) and gush their thanks with "That's great stuff, Mr. Earl."

Great stuff, eh? I'd like to see any of them write a yarn on the two or three banal lines that "Mr. Earl" gave them. I'm afraid, too, that real, less reverent reporters would dismiss that "great stuff" with a calm, decided "Nuts! Give us a line we can use, will ya? What do you think these brats you're showing off will amount to when they grow up?" Michigan's aged Governor Dickinson says that he keeps young by playing jokes on people. To whom the Dickinson prescription probably gets old fast—Dallas News.

There will never be a brotherhood of mankind as long as the rabid baseball fans continue to think up new names to call the umpire.—Carry Williams, Trencoburo Herald-Journal.

Some of this sector's baseball authorities said Amarillo "wouldn't go" as a gate attraction when efforts were first directed toward getting the panhandle capital in the WT-NM league.

All that Amarillo drew was 51,098 paid admissions which topped anything, including Lubbock, in the league, despite the fact that lights were not installed until long after the season was inaugurated and the Gold Sox played hopelessly during the first half and ten days after second half play began were mired hopelessly in the cellar.

Lubbock's total probably just reached 50,000 a jump of some 18,000 over last year's mark while an increase in business was noteworthy all over the league.

In Big Spring the total went over 30,000 despite some tough breaks. Lamesa attracted close to that number with the help of a great art. Midland and Clovis did well as last year while Pampa ranked even ahead of Big Spring, drawing probably over 35,000. Borger managed to hold its own after gaining its franchise in midseason from Abilene.

Plans to move the plant through and Tony Rego able to give the fans a wing ball club, local attendance can be expected to reach 1000 by 1940.

In the case of Amarillo, Bob Sox general manager, can't hope to have as much success with his venture unless he has the city a contending ball team. He must give the fans a better show for their money.

Al Rabe, who booked the exhibition trip to Venezuela for the all-star baseball team, will bring 11 players from the WT-NM along with Jim Bivin, Oklahoma City and Quin Lee, Okmulgee Bobby Decker, Baron Sacker, Frank Grabek, Bob and Hal Summers, all of Pampa, Tex. Nugent, Midland, Taylor and Al Carr, both Abilene, Jim Nichols, Amarillo, Eddie Guynes, formerly of Pampa, are to make the trip. Rabe, here, will play.

The team will leave from New City Sept. 29 aboard a Grace arriving in Venezuela five days later. Exhibitions are booked almost two months. Midland uniforms will be used.

169 PLAYERS TO QUALIFY TODAY, TUES.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP)—Don Schumacher of Dallas, burned up the back nine with a three-under-par 33 today to earn in a sub-par 70 and take the lead among early finishers of 18 holes in the third national amateur championship's qualifying test at the North Shore country club.

Schumacher failed to qualify in the sectional trials and got in as an alternate for O'Hara Watts of Dallas. He was out in 37, taking a lead six on the par four ninth. On the "in" nine he was never over par and had birdies on the 11th, 15th and 18th holes.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 (AP)—Willie Turnesa, dark-haired New Yorker, began defense of his national amateur golf title today against five former champions, dozens of other top-ranking players and dark-horse aspirants.

The field, totaling 169 players, set out to play 18 holes today over the 7,022-yard North Shore Country Club par-72 course in the first half of the 36-hole qualifying test. The low 130 and ties complete medal competition tomorrow.

Rated on par with Turnesa for titular honors as the medal test began were Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, 1937 amateur champion and winner of the national open on this same course in 1933; C. Ross Sommerville, Canada, 1932 champion; Charlie Yates, Atlanta's 1927 British amateur champion;

Ed Kingsley, Salt Lake City, semi-finalist last year; Gus Moreland, Peoria, Ill., veteran of Walker Cup play and the 1933 amateur title; Marvin (Bud) Ward, Spokane, Wash., who finished one stroke back of the leaders in the national open; Jack Hoerner, Chicago, Fred Haas, New Orleans, another Walker cupper, and Pat Abbott, Altadena, Calif., finalist last year and 1936 public links title.

One little known player who already has the galleries talking is blond, spectacled Frank Stiedel of Little Rock, Ark., who has been dazzling the spectators with his 300-yard plus tee shots.

Qualifying rounds will be followed by match play round of 18 holes on Wednesday and Thursday. The semi-finals over 36 holes are set for Friday and the 36-hole championship match Saturday.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 11 (AP)—There were many jubilant baseball fans here today for Chattanooga's Lookouts won the Southern association championship.

The Lookouts edged out Memphis and Nashville by a game and a half.

So close was the finish only two games separated Chattanooga and Atlanta's fourth-place Crackers. Memphis and Nashville had to carry their percentage figures to two extra decimals to decide second spot in favor of Memphis.

Atlanta will play Chattanooga in one half of the Shaughnessy playoff tomorrow and Wednesday, then shift to Crackerland for remaining games in the three-out-of-five series. Memphis will open at Nashville tomorrow, returning to Memphis after Wednesday's battle.

The final series between the two winners, to decide the Southern representative to meet the Texas league winners in the Dixie series, will be four-out-of-seven.

MARTIN, MILLER AND BETHELL CARRYING MAIL IN DRILLS

With their opening game but five days away, the gridders in the local high school camp start bearing down in earnest this afternoon when Coach Pat Murphy herds them in camp to begin their second week of drills.

The crew will be given time to have its picture snapped, then will plunge pell-mell into what is expected to be the toughest body contact drill to date.

Murphy expects the starting go with the Mineral Wells Resorters, a team making its first start here in several years, to be a tough one and indicated he expected to shoot a versatile attack at Cy Perkins' bi-header from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-2 and 11-4.

The Dodgers moved within a half game of third place on an 8-4 victory over the New York Giants.

The Phillies were rained out at Boston.

New York's Yankees ran their latest winning streak to eight games by beating the Washington Senators, 4-3 and 6-2.

The Red Sox broke a six-game losing streak with 10-7 and 5-1 triumphs over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Cleveland divided a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns, winning the first, 15-5, and dropping the second, 5-4.

Buck Newson buried the Detroit Tigers to a 5-1 victory over the White Sox, but Chicago came back to capture the nightcap, 11-9.

But even so, St. Louis sidled a half step closer by sweeping a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-2 and 11-4.

Assie Stars May Be Planning To Disrupt Meet

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—The word has gotten around privately, that the two young Australian Davis cup heroes, Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich, are in a humor to make a mess of the final stages of the National tennis championships at Forest Hills.

The tournament committee pulled a prize boner in placing the two top foreign stars in the same half of the draw, where one is bound to eliminate the other in the semi-finals. They have threatened not to play the match, but to toss for it and let the winner go into the final—doubtless against Bobby Riggs.

Nobody except Quist and Bromwich knows exactly how serious they are. But the officials are afraid the boys aren't fooling.

Riggs apparently faces no really tough opposition in his half of the draw, unless Bryan Grant, Jr., or Frank Guernsey, Jr., should get exceptionally hot. He is the one the Australians are gunning for, and they don't like the idea of wearing each other down for his benefit.

They have pointed out, in all truth, that the Australian and Wimbledon the two big men of another nation always are placed in opposite halves of the draw.

Today the tournament was due to limp through another bot-tailed program, completing the third round of men's play and the second round of women's competition.

Half of each round was played yesterday, with Jack Crawford of Australia, the only seeded casualty. He fell before Joe Hunt of Annapolis, 6-1, 3-6, 4-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Quist today faced Johnny Doeg of Rumson, N. J., former national champion. Other feature matches were Frankie Parker vs. Charles Hare of England, Gilbert Hunt, Jr. of Washington vs. Henry Prust, Jr. of Seattle, Bromwich vs. Morey Lewis of Oklahoma, Kay Stammers of England vs. Maria Barnett of Miami and Helen Jacobs vs. Norma Taubele of New York.

Bible To Depend Largely On Sophs In Sha ping Grid 11

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT, AUSTIN, Sept. 11 (AP)— Dana Bible, shepherd of a "lost flock," tackled a sign on the wall: "Stop making excuses and start making good."

So starts the reded for a University of Texas football team which has captured only two Southwest conference games in as many seasons and which waited until its ninth, and final, game last year to win one.

Five sophomores are likely to start against Florida in the opener September 30, a situation no coach relishes, but Bible, on the borderline of optimism, remarks: "These boys—and I'm not mistaking about this—will be extending themselves. They can't, and won't, go back on their heels."

When Crain has that ball," beamed Bible, "he's liable to go all the way. Speed, finesse—that little something that shakes him loose. That's what the boy has. He should make a dangerous safety man."

Crain will be the starting tailback in a back field that now appears will be composed of Bullet Gray, veteran letterman, at the blocking back; Nelson Pruett, driving hero of the '38 Aggie game, right half, and another sophomore, R. E. Patrick, at fullback. Patrick is the other boy wonder of the roster.

"Probably the best ball carrier on the team," mused Bible. "He's polished—a fine, all-around boy."

The list of soph backfield threats is endless—Pete Laydon of Dallas, passer and kicker; Amarillo's old star, "Wildhorse" Mays; Noble Doss of Temple; R. L. Harkins of Austin; Charlie Parrett of San Antonio, and Vernon Martin of Amarillo, all getting a play in scrimmages. B. F. (Beefus) Bryan, veteran tailback, probably will have to understudy Crain.

Center Strength Bible contends he has gained strength in the center of the line. His starting line—a guess at this stage—could be Stan Nealey, letterman, and Joe Schwarling, giant Waco soph, ends; Park Myers and Don Williams, lettermen, tackles; Chal Daniel, soph, and Ted Dawson, letterman, guards, and either J. W. Goodwin or Dave Thayer, soph, center.

Tackle reserves, sorely needed, are there in sophomores Bo Cohenour, Derwood Pevelo, Lawrence Hicks and Julian Garrett and letterman Bill Killman. Guard replacements are really the shining spots of the squad—sophomores Don Weedon, V. D. Boney, Paul Collett and Jack Freeman, any of whom could be starters.

Three more big sophs are end replacements—Jess Hawthorne, Preston Flanagan and Malcolm Cutner, great pass receiver.

Texas is in a good spot to do a lot of Saturday afternoon damage this fall. (Tomorrow: Texas A. and M.)

Midland, will probably be the slug for the Pampans.

Without Gordon Nell, who has left the club, the Oilers looked anything but a contending contingent as they "hit the dust" Sunday.

Raines surrendered but "five blows and permitted by one man as far as the far corner."

His mates contributed sterling support and he sailed through in grand style, whiffing eight and giving but two free passes in the hour, 43-minute fracas.

Grabek falters At that he had to hustle to keep step with Frank Grabek for fine innings. Grabek, one of the league's few 20-game winners, blanked the Waddies until the sixth when his control deserted him. Conley Cox, Hale Kirby Jordan and Bobby Petzold stroled forcing in Cox and Rube Naranjo binged to Cox.

Hale and Jordan before Grabek was relieved by Milbert Vannoy. An error by Hal Summers and Lynn Everson's base blow cost Vannoy two runs before he finally settled and shut out the Cowhands the remainder of the distance.

Of the nine blows the Midlandites collected Naranjo's double and single were the most damaging. Hale and Raines also had two hits.

FRANK GRABEK IS SHELLED IN SIXTH

By HANK HART MIDLAND, Sept. 11 Clicking with finesse behind the superb curve ball tossing of Stud Raines, the Midland Cowboys sailed into the driver's seat in their WT-NM league Shaughnessy playoff scrap with Pampa by deciding the Oilers here Sunday, 5-0.

The victory enabled the Waddies to pull all even in their four-game scrap with the Panhandle team and left the series outcome depending entirely on tonight's clash in Midland. Sammy Hale, Midland skipper, is expected to depend upon Tex Nugent, veteran righthander, for chunking duties, while Lefty Dilbeck, who tamed the Cowhands in

SCHOOL DAYS — MOVING DAYS — CONSULT THE CLASSIFIED

MISS 'LANE' NOTES
By Mary Whaley

Wars, economic crisis and world upheavals may be filling the front pages and monopolizing conversations but this question uppermost in the feminine mind these September days is—"What shall I wear?"

Men may scoff and jeer but every woman knows that this is a problem second to none. The calendar says fall is here and the stores are making the most of the month with black, long sleeves, and fur milled together in eye-filling costumes but the old weather man just smirks up his sleeve and fills the air with the warmth of his smile.

How can any girl look too, too in her new fall frock if she must fan her brow and wonder if she is going to suffer a heat stroke in her dark clothes?

And yet what girl can hold her head up and feel socially secure in her faded summer frocks and well worn white shoes? She just naturally loses her sense of well being, and if that isn't a problem what is?

She has no choice except an in-between dress and who ever had enough to fill out the season unless she is Mrs. Got Rocks. So while husband, brother, and son fill the air with their opinions on current questions, you can bet the little woman, no matter how interested she looks, is thinking "What on earth can I WEAR?"

After A Man's Heart

"Not that! And of course it's silly of me to go on like this. It's only that I thought they needed me—that they'd be unhappy without me; and Lance does put off things, and Eleanor's headaches are so bad when they come—"

"I see." The first smile she had ever beheld on his face twitched at his lips but he suppressed it manfully. "Well, that's pretty bad, my dear, but it might have been worse. You'll all be better, I think, for a little change from each other. People often are."

"That's — that's what Eleanor said."

"What do you plan to do when this trip is over? When you've fired or re-hired Atkins, whichever you decide?"

"I don't know," she told him in a small voice. "Something — something that keeps me busy, that's — that's independent of them. I know they're right; I know I should be leading my own life. The question is: what shall I do?"

"He gave the matter frowning attention. "White? You could take an apartment somewhere and devote yourself to writing."

"I suppose I could. Sounds pretty dreary though. Eleanor says they'll be in Chicago in three weeks and I'm to meet them there; that will stay all winter in an hotel apartment. But Lance won't stay all winter there. He'll get a yen to sketch something in some outlandish place—shadows on the snow in Maine, or humming birds in Peru—and off they'll go."

"Off you'll go, too?"

"No. That's partly what I was crying about. I'm homesick for them for next winter, if you can understand what I'm talking about. Mean, it's no good going through this separation and then joining them again, like — like water closing up over a stone thrown into it. I shall have to stay put, making a life for myself. I can, of course," she said proudly. "It's just this—the getting used to the idea."

"I know what you mean." His voice and eyes were kind. "We'll have to talk—Hello! there's a car coming in!"

Declares Britain Is Well Prepared

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—An English military expert's declaration that his country rarely has been less well prepared for war appears in Army Ordnance, service magazine published here.

In an article written just before Great Britain went to war with Germany, Maj. Gen. J. F. C. Fuller, author and retired army officer, says:

"Though in England the output of weapons is rapidly becoming gigantic, my conviction is that seldom in her history has she been less well prepared for war, not only because trained personnel to use the bulk of these weapons is lacking, but because her traditional peace policy is antagonistic to a rapid change-over to a war policy of twentieth-century form."

England was exhausted financially by the World War, Fuller says, and the post-war years did not reestablish her financial pre-eminence.

So, he adds, face to face with a resurgent Germany," she was in fact in a far worse position than the one in which she found herself in August, 1914."

Rotary District Governor To Be Here Tuesday

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Roosevelt Roosevelt, returning home from a weekend at Hyde Park, N. Y., consulted immediately today with Secretary Hull on the war abroad, called in Secretary Wallace to discuss mounting food prices, and directed his attention further toward the question of when to summon congress to a special session.

Stephen T. Early, presidential secretary, said the answer to all special session inquiries from members of congress was that there are no immediate plans.

It was reported authoritatively at Hyde Park last night that before the end of the week the president would summon the legislators to a session at which he wants the controversial arms embargo provision stripped from the neutrality law.

The date remained indefinite, however. Since Mr. Roosevelt would have to allow time for members of congress to pack up and come to the capital, some authorities thought the session would not begin before early October.

Administration officials were hoping for a short session, restricted to patching up the neutrality act along lines suggested by Secretary Hull. Primarily, they want reports of the provision forbidding exports of arms, ammunition and instruments of war to combatant countries.

The prospect of a filibuster was described as one of the principal reasons for delaying the summons as long as it has been. The administration was represented as being none too pleased at the idea that congress might discuss neutrality for a protracted period.

Roosevelt Continues His Study Of Various War Emergency Problems

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Roosevelt Roosevelt, returning home from a weekend at Hyde Park, N. Y., consulted immediately today with Secretary Hull on the war abroad, called in Secretary Wallace to discuss mounting food prices, and directed his attention further toward the question of when to summon congress to a special session.

Stephen T. Early, presidential secretary, said the answer to all special session inquiries from members of congress was that there are no immediate plans.

It was reported authoritatively at Hyde Park last night that before the end of the week the president would summon the legislators to a session at which he wants the controversial arms embargo provision stripped from the neutrality law.

The date remained indefinite, however. Since Mr. Roosevelt would have to allow time for members of congress to pack up and come to the capital, some authorities thought the session would not begin before early October.

Administration officials were hoping for a short session, restricted to patching up the neutrality act along lines suggested by Secretary Hull. Primarily, they want reports of the provision forbidding exports of arms, ammunition and instruments of war to combatant countries.

The prospect of a filibuster was described as one of the principal reasons for delaying the summons as long as it has been. The administration was represented as being none too pleased at the idea that congress might discuss neutrality for a protracted period.

Arms Ban Also Applies Now To Canada

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—This country's arms and airplane factories were closed as a source of supply for Canada today by a presidential proclamation invoking the arms embargo provision of the neutrality act, which President Roosevelt hopes congress will soon repeal.

Within little more than an hour after the British Dominion had declared war on Germany yesterday, the State Department made public the proclamation banning shipments of arms, ammunition and implements of war to her.

A few hours later a high authority reported at Hyde Park, N. Y., where Mr. Roosevelt spent the weekend, that the president had decided to issue a call this week for a special session of congress.

It was agreed generally in the capital that the arms embargo's operation in the case of Canada would be a factor in congressional controversy over the president's program. Critics of the embargo contend it handicaps Britain, France and their allies.

Supporters of the embargo argue to repeal it would be to take sides in the European conflict and to lead this country eventually into full participation.

Senator Borah (R-Idaho), a leader of the congressional group which prevented Senate action last session on the president's proposal to revise the statute, ended a vacation in Maine last night and started back to the capital. Beyond a terse, "I'll be there," he declined comment on the forthcoming special session. Previously, he had declared repeal of the arms embargo would lead the country into war.

Support for the president's position came from a number of other Republicans including Senator Austin of Vermont, acting Republican senate leader during part of the last session; Senator White (R-Me), a member of the senate foreign relations committee, and Senator Taft (R-Ohio).

Crashes Kill 11 In Texas

By the Associated Press
Five of the 11 persons killed in traffic accidents in Texas last week end were victims of a head-on automobile collision Sunday five miles west of Corpus Christi.

The drowning of Miss Ione Drake, 24, Canyon nurse, in Buffalo lake, near Canyon, and the fatal shooting of a negro at Dallas made the violent death list total at least 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Gunn, Mrs. P. W. Cash, and Mrs. M. D. Graham, all of San Antonio, and Pedro Rodriguez of Robstown were killed in the Corpus Christi wreck.

Mrs. Graham, 30, and Rodriguez, about 40, died almost instantly. Mrs. Cash, 37, Mrs. Gunn, 35, and Marshall Gunn, 36, died in a Corpus Christi hospital.

Francisco Rodriguez, 17, son of the man killed, was injured critically. Bernabe Mata of Robstown and P. W. Cash of San Antonio were less seriously hurt.

Other traffic victims were Mrs. Almada Duncan, 52, and her son, Walter, 19, killed at Dallas by an Interurban; T. L. Linn, 52, Cleburne water works superintendent, whose automobile crashed into a bridge near Fort Worth; Mrs. Josephine Greer, 31, of Houston, injured fatally in an auto collision; Robert George of Stamford, killed when an automobile struck a bridge abutment near Albany and Benjamin James Brown, 38, Rockport attorney, whose automobile skidded into a bridge near Taft.

RUSSIANS DECLARE POLES NEAR DEFEAT

MOSCOW, Sept. 11 (AP)—Further effective resistance by Poland against German forces is regarded by the official Soviet press as highly improbable.

This view was expressed by both Iavestia, the government organ, and Pravda, Communist party publication.

Pravda contended Poland had lost nearly her entire military economic base and attributed the Polish collapse to the "absence of effective aid on the part of England and France."

Although Russia maintained an outward calm, there were indications she was getting ready for any emergency.

Thousands of reserve troops were moved to the western frontier in connection with what was called the "more and more wide and threatening character" of the German-Polish war.

It was understood the government was requisitioning certain supplies in large quantities, especially sugar.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 11 (AP)—The German freighter Bahia Blanca arrived today from Hamburg after a 32 days voyage. She was camouflaged as a Greek ship.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Wall Street Journal said today Great Britain and France are believed to have a combined total of about $7,000,000,000 in assets which could be fairly easily turned into dollar balances for the purchase of American goods.

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 11 (AP)—The national assembly convened today for a meeting which informed quarters said probably would define Turkey's attitude toward the European war as one of "watchful waiting."

The Turkish press said the attitude of this country, allied with Britain and France, would depend on whether Italy or Russia join Germany in the war.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 11 (AP)—Inhabitants of the fortified German island of Sylt, subjected to a heavy bombing attack last Friday, left the island today.

(Sylt is the site of an important German anti-aircraft defense fortification.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 11 (Canadian Press)—The Canadian government backed up its declaration of war against Germany by moving today for authorization of wartime expenditures up to $100,000,000 in the fiscal year which ends March 31, 1940.

The government gave notice a resolution would be introduced in parliament authorizing such expenditures for naval, military and air operations in or beyond Canada and other contingencies of wartime.

Oil Hike

East Texas allowable should be upped.

Chairman Smith declared the aim of that body was to promulgate a new proration order which would consider property rights, conservation, labor, the physical condition of the fields, market demand, the bureau of mines estimate and the legal status.

Sadler explained his proposals would apply to September and October.

Foster told the commission the group he represented believed the commission and operators should look toward establishing a permanent conservation policy which would be equitable and worthwhile in developing Texas oil fields.

"We should not make hasty decisions but should plan carefully," he declared.

No one at this time could say whether the war in Europe would increase or decrease the demand for oil in view of many variable factors, he said.

"We should keep production low until we have more information," he continued.

Berlin

said a reason for the slow tactics was the large number of Germans living in Poznan.

German officialdom regards Poland's position as hopeless; serious long-continued resistance is considered impossible.

The supreme high command, however, spoke of the "doggedly defending" Poles and in its communique today said "a great battle was in progress in Poland. But it asserted this was 'nearing its climax—namely, the destruction of the Polish army west of the Vistula.'"

According to unverified reports reaching Germany the Polish government has established its new seat at Kreszeniec, 20 miles from the Soviet frontier in southeast Poland.

Referring to the battle for Warsaw, the high command communique declared German troops were "in the western part of the city" and that "Polish artillery of every caliber" was firing from eastern sections of Warsaw on them. This would indicate shells were flying in high arcs directly over the city.

Berlin military circles were said to be considering declaring Warsaw a fortified city so as to justify bombardment of it.

nec, 250 miles southeast of Warsaw and almost on the border of Soviet Russia. Other reports said the government had gone from Lublin to Lwow, and was moving eastward from there.

As Warsaw dug in for its fourth day of siege by a German force that launched more than 40 air raids and counter tank attacks yesterday, the radio station at Lwow, 210 miles to the southeast, instructed the city's defenders to dig trenches and erect street barricades.

These were indications the German drive already had started. Throughout the broadcast from Lwow, sirens could be heard sounding their raid alarms.

It appeared Lwow, one of the chief industrial centers in southeastern Poland, was to be subjected to the same sort of battering that has taken place at the gates of Warsaw since the German forces reached there last Friday.

The Polish general staff's communique No. 10, broadcast from Warsaw last night, reported German air bombing continued relentlessly all around the capital, especially along the line of the Bug river north of the city. Fighting continued without change, the communique said, in the vicinity of Ostrow Mazowieckie, 50 miles northeast of Warsaw.

The communique also reported severe fighting along the San river, which flows from the Carpathian foothills in southern Poland, chiefly at Sanok, south of Przemysl, 50 miles west of Lwow.

In a broadcast from Lwow, the Polish army's general headquarters insisted "Warsaw is ready for a long defense" and stressed that action on the French-German front "has now really started." But the Warsaw station also issued a warning of the impending attack on Lwow.

MARKETS

Wall Street

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP)—Soaring in another war-boom stock market today in which gains ran to 11 points or so for favorites and numerous new highs for 1939 or longer were recorded.

With word from England that a long-drawn conflict was likely, traders saw visions of huge foreign goods raising the net of many corporations to proportions not enjoyed in years.

In addition, the proposal for a special session of congress to amend the neutrality law to permit "cash-and-carry" business with belligerents revived the speculative appetite for stocks of companies that stand to derive exceptional benefits from the sale of war materials. The result was a rush for selected issues at the state.

Brokerage offices were crowded with customers eager to climb on the bandwagon, and orders from all over the country swamped perspiring clerks.

WARD, Colo., Sept. 11 (AP)—A silent party of volunteers climbed a steep mountain trail today to bring back the body of Stanley Brewer, 18, of Lincoln, Neb., killed in a 200-foot fall down the face of St. Isabel glacier yesterday.

The body had been left on the trail overnight.

Darkness and a driving rain overtook a group of mountain climbers attempting to return the body late yesterday.

The youth slipped at the glacier's brink and fell on rocks below while he and a companion, Jack Thompson, also of Lincoln, were exploring it during a camping trip.

CCC Enrollment Will Not Entail Military Service, Says Chief

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—The Civilian Conservation Corps, which is about to recruit 100,000 replacements, offered assurance today that enrollment in the corps would not entail military service.

"We want every mother in America to know," said an aide of Robert Fechner, the CCC director, "that if her son is among the accepted October volunteers, he will not be put behind a gun."

"The CCC can not be inducted into the armed service of the United States."

The conflict in Europe, officials said, had brought questions as to whether the CCC might be pressed into a role similar to the youth movement in Germany.
