TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

As soon as the Surgeon General discovers that more people are turning to the use of snuff he will probably issue some kind of an earth-shaking warning that the use of snuff is dangerous to your health. Anyway, merchants say they are doing a good business in the tobacco preparation, and I see more empty containers in the trash containers and on the sidewalks. Some of the happiest people I have ever known, dipped snuff.

Another mystery that science still has to solve, is why more things fall to the floor when your back hurts and you can't pick them up.

A man who has the answers to all your problems, reserves the energies he should be spending on his own perplexities, to augment his free service to others.

Recently in the dead of night I distinctly heard a train whistle. It was the sound of a steam engine, like a ghost from the past following phantom rails into a vanished decade. My only solution to the apparent phenomenon was that some truck driver had rigged an ingenious device to simulate the sound of a steam locomotive whistle. He must have enjoyed hearing it echo through the foothill country.

At a meeting of our extremely small Dick Tracy anonymous society, it was discovered that a member had reached his first birthday, but we couldn't think of anything ridiculous enough to give as a present.

When I was young the depths of post holes I was required to dig, often depended on whether the soil was soft or rocky. I suppose it is a pattern I have followed through life, doing fairly well the things that were easy.

Poverty has lost a lot of quality in the past 20 years. In fact, with the government aids, it has become something of an asset to those who can qualify.

ATTEND FUNERAL
Visiting Tuesday of last week with Mrs. Ted Elliott were her sister, Mrs. Carl Vannatta of DeLeon, and brothers, John McKeehan and his wife, and S. P. McKeehan of Sipe Springs, all of whom attended the funeral at Afton, of Jimmy Legg, the son of their cousin, the late Mrs. Edith Legg.

Two Classes of China Painting

Desire to Succeed Secret of Teacher

A DESIRE to succeed is more important than talent in the painting of china according to Mary Webb (Mrs. Grady Webb) of Roaring Springs, who is currently teaching two classes in the once almost lost art. She teaches one class in Turkey and the other in Spur.

She is no stranger to the Roaring Springs area, being the daughter of Mrs. Duff Green and the late Duff Green. She is the granddaughter of a deceased pioneer Dickens lawyer, Col. John A. Green who opened a law office there in 1890 and practiced for 18 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb have moved back to Roaring Springs to retire after 35 years in California. Mr. Webb retired from the Bureau of Power and Light of Southern California in October, 1970.

"I thought I would retire from art work, too," Mrs. Webb declared, "but now I am busier than ever."

Her love of hand-painted china started when she was ten years of age, at the home of an aunt, Mrs. Saul Davis of Spur, who had an excellent collection. She and Mr. Webb were married in 1935 and moved to California. For a period of 15 years she studied oil painting with some of the finest artists on the West Coast. She also studied portrait and porcelain painting.

"Whatever strides I have made in china painting, must be credited to Mrs. Grace Laughlin," Mrs. Webb said "I studied with her as a private pupil and also in her adult education classes in Burbank, for a period of ten years." "She is probably the only remaining artist active in china painting who learned her craft as an apprentice to some of the old German masters. She taught in all phases of the art, including naturalistic, conventional, portrait painting, lustre, gold work, etching with acid, enamel, and raised paste work."

Through Mrs. Laughlin's encouragement, Mrs. Webb started teaching china painting in North Hollywood Womens Club in 1957. She taught in her own studio, in the adult education classes in Compton State College and conducted a correspondence course for the Sisters of St. Clare Monastery in Omaha, Neb.

She gave lectures, seminars, demonstrations and judged various art shows in both oil and china painting throughout the Southwest. She served as President of the California Porcelain Art Teachers Association for four years. She has exhibited her work in all California state shows, in Los Angeles, Denver, Detroit, Washington, D.C. and Oklahoma City. She has been invited to ex-

Outsiders Tourney Slated for March

Deadline for entries is set for Feb. 29, due to limitation of teams, it was announced.

Human Bone China

The whitest china is made from human bones, but it is expensive and difficult to obtain. Most china is currently made from animal bones, Mrs. Webb declared. Most bone china is imported, she explained.

In addition to her studio, Mrs. Webb has a kiln in her store room. She owns a rare banding wheel with which designs may be fashioned on china. The temperature of her kiln is usually 2300 degrees.

Mrs. Webb said: "While I once broke all the pickle jars in a supermarket, I have never broken an art object while transporting them from coast to coast." "I believe in art, not for art's sake but for the enrichment of life and the power to make more perfect the pleasure of living. I believe in art which can be applied to the most simple and useful things, making them more complete and beautiful, and therefore more capable of giving enjoyment. I believe the highest enjoyment comes not from mere appreciation, but from the production of a beautiful object. I believe in art for the many pleasurable hours that it has given me, and for the wonderful friends I have made through its association."

President Meeting With China Leader

HISTORY is being made in China this week with a series of meetings between President Richard Nixon and top China officials in Peking, including China's leader Mao Tse-tung.

It was the first time a President of the United States had ever set foot on the soil of China. The President was accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Henry A. Kissinger and other leaders. Americans on the historic trip also included newsmen and television cameramen.

Television programs this week have contained scenes from Peking and meetings of the leaders of the two nations.

Many skeptics and critics of the trip do not expect any significant change to come from the meetings. On the other hand it is the first time there has been communications between the two nations in 22 years, and will definitely relieve the hostility that has existed over the period.

At the least, these talks hold the promise of better relations affecting the lives of a billion people — the estimated 800 million in China and 200 million in the United States.

There was little fanfare at the arrival of the President but Tuesday the communist controlled press was released and Peking newspapers carried pictures of the leaders' meeting and frontpaged the President's arrival.

Preservation of Public Lands Subject of Garden Club Study

An anti-litter program stressing "Preserving the Public Lands of our Nation and Area," was presented by members of Matador Garden Club, meeting in the hospitable country home of Mrs. Edgar Lee, Monday, Feb. 21.

Mrs. W. N. Pipkin presided at the business session, during which, plans for executing various club projects were discussed.

Mrs. W. F. Jacobs introduced members on the program.

Mrs. Harry Willett gave a report on "The Public's Land."

"This subject needs a great deal of study and action," she stated. "It is a part of our heritage, and should be protected. . . . Let us profit from the experiences and mistakes of previous civilizations who conquered, plundered, and squandered land and human resources with the positive, constant and inevitable result of abject poverty, human degradation, and enslavement of the people. Let us prove we are the most intelligent of God's creatures by conserving and wisely using our natural resources."

"Your Land and Mine," was the subject of a talk by Mrs. W. W. Clements. She offered the following suggestions as the role of good citizens in regard to Public Lands:

1. Inform yourself about them. You cannot expect good management of your estate if you are unwilling to devote some time and thought to it.
2. Use them, wisely. Don't be a litterbug! Don't be a fire hazard! Don't endanger yourself and others!
3. Support good management of public lands. Management of public lands is public business. Your interest and support is needed in order to insure sound public land management.

Skits, "Legal Literacy," were given by Mesdames Lee, Kenneth Thompson and Carter Luckett. One skit displayed the effect of drinking on picnics in public parks. The other skit showed how the convicts in Florida were used in cleaning up after litterbugs. Mrs. Thompson, the "convict," wore convincing prisoner's uniform, complete with ball and chain. Mrs. Lee furnished the properties.

For "Something from My Heritage," Mrs. Lee showed valentines, autograph books, etc., from
