Matador Tribune

56, NO. 18 MATADOR, MOTLEY COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JULY 20, 1950 PRICE FIVE CENTS

Candidates Bringing Race up to 'V' Day

CANDIDATES ARE RUNNING right up to the judges' stand. After the radios cool off Friday night the 1950 Texas Democratic first primary will await writing of the decision, for Saturday is "V" (voters) Day and indications are that a record number of voters are going to exercise their rights. Motley county with a possible 1,400 votes and a probable 1,200 going to the polls, has already voted 76 absentee ballots, which, according to District and County Clerk Pat Sheridan shows more than casual interest in the names on the primary ticket. Despite the grave concern over war prospects, voters are interested in the election, altho the campaign has been "mild" as campaigns go, with a minimum of "name calling" among the candidates.

The Tribune Endorses A Candidate

During more than 17 years of continuous publications the Tribune has never sought to dictate the political views of its readers. Its only interest in politics is good government. The Tribune has published less than a dozen editorials, believing its readers are more capable of forming their own opinions if they are presented with the facts. In the present Congressional race, however, an element of confusion has been injected which may cause uncertainty to arise in the minds of voters. The Tribune is not against any candidate but it feels that endorsement of Mrs. Altavene Clark is warranted as a public service in the interest of good government.

There is no question but that Mrs. Clark is the best qualified candidate in the race. She has been secretary to two outstanding Congressmen, Marvin Jones and Gene Woolery, for 17 years. She knows the problems of the district better than any candidate because she has read the letters, telegrams and listened to the personal discussions of problems for 17 years. More than that she knows Washington and its complicated system of operation. She knows how to accomplish vital objectives in the interest of her district. She is a trained Congressman who has for 17 years had the actual experience and RESPONSIBILITY of a Congressman but without the AUTHORITY to vote.

It is doubtful if any nation on the earth ever faced a more crucial period than the United States today. It needs every mile of experience and leadership that can be mustered in Washington. It needs sane, level-headed thinking. It needs Mrs. Clark with both RESPONSIBILITY and AUTHORITY to vote in Congress.

Mrs. Clark is a woman of outstanding abilities proven by years of business experience previous to her going to Washington. At the time she resigned her position in Amarillo to become secretary to Congressman Marvin Jones, she was purchasing agent for a large lumber firm with 45 yards, entrusted with the buying of millions of dollars worth of merchandise annually. Mrs. Clark is a widow, the mother of a 24-year-old son, who is employed by an airline in Hawaii. She is efficient, experienced and deserving. She thinks and talks "West Texas" language with practical views. She is a loyal Democrat but vehemently denounces (and will vote against) wild public spending, multiple bureaus, socialized medicine and other policies in Washington which are so distasteful to the average West Texan.

Altho she has been in Washington, serving to the best of her ability for 17 years, Mrs. Clark has never had a vote in Congress. She solicits your vote Saturday to give her the authority to VOTE for you in the future.

Last Rites Held For Sam Pipkin

Last rites were held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Methodist Church for Sam Pipkin, 63, who died about 4 p. m. Friday at Stanley Clinic following a prolonged illness. His health failed last October and he had spent most of the time since, in the hospital.

Services were conducted by Rev. Marvin Brotherton, pastor of the church, assisted by former pastor Rev. W. B. Vaughn, and Baptist pastor, Rev. Clifford Potts, each of whom paid tribute to the venerable pioneer whose interest lay, not only in his own church, but the progress of other denominations as well. Realizing that he would be unable to go to the polls Saturday, the "absentee" vote he cast shortly before his death is mute testimony to his concern about the welfare of his community, state and government.

Tribute in song was offered by a quartet, Frank Jameson of Hale Center, R. E. Campbell, sr., Jim Edmondson and J. R. Whitworth, who sang, "Precious Memories". Choir hymns sung were "Never Grow Old" and "In The Sweet By and By".

Funeral arrangements were under direction of McDonald Funeral Home and interment made in Matador East Mount cemetery. Pallbearers were: Pat Sheridan, J. R. Emmons, W. B. Wason, J. C. Irwin, Bill McCaghren, and J. R. Whitworth.

TEACHER FOR 47 YEARS RECEIVES ORCHIDS

A misty-eyed little lady, with two orchids pinned on her dress, was the honored guest at a meeting held Sunday afternoon in Roaring Springs Pioneer pavilion. Miss Bessie Medlen, a teacher in the Roaring Springs schools for almost a third of a century, and with a record of 47 continuous years of teaching to her credit, received the richly-earned tributes.

Large Crowd Attends Meet To Pay Tribute

Miss Medlen held close the small engraved gold-plated plaque, presented by the Roaring Springs school board, which attested to her 32 years of unselfish service to the community. Education system of Texas has made many changes since the fall of 1903 when Miss Bessie Lee Medlen started teaching in the one-room Truby (Jones county) school. She had graduated from the Abilene high school the previous spring and $45 monthly salary looked wonderful despite the responsibility of teaching nine grades. With board and room at $8 per month she was to earn over $1 per day above her living. She taught the Truby school two years and then went to the three-teacher Noodle community school, still in Jones county, where she taught for four years. From there she went to the Merck high school where she continued for three years.

With her sister she started teaching in the Sand Bur community school, also in Jones county, and from there she went to the Comper community school and taught until the spring of 1918.

Roaring Springs school out in Motley county needed a teacher in 1918 and Miss Medlen secured the place with the office of principal. The salary was about $85 per month.

Miss Medlen declined to accept her reelection to the faculty recently after teaching in the school for 32 years with the exception of a two-year interlude in 1923-24 when she was lured away by the Slaton high school. The Roaring Springs trustees lured her back.

The tribute meeting held for Miss Medlen was attended by approximately 400 former students, their families and friends. She received many splendid gifts, including a luxurious rocking chair, several pieces of fine luggage, a radio and the two orchids. Three former superintendents of Roaring Springs schools paid high tribute to Miss Medlen during the meeting. In each case the superintendents declared she was always cooperative, interested in every student.

hills covered with grey were like a storm at sea, and by the winds of lost centuries and frozen in turbulent eddies against the lead-colored sky. The cowboy listened to the whirring of his spurs and the breathing of his horse as he sank to the fetlocks and he stepped from the saddle at the windmill in the grass-carpeted valley and with his horse from the rusting tank in the distance he was bawling and the cow-herd then mounted and into the mesquite thicket, strained eyes glimpsed a spring calf and he touched the horse with the spurs until he was certain of the fresh start. Riding in a circle he led the still warm ashes of all fire and found the burn-green limbs that had held a ring. The rider removed dusty Winchester from the board under his saddle and pumped a cartridge into the chamber and began trailing the hoof marks of two along the bank of a sandy danger was like the wind might against his cheek but as heavy as the hills in his shoulders.

Two Matador Groups Have For Tres Ritos

Two groups of vacationers left Matador during the week-end for a fishing trip to Tres Ritos, New Mexico.

Leaving Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Schweitzer and their two sons, Houston of Baytown, and Bert of Matador, also their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Moss and son, of Roaring Springs.

Lions In 'Ersatz' Meeting

Everything was ersatz (substitution) at the regular meeting of the Matador Lions club held Tuesday in the Methodist church basement. Vice-president Jake Edwards substituted for Boss Lion Forrest Campbell (attending the Chicago Lions International), and the meeting had no secretary in the absence of J. R. Whitworth, Rev. Marvin Brotherton substituted for Tail Twister Raby Webb (also absent), Mrs. Douglas Meador substituted for Lions Sweetheart Miss Rachel Patton (also attending Chicago Lions International) and a visitor, L. A. Surles of Klamath Falls, Oregon, substituted for the principal speaker, who, for some reason failed to appear.

The attendance was light due to vacations but the quality of the food (a fried chicken dinner served by the Methodist ladies) and the program were excellent.

Mr. Surles, who has been a football coach for five years, made an interesting address in comparing the popular game as played in the Pacific Northwest with the Southwest. He was introduced by Lion Pat Sheridan.

Announcement was made that delegates had arrived in Chicago on schedule and other Texas Lions in the international meeting. Miss Patton accompanied Boss Lion and Mrs. Forrest Campbell to Chicago by automobile. Lion and Mrs. Curtis Graham made the trip by train from Amarillo.

Visitors at the Tuesday meeting included those listed above on the program and Gordon Anders, T. J. Tucker, Stanley Wright, Mike Hoyle, A. B. Wright of Childress and Mrs. Allie Cox.

Mike, 8 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Algie Groves, obliged, and played "The Glowworm", and according to those who heard him, played it with the assurance of a veteran performer.

Mike and his brother, Pat, 10, spent the week-end in Canyon, Texas with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nichols, who entertained the boys with a picnic and mountain climbing in Palo Duro park Saturday morning and a trip to the carnival in Amarillo in the afternoon and evening.

Following the radio broadcast, Sunday, they attended services at the Methodist Church in Canyon, where they were impressed with their first pipe organ performance. After lunch, they were taken for a swim in the college swimming pool, and on to Buffalo Lake for a picnic supper.

Monday, they attended registration at West Texas State College and met old friends there whom they knew when their mother was attending the college last summer. They were met at Plainview and accompanied home by their mother.

VISITS PARENTS John Ketchersid, who has been in Air Corps training at Chanute Field, Ill., visited his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Ketchersid, for a week before leaving Sunday for Biggs Field, El Paso, where he has been transferred.

Aggies Seek Funds For Church Pews

COLLEGE STATION, Texas—(Spl.)—Twenty-five Texas Aggies on summer vacation take the field this month throughout the state in a campaign to insure themselves a seat in church at Aggeland this fall.

Answering a call from the Rev. Bob Sneed, director of student religious activities, A&M Wesley Foundation, these Aggies are seeking $10,000 for pews in the $150,000 Methodist chapel being completed this year at College Station.

Methodist students at A&M will furnish 50 pews for the new sanctuary, with each pew costing $200. The 25 Aggie solicitors have been furnished cards identifying them as "authorized representatives of the Texas Methodist Student Movement and the A&M Wesley Foundation."

Urges the Rev. Mr. Sneed: "Have you ever thought what a church without pews would be like?"

WOMAN INJURED AT LITTLEFIELD WHILE POSING AS A MAN

LITTLEFIELD—The eventful story of a 20-year-old woman whose left leg was amputated after an accident the first day starting heavy work here dressed as a man took a change toward improving Sunday.

The woman, Thelma Elizabeth Eaton of Alvin, was visited during the week-end by a brother, Alvin Weatherly also of Alvin.

Matador IOOF Lodge

Meets every Friday night, 8:00-9:45. H. K. Jameson, Noble Grand; Ralph Nichols, Secretary. All visitors and brothers welcome.

Although he had to return Sunday afternoon, he took her 18 months old son to take care of him while she remains in the hospital.

Meanwhile, her condition was marked up from critical to fair by attendants at Littlefield hospital. While visitors are still not permitted, several offers to help "in any way possible" have been made by local church groups and residents.

Deputy Dick Dyer said the investigation into her background is being concluded. Her explanation for dressing in men's clothing to secure employment to support her infant son has been verified in all checks so far.

The woman, Betty Louise Davis, with whom she had been living has been returned to the home of a sister in Little Rock, Ark., with her own child, a 16-month-old girl Dyer said.

The accident victim was injured about 11 o'clock Friday morning after she started work that day at the Plains Concrete Conduit company doing a man's job of lifting heavy bags of cements and pushing wheelbarrows with loads of as much as 250 pounds. Fellow workmen said they did not realize she was a woman.

The victim turned over a marriage certificate bearing the name Joe L. Moonenhan to officers. This is being checked.

Dyer said the woman had worked before near Littlefield about a year ago as a farm laborer.

Earl Drerup farmer living southeast of here, said the Eaton woman came by a couple of weeks ago and sought work. He did not have any, but told her that she and the woman companion and the infants could live in an empty house on the place.

She secured employment at the conduit company late Thursday afternoon under the name of "Joe L. Moonenhan." The following morning she slipped on grating covering large machine gears. Her foot was mangled above the ankle.

The Davis woman at first claimed they were married. The explanation later developed through investigation by officers indicated that the victim promised to work for the group if the Davis woman would take care of her infant son.

Dyer said that the two had only $3 between them. The two women said they met about two months ago at Houston and had since hitch-hiked about the state finally arriving here.

Charges Filed In Floydada Accident

FLOYDADA—An Odessa man was charged with negligent homicide and failure to yield the right-of-way Sunday following the traffic death Saturday morning of a California man in an accident in downtown Floydada.

The body of the victim, Roy Willis Lemons, 34, of Garvey, Calif., was taken from Harmon Funeral home here to Walters, Okla., where the funeral will be held Monday.

Lemons was returning from Temple, Okla., where his wife is ill. The accident occurred on U. S. Highway 70 at the Kentucky street intersection. Branson, who sustained two fractured ribs, is in Floyd county jail.

Supper for Couple

Mrs. Mutt Berryman and Mr. J. L. Woodruff were guests at a buffet supper in the First Baptist Church on Thursday evening. The couple was married this evening.

A delicious supper of baked chicken and dressing, new potatoes and green beans, vegetable salad, pickles, hot rolls, ice tea and cherry pie topped with whipped cream was served to the couple.

A pre-nuptial shower honoring Miss Jarene Holcomb, bride-elect of L. C. Giesecke, was given Friday evening, July 14, from 8 until 10 o'clock p. m., in the home of Mrs. Bob Martin. Hostesses for the occasion were: Misses Nell Webb, Clema Dell Woods, Ava Nell Monk, Dorothy Nelson and Elwanda Martin; Messrs. Calvin Monk, Charles Ray Cox, Jean Pope and Truman Daniels; Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Cox and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Berryman.

Miss Holcomb Is Shower Honoree

The couples names, L. C. and Rinky, and the date of their wedding, July 20, were written out in rainbow colors on a mirror above the mantel spotlighted with a blue light. The mantel was decorated with greenery and small phlox of rainbow colors.

The refreshment table was laid with a cut work cloth and centered with an arrangement of white, pink, yellow and orchid sweetpeas and greenery on a reflector and white candles. The couples names were inscribed in gold on napkins of rainbow colors.

Mrs. Marshall poured green punch from a block of ice filled with crepe myrtle and orchid phlox and pink and green cake squares were served to the guests who called during the evening.

Miss Monk presided at the orchid and white bridal book with approximately twenty-five guests registering. Many gifts were sent by friends unable to attend. Mrs. Jack Holcomb of Quitaque and Mrs. Dawson Reid of Paducah attended from out-of-town.

Washing Machine Safety Features Prevent Injuries

COLLEGE STATION — Many mangled fingers, some crippled hands, a few broken arms and other injuries have resulted from accidents that have occurred around the washing machine. Most or all of these could have been prevented, says Mrs. Bernice Claytor, extension home management specialist of Texas A. & M. College, who had the machine operator known how to operate the safety release on the washing machine wringer.

She points out that prospective purchasers of the wringer-type washers should check the machine to be sure that the safety release on the wringer can be easily reached and that it will work at all times.

All wringers on washing machines have safety releases but some meet individual safety needs better than others, says Mrs. Claytor. The location of the release is a mighty important consideration for if it is on the opposite side of the machine from where the housewife stands when putting clothes into the wringer, it will be hard to reach. Then some releases require considerable pressure and may call for more strength than a woman can exert in an emergency.

Some machines, she adds are now being equipped with an automatic shut-off which stops the rolls when the release bar is tripped.

She suggests that prospective buyers do a little extra checking before buying. Visit a friend or neighbor who has a machine of the type you like and try operating it on washday. This way you can get first hand information. If the dealer demonstrates the machine, be sure and try out the safety release. See for yourself whether or not you can reach the release without difficulty and can trip it easily. This one feature might someday prevent a serious accident, concludes Mrs. Claytor.

W. M. U. Circle To RECESS FOR SUMMER

At a meeting of Henrietta Shuck Circle of the Baptist W. M. U. held last Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Don Cameron, it was voted to observe a recess and discontinue meeting for the remainder of the summer.

Vacations and other summer activities claiming the attention of the members prompted the action.

The circle plans to reassemble the first Tuesday in September. Present at last week's meeting were: Mesdames Forrest Campbell, R. E. Campbell, Jr., Loyd Latimer, Joe E. Campbell and Lee Burns.

Residents Attend Floydada Wedding

Their son, Glenn Woodruff was a groomsmen in the wedding service, and attended a rehearsal dinner for the bridal party, on Wednesday previous to the wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Graves. Mr. Graves is superintendent of Floydada school system. The bridegroom is field executive of Blanco district, Boy Scouts, in an area of 13 counties. Mrs. Standefer is a graduate of the Floydada High school and Baylor University, and her attendants were Baylor schoolmates.

Attracting attention in these parts is Dorothy Nelson's red nylon dress, with (you won't believe it) hip pockets! After discussing this feature of her frock pro and con, we agreed that since men have hip pockets, they are probably just as practical for us girls as well.

Dorothy keeps reminding the mayor that her chances for getting married are very slim and will continue to be so until the street to her house is kept in better condition. The chug-holes and deep ruts are so bad, she points out, that her b.f.'s are in danger of tearing their cars up by driving over them, and consequently her chances for dates are hampered. From what we hear however, we don't think Dorothy is being too neglected!

We have always felt that Matador consistently turns out the best crop of young people from year to year, that you'll find in anybody's town or community; and incidentally, Dorothy has long been one of our favorites. We've known her since she was a little kid, and her sincerity and cooperation have been a source of inspiration. Her determination to acquire higher education and her willingness to work for it have gained her her degree, and after teaching home ec for a year at Roaring Springs, and a year at Lamesa, she now has been offered a place in her chosen field. This coming year she will teach kindergarten in an El Paso High school. Seems that in city high schools, as well as in college, they maintain this department so that girls studying home ec, can receive first-hand training in the care of children.

We enjoyed meeting with the Lions Club Tuesday, even though we were part of the "substitute" program. Several years ago, when Mr. M. was out at Morton, we enjoyed the privilege of attending their meetings regularly, and always appreciated the fellowship immensely.

Anybody need a new hat? We are interested in the fact that men constantly leave their hats hanging in cafes and restaurants—even as you and I, ladies, leave our purses! Waybourn's has a collection this week of three handsome numbers, including a felt Buckskin, 7X quality, size 7, with a Bellinger's of Silverton, label; A Stetson straw, size 7 3/8, labeled Lynch-Tinnin of Falls; and another straw, size 7 1/2, identified with a Club Cafe, Seymour, sticker.

Altavene Clark Says Farm Controls should Rest With Local Committees

PUBLISHER'S NOTE: The following article is a 10-minute radio broadcast, made over station KGNC on July 7th, by Mrs. Altavene Clark, candidate for the Democratic nomination to Congress in the July 22 (Saturday) primary.

am especially at home talking farm problems because of 8 years' work for Panhandle farmers with the House Committee on Agriculture.

In 1933 when Marvin Jones was Chairman of the powerful Agriculture Committee of the House of Representatives, he placed me on the committee staff. For 7 years, during those dark depression and dust storm days, I worked with the Committee and with Marvin Jones. During that time much beneficial legislation was passed to lift this country out of its despair. The Soil Conservation Act, Agriculture Adjustment Act, Commodity Credit, Farm Credit Act, Crop Insurance, which provided for all types of farm credit at reduced interest rates, the Farm Security Act, and many others came from the committee I served. Naturally, I had to be familiar with it all.

When Marvin Jones went to the Court of Claims, I remained with Gene Worley as his Executive Secretary, and in 1949 the Chairman of the Agriculture Committee, Harold D. Cooley, asked Mr. Worley for me, and the Agriculture Committee chose me, unanimously, to be its Executive Officer—which is head of the professional staff of the committee—the position I held when I took a leave of absence to run for Congress.

I would get away from the present centralized national controls, and have the program administered largely by county and community committees, chosen by the farmers themselves, who could fit the program to the local needs.

That was the philosophy behind the 1938 law which was enacted by a Democratic Congress while I was with the Committee—and which was working satisfactorily when the war came on.

During the war and following it, the entire program was centralized. Fixed price supports were enacted, without necessary adjustments, and over-production of certain commodities naturally followed. The Secretary of Agriculture now has almost autocratic power. The authority of local committees has been reduced until they hardly do more than carry out the orders of a centralized authority. This is as wrong as it can be.

This country is too big and the wide stretches of our farming areas are too varied to be subject to the control of any one authority. For instance, wheat ranges from the winter wheat of the Southwest to the Spring wheat of the North—and finally to entirely different wheat of the Pacific coast. In all, more than sixty varieties of wheat are produced by farmers living almost two thousand miles apart. It is impossible for a centralized agency to shape a fixed program that suits them all. The same is largely true of cotton, corn, tobacco, rice, and scores of other farm commodities.

This departure from the principle of local self-government, linked to fixed price supports, without controls, is largely responsible for the unforgetable potato and egg debacles.

After 8 full years of hearing the testimony of farm leaders, farm organizations, and hundreds of other people connected with every phase of agriculture—from working closely with Congressmen and Senators and Department officials who have formulated farm policies and written farm legislation, I developed some definite ideas about what any sound, sensible, long-range farm program should contain.

I would have a farm program built around soil conservation and water use, with flexible price supports and adjustments in production only to the extent necessary to prevent market gluts that always accompany overproduction. I do not believe in the doctrine of scarcity. We should produce all that the market will absorb, both at home and abroad.

I mention this simply as background for this discussion of farm problems and farm programs.

The Agriculture Committee has continuously carried on studies and conducted hearings with regard to a sound program for agriculture. We have heard from farmers in every part of the country, producing crops of every kind, character and description. We have also given careful attention to the views and recommendations of every other type or class of business—those who prepare the crops for markets, those who haul or transport the crops—the processors—the bankers—the brokers—the workers in the processing plants and in good number the housewives and wage earners who provide the market for the products of the farm.

From all this the Committee has become convinced, among other things, that no single plan, no one method of supporting prices, no one program for producing enough, but not too much, can bring about the desired results—which are assuring producers a fair return for their labor and investment, and assuring the people abundant food at reasonable prices.

There are so many kinds of farms, so many different commodities produced, and so many kinds of markets and middlemen that several plans and programs should be made available. And those who work in the sun in the fields, those who produce the crops should have some choice of the program under which they work. Several methods of supporting prices should be authorized. Different plans for keeping production within reasonable limits should be devised.

Instead of building on established principles, there has been a tendency recently to suggest various schemes that make rainbow promises that nobody can possibly carry out. If any more loose experiments are tried, the whole farm program may collapse.

It must be remembered that only about twenty-five percent of our people live on farms. If a program is to live, it must be sound enough to appeal to people in other businesses as well.

Every man, woman and child in America is interested in the conservation of our soils. Funds for soil building and conservation can be justified, not only in the national interest, but also as an offset to the tariff. The very strength of our nation is tied up with its soils. Every thinking person who has studied history knows that.

More than three thousand years ago, the Babylonian Empire was fabulous. The valleys were criss-crossed with canals. On the strength of soil conservation and the wise use of water not only were the farmers prosperous, but a vast commerce and industry was developed. They became rich. But they began to live high, their soil and water were neglected, and Babylon went the way of all nations that neglect these basic things.

Similar stories can be told of many other countries that once enjoyed great prosperity.

Commodities like cotton, wheat and tobacco that can be stored for long periods should have a fairly high supporting price, but flexible loan value, linked always to the condition that there shall be adjustments in production not only in the interest of soil conservation, but also to prevent losses from glutted markets.

This can be accomplished through crop rotation, terracing, strip planting, cover cropping, and soil building practices. This is in the long range interest of both the farmer and the country. These practices differ greatly in different sections of this big, broad country that produces in such great variety.

In the perishable commodities, the need for adjustments or controls is even more vital, there being a more limited storage period. Supporting prices are just as vital, but they should be linked to controls to prevent unreasonable government losses. These adjustments or controls should be used here, or elsewhere, ONLY when voted by the farmers in the producing areas—the supporting loans or prices to be available only when the farmers wish to submit to production or market adjustments. If this condition is not made, the great general public will not support the program, and it would tend to collapse just when it is needed most.

This was the basis and meaning of the 1938 law from which we have in so many respects departed.

That Act also provided for market agreements, both regional and national, for correction of freight discriminations, for school lunch programs, and for research into new markets for farm commodities and their products.

If we depart from these proven or basic things, we will "sell our birthright for a mess of pottage" and end up empty handed in the long pull.

Interesting Trip Reported By Group

Returning home last Thursday from a trip to the west coast, Mr. and Mrs. Kim Wilkinson and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Day reported a wonderful time from start to finish, including a visit to Carlsbad Caverns and a tour of Juarez, Mexico, with Hill Mexico Tours, at the beginning of the trip.

In Los Angeles, the party visited with Mr. Wilkinson's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wilkinson, and also with Mrs. Wilkinson's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Blum of Glendale. Mrs. Blum is the former Katalynn Humphries.

They also visited in Hollywood in the homes of Stanley Rose and Jackie Catlin, former Matador residents and sons of Mrs. Joe Gaines of this place. Jackie took them on a tour of Hollywood and they visited Grauman's Chinese theatre, where imprints of movie stars' feet and hands are made in the concrete; the observatory, and Forest Lawn Memorial park. They also made a trip to Knott's Berry Farm and Ghost Town at Beuna Park, where boysenberry jams and pies are featured on the menu.

A highlight of the trip was a visit to Sunset Potteries, where Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Day were given a "lazy susan" and also received one for their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Day. Six merchants here give merchandise coupons for Sunset pottery, including Day by Day
