TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Summer is old, watching the leaves with white passionless eyes. Her beauty has faded like that of a long-bloomed flower and tears are on her pillow as the wind whistles between her back and autumn. She looks boldly through the corridors of her boudoir at night, when the sun reaches its zenith in worn roads of the sky, the jealous season imparts a magic visitation on the world. It is a singing curare; a pernicious dryness that smarts like the return of a forgotten love.

Little explosions in automobile plane engine cylinders have taken away the massive foundations of the once dominant broad empire. Even section roads have found it more convenient to drive to work in their cars.

After an extensive personal survey, I have uncovered the source of my perpetual weariness. The first amazing revelation disclosed the error of my assumption that it was too much work. The cause was deeper and more complex. I am tired from performing the trivial, unpleasant and frequently uninvolved tasks which I create in order to avoid actual contact with my duties.

A writer has declared that we begin to die at birth, which is an interesting thought regardless of the amount of truth it may contain. If the astute gentleman is correct in his statement he could find that modern civilization is improving on the natural process. In fact hundreds take short rests every day in automobile accidents, while the rest of us prefer the slightly longer but more positive method of overeating, garnished with tobacco, strong beverages and insufficient exercise. But the entire thing is beside the true purpose of life. The number of years we live are not important. A truly merciful heart can leave the world more richer in a hour than could be scraped from a selfish soul sprawling across a century.

My friends could, with a little practice, refrain in my presence from describing as old men, contemporaries younger than I. Age is a secret we should keep from ourselves.

Another coal miner's daughter marrying a millionaire polo player, which is no reflection on the man's financial judgment. The arrangement should solve his fuel problem through these distressing times.

Looking beyond the fence with watery eyes, the old horse did not move when the man touched his shoulder. There was a slight twitching of the grey, those hide and the horse turned his head until his thick, lower lip touched the man's cheek. He walked slowly but willingly to the dilapidated two-wheel trailer with no more lead than the man's fingers twined in his shaggy mane. Wiring the end gate in the trailer, the man worked swiftly. He stopped the car before the shabby, unpainted house and went inside. The buckets of eggs were waiting on the kitchen table with a pencil list of grocery items. The man could not see his wife but he would hear her sobbing. He knew that she had pulled back the dingy curtain and was looking at the horse. He avoided looking back at the house after he had placed the eggs in the back seat and he did not look at the horse when he opened the barred-wire gate at the edge of the Johnson grass field, near the paved highway. Thoughts hurt him like a deep pressure inside his bosom; debris from the past flooded his heart. He remembered the day he had mortgaged the horse for medicine when his

MELON SOURCE FOR LADIES' NIGHT TO REMAIN A SECRET

Tail Twister Ralph Stapleton of the Matador Lions Club doesn't care where or how the watermelons are obtained for the Ladies' Night melon party scheduled for Tuesday night, September 21 on the high school campus park.

At the last meeting (September 7) he instructed a committee composed of Red Laughlin, H. H. Courtney, Alvin Stearns and John Hamilton, to "get the melons and have them cold." As an afterthought he named Lion Sheriff John Stotts on the committee. "It might be a good idea to add the sheriff to put a little dignity in the committee and maybe keep them within the law," he declared.

Program committee is composed of Jake Edwards, Mrs. John Hamilton, J. R. Emmons, Bill Moss and Albert Rattan. Regular directors breakfast will be held at the Methodist church basement Monday morning at 6:30 a. m. The Ladies' Night party will be held in lieu of the regular meeting scheduled Tuesday.

Crop Estimate Aged Negro Drops Dead In Harvest

Hot, dry winds and drought conditions during crucial season have cut short the rosy predictions for the best cotton crop in Motley county since 1926.

Estimates are that the crop has been damaged 43% according to county agent J. R. Emmons, who has made surveys among ginners and farmers in the various communities. Flomot and Matador estimate 50% damage, while estimates in Roaring Springs are from 25% to 30%.

Cotton pods are popping rapidly. A total of 74 bales from the new crop had been ginned at noon Tuesday, Mr. Emmons declared. Roaring Springs gins accounted for 46 bales, Matador 26 and Flomot 2.

More abundant harvest help is expected because of the short crop on the South Plains, Mr. Emmons declared. Crews of pickers have been arriving during the past week, about three weeks earlier than usual.

Pulling prices are $1.75 and $2 per 100 pounds in the field and $2 and $2.25 delivered to the gin. Mr. Emmons believes that ample pullers may be available at $1.75 in the field or $2 at the gin.

Cotton producers needing pullers are asked to make their needs known at the county agent's office.

Rodeo Books Made Public

A complete accounting of 26th Motley-Dickens Counties O-I Settlers Association reunion rodeo books was made public last week by Ward Rattan, chairman of the rodeo division.

"Our books are open to anyone," Mr. Rattan declared, "and it will be a pleasure to explain all receipts and expenditures in complete detail."

Total receipts of $1,704.26 were from the following sources: 84 calf ropers at $5 each, $420; 120 ribbon ropers at $5 each, $600; 11 junior boy ropers at $2, $22; 14 junior boy ropers at $2, $28; 10 junior boys flag race at $1, $10; donations $579.26 and one calf injured and butchered, $45.00.

Legion Meets At Watermelon Party

Mixing pleasure and duties, Fleming Post American Legion met Tuesday evening at Roaring Springs pool for a watermelon party with approximately 15 members and Commander Albert Rattan transacted affairs of the organization after they had devoted their attention to the watermelons.

Plans were discussed for an Armistice Day program and Jake Edwards was named chairman of the program committee with O. V. Johnson and Melvin Meason.

Annual Legion dues of $3.65 were approved, unchanged from previous years.

Airport To Go On Block

Motley county is going out of the airport business, at least for the present. Notice published elsewhere in this issue of the Tribune, advertises 265.9 acres of land situated about one mile northwest of town, to be sold at public auction at the courthouse door, October 8th between the hours of 2 p. m. and 4 p. m. The land purchased by the county near the end of the war for airport purposes will be sold to "the highest and best bidder."

Tentative plans were to develop the land for a county airport, with the general assumption that the federal government would aid in the development. Many West Texas counties purchase land for airport purposes, assuming that they would be aided by the government, made various degrees of developments in almost every instance they have failed to recover the original cost.

Lax Immunization Allows Diphtheria To Gain Foothold

An interesting sidelight on public health in Texas was revealed in the morbidity report of the Texas State Department of Health for the week ending August 28th, which showed a total of 2 cases of smallpox for this year, while in the same period there were 588 cases of diphtheria.

Commenting on these comparative figures, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer stated that diphtheria is as readily controlled by immunization as is smallpox, but that apparently the public has failed to recognize this fact, or to act upon it.

"Smallpox, which is highly contagious, is no longer considered a major health problem in Texas", Dr. Cox said, "and this is due to widespread vaccination against the disease. Diphtheria, equally contagious, can also be reduced to the point where a single case is a rarity, but only when parents awake to the fact that every child should be immunized in infancy. The baby's doctor will recommend when this should be done, and if all children were given this protection, there would be none susceptible to contract this killing disease.

Ordinarily the immunity provided by diphtheria toxoid lasts a child until he is of school age, however a Schick test should be given before the child enters school. If needed, an additional shot of toxoid should be administered.

"When all children are routinely immunized against this dreaded disease, it can be virtually eliminated as the health hazard that it now is, to the boys and girls of Texas", Dr. Cox declared.

In England, elevators are known as lifts. Young men will find real careers in the U. S. Army. Check up on the advantages of a three year enlistment at your nearest Recruiting Station.

Its a fact—a young man enlisting for three years in the U. S. Army is better off in net pay than a $3000-a-year civilian.

High school graduates who enlist for three years in the U. S. Army can choose from 60 fine Army technical schools before enlisting.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"Farming" Versus "Ranching"

Talked to some editors who run my column in their papers—in states where there's mostly cattle and sheep raising—about the differences there might be between farming and ranching.

And they told me: "Joe, there's no real difference between cattlemen and farmers. We make our living from the land like your folks do; we have the same 4-H Clubs and Granges; the same problems of prices and marketing.

"When it comes to recreation, we have the same liking to get together now and then for a barbecue and a friendly glass of beer."

And from where I sit, that about sums it up. Ranchers may have different names for things or grow different crops. But all over America folks who work the land share those common traits of hard work, sober moderation, and good fellowship, whether they're growing cattle for beef, or barley for good American beer and ale.

The Fair's 1948 Livestock Show will feature more breeds of cattle than ever brought together before for a major show, including two national shows, the National Brahman and the National Milking Shorthorn Shows, Oct. 13-22.

A mammoth exhibit of new automobiles and an equally impressive Farm Implement Show will be other highlights. Sixty thousand 4-H Club boys and girls, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers will be guests of the State Fair Oct. 16, Rural Youth Day, the largest gathering of Rural Youth ever to assemble at one time in one place.

Nine colorful games will be played in the Cotton Bowl, including the University of Texas-University of Oklahoma on Opening Day, and SMU-Santa Clara on Oct. 23.

Heading the entertainment field at the Fair will be Jimmy Durante and Harry James in the Auditorium; the "Flying L" Radio, starring Jimmy Wakely, cowboy star of screen, stage and radio; the third all-new edition of "Ice Cycles of 1948"; and Serano, "the psychic horse with the college education."

A Crop to Cultivate

America is famous for good crops. But finest of all is the bumper "crop" of 11,000,000 boys and girls growing up on our farms and ranches.

Trained teachers and leaders are helping cultivate this bumper crop. Vocational agricultural teachers in over 7,000 high schools do their part. Most of those schools have Future Farmers of America chapters. Membership of F. F. A. is 250,000. In their "outside classroom" work they receive additional on-the-job training from their vocational agricultural teachers. They learn to accept leadership responsibility. On graduation, many go directly into farm or ranch management. Others go on to agricultural college.

County agents and over 180,000 unselfish volunteer leaders do another great job through the 4-H Clubs. Through 85,000 local 4-H Clubs, more than 1,750,000 boys and girls get invaluable training. Advice, encouragement, know-how from practical experts. Their projects keep them abreast of what is new in agriculture. They learn through doing. Achievement and leadership become habits.

It is well that American agriculture has these leaders and teachers. By teaching the business and science of farming, they are helping make life on farm and ranch rich and profitable for a new generation of Americans. They are showing them the way to economic security and a good way of life. Better farm planning; power machinery; scientific modern methods; control of weeds and plant and animal pests... All these our farm and ranch youth are learning. In many ways they are qualifying themselves to be better managers of land and better businessmen. They are increasing their knowledge of science and selling—of machinery and markets—of costs and conservation.

Swift & Company has always been proud to encourage farm youth activities. We shall continue to do so. We have no doubt or fear for the future of America. For, properly cultivated, this crop will ripen surely into our nation's richest harvest.

A HUNDRED CENTS MAKE A DOLLAR

Have you sometimes wished to know Where meat dollars really go?

Of each wholesale dollar spent, you get seventy-nine per cent.

For your livestock, wool and hides, and all by-products besides. Wages, operating cost are plenty.

Take another even twenty.

After all the rest is spent The packer profits just one cent.

Livestock and Meat Prices

Livestock is marketed when it is ready. The supply of animals coming to market at any one time is controlled by your decisions as producers. These decisions may have been made months previously, depending on your breeding and feeding program. The weather—blizzards, storms and droughts—also have a bearing on when you market your animals.

Meat packers have no control over the supply of livestock.

The meat packer must sell meat and by-products for what they will bring. When people have to economize, they spend less money for meat. Consumers, retailers and meat packers reduce their bids. The prices of both meat and livestock fall accordingly. But when people make more money, they are eager to buy meat. Then buyers all along the line increase their bids. And the prices of both meat and livestock rise accordingly. For each meat packer and each retail meat dealer knows that if he does not pay a little higher for the livestock or meat he wants, somebody else will—and get the business.

Thus the old law of supply and demand—plus competition in buying livestock and selling meat—forces price changes in meat to be reflected quickly all the way back to the livestock on the hoof. At all times the market price is a balance between the supply of livestock and the demand for meat.

OUR CITY COUSIN

It's a Two-Way Road

In my work with farmers and ranchers I have visited just about every part of this country. I can't begin to count the number of times I have traveled out of Chicago and back—to the range country of the West—through the Corn Belt states... the wheatlands... the cotton country—Florida, Maine, Washington, California and all the other states in between.

I do not know how anyone who travels much can help being impressed with the need for team play in America. As farmers or ranchers, your prosperity depends to a large degree on the ability of workers in industry to purchase the food and fiber you produce. Likewise, city businessmen know that your power to purchase their products is equally important to them. And all of us depend on the men in the mines, in the forests, in the steel mills, and oil fields.

But what we are apt to overlook is the fact that it is the earnings of the business going, and all of us at work. Of course, profit rates vary. That depends on many things, including volume of business done. For example, here at Swift & Company we process millions of pounds of agricultural raw materials each year. On each pound handled, we earn an average profit of a fraction of a cent. Few could stay in business on the margin we meat packers earn. But whether one's business volume is large or small, some profit is essential to any individual or any enterprise.

And here's another thing. Often I hear someone say—"These farmers are the lucky ones—completely independent!" I can't agree with them. I know, and you know, that you on the land are independent—but only to a certain degree! Of course, cities couldn't exist without the products of farm and ranch. Maybe you could produce your own food, clothing, shelter and fuel. But country living would be pretty grim without cars, telephones, radios, fences, tractors, windmills and modern labor-saving, comfort-giving equipment. It is a two-way road! Our standard of living in America is something we are all proud of. It is the result of the profit system and of good team play.

Canadian Wildcat Continues To Burn

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 8.—All aircraft were warned today to avoid the vicinity of the flaming wildcat well in the 500 million dollar Leduc oil field 25 miles south of Edmonton.

The Alberta government, which issued the order, said the ban was for "reasons of safety". The sky was black for miles around with smoke from the 50,000 barrel a day fire which threatened today to range out of control for another week.

The government announced that workmen had succeeded in sealing an earth fissure which has been sweeping thousands of barrels of unburning oil into lowland around the flaming wellhead last night, workmen succeeded in cutting the blazing area from 40 acres to 10-acre pillar tractors.

Today's fire-fighters rushed completion of a second relief hole which would pour 500 barrels of water into the oil source pool beneath the blazing "lizard" well, the Atlantic No. 2.

When the poison from heavy bees is injected into the human body in large quantities, it produces almost the same effect as the bite of a rattlesnake.

New Idea in Junior Feeding Projects

by T. W. Thompson
State 4-H Club Leader, Montana

Boys and girls are trying out a new kind of livestock feeding project. In several states—including Montana, Nebraska, Colorado and Indiana—people are enthusiastic about it. Here is how it works. The boy or girl buys an average lot of feeder steers or lambs, from a uniform herd or band. The number bought is usually 3 or more steers, 15 or more lambs. That depends on finances, feed supplies and equipment available.

These lots of animals are bought at a central market. They are taken home and fattened. Careful records are kept of feed costs and rates of gain. At the end of the feeding period, they are shipped back to market. They are sold on Junior Marketing Day.

Boys and girls consign their animals to commission firms of their own choice. Upon arrival the animals are penned separately, according to ownership. Each lot is graded and weighed separately. Then all animals are assembled in pens according to grade. They are sold for slaughter in the usual manner used on that market. The boys and girls profit according to the market value of their animals.

Sponsors claim the following benefits: (1) It is practical. (2) It promotes better farm feeding methods. (3) Boys and girls learn about market grades of livestock. (4) They learn about central markets and their operation. (5) This new idea in junior feeding is not intended to take the place of feeding for show. It is a separate project, to give youngsters practical experience in feeding for market.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—A loan program for the 1948 crop of American-Egyptian cotton was announced today by the Department of Agriculture.

The loan rate for grade number two, one and a half inches, will be 61.10 cents per pound, net weight, in the Arizona-California area, and 61.35 cents in the New Mexico-West Texas area.

A location differential has been established between the Arizona-California area and the New Mexico-West Texas area, the department said, to reflect transportation costs from the area of production to southeastern and New England mill points.

Holiday Magazine Publicizes Texas

Texas will receive the most extensive treatment ever accorded any state by a national magazine with publication this week of the first of three issues of Holiday devoted principally to the Lone Star State.

Scores of articles and photographs will depict varied phases of Texas life, outline its history, and trace the growth of the agricultural and industrial empire contained in its borders.

From El Paso to the East Texas oil field, from the Panhandle to the Valley, the State's cities and rural sections and their people and way of life will be surveyed.

J. Frank Dobie, noted Texas historian, leads the parade of well-known Texas authors who interpret their State to the Nation in articles that will fill nearly a hundred pages. Hart Stilwell, Green Peyton, Lewis Nordyke, Robert Easton, and nationally-known writers from other sections, have contributed stories.

In analyses of personalities who wear the Texas brand, Holiday pictures a typical Texas wildcatter and a cattleman. It details the history of the Texas Ranger, and touches on the State's hunting and fishing preserves.

The series of three Texas issues of the magazine commences with the October number, published September 15. That issue carries the first half of a two-part article by Dobie entitled "Explaining Texas," and articles on Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth, and hunting and fishing. A double-page decorated map of the State, picturing the industries and agricultural products of the various sections, is also carried in the October issue.

According to The Curtis Publishing Company, the magazine is read by more than 6,000,000 persons every month.
