Ten Towns Represented at Meeting of Water-Sewage Group

Officer To Enforce Health Laws Said Be One Of Needs

From a health standpoint, Matador is sitting on a "keg of dynamite," Dr. A. C. Traweck, city health officer, told 19 members of the Cap Rock Water Sewage Association at their monthly meeting at Matador's Methodist Church Wednesday night.

Dr. Traweck made this statement in reference to Matador's lack of a municipal garbage collection, but one of the many subjects which came up during the meeting.

In general, Dr. Traweck told city officials and members of the 18-county organization, that small towns are falling behind in enforcement of their health laws because of the need for a city marshal.

"People expect enforcement of an officer," he said. "As far as Matador's water supply is concerned, Dr. Traweck declared that 'A surgeon wouldn't hesitate to scrub up for an operation from tap water in a town like this—if he could get his hands as clean as the water is.'"

High Nation, city water official from Crosbyton, deplored lack of sewage accommodations from the "poorer" sections of the smaller towns, saying that people are prone to think much in terms of taxes.

"The health condition of any town is not any safer than the rest part of it," Nation said. "I went on to say that a community must pay for its health conditions, whether it be through fighting of communicable disease or by the construction of sewage systems in all parts of a town. He blamed flies for being chief spreaders of diseases.

J. L. Robinson, Lubbock state sanitary engineer for the Panhandle, told members of the association that "all the other 23 other associations of Texas will be looking toward the Panhandle water associations on the matter of the protection of the ground water supply."

This would be because the Panhandle derives most of its water supply from this source," he said.

In connection with this subject, Robinson said that an all-Panhandle meeting of the Panhandle area will be held from 2 to 6 p. m. on Tuesday, October 29, at the Hilton Hotel in Lubbock.

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Grotesque and bleached by the light of understanding, truth is often washed up on the shore from the sea of hidden things. It seeks no quarter and gives none in return, except, perhaps, to leave a message written in the waters from whence it came, that the things we hide from ourselves may always be obvious to the world.

Fortunate indeed is the man who finds early in life that work is the only love which will not betray his heart in a crucial hour when he is too weak to regain faith. For it has the cool fingers that soothe the fever in his soul when antipathy would destroy him; it brings the fragrance of hope when the stench of life's futility would subdue his dreams. It is the voice that whispers from the depth of his solitude.

Wisdom becomes the traveler when he is aware that despite the gentle road he follows, ahead there is always another river or the sea.

Failure may be fashioned from the identical material and from the same pattern that another may have created, the charming garments of success.

Somewhere in the darkness the thin and hungry kitten is crouched in a shadow, tense with anticipation from every sound. Unkept, unloved and starving, the little animal waits for another dawn and dreams that a crust of soured bread may have been dropped from the ladder of the strange world which speaking animals dominate. A piece of driftwood bobbing on life's tempestuous sea; needing so little. A saucer of warm milk, a rug before the fire and the touch of friendly hands; a child's laughter.

Love scatters flowers in life's rocky arena, frequently to be kissed by the pain-fevered lips of turning hostages bound to the wheels of destiny's chariot. The mighty of soul may hold a rose between his teeth until its petals are worn away.

Day had dropped its heavy boots by the western door and was walking about in stocking feet. Little lights were shining in distant windows like stars in the young mother of darkness and there was an ecstasy of peace in the song of the wind. Through an open door the plaintive music of a piano flowed into the estuary of darkness. Long fingers touched the keys in such a manner as to impart the music before creating a sound in the instrument. The man hesitated to allow the return of silence for an instant then resumed his playing. His melody followed no song. It was patterned from the loneliness in a man's heart. It spoke of the long search for a phantom dream; the seeking of some vague and unattainable happiness. Presently the door was un-closed and the voices of unspoken moods whispered in the music's vanishing memory.

A little of the soul must perish each time a trust is broken and left with its still-beating heart exposed briefly for the world to see.

Often the ecstasy of a single smile may provide sufficient refuge to cover the dismal and trial-stained walls of an otherwise bleak hour.

Evangelist

Springs Revival To Open Tonight

Evangelist R. C. Morton, (above) of Johnson City, Tenn. and Bristol, Va., will open a revival at the Roaring Springs Christian Church, beginning tonight, according to an announcement received by the Tribune.

Sermon subjects for the services include: "The work of God," "Warnings from God," "Looking for the Lord," "What Time Is It?" and "The Conversion of Cornelius."

Bible drills with new songs and choruses will be held for boys and girls.

Unveiling of a large colored chalk portrait of Christ is announced for Friday night. Evangelist Morton will go to Clarendon from Roaring Springs.

Six Cars Of Milo Shipped From Elevator

With the season barely getting underway, six cars of thrashed milo have been shipped from the Roaring Springs elevator, according to E. E. Moss, manager of the plant and the Red Ball Gin.

Mr. Moss said that he expects a greater quantity of small grain to be shipped from the county this year. He offers a constant market for milo, wheat and other small grains.

Mr. Moss has acquired full interest in the modern elevator plant which was originally a partnership firm with G. V. Hensarling, known as the H & M Elevator.

Adjacent to the Red Ball Gin, the elevator is served by a modern 45-foot Howe scale which was installed during the past few months. The business is served by a new office structure. The scale has a 70-ton capacity, is federal inspected and bears government accuracy seals. Reading of the scale is made easy and accurate with a Weight-O-Graph, electric device, flashing the enlarged reading on a screen. James Moss is associated with his father in the enterprise.

Matadors Outscore Opponents 144-50; Tie In League Play

Coach Brady Thomas has turned out a pretty fair football team, according to gridiron statistics. The Matadors have scored a total of 144 points this season and their opponents have chalked up a paltry 50.

In the league play the total points stand at 50 for Matador and 50 for their opponents. It was in conference play that the Matadors were scored against, losing two of their three league games.

Halfback Tom Rufus Edmondson is high point man for the Matadors with a total of 54 points to his credit. Fullback Billy Joe Stephens has made 46 points, and halfback Bonner Nelson has hung up 42 tallies. Tackle John Houston Irwin picked up two points in the Turkey game when he pinned a Turkey ball carrier behind the goal for a safety.

4-A Football Squabble to Hit Courts

Court action will be sought to kill an ineligible ruling against three Crosbyton High School football players, according to R. K. Green, superintendent of the Crosbyton schools.

Senator G. H. Nelson, Lubbock, acting attorney for the Crosbyton faction, made known Green's intended court battle Wednesday at Floydada during a meeting of the executive committee of the 4-A Interscholastic League.

The committee was informed of the proposed legal redress after they had voted unanimously to disqualify the three players. The committee's action was the third such vote on the subject, a similar meeting being held in Matador the previous Saturday.

Those declared ineligible for the season are 190-pound Lawrence Simmons, a back; Jack Jones, halfback, and squadman Kerry Horne. All three of the players witnessed the Matador-Crosbyton game from the sidelines.

Superintendent I. T. Graves, Floydada, district chairman of the committee, declared that the three players were disqualified because of their alleged participation in graduation exercises of Crosbyton High School.

Graves further said that the trio, all high school seniors, lacked one credit at the time of the See SQUABBLE on back page.

Malador-Ralls Contest To Be Close; Slated For 7:45 P. M. On Burleson Field

The Matador-Ralls football contest, scheduled for 7:45 p. m. Friday on Burleson Field, should be one of the closest games of this season, according to local gridiron fans.

Ralls dropped their game with Spur 25-0 last Friday, and Spur previously overpowered Matador 31-0 on October 11. This should give a fair indication of what Friday night's contest will be.

Roaring Springs Votes $40,000 School Bonds

A near-unanimous vote was polled in Roaring Springs Monday, passing the $40,000 bond issue for the construction of a new building to replace the structure destroyed by fire early this year. When the votes were counted, 122 property-owning voters of the district favored the issue with only 7 dissenting.

All three propositions to be decided in the election carried by an equal overwhelming vote. Proposition No. 1 to decide whether or not to continue the maintenance tax of $1 per $100 valuation carried by 126 to 6.

Proposition No. 2 to decide on the summation of an outstanding bonded indebtedness and levying of the tax in payment thereof (spreading the old debt over the new district) passed by 122 to 6.

No announcements have been made by the school board when construction of the new building may be started.

SERVICE PLANNED FOR THANKSGIVING

Committees from the Methodist and Baptist churches met Wednesday night of last week to discuss plans for union Thanksgiving services, in keeping with a custom observed here for a number of years.

Tentative plans include morning services to be held at 10:30 at the Baptist Church, with the Methodist pastor as speaker for the occasion. The day decided upon will be the same which the local school and merchants observe, and will probably be the last Thursday in November, the date of which is the 28th, since that is the date scheduled for the annual Paducah-Matador Thanksgiving football game.

Further program arrangements will be announced later, and a meeting is called of the choir next Wednesday night at the Baptist church following prayer meeting, to go into rehearsals for the music.

J. R. Whitworth will conduct the choir, and Miss Rachel Patton pianist of the Baptist church will play.

Everyone who will aid in this program is cordially invited to attend the meeting next Wednesday night.

1947 AAA Program To Be Planned Sat.

Plans for the AAA's 1947 farm program will be made at 10 a. m. Saturday at a meeting of AAA officials and leading agricultural men of the county at the American Legion hut, according to Marvin Allen, AAA administrative officer.

Included in the group will be banking officials from communities of the county, Allen said.

One topic to be discussed will be the publication of a handbook for Motley County, similar to the 22-page state handbook, Allen declared. Tentative plans call for 750 of the books to be published.

GLENN WOODRUFF IS SOCI CLUB PLEDGE

A list of pledges to men's social clubs at Texas Technological college, Lubbock for the fall semester was announced last week and included the name of Glenn Woodruff of Matador, of Socii Club.

Small Community Has $83 Donations Within Few Hours

TWO RETURNED SERVICEMEN, Fred Brandon and Raymond Kingery, remembered the USO when they were in uniform. Back as civilians they assumed responsibility as a committee to secure contributions from their community. By 2 p. m. Monday they had reported total contributions of $83 from Darden Canyon community, one of the smallest in the county. They had started work at 8:30 a. m.

Altho the county's entire quota is only $450, other communities including Matador, are far behind Darden Canyon, county chairman J. R. Whitworth said late yesterday. Perhaps the most surprising lack of response was encountered here in Matador when members of the committee reported a total collection of only $124 late yesterday. At no time during the war or since its termination, has this community before failed to be far in the lead. Matador's colored town has turned in $10 donations and expects to raise $15 or $20 more, Mr. Whitworth declared.

Reports from Flomot indicate that the community will exceed its expected share of the total quota.

The drive has started at Northfield, according to chairman Thomas Fulgham and the response is good. It will probably be completed within a week.

No reports have been received from Fairview, Whiteflat and Folly communities.

Roaring Springs reports satisfactory progress being made with committees working under chairman Arthur Harmon. Union Corner's drive has been started. The Matador school committee is working, Mr. Whitworth declared. Total contributions for the entire county to date are only $254.

County officials and others with offices in courthouse are asked to make their contributions direct to Mr. Whitworth since no committee was appointed to work that particular area.

MHS Plans Halloween Carnival

A Halloween carnival will be held at Matador High School beginning at 6 p. m. October 31, according to Bert Ezzell, superintendent.

Tentative plans for the event include a supper, concession booths, an amateur hour and other entertainment, school officials said Tuesday.

Sponsoring the carnival will be the P.T.A. and the senior and junior classes. The seniors will use their part of the proceeds to finish paying for the new motion picture equipment, the juniors will finance the junior-senior banquet with their share, and the P.T.A. will use their proceeds on some school business which will be announced later, Ezzell said.

Tuesday's action on the proposed carnival included the nomination by students to determine Matador's most beautiful woman, and the ugliest man.

A similar carnival will be held the same night by the students at Northfield.

Magic Show Slated For Roaring Springs

A magic show featuring "Duke" Montague and company, professional entertainers, will be held at Roaring Springs High School at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday October 30, according to Henry Teague, superintendent.

The program will be one of three professional events which have been contracted by the school, Teague said.

Mrs. Montague, billed as "the memory lady," will be a part of the company.

Using a truck load of equipment, the Montagues will present such acts as "In a Magician's Garden," "Diabolical Rope," "Silken Fantasy," "Chinese Interlude," "Mystery of India," and the "Magical Lemon Drop."

Pedigreed Texas Northers Have Their Beginning In Western Canada

Pedigreed Texas northers begin in the Medicine Hat-Edmonton area of western Canada, sweep down the middlewestern plains and charge into Texas thru the Panhandle.

A norther without that lineage doesn't have the old vim and pep of a champion.

But to dispel a part of this northern myth—northers aren't indigenous to Texas. A. M. Hamrick, head of the U. S. Weather Bureau at Dallas, said all 48 states have them, only they call them cold waves. In the Dakotas they're sometimes blizzards.

Furthermore, it's open season all year around on northers. In the spring and summer they're called cold spells.

Nothing Like A Norther
But to a Texan, there's nothing else quite like that day in the fall when a yellow tinge colors the air, a blue bank looms in the sky to the north and an icy wind starts whipping the leaves down the streets.

Partner, it's blowing up a blue norther. Technically, that yellow tinge comes from dust particles stirred up by the advance winds, gleaming in the sun against the dark backdrop, Hamrick explained.

That blue bank is nothing but rain over Oklahoma or perhaps Amarillo.

Or maybe it's been hot and humid. The air is still. Then a distant mumble of thunder breaks into a clip overhead and rain comes sweeping down the road, pushed by a wind from the north.

Then it's time to tell a foreigner to get out his heavy overcoat. It's a wet norther blustering in to town.

The heat and humidity come from southerly winds radiating from a high pressure area over the Gulf, Hamrick said. When the warm air meets the cold front, it rises and cools and rain results.

Pedigree Is Given
Back to a norther's pedigree. "All weather, in the Northern Hemisphere, moves sooner or later in an easterly direction," Hamrick said, pointing to a maze of concentric circles, wavy lines and yellow spots on a map.

The circles, mostly elongated and never uniform, came from a high pressure area, which, the weatherman added, was a mass of dry air stagnated over the area so long it took on the aspect of the weather of that area.

That's why northers form in Canada or Alaska, where snow and ice abound.

"Sooner or later," the weatherman went on, "the rotation of the earth starts moving the high pressure area east, and low pressure area to the south start drawing the cold air."

Low pressure areas are troughs between high pressure hills.

Add a push from a wind from the north, and the cold wave gets to Texas, maybe. If the winds from the south are stronger, it gets deflected.

Like Two Armies Meeting

"I sometimes say it's like two opposing armies meeting on a battleground," Hamrick said. "The cold air meets the warm and whichever is stronger gets Texas. The battleline after is the Red River, mainly because that's where the winds from the Gulf reach."

Any cold front coming from west of the Rocky Mountains expands itself getting over the Rockies and is a weakling when it gets to Texas. As for cold fronts originating east of us, we get only the backwash and sometimes not even that.

Northers take from 24 hours to three days to get down to Texas from Medicine Hat or Edmonton.

"Speed depends on the push and pull," Hamrick said.

On Playing the Fiddle Badly

A favorite recreation in our town is getting together in one or another's home and making music. There's somebody at the piano; a guitar; a fiddle player; and Molly Birtles even has a harp!

What comes out isn't the best music in the whole world. In fact, a lot of it is downright bad. But nobody even thinks to question or to criticize.

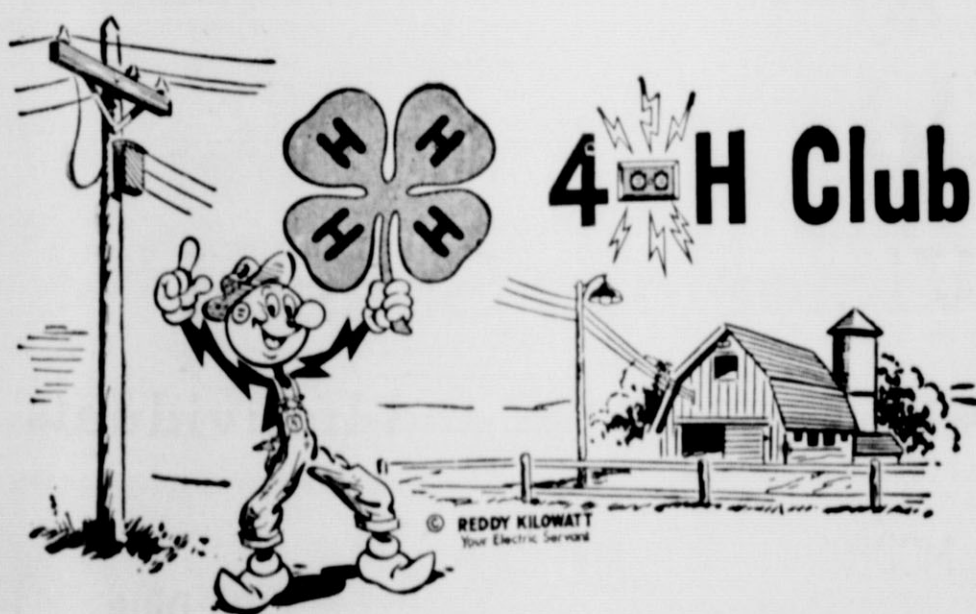

Because the spirit of harmony is there—harmony between folks who like each other's company, who enjoy the simple, homey atmosphere —with nothing more exciting than old songs, and a glass of moderate beer or cider.

From where I sit, it's a heap more important to be a poor fiddle player, than not to play at all. More important to be a part of the American scene—with its community music, home entertainment, friendly glass of beer—than to hold out for professional perfection. (Besides, I like to play the fiddle—even badly!)

BOYS AND GIRLS IN 4-H CLUBS are doing a grand job... they are learning how to be better farmers and homemakers through extension courses and practical experience.

County agents report that young members of 4-H Clubs are using Reddy Kilowatt to provide clean, cool and comfortable living quarters for their meat animals.

The cost of electric power to increase and assure better production on farms is low—and the small investment in electric help means considerable in increased income at the market.

Reddy Kilowatt and the 4-H Club boys and girls are planning tomorrow's farm management as a more promising vocation for trained men and women.

Enough Food is no Accident

It is no accident that the largest crops in our history are being harvested this year when we, and the rest of the world, need them most.

In spite of war, loss of labor and little new equipment, the American farmer has again taken care of us and provided a life-saving surplus for abroad.

How do our farmers do it? How is it that only sixteen per cent of our people can feed all of us and go on breaking records in the face of circumstances which slow up industry?

There are three reasons: First, farmers work harder and longer than most other Americans. Second, they know how to make the best use of tools. And, third, they have a long-standing partnership with industry seeking to satisfy their urge to get more out of the land for the same labor. Farmers are still practicing the kind of enterprise that built America.

National thanks are due the farmer for the job he has done in the last five years. Universal respect is due him for his foresight in helping industry equip farms to meet a whole series of emergencies.

BUT... we should not crowd our luck, or the farmer's luck either. Too many farm tools are now worn out. Without new ones production may go down. Farmers need over eight hundred million dollars' worth of new implements and equipment. It is up to industry and labor to keep wheels turning to produce them, but any recurrence of strikes would prevent this.

America should see that the hard-working farmer gets what he needs.

A Hallowe'en motif was used in decorations, and plate favors were miniature girl scouts in uniform, made from pipe cleaners.

AAA Says Cropland Terraces Save Land

Cropland terraces save water and conserve soil, vice-chairman L. A. Washington of the Motley County Agricultural Conservation Committee says.

Farmers cooperating with the Agricultural Conservation Program can receive assistance in terracing their farms, he continued. Experiments prove that terraced land yields more and retards water erosion.

Recognizing the extensive need for terraces and the expense of their construction, the Federal Agricultural Conservation Program helps farmers to pay part of the costs.

First Quarter

Petersburg's fullback, G. F. McGuire, began Friday's game with a kickoff which Quarterback Bob Rushing returned to Matador's 37 yard-line.

Second Quarter

McGuire sent a fourth-down punt to Nelson on the second play of the second quarter, and scatty Nelson returned the ball to his 35-yard marker.

Third Quarter

Late in the third quarter, McGuire received a fourth-down punt from Stephens deep in Petersburg territory. McGuire had trouble in juggling the ball around and was forced to fall on the pigskin on his two-yard line.

Fourth Quarter

The final score of the game was made the hard way, beginning on the play following Matador's ball recovery on Petersburg's 30 yard slot.

AAA officials. Approximately 95 per cent of the cost of terracing is absorbed by the government, and the terraces are used in winter erosion prevention.

WORRY AND INDIFFERENCE

★ Overanxiety, particularly about health, is a disease in itself. Physicians call it hypochondria. Those who "enjoy" ill health only make themselves and those about them miserable.

Opposed to chronic worry is complete indifference, to the point of disregard of common-sense health rules and contempt for medical care.

Between these two absurd extremes lies the sane middle road. Petty, transient discomforts need not cause grave concern and frequent trips to the doctor. When symptoms persist or recur with annoying frequency, it is then time to seek professional assistance. Indifference under these circumstances only invites more serious trouble.

That Congressman W. R. Poage said recently, "Lots of people adopt the attitude that soil conservation is something for the farmer to worry about. The farmer is less concerned than the public, because in the final analysis the farmer will be the last one to starve. He is on the spot where the food is grown."

That recent reports from leading steel centers showed that less than two weeks supply of scrap iron is available. Scrap iron is indispensable for the production of steel. Farmers are urged to sell all scrap metal that has no further use on farms thru regular commercial channels of scrap trade.
