Acid Run In Howard Pair

Pure 14 Chalk Fills 100 Feet With Oil In 12 Hours

Two wells in Howard county, one of them an old producer deepened, were treated with acid last week while Pure Oil Co's No. 14 Chalk filled 100 feet with oil in 12 hours from shows at 1835-38 feet and from 1956-59 feet. It drilled ahead below 1730 feet, where the formation was broken sand redbeds and anhydrite. No. 14 Chalk is in section 125 block 29, W & N Ry. Co. survey. Joe Rugh No. 2 Dodge, in section 9, block 30, township 1 south, T & P Ry. Co. survey, drilled to 2663 feet and was treated with 1,000 gallons of acid heated to a temperature of 160 degrees with a 92-barrel oil load and a maximum pressure of 1,000 pounds. It had not been unloaded. There was a showing of oil at 2653 feet and an increase from 2702-25 feet. Sinclair-Prairie No. 1 Percy Jones, also in section 9, block 30, had dille rod led, fm ril 30, had drilled to 220 feet in redbeds.

Continental No. 4 Rumsey, Abrams & Fraser was treated with 1,000 gallons of acid under a 255-barrel oil load and 100 pounds pressure after deepening from 2230 to 2434 feet in lime and cemented 457 feet of 5-8 inch liner at 2308 feet. A test following the acid treatment had not been made. The well is 2310 feet from the north line and 1650 feet from the east line of section 13, block 33, township 2 south, T & P Ry. Co. survey.

In the same section, Schermernhorn No. 8 Rumsey, Abrams & Fraser had slight showings of oil from 1,598 to 1,610 and from 1,601-15 feet in drilling to 2120 feet in line. Sun No. 6 Phillips, in section 14, block 33, township 2 south, T & P Ry. Co. survey, underreamed 12 1-2 inch casing to 760 feet in shale and was bailing to test for a water shut-off.

Sinclair-Prairie No. 2 Denman, in section 10, block 30, township 1 south, T & P Ry. Co. survey, swabbed 35 to 50 barrels of oil daily in cleaning out to within 10 feet of the bottom following a 400-quart shot from 2850 to 2812 feet the total depth. Sinclair-Prairie No. 10 Dodge in section 11, block 30, was shut down for repairs at 2315 feet in lime.

Humble No. 2 Settles, in section 13, block 29, W & N Ry. Co. survey, had drilled in 1023 feet in redbeds and shella. Merrick & Lamb No. 10 Chalk, in section 125, block 29, W & N Ry. Co. survey, was standing with 6-8 inch casing cemented at 1510 feet in shale.

'Highly Hazardous Job' Of Flying Air Mail Tackled Enthusiastically By Army Pilots

By ALEXANDER B. GEORGE WASHINGTON (CP) — Aviation experts, governmental as well as commercial, are convinced that the army air corps in taking over transportation of the mails is lacking what one of them described as a "very tough and highly hazardous job."

Most aeronautic observers here believe that the army flyers are capable of successfully meeting the emergency but many veteran aviators privately express the opinion that at the outset some pilots will lose their lives and that there may be a slowing up in the air mail service.

Army Airmen Elated

Nevertheless army pilots—enthusiastic airmen who have chafed at being "laid down" to desks and paper work—are obviously elated at the prospect of getting more service in the air.

Many have had training in "blind flying" and they are eager to pit their knowledge and dexterity at the controls against fog, night and other perils that beset him who flies the mail.

Listed as the army's major handicap is the lack of pilot personnel trained in airline work or familiar with the air mail routes. The high efficiency and safety records of the present air mail pilots are attributed largely to familiarity with routes they have flown day after day and night after night in all kinds of weather.

These pilots can spot all the landmarks, are expert in utilizing the various radio aids to flying and are so familiar with atmospheric conditions in their territory they often can tell weather "symptoms" hours in advance of governmental forecasts or warnings.

Adept At Handling Ships

Trained in tactical maneuvers, army flyers are rated very adept in handling their planes in almost any contingency but lack the experience of scheduled direct cross-country flying, particularly at night, such as is required for transportation of the mails.

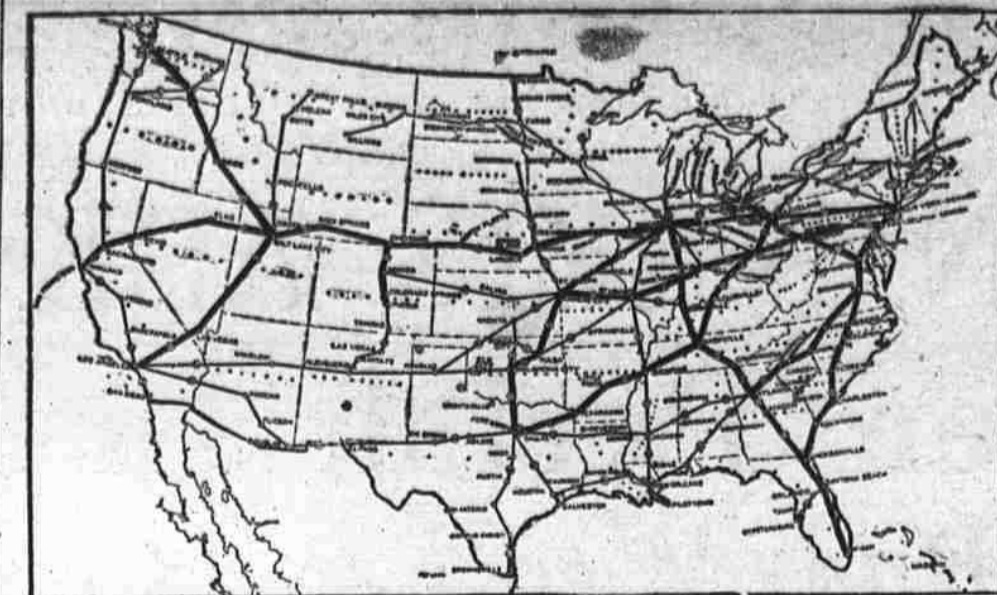

Army planes are built for military purposes and generally do not have cargo facilities like those of the commercial planes which are designed, primarily, to carry as much "payload" as practicable. Most army cargo and observation planes cannot attain the average speed maintained by the multi-motored ships of the "mail service."

Some of the new bombers and pursuit planes, however, are said to be fully as fast as the commercial air lines. Since they will carry no passengers and express, the slowness of the army cargo planes could be offset, it is pointed out, by shortening the time for stops.

Well Equipped Airports

One handicap which the air corps

Uncle Sam Gives The Air Corps A Big Assignment

It's an army game now—flying the airmail in the United States. Commercial companies have been covering the routes shown on this map. After their contracts had been cancelled, Postmaster General Farley announced that, for the time being at least, not all the routes would be flown. The heavy lines indicate the routes first chosen for the army pilots. Service over additional routes, the post office department said, would be restored soon.

is rapidly trying to overcome is the lack of radio facilities which synchronize with the communication and direction services provided for the federal airways by the department of commerce. All frequencies used by the radio-equipped army planes are higher than those employed by airway radio stations and commercial planes.

The army, however, has a staff of expert aeronautical radio men and many pilots who are well versed in handling wireless. Another advantage which the army has now but did not have when it pioneered the air mail service in 1918 is well equipped airports and lighted airways in nearly every part of the country.

Virtually all of the landing fields used by the mail planes are available for the army's carriers since the vast majority are municipally owned airports. Major bases of the air corps also are strategically located for providing planes for the primary air routes.

Bible Study At First Methodist W.M.S. Monday

The First Methodist W.M.S. met at the church Monday afternoon for the first two chapters in the study book, "Christianity and Industry in America," under the direction of Mrs. J. B. Pickle.

Mrs. Keaton gave as the devotional, the first chapter. Mrs. Waters presented the second chapter in a clever poster form, showing the progress of laboring classes from slavery to brotherhood.

Announcement was made of the coming Service Club takeoff to be given by the W.M.S. Friday evening in the church basement.

Present were: Mmes. V. H. Flew-ellen, G. A. Hartman, Fox Stripling, W. A. Miller, M. E. Tatum, S. P. Jones, M. B. Brooks, L. M. Pycatt, J. C. Holmes, Hugh Duncan, B. Settles, O. M. Waters, Cliff Talbot, C. A. Bickley, H. G. Keaton, W. J. Riggs, J. E. Padon, Clyde Thomas, G. H. Wood, Jack Nall and Miss Hildreth.

Fashion Tea Now Being Planned By Women Of St. Mary's Church

The members of St. Mary's Episcopal Auxiliary met at the parish house Monday afternoon and made plans for the Style Show they will give March 9.

Mrs. Faw read an article explaining the organization and purpose of "Daughters of the King." Mrs. Van Gieson outlined the Lenten study subjects.

The next meeting will be a regular program with a book review by Mrs. T. C. Thomas as the leading number.

Present were: Mmes. C. S. Blomshild, S. P. Jones, H. S. Faw, Shine Phillips, George Garrette, V. Van Gieson and John Clarke.

Raleigh Mims And "Pat" Davis Married

The marriage of Miss Patricia ("Pat") Davis and Raleigh Mims, which occurred January 10th at Stanton was announced Monday to their many friends.

They were married at the home of the pastor of the First Methodist Church of Stanton and are living now at 504 Douglas street.

The groom is one of the younger sons of a pioneer railroad family. He was born and reared in Big Spring, finishing high school in 1931. He attended McMurry College in Abilene for one year and finished a course in pharmacy at Danforth Pharmacy in Fort Worth last fall. He has been employed during his schooling years at Cunningham and Phillips and is now connected with the Number One store.

The bride is a member of the well-known Davis musical team, her sister, Mickey, being the other member. She came here with her parents from Cisco about four years ago. She attended school in Simmons University. She has been very popular with the younger set and as a musician has appeared on programs for service clubs and many other local entertainments.

Bluebonnet Chop Suey Supper Is Big Success

The Bluebonnet Class of the First Christian church gave a chop suey supper Monday evening at the church basement which was an unqualified success financially and socially.

They served Chinese dishes in Chinese costumes. Miss Mary Alice Leslie, dressed appropriately for the occasion played Chinese airs on her accordion during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyree Hardy of Sonora, spent the week-end with relatives in Big Spring.

YOU CAN GIVE—NOW

Wednesday you will probably hear a knock at your front door. Boy Scouts of this will be calling for your discarded household articles, bedding, clothing. It is no move by the boys to profit. It is an errand for service.

It is a good turn.

It is an inexpensive means of aiding destitute people.

All of what the scouts collect will be sorted and turned over to relief headquarters to afford relief to persons less fortunate than others.

Almost every home in Big Spring of moderate means has a large amount of old pots, pans, knives, forks, spoons, furniture, rugs, quilts, blankets, sheets, mattresses, slats, bed sissas, springs, hats, shoes, shirts, skirts, blouses, underthings, socks, belts, handkerchiefs, scarfs, and articles too numerous to list here.

They are of no earthly use stacked in the attic, the basement, or the dinky closet. They will never be used again by those to whom they belong.

But if bundled up and placed in the hands of those qualified to know the needs of the community they can become extremely useful.

It will require very little effort on the part of families to gather their old belongings and have them ready for Wednesday when the Scouts call. It will require no expense whatsoever.

It will reduce fire hazards in many homes, give more room, produce a feeling of service and will enable these enthusiastic scouts to feel that they have indeed had a hand in making others happy. Do your part.

MILLION DOLLAR BUBBLES

Samuel Crowthers, writing in the Comopolitan, furnishes food for thought in conclusively proving that no great fortune of the western world, with one or two exceptions, has outlasted 100 years.

Indeed, he throws up convincing arguments that most of them swell like bubbles and burst within, the generation that made them.

Tycoons like Ford, Rockefeller, Mellon possess vast holdings, but even Fords admits, according to the writer, that his entire fortune is a liability unless it is operating at a profit.

There is another class of the financial genius best typified by Ivar Kreuger, the Swedish match king. Hailed as wizards, master minds of commerce, this group of swindlers, par-excellence, is rapidly breaking on the shoals of reality.

Others who amassed fabulous wealth have been reduced to moderate or even destitute circumstances with appalling rapidity within the past five years. The observer tells of one gentleman who endowed a museum worth millions. The same man, gripped by senility, is being supported on a pittance of $10 per week kindly donated by a relative.

The point in all of this is that there has been no means devised whereby a fortune can be retained after it is accumulated. Invariably they disappear as fast or faster than they were made. Man can make much money, but man can not keep that money for long.

If the party who gains millions of dollars is able to keep it intact until his death, he can not take it with him to the grave. If

Heart Disease Is Public Enemy No. 1, Says State Officer

AUSTIN—Public Enemy Number One is Heart Disease according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. This disease kills over 7200 people each year in Texas and the worst part of this is that the number is increasing each year.

While it must be admitted that the deaths attributed to heart ailments are increasing, the fact remains that when a person complains of his heart, organic disease infrequently exists. Organic heart disease causes shortness of breath, swelling of hands and feet and a cough. Usually these signs do not convey to the patient's mind the suggestion that he has heart disease.

So-called functional heart disease is usually traced to these sources, namely, nervousness, infections from another part of the body such as teeth or tonsils, to a disturbed function of the thyroid gland, to influenza and so on; and to the effects of the excessive use of tobacco, coffee or tea.

In cases where there is a disturbed heart action due to local infection the source of which is located, the infective cause when possible is removed, as in the case of diseased tonsils and teeth. The heart, possessing remarkable recuperative ability, once the poisoning agent is definitely eliminated, in time becomes normal once again.

Good professional advice and a strict heeding of it are the only things to worry about either in functional or organic heart disease. It is a well established fact that the great number of those who know they have a heart condition usually die from some other cause.

he leaves it behind to his heirs, it is only a question of time until it vanishes like snow before a burning sun.

There is suggestion for young, ambitious men to ponder over. After all is there any lasting good coming out of a fight for riches? Perhaps those studying the record of those who have gone before will be convinced that much of the talent devoted to amassing personal fortunes could be made entirely more valuable and enduring in the form of service to others.

No Heavy Clothes For Winter Travel, Air Lines Advise

NEW YORK—The wearing of excessive clothing is the most common mistake made by air travelers during the winter months, according to officials of American Airways.

Despite advice to the contrary many people still cling to the idea that plenty of heavy clothing is essential to comfort when traveling by air in the winter, particularly those to whom air travel is a new experience.

Modern heating systems enable the maintenance of room temperatures within the cabin throughout the flight, it was pointed out. Although an advantage to the average passenger, this often results in discomfort to those who insist on too much heavy clothing.

have money. The plan has been in the air for 10 years. Now it goes over.

Regimentation—
Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's warning that America would soon have to choose between an international policy based on lowered tariffs and a tensely nationalistic movement was handwriting on the wall.

He qualified by conceding we probably would strike a "planned middle course" of sorts in the end. But even so, the signpost points a direction down a brand new road for this nation.

Further turns to the left are in prospect under the New Deal. More and more the United States will be guided into regimentation of industry, finance and agriculture under strict government supervision.

Other world nations have shown the way. American traditions ease our evolution into modified state socialism—if such it may be called—in less violent fashion. Make no mistake though that new devices to keep the New Deal running are in the making which would have blocked our ruggedly individualistic forefathers.

Wallace says he inclines instinctively to a bid for international trade. He admits in the same breath the world is so aflame with rabid nationalism that we'd probably lose before we started. Inversely he doesn't see the farmers shouting with glee should they be forced to stop tilling millions of acres and move their homes elsewhere.

These are significant words from a trusted member of the Cabinet.

CWA—
Further complicating the situation is the move to disband Civil Works by May 1. This will dump 4,000,000 back into the breadlines.

Full steam ahead has been ordered for Public Works. Unfortunately its most ardent supporters admit PWA won't reach its peak until June or July—and then it won't be able to hire 4,000,000 workers.

Beginning of warm weather will alleviate the situation some. But it doesn't pay off on Saturdays.

The Brain Trust is sweating with its biggest problem at this precise moment. The solution it produces probably would have been branded unthinkable socialism as recently as 1930. Maybe '31 or '32.

Pershing—
General John J. Pershing left Washington for Arizona again the other day without the publicity that used to attend his movements.

It's a throat ailment and complications that send the World War leader West. He is in his 74th year. Before seeking the sunshine and altitude of Arizona, once more Pershing spent several weeks in Walter Reed hospital here under the watchful eye of the Army's best doctors.

They pointed West for recuperation.

therhoods are now engaged in the old army game.

The threats of the owners to lay on an additional 5 per cent pay cut and the demands of the workers for a 10 per cent increase can be disregarded. As requested by the President they will continue the status quo.

About this time last year the same system was tried by both sides. The operators threatened a 22 1/2 per cent wage slice when they were only going to lop off 10 and the employees countered with a threat of strike.

Don't tear up your railroad tickets. They'll be good.

Notes—
It is assumed here that there is coming a struggle between fascism and communism on the whole European front. . . . An increasing number of public men believe that the United States will move toward a fascist regime—not today, but "tomorrow." . . . As the Army swings into action for airmail service the job gets bigger and bigger and more distasteful. . . . Army planes are not suitable for mail flying. . . . American shipping now carries about 34 per cent of American cargoes as against only 12 per cent a few years ago. . . . Seventy-five per cent of transatlantic travel is of American origin and yet foreign ships gobble up the business. . . . Nearly a whole week was used by the Senate on the MacCracken case. . . . Similar incidents have been used in other sessions to torpedo plans for adjournment early.

NEW YORK

Search—
Senate Investigator Pecora's gumshoe squad is trying a new line of attack. It amounts to a door-to-door canvass of New York brokerage houses with a list of about 50 individuals whose trading activities have stirred the Senate's curiosity. Each firm is asked if it has handled any business for anyone on the list in the past seven years and if so kindly kick in with details.

The list contains several surprising names not hitherto bandied about at Senate hearings. One is a corporation head allegedly on friendly terms with the administration. Another is a prominent member of the Committee for the Nation—a group which has stood well in Washington eyes. A third is identified with a large mid-western corporation never yet mentioned as involved in market manipulation. If the search were successful Pecora could bring more surprises out of his sleeve than a Japanese juggler.

Camouflage—
But it won't get far because no big-time speculator worth his salt does much trading under his own name. His account may be carried by his office boy, his customer's man, a dummy corporation or even as just a number. So a house which may do large business with Mr. Surething Lamb-fleecer can usually deny it with literal truth if queried in the customer's name only.

So far the sleuths are too above board for their own good.

Registration—
A number of large corporations are privately hotter about the Fletcher-Rayburn regulatory bill than is the Stock Exchange itself. They'll have to spend fancy money to comply with Federal Trade Commission registration requirements if it goes through as is and they can't see the point. Some of the big ones estimate the cost of compiling and printing the required statistics at $100,000 or more.

One prominent executive comments: "It must be another employment gag. The Trade Commission would have to hire an Army Corps just to read and file the darn things."

Exchange circles are gleefully fanning the flames of corporate discontent. They believe objections from industrial quarters will carry more weight in getting the bill modified than can their own dramatics.

Margins—
A group of brokers of good repute have forwarded a suggestion for margin legislation to the Fletcher Committee which they hope will be substituted for the 60 per cent proposal. They would prohibit the use of paper profits as margin and thereby check speculative pyramiding.

In the past a man who bought a stock at 40 and saw it go to 80 could use the extra 40 points as margin for further purchases without having to sell his holdings and so ad infinitum in a bull market. When the market nosedives this type of margin—with no cash behind it—speeds the collapse.

Sponsors maintain that the new plan would curb super-optimism by requiring a cash basis at all times and help keep the market healthy without cutting so deeply into volume as 60 per cent would do.

Zest—
Exchange authorities show more than the usual appetite for investigation in the inquiry into the short-selling of aviation stocks before the news of contract cancellation was out. The boys have an idea they can dig up some political names if they go deep enough. For months Wall Street has yearned to pin some red-color speculation on Washington and mouths are watering at the prospect.

Seats—
The recent sale of a New York Curb seat at $40,000—the same price as the last sale before the Fletcher bill was introduced—doesn't give a true picture of inside reactions to regulation. The last Big Board seat to change hands sold for $180,000. The current inside offering price is $120,000 while the highest bid available last week was only $75,000.

These figures are in line with brokers' private anticipations. Most Exchange members are not as opposed to regulation as the Exchange itself tries to make out but they do look forward sadly to restricted profits. Few understand what restoration of national confidence in the exchanges would build in the way of volume.

Copper—
Local experts say the long-awaited copper code is a thing of shreds and patches—a hash of compromises between irreconcilable views. They insist it will prove unworkable and that the government will have to step in and impose terms of its own to enable industry to get anywhere.

Genuine Unusually Spread Of Longhorns To Be Displayed At Opening Of Museum

One of the longest spread of horns from a genuine Texas Longhorn will be on display Thursday at the new museum home where the Museum is thrown open for the first time to the public.

The horns measure approximately seven feet from tip to tip. This spread, says Mrs. H. V. Caylor, who lent the horn collection to the Museum, is not exaggerated as many of them are spread. Many horns are heated to make them stretch out. These horns, however, are mounted on the natural skull.

Those who have seen the late Mr. Caylor's well-known painting, "The Trail Herd," will be interested in knowing that the longest spread of horns comes from the head of the steer leading the herd in that picture.

Also in the Caylor collection are skills of deer, skins of various wild animals, and other pioneer relics.

One show case in the Museum is given over the huge bones unearthed north of town. Monster fossils, such as these, used to be seen only in Museum in the larger cities and today are rare. It is an accident that these were discovered so near town and in such a condition that part of them could be dug out; their size gives one an idea of Texas in a prehistoric age many millions of years past.

A collection of dolls dressed to represent various European queens is a valuable source of reference and will give onlookers ideas for continues that would be hard to find in detail in books.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Martin have presented the Museum a valuable geological collection of various kind of rocks. Each item is classified so that one knows exactly what it is.

The Museum is located in the old City Hall, the entrance being by the north door. The reception will be held from 3 to 9 p. m. Thursday.

To give the Texas public the right product at the right price and with the right kind of service is the clear and simple policy which governs our business. To this end, refinery engineers work constantly in the laboratory, and many services are offered at Humble Stations by men who are carefully selected and trained. But all this counts for nothing unless you, the practical buyer, stamp it "approved!" To please you, we must know what you want. So an open invitation is extended to the public; we ask you to walk in our door at any time and tell us what you want. We invite criticism, we invite suggestions. The door is open.

CHAPTER 26

"I think," said Juan finally "that they will stay there today. At this season, it rains in the late afternoon and sometimes at night. It is more pleasant to be about between the showers. I think these people are all sleeping now."

Graham hesitated to leave his look-out. "If you will climb down to our packs, I will watch for you. There is nothing we could do now, except learn if they take those prisoners elsewhere. Even then we could do nothing and we might be seen here sooner or later. Also, I am hungry."

Graham smiled as he mentioned his title. "I don't know what you mean. Maybe you're right, son. Let's both slide down. I have a hunch we ought to find some safe place not far from here and hold a council of war."

"Not that any place near here would be particularly safe. But it ought to be possible to find a spot where we could keep out of sight, and yet be able to get into the city during the night, or into the jungle for food."

They made a cautious descent, and slipped toward the trail they had left so precipitously that morning. Beside which they had cached their packs.

Juan was in the lead, a trail-position that Graham usually accorded him, since he had found that the boy had a canny instinct in sensing trail-danger, before he, Graham, could ever possibly be aware of it.

They reached the tangle of fallen scrub palmetto where they had left their packs. Graham heard Juan's low murmur of astonishment and hurried forward. Unconscious of the action, the American's fingers closed over the butt of his automatic.

Juan stood staring thoughtfully at the place where they had left their packs. There was no doubt that this had been the spot; the grass and palm leaves still showed indentations where the weighty packs had been; but the packs, with their hammocks, their extra clothing and ammunition, with their first-aid kits and emergency rations, were gone!

At this instant of discovery Juan did a thing which proved that jungle-wisdom is instinctive. He leaped backward toward Graham. The American, muscles reacting to the suddenness of the boy's movement, crouched.

From a screen of bush behind the spot where their packs had been, the naked torso of a man appeared, Gordon in the sunlight. He held in his hands a rifle. In a camera-shut-ter glimpse, Graham saw that the butt of the gun was almost to his shoulder.

The American fired from under his arm, the muzzle of his pistol barely free of the holster. With the report of the shot, the man slipped through the bush onto his face. The rifle, falling from his limp hands, clattered against a stone.

face. The rifle, falling from his limp hands, clattered against a stone.

Ambush! Graham saw Juan's arm crook backward and, then snap forward like a spring released from compression. A silver streak sped from his hand and into the bush to the left. There was a thud, — the unmistakable sound of a knife slipping into the flesh and a short, throaty "Ah-h."

Two rifles cracked. Graham felt a tug at his collar where his shirt flared away from his neck; then the sound of a bullet crackling through underbrush. He fired quickly, right and left, at the faint wreaths of smoke curling upward. He heard a cry.

From the corner of his eye he saw Juan weaving backward, half crouched. He followed. Two eccentric leaps brought them to cover. Once again a rifle cracked. The bullet whined harmlessly overhead.

The action had taken only a few seconds. Stealthily they slipped into the jungle. Behind them they heard a shot or two and the sound of many voices raised in shouted question and answer. They ran now more openly, careless of the noise they made. Frank knew that distance between them and their pursuers counted vitally.

A half-mile from the scene of the ambush, they paused. "Where now?" asked Graham, breathing deeply. Juan shrugged his shoulders. "If our legs are better than theirs — which I doubt — we might make the coast ahead of them."

"There's a chance," mused Graham. "They would travel more slowly, fearing ambush. You could never hope to hide your trail. It is worth the chance. We part here, Juan. You've been a good boy. Head for the coast the best way you can, and may luck be with you! He held forth his hand.

"And you, Senor?" "While you go east, I will head south, for a while. Later I will confuse my trail, if I can and return here. They will follow me, which will give you the better chance."

"No," said Juan. "Yes," corrected Graham. "This is an order. I have a plan. There is a white woman held captive in the big pyramid. I must see that she escapes, or —"

"I know," interrupted Juan soberly. "The senor is not Catholic!" Puzzled, Graham shook his head; whereupon Juan said: "Well, that is doubtless a very good thing. It will not matter so much if you die unshriven."

Despite his concern the American chuckled. "Beat it now son. We've talked quite long enough. Goodbye and again, good luck."

"Adios," answered Juan with a secretive smile. He turned, pressed the American's hand and then passed into the jungle to the eastward.

To Graham, slipping southward, the main sheets etched abutments a half hour later, came the thought that as Juan had left him, he boy had seemed to be most careless about the trail he left.

So Juan was giving him, Graham, a break, just as he had intended giving one to Juan. The American shook his head. A good lad, Juan. What a pity if he could not make the coast, and safety.

He noticed, to the right of him a barren rocky expanse, dotted only with spiny steel and scrub cactus. He entered it and carefully picked his way between the vegetation, being sure that his boots touched only stone.

He hoped those following him would be careless and conclude that he was bearing south. Halfway through the rocky field, he worked to the right, finally making almost a complete turn, so that he headed northwest, toward the habitation of his enemies.

In the late afternoon the sun clouded over and Graham watched the big iguana lizards slide from the rocks and disappear into their dens. He took a lesson from these reptiles and kept an eye out for shelter.

A few minutes later he found it in a heap of jungle-grown snags, — another ruin. He entered an opening and composed himself to wait until the afternoon downpour was over. Already he saw large drops splashing over his back-trail.

The shower was a stroke of luck. If he were not followed too closely, the rain would obliterate any sign he may have left.

The day became dark. Lightning flickered, and thunder crashed above; whereupon rain descended in torrents. The sheets of falling water obscured his view past the entrance. Then, suddenly as it began, the down-pour lessened, and again his sight of the outside jungle was clear.

The rain diminished to a mist and stopped entirely. Graham arose to his feet and drawing his pistol from its holster under his arm, was about to dismount it for cleaning, while there remained light enough to do so, when he froze into immobility.

A shadow drifted past, coming from the south. Another went by. Slowly Graham bent into the gloom cast by the wall beside the opening. His trapper! He counted them as they faded across the opening. Eleven. Enough, thought the American, to settle his account. He wondered at the skill that kept them on his trail. The rain had been his salvation. He heard a guttural voice speak in an unknown language, and the reply flung back from ahead. This puzzled the American, as he felt that they would not be so careless of sound if they believed that their quarry was ahead. Or perhaps they had given up the chase and were returning. That was it. They had lost his trail within the stone patch, and were returning from the southward to their city. Perhaps it was only a section of a larger party that had spread in different directions. Texas Woman Rates High As Ivory Hunter

CHICAGO, (AP)—No doubt there are other women baseball scouts, but the White Sox will pit the record of their southwest operative against all challengers for the women's ivory-hunting championship.

Mrs. Roy Largent of McKinney, Tex., has been teasing her womanly intuition into the breach backstop recommendations of bush leaguers by her husband for nine years, and their combined efforts have produced a better than average percentage of nominees who have clocked.

In the years since 1925 she has missed only one trip and has accumulated a mileage of 250,000 in quest of big league prospects.

Found Reynolds By Accident She and her husband have "sent up", among others, such stars as Carl Reynolds, Alex Metzler, Randy Moore, Bruce Campbell, Art Shires, Smead Jolley, Vic Frazer, Irvin Jeffries, Luke Appling, Zeke Bonura, George Blackerby and George Cox.

Reynolds, one of her proudest catches, was uncovered rather by accident at Southwestern college, Georgetown, Tex., whither the Largents had gone to look over a so-called pitching prospect. They left the pitcher to the other ivory hunters and signed up Carl, who became a big league regular after but one year of seasoning.

Shires Was Hard To Catch Shires gave the Largents their biggest worry, naturally enough. They had to make a frenzied 1,500 mile trip via four railroads, an airplane and several autos before catching him and persuading him not to demand part of his sales price.

In her pursuit of diamond talent Mrs. Largent became coholder with her husband of what may be a record—four "big" games in one day. One day last summer they watched a college game at Fort Worth in the early afternoon, stayed through the regular afternoon league game, then drove to Dallas to take in a night league double-header.

Largent was official scorer of the old Oklahoma-Texas league when Rogers Hornsby was getting his start at Denison, Tex.

Jean Jackson Wins Declamation Contest Among Baptist GA's The Baptist Stewardship Declamation contest for the district was held at the First Baptist Church Saturday afternoon with a special program and children from all over the district attending.

Mrs. B. Reagan, district president, gave the speech of welcome. Mrs. J. A. Woodson of Snyder gave the devotional. Mrs. R. E. Townsend of Lamesa, young people's leader for the district had charge of the program.

On the judges committee were three women who were not members of the denomination, Meses. C. W. Cunningham, W. J. McAdams and Fox Stripling.

For the Sunbeams, Katie Lee Randall of Lamesa, won the first place. Other entrants were Mari-belle Weatherby of Snyder and Annie Eleanor Douglass of Big Spring.

For the Junior G.A.'s, Jean Jackson of Big Spring won first place. Her competitor was Elmira Barron of Lamesa.

For Junior R. A.'s, Jack Smith of Colorado won first. His competitor was Charles Jacobs of Lamesa.

In the other classes only one entered in each. They were Gordon Sentell of Snyder for the Intermediate R.A.'s, Myra Fisher of Sparenberg for the Intermediate G.A.'s and Lola Mae Littlepage of Snyder for the Y.W.A.'s.

Miss Littlepage will go to the state meet in the spring to compete in the state declamation contest. Only the Y.W.A.'s go beyond their district.

Married Sunday

MISS MAXINE THOMAS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Thomas of this city, Sunday afternoon became the bride of Robert Reigel, of Big Spring, in a quiet ceremony performed at the residence of Rev. Wright, pastor of the Colorado Methodist church.

The newly carried couple are making their home at 902 Gregg street, Big Spring.

Miss Thomas, Robt. Reigel Wed Sunday

Local Couple United In Ceremony At Colorado Sunday Afternoon Miss Maxine Thomas and Robert Reigel were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at Colorado at the home of Rev. Wright, pastor of the Methodist Church of that city.

Accompanying them and acting as attendants at the wedding were Miss Lennah Rose Black, a close friend of the bride, and Paul Rix, a friend of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Thomas. She was born and reared in Big Spring and has been very popular in social circles here. She was graduated from the local high school in 1930 and attended C.I.A. at Denton and McMurry College at Abilene.

For the past year and a half she has been employed as bookkeeper at Harry Lester's toy supply Co.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Jennie Reigel, who has made her home in Big Spring for the last five years. He was born in Tacoma, Washington, and was graduated from the Manual Arts High School at Los Angeles, Calif. He attended Texas Technological College at Lubbock and finished the advance course given by Abel's School of Dance in Houston. He was also an instructor in Abel's School of Dance.

For the past two years he has given instruction in dancing in Big Spring and has now a large and successful class in the city. He teaches also in Colorado and Fort-san.

Mr. and Mrs. Reigel are making their home at 902 Gregg street.

Mrs. Bruce Frazier Will Present Piano Pupils

Mrs. Bruce Frazier will present her younger students in pianoforte in a recital Thursday evening at the First Baptist Church at 7:45. The students will play selections that they will play later in the National Piano tournament sponsored by Prof. Irl Allison of Simmons University.

There are 21 students and the program will not be long. The numbers will be published later in the week. The public is invited.

The burlesque will be held Friday evening in the church basement, with admission of ten cents being charged for every person—child or adult. The program will be given on the stage. A plate will be served. The women will be dressed like the men, put on a service club program and take off the men in talks.

Kansas City Life Breaks Record In Selling Insurance

A celebration of the twelfth anniversary of the arrival of O. Sam Cummings in Texas and his entry into the life insurance business February 1, 1922, the O. Sam Cummings Agency staged a special drive for business during January, 1934, which accounted for $3,158,900 of business. This was the largest January in the 29 years' history of the Agency, and the largest single month of production since 1934.

The business written in January and received in the Agency on February 1, the actual anniversary date, amounted to $669,600, the largest single day's business in ten years.

Twelve years ago Mr. Cummings entered the life insurance business from the International Secretaryship of Kiwanis, in the position of assistant manager of the Orville Thorp Agency, Texas General Agents for Kansas City Life. A year afterward Mr. Cummings became a partner of the late Orville Thorp and was later assistant superintendent of agencies for the company at the home office. Upon Mr. Thorp's death in 1928 Mr. Cummings returned to Texas from Kansas City to become Mr. Thorp's successor. In the 5 years and 7 months of his management the Texas Agency of Kansas City Life has produced $70,550,000 of business.

Mr. Cummings has just completed terms of office as president of the Texas State Association of Life Underwriters, and president of the Life Insurance Managers Club of Dallas. At the recent convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters he was elected fourth vice-president of the national association, and re-elected a director of the American College of Life Underwriters.

Kansas City Life celebrates this year the twenty-ninth anniversary of its service to Texas citizens, the Texas agency for the company having been founded in 1905 by the late Orville Thorp. The agency today, as it has been for many years, is the largest life insurance agency in Texas and the entire South.

The annual statement of the company, just released, shows that total assets amount to $72,651,922.86; a gain of $12,661,736.98 in the four depression years. Surplus assets have increased $3,433,820.28 during

Aged Vincent Man Succumbs To Pneumonia

William Matthis, 74, Is Victim Of Epidemic

Striking twice within a distance of a few miles and the space of a few hours, pneumonia Tuesday 5:30 a. m. proved fatal to William Matthis, 74, who came to this country as a young man from Germany.

Only hours before, J. H. Lawson, 76, died from the same disease. He was living with a daughter in the same neighborhood with Matthis. Matthis came to America from Germany in 1883 and settled in Texas. He was married to Louise Stroyer 49 years ago and they moved to Howard county in 1905.

In 1917 Mrs. Matthis became ill with the depression to the total of $9,475,244.26. These surplus assets constitute a safety reserve amounting to 13.18% of the total assets—an unusually high proportion for any legal reserve life insurance company. These surplus assets are in addition to the legal reserve of $61,310,401.00.

From the beginning of the company, Kansas City Life has voluntarily operated under the deposit law of the State of Missouri, every policy the company ever having written being secured by a pledge of securities deposited with the state, thus supplementing the protection of experienced and competent management which served the policyholders continuously for thirty years.

The Texas agency of the company owns and occupies its own office building, being one of the very few, if not the only agency in the United States to own its own headquarters office. The Texas agency is a Texas institution, employing over four hundred persons in office and field work throughout the state.

Soon after her death Mr. Matthis returned to this county and has been living with his daughter, Mrs. Annie Meeker for the past two years.

Mr. Matthis leaves six sons, Willie Matthis of Spur, Louis Matthis, northwest of Big Spring, Charles, Alfred, and Otto of Fort Worth, and Albert of Rotan.

Five daughters survive: Mrs. Annie Heeler, Vincent; Mrs. Jessie Markley, Perry, Oklahoma; Mrs. Louise McNew, Lamesa; Mrs. Emma McNew, north of Big Spring, and Mrs. Lillie Henderson, northeast of Big Spring.

One sister, Mrs. Louise Price of Saint Charles, Missouri, survives. He leaves 18 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren.

American League Race Promises Some Heated Wide Open Battles

Purchasing And Trading In Baseball Strengthens Many Clubs

With the acquisition of Mickey Cochrane, the purchasing and trading of Comisky, and the monied deals of the Boston Red Sox, the American League race promises to be a wide open fight this year with all clubs participating in the melee.

With the seasoning they had last year and a manager who should know how to handle pitchers, the Cleveland Indians rank first on the mound. Their pitching will naturally be the center of interest in Cleveland.

With the cockiness taken out of the New York Yankees, they should settle down and become real contenders for the flag. They were also strengthened by adding several promising pitchers and boosting their infield with "Red" Wolfe, Newark fencebuster, Don Hefner, a .290 hitter and a promising second baseman.

The Washington Senators will again prove a tough nut to crack but each will be gunning for the champions and it will be difficult for them to repeat. It is yet to prove whether they got the best end of the deal when they traded

TOOK PILLS FOR 30 YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF

Mr. Forsythe Endorses ALL-BRAN for Constipation

If you suffer from headaches, loss of appetite and energy or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read this voluntary letter: "After taking pills and tablets for about thirty years for constipation, I started to take your ALL-BRAN three times a day according to directions. Today I can eat cheese, and that is binding, and certainly feel fine."

Sciences says ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using patent medicines—so often habit-forming? Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. In serious cases use with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"Goose" Goalin for Johnathon Stone.

Although he sold most of his stars, Connie may pull a surprise for he can always be counted on to fight and he has torn up his ball club before and rebuilt it. Too, there are several promising players in his ranks including Frank Higgins, who didn't do so bad last year.

Cochrane To Take Mound The Detroit Tigers are expected to snap out of it this year and put forth a good club, mainly because of the ability of Mickey Cochrane to handle their pitchers. With his steadiness on the field and several of the players recovering from old injuries, the Tigers will not be a setup for any team.

The Boston Red Sox should be ready to climb this season because of the purchasing of the league's best pitcher and wise trading on their manager's part. With these factors they may prove to be the class of the league before the season ends.

Brownies Threat Rogers Hornsby and his Brownies will be watched to see if they can pull out of last place where they finished when the season faded last year. With Hornsby's drive, they may go somewhere other than the cellar this season.

The Chicago Pale Hose should prove to be a dangerous foe this year especially in their home stamping grounds because they have remodeled their park to suit their sluggers. George Earnshaw should hit the comeback trail and help the strengthened pitching staff.

All in all, the race should be the best in years because all clubs will make a determined run for the flag, whereas in former years only two or three teams fought it out among themselves. This factor, too, will help out the attendance.

Barring possibility that they have worn each other a bit thinner in their gallop across country and back, Big Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Vines figure to regain some tennis prestige for the U. S. A. when they take on the French pair, Henri Cochet and Martin Piau, in a series of international professional tennis matches.

Tilden will take special delight in battering Cochet around on the indoor courts, where the American veteran will have the advantage of greater experience and more competition under his belt in preparation for the renewal of rivalry.

Vines isn't old enough yet to appreciate how many headaches this little, sharpshooting Frenchman caused our Bill and the United States Lawn Tennis association. Until Tilden scored a decision in their first pro meeting in Paris last year, Bill had not beaten Cochet since the Davis cup matches of 1927 at Germantown, Pa.

That was the year the U.S.A. lost the famous trophy to France, Lacoste trimming Tilden and Cochet beating Little Bill Johnston in the final two singles matches after Tilden's superb stand had given the Americans a 2-1 lead. Thereafter, Cochet was several kinds of poison to every combination the U. S. A. sent over to challenge for the cup.

TRADE WORRIES FOR PROFITS

Of course they are all jolly good fellows together now, these tennis professionals; all under contract with Tilden Tours, Inc. for the financial and artistic benefit of all concerned. It is a pleasant arrangement, with profits taking the place of high-pressure worries of their amateur days, but there seems no doubt the competitive rivalries remain—not entirely for the sake of the old ballyhoo, either.

I have no doubt, for instance, that Tilden is personally just as eager now to take Cochet's measure as he was during their days of Davis cup rivalry. Big Bill may not quite work himself up to the high nervous tension of amateur days, nor worry unduly about the outcome, win or lose, but the urge to prove he is still the "old master" remains strong.

Tilden, in short, will be "leveling" every time he steps on the court opposite M. Cochet. Indoors, he should have the edge over the Frenchman, and he will make the most of his advantage. Cochet is the younger of the two but his game showed signs of slipping fast last season, whereas Tilden has taken on a new lease in his tennis life. It is possible Henri will find some stimulation during his American tour and do something again for the honor of La Belle France but I doubt his ability now to check either of the American professional aces.

SEE $50,000 FOR VINES The success of the Tilden-Vines combination is such that the young Californian's hopes of cashing in this year to the tune of around $50,000 now seem quite likely to be realized.

The gate receipts for their cross-country tour have run close to $110,000 and the team matches with the French should add another $50,000 or $75,000 to the "pot." There are a number of "cuts" to be taken in the distribution of profits but the showing so far represents the best since C. C. Pyle introduced pro tennis in 1927 with Suzanne Lenglen as the star.

A good idea of what the contrast—or comparison, if you will—in physical specimens will be when Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran climb into the ring at Miami Beach February 28 may be gained from study of their training stances and respective measurements. The experts have been trying to figure out, in advance, just how much cleverer the Philadelphia challenger will have to be to offset the Italian's advantage in bulk. At the present time the odds are about 5 to 1 in favor of Primo.

Table with physical stats for Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran: Age, Weight, Height, Reach, Neck, Chest, Waist, Thigh, Calf, Ankle, Biceps, Forearm.

On Wednesday night the Simmons Cowboys will play the Texas College of Mines cagers in the new gymnasium at Roscoe. It will be the first college basketball game to be staged in Nolan county.

At the present time Obie Bristow isn't very enthusiastic over his track team. He reported a whole slough of boys working out each evening, but none very good. Practice is being held near Washington Place.

Obie expects a large number to report for spring football drills tomorrow.

Basketball suits were stored away for the season Monday afternoon. Coach Brown said he would probably announce the lettermen within a few days. He intimated there wouldn't be many to earn the awards.

No all-tournament team was selected for the sectional basketball tournament held in Colorado last week. Neither was one selected in the Howard county tournament. Several have asked why. We don't know.

If the Tri-county baseball league is re-organized this year, it should provide some mighty interesting games. Several teams that played the loop last year have recruited some good players. Big Spring should have a well balanced team.

MINNEAPOLIS MILK MEN BEGIN TO BATTLE BEER

The milk companies of Minneapolis are studying the beer situation, says the Christian Science Monitor, with a view to finding the best method of meeting the competition that has arisen. Whereas in the past the milk companies had a thriving business from the noonday sale of pint bottles of milk to crews of laborers, many of these are now shifting their trade to the drug stores and groceries which are supplying them with beer. Since the advent of beer some milk companies are reporting a marked decrease of sales, and the bakeries likewise have noted a drop in the demand for sweet goods of various kinds.

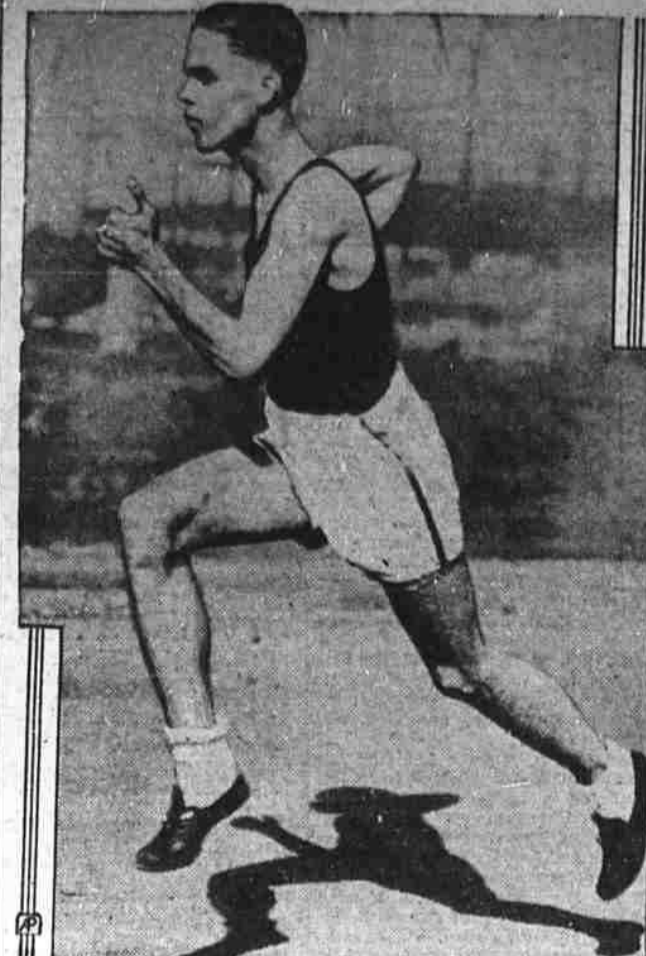

NO BARMAIDS ALLOWED IN HAIFA

One of the results of the public sentiment created by the work of Miss Mary Campbell, World's W.C.T.U. organizer for Palestine and Syria, has been that the employment of barmaids has been forbidden in the city of Haifa. It is said that the action prohibiting young women from selling drinks at the bars of Haifa will reduce the sale of its 190 licensed places. Miss Campbell has recently had the pleasure of entertaining Dr. Maude Allen and Miss Helen Maya Das of the India W.C.T.U., who were most helpful in their inspirational talks to the people of Jerusalem. Quarter-Miler Set Faster Pace In Class Room

JIMMY LUVALLE

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN (Associated Press Sports Writer) LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jimmy LuValle, University of California at Los Angeles quarter-miler who won the I.C.A.A.A. 400-meter championship last spring, running the third fastest time—46.9 seconds—in the history of track athletics, is setting a fast scholastic pace these days.

The fleet Bruin runner boasts a grade average of 2.576 for his first two years of college work. A mark of 3.00 is given for perfection in studies. And LuValle isn't satisfied. He believes he will boost his average to 2.60 this year on a diet of chemistry, physics, mathematics, German and English.

Plans Career As Chemist When LuValle is graduated in 1935 he plans to enroll in California Institute of Technology for a post graduate course leading to a Ph.D. in chemistry. If LuValle's average is 2.60 at the end of the 1933-34 term he will be eligible for Phi Beta Kappa honors. Otherwise, if he keeps above a 2.2 average through four years he will be awarded the scholarship key at the end of his senior year.

Going After Carr's Record Coach Harry Trotter predicts LuValle will boost his 400-meter mark even above his scholastic standing either this season or next by surpassing Bill Carr's astonishing mark of 46.2 seconds.

The Bruin speedster will get his chance here next June when he competes in the National Intercollegiate Association meet. He hopes to find Glenn Hardin of Louisiana State among his competitors then. While LuValle won the I.C. 4-A championship, he was unable to compete in the N.C.A.A. meet at Chicago because it interfered with final examinations. Hardin won the 400 meter event there, so LuValle is anxious to meet him.

T. F. Shepley In Race For District Clerk Howard Co.

T. F. Shepley, who came to this country in 1905 and served as a conductor for the Texas and Pacific Railway company many years, Tuesday became a candidate for the office of District Clerk.

Mr. Shepley announced his candidacy subject to action of the democratic primaries. Returning to Big Spring in 1928, Mr. Shepley has been connected with the Couden Refinery for the past five years.

He was in the United States army and was ordered to Cuba during the Spanish American war. However, the Battle of San Juan hill was won before his company departed and the order was countermanded.

"I will try to see all of the voters between now and the primary," he said. "Should I not get to see them, I wish to solicit their support. It will be my aim to run my opponent the best race I know how."

"Should the voters elevate me to the office of district clerk, I pledge myself to faithfully discharge the duties of that post."

Kerry King's Band To Play At Club De Patee Wednesday

Manager W. R. King, of the Club De Patee, announces an outstanding evening of entertainment for dance lovers in West Texas Wednesday, Feb. 21st. He has obtained Kerry King and his 14-piece orchestra as well as one of the best floor shows ever presented in Big Spring for that night.

The orchestra is very unusual inasmuch as each member of the band plays from two to five different instruments during the evening. Many new and amusing skits are presented during the dance. They also offer the music of an accordion trio and a violin sextette.

In addition to the several acts of floor show, Miss Evelyn Nations,
