MATADOR, MOTLEY COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1958

PRICE SEVEN CENTS

Texas Democrats Remain in Control

Voters 'Snow Under' Legislator's Bid to Increase Pay, Hold Continuous Sessions

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION is still tantamount to election in Motley County and in Texas. In Tuesday's general election less than half of the county's qualified voters managed to get to the polls but the same ratio was general in most of the state.

Total vote in the county was 470 out of a possible 1100. Roy Whittenburg, Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, polled only 51 votes as compared to the Democratic nominee, Ralph Yarborough's 374 (Bill Blakley got one write-in vote while 44 voters failed to signify anyone in that race).

John White To Present 4-H Awards

Commissioner of Agriculture John White will assist Matador and Roaring Springs businessmen and others of the county, in presenting 77 awards to 4-H boys and girls here Tuesday night, November 18, at the annual Awards Banquet to be held in the Legion building.

The announcement was made Tuesday by County Agent Bill Palmeyer at the Lions luncheon. He said the banquet will also be Ladies Night for both the Matador and Roaring Springs Clubs, joint sponsors of the affair with the Upper Pease Soil Conservation Service and County 4-H clubs.

Committees were appointed by the Lions to aid in making arrangements for the banquet. It is expected that the Legion building will be taxed to the limit of its capacity since parents of the 4-H members will be special guests.

In addition to Commissioner of Agriculture White, other distinguished visitors who will attend include Senator Andy Rogers and State Representative Will Ehrle, both of Childress. "Cotton John" of Amarillo radio station fame will also attend.

Commissioner White will make the principal address for the occasion, in addition to making the awards presentations.

LUBBOCK OFFICER TO MAKE ADDRESS
Major J. D. Beard of the Lubbock U. S. Army reserve instructor's office will make the principal address here Tuesday (November 11) in the joint observance scheduled by the American Legion and VFW. The program will be held at the VFW building and starts at 6 p. m.

An appropriate program has been arranged, Commander Leon Smallwood of the VFW declared. Coffee and donuts will be served. First State bank here has announced that it will close in observance of the holiday. Other places of business will probably close. Bank customers are requested to transact business in advance in order to avoid possible inconvenience.

The public is cordially invited to attend the program at the VFW building Tuesday evening.

GINNING REPORT
Cotton ginned in Motley County from the crop of 1958 as of Wednesday afternoon was 8,321 bales as compared with 7,117 bales a week ago.

By communities the ginning was as follows: Flomot 4,221; Roaring Springs 2,901; Matador 904 and Whiteflat 292.

RECENT PATIENT
Mrs. H. S. Watson was dismissed Monday from Traweck Hospital, where she had been a recent patient.

New Authority North of Tom Ball Creek

FLOMOT HAS A WOMAN Justice of the Peace. Mrs. Tom Spears (who did not know her name was on the ballot) was elected to the office of Justice of the Peace (JP precinct 5) with a total of 86 votes out of a possible 88 in the Flomot and Whiteflat Commissioner Precinct 4 boxes. In Flomot 56 of the 57 votes cast were for Mrs. Spears. In Whiteflat 31 of the 30 votes cast went to her.

The County Democratic Executive Committee certified Mrs. Spears' name on the general election ballot after two write-in votes had been polled for her in the Democratic primary. Mrs. Spears, who works around the clock with her husband in the operation of Spears gin in Flomot, did not go to the polls Tuesday and did not know her name was on the ballot. She told the Tribune yesterday she would consider qualifying for the office.

Druggist Awaits Major Operation

Alarm spread over Matador Thursday afternoon when word was received from Lubbock that Bob Stanley, owner of Stanley's Pharmacy and one of the community's leading businessmen will require major surgery. He had been accompanied to the Methodist hospital in Lubbock earlier by his brother, Dr. J. S. Stanley, and joined later by his wife and sons, James, and Fred Stanley who is on emergency leave from Fitzsimmons Army Hospital in Denver.

In a requester report on a fellow member's condition, Lion Dr. Stanley Tuesday told members of the Lions that "his condition is as good as can be expected."

"An exploratory operation was performed Saturday and major surgery is indicated next week," Dr. Stanley said.

Relatives of Mrs. Bob Stanley have arrived from Moore, to assist the family. They are her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fargason and son Ray, and her mother, Mrs. F. M. Conover.

BULLETIN
Editor Douglas Meador talked with patient Stanley from bedside telephone at 7 p. m. last night. His voice sounded normal and he said he was feeling better than any previous day since he had been in Lubbock.

Football Players Guests Of Lions

ENTIRE SQUAD of the Matador Matadors shared a meal of baked turkey Tuesday with the Lions Club at the regular luncheon held in the Methodist Church basement.

Coaches Clifford Bradshaw and Charlie Johnson "scattered" members of the Matadors squad among the Lions so that Lions would get to know the boys better and the boys would become better acquainted with the Lions.

Methodist ladies serving the luncheon prepared great platters of baked turkey and dressing, and bowls of giblet gravy for the hungry boys and Lions. Other items on the menu included mashed potatoes, green beans, cranberry salad and home-made pie.

Members of the football squad were introduced following the meal. The program was a film of the Matadors in action early this season against the Idalou Wildcats. Lion Forrest Campbell served as program sponsor.

In the absence of Boss Lion Curtis Graham, Lion Ben Edwards served as chairman and Lion Bill Seale served as Tailor in the absence of Lion Ralph Stapleton.

Reports of the Lions directors breakfast Monday morning included approval of advance to $125 per meal for luncheons. Secretary Jack Norman said the Lions had netted $112 from the recent light blue sale.

Lion Edwards announced that the Lions would conduct a broom and mop sale Nov. 22 with the aid of the Lions Club.

Mrs. David Campbell Named F.H.A. Clerk
Walter T. McKay, State F.H.A. director of Dallas, has announced the appointment of Mrs. David Campbell, Floydada as Assistant County Office Clerk for Emergency Loans in the Farmers Home Administration office.

Mrs. Campbell, the former Dorothy Wason, is a native of Matador. Since graduation from high school, she has worked as Chief Clerk for Motley County Agricultural Conservation Association and as secretary in the County Agent's office here.

Since 1956 she has been employed as Substitute Clerk for the U. S. post office, Roaring Springs, where Mr. and Mrs. Campbell formerly resided.

Delbert I. Kassahn, F. H. A. County Supervisor released the announcement this week from his office in Floydada where Mrs. Campbell assumed her duties Monday.

SISTERS TO VISIT
In Texas for a visit are two sisters, former Motley County residents Miss Ada Shands and Mrs. Elbert Fuller, of Modesto, Calif., who flew to Amarillo, Calif. to meet them Monday. Relatives went there and accompanied them to Lockney where they visited a sister, Mrs. M. P. Fulkerson. They will also visit here with another sister, Mrs. H. S. Watson, home Sunday.

Plans Complete for Homecoming

INTEREST in annual Matador homecoming indicates that attendance next week may exceed former years, officers of the ex-student, teachers organization declared. Most of the plans have been completed, with the program and arrangements following the course of previous meetings.

Registration will start at 9 a. m. in the high school building lobby with coffee and donuts served conveniently in the homecoming room.

The morning will be devoted to visiting and class reunions. In the afternoon a business meeting in the school auditorium will be followed by a homecoming program and high school pep rally.

Speaker for the occasion will be "Prof" Vernon Doss of Fredericksburg, former Matador Grade School principal, who has confirmed his attendance at homecoming.

Supper will be served in the Legion building for visiting exes immediately preceding the Turkey Matador football game at Burleson Field.

During the football game at halftime intermission, Matador Matadors will crown the 1958 football sweetheart. Following the game a social for exes will be held in the Legion building.

Officers met Sunday to confirm committee appointments and further arrangements for the homecoming. As in former years, it is believed that ample supply of home-prepared foods will be brought to the Legion building to serve exes and visitors. All food will be furnished by local residents and other ex-students still living elsewhere in the county.

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Nothing else cures a chronic case of self esteem as rapidly as falling hair.

Cowboys used to drink from the bitter spring where a little blade of cold water had cut a trench in the white gypsum rock. Wild cattle licked at the crystal water before it sank in a sandy marsh and coyotes paused there in their hurried reconnaissances.

The cowtrails are now trenches in the prairie grass, and the silt of years has buried the spring, a smelly bog that oozes a rainbow film. Farther up the hill a small engine labors to lift each load of oil destined to appease the insuperable thirst of progress.

The barrel stove school of child psychology may have stunted the character of boys but it impressed their minds with flashing semaphores of punishment attached to insubordination.

Birth and death and love frequently share the same dingy mail sack tossed from a train or stacked into a truck. Soiled, faded and ragged, the canvas sack is a faithful messenger of destiny and never betrays the uncounted secrets it regularly conveys. Its service includes protection from ice and snow, or the blazing heat of the desert. Its work is through sunlight and darkness, lonely railway stations or busy terminals as a drop in mighty rivers of messages. The heart-beat and the soul of a nation move through the flume of canvas.

Sometimes when I hear jet planes thundering among the stars I wonder if the sound could be the flutes of doom, or merely harps becoming better acquainted with the music of man's march to a more sublime destiny.

Shoes are too expensive to deliver to every man the amount of kicking he deserves.

Legion Auxiliary Will Sell Poppies

American Legion Auxiliary members will sell memorial poppies over the county, Saturday, it was announced last week by Mrs. D. P. Keith, president. They will be on sale in Roaring Springs, Flomot, Northfield, Whiteflat and Matador.

The poppies are made by hand, by disabled veterans in hospitals and poppy workrooms in forty states, and proceeds from the sales are used to aid the needy veterans and their families.

Saturday preceding Veteran's Day (Nov. 11) has been designated nationally for the sale of the poppies, and every community in Motley County will participate.

NOTICE OF DISHES LEFT AT CHURCH
Many dishes have been left in the kitchen at the First Baptist Church, which are unclaimed, and owners are requested to call for them before they become misplaced.

Presumably the dishes were brought to the church when families were fed at bereavement. It is assumed that they belong to persons other than members of the Baptist church, since the membership has been previously notified.

The American Legion was the first national organization to adopt the poppy as its Memorial Flower, having taken this action at the National Convention in Cleveland, Sept. 27-29, 1920.

Home Demonstration Agent

Mrs. Forrest Campbell gave two demonstrations on dried arrangements last week to home demonstration clubs. The information she gave was most informative and the arrangements which she made were very attractive. One of the methods for preserving leaves and stems which she gave follows:

Glycerizing Method for leaves: Two parts water, 1 part glycerine. Wash and from material that is to be used, pound the ends up about 2 inches on stem, then place in jar that holds the glycerine mixture and leave about 2 or 3 weeks. The jar should be about 3 to 5 inches deep with the glycerine solution. In Magnolia or sour dock one has to work the glycerine up and into the leaf with the fingers. This solution may be used over again. Be sure to drain the sediment out of it each time it is used.

Mrs. Campbell's demonstrations were enjoyed by everyone and as Mrs. Bob Martin said, "Arranging flowers is one way of expressing our personality."

Use small juice cans, with both ends removed, for cookie cutters. Before lifting the cutter from cookie dough, sprinkle sugar, nuts or candies into the top of the can to avoid waste and spills.

To reinforce material under a button, make a buttonhole where the button is to be sewed, using the smallest size machine plate. Do not cut. Sew button over stitching.

pression service was the mantel, decorated across the top with streamers of carnations in shaded pink. Centering the mantel and reflected in a wall mirror, was a pyramid arrangement of the flowers, graduating from pastel to darker tones of pink termed "Better Times." On either side was a sconce holding a pink taper.

Similar floral pieces were used elsewhere in the room and at the bride's table, which was laid with a cloth of pink taffeta beneath a cover of pink net. Ribbon streamers bore the names of the couple, "Charlotte and Charles" and the date of their marriage, September 6, lettered in silver.

A three tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bridal couple, was served with punch by Miss Peggy Welling and Mrs. Richard Hamilton, the former Patti Craven.

Fine Print on Policy is Important

Motorists Pay Huge Annual Insurance Bill

By Phil Hirsch

(Reprinted from Lion Magazine)

U. S. MOTORISTS will shell out approximately five billion dollars this year for automobile insurance. It's quite probable that no other expense will cause so many of them to pay so much, so unwillingly, knowing so little about what they're buying.

This lack of knowledge is unfortunate, because by learning what coverages you have you can often discover ways of cutting your premium substantially. Wading through all the fine print may seem like a pretty formidable task, but actually it isn't once you're armed with a few basic principles.

All common auto insurance coverages fall into one of two groups: those that pay for property damage, loss or theft, and those that pay for bodily injury and death. Some kinds of policies under each category pay you, and some kinds pay others.

Auto Coverages Defined
The commonest auto coverages are public liability (also known as "bodily injury"), property damage, comprehensive and medical payments. The first two (usually combined into one policy) are "other party" insurance — they don't pay you a nickel. Both comprehensive and collision, on the other hand, pay you.

Medical payments insurance is a hybrid — it can reimburse you as well as others. As its title indicates, medical payments insurance relates to injury or death claims, so does public liability. The three policies all cover destruction, damage or theft of property.

Of all these coverages the most important are public liability and property damage. Reason: PL&PD protect you against the greatest single driving hazard — the accident you're held responsible for in which someone else has been killed or injured, or property has been damaged or destroyed.

Just outside St. Louis not long ago there was a collision between a car driven by a salesman and a station wagon carrying three people, who later sued for the injuries they sustained. A court decided the salesman was responsible and slapped a $5,000 judgment against him, which was paid by the insurance company under his PL&PD policy. Just imagine for a moment what it would be like to owe someone $5,000 (many judgments are higher) and the value of a PL&PD policy will become quickly apparent.

Pays Legal Fees

A liability policy also pays all legal fees if you're sued, regardless of whether the court holds you responsible for the accident. This provision is extremely important, because even when a jury decides that an accident wasn't your fault, lawyer's fees and similar charges are apt to be costly.

Remember, however, that PL&PD coverage pays only for the deaths, injuries and property damage which a court says you were responsible for.

Injuries and auto damage you may sustain in the accident aren't covered. Even when the policy protects you, there are definite limits on the amount of protection. If the judgment is higher, you'll have to make up the difference out of your own pocket.

The amount of protection, in thousands of dollars, is shown on the face of the PL&PD policy form by a series of numbers, ie "25-50-5." Such limits mean that the company will pay no more than $25,000 for the death or injury of one person in an accident you're held responsible for; $50,000 for all death and injury claims arising from any one accident; $5,000 for all property damage claims arising from one accident.

The best way to cut the cost of PL&PD insurance is to use your car for business as little as possible. Admittedly this is a bitter pill, but here are a few figures which may make it more palatable.

City Rates Higher

In a typical large city like Chicago, if you use your car for business, PL&PD coverage with 25-50-5 limits (regardless of car make) costs you $162.76 a year. If you use the same car solely for non-business driving, the annual premium for the same policy is $97.80, approximately $65 less.

In less-populous communities there's a similar though smaller differential. Take Syracuse, New York, for example. There, the business driver pays $115.40, while the motorist who uses his car solely for pleasure driving pays only $75.12, a difference of approximately $40.

If you're a salesman, for instance, you'll probably starve if you leave the car at home during the week.

Before you dismiss the non-business driving idea completely, it is suggested that you consider ways of wangling a company car. The insurance savings possible through such a move will make the effort worthwhile.

Most of us who aren't salesmen do the bulk of our business driving traveling to and from work. If this is the only regular business driving you do, you pay a lower rate than salesmen, but it's still comparatively high.

Regular Use Governs Rates

For example, if you live in Chicago and your trip to work one way is less than 10 miles, you pay $114.04 a year for PL&PD with 25-50-5 limits; if the trip is more than 10 miles one way, the rate for the same policy is $137.72 (versus $97.80 for the motorist who uses his car only for pleasure driving).

There's a similar differential in smaller communities. When one considers the insurance costs for this daily drive to and from the office, the apparent discomforts of public transportation become less imposing.

An important point to remember about all these rates is that they're based on what regular use you make of your car. In other words, the low, non-business rate still allows you to use your car for business and/or commuting to the office, provided these trips are made only occasionally.

The business driver pays a high rate, but if he has a son under 25 who also uses the car, the bill is even higher.

In Chicago, such a motorist pays $179 a year for 25-50-5 PL&PD, versus $162.76 if there's no male in the family under 25 who drives, and $97.80 if the car is used only for non-business driving. In Syracuse, the tab is $144.16, versus $115.40 and $75.12, respectively.

Driver-Training Course

Obviously, this drain can be cut by keeping junior out of the driver's seat. Lest this solution convert your household into an armed camp, here's another suggestion: Have your youngster take a driver-training course at school. When he completes it, you can obtain a 10 per cent reduction in your PL&PD premium.

In most other forms of auto insurance coverage, the money goes to you rather than to other parties. Two coverages within this latter group — comprehensive and collision — often are combined into one policy.

Collision insurance, as its name implies, pays for repairing or replacing your car if it collides with a fixed or movable object.

Comprehensive insurance protects you against damage or destruction due to fire, falling objects (such as trees), malicious mischief, earthquakes, hail, windstorms, floods and similar acts of God.

A comprehensive policy also insures you against theft of your car, or of any part, such as a hubcap or battery.

Neither collision nor comprehensive usually will pay you for personal property that may be stolen, damaged or destroyed while in your car, or for the effects of normal wear and tear, or for tire damage.

Company Retains Option

On those losses that are covered, the company retains the option of either repairing or replacing what has been lost, damaged or destroyed. In each case you'll get back only the item's current market value (or its equivalent), not the original purchase price. For example, if the family auto now has a resale value of $1,000 and is stolen, the insurance company (if it can't recover the car) will pay you only $1,000 despite the fact that the vehicle may have set you back two or three times that amount when you bought it.

All auto collision insurance has a "deductible" limit. In other words, you agree to pay part of the repair bill and the company agrees to pay the rest. Your share may be the first $50, $100 or $150. The deductible figure you decide on is crucially important, for the lower it is, the more premium you pay.

If your car is more than a year old, a $100 or $150 deductible policy is probably adequate, say most experts, because you're less likely to repair minor scrapes and dents than if you had a brand new car.

Even if your auto is less than a year old, $100 deductible still may be adequate provided (a) your driving record is good, and (b) your bank account can absorb a $50 to $100 repair bill without excessive strain.

Extra Coverage Expensive True, with a lower limit, the company would foot more of the bill if you had a claim. But you pay dearly for this extra coverage.

On a medium-priced car, six to 18 months old, you pay approximately $35 more per year for $50 deductible than for $100 deductible. On a higher-price car, the rate difference is as much as $50 a year. The gap between $50 and $150 deductible rates on the same car is even greater.

You can also save money on collision insurance by eliminating, or reducing, your use of your car for business and commuting purposes. And, as indicated above, the smaller and less expensive the car is to begin with, the lower, generally, is the collision insurance premium.

Basically, medical payments insurance, the last of the policies commonly carried, pays for injuries you and your family suffer while driving, getting in or out of, or riding in either your own or someone else's car.

The policy also takes care of injuries suffered by passengers who are not members of your family, pays medical bills if you, or any member of your family, is struck by a vehicle while out walking, and covers others who have permission to use your car if they're injured while driving or getting in or out of it.

Funeral expenses for any of the above individuals are also included. Medical payments insurance usually is written with limits of from $500 to $5,000. In each case, this is the total amount the company will pay for medical bills in any one accident, regardless of the number of persons injured or killed.

Duplicates coverage One point many motorists overlook when they take out an auto medical payments policy is that it often duplicates coverage they already have.

For example, Blue Cross and similar hospitalization insurance usually pays for medical bills incurred by you and your family in an accident. Admittedly, such insurance won't absorb the cost of injuries to passengers in your car. But the point is that with your family out of the picture, you probably won't need as much medical payments coverage.

You may not need any if you've had a driving record free of serious accidents, and don't often put anyone but your immediate family in your car. Most insurance experts say that a medical payments policy is the least necessary of the five common coverages. Clearly, it will pay you to take a hard look at those auto policies in the bureau drawer.

WEEKLY THOUGHT:

Before you louse something up . . . THINK.

SCHOOL DAZED

by Charlotte Campbell Cullin

No explanation is due on my recent marriage, but in self defense I take up my pen and write.

First, to ease matters at school here, I want teachers to know that this "marrying urge" is not contagious. I hope that answers questions.

Contrary to the popular belief, my marriage wasn't a "spur-of-the-moment" sort of thing. I made up my mind two years ago to elope after taking part in a planned-in-detail church wedding. But now I know that there is no way to avoid confusion.

The only reason I announced my elopement was that I would have something to write about and everyone else would have something to talk about. Mission accomplished.

Because all of my kin were so unhappy and startled over the announcement one lady was moved to remark, "At least they (Charles and I) won't have to worry about visits from relatives! There won't be any 'Visits or relatives'?"

Well, all has been forgiven now. One cousin even rejoiced. He traipsed up to my grandfather and cheered that the Campbell Kid's were no longer a quartette and that their cotton crop allotment from him would only have to be divided three ways next fall. What he didn't know was that the crop acreage would also decrease. You can't win them all.

Romance must be the popular thing. I have been checking through this week's Grade School Clatter. The 6th grade bunch is holding its own.

Since my own brother is with that class I know the "inside dope." A few weeks back brother Richard journeyed to a similar party. My parents drove Rich and a friend to the party.

During the drive the friend announced that he didn't care much for the social occasions. Said that all they had at those things were girls and kissing games. He confided in my parents that kissing just wasn't healthy! Soon he and my brother engaged in their own conversation through which my folks learned that Richard had asked a girl to meet him and that he owned an extra quarter for refreshments.

Richard didn't bother to say much about the girl, but he kept repeating that he hoped he would get three dips of ice cream!

My parents breathed again and let the boys out at the party, safe in knowing that their only son cared more for food than women.

Today they know that Ice Cream is the name of a kissing game, and that the number of dips determines the number of kisses one receives. That's their boy!

Arrive at Last

The '58-'59 school pictures have arrived! Now the password around M. H. S. is: "Can I have one of your pictures," or "I'll trade you one of mine for one of yours."

This year there is one colored picture in each package, the same as last year, in case some of you Moms and Dads didn't know. Students rarely ever reach home with the pictures because they are for the "boyfriend," or "girlfriend."

Some unfortunate people had picture retakes November 4th because their pictures did not arrive, or arrived damaged. About fifty sets of pictures were damaged or not returned due to a broken camera!

Someone should have "stood" in bed that day. Cameras cost.

Beautician Visits

Homemaking Class

Beauty is everyone's business, but it is the special business of Miss Annie Mae Jackson, Modern Beauty Shop operator and owner.

Tuesday, October 27, Miss Jackson visited the third year homemaking class. She gave pointers to each girl of the class on how to style hair keeping two definite ideas in mind—the shape of the face and the height of the individual. Miss Jackson also gave helpful hints on skin care and eye make-up.

There are two important factors in keeping skin clear. (1) Watch the food diet and try to avoid too many sweets, and (2) use plenty of soap and water. It also helps the skin to stay clean by patting it during the day with cold water.

The main point to remember when using eye make-up is to use it sparingly. Too much make-up gives a pronounced artificial look to its wearer. Eyes should look natural. One should never use some make-up, such as eye shadow, except on very special occasions, and then only at night.

The girls of the third year homemaking class would like to take the opportunity to thank Miss Jackson for her helpful hints.

CAMPAIGN REVEALS ABUNDANT TALENT

MHS students don't lack talent in any field, or so it seemed last week when ordinary pupils turned from their studies to politics and painting.

Last week was campaign week for Student Council candidates. Posters of all shapes, sizes, and slogans were posted and adorned the MHS halls for the week. Poets and artists were discovered from among the host of campaign managers.

Campaign speeches were dreaded and worried over by the speakers. Candidates for president gave their speeches before students assemblies. Class representatives spoke before their classes.

The heated campaign week followed the ratification of a constitution of the Matador High School Student Council. Various students pledged their support of the constitution to the best of their abilities, to establish a student governing body.

BOOK POINT SYSTEM IN ENGLISH CLASSES

Each year a book point system is set up for book reports in the English classes of MHS.

The system this year is as follows: 3,000 pages required to be read and reported on for the entire year; 600 pages required each six weeks; and each six weeks a type of book, such as a biography, history, etc., is assigned.

This six weeks all reports will be given in round table discussions consisting of four or five students participating. For round table discussion the seniors have been assigned reports on plays by Shakespeare. Juniors will be discussing American Historical novels. Sophomores and freshmen assignments are biographies.

About Your Health

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health.

Henry A. Holle, M. D., Commissioner

If you have small children or if you have raised them into adulthood, you have at one time or another had a sick child on your hands. Today, if you are like most parents, you call the doctor right away.

This puts the doctor on the spot. He can't see your child over the telephone, so the only way he can get a small understanding of the problem is for you to give him a reliable and full description of symptoms your child is displaying.

An adult or older child can describe his own symptoms—"It seems to hurt right here doctor, a sort of sharp pain. . . . But a small child, even if he can talk, has a great deal of trouble explaining how he hurts or what is bothering him, because usually he has a fever and is not thinking clearly.

For this reason there are several things you can do to have this information ready BEFORE the call or visit so the doctor will not be burdened with a guess in the dark.

First, take his temperature with a reliable thermometer (a rectal thermometer is best) following directions carefully. Feeling a child's skin tells little unless the temperature is exceptionally high and by then the child may be seriously ill.

Notice carefully the appearance of the skin—rash, yellowish cast, grayish, pale—and make certain to note the type of rash, whether it is flat or raised above the skin level.

Is the breathing unusually heavy or light? Take count of the breaths per minute and pass this information on to the physician. It is often as important as a temperature reading. Also, check other symptoms, such as wheezing, coughing, etc.

Important to the doctor, is whether the child is restless, drowsy, or if there are peculiar movements of a jerky or wild nature. If he is quiet, is he unconscious and slow to respond or just tired? The parent is the best judge of these signs since he is familiar with the normal child. Don't omit them from your report.

One of the first questions a physician will ask is the character of the bowel movements. Have they been loose, hard, watery, more often or less often? What color, darker or lighter? Don't forget cramps or stomach pains often associated with digestive disorders. If he has vomited, describe how—with pressure or did the youngster seem to over?"

Have all this information ready before you telephone the physician can decide if a personal call is warranted. If you should bring the child to the office, help the physician and he will be better able to help your child get well.

Roaring Springs Exes Elect Williams As New President

Roaring Springs Exes elected Clyde Williams president during a business session Saturday when they gathered for the fifth annual Homecoming of Roaring Springs High School. Other officers elected were Mrs. Bennie D. Dillard, vice-president and Mrs. W. B. Watson, secretary-treasurer.

Miss Shirlene Strube was crowned Football Sweetheart at the halftime intermission of the homecoming football game which was played under lights, beginning at 7:30 p. m. Outcome of the game was a disappointment to fans and team alike, with the Yellowjackets taking the little end of a 52-16 score in a battle with the Guthrie Jaguars.

Homecoming activities got under way with registration beginning at 3 p. m. under the able supervision of Mrs. Mervin Green and Miss Freda Keahey.

Refreshments of cake, coffee and punch were served during a social hour when friends and classmates visited and looked at pictures. Center of attraction were several views of the rock house which served as the Dutchman School during 1905-06-07 before the town of Roaring Springs was founded, together with the teacher and pupils.

Superintendent Vernon Baker welcomed the Exes and other visitors, and Hubert Gunter of Amarillo, an "ex" responded. The program continued with group singing, a duet by Sandra Williams and Sandra Braselton, who sang, "School Days" and "A Bicycle Built for Two," and an accordion number played by Charlene Owens, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Guy Thacker.

Homecoming Queen Elected
Mrs. Hazel Bridges was elected Homecoming Queen and presented with a corsage.

Others receiving corsages included Mrs. Clyde Mitchell of Grand Junction, Colo., for traveling the most miles to attend Homecoming; Mrs. Du Green for being the oldest mother of exes; Mrs. Barbara Havis Robbins for being the last ex-student to register; Mrs. Hulin Cargile for being the eighteen to register; Mrs. Guy Thacker for teaching music in the school the longest period of time, and Buster Harmon for the ex-student having the most children who are "exes."

Coffee and a social hour in the gymnasium following the football game, concluded the day, which was declared an all-around enjoyable affair by everyone who attended.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to take this means of thanking all the friends who thought of us in our sorrow in the loss of our dear father. We are grateful for the words of condolence, flowers, foods and other kindnesses. May God bless all of you.

Musical Comedy By Girls Choir Offered Tonight

For those who enjoy hill-billy music sung by a group of pretty girls, a treat is in store at the high school tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 o'clock.

A musical comedy, "Sadie Shaw from Arkansas," will be presented by the Matador High School Choir under the direction of Mrs. L. D. Wilkerson.

This forty-voiced choir will sing many old favorites, such as, "On Top of Old Smoky," "Mocking Bird Hill" and "Down In The Valley."

With Karmen Jenkins in the principal role as Sadie Shaw, and Linda Ray Thompson as Gabe Wilkins, her lover, the show moves rapidly from one amusing line to another.

The Hollywood "akteers" with Charlotte Cullin as the great Miss Violet Mansfield; Gwen Killingsworth as her leading man; Genev Spray as the great picture director; Christina Damon as the "yes" man, and Karen Webb as the French maid, add a "greatness" to the cast.

Peggy Welling plays the part of Sadie's father, Ray Davis is Mrs. Shaw, with Anita Martin posing as Frances, the girl friend of Davey Holler, a local boy portrayed by Sue Cross. Daisy, Rosemary Shanks, is Sadie's best friend with other characters adding a locale to the public square of Cedar Bluff, Ark.

Specialties, only as Janey Waybourn and Carol Campbell, the Melodettes, The Teen Tones and other singing groups can do, will be on the billboard.

Do not miss this evening of hilarious entertainment at the popular prices of 25 cents for children and 50 cents for adults.

Mr. and Mrs. Thacker will be gone a week.

Harry Campbell Heads Matador SC

Harry Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Campbell of Matador, heads the Matador High School Student Council as 1958-59 president.

Campbell, a popular senior student of Matador High School, was elected by the student body to represent all students on the newly formed council.

The election, held Friday, ended a week long campaign of poster display and fiery campaign speaking Mike Groves and Bobby Cross, seniors, were other candidates in the presidential election.

Representatives from each high school class have been named. Cheri Barton and Dale Dixon represent the freshmen class; Carol Campbell and Guy Campbell, sophomore; Daphne Lynn and Bundy Campbell, junior; and Karen Webb and Lewis Fair are senior representatives.

All election returns except the senior class representatives were announced by Principal C. N. Johnson during an all-school assembly and pep rally Friday afternoon. Senior elections were held Monday.

Other offices will be filled from the present representative group of the student council. Council advisor is Principal C. N. Johnson.

Ezzell Attends League Council

Bert Ezzell, superintendent of Matador schools returned Monday from Austin where he attended a meeting of the Interscholastic League Legislative Council.

The twenty-three members of the Legislative Council are selected from 1800 superintendents of Texas schools. The Council meets annually to revise and regulate the state interscholastic league rules.

One issue discussed at the meeting this year was the feasibility of continuing slide rule, debate and speech events in 2-B school league meets. Lack of interest in recent years has prompted the officials to consider ruling these out of future contests in 2-B schools.

Seven Experienced Players on Girls Basketball Team

Coach Jack Jackson has 22 girls coming out for basketball at Patton Springs, seven of whom are veterans from last year's squad. They are, Nan Jo Futch, Loydell Roberts, Doris Epting, Martha Sue Goodwin, Martha Fay Flood, Bertha Willmon, and Voda Tarrant.

Eight good future prospects have joined the squad from the freshman class, being Sharron Ragland, Glenna Blasingame, Sandy Bateman, Connie Gage, Brenda Hobson, Marilyn Willmon, Patsy Robertson and Martha Malloy. Other good prospects for this year's team are, Wanda Hayman, Virginia Wilcher, Rlene Partridge, Patsy Smallwood, Sherry Porter, LaNell Martin, and Sandra Smith.

Since the football season is fast drawing to a close, the basketball practice is taking on a serious aspect.

Practice games are being scheduled with neighboring schools and the members of the team are settling down to the season's drastic demands on their time and energy.

ATTEND LUBBOCK GAME

Several local residents attended the football game at Lubbock Saturday, between the freshman teams from West Texas State, Canyon, and Texas Tech. Among these were Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie J. Leary and daughter, Susan, Mrs. Roy Grundy, Mrs. Ben Edwards, C. D. Bradshaw, Charlie Johnson and J. E. Edwards.

Glenn Brotherton returned Sunday from a hunting trip to Colorado, with friends from Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rattan and daughter, Ladell of Amarillo, visited here Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Rattan.

Miss Lane Ligon, a student at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene spent the week end at Afton with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ligon, and visited with friends in Matador. She was accompanied by Rodney Price, of Fernando Beach, Florida, currently stationed at Dyess Air Force Base at Abilene.
