BEAUMONT, (AP)—The National Guard armory here was robbed of eight Browning machine guns and 3600 rounds of ammunition early Saturday by two men.

He said the thieves threatened to kill him if he cried out. Police were informed the robbers loaded the guns and ammunition in a truck and fled.

Garlington, Ragan To Go To Austin

To Appear Before Highway Commission In Interest Of Right-Of-Way

Rex Ragan, special tax collector, and County Judge J. S. Garlington will go to Austin the first part of this week in an effort to secure right-of-way for highway No. 1 east. They expect to be gone about two days.

A little more right-of-way is needed near the city limits just east of town, and Judge Garlington said the county could not pay the ten or fifteen thousand dollars necessary to secure the right-of-way and stay on a cash basis under the present budget.

Garlington said he would see the Highway Commission in an effort to have the present road used, but favored cutting down the incline to make for better visibility and safety.

"The highway department," Garlington added, "is asking for a little more right-of-way, but it will be easy to secure."

Interpreted To Mean Decision Surely To Come Monday

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The national capital Saturday night keyed itself up to a suspense-filled week-end firmly convinced that the long-awaited gold decision would be handed down Monday.

Saturday the court remained silent in absence of the customary announcement and was quickly interpreted as meaning the decision surely would come Monday.

Armed Pair Stage Two Hijackings

Warlick Grocery Hardest Hit; Early Sanders Is Robbed

Two hi-jackers, each armed with a pistol, netted $14 in cash and a small quantity of merchandise Saturday night in two swift moves.

Entering Warlick's Grocery on E. 11th street about 8 p. m., the pair, described as being low, swarthy, dark complexioned and wearing light hats and black jackets, ordered a package of cigarettes.

Drawing pistols, they commanded those in the store to hold up their hands and cleaned out the cash register of approximately $130 and made off with a quantity of cigarettes.

Shortly after 9 p. m. two men of similar description walked up behind Early H. Sanders, barber, in the 700 block of E. Third street, and jammed a gun in his back.

They rifled his pockets and obtained about $4. In their haste they overlooked more money in another pocket. Sanders description of the men tallied with those who held up the Warlick store.

When the pair fled from Warlick's, victims thought they were in a Ford V-8 coupe. Sanders said the two who held him up were in a Chevrolet coach.

Officers were also investigating the theft of a Chevrolet coupe from H. L. Finley at 7:15 p. m. Finley had parked the car near the State hotel. They remained the possibility that the car theft was tied in with the hi-jackers, but police were inclined to think there was no connection.

WASHINGTON By GEORGE DURNO

Subsistence

Business men are casting a dubious eye on the plans of Messrs. Hopkins and Ickes to move whole communities of unemployed into ready-made villages in rural sections. They hope the idea will work out but they are fearful the cost has been put before the horse.

As most industrialists now serving the Roosevelt administration in advisory capacities see it, the success of moving people to a new homestead hinges in providing them with permanent employment on the spot.

The government has over 50 "industrial-agricultural communities," and "subsistence homestead projects" on the fire without definite promise of industrial enterprise in more than two or three instances.

Abolition

New Dealers have been preaching decentralization of population and of industry. The industrialists agree to it as a fine social theory. But they believe it is not something which can be accomplished overnight to meet an economic emergency. They see it rather as a problem for long-range planning and slow evolution over a period of 25 or 30 years.

Employers aren't making open objections to Relief Administrator Hopkins' communities and Public Works Administrator Ickes' homesteads, but they have in mind the trials and tribulations of the Roadside, W. Va., project in which Mrs. Roosevelt is so interested. Congress blocked erection of a post office lock-box factory there because it would provide unfair competition.

Generally speaking, history shows that only the sweatshop industries are attracted to a desperate population. Normal business inquires immediately into availability of raw materials, secondary materials, transportation facilities, etc.

Bait

Secretary of Commerce Roper's Business Advisory and Planning Council recently made public a preliminary report on a survey of the possibility of decentralizing industry. It recommended establishment of a government agency to administer a $2,500,000 revolving

Detroit Man Meets Death

DETROIT, (AP)—Archie Hofhanses, 60, was killed Saturday by a bullet from his own gun while trying to elude police after killing Abraham Arkadian, Dearborn, banker, wounding the latter's wife, and Sophie, 16, John 8, and two of his own children.

Sophie was perhaps fatally shot in a family quarrel.

Hofhanses, police said, staged the series of shootings over a fifty mile trail from Pinckney, Mich., to Detroit and was heading for the home of a daughter when officers wounded him.

Falling, his own gun discharged, the bullet hitting his head.

Government Seeks OK From Voters For Golf Revenue

Monday Big Spring will once again go to the polls to vote upon a municipal undertaking.

This time the proposed natatorium, to be constructed out of PWA funds, will be the object of voting.

Issue involved is granting or refusing the city commission permission to use the net revenues of the city golf course together with the pool revenues in liquidating the PWA loan.

The loan, according to documentary evidence, carries no obligation upon property, real or personal. It is to be self-liquidating. Thirty percent of the $20,000 to go into the project will be in the nature of a direct grant, it has been declared by the federal government.

Granting of permission to the commission to divert the golf course net revenues will mean that contracts will be let for the project on Feb. 25 and work started soon after.

Construction work will require 30 skilled and 30 unskilled men over a period of four months, or will double the number if the job is rushed to completion in two months time.

When completed, the pool is to be 150 feet by 60 feet and have a maximum depth of 10-1-2 feet and a minimum depth of 3-1-2 feet. The water will be kept pure both by flowing into irrigation mains to the park and by circulation through sand filters and chlorinators.

All water used in the pool will be reused in watering the city park.

Location of the pool will be directly south of the rustic bridge in the city park. In connection with the pool there will be a bathroom and caretaker's quarters.

Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene, whose term as state highway commissioner expired on Feb. 15, but who is continuing to serve until he is reappointed or a successor is named, passed in Big Spring shortly Saturday afternoon to converse with friends. Judge Ely has been in Barstow during the past week on legal matters.

"We are ready to proceed with construction work on No. 9 highway as soon as funds are available from the state relief administration," said Judge Ely. "We are extremely anxious to bring this work to a close, and I am sure you people are anxious for completion, too."

The judge was non-committal as to his chances of being reappointed as highway commissioner. "I have been out of touch with happenings the past week," said Judge Ely. "I haven't even seen a daily newspaper for several days."

He was told by a newspaperman that there was no news on the wires Saturday concerning appointment of a highway commissioner.

Judge Ely told friends of his recent visit to Mexico City by plane, and his impressions of that country. He flew from Brownsville over Pan-American Airways, taking only 3-1-2 hours from Brownsville.

Speaking before the Rotary club in Pecos Thursday at noon Judge Ely said:

"We are passing through an era of revolution in transportation.

"The Lives Of A Bengal Lancer" At Ritz Sunday, Monday

Bengal Lancer Settings Taken In Real Locale

Themed in scores of books and lusty soldier songs, the steep, carved sides of India's historic Khyber Pass have at last been used as a motion picture background.

"The Lives of a Bengal Lancer" has materialized from the interesting print of Francis Yeats-Brown adventurous novel. The elaborate Paramount film spectacle is now at the Ritz Theatre showing through Sunday and Monday, with Gary Cooper, Franchot Tone, Richard Cromwell, Sir Guy Standing, C. Aubrey Smith, Monte Blue and Kathleen Burke in important roles.

For more than three months, the Paramount studios echoed to the plaintive and eerie whine of reeds, of crocha charmers and the boom of the vocal discords of innumerable Pathans, Afghans, Sikhs and Punjabi-Mohammedans while the film was in production.

To capture the turbulent and mystic Indian atmosphere, Paramount, several years ago, sent a large expedition into the very heart of Bengal and, as a result, tens of thousands of feet of film were returned to Hollywood. This extraordinary "footage" reveals the activities of the Bengal Lancers, mixed-native troop officered by British, at peace and in war, as well as the lives and working secrets of several desert tribes.

With great difficulty, the expedition invaded the Khyber Pass country and, through a stroke of luck, managed to photograph one of the most picturesque of all human occupations, the manufacture, by hand of the celebrated Khyber rifles. This rifle, called in India a Jaisal, has a long, pole-like barrel similar in some respects to old Kentucky frontier rifles. One village may specialize in the making of barrels, another in stocks, and still others in ammunition, bolts and firing-pins. Despite the archaic methods of manufacture, the guns, when assembled, are highly effective weapons in the hands of a keen-eyed desert sniper.

These atmospheric sidelights feature early scenes of the Paramount production of "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer." The film tells the story of three inseparable comrades of the British fighting unit: a stalwart campaigner, a reckless romanticist and a young novice, and shows how their courage and loyalty save an empire.

Historical Dramas Now Being Filmed

Motion picture companies will go to the great outdoors to film several of the outstanding stories on the production schedule for the next few months. Jack London's "Call of the Wild"; Cecil B. DeMille's gigantic historical spectacle, "The Crusades"; and the Yeats-Brown drama, "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" will lead the studio parade to the out-of-doors.

The settings for these pictures, which are part of the current Hollywood movement to bring the best in literature and drama to the screen, will be gigantic in scope, too extensive to be confined within the walls of the studios. The same is true of such pictures as "The Little Minister" and Dickens' "David Copperfield," which will be filmed mostly within the studio, will be given an outdoor flavor with specially-constructed studio sets.

Efforts being made by major studios to bring to life the great dramas of literature and the stage are resulting in a long procession of really important pictures, according to Manager Robb of the Ritz theatre, and the theatre booking problem this season is marked by the necessity to crowd these outstanding productions into the available playing time so that local screen audiences can see all that's best as soon after release as possible.

IN THRILLING SPECTACLE

The Lives of a Bengal Lancer
In the scene above, the artist has caught Gary Cooper and Kathleen Burke in a tender moment from Paramount's thrilling dramatic spectacle of war in India, "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," now at the Ritz Theatre.

Negotiations have been completed or are underway at the present time to bring all these big outdoor pictures to the Ritz Theatre as soon as they are released for showing.

Lee Tracy In 'You Belong To Me' At Lyric

Lee Tracy, Paramount film star, who is featured in "You Belong To Me," coming Sunday, Monday and Tuesday to the Lyric theatre, says he never knows what to expect when he walks into a crowd of people and is recognized, because recognition may be accompanied by anything from a cherry "Hello" to an offer to poke him in the nose!

"There always seems to be some individual who apparently associates the star with a character he has portrayed on the screen," Tracy explains.

"I Don't Think You're Hot!" "That character may have been pugnacious. All right, then. This person in the crowd will come up to you, give you a rap in the ribs, and growl, 'I don't think you're so hot.' In other words, he wants to start a knockdown-and-dragout fight right on the spot.

"At that particular moment, it's up to the screen star to do some clever and soothing talking. Otherwise he stands to take a blow on the chin in spite of the fact the actor may not be in the mood for violent exercise.

"Clark Gable, Jack Dempsey, and other fellows who have become widely known, have told me that they are always apprehensive of this situation when they are in a crowd. They have been called upon many times to 'blow down' a belligerent stranger."

Tracy, who is featured with Helen Mack, Helen Morgan and David Holt in "You Belong To Me," says that he sometimes finds it uncomfortable when a people single him out for attention, on the street, or when admirers rush up for autographs.

"It's Worth the Trouble!" "But all regrets vanish," he adds, "when you remember it will be a lot more uncomfortable when people stop looking at you and cease trying to get your autograph."

"You Belong To Me," which was directed by Alfred L. Werker, presents Tracy as a wise-cracking stage comic, who lives on the faded memories of a glorious career. Fate throws into his hands the lives of an incompetent actress and her five-year-old son. How Tracy finally wins happiness for himself and his "two orphans" against terrific odds brings the picture to a happy climax.

Miss Clara Bronstein is away on a visit to relatives and friends in Ranger, Fort Worth and Dallas.

Dolores Del Rio In 'Du Barry' At Queen Today

"Madame Du Barry," the Warner Bros. production depicting the intimate life and loves of the famous beauty who ruled the court of King Louis XV, comes to the Queen theatre today with Dolores Del Rio in the stellar role.

Although the intrigues of the court, as in any story of Du Barry, will be apparent, Edward Chodorov, the author of the current screen play, is said to have concerned himself with the lighter side of the king's favorite.

The picture, while styled as a comedy drama, with the emphasis on the comedy, also is a mammoth spectacle with its gorgeous reproductions of the court, the palace at Versailles, the famous Colonnade Gardens, where the grand ladies and resplendent courtiers disported themselves in gaily and luxury, while the people starved.

Now is the picture without its dramatic moments when Du Barry fights intrigue with intrigue, usually outwitting her enemies, who would gladly thrust a dagger through her beautiful back. Yet even in these more intense sequences, the irrepressible Du Barry usually manages to end them with a laugh—at the expense of the enemy.

There is a gorgeous and novel dance staged by the famous Albertina Rasch dancers.

The picture has an unusually large cast of talented players in the principal roles and hundreds of others in minor parts. Dolores Del Rio has the part of Du Barry with Reginald Owen playing opposite her as King Louis XV.

Others include Victor Jory, Oswood Perkins, Verree Teasdale, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Dorothy Tree, Anita Louise, Maynard Holmes, Henry O'Neill, Hobart Cavanaugh and Helen Lowell.

KALIDOGGRAPH

This issue holds more than its usual quota of high-grade poetry. But of the contributors only three are Texans and of these three Gladys Hyde's "The Happy Ones" is a lovely bit of poetry, but not of the vilifying variety.

We offer therefore for the scrapbook of our readers a poem by Harry R. Truesler entitled: REBELLION
STEADY! It is ourselves that fight us;
They most of all our hearts should fear.
Sick nervous grown more and more rebellious
Lunge the dreams we hold most dear.

Under their fierce assaults we stagger;
All other foes we can destroy.
Only ourselves can plunge a dagger
Into the very heart of joy.

"LOST ON VENUS"

By Edgar Rice Burroughs (Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc.)
To review this book and tell its story would give it away to the many readers who have not read it in magazine form.

We select, therefore, a chapter to quote. In this chapter, the hero who has managed to reach alive the planet Venus in his quest of a beautiful girl, is thrown into a room with seven doors. His imaginative qualities are a splendid index to the story.

"I found myself in a circular apartment in the walls of which were seven identical doors placed . . . so that there was no way of distinguishing one door from another."

"In the center of the room was a circular table upon which were seven vessels containing seven varieties of food and seven jugs containing liquids. Depending above the center of the table was a rope with a noose in the end of it . . ."

"Suffering from thirst, as I was, and being half famished for food, the sight of that laden table aroused my flagging spirits . . ."

"Attend," snapped Sov, addressing me. "Listen well to what I say . . . we shall leave you here alone . . . if you can escape from this building your life will be spared. As you see, there are seven doors leading from this room; none of them have bolt or bar . . . You are free to open any. After you pass through a spring will close it and you can not open it again; the doors being so constructed that there is nothing to lay hold upon wherewith to open them, with the exception of that one which let us into the room; through that one door lies life . . ."

"In the corridor of the second door—you will step upon a hidden spring that will cause long, sharp spikes to be released upon you from all directions; upon these you will be impaled and die . . ."

"In the third a similar spring will ignite a gas that will consume you in flames. In the four x-rays will be loosed upon you and you will die instantly. Beyond the fifth . . . is a terrible beast . . . with great jaws and talons and it eats naugh but flesh . . . Beyond the sixth hidden jets will deluge you with a corrosive acid . . . and to my mind the seventh is worse, death is longer in coming and the mental agony is protracted . . ."

"And now that you have told me the worst, may I be permitted to satisfy my hunger before I die?" . . . Let me explain that of the seven varieties of food one is poisoned . . . and of the seven delicious beverages sparkling, six are poisoned.

"In single file they left the room by the door to life. I kept my eyes upon that door to make it well; and then the light went out and the room was plunged into darkness."

"Quickly I crossed the chamber in a straight line toward the exact spot where I knew the door to be . . . with outstretched hands I approached the door . . . My fingers came in contact with a moving surface; it was the wall passing across my hands to the left. I felt a door brush past them and then another and another; then I guessed the truth—the floor upon which I stood was revolving. I had lost the door to life."

Two Inches Of Rain Falls In Colorado Area

COLORADO—Rain totaling two inches over the Colorado territory fell during the past week to bring added assurance to the general public that better days are to be seen as physical conditions of the territory is ushered back to one of the most stable planes since inception of the depression. The moisture, beginning Wednesday of last week, fell slowly and was largely taken up by the parched farm and range lands.

Business men of the county have united with their neighbors on the farm and ranch in rejoicing over the rains, accepting definitely that conditions in this part of West Texas, in poor state for months, are to now take on added impetus toward definite return of normalcy.

That the range is assured of an early crop of grass constitutes the best news cattlemen of this territory have received in many months. Surface tanks and stream water holes now have good supplies of stock water and the parched grazing lands, for weeks and weeks tinder dry, are already starting to take on indications of new life as green vegetation is pushing through the soil.

Farmers in Colorado during the week have been wearing broad smiles over the assurance that they now have moisture with which to plant spring feed and other crops. Small grain in the territory was much benefited by the rain.

Total rainfall registered at Colorado over the period was 1.97 inches. In other communities, especially south and southwest, the fall was heavier.

by the bureau after receiving reports for the final month of the year. In December the 22 domestic lines in operation carried 53,563 passengers, 217,852 pounds of express, flew 3,364,968 miles and 15,594,900 passenger miles. In each case the figure represented an increase over December 1933 except in miles flown, which showed a slight decrease.

NO. 12 DEDUCTION FOR BUSINESS EXPENSES

Deductions for business expenses form a large item in the return of many taxpayers and must have certain qualities to be allowed. Such deduction must be for an expenditure in connection with the maintenance and operation of the taxpayer's business or business properties; it must be an ordinary expense and it must be a necessary expense.

In insisting upon the latter qualifications, the Bureau of Internal Revenue is upheld by the Board of Tax Appeals and the courts. Ordinary and necessary expenses are only those which are usual and essential in the case of similar taxpayers, and do not include extraordinary and nonessential expenses.

Typical business expenses of a mercantile establishment are amounts paid for advertising, hire of clerks and other employees, rent, light, heat, water, stationery, stamps, telephone, property insurance, and delivery expenses.

The expenses of a manufacturing business include labor, supplies, repairs, light and heat, power, selling cost, administration, and other similar charges.

The farmer may deduct all amounts paid in the production, harvesting, and marketing of crops, including labor, cost of seed and fertilizer used, cost of minor repairs to farm buildings (other than his dwelling), and small tools used up in the course of a year or two. A taxpayer may conduct more than one business and claim the business deductions of each.

TWO BIG ADVANTAGES OF THE OPTIONAL RATE

- REDUCES YOUR HIGH WINTER BILLS.
"How?", you say.
An Example: An average customer used 15,000 feet of gas in January. On the regular rate his bill would have been $10.61 net. On the optional rate it was $7.00. The saving, $3.61, or 34%. Quite a saving, isn't it?
- PERMITS YOU TO KEEP YOUR ENTIRE HOUSE WARM AND COMFORTABLE IN THE COLDEST MONTHS FOR LESS THAN YOU ARE NOW PAYING TO KEEP A PORTION OF THE HOUSE WARM.
"How?"
On this rate gas used above a certain volume costs you only 20c per thousand cubic feet. Each additional 5,000 feet used adds only $1.00 to your bill. 5,000 feet of gas can spell the difference between a partially heated house and a house that is warm and comfortable. Had the above customer used 20,000 feet of gas, his bill on the optional rate, would have been only $8.00, or $2.61 less than 15,000 feet costs on the regular rate.

Defeat Of Court Gives Political Mutiny To FDR

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)
An extraordinarily large number of political powder kegs are being buried these days around the premises of the new deal.

No one knows whether any of them actually will be touched off. Washington is deeply interested and it is notorious that most such bombs never explode. Either something goes wrong with the mechanism, or the bombers get cold feet.

Yet when one does let loose, it makes a lot of excitement. So Washington is deeply interested and it is watching very closely the operations of those who are trying to undermine various administration projects, policies and personalities.

The situation is quite different from that of a few months ago. Then, Mr. Roosevelt's opponents did very little boasting. For the most part, they opposed him listlessly, as if they were saying "We know we're licked, but we have to go through with the motions of protesting anyway."

Now, whatever it may mean, those who want to change or even defeat some of the major administration recommendations to congress are talking as if they really had a chance. Even that much is something new.

It seems to have started with the senate roll call on the world court. An atmosphere so funereal that it was painful enveloped the anti-court men when the debate started. They began to take courage as the vote neared, but even so most of them were utterly astonished when the court finally was beaten decisively.

Now the president's work relief program is being rewritten by a senate committee and all sorts of mines and pitfalls are waiting for it when it reaches the senate floor. The same is true of the administration's highway program.

left by the war was the great underlying reason for our refusal to approve the court. The war was obviously costly in many ways, but this disillusionment is perhaps the most costly way of them all.

We went into the war at a high pitch of idealism—perhaps the highest pitch to which any nation ever nerved itself. We were fighting for intangibles—or so we thought.

There was absolutely nothing for us to gain in any material sense. We went into the greatest war in history simply because we were sold on the idea that we could, in that way make the world a cleaner and better place.

It didn't take us long to get our eyes open. The democracy which the war was to have saved seems, instead, to have received its death blow in many parts of the world.

The injustices which the war was to bring to a simple armed truce between conflicts. And the allies with whom we struck hands in 1917 have been calling us harsh names ever since.

In the realization of these things lies the bitterest price we have paid for the war. It has fostered our idealism and confirmed our suspicions.

We may think we have got over it—until something like the World Court resolution comes along, and then we find out that we have not.

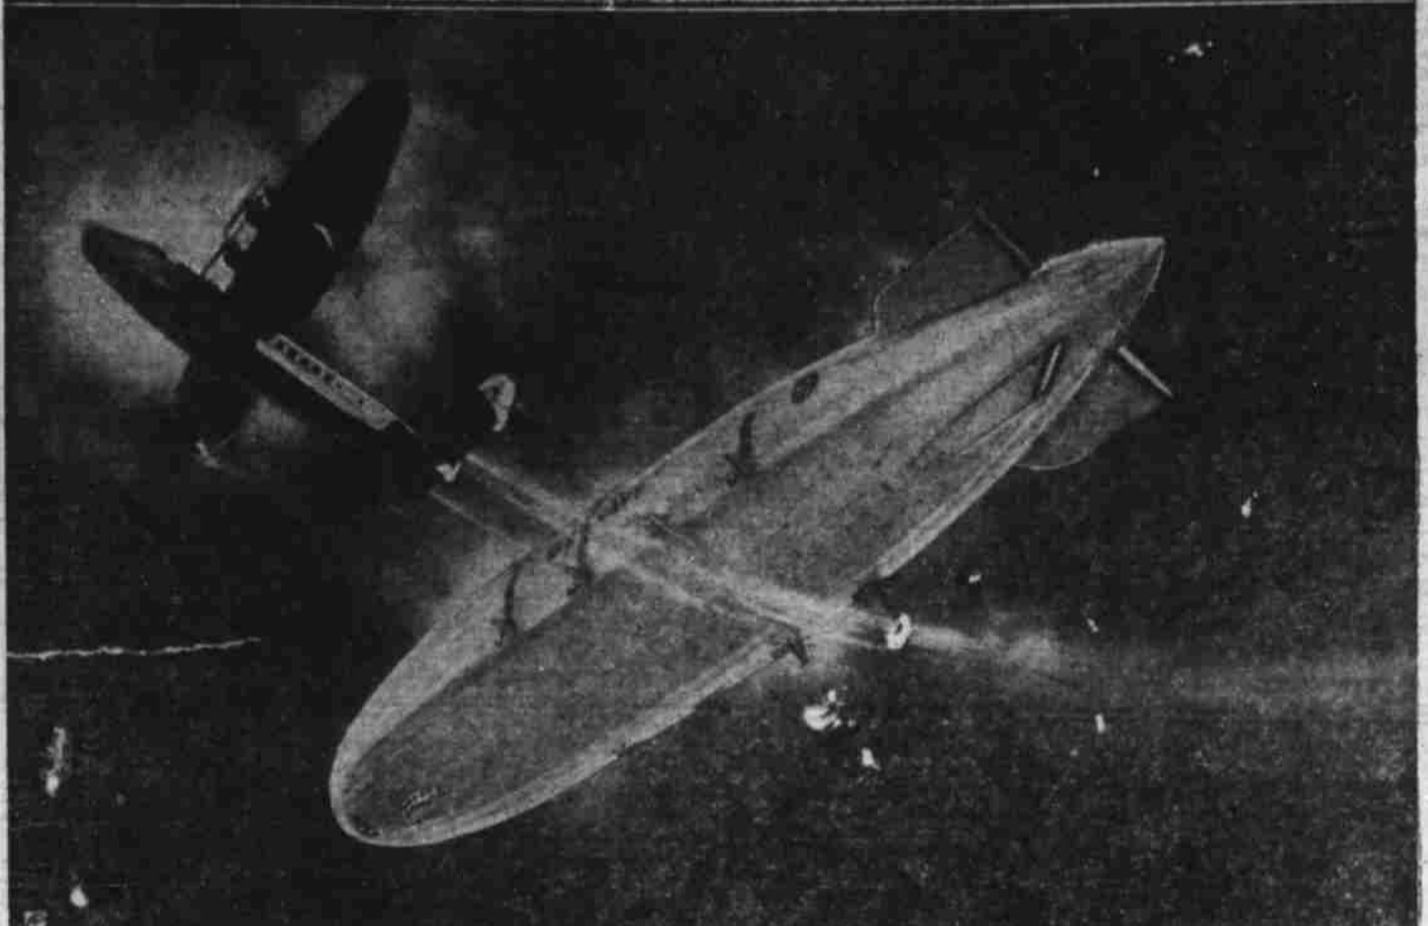

MORE WORK, MORE PAY
December figures for American manufacturing, just compiled, indicate the resumption of an upward trend which if continued will provide a good deal of reason for optimism.

A bulletin from the National Industrial Conference Board shows that more men were at work in December than in November, that they were working longer hours, and that their weekly earnings were higher.

Number of men employed in 25 manufacturing industries was up 2.7 per cent, total number of hours worked was up by 5.9 per cent, and weekly earnings were up by 4.2 per cent—and, at the same time, the cost of living remained stationary.

All this, to be sure, leaves us with a long way to go. But the trend is in the right direction, and we are entitled to feel encouraged by it.

Macon Disaster Revives Controversy Over Merits Of Airships, Planes Latest Air Misfortune May Doom Program For Dirigibles

Is the airship better fitted for some types of transportation and military duty than the airplane? Shall the government build airships in spite of the Shenandoah, Akron and Macon crashes? These questions have been brought to the fore again by the disaster to the Macon, shown here. Some authorities believe that amphibious planes, such as the one pictured, are better suited for long-distance, over-sea flights. Others, pointing to the Graf Zeppelin, contend that the greater payload possible for a dirigible gives it an advantage and that the government should sponsor an airship building program.

By The Associated Press
With controversy over the value of airships revived by the recent Macon disaster, a proposal to spend $17,000,000 to start a transatlantic airship line has been introduced in the house naval affairs committee.

The proposal was made by President Roosevelt's special aviation commission, which recommended that the money be used to provide two commercial airships, one commercial air-terminal in eastern United States, one "metal-clad" airship for South American service and a fund for airship research.

The commission urged the government to start construction on these ships immediately, declaring that they "could carry most of our first-class transatlantic mail and a substantial fraction of the first-class passengers and express now paying high rates to travel on the fastest foreign liners."

Proponents of airship development usually point to the record of Germany's Graf Zeppelin, which can cross the Atlantic in 60 hours. The fastest crossing by steamship from New York to Cherbourg, France, required four days, 17 hours and 40 minutes.

On its first trip to the United States, in October, 1928, the Graf Zeppelin carried 60 passengers and covered the 6,100 miles in 112 hours.

side track on such worthy institutions. Sooner or later, it will be well worth all the time and money expended on it.

At last the city commission has awakened to the fact that not a few have known before. Center parking is dangerous, is not convenient and is not safe. When an ordinance has been up and duly passed and published, you may expect to keep your car out of the middle of the street as you ought to be in a parking lot.

With center parking, one can jam the entire stream of traffic. With center parking, the chances for serious injury and bad collisions are high. With center parking, one of the greatest contributory practices to insufficient fire safety is in existence. Center parking should never have been started.

The U. S. Experiment Farm, target for budgeteers in Washington for the past two years, will operate without curtailment this year. The budget before congress provides for the farm here. Few realize just how much the experiment farm is of value to this area. The feeding tests alone are invaluable.

Such programs as these help to eliminate the element of uncertainty in farming and ranching. With out great expense, the farmer or rancher may know what feed is best and cheapest, and what in the long run will make him money.

Recent word from Washington would have it that outlook for a federal building here is good. That is probably true. But good as it may be, it is not likely that Big Spring will be able to point to a completed federal building before the end of two years. Bound as it is in red tape, the government moves slowly.

Thursday evening closed out Boy Scout week. For more than twenty-five years now scouting has been a potent force in the moulding of American boyhood. The surest source of good citizenship, the better future citizenry of the nation. For twenty-four years scouting has been an influence for good here.

Back in 1911, Mrs. H. Reagan prevailed upon Mr. C. S. Holmes to take a troop of scouts. He did not keep at it, but he was sincerely mourned as a few men have been here. He lived before boys like he told them to live. It is a pity more do not do the same.

Rough weather damaged a fin and cut down its speed, but it was repaired at Lakehurst, N. J., and made the return trip in 71 hours. It is now in its seventh year of constant service.

In the same month the Graf Zeppelin arrived in America, contracts for the construction of the Akron and the Macon were awarded to the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, at a cost of $7,825,000. The Akron fell into the Atlantic off the New Jersey coast in April, 1933, the Macon into the Pacific off the California coast on February 12.

Ekener Interested
Dr. Hugo Ekener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, has been seeking the cooperation of the United States government in establishing an airship line between here and Europe. He told the commission, however, that it would take three years to prepare a crew for such an undertaking.

Fan-American Airways has been planning a flying boat service across the Pacific. But the largest airplane put into transport service so far has only one-fifth the gross carrying capacity of the Graf Zeppelin and less than half its commercial range, the aviation commission has pointed out. These huge planes, however, have twice the cruising speed of the Graf Zeppelin, which attains only 78 miles an hour at full throttle.

Airship Disasters
The first rigid American airship was the Shenandoah which was finished at Lakehurst and went into commission on October 10, 1923. It was the first airship of the Zeppelin type to be filled with helium gas, and though successful in the first two years of its trials, it was completely demolished in a wind storm in Noble County, Ohio, on September 3, 1925.

Even before the Shenandoah disaster, the United States had trouble with its airships. It purchased from Italy in 1921 a large semi-rigid airship named the Roma, which burst into flames on February 21, 1922, when its metal nose came into contact with high tension electric power wires near Hampton Roads, Va.

The Los Angeles, built for the United States government in Germany and flown here in 1924, has successfully stood the test of the past decade, but is now used rarely.

The Macon disaster was the second major air crash in recent months. In December the giant American-built plane, Uiver, pride of the Royal Dutch air lines, was found wrecked and burned in Iraq, soon after its extraordinary success in the London-Melbourne air derby, in which it finished second.

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

Chapter 12 THE DANCE

The map of the fort which the Kid had been able to draw out of the information of Miguel Santos and the girl seemed perfectly accurate, and as Rubric had boasted, it was perfectly in his mind.

Montana, leaping into the back of the corner, whirled to see that a dozen young officers had entered the room, carrying a big banner on which Rubric's name was written.

And at that instant a bawling cry was heard: "That's come here and pick up this hamper. What are gentlemen to do? Wait on themselves when there are dogs like you around?"

"Stand fast! Don't move for me!" ordered Rubric to the Kid, covertly tearing away his mask as he spoke.

"No, but the forehead band that supported the basket of ore broke, and the basket fell and knocked another man off the ladder. That man was killed by his fall!"

"Listen! I told you there were stories in this lump of a man."

"You see how they treat these fellows? The other man was killed, but you lived through it, eh?"

"Discipline," declared the officer. "That's what makes. Knock fools over the head when they make mistakes, and there'll be fewer mistakes."

"There'll be more broken heads," said Pedro.

"What do you mean? Look at this head! It would still take a maul of breaking. Not many brains under that shock of hair, but enough to know how to lift hammers of wire for his betters.

"You see how they treat these fellows? The other man was killed, but you lived through it, eh?"

"Discipline," declared the officer. "That's what makes. Knock fools over the head when they make mistakes, and there'll be fewer mistakes."

"There'll be more broken heads," said Pedro.

"It's too much," decided thin-faced Luis, the superior officer. And he dropped a portion of it calmly into his own pocket.

"Give him the rest, then," said Pedro.

"Give it to him? Give a dog food with my own hands? Let him root for it, the swine!"

So Luis hurried the money from him. It rattled on the floor. It rolled clinking into the farthest corner, and Rubric darted after it, sometimes almost skidding on hands and knees in his apparent eagerness.

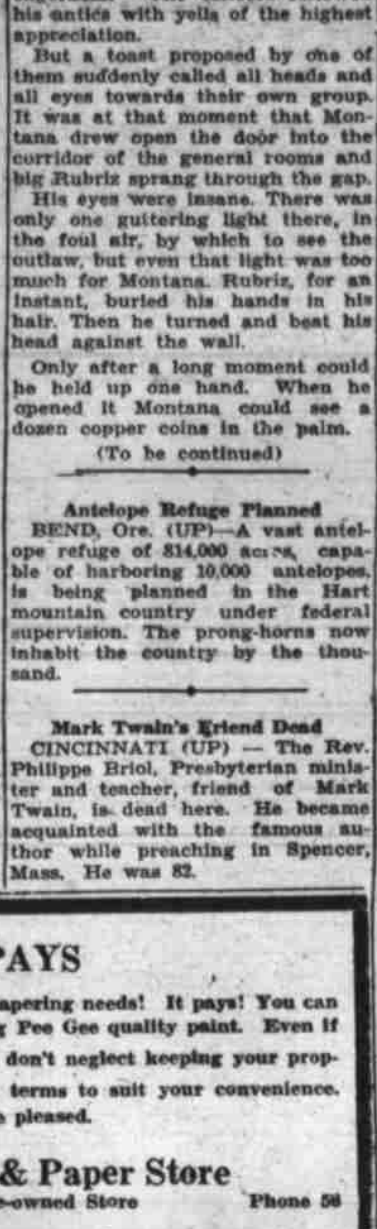

Only after a long moment could he hold up one hand. When he opened it, Montana could see a dozen copper coins in the palm.

PECOS Attorney Named Referee In Bankruptcy

PECOS-Judge W. A. Hudson, prominent attorney of Pecos, has been appointed by Federal Judge Charles A. Boyton as referee in bankruptcy for the Pecos division of the western district of the federal court in Texas.

Judge Hudson succeeds the late Judge Ben Randle who had left the post for several years prior to his death a few weeks ago.

The position is one of honor and responsibility. Always an office of importance, developments of the past few years have made it much more so.

New bankruptcy legislation permitting cities, districts and other municipal subdivisions to take bankruptcy makes the post of referee in bankruptcy one fraught with much potentialities.

The referee may be called upon to administer cities and municipal districts as well as the affairs of individual business enterprises.

Judge Hudson was endorsed for the office by every member of the Reeves county bar association.

Through a quarter century of more Judge Hudson has been prominent in affairs in Reeves county and throughout west Texas, and for a number of years he has been an outstanding lawyer in Dallas.

Funeral services were held at the Koler Funeral chapel at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Burial followed at Fairview cemetery.

Rotary Special To Mexico City

Rotarians Select Hawk Of Amarillo To Arrange Trip To Convention

AMARILLO—All aboard for Mexico City!

The Globe-News Rotary Special, most elaborate and largest train ever assembled in the Southwest, will leave Amarillo on an all-expense tour of 10 days, June 14 to 24.

Arranged for Rotarians and their families to attend the International convention, June 17 to 21, inclusive, reservations will be open to anyone—an ideal vacation trip at low cost.

Rotarians Select Hawk

Because of his experience in arranging long, successful all-expense tours, Wilbur G. Hawk, general manager of the Globe-News, was selected by the Amarillo Rotary club as chairman of the "On to Mexico" committee. Other members of the committee are Mayor Ross D. Rogers, Jim Williams, Harvey Allen and C. O. Williams.

Arrangements just completed by Mr. Hawk will accommodate all who care to take advantage of rates unobtainable by individual travelers.

These arrangements include everything—transportation both ways, sight-seeing tours and stops at the eight most important points along the route, housing accommodations and all meals, except luncheons and dinners for the four days in

Rotary Celebrates 30th Anniversary

Mexico City, Sight-Seeing Tours

Stops will be made only at division points. Most of the travel between these points will be at night, allowing more time for sight-seeing tours.

Mason King, who has directed Globe-News tours to a Century of Progress, Mexico City and through the Southwest, has been named by Mr. Hawk as general manager of the Rotary Special. Mason does all of the worrying for the vacationists.

Thousands To Be There

Mexico City is the Paris of the North American continent. Thousands upon thousands of persons from all sections of the world will be there for Rotary International. Despite the size of the city, hotel accommodations are quite limited. As a matter of fact, there are only two large hotels in the city. Most of the rooms in these already have been reserved. Another hotel is being built, but will not be completed in time for the convention. Those who go on the Globe-News Rotary Special will have no worries over accommodations.

Tom Gallaher, general passenger agent here for the Santa Fe, has promised the very best of equipment will be brought here from Chicago for the special.

The Globe-News Rotary Special will be an all-Pullman (standard) train with observation, combination lounge and club and dining cars. The train will move out of Amarillo at 5 o'clock on the evening of Friday, June 14, over the Santa Fe. Harvey diners will serve breakfast, luncheon and dinner each day to and from Mexico City, which are included in the all-expense tour.

The train, providing every service, including barbers, will be manned by an English-speaking Mexican crew.

Clients of the tour will be taken on sight-seeing trips at Austin with a visit to the capitol. Governor Allred has been asked to address the group. There will be tours at San Antonio, where the sunken gardens, the Alamo and other historic points will be visited; at Nuevo Laredo for a visit at night club; at Monterrey, Mexico, where there will be entertainment in the beautiful gardens of the Monterrey Brewing company; at Chihuahua and at Juarez, picturesque resort Staps also will be made at El Paso and at Albuquerque on the swing through New Mexico.

At Destination June 17

Stops of three to eight hours will be made for these educational and entertaining side trips.

The train will arrive early Monday morning, June 17, in Mexico City and remain until 11 o'clock on the night of Friday, June 21.

Mr. Hawk now is negotiating for suites in one of the large hotels where patrons of this tour may have headquarters.

"Popularity of this tour will exceed that of all others," declared Mr. Hawk. "The cost is exceedingly low."

Flood of Inquiries

Mason King said yesterday letters of inquiry about a special train already have been received from many states—Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Colorado, Nebraska, Arizona, Wyoming, Montana and the Dakotas.

Many of these patrons will drive their cars to Amarillo to board the special, storing their machines here for the return trip home.

Reservations may be made now by making a deposit of only $20, the balance to be paid as late as five days before the special leaves Amarillo.

"It will be first come, first served," declared Mr. Hawk. "In other words those who make reservations early will have their choice of train accommodations."

Birthday To Be Celebrated In 3700 Cities

3730 Rotary Clubs In World With Membership Of Nearly 154,000

The 30th anniversary of the founding of Rotary, on February 23, is being celebrated this week in more than 3700 cities all over the world.

An increase during the last five years of an average of one new club every three days has brought the membership of Rotary International to 3,730 Rotary clubs, with nearly 154,000 Rotarians, within a few hundreds of the highest total in the history of Rotary, and steadily increasing.

"If we will but observe the evident signs of encouragement," said President R. L. Hill, of Columbia, Missouri, U. S. A., "we shall realize that Rotary is succeeding. Everywhere I go I find a spirit of optimism in spite of trying times. Rotary is succeeding because Rotarians are striving for the things that count. We pick out the worth while things in life and do them."

In this extension of Rotary in the past five years, Rotary clubs have been organized in many additional countries on every continent. The most recent country to be added to the list is Lithuania, where a club was chartered at

Founder Of Rotary Sees His Idea Grow Around The World

Paul P. Harris

Paul P. Harris, who formed the first Rotary club at Chicago on February 23, 1905, was born April 19, 1862, at Racine, Wisconsin. He was educated in the public schools and academies in Vermont, the University of Vermont and Princeton University. He took his law course at the University of Iowa, graduated in 1891 and was admitted to the practice of law in Iowa the same year. He received his Illinois license as an attorney and counselor at law in 1896 and since then he has been engaged continuously in the practice of his profession in Chicago. On July 2, 1910, he married Miss Jean Thompson, a native of Edinburgh, Scotland.

He was presented with the honorary degree of doctor of laws by the University of Vermont on June 19, 1923. At the Detroit convention, June 28, 1934, he was presented with the Silver Buffalo Award of the Boy Scouts of America in recognition of his service and the service of Rotarians everywhere to the Boy Scout movement.

After completing his law course in 1891, he spent the following five years in seeing the world and learning to know his fellows by actual contact with them under all sorts of conditions. He worked as a reporter on daily papers in San Francisco and Denver, rode the range in the cow country clubs in other cities. It was three years before the second club was organized in San Francisco, but within five years, sixteen of the largest cities in the United States had Rotary clubs.

When there were sixteen clubs in the United States, the founder felt that there should be some co-operation between them. With Chesley R. Perry, he brought together in Chicago the representatives of the sixteen clubs in August, 1910, and the National Association of Rotary Clubs was founded. Paul Harris was elected president and Chesley R. Perry, chairman of that convention, was elected secretary.

At the convention in 1912, the name International Association of Rotary Clubs was adopted, and charters were issued to Rotary clubs in Winnipeg, Canada, London, England, and Dublin, Ireland. The name was shortened to Rotary International in 1922.

Cuba was the first non-English speaking country to welcome Rotary. The Rotary Club of Havana was chartered in April, 1916. On the continent of Europe, the first club was founded at Madrid, Spain, in 1921. In South America, the first club was founded at Montevideo, Uruguay, in 1919. In Australia, the first club was formed at Melbourne in 1921. In Asia, the first club was formed at Shanghai, China, in 1919.

The name "Rotary" was suggested by Paul Harris from the early custom of holding the meetings of the club in the offices of the members in rotation. The founder also devised the classification principle, restricting membership in the Rotary club to but one man in each distinct line of business or profession.

From the name "Rotary" and the thought of rotation among one's friends, came the inspiration for the Rotary emblem, first a simple wheel and later the cog wheel, officially adopted in 1924. At the second convention, 1911, the expression: "He profits most who serves best," was adopted as the best expression of the principles of Rotary. Some years later the phrase "Service Above Self" was coined and the two expressions were united in 1916 to form the Rotary motto of today.

pleked oranges in southern Louisiana, sold marble and granite on the Atlantic twice on cattle ships, and made a third trip to Europe on business.

In 1896 he felt he had gained sufficient practical knowledge to be of service to his clients and opened a law office in Chicago. He has neither friends nor relatives in Chicago. His first years as a lawyer were marked by the discouragement and struggles which are typical of beginners in his profession. He had much time for reflection and pondering much on conditions of life and business in a large city. In 1905, as a result of his study and reflections, Mr. Harris had formulated a definite philosophy of business relations. Calling together three of his friends, each of whom was engaged in a different line of business, he expounded his theory to them. This group was the nucleus of the Rotary Club of Chicago.

Through the propaganda of Paul Harris, this novel organization soon had counterparts in other cities in the United States. In this extension work the acquaintance Paul Harris had made in the five years that he knocked around the country were of material assistance to him in the establishment of new clubs.

After a few years the necessity for some organization to bind these different clubs together became apparent. Thereupon Paul Harris, Chesley R. Perry and others called a convention in 1910 of the 16 Rotary clubs then in existence and the National Association of Rotary Clubs in America was organized. Later through the extension of the movement into Canada and Great Britain, the International Association of Rotary Clubs was formed. This later was renamed Rotary International. Harris was third President of the Rotary Club of Chicago, the first president of the national association and the first president of the international association of Rotary clubs and is president-emeritus of Rotary International.

Sport Slants

Among Their Sporting Souvenirs

Athletes are slow to discard the things which they feel added them in their moments of triumph. It might be a piece of equipment, part of their raiment, or simply some good luck charm. In some instances they would feel lost without these comforting tokens.

Jack Dempsey's famous sweater, tattered and torn in long service, was indispensable to his peace of mind. An old picture of the old Manassa Mauler presented in this ancient style coat sweater with pockets as he entered the ring to defend his title for a purse of half a million dollars or more. The old garment must have been a relic of his earliest fighting experience. You couldn't have driven Jack into the ring without it.

Then there was Tony Lazzeri with his antiquated fielders' glove. Worn—and torn—from long, hard usage, it barely clung together on his hand. Do you think Tony would discard it when he came up to the big league with the Yankees? Indeed, he would not.

He would most likely still be using it had he Babe Ruth spotted it one afternoon on his way to his position in right field.

"No wonder you've been making so many errors," Babe roared, and with a mighty heave tossed the glove into the crowded grandstand. Somehow or other Tony managed to struggle long with a new glove.

Method In Dazzy's Madness

Foxy old Dazzy Vance hated to part with the old undershirt, even though it was slit from the wrist clear to the elbow. Just a lucky shirt, the old speed-ball pitcher would explain. He discarded it only after the officials decided that the flapping of the torn sleeve disconcerted the batter when Dazzy delivered a ball—something the Dazzy more than likely knew all the while.

Bobby Jones' famous putter, "Calamity Jane," played an important part in scoring his historic grand slam. When Bobby retired from
