Matadors Prepare For 1985 Season

The Motley County Matadors opened the 1985 football season with summer practice on August 12. The first four days of practice were spent in helmets and shoes becoming acclimated to the heat and humidity. The Matadors are and humidity. The Matadors are also busy learning a new offense and defensive system under first year head coach Chip-Hollenback. Assisting Hollenback in the fall campaign are Randall "Moe" Eddleman, Billy Wilson, and Michael Hurley.

The week began with a series of strength and speed tests to of strength and speed tests to help the coaching staff evaluate the players. In the leg press, Rodney Doran and Cody Christian tied for first place with a lift of 420 pounds. David Stafford came in second place with a lift of 400 lbs., followed by Paul Block at 380. In the bench press, David Stafford came out on top with a mighty lift of 215 lbs. Brandt Bearden and Darryl Perryman tied for second place with a lift of 195. Paul Block and Cody Christian tied for third place with a lift of 175. In the two arm curl lift, Darryl Perryman came in first place with a great lift of 120 lbs. Paul Block, Rodney the players. In the leg press, Rodney Doran and Cody Doran, and David Stafford, tied for second each with a lift of 105 for second each with a lift of 105 lbs. Although Coach Hollenback was pleased with the effort exhibited during the strength testing, he believes there is potential for much improvement. "We need to keep lifting weights throughout the season to become stronger. This will not only make us better football players, but also reduce the chances for injury," explained Hollenback.

Mini-Thoughts On Theology

"Alleluia! For the Lord God omnipotent reigneth." Revelation 19:6. The scene in heaven was one of joyful worship. Not only the multitudes worshiped, John worshiped.

In this world we see tragedy, corruption and evil all around us and sometimes forget that even in these desperate days, that the Lord God reigneth!

He may not immediately, nor always, interfere in the affairs of but He is an excellent bookkeeper and does not fail to record our affairs.

The tense of "reigneth" in the Greek implies past, present and continuous action. The song in heaven of praise does not just heaven of praise does not just celebrate a truth of centuries ago, neither do we have just celebrate a truth of centuries ago, neither do we have to wait for the future, the Lord who is All Powerful, is and forever will be the One who rules! And Christians can join the song of praise now. "Alleluia"!

Tribune Announces New Fall Subscription Rates

The Matador Tribune announces new fall subscription rates which will be effective September 1, 1985.

Subscribers in Motley and adjoining counties will pay $12.00 for 12 months. Subscribers sleewhere in Texas will pay $13.00 for 12 months. All out of state subscribers will pay $14.00 for 1 year.

Subscribers over 65 years of age may deduct $1.00 off any yearly subscription.

These rates are still a savings as compared to 52 issues bought out of the newsstand at 30¢ each which in a year's time would be $15.60.

Our new rates are well in line with many of the area newspapers and still below many. Our cost to print and mail the paper is partially responsible for this increase. Hopefully it will be the last one for a long time.

Glenn, Texas Thriving Little Town 50 Years Ago

by Beverly Bridge Darsey

(The followin following information btained through an interview conducted by Beverly Darsey on February 26, 1985, with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yeates of with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yeates of Roaring Springs, Mr. H. I. "Skinny" Yeates of Dickens, Mrs. Hortense (Yeates) Goddwin of Afton, and Dorlores (Goodwin) Fox of Afton.

Information concerning establishment of the postoffice and its postmasters and postmistresses was obtained from A History of Dickens County by Fred Arrington.)

When Glenn, Texas, was first established in 1927, it was named Dobbs City. Elgin Dobkins is credited with starting the little town when he moved a cotton gin from Afton to Dobbs City in the summer of 1927. In the same year Mrs. Bertie Lawson moved a grocery store from Afton to a site across the trail just south of the gin.

Long before 1927, the townsite was made up of townsite was made up of Matador Ranch pasture and the Bradford family homestead. The gin was moved to what was once the Bradford homestead land on the northwest corner of an intersection between an east-west trail and the main road from Roaring Springs to Dickens.

The first grocery store sat on the southwest corner (on the Fretwell family's land).

As Dobb City grew in the decades to follow, new buildings were built and moved in both north and south of Mrs. Lawson's grocery store to form a "main street" of grocery stores, service stations, ice house, residences, cafes, garages, blacksmith shops, a tent theatre, a barber shop, a beauty shop, the gin and gin office, and even a "bootlet" establishment at one time.

The little town sat on the south east border of the Duncan Flat establishment at one time.

The little town sat on the south east border of the Duncan Flat community and was called Dobbs City by community residents after the Dobkins family who founded it. Across the road from the line of business establishments was the western border of the Afton community. Dobbs City was located about 13 miles north of Dickens and 9 miles south of Roaring Springs on what is now Texas Highway 70.

The first citizens of Dobbs City were the Fretwells, the Clad Bradfords, and the Elgin Dobkins. Others who followed were Dan Carley, the Paul Boxters, the W. F. Clements, the Slim Wilsons, the Marshall Earnests, the Chester Gosdens, the Harry Blendens the Jim Greenwoods, and the John Jacksons.

Greenwoods, and the John Jacksons.
The first grocery store was sold in about 1929 by Mrs. Bertie Lawson to her son Alton Lawson who ran it for about a year. He then sold it to Arthur Lay and Mac Brantley. Jimmy Dunlap ran the store for awhile, followed by Marshall Earnest.

Because of the amount of Because of the amount of business generated in this crossroads between two communities, Mr. Lay and Mr. Brantley built another grocery store south of the first one. In between these 2 grocery stores, each of which also served as gas stations, either husinesses and stations, other businesses and stations, other businesses and even a residence were built. Just south of the first grocery was a narrow building housing the first cafe which was opened by Walter Newman.

South of the cafe was a garage, then Dan Carley's house, then the second grocery store, then Paul Baxter's garage, and Paul Baxter's house (once the Fretwell house) on the southernmost town lot. On the gin lot at one time you

On the gin lot at one time you could find not only the gin and its office, but also a cafe and the Dobkins residence.

The post office was established November 25, 1933. The Marshall Earnest family worked to get the post office established and submitted the name Dobks City However this established and submitted the name, Dobbs City. However, this name was unacceptable due to its similarity to another Texas postoffice. So the names of the 3 Dobkins children were submitted: Joyce, Glenn, and Carmen. The U. S. Postal Service accepted the name of Glenn for the post office.

accepted the name of Glenn for the post office.

The first postmistress was Lela Mae White. The office was located inside the southernmost grocery store. Other postmasters and postmistresses followed: Wiley R. "Bodie" Stafford, Ruth E. Blenden, Nova E. Gosden, Sam M. Newberry, Clara F. Baxter, and Eula Mae Arthur. On August 31, 1955, the post office was discontinued.

The narrow cafe building at

The narrow cafe building at one time housed Glenn's only barbershop. Casey Allridge served as the community's

In the late 1930's Clarence Bowman and Paul Baxter built a little garage. Later Paul bought out Clarence and added on to the building. When Dan Carley was working in the garage, some gasoline caught on fire and the building burned down. No one was injured. In the late 1940's Paul Braddock built the garage back again.

In the late 1930's when business was booming in Glenn, the Jim Greenwood family felt the Jim Greenwood family felt that Glenn needed another cream station even though each of the 2 grocery stores already had creameries, so they opened one across the road on the southeast corner of the intersection which their son, J. B. Greenwood, ran. Early residents say that it lasted only about a month. This cream station was say that it lasted only about a month. This cream station was the only business ever established on the east side of the road in Glenn.

In the 1930's Mr. and Mrs. Jim Greenwood also built a house on the northeast corner of the intersection on 160 acres which they purchased from the Matador Ranch.

Glenn once had 2 garages at the same time. Each also served as gasoline stations, each with 2 pumps-one for regular and one as gasoline stations, each with 2 pumps--one for regular and one for ethyl. Paul Baxter's garage was on the south next to his house, and Slim Wilson had one located south of the narrow cafe. A part of Mr. Wilson's garage also housed a blacksmith shop. Both grocery stores also sold gas (2 pumps each). This made Glenn an 8-pump town at one time.

Early grocery store owners included Mrs. Bertie Lawson, Alton Lawson, Arthur Lay, Mac Brantley, Ed Glazner, Harry Blenden, Chester and Nova Gosden, Lonnie Harris, Sam Newberry and John and Leona Jackson. Managers of these stores included Jimmy Dunlap, Marshall Earnest, and Bruce and Lois Thornton.

Lois Thornton.
Five different cafes served Glenn during its busiest years; however, only one at a time. The first was the narrow cafe just south of the first grocery. It was run by Walter Newman. The second cafe was housed in the same narrow building and run by Gladys and Slim Wilson and later by Evelyn Lawson and her younger brother Billy Joe "Buddy" Lawson. The third cafe was opened in the front portion of Paul Baxter's and run by his wife, garage and Clara Baxter Clara Baxter.

The fourth cafe was housed in the back part of the north grocery store and was run by Alma Lee Yeates. The fifth cafe was located in a 1 1/2 story building on the east side of the gin lot. Alma Lee Yeates ran it first, followed by Betty Jean Baxter.

Each cafe was a very popular meeting place. The one operated by Mr. and Mrs. Wilson is remembered for its punch board games with prizes of candy, money, and other merchandise.

Johnney Baxter, who worked in the creamery in the back of Marshall Earnest's grocery store, somehow caught on fire in the store and ran out into the open quite a distance before someone was able to catch him and smother the flames with a coat. He survived with minor injuries.

The Elgin Dobkins family was originally from Hollis, Oklahoma. After living in Roaring Springs for a while, they moved the gin to Dobbs City in 1927 and began residence on the gin lot east of the gin. Later their son, Glenn, ran the gin.

The gin was eventually sold by Glenn Dobkins to the West Texas Gin Company (also known as Quanah Cotton Oil Company).

the gin, and Mrs. Belle (Yeates) Hinson served as bookkeeper. In the mid-to-late 1950's the gin was closed. Tom and Gerald Yeates bought the gin building, and the equipment was moved out by the West Texas Gin Company.

Glenn also had a beauty shop in 1958 located west of main street which was operated by Mrs. James (Bernice) Cook.

Glenn never had a cemetery, a school, or a church. The nearest church was the Baptist Church in the Duncan Flat community. However, community residents recall several summer revivals held at Glenn in the early 1930's under a cotton-bale-bagging arbor. In the summer of 1933 the revival was led by Brother Keith, a Baptist preacher.

Social Security In Motley County

By Terry J. Clements

Many people with medicare protection and their families may not be aware of a new type of medicare benefit designed to help people who are terminally ill to live the rest of their days with some degree of comfort and dignity. "Hospice care" is primarily a comprehensive home care program which provides all the reasonable and necessary medical and support services for the management of a terminal illness, including pain control.

the management or a terminal illness, including pain control. Although the patient is usually cared for in the home, hospice services can be provided in an institution. The care must be institution. The care must be provided by a public agency or private organization certified by medicare to provide hospice services.

In general, care outside a hospital is less expensive for both medicare and the patient. Medicare pays the hospice directly for the full cost of all of the reasonable and necessary covered services it provides for a terminal illness and related health problems. There are no deductibles and co-payments, except for two items. These include drugs or biological for pain relief and symptom management and inpatients respite care--a short term respite care--a short term inpatient stay to enable the person who regularly assists the patient to get some temporary

The hospice can charge 5 percent of the reasonable cost, up to maximum of $5, for each outpatient prescription for pain

ment. The hospice can also charge 5 percent of the cost of the inpatient stay, up to a total of $400 in 1985. The patient may not be charged more than this amount during a period of hospice care.

To be eligible for medicare-covered hospice care, the patient's doctor and the hospice medical director must certify that the patient has a terminal illness; the patients must sign a statement choosing hospice care instead of standard medicare benefits for the terminal illness; and the patient must receive care from the medicare-certified hospice program.

Since medicare hospital insurance covers the full cost of all medical and support services for the terminal condition, the patient generally gives up the right to payment for standard medicare benefits for the terminal illness when hospice care is chosen.

Medicare can pay for the maximum of two 90-day periods of care and one 30-day period. However, if a patient still needs benefic activities the state of the state hospice services after the hospice periods are exhausted, the hospice must continue care unless the patient no longer wants hospice services.

The Health Care Financing Administration publishes a pamphlet, Hospice Benefits Under Medicare, which is available at social security

But in the 1960's it dwindled to one grocery store and service station owned by John and Leona Jackson. That store closed in the late 1960's.

However, in about 1979 or 1980, Charles "Chuck" Haney again opened the store. He later sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Cooper. Mrs. Cooper (Cean) runs the grocery store with a cafe in the back. In 1985 Glenn once again provides food and other merchandise, hot meals, and even entertainment for the surrounding residents. Bridge, Dominoes, and "42" are enjoyed within the store on many occasions. The little town has now here me known as "Coppers." "Coopers become known as Country Corner."

Motley County will be running the split back veer offense this fall. This offense was developed fall. This offense was developed by Bill Yeoman at the University of Houston several years ago and continues to be a very successful method for moving the football. Jim Walker has been very successful in using this offense to turn the football fortunes of Texas Christian University around in recent years. "We like this offense because it allows our running backs to hit the line of scrimmage very quickly, while at the same time threatening the entire front of the defense. By hitting the line time threatening the entire front of the defense. By hitting the line of scrimmage so quickly, it makes the job of our offensive linemen much easier. Since the defense is not sure where the football is actually going, it also prevents them from gang tackling our ball carrier," explained Hollenback.

Defensively, the Matandar will.

Defensively, the Matadors will employ a 6-2 defense with many shifts and variations to confuse and stop the opponents' offenses. "We want to make things as simple as possible for our players, while at the same time, make things as confusing as possible for our opponents" commented Hollenback. The coaching staff has been very pleased at how quickly the players have been learning the new system. However, "The real work is just beginning. Now the players must learn to physically execute the offense and defense on the field against live opposition," added Hollenback. The first week of practice produced quite a few reasons for optimism concerning the upcoming season. Richard Potts has been improving daily at quarterback, and the trio of Brandt Bearden, Cody Christian, and Rodney Doran, provide the Matadors with three solid running backs. The offensive line will be very young, with as many running backs. The offensive line will be very young, with as many as three Freshmen having a chance to rack the starting lineup. Paul Block has been doing a good job at offensive center, and top newcomers include Brandon Eddleman, David Stafford, Gilbert Guerrero, and Tim Kendall. Darryl Perryman and Les Woolsey are also being counted on to provide solid performances in the offensive line.

"We expect to field a very competitive football team this fall. We have a good group of Seniors who are working hard and giving us good leadership. But we are also a young team and it is going to be very important for our young players to mature and develop quickly to give us the added numbers we need. Like most small schools, we need. Like most small schools, we do not have a lot of depth, so it will be very important for us to avoid injuries to have a successful season," commented

Most people at one time or another, have suffered from the another, have suffered from the ugly, annoying skin lesions known as warts. These benign growths of the skin are caused by a virus. Warts occur most commonly in teenagers and are seen most often in girls. While they cannot be passed from one person to another, it is frequently seen that an initial lesion, called seen that an initial lesion, called a mother wart, can give rise to satellite lesions. Occasionally one might see a cluster of warts which is called a mosiac wart. These are especially resistant to the body but are most commonly seen on the hands and the feet and when warts occur here they are known as plantar warts

These are no different from warts in any other place except that they occur on a weight bearing area. The pressure from weight bearing causes the wart to grow into the skin instead of forming a bump of the surface. Thus, a plantar wart can look like a simple callus.

Your family podiatrist (foot doctor) can distinguish between warts and other lesions. If he finds that a wart is causing the problem then treatment that can be used since warts can be stubborn. Sometimes alternative forms of treatment must be utilized to sucessfully remove utilized to successfully remove them. a doctor may try to kill the wart by applying acid, dry ice, or liquid nitrogen to it. He may also inject the lesion with a vitamin A preparation or with an anti-viral serum. In some cases surgical serum. In some cases surgical removal is indicated.

Myths About Seat Belts

It is indeed strange thinking about seat belts that permits so much death and suffering in the name of personal convenience and unwrinkled clothing, says a safety official.

and unwrinkled clothing, says a safety official.

Most of this "strange thinking" is based on a number of common myths about seat belts, says Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Services, the Texas A&M University System.

--Myth: Seat Belts are unnecessary for short trips.

--Fact: More than 70 percent of injury-causing traffic accidents occur within 25 miles of home, according to the National Safety Council. More than 80 percent of all collisions happen at speeds of under 40 mph. People who were not wearing seat belts have been killed in accidents that occurred at speeds as low as 12 mph--about the speed you would be driving in a parking lot.

--Myth: Seat belts trap people inside cars, and I'd rather be thrown clear.

--Myth: Seat belts trap people inside cars, and I'd rather be thrown clear.
--Fact: "Thrown clear" is a misnomer. Being thrown from a vehicle usually means flying through the windshield or catapulting out a door. The force of a collision can fling you as much as 150 feet onto a roadside abject, into the path of corcening object, into the path of oncoming traffic or scraping along the pavement. For these reasons, if you are thrown from a vehicle in an accident, your chances of being killed are 25 percent greater. What's more, instead of being trapped, belted occupants are likely to be conscious and unhurt, and therefore better able to escape dangers.

-Myth: Seat belts cause

--Fact: Study after study in the United States and abroad show a substantial decrease in the a substantial decrease in the number of serious injuries in actual auto accidents among those who are belted versus those who aren't. In the rare instances where injuries due to belts have been reported, either the belt was unappropriately worn or the crash was so severe that or the crash was so severe that the occupants would have been killed or seriously injured of they had been unbelted. --Myth: I don't need belts since I'm a careful driver.

-- Fact: No matter how good a --Fact: No matter how good a driver you are, you can't control the other car. There's no way to protect yourself against someone else's bad driving, poor judgements or mechanical failures. Even good drivers can be killed or injured in a crash.

--Myth: I don't need seat belts;

I can brace myself.

at just 10 mph is equivalent to catching a 200-pound bag of cement thrown from a first-story window, according to the National Safety Council. At 35 mph, the force of impact is even more brutal. There's no way your arms and legs can brace you against that kind of force--even if you could react in time.
