

County Cuts Tax Rate for 3rd Year in Succession

IT CAN and HAS happened here. In an economy powered by inflation rockets, in the face of consistently rising cost of operation, Motley County has reduced taxes for the third year in succession. The reduction will be 5c on the $100 valuation, making the 1962 rate $1.15. There has been no increase in property valuation. The new rate will be the lowest since 1935. Motley County is in a sound financial position (report will be published next week). It has no outstanding debts. Total bonded indebtedness is approximately $123,000, with about $98,000 of this amount being courthouse bonds. The county is on a pay-as-you-go basis. Judge Elbert Reeves said yesterday that it is believed the total valuation will be $8,000,000, largest in the county's history. Oil property is responsible for part of the increase over last year. Other factors, however, are responsible for the increase. For two years much of the former Matador Ranch was unstocked. The loss in cattle taxes alone was more than the increase in oil. New homes, better farming equipment and restocking of the ranges and general improvements, added to the advance in oil production has brought the county's tax value to the estimated $8 million. County Commissioners Monday agreed on the 5c reduction, but it cannot become official until after completion of meetings budget in September. Action cannot be effected until after completion of meetings of county board of equalization, nor before the new tax rate is placed on the minutes of the court in the form of a final order. Also, tax rolls, which are dependant on completion of tax equalization hearings, must be completed. The budget must be put in final form, advertised and placed on view at the County Clerk's office for three weeks, and public hearings must be held before the new rate can go into effect.

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Importance is difficult to magnify against the backdrop of a multi-million star universe. Shorn of his garments of immortality, man becomes a satellite of cosmic dust, a filament in the seething chemistry of life.

Birth control in government administration seems a logical place to give the idea popular appeal.

Auto trains on the highways might solve some traffic problems. Even those going in a direction opposite from their destination, could enjoy the satisfaction of moving.

Sandals that once falter in doubt make the journey twice its length.

A way to weigh words is to keep them in the heart until they are gentle and until the lips will speak them softly.

A Lubbock radio station has banned the use of Billy Sol Estes name for a week. The movement was approved in Washington with the assurance of further extensions and the same privilege to all other news media.

An expression of gratitude is frosting on the fine cake of social advancement.

Drifted sand is the register with signatures of passing winds enroute to tomorrows.

30 YEARS TAXES LESS IN COUNTY

If you have been paying taxes for many years and they have seemed high, consider the evidence in County Judge Elbert Reeves' office regarding a tract of land in neighboring Cottle County.

For 30 years two pieces of land (one of 72.5 acres and another of 37 acres) belonging to Swenson Land & Cattle Co. have been taxed in Motley County. The two pieces of land on the boundary of the two counties have been in dispute. Resurveying of county lines proved that the land is in Cottle County. Motley County refunded the taxes for 30 years.

The amount was $130.97. Cottle County taxes on the two identical pieces of real estate for the same 30 years was $337.51. The Swenson Ranch will be forced to pay the difference.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

I will be in Ft. Sill, Okla., from July 15-29 on active duty with the USAR. My office will remain open during this time, and if you need information, leave a note on the desk, and I will take care of the matter when I return.

Farmers and ranchers are reminded that time for filing a claim for refund of Federal Tax on gasoline used on the farm or ranch is here. Claims may be filed from July 1st to September 30, 1962, and cover purchases from July 1, 1961 through June 30, 1962. All gasoline used for farming purposes, even though used by a custom operator or employee on your place can be claimed. Where a vehicle is used both on the farm for farming purposes and for non-farming purposes (highway use), a percent of use for each must be determined to make a claim for the farm use portion of gasoline used. Form 2240 is being mailed to those who have submitted a previous claim, and the people are urged to use these cards. Those applying for their first gasoline tax refund ($0.04 per gallon), and those losing cards, cards and a copy for their records may be obtained at my office. The card is to be mailed to The District Director of Internal Revenue, Dallas, Texas, and the copy kept to support your claim. No records should be sent with the claim card, but records kept to prove claims if they are questioned. The law provides criminal penalties for filing a false or fraudulent claim. Farmers and ranchers are also reminded that this claim is not for the state tax, which must be made on a separate form.

Cattle grubs cost livestock producers, and this loss can be reduced by using controls. All insecticides should be used between the time heel flies appear and before the grubs appear in the backs of animals. Coral and Ruelene may be used as sprays or pour-on insecticides and Coral may also be used as a dip. Ronnel (Trolene) is a systemic and may be fed to the animals in the normal feeding operation either in the feed or in mineral. For detailed information, follow the instructions on the label. Relative to the 4-H camp at Roaring Springs on July 31-August 1, Curly Hays of West Texas Utilities, Abilene, will be in charge of the swimming program. John Thomas, Extension Entomologist from Lubbock, will be in charge of the Entomology training; Blueford Hancock, Extension Horticulturist from College Station, will be in charge of Plant Life training, and Norrel Wallace, Information and Education Officer of the Texas Game and Fish Commission, San Angelo, will be in charge of Wildlife training. 4-H members will be divided into three groups determined by the grade they were in during the past school year. Groups are high school, seventh and eighth grades, and the sixth grade and below. Swimming periods have been arranged, and campers will receive a schedule when they register between 9 and 10 the morning of the 31st. Two classes will be held the 1st day, and one in the second day of camp. There will be a night program Tuesday night, and camp will break up at 2:00 Wednesday afternoon. Motley, Dickens and Kent counties will be represented.

The boll weevil situation is not looking good. I checked fields belonging to Curtis Murphy and Lon Terry in the Roaring Springs area on the 3rd, and found that about 25 to 35 percent of the squares were punctured, with grubs of all stages present. No adult weevils were found. Controls applied at this stage will not help, as insecticides will not penetrate to the grubs. Fields should be checked every four or five days, and when adult weevils are found, and the percent of punctured squares is over 15 to 25 percent controls are justified. At least four or five applications at five day intervals should be applied, as one spray will only kill the weevils that it comes in contact with, leaving those that emerge at a later date to continue damaging the crop.

No fleahoppers were found, but this is no sign they are not in other fields, or may appear at a later date. Time to start flea-hopper control is when 15 or more hoppers are found per 100 plants, and the plant is not loading up as it should.

Rogers Would Limit Authority of Courts

NOTE: Congressman Walter Rogers, in his weekly newsletter of July 1, printed below, explains the danger of unbridled power of the Supreme Court, with reference to the New York school prayer case. Representative Rogers introduced a resolution on January 3, 1961, which would limit the power of the courts by Congress. He believes the people through their elected representatives should have the power to overrule a decision of the Supreme Court; to provide "Government by Law, Not Man."

GOVERNMENT BY LAW, NOT MAN

There has been much disturbance throughout the land about the decision of the Supreme Court in the New York School Prayer Case. I think it would be well for all people in this country to read the decision very carefully and to digest it. Many take the position that it was for the preservation of complete separation of Church and State.

Others argue that it was encroachment upon the States' rights, that it was anti-religious, and that the decision was more unconstitutional than the New York law and practice involved. The familiar cry of "impeach the Supreme Court" has come from many quarters. Of course, this means impeachment of the men themselves and not the Court. If this suggestion was followed on each occasion that a decision is handed down that was controversial, there would probably be a continuing impeachment proceeding, which would accomplish nothing insofar as correcting any possible defect in the governmental structure of this country.

The fact is that our forefathers recognized the shortcomings of men and established a government of law, as opposed to a government by man. They envisioned a representative form of government in which the will of the governed would be adhered to in accordance with laws adopted under rules of parliamentary procedure designed to protect the rights of all.

The Constitution has withstood many onslaughts through the ages, and in my humble opinion, will continue to support a government of free men in this great country. I have said before and I here repeat, that if there is any one major defect in the structure which could be the Achilles' heel, it is the unlimited power of the Supreme Court on the question of constitutionality of statutes adopted by the legislative branch of the government. Several years ago, I wrote a newsletter on this subject in which I related the story that occurred early in our Republic that brought into focus the problem that could prove to be the major difficulty in our philosophy of political science.

The Marbury Case

The decision in the case of Marbury vs. Madison, which was rendered by Chief Justice John Marshall at the time Thomas Jefferson was President of the United States, set the precedent that the Supreme Court had the power to declare the Acts of Congress unconstitutional. John Marshall was President Adams' Secretary of State. President Adams was defeated by Thomas Jefferson in the December 3, 1800 election. As a lame duck Administration, attempts were made to fill all open offices with followers of Adams and Marshall before Jefferson took over. President Adams appointed John Marshall to the No. 1 post, that is, the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. He appointed many others, including a man named Marbury to the office of Justice of the Peace. Marshall, in the confusion of closing out the Administration, failed to issue a commission to Marbury. Hence, Marbury filed suit against James Madison, who had been appointed Secretary of State by Jefferson. The suit was filed in the Supreme Court, although there was serious question about the jurisdiction of the Court.

The usual procedure would have been to dismiss the case for want of jurisdiction, however John Marshall resorted to an Act to control the procedures in Federal Courts. He indicated that, although the Supreme Court could not hear the Marbury case under constitutional restrictions, there were provisions in the Judiciary Act, a statute passed by Congress, that would permit the Supreme Court to hear the case. He then proceeded to hold that because the Judiciary Act was in conflict with the Constitution, such Act was unconstitutional and void.

This action on the part of John Marshall has been interpreted as a master stroke of a devoted advocate to centralized government. It created the doctrine that the Supreme Court had the power to declare Acts of Congress unconstitutional, a power which was bitterly opposed by Jefferson's followers. It is interesting to note that John Marshall served on the Court for 35 years yet never again declared an act of Congress unconstitutional.

All of this simply means that whatever Act is passed by the Congress, or a State Legislature, the Supreme Court has the power to declare unconstitutional. Should a corrective Act be passed, the Supreme Court has the power to declare that Act unconstitutional. The question is not as to the probability of a Supreme Court ever doing this, but we must admit the presence of the possibility.

Under the circumstances, I have long supported the contention that the Constitution should be amended so that the elected representatives of the people might have the same power to overrule a decision of the Supreme Court declaring a statute unconstitutional as the legislative branch has to override a veto of the President.

On January 3, 1961, I introduced H. J. Res. 79 proposing an amendment to the Constitution, the pertinent part of which reads as follows: "Section 1. The Congress shall have power, by statute passed by two-thirds of each House of Congress to limit the authority of courts of the United States to determine that statutes of the United States or of any State are repugnant to the Constitution of the United States."

Should the time come that this amendment is approved, any controversy as to a situation such as the decision in the New York Prayer Case, could be promptly argued and debated on the Floor of Congress, and such action taken as may be warranted by the true facts. It has been my feeling that this would provide a proper means of true representative government.

—Walter Rogers, MC

Scout Group Enjoys Trip to Philmont

Under the leadership of Douglas Pitts Jr., is a group of seven Scouts and Explorers who are taking an expedition through Philmont Scout Ranch, the National Camping Area of the Boy Scouts of America.

This expedition is part of the annual outdoor program of the South Plains Council Boy Scouts. Philmont Scout Ranch, located in the Sangre de Cristo range in northeastern New Mexico, covers an area of two hundred square miles of rugged, mountainous country. This 127,000-acre ranch was given in 1909 to the Boy Scouts of America by Waite Phillips, a Pioneer Oklahoma oil man. He realized that his property held many educational opportunities for the youth of America. From its early beginnings Philmont has grown to its capacity amount of 15,000 Scouts each summer. Mr. Pitts is the advisor to this expedition from Matador. He should be commended for giving his time to accompany this group of young men on an experience of high adventure which they will never forget. The following boys are members of this crew: Don Seigler, Kenneth Pitts, Roger Vinson, John Barnhill, Matador; J. M. Willson III, Floydada; and Dusty Bailey and Rex Harmon, both of Quitaque.
