Cold, Damp Weather Invades Area

Funnel Clouds Spotted

In Area Friday Night

Fall moved into the Muleshoe area this week, bringing rain, some hail, funnel clouds and cold, damp weather. Saturday morning a dense fog had moved in bringing visibility down to a minimum.

Friday night, the Muleshoe Law Enforcement Center was flooded with calls concerning a reported funnel cloud. Patrolman Jim Barnes reported spotting the funnel cloud about seven miles southwest of the city about 7:15 p.m. The dispatcher on duty said she received from 50-60 telephone calls reporting the funnels. Several funnel clouds were spotted by local people. The dispatcher said she called the Lubbock Weather Station, but they could not pick up a funnel on their radar.

The moisture received from the cold front this week sparked some interest with the farmers, as this is the first notable moisture that has been received in several weeks. Now, if the weather clears off and some warm temperatures return to the South Plains, the cotton will mature and the grain will be ready for harvesting in a short time.

Some farmers south of Sudan reported some major hail damage on their cotton earlier this week. Evidently the hail damage was spotted around that immediate area.

Mrs. J.D. Bayless who lives two miles north of Enochs, reported that they received about a half inch of moisture this week. She said that they did not receive any hail this week but they did receive some hail last Saturday and about .6 inches of moisture, Mrs. Bayless said the hail knocked off a few of the cotton bolls, but the damage was not extensive. Mrs. Nelson Carlisle who lives two miles west and two miles north of Goodland, received .7 of an inch this week but did

SPAG Takes Action To Prevent Closing Of Wildlife Refuge

Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge was the main topic of discussion at the South Plains Association of Government Parks and Recreation Advisory Committee. On Tuesday, August 28, 1973 the Committee met to discuss current federal actions as they pertain to Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge located in Bailey County. Attending the meeting as guests were members of the Lubbock Audubon Society, the Manager of the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge, Bert Blair, and Henry Stoneham. The members of the Audubon Society indicated that the Society is against any decision that will result in the reduction of the protection force at the Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge. The Society went on to point out that they felt that this would more than likely lead to uncontrolled poaching, vandalism, or the eventual loss of the Refuge altogether. Also, that the Muleshoe Refuge is one of the extremely few areas in this part of Texas where one may go and observe the native flora and fauna, much as our forefathers must have seen it when they settled in that part of the country. Blair, the Wildlife Refuge Manager answered all questions proposed to him by both the Committee members and the Audubon Society members. For the most part, Blair concurred with the statements issued by the Audubon Society.

Investigation has revealed that this refuge is used extensively by the 15,00 Boy Scouts and the 5,200 Girl Scouts and their leaders within a 21 county region of the South Plains. They make use of the facilities for camping, Camporees, day camps, nature, ecology and conservation studies, and service projects on a year-round basis. School districts in the area, especially the Muleshoe Independent School District, uses this refuge for science classes and migrant summer school programs in the form of field trips which lead to further studies on the environment and animal habitats. University students and professors use the Muleshoe Refuge for scientific investigations leading toward advanced degrees.

For these reasons the SPAG Parks and Recreation Advisory Committee made recommendations to the SPAG Board of Directors that actions be taken which would prevent the closing of the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge.

On Thursday, August 30, 1973, the SPAG Board of Directors conducted a meeting in Lubbock. During the meeting the Board considered the Parks and Recreation Advisory Committee recommendations. The Board recommended that; in view of the fact that the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge, Texas was created as a wildlife refuge and served in that function as an effective facility; and that at least 22 threatened species of water fowl and song birds are known to winter or nest in this refuge, with 7 of these known to nest there; and that the reduction of the budget would severely curtail access to people, with the possible reduction of the protection of wildlife, the SPAG Board of Directors voted to write a letter to the appropriate federal and state elected officials. The Board also recommended that individual governments take those actions which they deem would be necessary to encourage the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife to reconsider their proposed actions.

The shuttles will depart from the station headquarters every 15 minutes throughout the afternoon, allowing visitors to get on or off at any field stop. Visitors will be able to examine and discuss the particular area in which they are interested for as long as they wish, then catch another shuttle when ready to move on."
Also, Tanksley adds, displays and exhibits of plant diseases, soil testing, plant physiology and a large machinery exhibit will be featured for public viewing.
"Because of the recent developments in the agricultural industry," Tanksley says, "both the producer and the consumer should be interested in the informative examination of agricultural research work being conducted on the South Plains."

Hedging Time For Beef?

COLLEGE STATION--"With futures prices on fed beef at record high levels, this might be a good time for livestock producers to do some hedging," says Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Futures prices are up due to rumors regarding the end of the price freeze and stories of meat shortages," says Uvacek. At last reports, the October fed cattle contracts were selling for $59.77 per hundredweight. September contracts for 600-700-pound Choice feeder steers were over $70 and are at $70.35 for November.

"Obviously, the speculators who are buying at these high prices have overlooked several economic facts," points out the Texas A&M University System specialist.

First, feeder prices usually drop in late summer and fall when marketings are heavy.
Second, the 1973 record high calf crop, four percent larger than the 1972 crop, combined with the low placements during the first half of the year has left about three million calves still available for feedlots.

Third, to break even, feedlots must put pressure on feeder prices until feed costs come down, which will probably be no sooner than this winter.

"If you agree that these weakening factors might bring feeder prices down, you may wish to hedge on the futures market. If so, remember these points," advises Uvacek.

--You do not have to deliver when you trade in futures contracts.

--You put up only $400 margin money per contract (representing 42,000 pounds of live 600-700-pound Choice steers).

--You sell a contract now at a high price and later buy a comparable contract back at a lower price.

--The futures transaction has no effect on your actual cattle operation, it merely serves as price insurance against a drop.

--Make sure you have enough risk capital to withstand one or more margin calls.

--If we're both wrong and the market moves up, you lose money on the futures trade but make money on your cattle.

Through imagination and planning, children can be well fed at breakfast—even if the mother works away from home and has limited time for food preparation.

"Such working mothers can prepare foods the evening before and refrigerate them. Then family members can grab these breakfast foods before rushing off to work or school.

"Some examples include sandwich makings, reconstituted fruit juice, nutritious cookies or meat pies.

Minicemeat, oatmeal-raisin or other nutritious cookies make ideal "quickie" breakfast foods that can be eaten "on the run"—so keep plenty on hand, the specialist advised.

Eat Breakfast In September

COLLEGE STATION--Breakfast begins a new day--so start out right.

September is "Better Breakfast Month" and the ideal time to get into the habit of eating a good breakfast, Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, said.

"It's important to every family member--especially youngsters starting back to school. Generally, students make better grades and learn more when they eat breakfast."

Breakfast is exactly what the name indicates--ending the fast from the night before, she continued.

"However, it doesn't have to consist of bacon, eggs, cereal or toast--any nutritious food will do if it furnishes one-fourth of the day's needs.

"Try hot dogs, hamburgers, cheese, beans, peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, soup, macaroni and cheese, creamed meat or fish over potatoes, or cottage cheese and fruit," Miss Reasonover suggested.

If we don't we could miss out on the greatest treasure of all-life with our Lord and saviour Jesus Christ, for without this wonderful promise that Jesus gave to us we would have no hope for life after death, and would be most miserable, so let us be ever mindful of his promise "I go to prepare a place for you" and will receive you unto myself. "That where I am there you may be also." What a wonderful promise this is, and a blessed thought to hope for. Without this hope of life beyond the grave, we would be most miserable.

Market Report

College Station -- Stretch, extend and substitute are key words consumers should apply to meat items this week.

This advice comes from Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"As a result, consumers rely on making the most efficient use of meat purchases--satisfying a family's meat hunger isn't easy these days."

The specialist recommended stretching available ground beef with bread, oatmeal, tapioca, ground carrots, mashed potatoes or cooked rice when preparing meatloaf.

"Or, for a delicious, unusual meatloaf, line the bottom of a pan with meat mixture, top with a layer of stuffing and another layer of meat."

Another technique for efficient use involves combining a small quantity of cooked meat with gravy or white sauce. Extend with vegetables--such as peas and carrots--and serve over toast, hot biscuits, rice, noodles or mashed potatoes.

"A smaller portion of meat served with part, bread, cheese, milk, eggs, yogurt, cottage cheese or cooked legumes provides enough nutrients to meet daily requirements of family members," Mrs. Clyatt emphasized.

This is also a good time to use other protein foods--such as peanuts, peanut butter, dry beans and peas, rice and macaroni products--as main dish items, the specialist contended.

"Call on fresh, frozen or canned fish as an economical stand-in for traditional meat," she added.

"Pork remains in short supply--with what's available priced relatively high. In general, pork shoulder steaks, Boston butt roasts, one fourth-loin cut into chops, liver and canned hams offer the best values."

Despite rising prices, eggs "hold their own" with most other protein foods, Mrs. Clyatt said. "Although in moderate supply, current price levels have tempered demand somewhat."

"Peach supplies are good, retailing the same to lower. Watermelons remain reasonably priced and in good supply with sizes somewhat larger. Plentiful pecos cantaloupes offer excellent flavor--so don't miss this taste treat.

"Seedless grapes, plums, prunes, bananas, honeydews, pineapples and pears also are worthy of consideration."

Vegetable prices, however, vary from store to store, the specialist warned.

"Generally, items in best supply at the most reasonable prices include cabbage, carrots, okra, dry yellow onions, squash, cucumbers, corn, cushaws, and rutabagas." Optimists in consumer-nutrition ranks these days point to the fact that most people eat more meat than they need for good nutrition anyway.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System is one.

She advocated this week that shoppers sharpen food buying habits--keeping in mind the improbability that all meat will vanish from diets.

"Simply plan meals with less meat," the specialist said.

"Combine meat and vegetables to make a little meat go a long way--beef stew hearty hamburger soup and ground meat extended with grated potatoes and onion are a few familiar examples.

"Teams of vegetables, such as zucchini, tomatoes and onions with a small amount of ground beef, ham or cheese make appetizing main dishes."

In poultry sections, fryer chickens took a small price dip with turkeys showing no change, this week, she noted.

Also, other protein foods serve as meat supplements. A smaller portion of meat served with milk, nuts, cooked beans or peas provides necessary protein at somewhat less cost than a larger meat serving.

"Although eggs, cheddar and cottage cheese show price increases, they still provide high-quality protein at a relatively moderate cost."

Noting bread in menus, Mrs. Clyatt advised buying by weight and looking for lower-priced "store brands."

Turning to desserts, she predicted "no problems these days with such an abundance of fresh WELCOME . . . Mrs. Dalton Mims, President, welcomed guests and presided over the short meeting of Muleshoe Classroom teachers.

At the vegetable counter head lettuce shows price decline, but quality isn't always tops, the specialist said. "Generally, dry yellow onion prices are a bit lower, so use them generously to flavor more bland foods."

MHS Spirit Runs High For First Game

Thrilling Summer For Cheerleaders

The Varsity Cheerleaders were on their toes this summer when they picked up four excellent ribbons at S. M. U. cheerleader camp. Camp started out the summer for the cheerleaders and the summer ended with the cheerleaders serving gatorade at the "two-a-days" football practice sessions. They raised "a bunch" of money this summer and raised enough money to have new suits made.

Enthusiasm is what it takes to be a cheerleader and it's for sure they've got plenty of THAT. Hope to see all of you at the games. Let's holler loud and show your SPIRIT!

Registration was held for all Muleshoe High students on August 24. 417 students were registered; 91 seniors, 111 juniors, 105 sophomores, and 110 freshmen. The smoothness of registration was attributed to Mrs. Miller's previous Typing II class. These girls typed all AGR cards and their work was appreciated very much. Good News and Bad News . . . Brucellosis Hearing Date Changed . . . Pink Bollworm Problems . . . Broiler, Egg Hatch Drop, Turkeys Increase.

Good and bad news faces Texas livestock producers relating to the screwworm situation. The Fall of the season is approaching, and this always means a build-up in screwworms. More than 1,000 cases have been confirmed in Texas so far this year, and it's expected this will increase considerably through the Fall.

Meantime, officials at the fly laboratory in Mission urge all livestock producers to check their herds regularly, treat wounds on livestock for screwworm control, and submit suspected samples of screwworms to the fly laboratory at Mission.

Your county agent or agriculture teacher has shipping vials which can be used free of postage charges to mail to the laboratory. The number of cases this year is very low compared to last year.

The good news about screwworms is that work is now underway on the sterile fly plant in southern Mexico. When that plant is in operation, 300,000,000 sterile flies per week will be dropped throughout Mexico to eradicate that pest there.

Once that is accomplished, the screwworm in Texas will be a thing of the past. But until that is finalized, authorities want all livestock producers to continue to submit suspected screwworm samples so that appropriate measures can be taken to fight the pest.

A PUBLIC hearing will be held in Room 117 Sam Houston Building, Austin, Oct. 1 by the Texas Animal Health Commission to discuss new brucellosis regulations for Texas as well as proposals for garbage feeding.

A series of hearings has been held throughout the state this past month to explain the regulations affecting brucellosis control. Everyone interested is invited to attend the meeting.

EGG production in Texas during July is six per cent below a month ago, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes. Egg production in Texas totaled 208,000,000 during July. The 11,000,000 layers averaged 61 eggs daily per 100 hens for the month.

Layers on hand were down six per cent from a year ago, and were down one per cent from June.

The July hatch of egg-type chickens in Texas during July is down one per cent from a year ago, and 42 per cent below a month ago.

The turkey hatch in Texas during July was up 26 per cent from a year ago, but is down 36 per cent from a month ago.

COTTON stalk destruction in the Lower Rio Grande Valley has been extended until Sept. 30, Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reports.

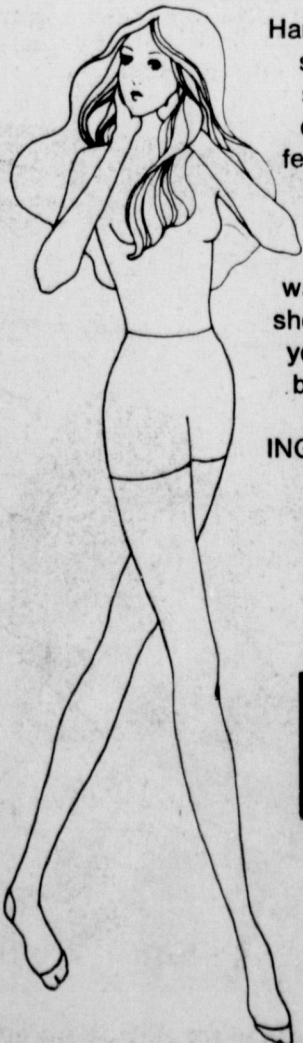

The normal deadline was Aug. 31, but because of adverse weather conditions, the delay in cotton stalk destruction was granted. White urged farmers to destroy cotton stalks as soon as possible in order to prevent build-ups in cotton insects for the 1974 crop.

RURAL development leaders from throughout Texas will be in Austin Oct. 23 for a rural development seminar. A final report of the Texas Rural Development Commission will be presented. Ways in which rural Texas can be redeveloped will be discussed by a number of outstanding rural development leaders and specialists.

Cotton Suit Filed In Federal Court

Asuit against eight Oklahoma farmers was filed in Lubbock's U.S. District Court today by the Lubbock based firm of Plains Cotton Cooperative Association (PCCA).

The suit seeks an injunction to prevent a breach of contract on delivery of cotton sold to PCCA by the farmers, and requests a temporary restraining order enjoining the farmers from selling the cotton to any other merchant.

Announcement of the suit was made by L.C. Unfred, president of the board of directors of PCCA.

According to Unfred, the suit was brought about after the Association received a letter from attorneys representing the farmers which indicated they would not honor the contracts. Evidently some farmers believe that a rise in price level after a crop contract has been signed results in a wind-fall profit for the cotton buyer. According to Unfred this is not true. "Our association, like most of the merchants in this area, have sold quantities of cotton equal to anticipated receipts from our contracted acreage at the time the contracts were signed. We have to honor our contract with the textile mills at the lower price that prevailed at the time the sale was made. This is the same thing we are asking of the farmer.

"In past years this has enabled us to honor our contracts, even when prices at harvest time were below the level guaranteed to our members".

Unfred went on to say it was with deep regret that the suit was filed. "The Association has no desire to cause hardship to any of its members, but we cannot continue to provide cotton marketing services if we permit any member to refuse to deliver a crop sold to the Association".

Unfred, a longtime cotton farmer in New Home, pointed out that actions such as these can only hurt the cotton industry as a whole. "A successful contracting program requires that both parties honor their commitments. Our cooperative provides growers with a contract on which they can rely. We, like other buyers in the cotton industry, expect producers who have entered into crop contracts to perform fully on their obligations".

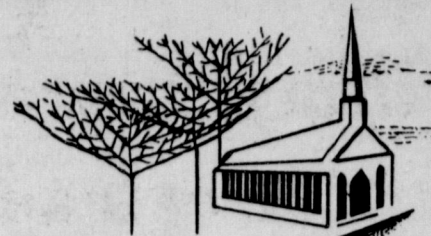

The contracts referred to in the suit filed by the Association, were agreed to in March. Since that time cotton prices have reached their highest point since the Civil War.

The farmers named in the suit all farm in the Willow, Oklahoma area.

STATE Capital NEWS

By BILL BOYKIN

AUSTIN, Tex.--Next big political campaign shaping up is for legislative pay raises and annual legislative sessions on the November 6 election ballot.

Top four elected Texas officials launched the campaign with the cooperation of 35 citizens' organization.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Atty. Gen. John Hill, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. are united in support of Constitutional Amendment one.

The amendment would raise legislative pay from $4,800 a year (plus expenses) to $15,000 a year (plus $18 a day during sessions).

It would also provide for regular legislative sessions of 180 days during odd-numbered years, and of 60 days, mainly for budgeting matters, during even numbered years.

Austia attorney Will Davis was elected chairman of the organizational support group, with Phil Strickland of Dallas as vice chairman.

An executive committee headed by Davis and Strickland will work with the 35 cooperating trade, civic and professional associations in the campaign. (Texas Press Association is among the organizations.)

"This is a must thing," said Attorney General Hill. "It is a necessity that we pay the right amount for an honest days work in a very high calling."

"Annual sessions in this day and time are essential for an efficient, responsible, intelligent and accountable legislative branch to properly function," said Daniel.

The state wide support organization will coordinate fundraising and publicity activities for the campaign.

Legislators have been paid $4,800 a year since 1960.

Voters defeated proposals for raises in 1965, 1968, 1969, and 1972.

They also rerejected annual sessions of the legislature in 1969.

COMMISSIONER RESIGNS--Byron Tunnell resigned his position as a member of the Texas Railroad Commission and was immediately replaced by Mack Wallace of Athens.

On September 15, Tunnell, 47, will become vice-president of Tenneco of Houston in the company's governmental affairs department.

Wallace, 43, a former district attorney, has been serving as executive director of Governor Briscoe's Criminal Justice Council and as legal advisor to the governor. Briscoe appointed him two days after Tunnell's resignation.

Tunnell was appointed to the powerful, three-member oil, gas and transportation regulatory agency by former Gov. John Connally in 1965, succeeding Ernest O. Thompson. He was re-elected to a six-year term in 1972.

Vending Records Blocked--Vending industry leaders blocked House Speaker Price Daniel Jr.'s effort to make public records of a 1968 legislative investigation of the industry.

Raymond E. Williams and Burnie H. Williams in their lawsuit contended release of the investigative record held by the Department of Public Safety in a confidential file would cause "possible abuse" through circulation of "ill-based stories." Their case was set for hearing September 6.

Meanwhile, a former Austin vending machine operator claimed he made cash payoffs to a state representative, a state judge and an ex-state senator.

Daniel said he is considering a new House sub-committee investigation of the coin-operated amusement machine industry.

Telephone Savings Claimed--Legislative Budget Board approved a new telephone system for state agencies which reportedly will save a million dollars a year.

The system, pushed by Governor Briscoe, would link all state agencies over Texas and provide a toll-free long distance service nationwide. An installation charge of $170,000, plus $350,000 a month is required for the Texan communications network.

LBB advised Briscoe to be cautious he is not buying more out-of-state service than necessary. One member, Rep. W.S. Heatly of Paducah, said the telephone company should be required to improve service to ordinary citizens before the state purchases TEX-AN. Present state telephone service now costs about $431,201 a month for long distance and WATS lines.

AG Opinions--With some exceptions, Welfare Department records on child care facility licensing are public, Attorney General Hill held, although identity of persons covered by social and health records would remain confidential.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

- * Fees assessed adult probationers can be used for juvenile probation at discretion of judges, although they should be used primarily for adult probation purposes.
- * No member of the 63rd Legislature would be eligible to paid appointment to the office of House administrator, having resigned from the legislature to accept it. But Rep. James D. Cole of Greenville took the job without salary.
- * County commissioners can hold bond elections for buildings and acquiring books for library purposes.

APPOINTMENTS --Lorenzo D. Cole of Houston is first executive director of the Governor's Office of Equal Employment Opportunity.

W.J. (Bill) Harding of Austin has been designated chief clerk of the state Board of Insurance effective September.

Governor Briscoe appointed Kaufman County Attorney Harold D. Hollingsworth criminal district attorney for the county.

He appointed James Arnold acting director of the office of Traffic Safety.

District Judge Herman Jones of Austin will head a special fact-finding committee to inspect conditions at Austin State School.

Joe G. Moore Jr., director of the Office of Research at the University of Texas Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs, became program director of the National Commission on Water Quality September 1.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Austin Bill Hobby to the State Legislative Library Board.

Raymond L. Preweert is head of the governor's Division of Rural Community Affairs.

8000,000 New Adults--Texas picked up about 800,000 new adults overnight August 27 when a law took effect granting a majority rights to 18-to-20-year-olds.

Under the new law, the young Texans can buy alcoholic beverages, enter contracts, get married without their parents' consent, and serve on juries, among other things.

A total of 249 acts of the 63rd legislative took effect last week. Among them was reduction of the penalty for first offense possession of marijuana (up to four ounces) to a misdemeanor.

Planning Regions Re-Identified--An executive order by the Governor realigned state planning regions after a four-month review.

Regions are Texoma State Planning Region, Heart of Texas State Planning Region and Middle Rio Grande State Planning Region. Karnes County was realigned from the Coastal Bend State Planning Region to the Alamo State Planning Region, and Hardin County from the Deep East Texas SPR to the South East SPR.

SHORT SNORTS

Dr. George Willeford of Aus-

American Petrofina Company of Texas announced price increases up to 15 cents a barrel for crude oil purchased from leases, as did Cosden Oil and Chemical Company.

Bilingual application forms are available for expanded statewide food stamp program.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN--While some 250,000 Texans are in the process of registering for college and university courses this fall, and thousands more entering vocational and technical training in public junior colleges, there are others who will be looking to private trade and vocational schools.

These private schools, which offer courses in a wide range of subjects--from stenographic or welding, to accounting or TV repair, can provide career training for the new high school graduate, as well as the person looking for a new field for his or her particular talents.

Prior to 1971, the prospective private vocational student was at a disadvantage when he began shopping for a school. Advertising claims frequently went way beyond what a school actually could guarantee. Misrepresentations of course offerings, job-placement capabilities, and payment plans were complained of.

Witnesses told a legislative fact-finding committee of experiences involving educational disappointments, such as signing up for training which was not in fact available, as well as economic frustrations, such as being required to pay out allegedly worthless contracts.

Legitimate trade and vocational school operators became concerned, and urged that all the private schools be regulated.

As a result, the Texas Legislature passed a Texas Proprietary School Act, which took effect in 1972. The act, administered by the Texas Education Agency, requires T.E.A. certification of the private career schools; requires state approval of the courses they offer, and prohibits misrepresentations in course sales and advertising.

As of now, some 240 proprietary schools have been certified by the state, and applications from about 30 newly-organized schools are pending approval.

This has been an obvious benefit to the Texans seeking to further their educational opportunities, and increase their earning capacities, in institutions apart from the college and university systems.

The Texas Proprietary School Division of the Texas Education Agency maintains a list of all certificated schools, and their approved courses, as well as all institutions qualified for veterans' training.

And the T.E.A. also works with my Consumer Protection Division in the investigation of charges of unauthorized "career schools", as well as any complaints of misrepresentations by authorized operations. I am told that an average of one complaint a week is received, and that most of these have been found to relate to misunderstandings, rather than violations of the act.

But my office has had occasion to file suit as legal representative of the T.E.A., primarily when we have uncovered violations by pyramid sales schemes which offered as part of their marketing plans "schools" which were not schools at all, but merely part of the sales pitch.

If you or your child encounter any problem which you consider to be a violation of the Texas Proprietary School Act, do not hesitate to contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, or the T.E.A.

But since it's always better to be safe than sorry, keep these precautionary measures in mind when you start talking about private trade or vocational education:

- Beware of high pressure sales methods.
- Look out for exaggerated promises, such as "easy" courses, or "guaranteed" job placement.
- Read every word of the contract offered, and determine the refund policies of the school in the event of illness or some other event which could prevent you from completing a course.
- Visit the school. Talk to

Cotton Disease Can Be Controlled

LUBBOCK--Take a cool, wet season, a not-so-thick field of cotton on land planted in cotton year after year, and you have ideal conditions for that dreaded disease that takes millions of dollars from South Plains cotton growers annually--verticillium wilt.

According to research conducted by Dr. Earl Minton, USDA plant pathologist cooperating with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock, yearly destruction and heavy economic losses by verticillium wilt can be reduced. "Rotating the cotton crop at least every three years to an alternate crop and planting thicker stands are the most effective solutions," says Minton.

In crop rotation studies conducted from 1965 to 1972 at the Experiment Station, barley was the most effective alternate crop in reducing disease losses, the scientist explained. Also, rotations with sorghum, wheat, castor beans and soybeans substantially reduced the severity of wilt losses. "Cotton should never be "In most cases the research indicated that the susceptibility of the plant to disease differs little whether a poor or high seed quality is used." He quickly adds that a plant's natural resistance to disease should not be confused with the vigor, germination and other measures of seed quality normally used in cotton production.

Irrigation For Maximum Profits

LUBBOCK--Irrigation is likely to be a key factor in maximum wheat pasture forage production this fall and winter, according to a Lubbock-based irrigation specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. If feed costs continue to be high, there will be an extra bonus for the lower-cost forage.

Two fall irrigations, especially in dry years, in addition to either a watering-up or pre-plant application will usually produce maximum forage, says Leon New.

Good, early fall grazing can normally be obtained from late August-planted wheat with an irrigation in mid to late October and early November while temperatures are still up. Water use is low prior to this time, the specialist says, and deep rooting should be encouraged. By November 1, however the water use rate is likely to be over one and a half inches every ten days.

"It is best and often more convenient to make the first application before cattle are placed on wheat pasture," says New. "This prevents trampling of valuable forage and compacting wet soil, and helps avoid rotting to dry fields."

"A second fall irrigation in December or January may be needed to continue good forage growth. Moisture stored by this application encourages early spring growth and may be especially important during dry years to maintain forage availability and even stand survival," he adds. "Vegetative growth is usually slow during late January and February because very little growth occurs during temperatures under 45 degrees."

The Extension specialist cautions that high soil moisture during unusually warm periods can promote plant water uptake and cause freeze damage later, especially to less winter-hardy wheat varieties and oats and barley. Over-grazed plants may also be susceptible to freeze damage under similar weather and moisture conditions. Early to mid December applications may help prevent freeze damage, depending on weather severity.

"Research has shown very little to no response to a third fall irrigation," New explains. "Adequate moisture is important, though, for forage production in early spring when soil and air temperatures increase. An irrigation in March is likely to boost forage production especially if winter snow and rainfall are light and the wheat is to be grazed out."

In contrast, says New, grain yields have been influenced very little by early spring applications. Heavy irrigation is not recommended during tillering and jointing for grain production since it produces more straw and encourages lodging.

Good response is normally obtained for grain and forage production from irrigations at booting about mid-April and deading in early May when adequate moisture is critical, he contends. Forage yield is high during this time if moisture is optimum.

Another irrigation in mid to late May at the grain filling stage may be beneficial in grain production, especially in dry years, says New. An application at this time can help extend the grazing period and keep forage quality up, but the results in both grazing and forage quality are likely to be considerably less than those from earlier irrigations.

Soybean Harvesting Tips Aire

COLLEGE STATION -- Soybean growers annually lose an average of 10 percent of their crop through improper harvest practices and management.

With October prices of $6 to $7 per bushel on the present soybean market, growers are anxious to harvest as many soybeans as possible, says R.J. Hodges, agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

At an average yield of 40 bushels per acre, harvesting losses could amount to $25 an acre. Most of this loss can be saved by proper combine operation and adjustment.

"The first step in saving more beans is to prepare the combine ahead of harvest. Follow the operator's manual to make adjustments and then add any attachment or accessory you think will help you harvest more beans," says Hodges.

He offers these harvest reminders:
 --Begin harvest when moisture in the soybean seeds reaches 13 percent; higher moisture content may result in mold in the bin; lower moisture content will result in increased losses due to shattering, lodging and cracking. Your local elevator can probably arrange to give you a moisture test.

--Cut soybeans as close to the ground as possible. From a half to one-and-a-half bushels per acre are lost for every inch of cut above ground.

--A floating flexible cutter/bar extension, mounted below and about 10 inches forward of the original cutter bar, will follow the contour of the land and save more beans.

--A variable speed reel permits feeding the beans to the cutter bar with minimum shatter loss.

--A hydraulic reel height control to feed tall or short beans into the auger is necessary to lower or raise the reel while the combine is moving.

--Some combines use an automatic height control on the header. Its sensing fingers operate a hydraulic lift for controlling cutting height.

"You can quickly figure your own soybean loss by measuring 10 square feet in an average area that has been combined and counting the beans left. For every four beans per square foot, there is a loss of about one bushel per acre," explains the agronomist.

For a better look at harvest efficiency, measure an area one foot wide and 10 feet long across the direction of travel of the combine. A count of 40 beans or less in this square foot area indicates a good job of combine operator. More than 40 beans means corrective operation and adjustment is necessary, adds Hodges.
