Cisneros Family Returns From Trip to Mexico

The Alvaro Cisneros family have recently returned from a trip to Tampico Tamaulipas, Mexico.

The emergency trip was necessary due to a sudden illness and hospitalization of Mr. Cisneros' brother, Issac, who was in a hospital in Reynosa and was transferred to the Tampico hospital.

After Issac's discharge from the hospital and improvement, the Cisneros enjoyed a visit with Mr. Cisneros' brothers Francisco and family and Felipe and family and sister Engracia and family. In addition, Mr. Cisneros also was reunited with his sister, Chona, whom he had not seen for 20 years.

Alvaro, Lupe, Richie, Julianna and Alvie, Jr. also went swimming in the Atlantic Ocean while on this excursion. Viewing ships, boats and trained parrots were also enjoyed by the family.

One outstanding memory from their trip were all the wooden crosses placed along the roadways marking where people had died in accidents. The roads were very narrow with lots of cliffs. They saw several truck rigs which had turned over and crashed.

Weather Alert System Notification

Rodney Williams, Matador VFD Chief, wants to inform all Matador citizens that the Civil Alert System used to report severe weather over Matador Cablevision is temporarily out of service due to lightning Monday night.

Williams says that it will be at least until next week before this can be repaired and back in service.

If you have any questions or want to report weather conditions, call the fire department's business phone at 347-2750.

Water, Water Everywhere!

Who says Matador doesn't have a public swimming pool? Our ballpark can be converted into a swimming/wading pool in only a matter of hours.

Matador 'Rapids' were rough Tuesday afternoon as this small creek worked overtime draining approximately 4 inches of rain from Matador streets.

(Thanks to Mary Renfro for taking these pictures in the rain.)

Following registration, the participants will view these movies: Just So Stories: The Beginnings of Armadillos, Just So Stories: Elephant's Child, and Billy the Kid.

Children ages 3 and up may join the reading club. There is no admission charge. Children too young to read may participate in the reading contest by being "read to" by parents or other interested persons.

Special programs will be held each Thursday through July 25; and an Awards Ceremony and Outdoor Breakfast is scheduled for Saturday, July 27.

Summer Camping Programs Abound For Texas 4-H'ers This Year

Summer camping programs abound for Texas 4-H'ers this year.

The Texas 4-H Center, located on Lake Brownwood in the heart of central Texas, offers a unique camping experience for youth 9-19.

For 9-11 and 12-14 year olds, a number of three-day camps are available. Dates for six camps are June 23-26, June 26-29, July 7-10, July 10-13, July 14-17 and July 17-20.

Each camp is designed to teach or improve a youth's skills in a variety of areas. Each day includes sessions on shooting sports, canoeing and sailing, high adventure initiative activities, nature crafts and outdoor education. In addition, nightly camp activities feature parties, folk games, movies and other entertainment.

For the 13-19 age group, 4-H Project Camp offers more of a challenge. It is a five-day camp, June 17-22, which gives in-depth training in a choice of computers, shooting sports, food and fitness, canoeing and sailing, food and nutrition, or photography. This training is combined with the fun and excitement of camp life, and evening provides "whole camp" activities.

Campers of all ages learn to adjust to camp environment, share responsibilities and appreciate natural surroundings while enjoying the fun of activities designed especially for them.

Experienced resource teachers and qualified college-aged counselors conduct activities. County Extension agents and volunteer adult leaders supervise campers at all times.

For applications or additional information, contact the county Extension office.

In My Opinion

by Jo Ann Dickson

Recently KAMC-TV of Lubbock ran a series on "Is West Texas Dying?" and they used Matador as one of their examples of a dying West Texas town. They quoted population figures to justify some of their conclusions.

As a relatively newcomer to Matador, I object to their statements. They did not interview any one who deliberately chose to move to Matador. They did not interview any downtown business people who have faith in Matador and its future.

There is a new generation with great faith in Matador and its future - especially women!! Shane Jones and Sandra Francis own the Matador Variety Store, Barbara Jameson with the Dugout; Pennie Keltz who owns the Matador Floral and has recently moved into a larger building; June Keltz, the owner of the Windmill; Marie Linson, owner of Rolling Plains Home Health Care; DiAnn Campbell who will soon open a clothing store; Nelda Green at the Red X; Billie Dean Smith and Mrs. Jack Dempsey who own cafes; Jo Ann Durham and Christine Briscoe who own beauty shops; Kathryn Russell, owner of Motley County Abstract; Linda Perryman at the Matador Hardware; Opal Pipkin, tax service, and the newest owner of a business, Patsy Tippin, publisher and owner of the Matador Tribune. Our postmaster is Nell Clem and Pearl Alexander is pastor of the Assembly of God Church. I am sure there may be others I am not aware of.

I believe that KAMC was greatly in error when they called Matador a dying town of the West. I believe that KAMC missed a very interesting story while in Matador when they failed to research the situation here.

KAMC, we are alive and well and these business women are doing great!!

Did you ever take time to stop at the little park south of the jail? It is a pretty spot and the windmill gives it its character. It's a nice spot to have a small picnic or just to go and meditate. Have you asked who maintains this garden spot? Well, the Matador Garden Club does, as well as, tending to the flower boxes in our downtown area. Bailey Elliott and Winifred Lee have been two of the hardest workers in this club and have been seen frequently pushing the lawnmower in the park or watering the flower boxes with their gallon plastic jugs. Take the time to say THANK YOU to the ladies of the Matador Garden Club.

We thank you, God, for sunlight bright,
 Flowers in bloom and birds in flight.
 We thank you for the folks who care.
 They water the flowers and feed birds in their lair.

Mini-Thoughts On Theology

by Pearl Alexander

"And who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" Esther 3:14.

Haman, had thought to destroy the Jews, but had not reckoned with the Hand of God who before hand, had placed Esther in a position to intervene.

Have you ever felt as if you were totally out of place, or maybe even a prisoner of circumstances? Or wished you were a hundred miles away and someone else had your situation?

Consider that the over ruling Hand of God may have placed you there and if you stay faithful to God, you will grow spiritually, Satan's plans will be cast down and God's Name be glorified.

Let's shine for Jesus wherever He puts us, whether slave or ruler and believe that He knows what is best.

Cawman - Green Exchange Wedding Vows

Mrs. James Wesley Cawman

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Claudia Flippin and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Green of Tahoka.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white satin fashioned with a fitted bodice and long mutton sleeves. The sweetheart neckline was outlined with Alencon lace adorned with seed pearls. The sleeves were of English net with schiffle embroidery and closed with satin covered buttons. The fitted bodice was overlaid with Alencon lace and trimmed with satin covered buttons along the zipper line. The full skirt fell from a natural waistline and cascaded into a chapel length train that formed a point. A wide band of Alencon lace finished off the hemline.

The two-tier scalloped illusion veil was held in place with a bandeau covered with Alencon lace and encrusted with pearls and irridescent. Pearls and lace appliques were scattered on the veil.

The bride carried a bouquet of Rubrum lillies, blue irises, purple status, stephenotes, sweetheart roses and trailing ivy.

For something old the bride wore her grandmother's pearl necklace, something new was her wedding gown. Her mother's pearl earrings served as something borrowed. Something blue was her garter.

Angela Green, sister of the bride served as maid-of-honor. Kathy Geneske, of El Paso, served as bridesmaid. They wore burgundy formal length gowns with a tucked bodice and spaghetti straps complimented by a sheer cape.

Best man was Gerald Craig of Tahoka. Groomsman was Birley Shearer of Abilene.

Ushers were Mike Green, brother of the bride, of Lubbock and Kurt McClesky, brother-in-law of the groom, of Lubbock, Scott Nichols, cousin of the bride, of Denver City and Jim Chilton of Lubbock.

Grasshoppers in weeds and grasses around cotton fields in Motley County are a potential threat to young cotton plants. Grasshoppers can destroy the cotton stands.

The lubber (jumbo) grasshopper is the major threat and there appears to be a large hatch of these grasshoppers in parts of the country. If there are two lubber grasshoppers per square yard in the vegetation around fields, the grasshoppers should be controlled now. If there are more than 20 grasshoppers per square yard of other species in the vegetation around the field, these should also be controlled prior to planting.

As cotton comes up until it reaches the six leaf stage, the stand can be damaged by grasshoppers. One lubber grasshopper per three feet of row can cause stand loss. Grasshoppers often move into fields at the same place that were most heavily damaged in past years. Field inspection should start in these areas.

Some insecticides that might be used to control grasshoppers in non-crop areas are carbaryl (Sevin (R) 80S, XLR and Sevimol (R)), malathion (91% ULV and 57% EC), Orthene 75S and Pydrin. If there are no weeds in the area to be sprayed use malathion. The same formulations of carbaryl and malathion might be used to control grasshoppers in cotton. Carbaryl baits (5% and 20%) are also available to protect young cotton from grasshoppers. Several applications of these baits will probably be required to provide effective control. Toxaphene can be formulated into a bait when available and labeled for that use. The directions on how to formulate the bait can be obtained from the Motley County Extension Office.

Where grasshoppers are expected to be a major problem use a seed treatment such as phorate (Thimet (R)) or use an in-furrow systemic insecticide such as Temik (R), Thimet (R) or DiSyston (R). The seed treatment or in-furrow treatment might be used on the first 16 rows on the side of the field where grasshoppers historically cause their damage.

Where grasshopper populations are heavy and continue to move into field margins control measures will be needed prior to planting and as the cotton stand develops. Field inspections once or twice weekly will be needed as cotton emerges through the four to six leaf stage to determine the need for additional control measures.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank all those who attended the open house at the Post Office in Roaring Springs last week. Your attendance made this a true success. I appreciated all the Roaring Springs residents who came and those from Matador, Chillicothe, Crowell, Dickens and Dalhart that attended made it even more special.

Thank you,
Lula Swim
Postmaster

Of all the places to live, Motley County has to be the best of all. Again, so soon, we are saying thank-you for being our friends expressed with your love, prayers, food, flowers, visits, phone calls and cards.

Mom (or Granny Bess as everyone called her) was in the hospital 2 weeks and as she slipped away to be with the Lord, you all came with your love and consoling us in our sorrow. You did everything to comfort us - the food brought to the house; the lunch at the church; the beautiful singing the four did with Eva at the piano. We also so appreciated the words by Rev. Edna Dillard, Eddie Marcum and Phillip Sams; the part the Matador Eastern Stars did at the graveside and Mr. Gray who made her look so pretty. We want to say thank-you from our heart. May God bless each of you is our prayer.

Crime Prevention Discussed By Lions Club Guest Speaker

Cpl. Royce Williams, with the Crime Prevention Unit of the Lubbock Police Department spoke at the May 21 meeting of Matador Lions Club, outlining various means of coping with burglars and other criminals.

Listing and marking person possessions, storing valuables in safety deposit boxes while away on vacation, and other vacation precautions were stressed. Pamphlets and brochures which Cpl. Williams distributed, emphasized installing secure locks on all doors and windows, organizing a program of "Neighborhood Watch," in which neighbors report suspicious activity at property during the owners' absence and other measures of security in preventing crime.

Cpl. Williams noted that more criminals are drifting toward smaller communities since larger cities have become more aggressive in apprehending them. The Lubbock Police Department, in cooperation with the South Plains Association of Governments has officers trained in crime prevention, he said. These officers are available to lecture on the subject in the 15 county SPAG area.

Some topics the officers are qualified to speak on are: Child abuse, sexual abuse, kidnapping, operation identification, business and home security, shoplifting, robbery, burglary, domestic violence and Senior Citizens programs. Further information states that schools, local clubs, businesses, and groups are welcome to call the Lubbock Police Department Crime Prevention Unit at 762-6411, Ext. 2969, for a program.

In presiding, President Lion Vann Francis led the club in an expression of appreciation to Mrs. Kathy Dempsey and Mrs. Larae Piper, who prepared and served the lunch. He also thanked all committees and members for their work in making the recent football game a success, and those who furnished ice cream and brownies for sale.

Two Lions, Charlie Johnson and Roy Tippin, each received a silver bullet from District 2-T2 Governor for signing up a new member during his administration. Lion Francis made the presentation, and Lion Ronnie Vandiver presented membership credentials to Paul Gray and B.J. Dempsey. Lion Vandiver also introduced the program speaker, Cpl. Williams.

Guests introduced by Lion Bill McCaghren, besides the speaker were B.J. Dempsey and the new Lions Queen, Shawna Campbell.

Mesdames Guy Campbell, Earlyne Vaughn, Bennie Keltz, W. L. Holt, Cecil Shelton, Roy Bradford, Billie Ray Slover, Alvin Stearns, Una Simpson and J. D. Cravens and Mrs. Jenkins; and Patty Edwards.

Members present in addition to those on the program and committees were Rachel Patton and Mesdames Gus Bird, R. E. Campbell, Robert Darsey, Ted Elliott, W.D. Lipscomb, Lonnie Alexander and Paul Gray.

A tour of the Island Republic revealed many interesting and unusual sights, and Mrs. Hamilton accompanied her narration with slides showing places the group visited as they circled the island. Glaciers vied with geysers and lava formations from volcano eruptions, to catch the viewers' interest among the many scenic stops and countryside, which was dotted with country churches. The principal town, or capitol of the island is Reykjavik, which Mrs. Hamilton and her group also visited.

Inspirational Thought by the program leader was a poem, "If I were a Voice," by Charles Mackay.

Mrs. Garrison thanked the committees for their work and welcomed the guests, who were introduced individually. The food committee included Mesdames Harold Campbell, J.E. Edwards and Furman Vinson. On the decorations committee were Mesdames E.A. Day, W.N. Pipkin, Frank Pohl and W. F. McCaghren. The delicious menu included ham loaf, vegetable and fruit salads, cake, coffee and iced tea. Tables were decorated with many baskets of beautiful silk flowers in spring colors. Attractive place cards were made by Mrs. Pohl.

Out-of-town guests, beside Mrs. Pitts, were Mrs. Georgia Mae Ericson of Crosbyton, Mrs. Howard Limmer (Carolyn Pohl) of Snyder and Mrs. Roger Wallace (Laura Jacobs) of Lubbock. Other guests were
