Republicans

Keep a close eye on Charles D. Hilles, suave and highly practical Republican National Committee man for New York State, when the G. O. P. Committee meets tomorrow in Chicago to pick a successor to Everett Sanders as National Chairman.

There is a fair chance the Republicans will adjourn without making a choice. Divergent views and interests make it possible they will let Vice Chairman Ralph Williams ride through the fall campaign as acting boss.

On the other hand a real drive is going to be made to pick a man for the somewhat thankless job.

The Republican Party has been noted for smoothing over its differences in the confines of a hotel suite—as against the Democratic tendency to air all Party disagreements in the public backyard.

A vicious sub-surface fight is in prospect at Chicago tomorrow. East against West, Young Republicans against the Old Guard, Conservatives versus Progressives, Big Business against the rank and file—all these elements have been conviving against each other.

By Wednesday you should learn whether the dirty linen is to be exposed.

This is where Hilles, of New York, centers the picture. For weeks he has been sounding out discordant factions with the greatest adroitness. Letter after letter has gone out of his office to Republican leaders all over the country.

So-and-so was talking to me recently and he favored this one, this one and that one for the chairmanship. What do you think?

The replies have enabled Hilles to gauge national sentiment in a fairly accurate fashion. He'll either pick a winner tomorrow or move for status quo.

There is a fair amount of sentiment against drifting. The older heads are counseling that a new G. O. P. Chairman must be elected or the Democrats will be able to say with some truth—that the Republican Party has become so disorganized it can't even agree on a National Chairman.

Hilles has been weighing claims of candidates with some slight prejudice. For instance he has a definite thumb-down on Jim Watson and Walter Edge.

A still-hunt has been on to find a man from the central section, comparatively young and not too actively identified hitherto with national politics. It is just possible that John Daniel Miller Hamilton, 42-year-old Topeka lawyer and National Committee man for Kansas, may get the rail.

Hoover

At the moment, the Republican Party is plagued with an internal split, between the Old Guardmen of the East and their more Progressive brethren of the West. Executive Hoover, despite his West Coast residence, figures into this situation because of a desire to come back in 1936 with the aid of his Eastern supporters. You can't see them but wires will be manipulating from Palo Alto into Chicago tomorrow. If Hoover loses out in the chairmanship contests there won't be much chance of repeating Grover Cleveland act—or so it looks to Washington observers.

Still further turmoil exists within the Eastern branch of the Party. Younger men have followed the course of President Roosevelt's New Deal and decided that the Elephant needs a new-blood transfusion if it's to get back on parade.

Organization of the National Republican Club of New York City was an example. But even in this assemblage of younger Republicans difficulties developed.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, son of the renowned T. R. and Governor of Puerto Rico and Governor General of the Philippines under President Hoover, turned the Club presidency down three times before finally taking the driver's seat.

Macy

Pointing as they are for the fall election, Republican strategists are hoping someone may emerge as a potential nominee for the 1936 Presidential race.

Airport attaches said they were going to put the snake on display in one of the pens. Ranch Couple Found Murdered Near Van Horn

EL PASO—Bodies of a man and woman, identified from their jewelry as those of Mr. and Mrs. Riley R. Smith, prominent Van Horn and Marfa ranchers, were found in the smoldering ruins of their ranch home, 30 miles southeast of Van Horn early Sunday.

Officers said that Mr. and Mrs. Smith apparently had been murdered, their bodies placed in the ranch house and the house then set on fire. Skulls of both Mr. and Mrs. Smith appeared to have been crushed with a blunt instrument, according to Sheriff Albert Anderson of Culberson county.

Smith was 62 and his wife 58.

Brought to El Paso

Immediately after the bodies were found Sheriff Anderson brought Antonio Carrasco, 38, an employe at the Smith ranch, to El Paso for safe keeping. Mob violence was feared after word of the gruesome discovery spread about the little town of Van Horn.

Identification, it was believed, was almost positive. Mrs. Smith's rings were found on the charred bones of her left hand, and Mr. Smith's watch was found in the ashes under his body.

The wealthy and prominent ranchers lived alone with Carrasco on their ranch, officers reported. Their nearest neighbor, W. D. Garren, lived 10 or 12 miles east.

Officers were led to the smoldering ranch house by Carrasco. The cowboy reported to Constable H. E. Clark about 10:30 p. m. Saturday night that he had returned to the ranch headquarters from a nearby pasture and found the house in flames.

Clark went directly to the ranch house with Carrasco. Through the flames they could see the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Smith but the heat was so great they could not get to them until morning.

The ashes of the two bodies, according to John Penn, assistant district attorney who went to Van Horn to investigate the murders, could have been placed in a shoe box.

Only other year showing less than an inch here was 1911 with 22.

Total Precipitation For Month Of May Only .20 Inches

Four days during the month there were thunderstorms, nine days were partly cloudy, five cloudy and seventeen were clear.

Republicans Cry 'Gag Rule' In House Vote

Measure Goes To Senate For Final Action, Over Billion Cash Outlay

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Amid cries of "gag rule" from Republicans the deficiency bill providing for a cash outlay of $1,178,000,000 and a potential relief expenditure of $6,000,000,000 was passed Monday by the house and sent to the senate.

Chairman Buchanan, Texas, of the appropriations committee said the measure provided ample authority for funds to meet the drought relief situation in twenty-seven midwestern states.

The measure was reported by the appropriations committee Saturday, contrary to some respects to the form requested by President Roosevelt, who wanted no specific cash allocations made in order that he might have authority to divert certain funds for relief purposes.

Among other things the committee specified that $100,000,000 be spent for highway construction.

But vast power to utilize the unused borrowing authority of the reconstruction corporation and unused allocations of the public works administration for relief were given the administration.

Rep. Taber (R-NY) estimated that under this wide discretionary authority the outlays that might be

Cosden Oilers Lose To Col-Tex Sunday, 10 To 8

Two Run Rally In 8th Inning

Game Tied Up In Third, Sixth And Eighth Innings—Close Fight

By HANK HART
 After managing to deadlock the game in the third, sixth and eighth innings, the Cosden Oilers were up-set 10 to 8 by Col-Tex Sunday when the Coloradoans came thru in the eighth inning with a two run rally. It was a US Eighty league game.

The victory broke a three-way tie for first place in the league, and sent Cosden into third place. Ackley defeated the Coahoma Bulldogs 9-7 for the initial spot. Col-Tex started the scoring in the first inning with two runs. Kent Howell and Henderson reached first when the Oiler infield erred. The two men on base advanced when Robertson hit a long fly, and both romped home on a bingle by R. Howell.

His First
 Cy Terraza, slongated first sacker for the Oilers, secured the first of his three hits in the second frame, but Payne and Moxley flew out and Mileaway Baker took three futile swings to end the threat.

Lefty Baber blasted out his first hit in the third inning when he placed a neat drive between the Col-Tex short-stop and third. Sammy Sain reached first when the Colorado infield fumbled trying to complete a double play. Baber scored on the next play when Skeet West sent a hard drive through the enemy infield. Sain tied the score when Cy Terraza blasted out his second hit.

The first three men up for Col-Tex were safe at first, and all scored on Robertson's fly into the gardens and R. Howell's bingle into center-field. Dutch Moxley sent a hard triple over Henderson to begin the fourth inning for Cosden, but the next three up went out in order and Moxley died on third.

Moxley, whose performance in the outfield has been excellent, scored a sensational catch on Hutchinson's fly in the fourth. On the crack of the bat Dutch turned and raced toward center-field. Looking over his shoulder he leaped high to snag the ball with his finger tips, thereby possibly plugging a rally.

Sain opened up in the fifth with a hit. West struck out but Pep Martin and Terraza hit in succession and Payne sent a high fly to the center-fielder which sent two runs across the plate.

Tally In Sixth
 The Oilers returned in the sixth to tally once and knot the score. With two out, Baber blasted out his second hit of the day over the Colorado infield. Lefty raced home on Sain's bingle. West put runners on first and second when he drove a hard one to the pitcher. However, Martin sent an easy roller to the twirler to end the short rally.

The Mitchell county lads went out in order in the sixth, but returned in the seventh to score three times for a three run lead. Kent Howell and Henderson led off with singles. Gressett sacrificed to second and third, and Robertson and R. Howell brought them home. R. Howell scored on a hard drive by Black.

The Howard county boys tied the score again in the eighth when Martin scored a lucky home run after Baber and West had reached first on Colorado errors. Pepper's hit was barely within the left field foul line, and Gressett lost the ball after it rolled under the specific things which the employees are willing to give them. Fighting as bad as that which has been seen in these two cities has a deeper reason than any mere disagreement about hours and wages.

Something is on the workers' mind—something that makes them angry and reckless enough to risk policemen's clubs, tear gas and national guardmen's bullets. No matter how much we may deplore the results, we should be very foolish if we did not try hard to find out just what it is that is wrong.

It is probable that basically the trouble comes from a deep discontent with the way the recovery program is working out. We are just emerging from a period of extreme hardship for the working man. All of us have suffered during the depression, but hardly any of us had quite such a thin time of it as the wage-earner.

It has left him with what you might call a psychic scar that will be a long time healing. Now, bearing that scar, the worker makes ready for the new deal and finds that in many cases it is being played with the same old cards, in the same old way. Fine words about human rights have been said at Washington, but they haven't been put into effect.

There are still employers who look back to Homestead for lessons in the way to handle labor troubles. And Washington still postpones the job of formulating a definite and clear-cut labor policy. All this, of course, does not excuse the violence which breaks out in places like Toledo and Minneapolis. It doesn't bring dead men back to life, or make it right to beat bricks at policemen and troops.

cars in left field. The Cosdenites could not stop Col-Tex's determined drive in the eighth, and the enemy team led the game when K. Howell and Henderson crossed the plate on Robertson's outfield fly and R. Howell's single.

Payne started the ninth by singling, but Moxley, the next man up, was called out. Baker forced Payne at second and Burke flew out to Henderson.

In making his formal announcement Saturday, Mr. Pyle said that this was his first time to ask for a public office, and that if the people of this precinct select him to serve, that he will give the best of his ability to the office. Mr. Pyle has never held a public office before. He formerly was connected with a Dallas cotton oil mill as a weigher, and feels that he has had sufficient experience to carry out the duties of public weigher. Mr. Pyle is a world war veteran, having served in the Second division in France during the war, seeing active service. He received disabilities which forced him to a government hospital shortly after the war, but has completely recovered. He is a member of the Vet-

Odessa Ball Team Defeats Midland

The Odessa Oilers defeated the Midland Colts Sunday, 11 to 5. The Midlanders led 5 to 3 until the eighth inning when Odessa got five hits in a row to drive Roseerans of Foreign Wars, and formerly a member of the American Legion.

Mexican Team Defeats Co-Op

The Mexican Tigers eked out a 9 to 8 victory over the Co-Op Gingers Sunday afternoon.

The Tigers smashed out eleven clean hits, while Co-Op made ten errors. Five of the errors were credited to the Co-Op receiver.

Five Tiger runs were unearned and four earned, while two Co-Op rallies were unearned and six earned.

Max Frichard hurled fair ball but was given poor support. He whiffed eight batters. R. Cruz led in the Mexican batting attack with four singles out of five trips to the plate.

J. Garcia made his first error of the season in six games he has out of the box.

Miller Harris, Big Spring, played with the Odessa team.

SPORT LINES

By Tom Beasley

When Carney Wilson, distinctive Abilene golfer, retained his West Texas golf title here, it was gratifying to F. D. Howe, Pecos country club pro. Mr. Howe taught Wilson the game when Wilson was a cadet at the club where Howe was pro. Carney started playing when he was just big enough to hold a stick.

Stayton Bonner, Wichita Falls, sound-thinking member of the West Texas golfing tribe, is reported to be one of the many not entirely pleased with the manner in which Texas selects its so-called golf champion. Bonner's views on the subject, as outlined by Al Parker, Wichita sport scribe, are: "Bonner believes the thing should be worked out on a sectional qualifying basis somewhat similar to the systems used in qualifying for the national open championship. The final championship tournament, in which only those players who had qualified sectionally would be eligible, would be an event of sufficient importance that any of the larger cities could well afford to care for the expense as a civic enterprise. Such a plan, Bonner stated, would make the game of golf far more democratic, and the player who won the championship surely would have every right to the title."

Mr. Bonner's plan would certainly have been a good one if it had been played with the Tigers when he dropped a toss by Parediz who was attempting to catch Bishop at first.

Co-Op scored four times in the third inning on a triple and four singles. The Co-Opers knotted the score 8-8 in the sixth frame. But the Tigers scored the winning run in the seventh when Chendo Cruz's grounder got by Bishop. Cruz stole second and went to third on an overthrow by the catcher. He raced home on an overthrow to third by the center-fielder.

Golfers, mostly "would-be-golfers," swam over the Country club and Mundy links on Sunday afternoon. One of our returned citizens, a man in the "would-be" class, was having a difficult time touring the Mundy course yesterday. If he got close enough to hit the ball he couldn't see it, and if he got in a position to see it it couldn't hit it. The department has noticed several players afflicted that way.

Employees of the Herald will, within the next few days, unlimber their golfing paraphernalia and go battling on the links in a handicap tournament. The biggest obstacle now is every golfer wanting to frisk the rest on the handicaps. Scores will be turned in for 36 holes and handicaps made by Charles Akey, Municipal golf pro. The matter of turning in high scores for a handicap, however, will only give the jump in the first round. After that it's nip and tuck.

The Big Spring Soft Ball Association, after a stormy beginning, has apparently settled down to a peaceful existence. Before many days pass it is hoped to have lights erected for night games and things in general clicking in grand style. The city, has done considerable work in clearing space for a diamond in the park, yet many players are not satisfied with the layout. The main objection seems to be that the ground is too soft. They don't have the sandlotter's band together and fix the whole shebang to suit themselves? A little work each afternoon for two or three days would put the field in good shape. And about the lights, the sooner teams get in their nine dollars the quicker lights will be installed for night playing. If you want the crowds and hot rivalry just try the "nite life."

Barney Boss, the youngster who holds the light and waterweight slugging crown, may make amends for his failure to appear in Texas. Promoter Dick Griffin of Fort Worth, who had the "bee" put on Barney after the champion left Griffin "holding the sack", is dickering with Boss' manager again for his appearance in Texas in the fall. This time, we are sure, Griffin will see to it that an appearance bond is posted. The Ft. Worth promoter will probably accept $1,500 in payment for expenses incurred before the previous match was cancelled.

J. Hamilton Lofner, who was dismissed several years ago as Maxie Baer's manager, has been struck with the idea of planting Baer's end of the purse in the fracas with Carner, pending the outcome of a suit against Max for 25 per cent of his earnings, as provided for in a contract with Lofner is reported to hold. On top of that, reports say that the Rambling Alp is just fishing for the chance to flatten the play-boy out for insulting remarks hurled at the champion. Oh worry, worry.

MURDER AT MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

Chapter 21 HELP AT LAST

"The man seemed to be quite familiar with the house," Harper continued, "for he disturbed nothing. He started a fire in that hearth very likely as soon as he arrived, for it was chilly. The logs were prettily well burned when we arrived on the scene."

"Wouldn't some one have noticed the smoke from the chimney when he started it?" Lafferty questioned.

"The Whitmores, for instance?"

"We can inquire, but I think the chances were against it. It was a gray, lowering sky, and with the snow coming down so thickly I doubt if it would have been noticed. Our man set out a decanter of whiskey and one of brandy, took a glass from the cabinet yonder, and sat down at the head of the table, as comfortable as you please. He lit a cigarette, threw a screen around Mrs. Dufresne, and then he was sure she suggested that he was there to meet some one?"

"He smoked five cigarettes, for there are four stubs in the grate and five matchsticks. The fifth cigarette burned itself to ashes between his dead fingers. As he smoked, he carelessly flipped the ashes toward the fireplace. Some fell a little short. He is still sitting there when Officer Hamill enters the room and the shooting begins."

Lafferty made a wry face. "That brings us right back to the mystery of why they did it. What made them go for each other simultaneously?"

Harper said, "It's all very puzzling. If our unknown man had been trailing Dufresne, he must certainly have realized that Dufresne would guard himself in the Austere. His last night of all nights at least. What made him come up here and dress himself like Dufresne? The mystery of this man's clothing is going to give us plenty to think about. The outfit must be part of his masquerade, his own clothing must be hidden somewhere in this house."

Harper turned out the inner breast pocket of the jacket. An embossed silk label furnished the maker's name—Barr, Thompkins & Barr, one of the exclusive tailoring firms of the city.

"Look here, Jack, this fellow was no customer of that firm. There is too much discrepancy between the quality of his under and outer clothing. Nor did his hands exactly indicate the gentleman of leisure. These nose-glasses were put on, along with the false beard, to make his resemblance to Dufresne more striking. The pinches of the glasses made deep red marks on the sides of his nose."

"Was he so anxious to conceal his identity that he removed a ring worn so long that he had to skin his knuckle to get it off? There are some leading questions for you."

"Well, Barr, Tompkins & Barr should be able to give us some information about the dress suit."

"I think we can get the same information much nearer home," Harper replied, rising and pressing the service bell.

"Steve," Lafferty began, "I've been mulling over what you said about that man having shaved here in the house. That suggests just one thing to me—he was going to meet some one—and that some one was a woman. You can't escape the deduction."

Harper nodded. "Yes, but you can't be so positive about a woman being mixed up in it. Every time you see a man shaving it doesn't mean that he's going to a rendezvous."

"Steve, you're certainly bent on throwing a screen around Mrs. Dufresne, and you're so sure she had nothing to do with it?"

Harper answered patiently, "That inference will not be overlooked. I hold no brief for the lady, but I have an instinctive feeling that she is entirely innocent. Not, as Doyle suggested, because of her air of fragility or any chivalrous duty to beauty in distress."

"Mrs. Dufresne fainted when she saw the dead man unshaved," Lafferty continued doggedly. "Perhaps that was from shock or the sudden relief from strain—but I think she knew that man! And I'm going to take that as a working basis."

"That's quite all right," Harper answered good-naturedly. "Mrs. Dufresne's movements last night will be looked into thoroughly. Don't forget that his pow-wow began with the men that there may have been a third person in this room last night—even," he pronounced slowly, "that these killings did not take place as suggested by the evidence. A dozen watchers beyond the garden wall wouldn't stir that, if they didn't enter the house."

Harper broke off short as the door opened and Andrews entered.

"Andrews, can you tell us the name of Mr. Dufresne's tailor?"

The butler showed no sign of surprise at the seemingly irrelevant question. "Barr, Tompkins & Barr," Harper picked up the coat, trousers, and waistcoat. "I want you to examine these carefully, Andrews, and tell us if these are part of Mr. Dufresne's wardrobe."

Andrews looked closely at the various articles, fingering the seams, examining the linings, turning out the inner pocket for the label. "Yes, sir, I am quite sure this is one of Mr. Dufresne's suits."

Harper handed over the nose-glasses, with their black silk cord. "How about these?"

"I think they are his, Mr. Dufresne has all his glasses made up in duplicate pairs."

"Can you identify any others of these clothes?"

Andrews obediently picked over the shoes, socks, underwear, shirt, collar and tie. He put the last three articles aside. "I believe these came from upstairs, sir. I am sure the others did not."

"Has Mr. Dufresne a wakening vet, Andrews?"

"Oh, yes, sir. He is having breakfast now."

"Have you been in Mr. Dufresne's rooms since you came up from the Austere last night?"

"Naturally, sir, several times."

FLIERS HONOR UNKNOWN SOLDIER

Both last night and this morning.

"Did you notice any sign of disturbance, anything to indicate that this man had been in those rooms? Or did Mr. Dufresne mention anything of that nature?"

"No, sir. So far as I could see nothing had been disturbed. I can't answer for Mr. Dufresne, but doubtless he would have mentioned it to me."

Harper put the clothing back on a chair. "If this man changed into some of Mr. Dufresne's clothes he'd do it right there in the room. Andrews, take Lafferty here up to the dressing-room and help him look through the closets."

Lafferty went out in the wake of the butler, and Harper, left alone, began to walk up and down the room, his eyes turning again and again to that armchair in which the baffling intruder had met his death.

He came to a stop before the waistcoating at the vestment in which bore the bullet mark. The bullet had not wedged itself into the wood, but had been found on the floor, whence it had dropped after the impact. The detective used his magnifying lens on the scarred place.

Carlin's puzzled suggestion that the bullet wound bore all the markings of a heavy caliber steel-jacket had stuck in his mind. The lens afforded a much clearer view of the jagged dent in the wood, from which tiny particles had fallen to the floor.

This enlarged scope of the eye gave the detective a sudden and startling insight into the matter. He fitted the bullet into the rough-edged cavity. It matched very badly. He tried the bullet from various angles but with no better success. Harper squatted back on his heels, the light of discovery dawning on him. The center depth of the bullet mark in the waistcoating was undoubtedly deeper than Officer Hamill's bullet could account for. Furthermore, the marks in the wood ran to a distinct conical pit, while the nose of the policeman's bullet was distinctly blunt! Here was the first tangible bit of evidence to give color to his suspicions.

It looked as if the sharp-eyed Carlin's hesitancy over acceptance of the caliber of the fatal bullet as a 32 was going to be justified. If this unidentified masquerader had not died by this particular 36 not killed him. The attendant coronaries of this thought leaped into Harper's grasp, full-armed and clamoring for attention.

It meant that the bullet which had really killed the man in the chair was definitely missing! It had been carried away. Some phantom laird previous had dislodged it from the wall and substituted a bullet fired from the policeman's gun. Officer Hamill had not killed the unknown man. Then the dead man in the armchair could not have killed Hamill!

to get the restriction waived. "My dear young man," said Sir Ronald, "the Prince of Wales brought a dog back from one of his trips not long ago. Believe it or not, the little duffer did very well during his six months in quarantine. Does that answer your question?"

Navy—When and if Claude Swanson retires as Secretary of the Navy—his health will be the reason—Assistant Secretary Henry Latrobe Roosevelt is expected to get a promotion into cabinet ranks.

Exchange—The Stock Exchange itself has held aloof from the epidemic of personnel cuts indulged in by its members.

Capital—It's okay with most brokerage houses if minimum capital is required here as in Illinois. They'd even like the state above $100,000. They figure there won't be enough business to go round after regulation becomes effective and it's all to the good if the shoostringers are frozen out.

Building—Administration leaders in Congress are getting a trifle punch-drunk from the unending series of legislative lobbies that have been massed against them this session.

Referee—The knowing say the Federal Reserve isn't precisely grateful for its margin-fencing chores. It will be under continuous pressure to alter the official 45 per cent limit and will have to withstand some ingenious arguments on behalf of change. Its role is compared to that of an innocent bystander—with troubles of his own—suddenly called upon to referee a family scrap.

Error—Senator Fletcher's omission of the "reliance" clause from the final draft of his Securities Act amendment has Wall Street in a stew. That's the section which provides that a plaintiff under the Securities Act must prove that he relied on a false or misleading statement in order to collect damages.

Blame—Stock Exchange member houses are stripping for action under Commission control. One house has already fired more than 100 employees and others are planning similar cuts. Casualties will run proportionately higher in the big firms. Many well-established small brokers are standing pat.

Gravy—While the federally created Export-Import Bank is marking time because the Soviets have been marked off as debt-defaulter under the Johnson Act, disquieting news is arriving from abroad.

Released—Abolition of the Platt Amendment was a last-ditch try to strengthen Mendetta's faltering grip. It was designed to give credit for gratifying Cuba's fond wish—freedom from the threat of American intervention.

Remote—Major league market operators don't intend to be deprived of their favorite pastime by exchange regulation. They're busy doping a system to handle pools by remote control. Where necessary exchanges abroad will be induced to add pet American stocks to their listings.

Regulation—Wall Streeters privately admit the President outsmarted them again on Exchange regulation. His acceptance of an independent commission in place of the PTC during their vigorous lobbying in the Senate for an independent body so much wasted breath. For after all they will still get Landis.

Miss Dyer Weds J. Ed. Adams

noon Sunday

Miss Dorothy Dyer became the bride of Mr. J. Edward Adams at a lovely wedding Sunday noon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Collins in Edwards Heights with about 50 friends and relatives as guests. Rev. R. E. Day, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the ceremony.

The couple stood before an improvised altar of ferns and begonias with an archway of pink larkspur and fernery. The bride was dressed in a pink and white sport suit with white accessories. She was attended by her sister, Miss Marie Dyer, who was gowned in white lace with white accessories. Alfred Collins was best man.

Following the reception the couple left for Carlsbad, N. M., for a brief honeymoon. Mrs. Adams was dressed in a black linen going away suit with white accessories.

Mrs. Adams came to Big Spring from Rush Springs, Okla., in 1931 and was a member of the 1933 high school graduation class here. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Adams of Coahoma. He has been employed by the Collins Drug store for the last two years.

The couple will live in Big Spring.

Malaria Cases Are Increasing

AUSTIN—According to information reaching the Texas State Department of Health, the number of malaria cases is increasing, a sharp turn upward was noted for May. This is directly related to a parallel increase in the number of mosquitoes. The Malaria Unit reports that not for years have they noticed such large numbers of mosquitoes.

Probably one item that favors this increase is the mild winter and rainfall which leads to many temporary collections of water. Of course the breeding of mosquitoes is not limited to temporary water, but they are the ones that are often the cause of the increase of the mosquito population. They must have water to propagate.

Attention paid to the following and similar points will largely reduce the opportunities for mosquito breeding: Remove all trash from the back yard, including old cans, pails, bottles and automobile tires or bodies. Clean up the premises.

Put new washers in leaky hydrants. Screen rain-water barrels or oil them regularly. Get some top-minnow and place them in lily pools and cisterns. Look over the roof gutters and drain-spouts and remove trash and straighten up any sagged portions. Change the water in flower vases frequently. If there are low spots in the yard where water stands for days after a rain, either fill or drain these places. In any event before complaint is made about mosquitoes to the health department, be sure that your own premises have been free from mosquito breeding places.

Queen-Schrimsher Wedding Event Of Sunday Evening

Miss Gladys Irene Schrimsher became the bride of Mr. Glenn Queen Sunday evening in a wedding performed in the parsonage of the First Methodist church with Rev. C. A. Bickley officiating. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. W. Dwight Smith and Lonnie Charles Smith.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Queen of this city while the bride was a resident of Frederick, Okla. Mr. and Mrs. Queen will make their home in Big Spring. Mr. Queen is with the Cunningham-Phillips Drug stores.

Misses Stella McCullough, Ruth Beard and J. E. Storey of Abilene spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Bedichek.

Large Crowds Attend East

4th Revival

Five Additions To Local Church Made At Sunday Services

Large crowds and keen interest featured the services of the East Fourth street Baptist church as they swung into the second week of the revival. Rev. Winston Borum, who is doing the preaching, spoke to the intermediate department at the Sunday school on the subject, "The Foundation and Building of a Life." At the morning hour the theme was "God's Plan of Finance." Five additions during the day brought the total number for the meeting to fifteen.

Rev. Woodie Smith supplied yesterday at the Midland church for Rev. Borum, and reports a great day. The revival will continue until the last of the week with services each morning at 10 and 8:30 each evening. The subject of the evangelist announced for this evening has created much interest, and a record crowd is expected. He will speak on, "What Becomes of the Soul After Death."

In discussing the subject Rev. Borum brought out the fact that this question has concerned the mind of man since the world began. "Men have constantly expressed their views regarding it," he said, "all the way from Spiritism to Atheism." What's the answer? Come and see! See what the scriptures have to say—they alone satisfy the desire of the human heart, and give a satisfactory answer.

Tuesday night the evangelist will speak on the subject, "The Love of God," answering the questions in the light of Scripture Why God made a Hell and Why He created the world. A nursery, or "bawling room" has been established by the ladies of the church, and the public is cordially invited to park their babies and come and enjoy the rousing congregational singing, and special music instrumental and vocal, as well as the preaching.

Under The Dome At Austin

By GORDON K. SHEARER

AUSTIN, (UP)—Monday will be a holiday for state department employees. They will have a delayed observance of Jefferson Davis' birthday. His natal anniversary, June 3, is a state holiday by act. Falling on Sunday this year, the holiday will be observed on Monday.

May 30, widely observed as Memorial day in northern states is not a Texas holiday. Some state departments closed for it; others did not. State higher courts held regular sessions.

There are only eleven state holidays. They are designated by legislative act. They are: Jan. 1, New Year; Jan. 19, Robert E. Lee's birthday; Feb. 22, Washington's birthday; March 2, Texas Independence Day; April 21, San Jacinto Day; June 3, Jefferson Davis' birthday; July 4, Independence Day; First Monday in September, Labor Day; Oct. 12, Columbus Day; Nov. 11, Armistice Day; and Dec. 25, Christmas.

Thanksgiving Day is not a state holiday by law. It is so designated by a governor's proclamation.

Beside the official holidays, the legislature also has designated Aug. 12 and Nov. 3 as "special days" without making them holidays.

Aug. 12 is "Texas Pioneer's Day," and Nov. 3 is "Father of Texas Day" in honor of Stephen F. Austin.

The state legislature has taken official action on most of the patriotic and sentimental observances. Exact dimensions of the Texas Lone Star flag are specified by an act of the legislature. It shall be flown with the white over the red.

The Lone Star became an official Texas symbol in 1839 when it was made the central part of a coat of arms adopted by the Republic of Texas. An oak wreath is used in this coat of arms. In 1919 the legislature in 1919 made the pean the state tree. The bluebonnet, or buffalo clover, became the state flower by act in 1901; in 1927 the mockingbird was made the state bird. "Texas-Our Texas" was adopted as a state song by the legislature in 1930 and the same year "Friendship" was made the state motto.

Will Tucker former Lonigew newspaper publisher, secretary-manager of the Texas Game Department, is given credit by the federal department of agriculture for originating a migratory bird program now being carried on by the federal department. Sanctuaries for migratory birds are being established in concentration areas and also at places along the usual course of flight. Drainage of sub-marsh lands has been stopped on realization that the lands fostered more value in game birds than in the crops of rans or grain produced through swamp reclamation.

Relief service workers will go into classified positions in June under a system worked out by the

Old Glory Marches To New Milestone; Proud Symbol Of Nation For 157 Years

Marching triumphantly through the years, the Star Spangled Banner has been an inspiration to Americans since its birth on June 14, 1777. Above: U. S. Marines are shown raising the Stars and Stripes at a tropical outpost in the West Indies and displaying the National Flag and their regimental colors while on parade in China.

Old Glory goes marching on. Milestone after milestone has been passed and June 14 will mark the 175th anniversary of the beloved symbol of the nation. Many patriotic Americans will be proud to display their flag on this date in observance of Flag Day.

Floating from the lofty pinnacles of American idealism, our flag is a beacon of enduring hope, like the famous Bartholdi Statue of Liberty enlightening the world to the opened of all kinds. It is the revered banner of an assemblage of free people from every racial stock on earth.

George Washington said: "We take the stars from heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty."

Old Glory's Ancestors Long before Old Glory became the symbol of our great nation, there were scores of flags representing the hopes and aspirations of our forefathers. Colonial flags show anchors, beavers, rattlesnakes, pine trees and various other insignia. Some of them bore the words, "Hope," "Liberty," or "Appeal to Heaven." A favorite motto beneath the rattlesnake design was "Don't tread on me."

Old Glory's immediate ancestor was the Grand Union Flag, sometimes called the Cambridge Flag, the Congress Colors, and known by others designations. It was similar to the flag as we know it today, except that the union was composed of the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew instead of the starry field.

Although many honors were accorded the Grand Union Flag it was never formally acknowledged by Just administrative expense of revenue. Economies are expected to reach $275,000 a month or a little more than an average of $1,000 a county. If expectations are met, the administrative cost will be reduced by about half. Reduction of personnel is estimated to save $180,000 a month; purchase reforms $30,000 a month; and classification of work $65,000. The plan seeks to pay the same salary for the same type of work all over the state.

Byron C. Utrecht, now a state capital correspondent, was New York World correspondent with Pancho Villa. He enthusiastically denies that the World correspondent acted as representative in the movie "Viva Villa."

State Railroad Commissioner E. C. Thompson, Amarillo, gave a dinner in Austin for another noted newsmen, A. B. McDonald, Kansas City. He and McDonald became friends when Gene Howe brought McDonald to Amarillo to ferret out the Payne bomb staying. Col. Thompson then was mayor of Amarillo.

Losers in political races used to go fishing "up Salt River." Railroad Commissioner Lon A. Smith proposes to reverse the system. If he wins in the first Democratic primary, without necessity of a runoff, he will go fishing at Don Martin dam in Northern Mexico.

each State admitted to the Union. When it is realized that 23 states have been added since December, 1818, the wisdom of this decision can be appreciated.

The Lone Star Flag The lone star flag of Texas dates from the days of the Republic. The third Congress of the embryo nation fixed its design, which has never been altered. As most Texans know, it consists of a blue perpendicular bar next to the staff, one-third the length of the flag with a star of five points in the center. The other two-thirds of the flag is made up of two horizontal bars, of equal width, one red, the other white, the white on the top.

Another star was added to the cluster in the blue field after Texas joined the Union in 1845. But the flag of Texas today is typical of the flag of the nation. In addition, the Texas flag, one of the oldest of American banners, has an interesting history.

Slowly the nation has expanded westward and new States have been added to the Union, each represented by a glistening star in the blue field. Symbolic of an honest pride in accomplishments of the past, together with courage and faith, which have always ruled the destiny of our great nation, Old Glory goes marching on!

UNDER THE WIDE AND SPREADING SKY

SUMMER is the season when the possibilities for enjoyment are multiplied about you. Under the wide and spreading sky there is room for much happiness.

You don't need great wealth, and you don't need to fasten all your hopes for happiness on a short vacation. Whether you live in the city, with all its modern means of tempering the climate to your needs, or in the country where the good earth responds so beautifully to your touch—there is much to do, pleasantly and happily.

But there is art in enjoyment. You should dress properly for each occasion. You should have within easy reach the things that make hospitality inviting and gracious. You should have the means of refreshing and beautifying your person and improving your sense of well-being. You should be comfortable.

It is not so hard to do all this. It is not accomplished in one frenzied and expensive effort. Comforts should grow about your home, as flowers and fruits blossom and ripen.

Read the advertisements, and acquire the things you need from what you learn there. Fresh light summer wear. Foods and beverages that keep crisp and cool in modern refrigerators. Gas and electricity that cook and brighten without heating your rooms. Electric fans, perhaps. Soaps, cosmetics, and heaps of fresh towels for frequent showers.

And read in the advertisements where to go and what to do in order to make Summer the golden season of your life.
