Precinct 3 Votes Against Liquor Sales

Motley County voters Saturday, February 7, rejected for the third time a measure to legalize liquor sales for off-premise consumption.

Residents voted 150-111 to continue the ban of liquor sales, despite the persistent efforts of Matador City Water Manager, Bill Jameson to keep people from driving the 28 miles to the nearest wet county to buy alcoholic beverages.

Tally of the votes revealed that Northfield voted 17 against and 1 for. Matador's precinct 3 vote was close with 100 for and 111 against. Absentee votes were 10 for and 22 against.

In 1984, the entire Matador Community voted on the same local option question and defeated in 275 to 161. Last November, residents of Precinct 3 and voting Precinct 6 (Northfield) voted 140 to 126 to not allow the legal sell of liquor while attending the polls for the general election. However this vote was voided after officials discovered a local option election could not be held at the same time as a general election.

Roaring Springs City Council

The Roaring Springs City Council met Tuesday, Feb. 3 in the Roaring Springs City Hall with Mayor Eugene Watson, Councilmen; Gene Brannon Jeanne Adams, Ronnie Thacker, and Roy Hernandez, City Secretary Odessa Mullins, and City Water Superintendent David Saenz. Others attending were Sam Martinez and Tribune Editor Barbara Jameson.

The Mayor called the meeting to order and asked the reading of the minutes of the January meeting and the special called meeting the last week in January. They were approved as read.

Mayor Watson has appointed Mary Webb of Roaring Springs as election judge for the upcoming election. Mrs. Webb is checking to see if they can designate numbered seats for the city council race. Odessa Mullins explained that notices needed to be posted at the City Hall and at the polling door and the newspaper the month prior to the election. People have from Feb. 4 to March 4 to file for places on the ballots, after that they would be write-ins. Drawing for places on the ballot will be on March 9.

A question was asked a councilman about the sewer work going on in the alley behind Bennie Dillard's, it was an emergency job, which Keith Paschal was hired for that particular job.

Charlie Long came in to inform the council that he had done a computer study on the city's insurance and grant availability standards. He suggested the Council consider getting the water system updated so they could comply with grant standards. He also brought out the fact that the Volunteer Fire Department also had to be active and the Fire Marshall has to report to the State Board of Insurance. The water system and the Fire Department play a major role in possibly saving each household $60.00 a year on fire insurance. He gave each Councilman a copy of the computer report.

1987 Farm Program Meetings Held

Informational meetings explaining the Provisions of the 1987 Farm Programs were held on February 3, 1987, at the Motley County Courthouse and on February 5, 1987, at the Flomot Community Center. Scotty M. Abbott, County Executive Director of the Motley County ASCS Office discussed provisions of the acreage reduction program. Scotty M. Abbott told producers that they have until March 30, 1987 to apply for the feed grain, wheat, and cotton acreage reduction programs. He explained that the feed grains program contains a 20% acreage reduction requirement and an optional 15% paid land diversion. He also explained that other acreage reduction requirements are 27.5% for wheat, and 25% for cotton. Scotty also informed the producers that for 1987, limited cross will be in affect. Limited cross compliance prohibits producers from planting in excess of the crop acreage base for each other program crop on the farm.

Grazing of ACR (setaside acreage) will be permitted except for a period beginning June 1, 1987, and ending October 31, 1987. Haying of ACR (setaside acreage) is prohibited. The 50/92 provisions are in effect for the 1987 program also. The 50/92 provision means that producers who plant at least 50% of the permitted acreage to the program crop and devote the remaining permitted acreage to a conserving use will be eligible to receive deficiency payments on 92% of the permitted acreage. Also, an acreage equal to the difference between the planted acreage and the permitted acreage must be devoted to conservation uses.

Only producers who participate in the 1987 Farm Program will be eligible to receive benefits under the program. Scotty M. Abbott also discussed payment limitation provisions of the 1987 program. Abbott stated payment limitation determinations are based on conditions that exist on March 1 of the crop year for deficiency and diversion payments and October 1, for ACP and CRP payments. Scotty informed the producers that the payment limitation may apply to their farming operation and that these details may be obtained at the County office.

James Gillespie, District

Conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service discussed the Conservation Provisions of the 1985 Farm Bill which include the Conservation Reserve Program, Conservation Compliance, Sodbuster, and Swampbuster. Gillespie discussed the Conservation Reserve Program which offers producers help in retiring highly erodible cropland. He stated that the ASCS will share up to half of the cost of establishing permanent grasses on your highly erodible cropland. Under a 10 year contract, ASCS will make annual rental payments to the producer as long as the terms and conditions of the contract are met. Gillespie also discussed the Conservation Compliance provisions which will affect nearly every producer of annually planted crops in Motley County.

Producers who continue planting annually tilled crops on highly erodible fields will be affected by Conservation Compliance. To remain eligible for certain USDA program benefits, you must develop a locally approved conservation plan for those highly erodible fields by January 1, 1990. You must have the conservation plan fully implemented by January 1, 1995. Gillespie said Sodbuster applies if you plant annually tilled crops on highly erodible fields that were not used for crop production during the period 1981-85. If you plow out such a highly erodible field, you must do so under a conservation system approved by the local conservation district in order to remain eligible for USDA program benefits.

If more than 25% of the land in Motley County is to go into CRP the local ASCS would have to solicit comments from local businesses, Commissioners Court, etc., that to do so would not adversely affect the economy of Motley County.

Texas Agriculture Extension Service Offers Information

Ray Minkley of the Extension Service office in Matador informed producers at this meeting that Delton Girloff, Vernon Extension Service economist, would have a computer available for producers to use for the Matador meeting to assist them in making some of their decisions. Minkley also reiterated the importance of using the Extension Service as an information center.

Busy Day At Commissioners Court

Motley County Commissioner's Court met Monday February 9, 1987 with County Judge Bill J. Whitaker presiding and Commissioners John M. Russell, Joseph E. Simpson, Bill D. Washington and Fraiser Watson; County Clerk Lucretia Campbell kept minutes.

John Russell offered the invocation. Past minutes were read and approved.

Library Board president Marisue Potts met with Commissioners to report that she had the abstracts on the proposed Motley County Library Building and was asking that they might be stored in the deed records storage. She also noted that two roofers had given estimates on the cost of replacing the roof on the building to be restored as a library. Each roofer gave a 5-year guarantee. One roofer gave an estimate for fiberglass and the other, organic.

Commissioner Russell made a motion that a decision on repairs on the building be done as they see fit since funds for such are not to be financed by the County, but by donations and grant funds. Mrs. Potts also reported that the Library will be able to hire a Green Thumb worker now.

County Agent Ray Minkley gave out pamphlets on the County Judges and Commissioners Conference scheduled for February 24-26 at College Station for the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

Dept. of Public Highways representatives, Gene Stewart, Vance Castleberry, Assistant District Engineer, Lewis White, District Engineer met with commissioners to discuss Bridge Replacement Program and posting bridges. They also discussed building 50ft. long 24ft. wide bridge east of Whiteflat.

Commissioner Russell made a motion to sign an agreement to accept the signs for weight limits to be posted on each bridge as recommended by Mr. White. This was voted on and carried.

Ruby Thompson, Sr. Citizen secretary was asked by the Judge to meet with Commissioners about the Senior Citizens Building. Mrs. Thompson stated that the Senior Citizens had voted to allow the study clubs to use the Senior Citizens Building free of charge. She agreed to bring this subject before the Senior Citizens at their next meeting.

ASCS manager Scotty Abbott met with Commissioners to request that the Commissioners make a recommendation to allow above the current 25% cut-off. Abbott stated that this was only to cover perhaps another 1000-1500 acres coming into the program that would put them above the 25% limitation. The commissioners voted to recommend that up to 50% would not adversely affect Motley County economics.

Bob Phillips exhibited Tiffany Roofing Products to the Commissioners.

The J.P. Report showed intake of $4892 for the month of January.

The bills were approved and paid.

The votes for the election to sell liquor for off-premise consumption were canvassed and found to be in order which the State Election Board representative from Austin, Mark Jordan had verified on February 7.

"Son Beams"

By June Keltz

To look further into the "sheep-people parallel," we know that both are creatures of habits. When left alone, sheep will graze the same grass, walk the same trails and pollute the same ground until grass roots are damaged, trails become gullies and the ground a haven for disease. As a result, the animals become hungry and sick; even spreading sickness to those around them. "All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned everyone to his own way" (Isa. 53:6). We have a shepherd who will move us and show us more fertile pastures if we will follow Him out of our old ruts. To move to new ground we must lay aside our stubborn will and yield to His Lordship. Only He can give us the abundant life.

In the land where Jesus lived, the sheep were sheltered inside rocky caves at night. Since there were no gates to cover the entrances, once the sheep were safely inside, the shepherd laid his body across the door and there he slept. This explains why Jesus said in John 10: 7-9 "Truly, truly, I say to you, I am the door of the sheep. I am the door; if anyone enters through me, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture." We are safe from the enemy only when Jesus is the sentinel of our souls.

When flocks of several different owners drink together at a common water hole or stream, the sheep become intermingled and all look alike making it impossible to separate them by sight. Then the shepherds walk away and yell to them and immediately each sheep runs to his own Shepherd." To him the door keeper opens, and the sheep hear his voice, and he calls his own sheep by name, and leads them out. When he puts forth all his own, he goes before them, and the sheep follow him because they know his voice and a stranger they simply will not follow but will flee from him, because they do not know the voice of strangers." (John 10: 3-5)

Library Notes

by Marisue Potts

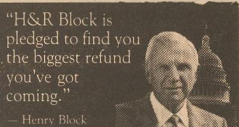

Among the many benefits of filling-in for our librarian are meeting the interesting people who use our library, and seeing the books that come and go.

I was amazed to discover the consistent popularity of "westerns," particularly the large number written by Louis L'Amour. His well-researched westerns, and there are almost a hundred of them in paperback alone, are based on traditional values, with little profanity and no racy scenes. The latest book the library offers is THE LAST BREED, a contemporary adventure that finds L'Amour's hero in the USSR using his Indian instincts to survive and avoid pursuit.

Also sure to be of interest to western fans are the hardbacks of the Double D and Walker Western series which feature many outstanding western authors such as Wayne Barton and Max Brand. For those whose interests lean more to the historical, the library's Texas Collection invites browsing.

Memorials received this week includes one for Ray Webb from Mr. and Mrs. Vann Francis, one for Bruce Marrs from Judge and Mrs. Billy Whitaker, and two for Bill Pipkin from the Matador Garden Club and Mr. and Mrs. Vann Francis, respectively. Acknowledgments are sent to each family, and books will be purchased in the near future to create a lasting memorial to the honored ones. Memorial donors and purchases are compiled in a booklet on display at the library.

From James A. Davidson of Midland comes a nice contribution to the Friends of the Library to assist in their projects above and beyond the county budget. Mr. and Mrs. Larry

Jo Ann's Jots & Jingles

By Jo Ann Dickson

During Valentine Week our thoughts fondly turn to thoughts of love. For many of us the love displayed between our parents is one of life's pleasant memories. After the death of my parents I penned the following poem and felt it was appropriate for the Valentine season.

MY LITTLE SWEETHEART

When first my eyes looked into your eyes
I love you. But deep were my sighs.
I, a poor, struggling young man
Longing for just the touch of your hand,
Never dreaming that you could love me, too.
But you did love me as I loved you.
We became one and promised never to part.
That is when you became "my little sweetheart."

A life time together we found.
Then God called me home
And you laid me to rest in the earthen ground.
Grief weakened you. I beckoned you to come.
We are in the earth together, never to part.
Eternally you will be "my little sweetheart."

Valentine's Day

by Jo Ann Dickson

I have the same feeling about celebrating Valentine's Day that I have about Christmas. I wish we could do away with the commercialism that has attached itself to these two days. Christmas is a day to celebrate the spiritual love of our Saviour. Valentine's Day, to me, is a day of love one to another.

I don't want a ceramic cupid or Charlie Brown holding a heart or a space creature with a heart helmet on his head.

I just want an expression of old-fashioned love from my husband or family or friends.

Remember the home-made Valentines, the store-bought one that when you pulled a tab the figures moved or when you opened it out popped a lacy "do-dad"? Remember the Valentine box on teacher's desk?

My thoughts return to school and childhood -
A Valentine Box on a teacher's desk of wood.

Years have passed but thoughts of that box so long ago
Fill my heart with memories.
I treasure them so.

TONI BARNHILL MEETS HIGH STANDARD IN NURSING

LUBBOCK -- Fourteen Methodist Hospital nurses have received certification by national review boards for their high standards in patient care.

Twelve of those nurses have been certified in perioperative nursing practice by the National Certification Board: Perioperative Nursing Inc.

Certification means a nurse meets high professional standards for knowledge and skill. To be eligible, an applicant must be a registered nurse who has worked in operating room nursing for at least two years.

Two nurse colleagues evaluate the nurse's practice, and candidates must then pass an examination on surgical patient care.

This is the eighth year the certification board has offered the examination. Currently, 8,184 operating room nurses in the nation hold the certification.

YOUNG ROPERS

During the summer of 1890, Hood McCamant and I, as boys with several good ponies and nothing more important to do, other than satisfy our fancy of being cowboys, rode the water holes on Stinking, Tonk, Tuttle, and Rock-Horse creeks, where cattle had collected by the thousands for their daily water allowance. It was there that we got practice and made fairly good ropers, while pursuing fleet-footed calves that were making something like sixty to nothing.

Any old puncher can tell you there is a vast difference in roping calves out of a roundup when riding slowly, from catching them when both the horse and the calf are almost flying. Sure, it takes more speed and accuracy while running. If you are successful, it requires a truer, better coordination and timing.

Young cowboys in the embryo learn to be resourceful. A good horse, a rope, a few matches and a pocket knife, then all that is needed are some bull-calves and they soon have the making of a pretty good dinner. Such doings now, with improved, high-priced cattle, would be frowned upon by the owners. Nowadays, they are handled quite differently though it is doubtful if they are handled any better.

Real cowboys, when they put their ropers on cattle, busted them. Now, they try to pull them down easy. Try out the two systems for yourself and see which one produced the most crippled cattle!

That brings to mind a picture-memory of a good many years ago. In the Matador range, on Tee Pee Creek, the Matadors had rounded and were branding. The calves, at least a good many of them, were large and hard to handle. Jim Cooper, a boy who had been reared on that creek, was there and heeled the big ones, as they were led out.

Leighterwood, a Scotchman, and a Matador Ranch Superintendent, noted how adept and accurate the boy was with his rope and said; "Jimmy is getting pretty smooth with his line." After pausing, he added: "But he ought to be. There are five hundred crippled cattle on this creek," accenting the "K". Possibly Jim had lamed a few, for he certainly knew how to handle a cavarista. No man ever made a good roper without plenty of practice. By the time Jim Cooper reached maturity and worked for cattlemen, he was a top hand and almost an expert roper.

Billy McKai made a fair hand on a horse, and a dream of a calf-flanker. A tall, angular fellow, with broad shoulders and flexible supple muscles, and when he flanked a calf and straightened up, he looked as though he got the calf a little higher than anyone else and when he dropped it flat on its back, he chilled every nerve in it. He had the knack and learned how to use it. Billie was a Scotchman who worked for the Matadors for several years, then disappeared. Where he went, I never knew.

Remember When

By Annie B. Cloyd
Box 22
Flomot, TX 79234

Hi Neighbors, it's just me again here in Flomot, still thinking about some old times and some things that happened around here way back when those times were hard. But you know something, we didn't know just how poor we were, cause most everyone around us were in the same shape.

Remember when the kids had to wait to eat, that is, if we had a lot of company. We kids also stayed outside out of the grown-up folks way. I remember my Dad made us a swing out of one rope over the big limb of the walnut tree, then filled a towsack with sand and tied it on the rope. We could get a running start and jump on the sack of dirt and get it swinging, was a lot of fun even-- taking turns, like we had to do. The girls played dolls and the boys played marbles too.

Remember when you had to give up your bed to company and you slept on a pallet on the floor? I sure do and I remember how my brother did not like it one bit. He thought the other kids could sleep on the floor just the same as we could. But now days the kids think it's great to sleep on the floor because they all have sleeping bags and most folks have carpet on the floor too, so the houses are much warmer now-days.

I was thinking about how cold the floor was when all you had to keep the house warm with was the old wood cook stove in the kitchen and the pot-bellied stove in the front room. Or, if you were lucky your folks had a fireplace. I remember the old oil stove my Dad got to put in the bedroom, and how the oil did stink up the place with fumes. We didn't use it long because it was so bad Mother thought it might make us sick to smell it.

Leon and I were talking about Cotton John Smith when he was on the radio and how everyone always listened to him. He talked about the farms and farmers and what to do to help us make a better income and -- a lot of things that were interesting to country folks. If you remember his program -- you'll remember that he always left us with a thought for the day. One I'll never forget was "The jaw-bone of an ass does just as much damage today as it did when Sampson used it." I think of that real often and I think we all should.

Guess I better stop and get busy -- but I'll be back and Remember When along with you all real soon.

Remember - I do like to hear from you, so call or write so you can help me Remember.

And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; but the greatest of these is love. 1 Cor. 13:13

Boulter To Bring FmHA Chief To Amarillo

AMARILLO, TX -- Congressman Beau Boulter (R-13) announced today that he will host a seminar Friday, February 13th, on the agricultural credit problems facing many farmers and ranchers, and the credit options available to them.

Mr. Vance L. Clark, Administrator of the Farmers Home Administration in Washington, and the State Director for FmHA for Texas, Mr. Lynn Futch will be present at the seminar to discuss the credit opportunities available through the FmHA, and to listen to comments and suggestions from agricultural lenders and borrowers. They will specifically address the Guaranteed Loan Program offered by the FmHA, in cooperations with local commercial banks and PCA's.

The seminar, which will be held at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center (6500 Amarillo Blvd. West), will begin with a morning session for agricultural lenders, followed by an afternoon for area farmers and ranchers. The morning session will run from 8:45 a.m. to 12:00 noon, while the afternoon session is scheduled to begin at 1:15 p.m. and end at 4:00 p.m.

"The current problems plaguing farmers in the area of agricultural credit are symptoms of the overall situation facing American agriculture," Boulter said.

"I believe that a seminar of this type will foster a better understanding of the problem and help promote possible solutions among lenders and borrowers alike."

The seminar and panel discussion will also feature representatives from a commercial bank involved in agricultural lending, a Production Credit Association, a federal land bank, and an agricultural consultant (please see attached agenda).

Congressman Boulter, Mr. Clark, and Mr. Futch will hold a news conference at 10:30 a.m. at the A&M Extension Center.

FmHA Manager Describes Emergency Loan Information

Larry Clements of the Spur office for FmHA stated that eligibility for Emergency Loans rested on three primary factors: 1) county designated as a disaster area 2) producer can't be financed anywhere else 3) must be a family-sized operation. It is a one time loan.

To qualify, Clements said, a producer must be able to show a 30% overall loss (from normal yearly production for the past 5 years or according to the county average). The terms depend on the security offered-- for example real estate would conceivably make the loan eligible for a 20 year duration, cattle or equipment for 7 year and crops on a shorter period. As of January 1, 1987 producers must have federal crop insurance or multi-peril crop insurance. Needless to say, all plans must be able to show a positive cash flow.

Farmers, Ranchers Must Become Personally Involved to Take Advantage of New Congressional Atmosphere For Change

AUSTIN--The 10,000 families who belong to Texas Farmers Union must become personally involved in changing national farm policy, taking advantage of an improved Congressional atmosphere, and counter-setting some powerful opposition from outside of production agriculture, a national family farm advocate said here today.

"The battle lines are pretty clear," National Farmers Union Legislative Director Bob Mullins told members and delegates attending the annual TFU convention. At the same time that representatives of farming families and rural America are uniting to pass a supply management bill, and at the same time that new members have been elected to Congress on that platform, large agribusinesses and others who profit from low commodity prices are raising nearly a quarter of a million dollars to fight supply management, Mullins said.

"We can't allow that to happen. We've got to raise commodity prices and yet not continue to produce a product that we simply can't sell -- or, quite frankly, give away these days. The best way to do that is with an effective program to bring supply in line with demand," he said.

"The effort must come from the bottom up. Particularly with members of the House Agriculture Committee, Congressmen are very sensitive to what's happening in their home districts," Mullins said. He urged farmers and ranchers to meet with their Congressmen and Senators, outlining their own needs in farm policy.

Effective supply management would prevent the waste of food that now never reaches consumers anywhere.

"In the United States today, we would not have to plant a single acre of wheat this year to meet all of our demand for next year and still have a carryover," Mullins pointed out. "All we're saying is, we're going to produce what we need and not anymore, and let the market price come up to a level that reflects the true value of that commodity."

Mullins said supply management would put sound business practices to work in agriculture, increasing farm income and revitalizing the rural economy.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Barbara:

First of all I want to congratulate you on your professional publishing abilities. I admire you for what you have accomplished.

Also, I wish there was some way I could adequately express how very much the "Matador Tribune" has meant to me since I have been away from my home town. I always get a lift when I read this special paper. It is so wonderful to receive a newspaper that extols accomplishments, positive thoughts of faith and encouragement, instead of the typical horrendous happenings or "supposed-to-be" happenings that are less than wonderful in our world today. I am sure there are many who truly appreciate "our" weekly paper.

Next, I have wanted to send you this picture ever since I attended the Press Conference at St. Mary of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock to announce that Evergreen Life Line, a division of Evergreen Helicopters, and one which I co-founded in 1979, was selected as the operator of this most valuable service in Lubbock and for the surrounding communities. We also operate the medevac program in Tyler, Texas, and formerly operated the program at Hermann Hospital in Houston. I presently serve as Sr. Vice President of Evergreen Helicopters, which is one of the five subsidiaries of Evergreen International Aviation, Inc., of which I serve as a member of the Board of Directors, and Vice-President of Administration. (Bell Helicopters is a Dallas mfrgr.)

What was so special to me was to know that so many dear people will be covered by emergency transport should it be deemed necessary as the coverage area for a hospital program like this is about 150 miles in circumference. Mr. Dan Griffis is the Interim Administrative Director of the program at St. Mary's, and I am sure he will be happy to send you the information on this program. It has been proven many, many times that the "Golden Hour" after a trauma injury is the most critical, and if the injured can be transported to an appropriate hospital with skilled trauma teams of medical professionals, the odds of saving the life are greatly enhanced as much as 80 to 1.

What was also quite special about my being in Lubbock on October 28 with my daughter Kellye (who is now attending Dallas Baptist University), is that as our group surveyed the recommended heli-port for the Alouette III helicopter, the individual who was in charge of developing the property did look familiar. As I questioned him as to where he had lived prior to Lubbock, and he said Matador, I knew it was "Pup" Price. It was so nice to see him again, to hear about the children (I used to babysit for), and see him involved in such an outstanding program.

I was disappointed that I could not attend my 25th Year Homecoming on October 24, after looking so forward to the occasion for five years. I never dreamed that on that very day my own son, Bobby, who is a senior would be playing his Homecoming football game, and since he was the Captain and Quarterback, it was important to "sacrifice" and be there. Would you believe our McMinnville team won that one special game after being placed in a league far superior and larger than our school.

Also, the previous night my son, Greg, 15, opened in a major production of Grease, so I guess I had no choice but to stay here those two days. How I will look forward to the next Homecoming, as I find in those a renewing, and the treasure of memories lasts such a nice, long time.

On October 25, my daughter Kellye and I attended the Gold Medal Award Ceremonies of the Napoleon Hill Foundation held in Dallas, during which the owner of our company, Del Smith, was recognized as America's Entrepreneur of the year. Also honored were Dr. Michael E. Debakey for Humanitarian Achievement, Dr. O.A. Battista for Creative Achievement, Dr. Robert H. Schuller for Literacy Achievement, and Eddy C. Scurllock for Managerial Achievement. W. Clement Stone, the co-author of Success Through A Positive Mental Attitude with Napoleon Hill (who is best known for Think and Grow Rich), and who founded Combined Insurance Company of America is the Foundation's President. Previous awardees include Lee Iacocca, Mary Kay Ash, Og Mandino, The Honorable Jennings Randolph, Zig Ziglar, The Honorable Strom Thurmond, Ted Turner, and Norman Vincent Peale. It was a most memorable occasion, and it was great to see Mary Helen and Doc Cross, and Richard while in Dallas, before going on to Plainview to visit my mother, Hazel Stephens.

I am now looking forward to traveling to India with Dr. Tartaglia of New York who has been commissioned by the Foundation to conduct "modern day" interviews of our country's most outstanding achievers (as Napoleon Hill did for Andrew Carnegie) to be included in the Fiftieth Anniversary Edition of Think and Grow Rich. We hope to meet with Mother Theresa in Calcutta in March.

I am so proud of you all, and so deeply grateful that my life was blessed by being a part of Matador, and all the wonderful people there.

God bless you all in this 1987.

With love,
Donna Williams Nelson

Dear Barbara,

Just a note to let you know I've thoroughly enjoyed the paper!

I especially enjoyed Duff Green's reminiscence.

Keep up the good work!

Love to all,
John Moss

To The Editor:

In the recent wet-dry election, I feel you and your paper pulled the most underhanded, cheapest low down tricks ever pulled in Motley County. I have never heard of a newspaper ever going from door to door begging for money to fight against an election. I know you won't print this, but never the less people already know what kind of a person you are, and I can tell all of you I had rather lose fair than to win with a pack of lies, you all have told the public, so feel sure I can sleep at night, can you?

Bill Jameson

To The Editor:

Do you have people that read this newspaper that know they have bad eating habits, and want help in correcting those bad habits? Do you have readers that want to feel better, look better, look better and have more energy?

TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) may be what they are looking for.

TOPS is a non-profit, non-commercial weight control organization founded in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in 1948. TOPS currently has 320,000 members in 11,866 chapters in the United States, Canada and 25 other countries throughout the world. In 1985 these chapters had a documented weight loss of 885 tons (1,769,105.89 lbs.)

The non-profit program of TOPS has five distinguishing facts. These are (1) Medical Orientation; (2) Group Therapy; (3) Competition; (4) Recognition; and (5) Obesity Research.

TO WHOMEVER:

This is a shot in the dark-- maybe someone would remember who and where are laid to rest the parents of George D. Miller Sr. (Hook).

I found a letter to my parents (1964) from Jesse H. Couch telling about my grandfather and how my grandmother died. Grandmother Miller and her parents - S.D. and Emily Horne are laid to rest here in Matador.

I am making a history of the family and have all great grandparents except these. Last time we were there, Mrs.

Patton had gone. On the back of a picture of my grand parents and my grandfathers brother, it says Custer City, Okla. I hope by chance someone might remember something. Enclosed is a SASE for a reply, if any. Thank you for your time.

The Council reported that they were working on an emergency water grant now that looked hopeful for the city.

A question from a citizen about the sewer line on his property was brought before the council. They instructed Saenz to repair this sewer, but to determine if the problem is on city or personal property. If it is on personal property, the landowner would be charged for the repairs. Adams assured Saenz that he was to answer only to the Council, that he was not a plumber or repairman for individual citizens. All the Councilmen agreed and assured Saenz they were his only boss.

Saenz said it was time to order more trash barrels, and that he needed a place to store them, and he also asked for a room in the school building to store city supplies. The council told him to build a fenced in area at the school for the barrels and to get one of the rooms in the grade school building.

The New Shield Roofing Systems of Spur has sent an estimate for the roof at the school building, the council discussed getting a long term loan for the roofing job.

Mayor Watson renewed the note at the bank for another 30 days, while waiting on the grant monies.

The Council discussed the electric bill on the city house which David Saenz lives in and asked Mullins to call the West Texas Utilities to come to check the house out for a problem, as the bill is very high each month.

Odessa told the Council that she was going to resign from the job of City Secretary, that she had made a commitment to the Lord a long time ago to do His work and since the job she took for part time had turned into a full time one, she didn't have the time she needed to have for her church work, but that she would stay and help train a new secretary.

The Council accepted her resignation with regret.

The Council discussed running an ad in the paper for a new employee for the city.
