Barbara's Bylines

We forget sometime to look around and appreciate what we have. This week a man was telling me how good Matador and Roaring Springs looked compared to some of the other small towns around this area. Then at Lions Club I talked with one of the men from the South Plains Lions Club of Lubbock, he said they had taken a tour around town and really thought we had a nice clean looking town. So, look around and smell the roses in your fair town and see what you can do to help make it even better.

Absentee Voting dates are from March 16 - March 31. To vote absentee for the Motley County I.S.D. Board of Trustees and Motley County Hospital Board of Directors, you must go to the Motley County Courthouse, District Clerk Office.

Stock Show Efforts To Pay Off Monday

Many 4-H & FFA members and families have been working hard for the past several months. They have been preparing their animals for the annual Motley County Jr. Livestock Show. It will be held Monday March 23. Animals will begin arriving at around 7:00 a.m. for weighing and tagging. Breakfast will be served for all participants, parents, and volunteers helping with the show.

This year there will be about 18 steers, 35 hogs, 11 lambs, and 20 or 30 heifers. Steers, hogs, and lambs are shown by 4-H and FFA members from 3rd grade through seniors in high school. 12-18 month old heifers may be entered by anyone living in or owning land in the county or youth eligible for the Jr. Show. They will be shown in pens not at halter. One dollar per head entry fee will be taken for heifers. There is no limit on numbers of heifers.

Steer and lamb owners have all had the opportunity to be in a practice show these past few weeks. They have also been weighing, washing, clipping, feeding and trimming feet to ready their animals for Monday's show.

A lot of time, effort, and money has been invested by these 4-H and FFA members and families. They learn a lot from their experiences. Please come to the show Monday and support them.

The Motley County ISD Board of Trustees met Monday, March 16, in the board room. Those present were President Roy Hobbs, Secretary Bobby Williams, Trustees, Randy Barton, Roy G. Stephens, Dan Brandon, Guy Campbell, Donnie Cruse, Superintendent Ron Cummings, High School Principal Don Ewing, Elementary Principal Michael Patrick.

The meeting was called to order by President Hobbs, who also read the minutes of the past three meetings, one the regular meeting and two called meetings. The minutes were approved and also motion was made and passed to pay the bills.

The Board was asked to pass on the Text Book Committee's selection of new textbooks; they approved. The Election judges' appointments were made for the April 4 election. They will be as follows: Hazel Donovan-Matador, Odessa Mullins-Roaring Springs, Mrs. O.J. Lee-Flomot and Mrs. Billy Paul Simpson of Northfield.

Cummings explained that they didn't need to set the 1987-88 school calendar or an annual Performance Report at this time because the legislature is in the process of changing their previous ruling.

The Board went into executive session, according to Cummings, in executive session the Board, decided to settle with Butler Mfg. Co for $20,000 instead of $21,000. All professional certified employees were rehired, and Dorothy Turner was rehired for 1987-88.

Innovation Unleashes Community Development

by Michelle Bearden

"We're going to have to grow our own industries and businesses and thus create jobs for rural West Texas," stated Jon Krebs, Manager, Area Development Dept., Southwestern Public Service of Amarillo at the workshop on "Economic Development for Rural and Small Cities" at Littlefield on March 12.

In an on-going support of economic development for Motley County the Motley County Tribune covered this meeting and will be presenting to Tribune readers in a series of articles on this subject.

"Strategies for Economic Growth" was on target for the over 100 participants from 33 small towns across West Texas and eastern New Mexico. Presented by Dr. Greg Taylor, Community Development and Project Group supervisor, Texas Agriculture aspect of the workshop included a plan to increase the flow of dollars into our own economy and keeping them there. The advantages of economic growth in a community includes: increased job opportunities, rising personal incomes, increased retail sales, increased tax base, increased retention of the youth of our community, usually (but not necessarily) a population increase, increase for demand for public services. One suggestion was to sell more to people living outside of the community. This involves a kaleidoscope of possibilities such as an event or promotional effort that attracts out of town retail customers.

Have something that would make a tourist or traveler stop in this community. Implicit with this objective is the dedication of everyone that a traveler meets to make them feel welcome, make them feel good about stopping in Matador or Roaring Springs. Word of mouth is the best (and least expensive) form of advertisement on the market.

Increased service oriented people such as medical personnel, CPA's, lawyers, electricians, barbers, etc., would be an added plus to any community. Service professions are especially important if our population is leaving the county to find these services. Basically, anything that takes residents out of the area means dollars spent out of the community. Motley County at present is fortunate to have some representation of services mentioned available.

Attracting retirees to the area would be a highly advantageous situation as this group has a number of built-in advantages. A highly mobile group, wanting to escape cold climates, they often have their own source of income and don't require a job. They also have a special set of needs and demands which could provide unique economic opportunities.

As James Matlett, Community Development Specialist for Texas Ag. Extension Service states, "The community can do very little to influence international trade, national business trends, inflation rate, interest rates, unemployment rates, etc. But, there are a number of things the community can influence. Community spirit, pride and attitude are some of the most critical ingredients. Community involvement and support by a majority of local residents over an extended period of time is essential for community economic growth efforts to succeed.

A community can allow whatever evolutionary forces to continue and hope for the best, or the community can take responsibility for its destiny by developing an economic growth strategy, with 'a plan of action.'"

Central to any community development success obviously comes back to the question, Do you care enough about your home, your community, to devote any effort for it? (This topic to be continued next week).

Matador City Council Raises Water Deposit

By Barbara Jameson

Mayor Gary Lancaster, and Councilmen L.B. Campbell, John Briscoe, Joe P. Smith, Doyle Rose, City Water Superintendent Bill Jameson, and City Secretary Nell Berryman, met for the usual City Council meeting, Thursday March 12, 1987, Councilman Lewis Bostick was absent.

The minutes were read from the previous meeting and approved, the outstanding bills were read and approved to be paid for $8,518.36 Jameson reported on the water line to the cemetery and Councilman Campbell stated that Quail Pipe had made a good offer on the pipe for this line that they accepted.

No report had come in from the lawyer on the Stanley Hospital Building as of today.

Berryman stated that the Hollenbacks had notified the City Office that the City Well House would be vacant next month, and that Billy Wilson had asked to rent it, the council approved.

The City has leased a ditch digging machine from Les Jameson and discussed purchasing this machine or leasing it when necessary, they decided to table this decision until next meeting.

The council discussed raising the amount of deposit for a water meter to $50. After a lengthy discussion, some changes were made and they adopted 4 of the proposals.

Discussion on the lease agreement with the Motley County Hospital Board, was discussed. The final decision was made to give them the first year rent free, due to the cost of any remodeling and Insurance, etc., that the Hospital Board will cover, setting the lease for 20 years.

Mr. Paul Barton entered the council meeting to ask for a water meter and hook up to be put in on his land in the event his well or pump go out. After the Mayor explained the policy to Mr. Barton, it was decided to fix his meter and hookup to be turned on by the Water Superintendent when Mr. Barton called that he needed the water. This was so he wouldn't be billed a monthly fee when not in use.

Gary McKay and David Todd, Grant Engineers, entered the council meeting. McKay explained the new sewer line and any changes that might be made. Todd explained about the cost of current contracts and that the bids would be taken in May.

Jo Ann's Jots & Jingles

By Jo Ann Dickson

Let's take the word CIRCLE. Have you thought of the many ways we use it?

As a child my teacher said, "Now, children, draw a round circle." How could a circle be anything but round?

Then we sit in a room with friends a square or rectangular room and say, "Isn't this a lovely circle of friends?" We aren't sitting in a circle! Group would be a better word.

We are with a number of people and we say, "Now, let's circle round." Well, if we are going to make a circle naturally it is round!!

When you are married and the preacher says to the groom, "Place this circle of gold on your bride's finger: Why doesn't he just say, "Put the ring on her finger." After all, we all know the ring is in the form of a circle.

I've often wondered if the word circle came from the word circle - after all most circles have three rings. Or maybe it was the other way around.

We talk about concentric circles. Well, mid-point of a circle ought to be the same distance to any outer part of the circle so, of course, a true circle is concentric, isn't it? So, why use the word?

We use the word CIRCLE in peculiar context: a circle of dancers, a wide circle of influence, a vicious circle, circle the correct answer, circle the earth, etc.

Just thought I'd call attention to this little 6-lettered word that is used in "the circle of our life" so much!!

Library Notes

by Sara Hurt

I would like to thank Marise Potts for her selfless time spent helping in the library in my absence. She had to jump into my job without any training and did an excellent job. Thank you to Joan Patton for keeping the volunteer program going.

On our volunteer program, Joan Patton is stepping down and Darla Gwinn of Flomot will be taking the program over. Anyone wishing to volunteer their time or reschedule their appointed time needs to call Darla at 469-5272. Since the Library Board has voted to open the library on Monday's, we need volunteers on Monday afternoons 2-5 Tuesday nights 6-9 and Friday afternoons 2-5 for the convenience of our patrons. This week's volunteers in the library are Joan and Keith Patton and Earline Jameson, we appreciate your time.

We have received a genealogy book from Lee Peacock of her family tree entitled "Twigs And Branches From The Archer-Harper-Henderson-Reeves Family Tree" researched by Lee Peacock and typed by her sister Francis. If you are interested in genealogy this is an interesting and informative book. Lee has researched her families so long that she knows the in's and out's of Genealogy work, so I refer patron's questions to her as I know next to nothing on the subject.

Books donated this week are from Susan Thomas, an avid reader.

We thank Dr. Frank Traweek for his donation to the library in memory of Bill Pipkin.

We have a new Friends of the Library member to add to our list; Mrs. Clay Gilbert.

New books in the library are:

Windmills Of The Gods by Sidney Sheldon.

Conspiracy Of Naves by Dee Brown.

the Lost Ship Of Noah: In Search of the Ark at Ararat by Charles Berlitz.

"Son Beams"

By June Keltz

Reasons for not doing what God requires of us are numerous and various. We tend to make excuses and feel justified in doing so. Jesus knew man's nature when He told the parable of the dinner. Many were invited to come into His house and sit at His table but their excuses for not coming sounded like a recording of our present society. One had to go look at his land - another had to see about his cow - and the third thought his wife needed his attention. Since the Master planned to fill His house, He compelled the poor, the crippled, the blind, those on the highways and along the hedges to come in. (Luke 14: 16, 24).

When God called Moses to be leader of Israel, Moses, grasping for a pardonable straw, declared, "I am slow of speech and slow of tongue." (Ex. 4:10)

On one occasion, when Jesus told His disciples to follow Him, one asked permission to first go and bury his Father who obviously was not yet dead. (Matt. 8: 18-22)

At a ladies luncheon last week, we heard the testimony of a woman whom God had called into a special ministry. The "accuser" immediately came and began to whisper in her ear - "Your teeth are so ugly that your mouth will be offensive to people. Your speech is so 'country' that no one will listen."

God has many callings for His people. Preaching is only one. We are ALL called to accept His way of salvation through the blood of His only son, Jesus. Some are called to write, to teach, to care for little children, to be doctors or nurses. Callings are not to be practices in the church only, but what ever our hands find to do must be done for His glory. We have a friend in New Mexico who leads people to the Lord in his muffler shop. His wife is a witness in her bookstore. A friend in Plainview tells others about Jesus as he installs fire extinguishers. Two renowned bankers in Lubbock pray with people in their plush, high rise offices. It was the enemy of our soul who established the rule of keeping Christianity within the walls of the church building. It was also his suggestion that emotions are accepted at ball games, but not in church.

Whatever God has equipped us to do, we must do it with all our might because "the gifts and calling of God are irrevocable." (Rom. 11:29).

(Due to errors in last weeks Son Beams we are re-running it this week).

Consecrate yourselves to day to the Lord, even every man upon his son, and upon his brother; that he may bestow upon you a blessing this day.

FITTING FITNESS INTO YOUR BUSY LIFE

Between a job, family and household chores, most of us consider ourselves too busy to take the time to exercise. We ride instead of walk, gulp down our food and spend leisure time in sedentary activities.

We also like to believe that exercising would simply add to our fatigue at the end of the day. However, exercise has been shown to increase energy and help people cope with their stress.

The truth is, we don't need to find extra time and space for fitness. But we do need to use our time and space a little differently. Here are some ideas:

*Substitute moving time for waiting time. Don't wait for elevators, parking spaces or bus rides less than a mile. Wear your walking shoes and walk whenever possible.

*Try an exercise break instead of a coffee break. Take a quick walk even if it's only around the office, or do some exercises right at your work station. The office is no place to do pushups, but you can do neck and shoulder rotations, flex your arms and legs, stretch your fingers and toes.

*Get some midday relief from back aches by sitting in a chair, bending from the waist, letting your head dangle between your knees and then slowly rolling your spine back up into position.

*Once you start exercising throughout the work day, you may decide you want more. Consider getting up earlier for stretching exercises or a brisk walk. Join a lunch time aerobics class or take a brisk walk over the noon break. Take an exercise class after work or use an exercise audio or video cassette at home.

When you put your body in motion, you may be surprised at how much fitness fits into a busy day.

County Agent's Corner

By Ray Minkley

The Russian wheat aphid was found in Muleshoe, Texas in March 1986. This was the first record of this aphid in the United States. During the spring of 1986 the aphid spread into a total of 61 Texas Counties and during 1986 extended its range to include parts of seven states.

Last spring 150,000 wheat acres were treated in the Texas High Plains for control of the Russian wheat aphid. As the aphid feeds it injects a toxin into plants that can cause significant yield losses. Yield losses of 30 to 50% have been reported.

In the Rolling Plains Russian wheat aphid populations developed late in 1986 and infestations were limited to parts of fields, in most cases small spots. Russian wheat aphids were found in Hardeman, Foard, Baylor, Throckmorton and Jones Counties in May 1986 and these counties are on the eastern boundary of the known distribution. Russian wheat aphids have not been found in Childress and King Counties but have been found in all other counties in the western part of Extension District 3.

The wet conditions of the 1986-87 wheat production season have not favored development of Russian wheat aphid populations. Infestations are now present in parts of the High Plains and Panhandle but have not been found in the Rolling Plains. In 1986 most of the Russian wheat aphid populations. Infestations are now present in parts of the High Plains and Panhandle but have not been found in the Rolling Plains. In 1986 most of the Russian wheat aphid infestations in the Rolling Plains were found in April and May.

Russian wheat aphids prefer the uppermost leaf or leaves of small grain plants. The aphids will be on the top side of the leaf and infested leaves will curl much like a straw around the aphids. Infested leaves will exhibit white, longitudinal streaks due to the toxin. The toxin disintegrates the chloroplast membrane. Heavily infested plants may appear flattened, with tillers lying almost parallel to the ground. Occasionally, infested plants will exhibit a purple appearance. When inspecting a field look for the flattened plants, rolled up leaves and white leaf streaking. The aphids will not be visible until the leaves are unrolled.

The Russian wheat aphid can be distinguished from other aphids in wheat by its double tailed appearance when viewed from the side and by the lack of prominent cornicles (dorsal tubes projecting from the rear of most aphids). Greenbugs and other aphids are usually found on the underside of leaves while the Russian wheat aphids are found on the top side of the rolled up leaves.

If aphids are found that appear to be Russian wheat aphids, please contact the Motley County Extension Agent. Since this is a new pest the infestation pattern this year should be documented.

Property rendition forms must be in the Motley County Appraisal District office by March 31, Mrs. Betty Luckett, chief appraiser, reminds local property owners. A 30-day extension of this deadline is available to property owners who file a written request for it.

A rendition is a special form, available at the local appraisal district office, on which a property owner lists taxable property. It can also list the owner's opinion of the property's value. Property owners file these renditions with the chief appraiser of the appraisal district in which the property is located.

The law requires certain property owners to file renditions each year. Anyone who on January 1 owns or manages tangible personal property used to produce income must render that property for taxation. Business inventories, office furniture and fixtures and business vehicles are examples of income-producing personal property.

The chief appraiser may also require others to render property they own or manage. If so, the property owner will receive a written notice of the rendition requirement and an appropriate rendition form.

Anyone may voluntarily file a rendition with the appraisal district, although Texas law doesn't require the average property owner to render a home or personal property not used to produce income. Further, property owners who render who do not need to estimate property value. However, there are several good reasons to do so.

First, rendition is a means for a property owner to record an opinion of the property's value.

Second, by recording an opinion of the property's value, the property owner has ensured that the chief appraiser must send a notice before placing a higher value on the property. This notice allows the property owner time to gather information to protest the value to the appraisal review board.

Third, the property owner ensures that the appraisal district has the correct mailing address and property description.

A "report of decreased value" is also filed by March 31 with the chief appraiser. A property owner who believes property value has decreased during the preceding tax year, for reasons other than normal depreciation, files the report which describes the property and the nature and cause of the decrease.

Rendition forms and reports of decreased value are available at the Motley County Appraisal District Office. Law requires that each form or report must include all information requested and that it must be signed by the property owner or the owner's authorized agent.

Texas Law provides several types of homestead exemptions for home owners, including two for school districts. They offer a $5,000 general homestead exemption to all homeowners and an additional $10,000 exemption to those over 65 or older or disabled. To qualify, the homeowner must have turned 65 or older before January 1987.

Mrs. Luckett reminds property owners that rendition forms and property reports are confidential and therefore not open to public inspection.

Property owners should file the forms with Mrs. Luckett by March 31 at the appraisal district office. For more information, call 347-2334 or 347-2234.

GEORGE MILLER
Part I

George Miller was a singular man, a man no one ever seemed to know or feel very closely connected to or with. George seemed to act pretty wild and tough; and when he was finally cornered and taken, he amply bore out his reputation.

Somewhere back in the early nineties, say 1883 or 1884, I was employed about our old home place, one afternoon in Dickens, Texas when I noted a man riding in from the north, leading a pack-horse. I noted that he had a winchester in a scabbard on his saddle. I remembered he was riding a splendid red sorrel horse. The pack-horse was a good one, too, but he seemed tired or fagged, for occasionally he pulled back on the lead rope, but that effort didn't even seem to check the red sorrel's saddle gait. Possible, that was the main reason I took such a keen notice of the lay-out, for a stranger passing through attracted little notice at that time.

I noted the rider made no stop, but rode through the Courthouse Square and went on South. That red sorrel horse, I thought was one of the most attractive horses I had ever seen. Nor have I seen a horse since, that measured up to him. Large, smooth, with a free graceful and sweeping movement, as though he was made of rubber.

Shortly, all the officer's got word out of Oklahoma to be on the look-out for George Miller. Described him minutely, down to the red sorrel horse that he rode and the smaller brown pack-horse he led behind.

George Miller, after passing through Dickens went on south into Kent County, where Norman Rogers was sheriff; though Rogers also ran a store in Clairmont. George Miller immediately went to town and to Rogers store and made a purchase of some sort, just to spot Norman Rogers, the sheriff. That was done before word came out of Oklahoma to arrest George Miller on sight.

The man hunt was on and the country was scoured for George Miller, who also went by the alias, "Bill Cook." Miller or Cook was seen by many people, but never by the officers that were trying to find him. At times the man hunt would die down, as Cook or Miller would seem to evaporate and nothing would be heard of him. He seemed in or out of the country at will, but as hard to overtake as a shadow in the moonlight. In fact, he never was captured in Texas, but a forty man posse cornered George Miller in Western Oklahoma, where the red sorrel horse was killed and after a terrific battle was fought. George Miller was captured, but not until his right hand was shot away, and he could no longer handle his Winchester. I do not know what deviltry George Miller was guilty of committing. He was accused of stealing a bunch of hogs and driving them off. Hogs belonging to Norman Rogers, the Sheriff of Kent County, Texas, who was doing his utter-most to apprehend George Miller. He was accused of stampeding herds of cattle at night and getting away with a bunch of them. Everything was blamed on George Miller, and he seemed to deny nothing.

It is said that he even told that he went to the Spur store in old Espula town to rob Shorty Wilkinson, the store keeper. Went in and made an intrinsic purchase, laying a twenty dollar on the counter, but Shorty couldn't change the bill, so George paid with other monies and rode on his way. He said, "There wasn't any sense in robbing an outfit that couldn't break a twenty dollar bill." He used good judgement there. Norman Rogers, the Kent County Sheriff, remembered the stranger that dropped into his store, a few days before he ever heard of George Miller, and thought he remembered what he looked like, though he hadn't seen him anymore.

After George Miller was shot-up and captured in Oklahoma, Norman Rogers took the time and stood the expense of making the trip up there, just to see if it was the same man he had thought he was hunting. Yes, it was the same fellow and Rogers had several talks with him. Rogers said, "Miller why did you drive off my hogs?" George laughed and said, "Rogers, I didn't steal your hogs, that was Bill Cook." Then George Miller asked Rogers if he remembered trailing him down in Stonewall County, and Rogers said that he remembered. Miller then said, "I knew that you were on my trail, and I dropped off in the head of a canyon near the road, waited for you to come along and meant to kill you, but when I saw that you were not tracking my horse and didn't know I was near, I decided to let you go on." George Miller was that type of a man, just didn't mind talking about what he had done.

Do Gooders' Club Observes The Month of March

The month of March was observed by the Do Gooders' Club of Flomot, Tuesday afternoon, March 10. This third month of the year that brings in spring, ends the winter and can have both wintry and springlike winds was featured in the decorations and program.

Tumble weeds, broom weeds, colorful flower arrangements in driftwood and mesquite tree stumps and The Irish Green enhanced the Community Center building. Adding to the occasion, a "Windy Tales of March" contest was held with members telling entertaining blustery windy tales. Winning first place was Mrs. Junior Payne; second Mrs. Billy Morris and third, Mrs. Jack Starkey. Original scenic outdoor plaques, made by Mrs. Wayne Hunter, were presented to the winners.

Hostesses, Mesdames James Monk, Wayne Hunter and Joe Edd Helms served refreshments of dip, vegetables, fruit, crackers, cookies, brownies and Shamrock mints with lime punch and coffee.

Preceding the program, Mrs. Wilson Barton, president, presided at the business meeting. They voted to purchase a folding door room divider to be installed in the Community Center rather than curtains as was previously planned. They discussed the project of selling chances on a quilt at the Tri-Annual Flomot Homecoming. The club will sponsor a Health Screening Day, April 15 at the Community Center.

Members attending were Mesdames D.M. Gilbert, Howard Rogers, L.E. Shorter, Clayton Bond, Seab Washington and those mentioned, Mesdames, Morris, Starkey, Payne, Barton, Hunter, Monk and Helms.

Guests attending were judges of the Windy Tales Contest, Mesdames Harrison George, Aileen Welch and Viola Calvert.

Remember When

By Annie B. Cloyd
Box 22
Flomot, TX 79234

Hello Neighbors, it's me again, here in Flomot and it is very cold and I'm afraid that the fruit trees will be killed if this kind of weather keeps up. All my trees are in bloom and, I guess everyone else's are too. But we are unable to do anything about it so we think about "next year". Isn't that what all farmers have to go on -- "next year"? How many times have we all said that?

Now to the nice letter I got last week from Delphia R. Jones. He lives in Allen, Oklahoma and gets the Tribune and says he sure does enjoy reading about folks and things here in Flomot. He even drew me a map of the town as he could remember it back in 1926 to 1930. We had a great time looking and Leon tried to remember along with Delphia about the houses and where each business was located and who lived where at that time. He had most every place marked and named. Those he couldn't remember but knew there was a house there - he left a question mark and Leon was able to think of some of the folks that lived in the houses.

Delphia said he had hoped to get here for the Homecoming but had other plans that just can't be changed. He also says that he has some good stories of things that happened around here, if he ever gets to see me. He is afraid he can't get them all down on paper as they should be, so we'll wait for them.

Anyway I hope that Delphia doesn't mind me telling this story about him, that was told to me not long before I got his letter. It seems that his Mother was very busy canning one day when she missed Delphia. He was a very little boy at the time so she was worried and called and looked but still didn't hear him so she noticed the door of the cellar was open and went down to look in there. There he was with some baby kittens -- taking one at the time and putting it in a jar and putting the lid on -- he was canning cats. I guess he thought it would be a good way to keep them. Mrs. Lennie Gilbert told this story.

Isn't it something how little kids minds work? They keep us on the look-out all the time when they are little. I know when our little grandson is here, he is hard to keep up with. Kids learn things so quick these days that parents have to stay on their toes to stay ahead of them.

With a lot of prayers and a lot of love they seem to make it just fine, even with all our worry.

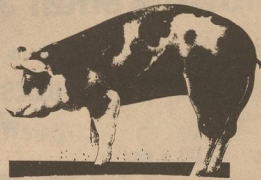

Have to stop but I'll be back and we'll Remember When again soon.

DPS Report, 11% Increase Of Non-Helmeted Deaths

AUSTIN—The 1986 traffic death toll in Texas was the lowest it has been in 10 years, according to DPS Director Col. Jim Adams.

The number of persons killed on Texas' streets and highways has decreased 3.1 percent—3,568 for 1986 compared to 3,682 deaths in 1985, Adams said.

"We are very pleased with this decline, though the number of people who died in traffic accidents in Texas last year is certainly still of tragic proportions," he said. "The good news is that it is getting safer to drive in Texas."

The death rate on Texas' roadways, another measurement of traffic safety, reached its lowest point ever—2.4 deaths per 100 million miles traveled.

From 3.9 in 1981, the death rate in Texas has dropped steadily each year. In 1985, the rate was 2.6.

"Not only was the 1986 fatality count the lowest in the state since 1976, last year's figure represents 1,133 fewer traffic deaths than recorded in 1981, the worst year in Texas traffic history," Adams said.

"It's hard to assess a single cause for this reduction since so many factors are involved," Adams said.

"Speed law enforcement, DWI enforcement and a greater public awareness of the consequences of drinking and driving all play a role. An additional factor has been the seat belt legislation, which went into effect Sept. 1, 1985."

A comparison of the final fatality figures for the first year the safety belt law was on the books with the same period the year before shows the number of persons killed in the front seats of cars and light trucks declined by 7 percent.

"That 7 percent amounts to 157 lives arguably saved by seat belts," Adams said. "The safety belt law is working. Unfortunately, a survey conducted for the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation has indicated a slight decrease in seatbelt usage in Texas. We hope people realize this law definitely saves lives."

In 1986, 1,304 fatalities in Texas were listed as DWI-related compared to 989 in 1985. Adams said the DPS feels that increase is largely due to better reporting of alcohol involvement in accidents, rather than a sharp increase in DWI.

"We feel that society's less tolerant attitude toward drinking and driving is continuing to pay off in the overall reduction of fatalities, though the problem of DWI is still a serious one," Adams said.

The number of motorcycle fatalities increased from 364 in 1985 to 403 in 1986, an 11 percent increase. Of those motorcyclists killed, 77 percent had not been wearing helmets.

Agriculture nation's biggest Industry, largest employer

Agriculture is the nation's biggest industry — farm assets totaled $956 billion on December 31, 1984.

Agriculture is also the nation's largest employer. Around 21.0 million people work in some phase of agriculture, from growing food and fiber to selling it at the supermarket.

Farming itself uses 2.7 million workers — as many as the combined work forces of transportation, the steel industry, and the automobile industry. The nation's food and fiber system accounted for 18 percent of total GNP in 1984.

Agricultural production is conducted by 2.28 million farms. Recent tabulations show that in 1983:

*1,433,000 (60.5 percent of all farms) sold less than $20,000 worth of farm products per farm.

*272,000 (11.5 percent) sold farm products worth $20,000 to $40,000.

*381,000 (16.1 percent) sold farm products worth $40,000 to $100,000.

*284,000 (12.0 percent) sold farm products worth more than $100,000. Of these farms, 177,000 had sales totaling $100,000 to $200,000; 83,000 had sales of $200,000 to $500,000; and 24,000 had sales of $500,000 and over.

Agriculture requires the services of about 18.3 million people to store, transport, process and merchandise the output of the nation's farms.

Here are a few examples of where these people work:

*Meat and poultry industry, including meatpacking, prepared meats and poultry dressing plants, employs about 367,000 people and has a payroll of $4.5 billion.

*Dairy industry, including manufacturers of such products as fluid milk, concentrated and dried milk, cheese, butter, and ice cream, employs nearly 162,000 people and has a payroll of $1.6 billion.

*Canned, cured, and frozen food plants employ nearly 271,000 people and have payrolls of $2.8 billion.

*Cotton mills and finishing plants employ nearly 143,000 people and have payrolls of $1.6 billion.

THAT ADDS UP TO APPROXIMATELY ONE OUT OF EVERY FIVE JOBS IN PRIVATE ENTERPRISE.

Social Security Tips

by Terry J. Clements

Annual reports of 1986 earnings must be filed by April 15 by people receiving Social Security benefits who earned more than the annual exempt amount in 1986.

The 1986 annual exempt amounts were $5,760 for people under 65 all of 1986 and $7,800 for people 65 through 69.

People who received some benefits in 1986 and earned more than the exempt amount are required to file a report of those earnings by April 15. Those who received no benefits in 1986 are not required to file a report, but those people should file a report to make sure that any benefits that might be due for the year are paid.

A person who earned less than anticipated, for example, may be due some benefits. The only way these benefits can be paid is if the person files an annual report.

The general rule is that $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings above the exempt amount. A person can have substantial yearly earnings before all benefits are withheld. For example, a 65 year old person whose monthly benefit rate is $500 could earn $19,800 before all benefits for 1986 are withheld.

Those who are required to file an annual report should have received a copy in the mail. If they have not, they should contact any Social Security office to get a copy. Those not required to file, but who wish to do so, can also get a copy at the office.

The 1987 annual exempt amounts are $6,000 for people under 65 all of 1987 and $8,160 for people 65 through 69. The earnings test does not apply once a person reaches 70.

If you want more information about annual reports and the annual earnings test you may contact us at 1401-B West 5th street, or call us at 293-9623. Appointments can also be arranged if desired.

Senior Citizens Report

by Iris Blevins

Tuesday, March 9 was our regular luncheon day and we had a large crowd, 31 registered and we had more good food. I am sure we could have fed a hundred people. After lunch was finished, our president Nora Bell Dunning called the house to order for a business meeting and asked for the minutes of our last business meeting, by our secretary Ruby Thompson. They were read and approved. Twenty-three people were present at that meeting.

We had two birthdays this month, Kathrine Henderson and Bill Dunning. Happy Birthday was sang to them. Marie did our blood pressure check that morning, and she also brought us up to date on benefits for retired and senior citizens in our community.

The meeting adjourned till the second Tuesday in April. The bus will go to Lubbock, Monday, March 16 and will go to Plainview, Thursday March 19. We will meet Friday evening, 2:00 p.m. for games at the Senior Citizens Center. Come join in the fun. We have a wonderful fellowship.

We are thinking about going picnicing in a short while. So pull out the old straw hat if you don't want a red nose. The idea is, think about where you would like to go, and when. We don't want to wait till hot weather to go.

Tuesday, March 24 will be our next luncheon date. And we invite every senior citizen of the county to come be with us and enjoy the good eats and fun. At this time we will have a nurse from Spur come meet with us and explain a new program that will be of help for all senior citizens.

Alternate Crops Conference

LUBBOCK: The potential for diversification of the agricultural economy of West Texas will be the topic of a one-day conference at Texas Tech University March 31 sponsored by the International Center for Arid and Semiarid Land Studies (ICASALS).

The Alternative Crops Conference at Texas Tech is a response to increased interest in increasing agricultural productivity and diversification in the state and it will focus on West Texas and the potential of alternate crops and the barriers to their commercialization. It will review research, work in progress and actual experience of personnel who are examining the promise of so far neglected commercial crop species.

The topics of the conference include a current profile of West Texas Agriculture, Potential for Diversification in Industrial and Food/Fiber Crops, Barriers to Commercialization, and Strategies for Diversification. Two sessions will cover actual experience of West Texas practitioners in alternate crops.

Scheduled speakers will include Richard Wheaton, Director, Office of Critical Materials at the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Mike Moeller and Sal Valdez from the Texas Department of Agriculture, and Gary Nabham from the Desert Botanical Center, Phoenix, Arizona.

The conference will begin at 8:45 a.m. on March 31 in the University Senate Room. Limited registration will be on a first come, first served basis. A registration fee of $35 will cover the meeting, a luncheon and a copy of the proceedings which will be mailed to all participants.

The conference is open to all interested persons, but should be of particular interest to farmers, ranchers and agribusiness personnel in finance and industry. For more information and for advanced registration, contact ICASALS, Marion Sanford, Information Specialist at (806) 742-2218.

Television and your eyes

Watching television is easier on the eyes than reading, says the American Optometric Association. That's because the eyes need to exert less effort to focus on the TV screen than the page of a book.

Although close concentration on the screen over an excessive period of time may result in general fatigue, watching television will not harm a person's eyes or vision, according to the association.

Still, television viewing can be made easier on the eyes by following these seven rules:

- Make sure your television set is properly installed and the antenna properly adjusted.
- Place the set to avoid glare and reflections from lamps, windows and other bright sources.
- Adjust brightness and contrast controls to individual and/or viewer's taste and comfort.
- Have the set approximately at eye level, so you do not have to look up or down at the picture.

• Give your eyes a rest by periodically looking away from the screen, around the room or out the window, for example.

• If you have glasses prescribed for distance vision or for watching television, be sure to wear them.

• Watch television from a distance at least five times the width of the screen and in a room with soft overall lighting.

Consistently sitting close to the television set may be a sign that a person is nearsighted, that is, that he or she can see sharply and clearly up close but not at a distance. Other vision problem symptoms that may occur while watching television include watering eyes or other visual discomfort.

When any of these symptoms appear, they should not be overlooked or brushed off. An appointment should be made for a thorough eye examination.

The optometrist can determine whether or not a vision problem exists and, if so, prescribe treatment, usually in the form of glasses or contact lenses.

Growing Better, Not Older

Is it possible to slow the aging process? While there is no fountain of youth, psychiatrist Michael Zal, D.O., F.A.C.N., says that there are ways to remain physically and mentally younger, longer.

"Older people who lead active lives are much more likely to remain mentally alert than those who don't see as much activity," Dr. Zal, an osteopathic physician, says. "Active people seem to remain more flexible and can better cope with unfamiliar situations that bring new or unexpected demands. People who expect to slow down with age often become less active. This expected decline in activity becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy as people begin to stagnate."

Group programs such as exercise for seniors, walking clubs or square dancing have the advantage of promoting both mental and physical well-being. According to Dr. Zal, "Group exercise is not only safer and more enjoyable, it also tends to keep people motivated to continue their exercise regimens. The self-confidence good physical health brings can promote a good mental attitude. Also, the neurostimulants exercise generates in the brain improve such mental functions as memory, mood and attention span."

Nutrition becomes even more important as the body grows older.

One's need for nutrition grows, while one's need for calories decreases. Dr. Zal suggests planning meals with lots of fresh fruits and vegetables because they are low in calories and contain fiber. "A peanut butter sandwich or cornbread and beans provides an easy-to-fix, nutrient-dense meal," he says.

"Your doctor may recommend a vitamin or mineral supplement, but remember that these should be taken in conjunction with a well-balanced diet."

Once men and women pass middle-age, they may experience a variety of emotional symptoms, including depression, a sense of frustration, disillusionment with old goals, and a sudden belief that "time is running out." But these feelings can be helpful forces. According to Dr. Zal, "Instead of being negatives, these feelings, if recognized and understood, can be extremely useful motivational forces leading middle-age people to adopt new, productive, creative, and satisfying living patterns."

Michael Zal, D.O., F.A.C.N.

What's America's Best Touring Road?

If spring fever stirs your desire to travel, then you may be interested in a nationwide search for the 10 best touring roads in the United States being conducted by Harley-Davidson.

"We want to find the absolute best touring roads in the country," says Vaughn L. Beals, chief executive officer of Harley-Davidson, Inc., the only U.S.-based motorcycle manufacturer. "To qualify, a 'best' road must combine interesting scenery, points of interest, and that 'little something extra' that separates it from other roads," he says.

Motorcycle touring, a growing American pastime, is increasing in popularity, according to Beals. Low fuel costs and a renewed interest in seeing America have added to touring's popularity. But its growing number of enthusiasts have found themselves in the midst of a friendly debate — which are the best roads for touring?

To settle the discussion, Harley-Davidson polled its dealers last year to determine the best touring road in each of the 50 United States. "Response to the announcement of the 50 best roads was so great," Beals says, "we decided to go one step further. We're polling motorcycle enthusiasts and the general public to narrow the list to America's top 10 roads. We plan to make 1987 the best year ever for motorcycle touring."

The polling will continue until May 1. The general public may visit participating Harley-Davidson dealerships to cast a vote for its favorite road from the 50 best roads list. Each participant will receive free an "America's 50 Best Touring Roads" directory filled with highlights and touring tips, and will automatically qualify to win one of 50 Harley-Davidson leather touring jackets. "These roads aren't just for motorcyclists," Beals says. "They're also a great deal of fun when travelling in a car or recreational vehicle."

"By finding the 10 best motorcycle touring roads and providing tips and information, we hope to encourage more people to take to America's highways this year and discover some of the most beautiful roads in the world," Beals says.

Letter To The Editor

A hearing on some very important legislation for Senior Citizens Senate Bill 421, will be held on March 11, at 2:30 p.m. in the Senate Chamber. This bill, authored by senator Glasgow and co-signed by Cyndi Krier is a home equity lending bill designed to allow for loans on the family homestead, with the money to be used by the borrower for whatever purpose he chooses.

Under the present Homestead Law, loans on homestead property may be secured for the following purposes:

1. Purchase money.
2. Taxes on property
3. Work and materials used in constructing improvements on the property.

Senate Bill 421 provides that if a home equity loan is secured, the lender must furnish to the borrower a notice in 10-point bold-faced type. This notice states (I quote from S.B. 421) "YOU ARE PLEDGING

YOUR HOME AS COLLATERAL TO SECURE THE PAYMENT OF A LOAN. IN THE EVENT OF NON PAYMENT OR FAILURE TO PERFORM THE TERMS OF THE LOAN CONTRACT, THE LENDER HAS THE RIGHT TO FORECLOSE ON YOUR HOME AND SELL IT TO SATISFY PAYMENT OF THE LOAN." This could destroy the safeguards we now have on our homesteads.

I urge each of you to call, send a telegram, or write your Senator and Representative immediately and ask them to oppose S.B. 421 and H.B. 231. Let's keep our present Homestead Law as is without any changes so that foreclosure on the family homestead is safeguarded. TIME IS SHORT. ACT NOW!

SIMPLE SERVINGS

Salads Shake The Brown Bag Blues

The anticipation mounts as the clock strikes noon... but then you realize the thrill is gone. The promise of an exciting lunch is once again just a lot of baloney.

It's the "brown bag blues," and for the hungry and disenchanted, it's time for action. Livening up lunch time can be as simple as skipping the usual bologna or peanut butter and jelly and trying fresh salad sandwiches instead.

Fresh salads offer adults — and kids — the variety to create lunchtime excitement. At the same time, lunches based on salads are convenient, nutritious and simple to make, thanks to the many prepared salads available at the supermarket, explains Ophelia Cordero, a nutritionist and new product manager at Orval Kent Food Company.

Fresh salads even come prepackaged for added convenience, in single-serving cups ideal for the lunch box or brown bag. Called Salad Singles™, they're available in the luncheon meat case in five flavors: Crabmeat, Ham, Tuna, Chicken and Pimento Spread. They're ideal for spreading, dipping or eating right out of the container.

For a lunchtime change of pace, stuff ham salad in pita bread, and top with shredded Swiss or Monterey Jack cheese. Youngsters can help prepare this simple lunch — it offers them an opportunity to learn about basic meal preparation and nutrition, says Cordero. Serve it with juice and fruit slices.

Heap chicken salad on a fresh croissant and dot with crushed pineapple for a "Chicken Salad Hawaiian" sandwich. Take along a cup of Salad Singles Tuna Salad with an assortment of breadsticks, raw vegetables and whole-grain crackers to dip for an interesting mid-morning snack or light lunch. Crabmeat Salad with seasonal fruit and a bran muffin combine for a fiber-rich, light meal ideal for fitness-conscious adults.

"To make a child's brown bag lunch even more exciting, cut a salad sandwich on bread into interesting shapes with a cookie cutter," suggests Cordero. Adults can try a new version of the traditional club sandwich by layering chicken salad on the first deck of the sandwich and combining lettuce, tomato and a slice of cheese on the second.

The days of the "brown bag blues" are over, thanks to fresh salads. Whether you're packing a lunch for the kids, your husband or yourself, salads provide the zing to wake up meals.

"Advice is seldom welcome; and those who want it most always like it least."

Cooking Corner Tips To Help You

Shaking The Salt Habit

LOW-SODIUM MAIN DISH

People who live in today's fast-paced society are looking for high energy meals that don't take a long time to prepare. Broiled Halibut with Fresh Tomato Sauce is high in potassium and Vitamin A, to help meet the nutritional needs of adults and children. This dish offers an extra bonus, since it is prepared with NoSalt® salt alternative, greatly reducing the overall sodium level. As we all know, Americans are carefully watching their salt intake, with the trend toward more healthy eating habits. And, while the fish is cooking a busy chef need only dice a few tomatoes and add fresh seasonings—which include garlic, basil and parsley—for a tasty and nutritional main dish.

BROILED HALIBUT WITH FRESH TOMATO SAUCE

- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 large onion chopped
- 3 cloves garlic minced
- 1-1/2 pound ripe plum tomatoes, chopped (peeled if desired)
- 1/2 cup chopped flat-leaf parsley
- 1/4 cup fresh basil, chopped or 1 tablespoon dried basil
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar (optional)
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon NoSalt® salt alternative
- 4 1-inch thick halibut steaks (8-ounces each)
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice

In large skillet, heat 2 tablespoons oil and saute onion and garlic until onion is tender. Stir in tomatoes, parsley, basil, sugar and pepper. Cook over medium-high heat 10 minutes or until tomatoes are soft, stirring frequently. Stir in 1/2 teaspoon NoSalt. Meanwhile, combine remaining oil with lemon juice and 1/2 teaspoon NoSalt. Rub onto both sides of each halibut steak. Grill or broil 4-inches from heat source for 8 to 10 minutes or until fish is just done; turn halfway through cooking time. Serve with tomato sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Boulter Reveals New Developments On Fight Against Pay Raise

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Congressman Beau Boulter (R-13) announced some new developments today in his court challenge of the recently enacted Congressional pay raise. In a capitol hill news conference with four Congressional co-plaintiffs and representatives of two public interest groups, Boulter told reporters that the party of eight plaintiffs had filed additional legal challenges because of recently made discoveries.

In particular, Boulter pointed out that the House of Representatives may have inadvertently disapproved the pay raise without knowing it, with its largely cosmetic vote the day after the February 4 deadline. Under a 1967 law, the President recommends pay increases for high-level government officials, including Members of Congress, every four years in his annual budget proposal. These pay increases go into effect automatically, unless both Houses of Congress pass resolutions disapproving the pay raise within 30 days after the President submitted his budget.

The Senate adopted a resolution disapproving the pay raise on January 28, and attached it to a House-passed measure to provide $50 million in emergency aid to the homeless. Despite assurances from the House leadership that the pay raise issue would come up for a vote before the Midnight, February 4 deadline, the House adjourned on February 3 without voting on the resolution.

Under the 20th Amendment to the Constitution, however, Congress convenes at noon on January third, or "another date appointed by law." Under this year's law, the 100th Congress assembled as an active body for the first time on January 6. There was no House of Representatives, therefore no Congress, on the day the President made his recommendations. There were no officers, Members, or even a speaker.

"By my calendar," Boulter said, "that hypocritical vote on February 4 was actually on the last day of the deadline. Congress did legally disapprove the raise, and when the first increase is put into our paychecks this month, the Treasury of the United States of America will be breaking the law."

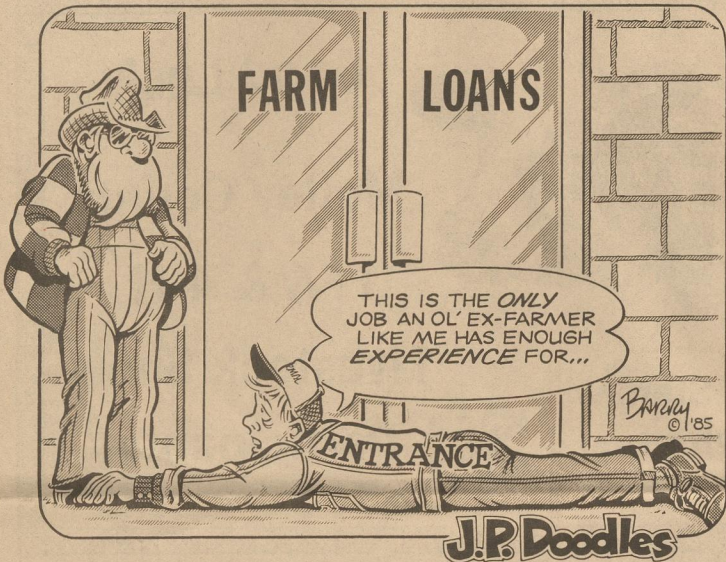

Boulter is party to a suit filed in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia challenging the constitutionality of the process employed in enacting the pay increase. The suit has been jointly filed by Boulter, Senator Gordon Humphrey (R-NH), Rep. Bob Smith (R-NH), Rep. Bob Dornan (R-CA), Rep. Jack Davis (R-IL), Rep. Clyde Holloway (R-LA), the National Taxpayers Union, and Ralph Nader's Public Citizen Litigation Project.

"Congress earns more than 98% of the American people," Boulter noted. "We were elected to serve the people, not be elitists. We vote on Contra aid. We vote on Social Security. We vote on defense. We must not circumvent the will of the farmers of our constitution... We must mandate a vote on Congressional pay."

Boulter added that he expects to see some resolution of the court challenge by early this summer.

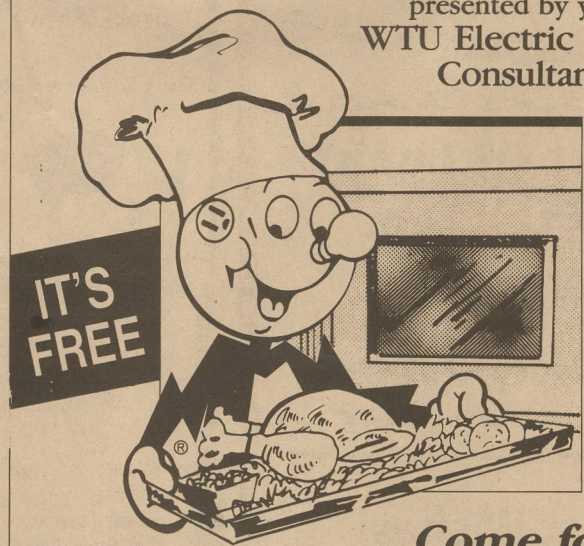

The gentleman is a man of culture, a man of refinement, above all an honest man; possessing that good taste which is the conscience of the mind, that conscience which is the good taste of the soul.

One Phone Call to the VA Can Prevent Underpayments or Overpayments

Veterans receiving monetary benefits from the Veterans Administration can prevent under or overpayments with just one phone call, according to Waco VA Regional Office Director Dr. Stephen L. Lemons.

"One phone call was worth $72 per month to a veteran attending college full time, who called to say he had just gotten married," Lemons said. "That is because VA educational benefits are based on the number of his dependents and the amount of training he receives." "If the veteran calls to say he has dropped a class, his educational benefits would also drop," Lemons said. "Without the call, the VA would be overpaying him $93 per month from the date he dropped the class."

The VA's payments for veterans benefits can be no less, and no more, than the amounts established by law and regulations. What does the VA do in case of overpayment? "The VA is legally obligated to ask the veteran to pay back any overpayments," Lemons said.

The major cause of overpayments in all the programs is that the VA often doesn't find out about the changes for months. In the education program, most of the overpayments occur when a veteran reduces his class load or terminates his schooling. "If a veteran leaves school, the VA is eventually notified," Lemons said. "But it can sure be a surprise to the Veteran when the VA bills him for the overpayment of veterans benefits he received as a result of that notice."

Veterans who served on active military duty during wartime, who are permanently and totally disabled, and who have limited income are entitled to get a non-service-connected pension. Most overpayments for such pensioners occur when they begin receiving additional income such as Social Security or private retirement payments, or from failure to report the loss of a dependent. Though VA requires annual income reporting by pension recipients, Lemons suggests veterans tell the VA as soon as changes in dependency or income occur.

"We've had situations when a veteran's Social Security or private retirement income decreased, and if the VA knew, we could increase the amount of the pension," Lemons said. "In the case of overpayments, the VA is also obligated to ask repayment, even from men and women whose limited incomes make repayment very difficult."

The VA provides compensation to veterans with service-connected disabilities evaluated as 10 percent or more disabling. Veterans rated 30 percent or more disabled receive an additional allowance for dependents.

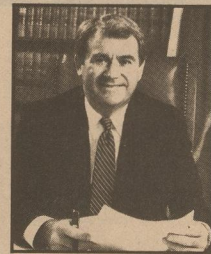

"For a 30 percent disabled veteran, a new baby also means an increase in VA compensation payment," Lemons said. "Then when that baby grows up and leaves home, the monthly benefit will be reduced. And overpayment of benefits can happen when the loss of the dependent isn't reported promptly, and VA payments continue as if the dependent were still at home with the veteran."

"The solution to over or underpayments is simple. Tell the VA if you have a change in your income, the number of your dependents, or the number of credit hours you're taking at school. If you receive a VA pension, tell your survivors to inform the VA if you die," Lemons said.

"With one phone call to the VA you can be sure that you are receiving the correct payment of veterans benefits," Lemons said. "Use our toll-free phones. If you're unable to contact us by phone, send us a letter so we can promptly take the actions needed. But however you do it, let the VA know."

The Waco VA Regional Office may be reached by telephone in Amarillo at 376-7202; in Austin at 477-5831; in Dallas at 824-5440; in El Paso at 545-2500; in Fort Worth at 336-1641; in Killeen at 699-2351; in Lubbock at 747-5256; and in Waco at 772-3050. CONSUMER ALERT

by Jim Mattox
Attorney General

"TIME-SHARING" TACTICS (Part II)

Last week I discussed some of the complaints we have received from consumers about time-sharing. You will recall that time-sharing is a relatively new concept under which the vacationer buys a "share" in a resort condominium or some other type of vacation opportunity. His share entitles him to use the condo, etc. for a week or more each year for a period of years.

HIGH PRESSURE TACTICS

My Consumer Protection Division reports that many time-sharing companies resort to high pressure sales tactics in order to get people to sign contracts before they have had time to consider all the consequences.

Very frequently, the salesperson will tell consumers they must sign up the very day they hear the presentation or else they will miss out on some particularly attractive feature of the time-sharing program. We recommend that you take such warnings with a large dose of salt. If they are willing to sell you something today, more than likely they will give you the same or a better deal tomorrow.

WHAT THE LAW SAYS

Many people do not realize an important legal point. In Texas, you do NOT have an automatic right to cancel a time-sharing contract if you change your mind about the purchase. In some states, legislation allows consumers a five day "cooling off period" in order to consider factors which they may not have thought of while listening to the sales pitch. My staff has told me that Texas consumers would benefit from such legislation and I hope the legislature will take action in this area in the near future.

Another factor which consumers may not be aware of when they sign the contract is that they will be charged a maintenance fee for each day assigned to them under the time-sharing contract. These fees often exceed $15 per day and are designed to increase with inflation. So, even though other fees may be fixed, the maintenance fee can escalate each year—and the consumer is required to pay it even if he decides not to use his share during a particular year.

You should read and understand everything you sign. If the contract is lengthy and you are tired after several hours of a sales presentation, you may not be at your best. Ask to take the contract home and think about it. If the salesperson tries to dissuade you, be suspicious. Many consumers readily admit they became smarter the day after they signed a contract than they were the day before.

FOR MORE HELP

If you have had a problem with a time-sharing company or need help with another consumer problem, contact my nearest Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Dallas, Houston, Lubbock, McAllen, and San Antonio. The Attorney General's Office is the people's law firm. We're here to help you.

Veterans Administration News Feature

Q. -- What is the VA definition of a Vietnam Era Veteran and how does one qualify?
A. -- A Presidential Proclamation defined the Vietnam Era as August 5, 1964 through May 7, 1975. In order to be considered a veteran of the Vietnam Era you must have had at least one day of active duty on or between those dates.
Q. -- Does the VA have alcohol or drug dependence programs for veterans?
A. -- Yes. The VA operates both inpatient and outpatient clinics in most VA Medical Centers for honorably discharged veterans.
Q. -- I am the wife of a veteran who receives VA pension benefits. If I go to work will this affect my husband's benefits?
A. -- If your husband established entitlement of pension benefits prior to January 1, 1979, and continues to receive benefits based on the law in effect at that time, your earned income would not be a factor, although your wages could affect the way your other, non-wage income is considered. If he receives benefits under the current pension law your income would be a factor in determining the amount of his pension. If your joint income reaches a specified level, his pension would be discontinued.
