DPS Confiscates 415 Lbs. Marijuana

DPS Troopers Dudley Speed and Jerry Byrne assisted by Bennie Keltz unloading a cache of peculiar 'horsefeed'.

For the second time this month, drugs were in twenty feed sacks local law enforcement officials and weighed about 415 pounds local law enforcement officials have arrested persons for transporting illegal drugs through Motley County. On Saturday, September 27 about 5:00 p.m. DPS Troopers Jerry Byrne and Dudley Speed arrested two Mexican-American males for possession and transporting a substance believed to be marijuana. The arrest was made about twenty miles North of Matador on State Highway 70. The van in which the suspects were riding was traveling South. The suspected of feed sacks in the back. The sacks were filled with a green, leafy substance. When Trooper Byrne asked (the two men) what was in sacks, they stated, "That it was horse feed".

The van and it's contents were confiscated and the suspected marijuana was weighed at West Texas Gin in Matador. Bennie Keltz, gin manager, assisted the troopers in weighing the sacks.

DPS Narcotics Division of Lubbock was notified and came to Matador to identify the

The "street value" of the marijuana was estimated to be about $400,000.

Also assisting Troopers Byrne and Speed with the investigation were Ronnie Vandiver, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Cottle County Sheriff Frank Taylor, Motley County Sheriff Alton Marshall and Deputy Clyde Clifton.

Last "History Days At The Ranch" Unfolds on October 18 & 25

The third and final chapter of HISTORY DAY AT THE RANCH, a Sesquicentennial project of the General James Smith Chapter of General admission in Chapter of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas, unfolds the last two Saturdays in October. Working volunteers are being rounded up, the outhouses swept out, and the mules and wagons readied for an onslaught of visitors when the gates to Mott Camp once again swing open for the on-site

Designed to appeal to the Texas History buff, whether an Indian, Comanchero, nester, or Indian, Comanchero, nester, or cowboy lover, the rugged two to three hour tour will span the history of all. Daughters of the Rupublic of Texas members, pioneers, descendants of early settlers, old Matador Ranch hands, and Buckskinners will join in "making history come alive" with lectures, demonstrations, and interviews.

Advance reservations should be made as soon as possible since planners expect a repeat of last year's sell-out when over 800 people converged on the former line camp of the old Matador Ranch, located in the caprock breaks between Floydada and Matador. For more information, call ranch owner Mrs. W.E. Burleson, 806 983-3624.

Drugs Not Answer To Any Problem

(Editor's Note): Recently the Floyd County Hesperian Floyd County Hesperian published a series of stories related to drugs and alcohol by Jim Renolds. The Motley County Tribune has asked permission to run the same stories for it's received an anonymous call from a recovered alcoholic and drug addict who offered to tell her story, under the condition of anonymity. The offer was made because of the individual's desire to aid others suffering from her former problems. Following is her story.)

The individual - whom we shall call "Mary" - claims to have been reared in a home where "alcohol" was used as a social booster.

At age 15 she was placed in a children's home, "where I was given heavy dosage of mild tranquilizers for two years. I was placed on prescription drugs which weren't fully known, for hyperactivity. I was not hyperactive; I was a typical, rebellious 15-year-old teenager."

The woman emphasizes that "Drugs are no answer to any problem, I don't care what it is."

AIN'T THE ROSES SWEET?

At last, after two centuries, the United States has a national flower. The corn tassels, marigold, dogwood blossoms and columbines were all defeated in favor of the rose.

It was appropriate that the bill was signed by President Reagan in the Rose Garden at the White

Too bad that roses are so expensive. It was not always so. I decorated with roses for my 1940 wedding - carried a bouquet of roses and wore a tiara of roses.

Due Notice of Election

The Upper Pease SWCD Will Hold An Election For The Directors Of Zone One and Two
At the Summit Savings Assn. Community Room Beginning at 9:00 a.m. on Oct. 7, 1986

My hospital room was filled to capacity with loved ones who had driven several miles to be with me and to assure me of their love and concern. As I lay silent, absorbing this affection, I suddenly realized the scene had changed. One's attention was now drawn to a T.V. overhead now drawn to a T.V. overhead and the others were deep in conversation of past events that brought laughter to everyone but me. (I didn't dare), As one story spawned another I began to feel lonely, as if everyone had forgotten that I was present, but not for long.

There at the foot of my bed, I saw the precious smile of a little girl who had quietly slipped out of her mother's lap. Her small hands began to search for my toes buried beneath layers of blankets. As she softly touched my big toe, she began to recite in a hushed voice, "This little piggy went to market, this little piggy stayed home." On she went, with her twinkling eyes looking straight into mine, to the very last "Wee, Wee all the way home." She was ministering to me and I was responding. All others were oblivious to the closeness of this intimate moment between a "Nana" and her grand-daughter.

Well, our Lord Jesus has needs also. While He was on earth He ask very little for Himself but one particular time in the garden of Gethsemane he ask His Disciples to pray for Him. He was in gagany to pray for Him. He was in agony because time was near for Him to carry out God's redemption plan for man at Calvary. They all fell asleep.

Another time Mary ministered to our lord by anointing His feet with expensive perfume. Judas was offended, but Jesus forgave was offended, but Jesus forgave her of her sins.

Surely our Lord's heart is made glad when we come together in His name to honor Him, but I wonder how many times we go into our religious routine of worship and leave Him out completely. We talk about Him, but let's talk to Him. We sing about Him, but let's sing to Him. We praise His name, but let's praise Him. He did it all for us and still asks very little of us. May we ever be sensitive to His need or our true, pure spiritual worship as we minister to Him.

THE COWBOY

What can be said about the cowboy, the work and the life that he lived?

cowboy, the work and the life that he lived?
Little, so very little, I fear, aside from his staying qualities, when you take into consideration the meagerness of his pay, and the extractions required at his hands.

All day long in the saddle and oft times a goodly, portion of the night. In sunshine and rain, through the droughts and heat of the summer and on into snows of winter, day after day, and year after year, with its seeming endless monetary and with the princely sum of eighty-three and one third cents per day, as his per diem, with never a murmur of discontent. Always jolly and full of fun.

What was the attraction that electrified his being at the time and in after years was capable of renewing the flashes of fire in the tired old eyes that had grown dim by age?

No one, so far as I know, not even the cowboy himself, has ever been able to delineate, to ever been able to delineate, to define that invisible, magnetic something that fired his imagination and filled his soul with the glamour that ever pervaded the cow camps, the chuck wagons, the remuda, the round-ups, the branding irons and other paraphernalia that went into the making up of his daily tasks.

went into the making up of his daily tasks.

All we know is so long as he lived, he looked back into the past with pleasant sweet memories, and longed to be able to live it over again.

Social Security Tips

by Terry J. Clements

One of the interesting aspects to $26,040 before all benefits One of the interesting aspects of the fact that most people can look forward to a longer life in retirement is a tendency of many to continue working and even to start a career. For some, it's a matter of filling the empty hours; for many others, however, it becomes a matter of need. People who contemplate working after retirement should working after retirement should be sure to understand how earnings will affect their Social Security benefits. To insure that benefits are paid to those who are actually retired, there is a limit on how much a person can make and still receive full benefits.

Under the annual earnings Under the annual earnings test, the earnings limit increases each year with increase in general wage levels. For 1986, it is $5,760 for people under 65; and $7,800 for people 65 to 70. The limit does not apply to people 70 and over.

Earnings over the limit cause benefits to be reduced $1 for each $2 of earnings above the limit. Generally, this means that a person is always better off working than not working, since it is possible to increase one's income substantially.

For example, a person retiring 65 in 1986 receiving the at 65 in 1986 receiving the maximum benefit of $760 a month or $9,120 a year could have a total income of $16,920, benefits. He or she could earn up to $26,040 before all benefits are withheld.

A person getting benefits who expects to earn more than the limit must report this to the Social Security Administration so the benefits may be adjusted accordingly. Failure to report the earnings could result in overpayments-receiving benefits to which a person is not entitled. The law requires overpayments to be repaid to the Social Security trust funds.

Generally, this is done by withholding portions of future checks, but repayments may be made in a lump sum.

People who earn over the earnings limit are required to make a report by April 15 of the following year. The report also requires them to estimate how much they plan to earn in the future. Benefits are adjusted based on the information in the annual earnings report.

based on the information in the annual earnings report.

Any change in expected earnings after the report is made earnings after the report is made should be reported to the Social Security Administration immediately to avoid the risk of an overpayment. If it is determined that a person willfully and fraudently concealed earnings, penalties are possible, ranging from a fine to a jail term.

The Motley County Matadors broke a 23 game losing streak with a 6-0 victory over the McLean Tigers. The Motley County defense turned in a County defense turned in a sparkling performance as it posted its first shutout victory in over 2 years. Jeffrey Burkes led the way with several touchdown saving tackles and alert pass defense. Rodney Doran once again led the team in tackles with 7 primary tackles, 7 assists, and 1 caused fumble. Joe Bowden played well in his new position at linebacker recording 6 primary tackles, 3 assists, and 1 position at linebacker recording 6 primary tackles, 3 assists, and 1 quarterback sack. Jesse Ramirez recorded 4 primary tackles and 3 assists. Les Woolsey had 3 primary tackles and 6 assists, primary tackies and a assists, including 2 big tackles in the 4th quarter to help seal the victory. will continue to improve.

Offensively, the Matadors
also had a good night, even though they chalked up only one touchdown. The Motley County offense moved the football very well throughout the game between the 20 yard lines. But then key penalties would help stall the drives. The Motley County offense is developing quite a ground attack with the inside power of Rodney Doran and the outside speed of Jeffrey Burkes. The multiple formations, men in motion, and option attack men in motion, and option attack are getting better each week. The obvious passing potential of the offense is also ready to start paying big dividends. Although the offense played very conservatively against McLean, the pass was there when it was needed on a key 3rd and long situation in the crucial 4th quarter touchdown drive as Jeffrey Burkes hit Brent Marshall for a big first down pass. The offensive line continues to get better each week and received some complimentary remarks from the game officials about their hard but clean line play. Once again, however Once again, however, the offense must continue to work hard to improve and get better each week.

The Motley County Matadors travel to Aspermont this Friday to take on the Aspermont Hornets at 8:00 p.m. The team hopes to have a big crowd there to cheer them on as they go for 2 in a row. The team would also like to thank everyone for all of their support, not just on Friday night, but throughout the years. Hip! Hip! Hooray! We sure are proud of you Matadors. You really know how to end a game with a bang. The last three minutes had us up on our feet. The ball so close to the end zone, time running out. Will we make it? Is it possible? Yes! We did it! Everyone seeing and believing, yet holding our breaths as we "check the clock," shouting to hold them back. Cheerleaders jumping, yelling electrifying the air with their voices of joy. Afraid to breath and praying for the last second to run out, the buzzer to sound, whistle to blow and the Victory Bell to ring.

There are a few things I am still not positive about. Why the men in the striped shirts and white pants kept throwing their little yellow handkerchiefs on the ground? I thought they were going to wave at us. Instead they threw them on the ground, blew their whistles, stopped the game and made strange hand signals to Sonny Russell, who in turn, had to interpret what was going on,

Alcohol and drugs dominated her life. She was twice married, but both were short marriages. Both "involved drugs and alcohol, but at that time it wasn't as much drugs as alcohol because both of my husbands drank like fish."

Her unsettled lifestyle led to rier unsettled litestyle lea to frequent moves. "For years, I lived in Floydada for a while and then in Lubbock, or some other place, for a while. I usually worked in bars when I lived in worked in bars when I lived in Lubbock or a larger town."

Her life began to improve when "I met a person who said I could do something with my life, so I started going to a higher education school. While I was there I had an instructor who recognized my ability to work with people. He introduced me to people who were working with alcohol and drug addicts."

While working as a volunteer with alcoholics and drug addicts, "I began to realize what was wrong with me. I still had problems for about a year after

'DRIED OUT'

This led "Mary" to the realization that "the drugs and alcohol had finally caught up with me." She went through a drug-alcohol treatment program at the W.W. Allen Recovery Center MHMR (Mental Health-Mental Retardation) in Plainview. "I spent four days in the mental health ward, withdrawing from the drugs and alcohol" and remained in the center for 28 days.

April 24, 1982, is a date "Mary" will not forget. That date, at age 28, is her "drink dry date" or her final day to consume alcoholic beverages. Her drug "dry date and birthday is April 26, 1982."

An immediate action was to become an active member of drug-alcohol treatment program

An immediate action was to become an active member of Alcoholics Anonymous. "Through AA I learned how to live on a daily basis without the drugs and alcohol," the recovered addict

Entering the sobriety state, her life was fully transformed. Four plus years later she proudly proclaims that "I am a recovered alcoholic and drug addict."

In outlining her success story,
"Mary" says "I was graduated from college a year ago." She has worked for the past year with alcoholics and drug addicts "this is something I do and do well."

She emphasizes that "I haven't been in jail in a long time (eight years)...and I don't ever want to be again. Jails are not the nicest places I've ever been.

"I'm at peace with myself. And I'm hard as hell to make angry these days. Today, I am very responsible for my own actions.

feels that she "Mary" feels that she is fortunate to be a recovered alcoholic and addict because "Only one out of 35 alcoholics, according to statistics, ever sober up enough to become productive citizens. Another sad fact is that citizens. Another sad tact is that there is one alcoholic out of about every 10 people," according to the federal government's statistics. "If you have 200 people in a crowd, chances are you'll have 20 alcoholics."

HELPING HAND

"Mary" is willing to tell her success story publicly because of her desire to help others who have had or do have the same problems from which she has recovered. She and a friend offered

she and a triend offered information to a newspaper in the town in which they were living about two years ago. "Mary's" phone number was listed as a contact for anyone needing assistance.

A man in that town clipped the article and "carried it in his billfold for seven or eight months before he called me. Today, to my knowledge, he is doing fine.
After drying out, his home situation and his job situation both have improved drastically. That was not something I did, but the man desperately needed the man desperately needed help and was reaching out. I met with him and put him in a place where he got dried out and was introduced to AA." She stresses that "I want this to

She stresses that "I want this to be a message to male and female alike," because either can have problems. People are screaming out for help. It's like having cancer, you know, you can't get rid of it, but you can arrest it."

rid of it, but you can arrest it."

The recovered addict advocates a "community-based support network," including a treatment center, to aid victims because "Alcohol and drug abuse is not just an individual thing, it is a family illness and definitely a community illness.
"We can change the situation:

'We can change the situation:

"We can change the situation; all of us working together, we can change that. The public needs to be more tolerant of the victims, rather than trying to shove them off on the state and saying, 'here, fix this'."

Although media accounts of alcohol and drug abuse, along with countless other problems, make the USA sound like a sick society, "Mary" disagrees. "It really isn't because there are a lot of good people out there. Alcoholism and drug addiction is a problem which will get out of hand if it isn't handled right."

She does believe that alcohol and drug abuses are a "mounting problem." While attending elementary school in another state, "Mary" remembers that "no one offered me a joint or alcohol."

By contrast, she recalls that her son, then eight years old and attending school in a neighboring area, "was offered marijuana or 'pot' in a second grade. And one boy would bring liquor to school in a thermos." Her son recognized that his classmate had alcohol, describing it as "the stuff that grandmother drinks occasionally."

"Mary" feels that she is deep problems, "Ninety per cent of the time it relates back to some form of alcohol or drug abuse in the family. The child's situation may involve neglect, sexual abuse or physical or mental abuse."

The interview volunteer stated to The Hesperian that "Everything I am telling you is my opinion. I have books with the opinion. I have books with the facts, but these are my ideas and they parallel, to a large extent, what the books say."

She stresses that "If you would like to learn more about Alcoholics Anonymous (AA), phone 983-3045. Meetings are held in Floydada each Tuesday night at 8:30. If you have a desire to stop drinking, you are welcome at any meeting."

"Mary" - who readily admits to past activities of which she is not proud - is living proof that help is available for alcoholics and drug addicts.

ALTERNTIVES FOR AGING FAMILIES--"Between 80-90 percent of the care needed by elderly persons is provided from within the family," says gerontologist Dr. Judith Warren. "Sometimes these situations become unsatisfactory, either because the elder is not receiving necessary support, or because one member of the family has been burdened with almost all of burdened with almost all of the caregiving duties," she adds. Family members may also feel the situation can't be changed, when in fact there are resources they can use to discover alternative approaches to their caregiving responsibilities, says Warren, a specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economics program. The gerontologist points out that family members can learn something about coping with their situation by attending something about coping with their situation by attending courses on caregiving offered through county Extension offices, community colleges, health care or other organizations. Books and publications on subjects such as coping with senility, the as coping with senility, the aging process or dealing with an Alzheimer's patient are available from the same sources. County Extension offices have a letter series on "Adult Children -- Aging Parents" with information for families.

COTTON CENTER--Farming is as much a way of life as an occupation, according to Dr. C.H. Murphy, pastor of First Baptist Church of Lamesa.

Murphy preached during Farm Family Week of Encouragement, Sunday Sept. 21-25. The event was hosted by First Baptist Church of Plainview. Cotton Center is located 17 miles south of Plainview on 1-27, then eight miles west eight miles west.

Seminars covered financial planning, consumer credit, and stress on the family, including "The Farm Family and Finances," led by Sunnyside farmers Gale and Verna Sadler.

After witnessing bankruptcies, divorces and even drug abuse, Murphy instigated the "encouragement program" in his own church. Due to overwhelming success, it has spread into other communities. It was held here as a result of a Cotton. Center couple, who

Though the encouragement programs are usually conducted by pastors, the original included psychiatrists, physicians and bankers, covering every aspect of the farmer's plight.

According to Murphy, "The farmer is a proud, independent sort of guy," adding that he is

He says symptoms of trouble include someone turning within himself, withdrawing from normal activities and escaping to negative behavior and ways of coping (excess of alcohol; spouse abuse; unusual behavior)

The Southern Baptist Convention's Home Mission Board is scheduled to send a television crew to the meeting and will be airing it as part of a upcoming film on NBC.

Cooperative Maintains "Instant" Refund Policy

Dickens Electric Spur Spur - Dickens Electric Cooperative is continuing its policy of immediately refunding any reduction in the cost of generating fuel to its members. General Manager Bailey Reece stated that permission had been sought from the Texas Public Utility Commission to change the Power Cost Recovery Factor (PCRF) on a monthly basis. "Permission was granted and we have been applying this method for some time for our members", states General Manager Bailey Reece. Reece added that this method was much more fair to method was much more fair to the members because any reduction in the cost of fuel is immediately refunded to the members through a reduced PCRF on their very next bill.
