LION news and notes

Taking Pride In A Healthy Community

The Lions met April 21, in the Methodist Church Fellowship Hall for a delicious meal prepared by Lion Walter Jones with 28 Lions attending.

After several fines for new vehicles and a new job position, the boss Lion asked Tail Twister Johnson for a report on the Directors Breakfast meeting. Boss Lion asked Secretary Haden Moore about the Birthday Calendars. He said they

Republicans and Democrats May Combine Elections

Cindi Taylor Krier (R-San Antonio) and Representative Richard Smith (R-Bryan) introduced legislation in the Texas Senate and Texas House of Representatives which would cause the Democratic and Republican primary elections to be held in a single polling place in each election precinct. The "single location primary bill" changes the existing law which presently provides that each party have its own polling place and election workers in each precinct, to provide for consolidated polling places and election workers while maintaining separate ballots. The bill also provides that each county take a greater role in the administration of the primary elections, in that the local Democratic and Republican parties, which at the present time carry the lion's share of the work with the conduct of these elections take a reduced role. These changes result in a cost savings to the State of Texas of approximately 5.5 million dollars in that it is estimated were ready to start selling for next year. Jesse Turner handed in a list for the next years officers to be voted on at the next meeting.

The Lions were reminded of the 21-2 Lions Convention in Snyder May 15 and 16. Lions Queen Shannon Campbell will represent the Matador Lions as their Queen Contestant at this convention.

that the 1988 "Super Tuesday" election would cost 10.6 million dollars to administer under the present law, while the cost of "Super Tuesday" under a single location primary scheme would cost a little more than 5 million dollars.

Jack M. Rains, Secretary of state, whose office originated this study stated that Texas was the only state in the Union which holds party primaries in different locations within each precinct, and that Texans spend over $3.00 per voter to administer the primary elections. That cost is by far the highest cost per primary voter in the United States, and is substantially higher than the cost per general election voter. The most substantial savings under the single location primary bill would come from the sharing of polling places and workers, with additional cost savings by the sharing of absentee ballot boards (where absentee votes are canvassed and approved), delivery of election returns, etc.

Barbara's Bylines

March and April have certainly been roaring like lions. There has been a lot of wind damage around the area. The fire at Dougherty last week was hard to contain because of the wind. The U.S. Weather Bureau in Lubbock reported wind gusts at 53 miles-per-hour. The Matador VFD helped with this fire, approximately 20,000 bushels of milo and one tank were a complete loss.

"Son Beams"

By June Keltz

Cookie crumbs on the floor, finger prints on the glass door, a half hidden toy truck peering from behind the couch, wet wash rags hanging on every rack and numerous glasses cluttering the table, floor and cabinet - this is all tangible evidence of much deeper experience. It is an indication that a family came together to share love, to laugh together, to cry together, to store up lasting memories for the young and old; knowing that one day there will be those who are missing.

There must have been a similar scene 2000 years ago in an upper room in Jerusalem. Unleavened bread crumbs and an empty wine cup on the table, pillows scattered about the floor, along with a water basin and a wet towel - again, an outward sign of a deeper experience. Jesus had called "The Twelve" together to eat Passover with Him before His death. After supper He washed their feet and dried them, teaching them to humble themselves and to have a servant's heart. Outside the room He gave them a new commandment, "to love one another, even as I have loved you, that you also love one another." (John 13:34) Every moment was precious knowing that He would soon be leaving them and there was much to be said.

Family gatherings are opportunities to express Christ's love that dwells in our hearts by faith. Since time is short, every word and deed should be one that builds, roots and grounds our loved ones in the fullness of our Father God. This concept is not limited to flesh and blood families but includes the family of God with whom we are in contact most everyday. "Let all things be done for edification." (1 Cor. 14:26).

GERANIUMS FOR TEXAS GARDENS

Geraniums are an excellent spring planted annual for Texas gardens. These colorful plants are well suited for beds, borders and containers. Most varieties will reach a height of 14-18 inches and form a dense mound of dark green foliage. Although geraniums will tolerate partial shade, they perform best in full sun.

Several varieties of geraniums are available from local garden centers and other plant outlets. However, the 'Glacier' series has been recognized by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service as the best selection for 1987. These plants have exhibited early-flowering characteristics, good heat tolerance and a free-branching growth habit. At present, there are three varieties in this series: 'Glacier Crimson', 'Glacier Salmon' and 'Glacier Scarlet'.

Most geraniums are grown from transplants that have been started from cuttings. Although seeded varieties are available, they have a tendency to become leggy and flowers shatter easily. If you're planning on starting your own plants, take 2-3 inch cuttings and let them sit out overnight before sticking into containers filled with potting medium. This process allows the base of the cutting to "heal over" and reduces disease problems later on. After cuttings have rooted, plant them in the garden 10-14 inches apart. Occasional pinching will stimulate branching and make plants bushy. To promote long-lasting color, remove blooms as they begin to decline.

Senior Citizens Report

by Iris Blevins

The Matador Senior Citizens had a full week of activities last week.

Monday the mini-bus went to Lubbock with several people riding, they had a real good time shopping and visiting.

Tuesday was our regular luncheon day, and we had so much good food, and a large crowd to eat. We want to welcome all of our visitors. We invite our neighboring communities at all times to come join in on our day of activities and having fun.

Thursday the bus went to Plainview with eight people riding. Some went to the doctor, others shopped. Some went just for a day out of town. I enjoy just getting out and seeing different things. I can manage my old rocking chair and these four walls much easier when I don't stay in them all of the time. Everyone should try it a few times and just see how nice it is. You could come to the Senior Citizens center each Friday evening at 2:00 p.m. for an evening of games.

We are happy that Bill and Nora Bell enjoyed an overnight visit with their children, grandchildren and great grandchildren in Lamesa, Texas last Friday night. We had a very nice evening playing 84 at the Senior Citizens Center Friday evening.

TIME-SAVING TIPS

SINKS AHOY!

There are easy ways to keep a sink stain-free. First, wash dirty dishes or place them in the dishwasher as soon as possible. You'll avoid the food build-up in the sink.

If food stains do accumulate, you can remove them without using abrasive cleansers that can scratch your sink. Simply rinse the sink, then wipe it with a solution of 3/4 cup liquid chlorine bleach, such as Clorox liquid bleach, such as Clorox liquid bleach, to each gallon of warm water and rinse with clear water.

For stubborn stains, allow the bleach solution to remain on the surface for five minutes. Repeat if necessary.

JOHN (SCANDALOUS JOHN) SELMAN

Back around the turn of the century 1900 A.D. there came into the Dickens section of the country, a family name Barnes and among them a big boy whose name was John Selman, a step-son to Barnes. John Selman was somewhere in his teens, as big as a Government mule, and just about as raw and inexperienced as they ever came. Old man Barnes was a one-horse farmer in those days, as most all other farmers were, and tilled a sandy, shinary farm to the North of Dickens. He also operated a well drilled in that section, when ever there was need for that sort of work trying to add to a scanty farm existence.

I do not recall now how John Selman became known as "Scandalous John", but am inclined to think it was because of his looks, more than anything attached to his conduct. John Selman was big, awkward, green and more or less a sight to see in the cattle country. He had never worked with cattle, and it is more than doubtful if he had ever ridden horses a great deal. Just a big, rough, uncouth boy, raised on a farm mostly, that became uprooted and landed in a ranch country, possibly more by chance than intent. As far as I ever knew, John Selman showed little inclination to become a cowboy. I do not recall that he ever worked in any cow outfit, as most other youngsters did.

Shortly after the Swenson Interest bought the Espuela Land and Cattle Co. Limited of London, England, John Selman got a job there. Mostly working around the Ranch Headquarters. In fact, if he ever did work with the Spur wagon, I never knew of it. So far as I know, Scandalous John Selman married and stayed at or around the Old Spur headquarters in the main; though he soon enough became a key-man for the Swensons there. It is true that he never stayed on the Spur Ranch very long, as he was transferred to the Swenson Ranch near Stamford, Texas.

Time moved along rapidly for some years, and by the time the Stamford Cowboy Reunion was organized, Scandalous John Selman had made the grade and was the "It" as range boss for the Swensons on the Flat Top Ranch, as well as being made the "Area Director" of the cowboy's reunion time.

To one that had known Scandalous John Selman in the days of his youth, and hadn't been with or around him during his apprenticeship as a cowboy, could scarcely realize there was any hidden latent ability in Scandalous John Selman, and felt his advancement was more or less a joke, rather than any actual development. It just sort of seemed preposterous to think that John Selman had the making of a real cowboy and cowman, or the making of anything exceptional in any other line for that matter.

I saw John Selman again, as the Arena Director in the early Nineteen Thirties in Stamford after an elapsed time of around twenty years. The change was astonishing, startling and really mysterious. Almost beyond belief! Scandalous John had settled. He was still a big man, but he had lost the awkwardness of youth. He sat and handled his horse with the ease and dexterity of an Indian that had been reared on a horse's back. He had learned and knew his lesson well.

A living illustration of the fact, a man is born a cowman rather than made one. Scandalous John as manager of the Swenson's Flat-Top Ranch, naturally rode the best horses they had there; and it was pleasantly astonishing to sit in the Grand Stand and watch that once awkward boy I had known, rope cattle and otherwise work his horse as though he was and had always been a part of him.

The old adage that the outcome of a dogie calf is unpredictable, had been verified in the development of John Selman. He had made a real cowboy beyond any doubt. One that knew when, how, and what should be done, and then did it with all the grace, rhythm and smoothness of a natural born cowman.

Scandalous John had had practice and experience aplenty. But unless one is endowed also with that invisible latent talent, a gift from nature's storehouse, all the experience and practice in the world doesn't mean much of anything to a fellow. He had reached his manhood in years before he had a chance to develop the hidden qualities embedded in his being at birth; and because it was planted there, cow work fell in pleasant and natural lines to him.

Scandalous John, as Arena Director didn't take part in the different classes of daily roping, still he did as much, possibly more roping than any man on the grounds. Boy, he could have held his own in most any class of competition and company! He had come out of the kinks, and in a class with the best of them.

Scandalous John Selman died in the spring of 1971 at Stamford, Texas, (Mary Green Webb.)

Remember When

By Annie B. Cloyd
 Box 22
 Flomot, TX 79234

Hi Neighbors, it's me again, here in Flomot wishing that the hard wind would let up a little. Last time it was mowing the grass that I was fussing about - so I guess there is always something to "get to us" isn't there?

Now let us remember about the times we have met up with a skunk and had to deal with the effects of it. I guess most all of us have had to deal with skunks at some time or another but it still isn't easy, is it?

Leon told me that he and his cousin Steve, when they were teenagers, were supposed to be pulling boles and, as always, their dog was with them. Now they were about three miles from home when this took place. The cotton patch was next to a field where some bundles of feed had been shocked and the dog was after something so the boys went to help him catch whatever it was. As they watched, a skunk ran under a shock of feed and the dog was trying to get to it so Steve started pulling bundles away so the dog could get the skunk - well, you know what happened, the skunk got Steve. The boys claimed to be too sick to work anymore so they walked the three miles back down the creek to get home.

This creek the boys walked back down was the North fork of the Alamose. And - that is the same creek that we used to live on when we lived in town. Seems like there were always some kind of varmint coming out of the creek up to our house. But the time I was about to step out the door, with my arms full of papers and magazines, was when I got very upset. See...I couldn't see my feet for my load of stuff, but I felt something there at my feet. I had the screen door open so I stepped back inside and shut the door right quick. When I looked there were some baby skunks and one almost got in the house with me. Now they are very cute when they are little but they are still skunks. I got the gun and killed three and looked down in the creek and there were three more and their Mother. So, with Leon's help, we killed them all.

The worst thing was when a pair of skunks dug under the house and Leon set a trap where we found the hole on the north side. But there was also a hole on the south side, so he set a trap there too. One morning we got up to a terrible smell and found there was a skunk in each trap. Leon shot them both and we thought the odor would never leave. Was enough to make you run away from home for awhile.

Better go but we'll remember some more good things again soon.

Social Security Tips

by Terry J. Clements

A worker cannot be sure of receiving credit for Social Security-covered employment unless his or her name and Social Security number are correctly reported by the employer. If wages are reported without the worker's correct Social Security number, he or she may never receive credit for the earnings. Eligibility for and the amount of monthly retirement, disability, and survivors benefits for a worker and his or her family are determined by the worker's lifetime earnings credited to the worker's Social Security record.

Employers should ask to see each new employee's Social Security card and should record the worker's name and number exactly as shown on the card. If the worker has never had a Social Security number, he or she should be referred to any Social Security office to apply for one. If the employee had a card but lost it, he or she should also be referred to a social security office to apply for a replacement. A new card should also be obtained if the employee's name has changed; in this case, the new card will show the new name but the same number.

At the close of the calendar year, employers must submit a Wage and Tax Statement (Form W-2) to the Social Security Administration for each employee. The W-2 forms must be sent with a Transmittal of Income and Tax Statements (Form W-3). Each employee also gets a copy of form W-2.

Employers are encouraged to submit their reports to the Social Security Administration by means of magnetic media rather than on paper. Magnetic media reporting is less expensive and reduces the possibility of loss, damage, and human error that may occur when paper reports are processed.

For more information you may contact us at 1401-B West 5th Street, or call us at 293-9623. Appointments can also be arranged if desired.

Another idea, also supported by the National Education Association, is for parents to ask schools to impose stiff and fairly enforced penalties for use, possession or distribution of drugs by students at all grade levels. At the other end, parents can recommend students get factual information on drugs' dangerous physical and emotional effects.

Parents can work with school systems, parent groups and other community agencies to provide activities for students of all ages to make the most constructive use of their free time.

Education News & Notes

STUDENT DRUG AND ALCOHOL ABUSE

While many schools now offer anti-drug and alcohol programs, there are still a number of things parents can do to help protect their children from such substances. One way is to support drug education in all classes, beginning in the elementary grades.

Because of its nature in general, wine is a mocker and beer a brawler; whoever is led astray by them is not wise. Prov. 20:1

Attention All Ages Get Ready For The Bike-A-Thon

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital officials announced today that Mr. and Mrs. Tony Rose will chair the Hospital's "Wheels For Life" bike ride in Matador, Saturday May 2. This ride will raise funds to support the Hospital's battle against childhood cancer and other illnesses being studied there.

Founded in 1962 by entertainer Danny Thomas, St. Jude Hospital has become the world's largest center for the study of childhood cancer and is the only institution dedicated solely to the treatment and study of catastrophic childhood diseases. The Hospital is non-sectarian and interracial.

In addition to direct treatment of patients throughout the United States and 29 foreign countries, St.

Jude has provided the world's doctors with the best methods of treating their own young cancer patients. This life-saving knowledge is given freely and with no charge to any other hospital or private physician.

St. Jude Hospital's dramatic progress has been made possible primarily by voluntary contributions raised through events such as the "Wheels For Life" bike rides organized by concerned citizens all over America.

For more information and to register, call Tony or Sherry at 347-2412.

Prizes will be given by the hospital and local merchants for the most money collected and the most miles ridden.

6TH ANNUAL ALVIN DURHAM OLD TIMERS TEAM ROPING AND STEER STOPPING

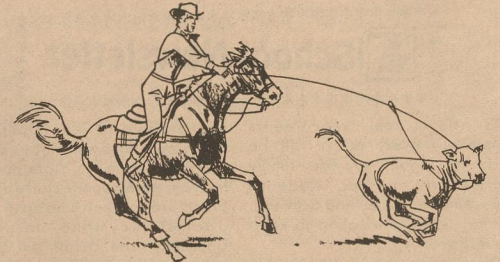

The Sixth Annual Old Timers Ropings will again be held Saturday May 2 and Sunday May 3 at the Park's Arena at Roaring Springs, Texas.

This year there will be two handmade saddles given away. They are being built by the famous "Bull" Durham.

Alvin Durham has been a saddle, tack and boot maker in the Roaring Springs area for 50 years or more. His call for leather craft, came with working on surrounding ranches such as the Matadors and rodeoing in his younger heydays. Bull Durham knows, that it takes a certain type of saddle or tack to please a cowboy, in his trade.

This is the sixth year to honor Durham for his outstanding saddle work as well as his contribution to our community. Come one and all to enter or watch the big events. Ropings start at 11:30 each day. We have had cowboys from several states entering to vie for the prizes and money. So mark your calendar for May 2nd and 3rd and head for Roaring Springs for a roping weekend. If you need further information you may contact Harold Parks at 806-348-7524.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Barbara,

Thought I would let you know, Jack and I enjoy the paper so much. You are doing a great job. To me it is a home town paper. Although a lot of the folks I knew have moved or passed on. There are still people and loved ones there I know. In last weeks paper, the 9th, you had our granddaughter's picture in the paper, (Daddy said he was going to have it put in the paper). I would like to add she is the niece of Louvaine Scaff there in Matador and Bud Barton of Floydada.

May 1st is coming up, you remember it as the day out there the Tornado hit the south part of town. May 1st, 1986 is the day F.D.I.C. closed the bank here in Carter, OK. It is hard for the elderly people. Someone has to take them to the Bank either at Sayre or Elk City. Now the Governor of Oklahoma wants to close our school. One more school year and that is it. I hope and pray you people out there do not lose your bank and school. Because it sure will hurt. Next year when they close the school this will probably be a ghost town.

Love you all,
Mrs. Jack (Betty Jo Barton)
Aldridge
