Barbara's Briefs

Sure does seem like Spring is really here for sure now. The Stock Show was last Monday and Easter is here.

I sure do want to thank all the people who supported the Stock Show by all the ads for it.

I spoke with Mr. Moss at the Stock Show and asked if he was enjoying 'just watching' he said it was the best one he had ever been to. They did use his assistance in weighing the hogs.

We got word this afternoon that Pearl Alexander went home to be with the Lord this morning. I know there is a great celebration going on in heaven today.

Innovative Erosion Control Practiced By James Gwinn

by Jim Steiert Associate Editor Texas Farmer-Stockman

Blowing Sand and short moisture are ingredients of everyday farming on the Rolling Plains. One or the other accounts for damage to at least a portion of the cotton crop every year.

James Gwinn of Matador in Motley County has fought his share of sand and watched more than a field or two of cotton burn up on his farm near Whiteflat.

There's not much he can do about the incessant wind or the lack of rain clouds. He's making do the best way he can, however. Over the past three years he has put considerable effort into reducing both wind and water erosion. He's also worked hard to hold whatever rain that does fall on his crop land, before it can gather moisture are ingredients of everyday farming on the Rolling Plains. One or the other accounts for damage to at least a portion of the cotton crop every year.

Gwinn has installed upwards of five miles of terraces and he's working now to top them all with a cover of lovegrass to create a permanent windbreak effect.

As he's worked to terrace all the farmland he owns, he has become a believer in terraces that are seeded to cover. Last year he didn't run a sandfighter in his cotton fields a single time, thanks to the wind breaking effects of terraces and their cover crop of haygrazer. That's a considerable switch from the farming patterns of past years, when he might run a sandfighter a dozen times before young cotton grew sturdy enough to withstand wind and sand.

He began his terracing project after consulting with James Gillespie, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service at Matador. Gillespie was among the first to encourage landowners in his area to use grass windstrips as an erosion control tool. He worked with an early windstrip project near Roaring Springs that gave the concept a boost on the Rolling Plains.

For the second year in a row Heath Campbell has captured the Grand Champion award with his first place heavy weight steer.

Heather Hobbs showed the Reserve Champion Steer. Shawna Campbell won the Steer showmanship award.

Heath Campbell also won the rate of gain trophy with an average 2.96 lbs. gained daily. All entries showed over a 2.5 lbs. per day gained.

Christie Pierce showed the Grand Champion Lamb. Reserve Championship went to Lacey Parks' lamb. The showmanship trophy was awarded to Christie Pierce.

The Grand Champion hog was shown by Brian Marshall. Rodney Doran had the Reserve Champion Hog. Tricia Palmer was awarded the Showmanship Trophy.

Gillespie aided Gwinn in setting up a Great Plains conservation project contract calling for terracing and establishment of lovegrass as a cover for the terraces. "I got started terracing mainly in the interest of holding as much water as I can on the cropland. We rely entirely on rainfall to make our cotton. Storing a little extra soil moisture can make a big difference in our yields.

"It's hard to say what kind of soil moisture dividends we realize from terracing on these relatively flat, A-slope soils. I think the extra soil moisture terraces help me store will raise my cotton yields 25 to 30 percent over their present average of around a half-bale per acre, at least in normal years," says Gwinn. "Even though this is dryland cotton country, we had a lot of washes and runoff from our sandy fields and ditches were getting deeper and deeper. I felt I just had to begin terracing my land in order to get the problems under control.

"Terraces that are sowed to cover just don't let my fields blow

Resort Members File Suit Against Operator

By PAT GRAVES
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Attorneys for approximately 250 members of a private camping resort near Roaring Springs filed a $5 million lawsuit Thursday accusing the operator of diverting money to his personal use.

Jerrrell Jennings of Dallas and his firms - Springs Ranch Co., Roaring Springs Ranch Club Inc. and Springs Ranch Estates - face a temporary restraining order from 99th District Judge Thomas L. Clinton.

The plaintiffs are asking Clinton to order Jennings not to collect, spend or dispose of any club funds, incur any debts, contact any lending institutions or remove or destroy any financial records.

H. Bennett Reeves, J.M. Thacker and C.M. Peterson, on behalf of the Roaring Springs Ranch Club Owners Association, claim that Jennings has over-mortgaged the 1,010-acre site in Motley County. They also charge that he has used purchase money and dues for his own benefit instead of for the recreational facility.

The trio also allege that Jennings may have sold some of the owners' contracts to State Savings of Clovis, N.M., or another entity, without their knowledge and has failed to apply the money to the owners' contracts.

The plaintiffs state that they bought ownership interests from Jennings with the goal of eventually acquiring clear title when full payment was made to him. Jennings told them, according to the suit, that he would operate the club as a non-profit corporation.

Jennings, who maintains a Lubbock office, allegedly violated state deceptive trade practices and consumer protection laws. Clinton set a hearing for March 28 on the plaintiffs' request to appoint a receiver, or overseer, for the operation.

Budding Artists Compete

Probably one of the most difficult choices the Tribune staff had to make Tuesday was judging the coloring contest. Many were really very artistic.

In the Pre-school division, we had one entry, Samantha Osborn, whose entry was comparable to the 3rd. grades work and won first place.

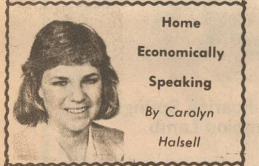

The next division was kindergarten and first grade artists with 7 entries. First place went to Leslie Minkley, 2nd to Rebecca Long. Other entrants were Ryan Martin, Kasey Osborn, Stacie Minkley, Stephen Meyers and Crystal Christopher.

The third division was the 2nd and 3rd graders. 1st place was won by Leigh Ann Pipkin; 2nd place went to Carmen Zarate. Another entry was Molly Christian.

The winning entries will be on display at the Tribune office for two weeks.

Winners can come by the Tribune for their prizes.

Obesity Is Stressful

The National Institutes of Health defines obesity as "an excess of body fat frequently resulting in a significant impairment of health." Simple measurements of height, weight and skinfold thickness can indicate obesity. In addition, the distribution of body fat in the abdomen, rather than the hips and thighs, is an important predictor of the health hazards of obesity. A level of 20% or more above desirable body weight is associated with sufficient risk to justify medical intervention.

In our weight-conscious society, obesity is a stressful condition. Obese people suffer social stress because others misunderstand obesity as an overeating problem that's the "fault" of the obese person. But scientific data shows that obese people do not necessarily eat more than people of normal weight. Physically, stress is intensified with the added burden of weight on the body. A calorie-restricted diet also produces stress. And when obese people continually fail at losing weight, either from lack of information or because they are following ineffective "fad" diets, that creates stress from failure.

"Son Beams"

By June Keltz

An unexpected blessing came our way last week during our intercessory prayer time. A man and wife missionary team from the Philippines chose our town as a rest stop on their journey to visit friends and family. Their intended brief browsing time in the shop became an extended one as they shared a hair raising experience that had taken place only a few nights previously.

In order to alleviate lodging expenses they had taken shelter in a big church in Illinois. During the night they were awakened with a light shining in their face and a gun pointed at their heads. Three men robbed them of their money and jewelry while threatening their lives if they did not open the safe. They began to verbally praise the Lord and ask Him to awaken an intercessor to pray for them.

They found favor with one of the three and their lives were spared.

ATPE Charges Gov. Has Betrayed Teachers, Will Waste State Money With 2nd. Test

The executive director of the Association of Texas Professional Educators (ATPE), in response to Gov. Mark White's call for subject area testing for teachers, blasted the governor today, saying his statement was "harassment of Texas Teachers."

In an interview Monday night on the ABC program Nightline, White said, "There will be subject matter testing at a later date."

"The Governor's call for subject area testing is harassment of Texas Teachers," said ATPE Exec. Director Mike Morrow. "For the last year, teachers have experienced frustration and low morale because of the insult of being required to take the competency test administered this week to 205,000 at a cost of about $4.8 million. If the Governor believed this subject matter test was necessary, then why wasn't it included on the first examination? Texas can't afford either the waste of money or the toll the anxiety will take on our already beleaguered teacher corps."

ATPE State President Sue McGarvey, a government teacher from Hallsville, said "Gov. White didn't allow us one minute's piece of mind. Before many teachers arrived home from taking the TECAT, he was calling for another test."

McGarvey added that teachers feel betrayed and that she has heard many very conservative teachers say, 'I feel like walking out right now.' "When the State Commissioner of Education, Bill Kirby, selected by the governor's own appointed State Board of Education, says the second test is unnecessary, then it appears that Gov. White's comments have nothing to do with improving education in this state everything to do with politics," Morrow said. "It's time we stopped this harassment and started to build education, not continually tear it down."

House Bill 72 contained provisions for both a basic skills test and a subject area test for educators, but the State Board of Education suspended the subject area test last year.

Matador Garden Club Program Describes Texas Brazos Trail

Continuing the theme, "Beauty Along Texas Highways," Matador Garden Club heard a description of the Texas Brazos Trail by Mrs. Gus Bird, at its March 17 meeting. Mrs. Douglas Meador was hostess at her home, and Mrs. W.D. Lipscomb was program leader.

Mrs. Ted Elliott, president, called the meeting to order and minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. W.N. Pipkin, secretary.

The Brazos Trail winds through a scenic part of Central Texas that is rich in history, Mrs. Bird recounted. It had been a favorite Indian hunting ground long before colonists turned its Brazos River bottomlands into fertile fields.

"The trail begins at Waco, home of Baylor University and Fort Fisher Museum of the Texas Rangers. Also on the trail is Texas A&M University, the state's first institution of higher public education, founded in 1876," Mrs. Bird said.

Among other interesting points on the trail is Old Fort Parker where Indians massacred settlers and kidnapped Cynthia Ann Parker at age 9. (She grew up to marry an Indian chief and was mother of Quanah Parker, last great Comanche chief.)

From Waco, the Trail proceeds in a clockwise direction, although it can be started at any point and driven in either direction, with the help of a descriptive map furnished by the Texas State Department of Highways. Leaving McLennan County, Mexia in Limestone County is a landmark as an early oil boomtown. Fort Parker State Park is south of Mexia.

"For many years Marlin, in Falls County was known as a popular spa because of its hot, mineralized artesian water, and Calvert in Robertson County prospered as a trade center for cotton plantations. The route crosses sandstone formations (identified by post oak growth) and string prairies (farmland) as it ambles through Wheelock, Normangee and Franklin, the county seat," Mrs. Bird narrated. "Wheelock is noted for wild flowers, and in spring the dogwoods are exceptional. These are tranquil, rural landscapes of quaint historical lineage," she said.

Anderson and Navasota in Grimes County are on the trail leading to College Station in Brazos County, thence to Caldwell in Burleson County, Elgin in Bastrop County, and Austin in Travis County.

"The view along the Brazos Trail as the route enters Williamson County is one of rolling fields, trees and pastures," Mrs. Bird described and noted that Taylor is the birthplace of former Gov. Dan Moody. "As the Trail moves north it passes through three communities with much in common: Granger, Holland and Bartlett were all settled by Czechs."

The Brazos Trail near I-35 bends to enter Salado (Bell County) with the stone ruins of Old Salado College on the east. A tourist attraction here is the Stagecoach Inn's dining room, part of a renowned inn and restaurant that served travelers along the old Military Road as early as 1852. Also in Bell county is the city of Belton, whose courthouse square is an excellent example of a Texas courthouse square. "It's a feature that came from Tennessee, as did other culture, aspects of many areas in Texas," Mrs. Bird pointed out.

"North of the Trail is the community of Whitehall, once a stopping place for herds of Longhorns on the Old Chisholm Trail. The Trail turns northeast at The Grove (named for graves of live oaks), where a number of Wendish families settled in the 1870's. This area is in Coryell County and proceeds to

FISHING FOR PEROT

Rick Craig—Hamlin Herald: After having a wife take the TECAT Monday, the following story hits close to home.

Three men were fishing out on a lake one day and witnessed a man drowning when his boat hit a stump.

They got to the man in time, hauled him from the water and pumped the fluid from his lungs, saving his life.

"I want to express my appreciation for saving my life," the victim said. "I'm a very wealthy man and I want to grant each of you your wish."

The first man said, "I have always wanted a Cadillac with all the extras."

"Very well," replied the victim.

"We'll go to the dealer tomorrow and get your car."

The second fisherman said, "I've always wanted to take a trip around the world, but have never been able to afford it."

"Fine," said the victim. "We'll book your passage at the travel agency and you can take as long as you wish on the trip."

The third fisherman answered simply, "I want a nice funeral."

Surprised, the victim commented, "Are you sure? I'm able to give you anything you want. Surely you have a desire for something more than a funeral."

"Well," the man said with a very serious look on his face, "when I get home and tell my wife, who's a school teacher, that I helped save the life of H. Ross Perot, she's gonna kill me. I won't need anything else."

SOCIAL SECURITY IN MOTLEY COUNTY

by Terry J. Clements

In general, the amount of your social security monthly payment is based on your earnings in social security covered employment. This feature of the program is particularly relevant for women who may choose to remain at home if they have young children.

Entitlement to social security benefits in your own right depends on the amount of credits you have from covered employment. The specific amount depends on when you reach 62, become disabled, or for your survivors to get benefits, your age at death. If you stop working before you have earned a sufficient number of social security credits, you will not be eligible for benefits; however, the credits you have already earned remain on your work record, and any additional credits earned at any time in the future will be added to the credits already on your record.

Since the amount of your benefit, as well as that of your family, is based on covered earnings over a period of years, the amount of the monthly payment can be affected if you have a number of years of little or no earnings.

A married woman can receive payments either on her own record or that of her husband. She receives whichever is larger; a benefit on her own record, or a benefit on her husband's record. A woman who has worked steadily at high earnings might find that her own benefit would be more than a wife's; however, if she had remained at home for several years or had periods of low earnings, she might find it advisable to take the wife's benefit.

MICROWAVE SCHOOL

One of the best ways to learn to use your microwave oven is to attend a microwave cooking class. Whether you are an amateur or pro, in class you see and learn microwave techniques, receive many palate pleasing recipes and have an opportunity to share microwave experiences with others which will be of benefit to you. The West Texas Utilities Company gives you this opportunity by inviting you to the Microwave Oven Cooking School, presented by the West Texas Utilities Electric Living Consultant, Jymann Hokanson. The school will be held Wednesday, April 12 from 12:00 noon until 1:00 p.m. at WTU local office, 1121 Main Street. No reservations are required. And all information and recipe samples are free of charge.

In keeping with the state's celebration and festivities of the Texas Sesquicentennial, the theme for the school is "Microwave Roundup." Recipes to be demonstrated are designed with various crust and browning skillet techniques. During the session those attending will equally learn some helpful hints about microwave ovens in general and be given materials to refer to at home.

So dust off that hat, buckle on your spurs, hitch-up those doggies, and drive your chuckwagon on down to the West Texas Utilities "Roundup" to enjoy a Taste of Texas.

like flat ground would. The wind is broke up. It doesn't blow straight down the rows or take the topsoil with it.

Last year was a good convincer for him.

He planted haygrazer as the cover on his terraces early in the spring. The vegetation was excellent protection for cotton when it emerged. He never had to pull a sandfighter. Cotton got a strong start and was never burned back by abrasive sand. Gwinn planted rye on his terraces last fall. He baled the rye this spring, leaving the rye residue as a cover into which he could sow lovegrass.

Once lovegrass gets established, he'll have a tall and durable forage as a windstrip on the terraces.

"I think these grassed terraces will eventually help a lot. They already make a difference, just planted to a cover crop. Saving moisture and keeping young cotton from being burned by sand and wind is about all we can do to insure a good crop here. Terracing is a measure that addresses both those needs," says Gwinn.

Program On Crime Prevention Given At Recent Club Meeting

A Public Affairs program featuring a talk on crime prevention was given for GFWC El Progresso Club at its March 13 meeting, held at Summit Savings Community Room. Speaker was Cpl. Royce Williams of the Lubbock Police Department. Miss Rachel Patton, program leader, introduced Cpl. Williams.

Mrs. Ted Elliott presided at the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Robert Dickson, and minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Joe Campbell. In her introduction to the program, Miss Patton read the yearbook quotation: "The life of the law has not been logic; it has been experience," by Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Cpl. Williams spoke on professional instructions for self-protection and showed a film demonstrating ways to help in preventing crime to both home and self. "It's crime if you aren't prepared," he asserted.

Three areas of crime prevention were stressed. These were property marking for identification of possessions, with an available engraving device, and applying a warning identification sticker in a prominent place (window or door) where it can be seen from the outside by a potential burglar; the importance of good security locks on all outside doors (the deadbolt lock was recommended for these areas); and the neighborhood watch which involves people keeping an eye on each other's property when the owner is away from home.

"Citizen involvement became so effective that criminals began to go to other towns to commit crimes," Cpl. Williams said. He brought a number of pamphlets which the members selected to read, and answered questions as he concluded his presentation.

For Inspirational Thought, Miss Patton read a quotation, "It is all right to spend money to make character; it is all wrong to spend character to make money," from Nuggets of Gold, compiled by Roy G. Robinson.

Mrs. R.E. Campbell was hostess and served cake, coffee and frosted lime punch from a table featuring St. Patrick's decorations.

In addition to those mentioned, others present were Mesdames Frank Pohl, C.D. Garrison, J.E. Edwards, Furman Vinson, W.N. Pipkin, Douglas Meador and Harold Campbell.

Observance of the 50th birthday of the Altha Evers Cabin for Girl Scouts in Paducah, was celebrated Saturday, March 15, of this Sesquicentennial year of Texas Independence. The cabin was formally opened during the Centennial of Texas in 1936.

The cabin was named for Mrs. W.O. Before her marriage, Mrs. Jones taught music in the Matador school system, as Miss Evers, and is remembered by friends here.

Former Girl Scouts and Leaders of the Paducah Scouting

Other local leaders with Mrs. Donovan were Mrs. Robert (Winifred) Darsey and Mrs. Bill (Judine) McCaghen of Matador and Mrs. Roy (Thelma) Roberts of Amarillo, formerly of Matador, who assisted with the Scout work when the Scouts were an active organization here.

A Love Letter

Dear Friend:

How are you? I just had to send you this letter to tell you how much I love and care about you. I saw you yesterday as you were walking with your friends. I waited all day, hoping you would talk to Me also. As evening drew near, I gave you a sunset to close your day and a cool breeze to rest you, and I waited. You never came. Oh yes, it hurt Me, but I still love you because I am your Friend.

I saw you fall asleep last night, and I longed to touch your brow, so I spilled moonlight upon your pillow and face. Again I waited, wanting to rush down so we could talk. I have so many gifts for you.

You awakened late and rushed off for the day...My tears were in the rain. Today you looked so sad, so alone. It makes my heart ache because I understand. My friends let Me down and hurt Me many times too, but I love you. I try to tell you in the quiet green grass; I whisper it in the leaves and trees, breathe it in the colors of the flowers. I shout it to you in the mountain streams, and give the birds love songs to sing. I clothe you with warm sunshine and perfume the air. My love for you is deeper than oceans and bigger than the biggest want or need you have.

We will spend eternity together in heaven. I know how hard it is on this earth. I really know (because I was there) and I want to help you. My Father wants to help you too. He's that way, you know. Just call Me, ask Me, talk to Me. It is your decision. I have chosen you, and because of this I will wait...Because I love you.

Your Friend,
Jesus

Hopefully, the long awaited school building will soon be finished and the donation from the chapter's history project will be used to buy native Texas trees to shade future generations of school children as they go about their business of playing and learning.

In addition to the donation, Mrs. Vinson is presenting a copy of her research paper, "Educational Roots Grow Deep" to the school. The paper which will be entered in DRT's Mamie Wynne Cox Competition for a member written research essay of merit documents almost forgotten pioneer schools of Motley County. The project was originally started as a survey for the County Historical Committee but just grew and grew as Mrs. Vinson uncovered more information. Names such as Hidebug Junction, Dutchman, Teepee City, Lambert, Barton, Bird Ranch, Darden Canyon, White Star, stir the imagination or start the memories flowing.

Numerous local people who shared their reminiscences and old pictures are thanked for creating a most colorful patchwork of the history of our area.

Property Tax Remedies Offered

State Information Program Tells Taxpayers How To Get Tax Relief.

A statewide effort is underway to inform Texas property owners of their rights, remedies and responsibilities as taxpayers, according to Ron Patterson, executive director of the State Property Tax Board (SPTB).

Patterson says SPTB is working with appraisal districts and local news media to help make taxpayers aware of property tax filing deadlines and methods to obtain exemptions or other forms of tax relief.

"The first priority for property owners is to file renditions by March 31 and apply for tax relief by April 30 this year," Patterson said. Taxpayers should file all exemption applications and property rendition forms with the central appraisal district office.

A rendition is a report a property owner makes listing taxable property owned or managed on January 1, 1986. A rendition also gives a taxpayer the opportunity to record an opinion of the property's value. "By rendering a value for property, the owner makes the appraisal district responsible for sending a notice if the district places a higher value on the property," Patterson pointed out.

Certain property owners must render their property. "Anyone who owns or manages income-producing personal property on January 1 is required by state law to file a rendition statement with the appropriate appraisal district," Patterson said.

There are special rendition procedures for property when an exemption applies on January 1 but ends during the tax year. In such a case, the person who owns or acquires the property when the exemption ends must render the property for taxation within 30 days.

The chief appraiser may also require rendition of other taxable property upon notice to the property owner or manager. Rendition forms are available from appraisal district offices. Property owners must file renditions before April 1.

For homeowners, tax relief is usually in the form of exemptions. "An exemption lowers tax payments by deducting part of a property's value from taxation," Patterson explained. Homestead exemptions are available for all qualified homeowners, and additional exemptions are available for disabled people and for those aged 65 or over. Elderly homeowners who apply for the over-65 homestead exemption also get a cap, or ceiling, on taxes they pay to the school district. All taxing units offer exemptions to disabled veterans, survivors of deceased disabled veterans and survivors of those who died on active duty.

"Likewise," Patterson continued, "farmers and ranchers who qualify may have their land taxed on its productive value instead of its market value, which also results in a lower tax bill." Productivity valuation comes in two forms, often referred to by the section of the Texas Constitution that provides them: openspace or "1-d-1" valuation and agricultural or "1-d" valuation.

Property owners who last year received homestead exemptions, disabled veterans' exemptions and open-space land (1-d-1) valuation need not reapply in 1986, unless the chief appraiser requests a new application to confirm the owner's current qualification.

Applications must be filed in 1986, Patterson said, by property owners who have not previously received tax relief on their present homesteads or land.

Farmers and ranchers who receive agricultural use (1-d) valuation must apply for it each year.

Patterson noted that people whose property is in more than one county appraisal district have an additional responsibility. These property owners may have to file for exemptions and productivity valuation in each appraisal district in which their property is located. Failure to do so could result in one or more taxing units taxing the property on its full market value. An example is where a taxing unit has territory in two counties, but only one of the appraisal districts appraises all the property in the taxing unit.

Applications for exemption and special valuation must be in the appraisal office before May 1.

Complete information on tax exemptions and rendition requirements is in a pamphlet produced by SPTB, "Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities." The pamphlet also tells how taxpayers can challenge the values placed on their property by protesting to the appraisal review board. The pamphlet is available free from appraisal district offices or from SPTB in Austin.

"The property tax is the primary source of local government revenue in Texas," Patterson said. "It will generate about $9 billion this year to help fund public schools, cities, counties and special districts like hospitals, local colleges, fire protection, water and utilities."

"We urge all property owners to become familiar with the tax process, to file renditions and to apply for all exemptions or other tax relief they are entitled to," Patterson concluded. *

Last town on the Brazos Trail route back to Waco is Valley Mills, settled about 1854, and residents claim to have "the best water in Texas." South of the town signs will be seen pointing the way to parks on Lake Waco which provides a scenic entry into Waco.

Members bought heirloom quilts to show in answer to roll call, which were viewed and admired.

Mrs. Elliott was co-hostess with Mrs. Meador for refreshments of cookies in shamrock and Texas state patterns, served with frosted lime punch and coffee. Answering roll call were Miss Rachel Patton and Mesdames J.D. Craven, W.N. Pipkin, and Alvin Stearns, in addition to Mmes. Lipscomb and Bird.

DOUG SEAL FOR CONGRESS

Doug Seal, Democratic candidate for 13th Congressional District, said today that the trade deficit spills over on the U.S. economy to the extent that we will never balance the budget unless we take action now.

The trade deficit in 1980 was only $22 billion. In 1982 it was $42 billion, $70 billion in 1983 and $124 billion in 1984.

In 1985 the trade deficit was a staggering $140 billion. "We should have an export policy that is of, by and for the American people, not an export policy of the Japanese, by the Europeans and for the Koreans," Seal said.

Seal said that he would support and work toward a bill that would:

- 1) declare a trade emergency and grant the President broad powers to reduce trade deficits through negotiated agreements or unilateral actions.
- 2) establish a stand-by duty of 25% to be levied against countries with inequitable trade imbalances.

3) establish a special budget deficit reduction account in which all revenues from the stand-by duty would be deposited.

4) strengthen and expand the decision-making authority of the Office of U.S. Trade Representative.

"With a strong export-import policy we can balance the budget, and save the vital programs necessary to this district such as Social Security, Medicaid, Medicare, and veterans programs and we can keep our small, rural Post Offices," Seal said.

"The current administration seems to be saying that American businessmen, farmers, and workers are inefficient and cannot compete in international markets. The truth is that the administration's irresponsible fiscal policy has run up billions in deficits in the past five years and resulted in an overwhelmingly strong dollar. That means that Americans have had to compete in an unfair economic environment because their products were priced artificially high," Seal said.

The children of Lois Green appreciate the love extended by all, following our Mother's passing. We are once again reminded that being from this part of the country is indeed our greatest blessing. The incredible generosity of our West Texas family members and friends is the essence of that blessing. God Bless you greatly.
