STORMS SLAM AREA

WATER, WATER, EVERYWHERE Rain, storms, and hail blasted this area last week, dumping two to three inches of hail in some places on Wednesday afternoon. The highways were being cleared of hail in the above picture.

SWIM IN THE PARK? — The above picture looks like a beautiful river flowing through the city park. The huge amount of water ran through the park and under the bridge on Main Street, flooding the road that runs by the park. This picture was shot from behind the Methodist Church parsonage.

THE LAKE IS FULL — Jameson Lake, east of Matador, was full and running over after the rain on Sunday afternoon. This picture was shot from Hwy. 70, with a view of the water as it flows into Jameson Lake.

Benefits From Scripture

The holy Scriptures reveal to us clear moral guidelines to live by. They will not always be in the form of simple do's and don'ts. Our God designed Scripture to give moral orientation to people living in any culture, in any age, and in any moral climate. Indeed God Himself is the absolute standard and while matters such as motive and local custom are of great importance, there are moral absolutes in the very structure of the universe. How do we find them? How can our consciences be reoriented?

It is through the Scriptures that God gives us light on morality. This is because they reveal God Himself and therefore the highest of standards. Study the Scriptures with a willingness to pay the cost of obedience and order will replace confusion in your life. "Through thy precepts I get understanding; therefore I hate every false way" (Psalm 119:104). It is the understanding which comes from the Scriptures which enables us to live a life of faith. Faith will orient and stabilize us. There are two great benefits!

Scripture does even more. Truth liberates. The Scriptures not only reveals a standard but also sets us free to keep it. This is what makes God's Word so different from any other ethical system. The Scriptures are powerful. Read Acts 20:32 and read of the power. A study of the Scriptures will have a great influence in shaping behavior patterns. When good moral behavior patterns are demonstrated, they are a benefit to any culture or any age and in any climate.

TODDLERS IN CAR CRASHES

Over a million children each year are involved in crashes and toddlers are significantly less protected than infants, according to a study.

"Children in Car Crashes: Analysis of Data for Injury and Use of Restraints," published in the June 1994 issue of Pediatrics, reports that toddlers spend more time in cars than either younger or older children. In the study, the rates of involvement in crashes were highest for 2-5 year old children and for 14 year olds.

Findings revealed that optimal restraint use declined from 76 percent for infants to 29 percent for 3 year olds. Injury rates increased from 2.9 (infants) to 4.75 (3 year olds) per 1000.

Children in the rear seat were found to have fewer injuries. Among infants and toddlers riding in appropriate restraints in the rear, only 17 percent were injured, however, only 30 percent of the 1-4 year olds were riding in the rear, compared to 47 percent of the infants.

Most babies under age 1 (76 percent) were found to be in child safety seats. However, optimal restraint protection for children over age 2 dropped dramatically from age 2 through 4. Less than 30 percent of 3-year-old children were riding restrained in child safety seats or boosters, while the portion of 4-year-old children optimally restrained was even less, under 20 percent.

According to Janie Harris, passenger safety specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, a child should ride in the child safety seat until he or she outgrows it. The five-point harness system offers the most protection since the child is restrained over each leg, over each shoulder and at the crotch. When the child's head reaches the top of the safety seat, move the child to a belt-positioning booster (BPB) and use the vehicle's lap/shoulder belt. The belt-positioning booster is designed specifically to improve three-point belt fit for children who have outgrown convertible safety seats. If the vehicle does not have lap/shoulder belts in the rear seat, use the booster seat with the shield and lap belt.

Deborah Davis Stewart, editor of Safe Ride News, emphasizes that parents need to realize the true risk of injury to their children in motor vehicles and to be assertive in requiring their young children to ride buckled, especially toddlers and school-age children. This may be a challenge since children become more independent and may "push their parents' limits" during these years.

During 1994, Texas Transportation Institute, conducted observational surveys and found only 53.9 percent of the children under age 4 were correctly restrained. Observational surveys conducted in rural communities often reveal as low as 33 percent of the children are being restrained.

Safety of our young children, especially toddlers must become a priority. If parents need more information about child safety, contact your County Extension agent or call the Texas Department of Health "SafeRiders," 1-800-252-8255.

The study showed that there was one fatality for every 1000 crashes for restrained children compared to one fatality for every 288 crashes for children riding unrestrained.

FINANCIAL ADVICE FOR YOUNG PROFESSIONALS

Q: I think I might lose my job soon. What can I do to prepare financially?

A: Cut back on all unnecessary expenses immediately. Pay down credit cards, but don't cancel your cards, because you may need the credit to tide you over. Once you're unemployed, contact all your creditors and tell them you've lost your job, but fully intend to pay your bills. Ask if you can arrange a payment plan you can afford. A financial adviser may be able to help you further. If you don't have an adviser, contact the International Association for Financial Planning, 1-800-945-IAFP, for a free listing of financial advisers in your area.

Educational programs of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, disability, religion, age, or national origin.

Special thanks and recognition goes to Betty Bearden. Mrs. Bearden not only made all of the delicious cinnamon rolls for our students, but also fixed all of the taco meat for the evening. Thank you so much Betty for all you do. Also area businesses that have helped out "above and beyond the call of duty" are Matador Variety, Thacker Supply, and Thacker Jewelry. Year to year they help P.T.O. projects not just through discounts, but also donate merchandise to the project graduation which is greatly appreciated and they need to be commended for their participation year to year, and they also give of their time to personally help. So please kids, next time you are in one of these stores or see Mrs. Bearden let them know that you do appreciate all they did. If anyone was missed we apologize and please let us know.

Thank you all,

Since June is Romance Month at the Library, I want to highlight one of our new romance books: The Unfastened Heart by Lane Von Herzen. The critics say that this romance selection is "the most lyrical, extravagantly sensual novel ever to address the splendors and sorrows of love." A mother's circle of friends all get together to play matchmaker for their friend's daughter Mariela. The results of this matchmaking conspiracy are filled with magic and uncertainty. Dancing on Snowflakes by Malcolm Ross-Macdonald is also a new romantic read in the Library. It is a novel set in Elizabethan times with men in evening capes and ladies in ball gowns. For these and many other books with a romantic heart, come to the Library for Romance...by the book.

We wish to thank James Bearden for his memorial to Allie Hart, a book by Sam Brown, a western entitled The Long Season. Sam Brown lives in Adrian, Texas, and is a working cowboy as well as a writer. We appreciate Mr. Bearden's generosity in donating this book in memory of Mrs. Hart.

Another new book in the Library is Writers of the Purple Sage (!). This book is a mystery that introduces Jolie Wyatt, a sleuth in a small Texas town. You will want to read this mystery if for no other reason than the play on words in the title. The Christmas Bow Murders is another new mystery and can be read in June as well as in December. Charlotte MacLeod's new mystery, The Odd Job, featuring Sarah Kelling and Max Bitterston, is also a new addition to our library.

In non-fiction, new books include Full Circle, an autobiography by Dan Jansen that describes his gold-medal performance in the '94 Winter Olympics, and Woof! My Twenty-Five Years of Training Dogs by Matthew Margolis. I wish I had read this book a few years ago when my German Shepherd was so unmanageable. Finally, a new non-fiction offering with the intriguing title of Cleopatra's Nose, by Daniel J. Borstin. This selection features stories behind the stories, relating unusual happenings during events with which we are all familiar. The book's foreword begins, "Cleopatra's nose, had it been shorter, the whole face of the world would have been changed. When we focus on turning points in history we recognize the crucial role of the accidental and the trivial."

The library has just what you need for your summer reading. Check out one of these new selections or delve into the older books in the collection for a reading good time.

Daniel Alexander Named All-American Collegiate Scholar

Daniel Alexander

Only scholars selected by a school official or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the USAA. These are awards few students can ever hope to attain.

Daniel, who attends McMurry University, was nominated for this national award by Dr. Paul Jungmeyer, Vice-President for Academic Affairs.

Daniel will appear in the All-American Collegiate yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in American's history. Certainly, winners of the All-American Collegiate Awards should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects All-American Collegiate Scholars upon the exclusive recommendation by teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors. Once awarded, the students may be recognized by the USAA for other honors.

Daniel is the son of Alvin and Seven Alexander of Matador. His grandparents are Joe and Billie Dean Smith of Matador, and the late Albert and Nell Alexander of Benjamin.

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Daniel Alexander has been named an All-American Collegiate Scholar.

The USAA has established the All-American Collegiate Award Program to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. The All-American Collegiate Scholars must earn a 3.3, or higher, grade happened?" "I fell out of bed," answered the boy. "Why?" asked the uncle. "Maybe," sighed the boy, "I stayed too close where I got in."

Have you ever wondered why you fall every time you're tempted, Christian? It's because you stay too close where you got in.

You hear without heeding, profess without progressing, seek without sharing, and worship without working. Grow in grace, won't you?

A little boy kept falling out of bed. No matter what his parents did, they couldn't keep him in bed.

An uncle came to visit, and during the night he heard a thump and a cry. Running to the boy's room, he asked, "What

Traffic Signs Vandalized

With the arrival of spring, Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) has noted an increase in traffic sign theft and vandalism.

Although the signs are quickly replaced, and no one has been injured due to missing or damaged signs, the costs associated with this crime are high. Damaged signs pose a danger to the traveling public, and the funds spent to replace them could be spent elsewhere.

Taxpayers in the Childress district spent more than $28,000 last year to replace stolen and vandalized signs along state roadways. Statewide, taxpayers spent more than $8 million replacing signs damaged by natural disasters, accidents, and vandals.

Wood and metal signs cost approximately $10 per square foot to produce.

The costs to install replacement signs vary depending on the amount of time and equipment needed.

People are reminded that in Texas it is against the law to possess a sign without a permit, and the state does not sell signs or issue permits to possess them. In addition, if the loss to TxDOT is more than $1,500 it is a felony.

Counties included in TxDOT's Childress district include: Briscoe, Childress, Cottle, Collingsworth, Dickens, Donley, Foard, Hall, Hardeman, King, Knox, Motley, and Wheeler.

Motorists are encouraged to write down the license plate number and contact their local law enforcement official if they see anyone tampering with a traffic sign.

Never undertake anything for which you wouldn't have the courage to ask the blessings of Heaven.

IMPACTS OF FARM PROGRAMS

1. On Farm Income

One of the objectives of U.S. farm policy has been to stabilize the wide swings in prices and income that are an increasingly important problem for farmers. Widely fluctuating market signals make it difficult for producers to efficiently plan and allocate their resources. Even farmers who have adequate incomes when averaged over a period of years may not be able to weather a few years of reduced income under a heavy burden of debt. A number of studies indicate that without farm programs, prices received by farmers would have been 10 to 40 percent lower, and new farm income would have been 20 to 60 percent lower during 1955-72. Even with the market-oriented changes that have reduced program costs in recent years, direct government payment still make up a substantial chunk of net farm income, averaging 29 percent of net farm income from 1984-

93. Many farmers rely on farm program benefits to balance rising production costs that reduce profit margins. Who gets these payments? In 1993, 72 percent of the direct payments went to the 30 percent of farms with full-time operators. These are the commercial farm operators whose principal occupation is farming, and who rely heavily on their farm income to pay the bills. Do commodity programs make a difference? In 1993, commodity program participants had an average net farm income of about $19,000, compared to about $12,000 for nonparticipants. The greater number of program participants in commercial sales classes (over $50,000 in farm sales) partially accounts for the difference. Producers of nonsubsidized crops may not receive direct government payments, but many benefit from marketing orders, which can specify the quality of quantity of products going to market. Livestock and poultry producers benefit from the price stability of feed grains and oilseeds which go into protein meal.

Motley County Volunteer Fire Department News

by Alan Bingham

On Monday, May 1, 1995, the Matador Volunteer Fire Department had two hours of training. Training officer Marshall and Fire Chief Williams conducted practice in use of all types of fire streams. At the training ground in north Matador, firemen practiced on a car on fire using different nozzles and nozzle sizes to suppress the fire.

officer Marshall and Fire Chief Williams were in charge of discussion of Fire Fighters Protective clothing. All members discussed various types of protective clothing including SCBA, boots, gloves and helmets. We stressed proper care and cleaning of clothes. We completed two hours of training.

There were no fires for the month of May however we had over 78 hours of storm watch by the Department.

Rainfall totaling up to 3 inches fell across much of the High Plains providing many farmers a much needed dose of moisture for dryland cotton fields.

According to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) the recent rains haven't been totally beneficial from a coverage standpoint. Much of the dryland cotton acreage west of Lubbock remains too dry to plant.

Producers who have not received enough moisture to plant their acreage and are considering "dry-planting" cotton have been advised by Extension Cotton Specialist Kater Hake to only dry-plant a portion of their acres. He suggests leaving an amount equal to what can reasonably be planted in 4-5 days unplanted so that if a planting rain is received the producer can easily take advantage of the situation.

In addition to the rain several thousand acres will probably need to be replanted as result of the recent barrage of storms. Scattered reports of crop loss due to hail have also been heard although no firm estimates of the extent of this damage are available at this time.

"This past week has significantly brightened the prospects of many thousands of dryland cotton acres across the High Plains region," says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson. "We expect to see a dramatic jump in the number of dryland acres planted, unfortunately we are still in a deficit moisture situation and will need some timely summer rains to keep the crop going through harvest."

Johnson notes that strong prices continue to encourage producers to do whatever they can to make a cotton crop in 1995. A preliminary look at the volume of marketing's and the prices received by producers appears to back up this feeling.

Through the month of March a total of 3.483 million bales of cotton have been marketed by producers. Monthly totals indicate that marketing's are beginning to taper off as 1994 crop supplies decline.

Marketing's for the month of March totaled 435,000 bales at an average price received of 86.5 cents per pound. The preliminary price received by farmers for the month of April is reported by the National Agricultural Statistics Service at 90.6 cents per pound.

All of the 1995 marketing and price figures included in this report are subject to revision by the NASS. A table showing the monthly marketing's and prices received by producers through March 1995 is included in the chart below.

Preliminary Marketing's and Prices Received Through March 1995

Sign-Up Dates Set For Wetlands Reserve-Program

Texas landowners will be able to enroll eligible acreage into USDA's third Wetlands Reserve Program (WRP) sign-up from May 30 to June 30, 1995. Landowners can offer their land for the program at their local USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) office. The program restores and conserves former wetlands through the purchase of easements from landowners.

The WRP provides a unique opportunity for farmers to retire marginal agricultural lands and reap the benefits of having wetlands on their property. WRP obtains conservation easements from participating landowners and provides cost-share payments for wetland restoration.

Landowners eligible for WRP include restorable wetland areas that have been used intensively for cropping and forage production. Adjacent land necessary to protect the restored wetland will also be included. Limited areas of natural wetland, plus non-wetland areas that buffer the wetland from disturbance or to establish reasonable field boundaries will be included.

NRCS and U.S. fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) will determine eligibility of both land and landowners during the sign-up. Landowners sign an "intention" to enroll their land in WRP. After the sign-up period, environmental benefits and cost estimates of each intention will be compiled and ranked. Intentions that provide the most environmental benefits at the least cost will be selected.

The NRCS and FWS jointly help landowners develop plans. Each plan describes intentions and objectives as to restoration, acceptable practices during and after the restoration, landowners requirements, and other details. After completion and approval of the plan by the agencies and the landowner, the landowner decides whether or not to participate in WRP.

The program allows for permanent or 30-year easements, but priority will be given to permanent easements. By restoring and conserving the wetlands on these easements, the wetland values and function are preserved for future generations while maintaining the land in private ownership.

"WRP provides an excellent financial incentive to retire marginal cropland while retaining some agricultural use," said Gary Valentine, biologist for the NRCS in Temple, Texas. "There is also public benefit in improved water quality, floodwater control, and wildlife habitat."

Anyone interested in the WRP program should contact their local NRCS office (formerly Soil Conservation Service).

Social Security Tips

by Mary Jane Shanes
Social Security Manager, Plainview

Here are some of the questions that I receive on a regular basis:

Q: My mother is 62 years old and totally dependent on me financially. If I die, would she be eligible for Social Security survivors benefits on my work record?

A: For your mother to be eligible for survivors benefits based on your work record, she must be at least 62 years old and dependent on you for at least half of her support. Since your mother meets the age requirement, is dependent on you for at least half of her support, your mother may be eligible for survivors benefits.

Q: I'll be 65 years old next year and plan on retiring. I know I'll be eligible for Medicare when I turn 65. Will my wife, who will also turn 65 next year, but who has never worked, be eligible for Medicare based on my work record?

A: Under certain conditions, a spouse may be eligible for Medicare hospital insurance based on your work record. Contact Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 for more information.

Q: I pay my neighbor to clean my house every week. I heard there are new rules for reporting wages for household help. Can you tell me about the new changes?

A: If you hire someone to work in your home, a new law makes it easier for you to pay Social Security taxes on their earnings. You'll report the earnings once a year instead of quarterly and, depending on how much you employ outside help, you'll pay less tax. Workers under age 18 are exempt unless household employment is their main occupation. Effective with 1994 earnings, no Social Security tax is due unless the earnings are at least $1,000. In those cases where a household worker was paid less than $1,000 during the year, you and your employee will receive refunds for the Social Security taxes paid. The employee won't lose his or her Social Security credits. If you have questions about the changes in reporting household employment and paying the Social Security taxes or getting your refund, call the Internal Revenue Service's toll-free number, 1-800-829-1040.

Q: I was injured in an automobile accident five years ago and began receiving Social Security disability benefits. Although I'm still disabled, I would like to try to work again. Will my benefits stop as soon as I begin working? Will I lose my Medicare coverage?

A: Social Security has special rules, or "work incentives" that provide cash benefits and Medicare while you attempt to return to work. For more detailed information, call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 and ask for the publication "Working While Disabled... How Social Security Can Help" (SSA Publication No. 05-10095).

Q: I called Social Security and asked if Medicare pays for Nursing Home care. The Social Security representative explained that Medicare does help pay for "skilled" nursing care, but Medicare does not pay for "custodial" care. I'm really confused. Can you tell me the difference between skilled nursing care and custodial care?

A: Custodial care is the kind of care usually associated with long-term nursing home stays. It includes help with walking, bathing, dressing, eating, getting in and out of bed, and taking medicine. Custodial care can be safely and reasonably provided by people without skilled medical training. As the Social Security representative told you, this care is not covered by Medicare.

Skilled nursing care is care provided by a Medicare-approved skilled nursing institution that specializes in providing skilled nursing care or skilled rehabilitation services. Such care can be provided or supervised only by licensed nursing personnel or professional therapists. To be eligible for Medicare coverage in a skilled nursing facility, you must also meet certain other conditions. Call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 if you need more information.

Q: I've read in the newspaper that there is a new law that affects the way Social Security and Supplemental Security Income disability benefits are paid to people who are disabled because of drug addiction and/or alcoholism. Does Social Security have any material on this new law?

A: There is a new fact sheet called "Disability Based on Drug Addiction or Alcoholism" (SSA Publication No. 05-10047) that describes the new law. Effective March 1995, the new rules apply to people who are already getting benefits, or who become newly entitled to Social Security benefits because drug addiction and/or alcoholism prevents them from working. To get a copy of this factsheet, call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213.

"For we are God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do."

Tim Green Named Teacher of the Year

Tim Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Green of Matador, was recently named Teacher of the Year at St. Edward's University in Austin. New College students voted him New College's outstanding teacher for the second year in a row.

In selecting Tim, students cited his caring attitude, his respect for students "as adults and equals", his wit, his openness to varied viewpoints, and the intellectual value of his classes.

These strengths were cited on Tim's course evaluations as well. "An A+ for a very bright, caring, humorous instructor," wrote one fall 1994 student, while another concluded, "Dr. Green is intelaturally secure. It is the highest compliment I can give a professor."

Tim joined the New College program in 1988 and immediately began making significant contributions in teaching, advising, and university service.

When asked to reflect on his teaching experiences, Tim stressed the importance of relating classroom learning to real-life situations, as adult students are "putting a 'real world' test to much of what I say".

He calls himself "the luckiest English professor in Texas, for everyday I get to work with motivated, mature students who bring a no-nonsense, goals-oriented approach to their education."

For we are God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do.

Letter To The Editor

The month of May signifies Graduation Day in many of our minds. After logging more than 2,000 miles and attending 5 graduations, I have proclaimed myself an expert (HA!) attendee. My trips have taken me from Merkel, Texas to Vernon, Texas Jr. College, 2 Texas Tech graduations, one Monterey High School graduation in Lubbock, and last, but far from least, Motley County High School.

I can honestly say, of the five attended, Motley County High stands out far above the rest. I don't know when I have ever seen a more respectful group of people!! I sat in awe as the procession began and complete hush fell across the audience as the 17 Seniors of the 1995 graduating class marched down the aisle. How nice to be allowed to go to the front of the auditorium and take pictures before the program started!

What fun, all the rules were broken (whose rules I don't have a clue!) as Pastor Lawrence began his mini sermon and actually had the nerve to mention the name of Jesus. The only thing that could have possibly made his sermon better, was if he had taken an offering!!

Talk about community support!! As Mrs. Keith began the presentation of the scholarships I was so impressed at how she communicated (without judgement) the plans of the 17 Seniors. Not all kids choose to continue their formal education, but you can sure bet that life will give them her own diploma and they are truly every bit as important to our healthy communities as those that choose the road to higher education and Mrs. Keith did a great job of communicating her support.

I thought the the Salutatory and Valedictory speeches were truly heartfelt and I think both Mandi and Heather will be able to look back with pride upon their accomplishments and the grace with which they accepted their honors.

Kathy Shorter's song was beautifully sung and seemed to say it all, "It Is Hard To Say Good Bye".

Well, after the evening was over, I didn't think it could have gotten any better, but I happened to be up at 5:15 a.m. when Mandi came home from the all night party. It was such a blast to see all of the goodies that the Motley County community had helped to provide to make their special evening even more special. If in my lifetime, I choose to make another move, I just may move to Motley County, where people seem to still know the meaning of the word respect, honor, love and community spirit!!

Sincerely,
Renae Ferguson
