C.J.C. Registrar Speaks to Seniors

Leonard Selvidge, registrar at Clarendon Junior College in Clarendon, spoke to the senior class March 11, about the need of some training or education after graduating from high school.

He extended a welcome to C.J.C., and stated that it had "A home-like atmosphere." In his speech, Mr. Selvidge recommended that college students should study college catalogs "Like they were text books."

During an answer and question period, Mr. Selvidge explained many questions about college such as: Do college catalogs change, and what is a general course study? He stated that the catalogs do change, but not to a great degree, and that it probably would not upset a degree plan. He also, detailed a general course studies, which is a student taking subjects that will be required in most majors like, English, math, and social studies.

In closing, Mr. Selvidge, expressed again the importance of some further education or training of some kind. He said, "College doesn't cure all ills," and "It is not for everyone."

MGS Classes Go On Field Trip

By Lance Jameson

The seventh and eighth grade pupils left Matador at 8:30 a.m. March 12, on a field trip to Quanah. Mrs. Charlie Johnson, Mr. Arthur Fair, and Mr. Jake Edwards accompanied the class.

First, the class was guided through the Gypsum mill, and a sheetrock factory. They saw a mine, how it was blasted, and the way sheetrock is made for homes. Each student was given a sample of the white gyp rock.

The students visited the Quanah Cotton Oil Company after lunch. They were shown the many uses of cotton seed and oil. One example is how cake is made that is fed to livestock. The Company gave the students pencils, and also paid for their lunch at Dutch's Restaurant.

On the way home, the class stopped at an Army Surplus Store. The students came home with caps, helmets, and even gas masks.

All the students agreed that they learned many things and had a very good time. This is the kind of education they like.

SENIOR HIGHLIGHT

by Laura Jacobs

Darrel Alton Marshall was born on March 4, 1951, to Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Marshall. Darrel stands six feet and one inch from the floor, and he has blue eyes and blond hair.

Football has been the big thing in Darrel's life since entering MHS. He has lettered each of the four years he has played. He received honorable mention as tackle in the district in 1967. In 1968, he was chosen as co-captain of the Mighty Matadors. He also received the Dayton Graham Award, All-District offensive tackle, and honorable mention for the All South Plains Team.

Other than football he has run track for four years and played baseball for three years. He was a member of FFA for three years. He served on the shop team, the livestock judging team and the land judging team. He was a member of the M-Club and secretary of the senior class.

When he is not at school or playing sports, Darrel likes to drive his car, eat, and watch movies.

After graduation, Darrel plans to attend South Plains Junior College in Levelland.

Judge Campbell Explains Courts To Senior Class

Forrest Campbell, County Judge, spoke to the senior government class on the judicial process March 14. In his lecture, Judge Campbell summarized the judicial system of the counties in Texas.

He went into detail about the three local courts: District Courts, County Courts, and Justice of the Peace Courts. He explained what cases were tried in the different courts, and the different branches of courts that assist these three main ones. He also explained the jurisdiction of the courts. He stated that all courts handle civil matters and criminal matters. He also defined meanings of misdemeanors and felonies.

On the functions of court procedures, he outlined how a court case is carried through, and the bail works including how the amount is set, and what happens to the money. He also stated that the accused chose whether or not he wanted a trial by jury or by a judge.

Judge Campbell stated that 90% of the cases he handled had juries. He also said, "Four out of five of the criminal matters I handle are charges of driving while intoxicated."

In closing, Mr. Campbell, said that the purpose of courts is to make sure that all people are to have a fair trial in a court.

Two Classes Hear Student Aid Talk

by Laura Jacobs

Mr. Milton Morris, from Canyon, visited in Matador High School March 14. He was in the school explaining to juniors and seniors about students aid programs.

Mr. Morris showed pictures of students receiving financial aid in college and told of their improvement and success.

After his talk Mr. Morris, counseled with students and their parents who were interested in one of his programs.

Mr. Morris said that in these days and times no one had an excuse for not attending some kind of school after high school.

Retailing Career Is Program Topic

by Judy Marrs

Miss Elaine Crider of downtown Hemphill-Wells in Lubbock spoke to the FHA Wednesday morning, March 12, about careers available for women in retailing.

Emphasizing the "fantastic" opportunities in retailing to the Future Homemakers, the fashion co-ordinator listed job areas such as merchandising, store operations, sales promotions, personnel and controls division.

"One must be patient and be willing to work to the top," Miss Crider said. "Your sales book dictates your salary and advancement," she continued.

She stated the value of a college education in the ever-changing fashion world by saying a college graduate could go from sales clerk to buyer in two to five years.

MHS Test Skills in National Math Test

Several Matador High School students tested their math skills by taking the Annual High School Mathematics Examination March 11. The test was given this date throughout the United States and Canada.

The three students scoring the highest were: Elaine Dixon, senior daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Dixon; Steve Bostick, senior son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bostick; and Darrell Cruse, junior son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cruse.

Elaine, who scored the highest in the school, will receive a pin. Steve scored second highest, with Darrell following in third. Many other awards are given to schools with the highest scores in Canada and U.S., different regions, and to the highest individual score out of the number of students who took the examination.

The Annual High School Mathematics Examination is jointly sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America, Society of Actuaries, Mu Alpha Theta, and the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. It is hoped that the examination will further an interest in mathematics and in fields requiring math as a background.

The nature of the examination, by almost any standard, is difficult. If a student is able to solve correctly even a few of the problems, he should feel a sense of genuine accomplishment.

Dear High School

by Lance Jameson

The eight years in grade school for the '68 eighth grade graduating class have not been all "rosy," but they have enjoyed most of it. They have had good teachers that taught important things. The teachers, like most of the parents, demanded respect and cared about the class's future. A thanks go to these teachers.

As the class enters high school next September, its members are not bringing any geniuses or brains; but they have a shortage of dumb "dodos." The class makes average grades and most of the students want to learn about different things.

There are not any meek followers, because they expect the upperclassmen to set good examples, give good leadership and be nice about the greeness!

The class is bringing: A pocket full of dreams that they may help in keeping America a proud country so its people may have peace and love for one another. In other words, the class of '69 wants to be good American citizens!

sportsmen with fighting spirit that keep trying to win.

There are no outstanding showmen; but they like to entertain with their little talents every once in a while.

There are no great political leaders; but they are not extremists or rioters either. They do not believe in getting teachers fired, missing classes or that not following school rules help anything!

There are not any meek followers, because they expect the upperclassmen to set good examples, give good leadership and be nice about the greeness!

The class is bringing: A pocket full of dreams that they may help in keeping America a proud country so its people may have peace and love for one another. In other words, the class of '69 wants to be good American citizens!

"Wichita Lineman" is Theme of Banquet Given for Young People

A Texas Tech Red Raiders' lineman from Lubbock was principal speaker Friday night at a banquet featuring the "Wichita Lineman," given for high school students by the Baptist Woman's Missionary Society.

The speaker, Jim Moylan and Richard Campbell, defensive end on the Tech team, who supplied the musical entertainment for the banquet, both told of their experiences as members of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

"You don't win by your mistakes, although you can learn from them, in the game of life," Moylan said, upon being introduced by Rev. Larry Heard.

"If you listen to the Lord, he will tell you what to do... you can't beat the Ten Commandments or the Golden Rule for a guide to the right way to live, or to play the game."

"Another thing to remember is that there are little people watching every move you make... you are a hero to some little fellow, who will imitate your every action... if you make a mistake, then he will also make a mistake."

"Also, you must have the will to win, instead of just a wish to win. Your whole life is a game and the Lord is calling the plays." He opened his talk with several Aggie jokes which delighted his audience including High School Principal Wayland Moore, a graduate of A&M.

Campbell, who was born and reared in Matador, in telling of his experiences since attending Tech pointed out that it was not easy to speak before so many who knew so much about him and his faults.

"I was going in the wrong direction and was failing in my goal, when I became a member of the group known as the Fellowship of Christian Athletes," he said. "Since then, everything has been different. I love the Lord with all my heart and am happy in what I am doing. Now is the best time for each of you to start out on the right road... don't wait until later."

Campbell, whose singing has gained popularity over the state, included one number from the musical "TV-BC" in which he starred last summer at Six Flags Over Texas, in the group of popular songs which he sang. He was accompanied at the piano by Ron Williams, also a Texas Tech student.

Moylan, who has completed his studies at Tech, has been signed by the Minnesota Vikings. He was an All-SWC defensive guard and 1968 co-captain, and was named outstanding lineman of the 1967 season. He was reared at Eastland, is married and the father of a four-year-old son.

Despite the heavy sleet and snow which began to fall Friday afternoon, the banquet, held in the basement of First Baptist Church was attended by approximately 90 young people and adult leaders.

Morris Price served as Master of Ceremonies. Invocation was by Aaron Timmons, the welcome was extended by Mrs. Stuart Dixon, president of the WMS, and response was by Virginia Green. Pat Nichols gave the benediction.

Decorations featured the theme, with telephone poles and wires extending the length of the tables, with miniature linemen climbing the poles. Drawings of teenagers using the telephone decorated the walls.

Cited By Publisher

Moylan and Campbell were cited by Chas. A. Guy, Editor and Publisher of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal in his column, "The Plainsman," dated February 4, as follows:

YOU COULD have heard a pin drop at the Downtown Rotary Club meeting the other day.

That was when two of the most celebrated members of the Tech football team were telling about their experiences as members of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the aims of that national organization.

Jim Moylan, the big, bruising defensive lineman who played in the Blue-Gray game this year and has just been tapped by the Minnesota Vikings of the NFL; and Richard Campbell, SWC All-Star defensive end, were the speakers. They hit as hard in their talks as they do on the football field.

As they said, they aren't a bit afraid to stand up and tell anybody who might care that they believe mightily in value of faith on and off the field. They're willing, any time, anywhere, to testify for Jesus Christ, and they said so.

They were terrific and when they got through their audience of business and professional men—mostly old enough to be their fathers—applauded them roundly.

IT IS pertinent to know, too, that Jim Moylan and Richard Campbell are only two of about 80 athletes on the Texas Tech campus who belong to the Fellowship. They are only two of many who speak on the subject when asked—not only to civic groups, but also to church and Sunday School gatherings and, especially, to audiences composed of Junior

Sunshine Club Begins New Year

First meeting of the year for the Sunshine Club was held Wednesday, March 12, at 2 p.m. in the Youth Room of the Methodist Church Educational building.

Mrs. Margaret Lipscomb, leader, called the meeting to order. A program of music was presented by two guests, Marion Woodruff, singing several vocal numbers accompanied at the piano by Earline Jameson, who also accompanied the group in singing several songs, led by Mrs. Woodruff.

Names and telephone numbers of friends were distributed to the members, to call for one month, when they will receive another number. Cards were signed by the group, to send to Mrs. Iva Meason in Assembly Nursing Home, Crosbyton.

Next meeting of the club will be April 9, with Mae Simpson in charge of entertainment. Roll call will be answered with an April Fool joke.

Attending the meeting last week, in addition to those mentioned were Mildred Fitzgerald, Arrie Aulick, Cora Carter, Mary Slover, Christine Colley, Ina Price, May Cammack, Ivy Cooper, Bertha Eubank, Lou Watson, Stella Tilton, Mae Simpson and Vinie Keltz.

and Senior High School kids.

The Rev. Dan Yearly, who ministers in the youth field for First Baptist Church and himself a former Hardin-Simmons football player, also talked. He gave some of the background of the Fellowship which originated in the mind of a University of Oklahoma coach some 15 to 18 years ago.

The Rotary program these young men presented has to be described as outstanding.

TEXAS TECH'S FCA group is one of the largest among the nation's colleges. Its membership reads like a "Who's Who Among Red Raider Athletes." Joe Matulick, the football quarterback, currently is president, Doug McCutcheon and Larry Hargrave, running backs, also are officers. With only a few hours notice, Joe Matulick went over to Floydada recently to speak to a group of Baptist men, buttressed by high school athletes especially invited. When he finished, his audience stood up and cheered.

Berl Huffman, the veteran freshman coach at Tech, says there's scarcely a night when some Tech FCA member isn't speaking somewhere.

Berl always has been interested in the organization and, when asked, helps it in any way he can. But he quickly explains the former Tech Coach Merrill Green really got it underway here and that Grant Teaff, another Raider extensor, "gave it its greatest push."

THE FELLOWSHIP of Christian Athletes is not confined to amateurs. Many professionals are active in its ranks, including football's Buddy Dial, Bobby Richardson, the ex-Yankee great; Brooks Robinson, perennial All-Star of the Baltimore Orioles, and Manager Al Dark, of the Cleveland Indians. The list is almost endless.

The Athletic Department at Tech is proud of the FCA group here and its members are doubly proud to be a part of it.

Folks in these parts, generally, will be pleased to know about the FCA at Tech. The good the Raider FCA-ers can do for younger athletes and others in a spiritual way is impossible to exaggerate.

Grass Sodders Made By Former Resident

E. W. Blackburn of Richland, former Matador resident, is the inventor of a Bermuda grass sodder which he has perfected after five years experimentation. A recent article in the Corsicana Daily Sun describes the implement as follows:

"The sodder is responsible for 160 acres of Bermuda grass which was once needle grass on Blackburn's farm in addition to other improved acreage.

"The invention is a simple machine according to the inventor and inexpensive to make by his methods. The sodder holds about one cubic yard or 500 pounds of sod. Every farm has some Bermuda on it and the land is easily prepared for the operation of sodding.

Follows Behind Tractor

"The machine follows behind a tractor or three-point hitch. The sod is scooped up into a box and dropped into the plow furrow. One man can perform the operation and two make it an easy task.

"Blackburn, who was raised on a farm, began work on the device to make his work simpler. He has always made it a practice to make farm work handy and economical.

"Jack Sherman of Corsicana Grader and Machine Co., says that Blackburn has 'quite a machine. It does everything he says it does. He plows a furrow, scoops up the Bermuda grass in four to six inch strips and places it in the furrows; a simple and efficient operation."

"Blackburn says that the machine could be an asset to small farmers especially. All farms in the area have some Bermuda grass and the machine makes the transplanting from one locale to the other a simple job. Land values increase with grass improvement and certain government programs would help cover initial expenses.

"Thus far, Blackburn has built 13 of the machines, successively improving each one. His farm near Richland is an excellent example of what can be done with the device."

Worked at Ice Plant

Blackburn was employed here for 13 years, at the ice plant, coming here in March, 1949.

He writes that he is now in business with a manufacturer in Rice, Tex., and also that the Ford Tractor Co. flew a man down from Detroit, Mich., to look at his sodder.

"The sodder is reasonable enough for the small farmer and large enough for the biggest farmers," he declares. "You just sock it in the ground in a Bermuda spot and come up in about 15 seconds with 5 to 8 hundred pounds of sod in 6" chunks, straddle a buster furrow and rake it out, then turn around and run the tractor wheel over it and it is there forever. All who have seen it say it is the easiest, fastest and best machine they have ever seen."

Events that affect receipt of monthly social security checks, in addition to address changes, are starting or stopping work (employment), marriage or remarriage in some instances, divorce and death.

Expresses Thanks To Matador Friends

Jack Bradshaw, Assistant to the State ASC Committee, Bryan, in a recent letter to the Tribune expressed appreciation to friends in Matador for the recent recognition accorded him and his wife, Dorene. Following are excerpts from his letter:

"I presume it takes an occasion such as occurred on February 18 to make a person fully aware of the fine folks who live in Matador and also the number of really loyal friends one has.

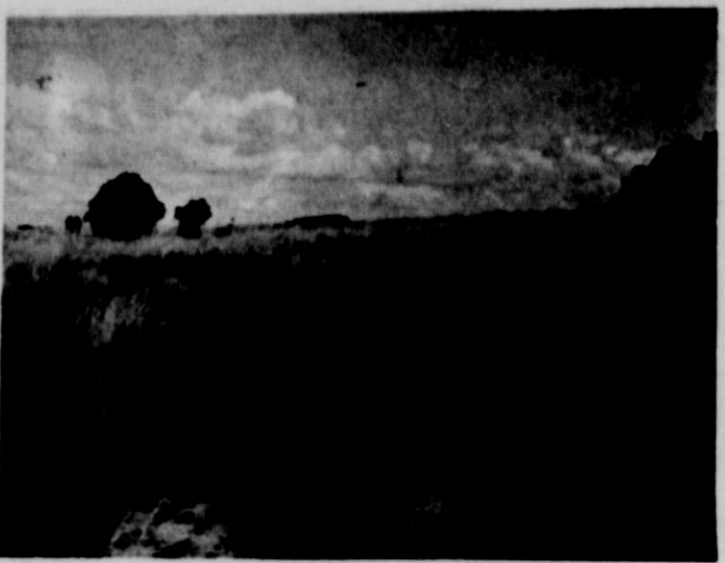

"I am so very proud and humble for the honor shown to me and the declaration of February 18 as 'Jack Bradshaw Day' in Matador. The folks here at the State Office and also at the Washington Office have been very complimentary and I have to keep reminding myself not to get the big head.

"As the occasion arose to review old friendships during the day in Matador, I remembered many folks who offered encouragement to me during my years in Matador and who offered and gave assistance when assistance was needed.

"We are both grateful for the recognition extended to us and we thank you again for your many kindnesses to us during our stay in Matador."

WEEPING LOVEGRASS on the Turner Ranch east of Roaring Springs. Several fields were planted to this grass in Motley County under the soil bank program and will be grazed after expiration of the program. According to several tests of protein analysis during the winter, the grass shows approximately 3.7% protein content. This is higher than most summer grasses cure out with possible exception of blue grama and buffalograss. Winter grazing with a reduced amount of cottonseed cake or protein cubes, plus early spring or summer grazing has proven extremely profitable. Matador Follows Electronic Age

by Sue Robbins

The Matador School is following the space age in the field of communicating with electronic devices. A telelecture was presented in the high school auditorium, March 14, by the joint efforts of General Telephone Company of the Southwest and PESO. (Panhandle Educational Services Organization). A telelecture is a classroom discussion by phone. It can be compared with a radio program, except the students can ask questions through a microphone. Madeleine L'Engle, author of "A Wrinkle In Time," was under fire of the students' questions during the Matador telelecture. "A Wrinkle In Time," studied by the sixth grade through the PESO English Program, deals with the fifth dimension in the adventures of three young people in space, and develops the theme of the eternal struggle between good and evil.

Members of Mr. A. L. Fair's sixth grade English class asked the questions. The questions concerned facts, ideas and characters from the book.

Miss L'Engle, who was speaking from New York City, said that she received some of her ideas for her book on a camping trip to Palo Duro Canyon. She also said, "You can't write about anyone you don't know as well as you know your own family."

Miss L'Engle stated that ideas for a story always come out of the things that have happened to her, the things that she is thinking about, and what makes her a human being. She wrote for a year on "A Wrinkle In Time," using her three children as critics. However, she encountered difficulty in publishing her book. Publishing houses did not know whether it was an adult or children's book. One of the deciding factors against the book was that it contained evil.

The book did succeed. It was awarded the John Newberry Medal, 1963. Hans Christian Andersen Runner-up Award, 1964; Sequoyah Award, 1965 and Lewis Carroll Shelf, 1965.

Representatives of PESO here for the telelecture were Mrs. Allegra Bush, elementary specialist and Mrs. Flora Phillips, social science specialist, of Amarillo.

General Telephone officials who were in Matador to witness the experiment were Paul Farrar, Ralls office manager and Henry C. (Hank) Jordan of Brownfield, Area Public Relations Manager.

Genghis and Kubilai Khan."

People Never Bathed

"Little is known about the nation of Mongolians who actually never took a bath in their entire lives," Mrs. Martin explained. "They were a warring barbaric people who had a domain more vast than that of Napoleon and Alexander the Great combined, and then drifted into obscurity as bow and arrow became obsolete."

High praise has been accorded Mrs. Martin's painting by such well-known artists as Peter Hurd, John Meigs and Emilio Caballero, Chairman of the Department of Art at West Texas State University, Canyon.

Work is Commended

Officials of the First National Bank declared, "Conny Martin's excellent interpretation and superb execution of a job of this magnitude and scope cannot be commended highly enough. The surety and boldness with which she attacks the barbarous world of the Khans is equalled only by the truth she renders through the thoroughness of her research. The First National is deeply indebted to Conny Martin for offering not only fourteen powerful works of art, but for giving us a fascinating lesson in history as well."

Mrs. Martin received the major part of her art training at Colorado State College in Greeley, Colo., but has continued to study with outstanding teachers. She has won many awards for her paintings and drawings, and is an active member and teacher in the Lubbock Art Association. She is past president of the Association and has held the office of President of the Board of Directors for the Garden Arts Center.

Her husband, C. B. Martin, is a successful building contractor with Claude Martin and Sons. They have two daughters, Jan and Jody, students at Abilene Christian College. Both are art majors.

Following the club meeting, the group went to the Traweeek home for coffee and cake, and Mrs. Martin remained as over-night guest. She and Mrs. Traweeek, the former Eleanor Mitchell are friends of long standing.

We wish to thank everyone who came out in the snowstorm Saturday morning to help fight our fire which burned our shop and barn. You saved our rent house and probably our home if the gas tanks had exploded. Our appreciation and thanks goes to the operator who called the Turkey Fire department, the ones who called our friends and neighbors for the use of the Flomot fire truck and the Turkey Fire Department. You will never know how much we appreciated everything you did for us.
