

Struggle Over Gun Fatal To Young Man

All right, now, kids, you better begin shooting your letters to Santa Claus through The Herald. As usual, the paper will forward your messages to Old Saint Nick without delay and they also will be published in the paper.

Don't delay. For your annual message to Santa and mail 'em in care of The Herald.

Indications right now are that the members of the Texas Inter-scholastic League will pass the 'eight semester' rule if not the one-year transfer rule, too.

And, what a diversity of opinion there is upon the right or wrong, the expediency, the economy etc. of those rules.

From the school administrator's point of view the view is altogether different than that of the man called the 'fan'.

The school man's idea is to give the boys as much education as possible; football as a contributing factor. The other viewpoint is to let the rest of the school absorb as much as learning as possible but to make sure one squad of boys is set apart for the principal purpose of satisfying the fan's appetite for football on a big scale. Let 'em learn what they can after they've learned and played football.

Don't get the idea we are trying to get a fuss stirred up around here. Just pointing out some of the things entering into the big discussion that is attracting so much attention throughout the state including Big Spring.

It is our belief that if these rules are passed everybody will be happier in a year or so. The rules would be applicable to all schools alike. If they stopped proselytizing, and the myriad "arrogant stump" methods of keeping boys in amateur's clothing whether they are under their garments or not, they would serve a real purpose; lessen the worries of the school men, ease the strain on the pocketbooks of the fans, cause a lot of boys with grid ability to settle down in the home school instead of picking the whole family up and more in four years and taking it off to another football field.

And, we'd still have football teams and district championships, etc.

After all, there are plenty of boys of sufficient mental and physical ability right in each county to supply the needs of the principal high school of the county, if a competent coach is on the job.

Nobody is a greater devotee to the game than this writer. However, there is no getting around the fact that some changes are going to be made by the school league which, after all, is made up of taxpayers to schools in Texas are not very much interested in the football teams of the larger towns and the preponderance of public opinion in the end would swing against what many are pleased to call 'over-emphasis' of high school football.

Might be better to slow down a bit rather than face even more restrictions in a few years; you can't tell what might happen if things are not fixed so that 'importing' would at least be lessened a bit. After all, most of the patrons are taxpayers to schools in Texas are not very much interested in the football teams of the larger towns and the preponderance of public opinion in the end would swing against what many are pleased to call 'over-emphasis' of high school football.

New Oil Drilling Looms Here

Edwards Is Mentioned As Oil Leader

Local Man May Be Named To Succeed Tom Cranfil

FORT WORTH, Nov. 30.—Joseph Edwards, prominent independent oil refiner and pipe line operator of Big Spring is being advanced by his friends to succeed Tom E. Cranfil of Dallas as president of the Independent Petroleum Association of Texas.

The election will take place at the annual meeting of the organization at Dallas on Dec. 15. Mr. Cranfil has announced that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself. The members will select about 75 directors to serve during 1932.

Mr. Edwards has been active during the past year in matters pertaining to the independent branch of the industry, and his sponsors think him competent to assume this position of leadership.

The membership at this meeting also will pass upon the American Petroleum Institute's program (1) of unitization and (2) the acreage content theory of oil production, and will also take up Secretary of Commerce Lamont's three-point program: (1) an interstate compact with machinery to determine and enforce market demand; (2) prevention of development of new fields without a sort of certificate of convenience and necessity; and (3) an international set-up to secure an equation between domestic production and imports.

Cardinal Oil Company Soon To Spud Test

Royalty Deals In Western Sector Reported; North Test Rumored

Reports of negotiations for purchase of royalties, and of preparations for starting one, and perhaps two, new wells in the western section of the Howard county field has created considerable interest in the oil fraternity within the past few days.

This area, which oil men point out, would have caused an uproar of drilling in normal times, has seen only slight development since the Escon No. 1, still an outside well, came in for heavy production. Cardinal Oil company, which is deepening its No. 6 Settles, in section 6, block 32, township 2 south, T & F survey, is reported with materials on location for a new test located in the south end of its lease, which lies between the American Maracabo's two Settles tracts.

If the new Cardinal test becomes a producer three additional locations will be drilled, it is indicated. American Maracabo would be faced with necessity of drilling one off set and the Continental two.

Reports late in the week indicated preparations were being made to drill a test about a half mile north of the Cardinal No. 6 Settles, which shut off water at 2,398 feet and was drilling ahead for the 2,500-foot pay. It has been a producer in the 2,200-foot horizon.

Success of such a test would undoubtedly start the greatest activity the field has seen in many months.

Sleet, Snow, Rain Cover Entire State

Heavy Snowstorm Rages In Guadalupe, El Paso Section

Sleet, snow, rain—Texas was enveloped in nasty weather Monday. Temperature here dropped to 33 degrees Sunday night and drizzling rain at intervals changed to sleet and snow early Monday.

Precipitation here was .09 inch for the 24 hours ending at midnight Sunday but considerably more than that fell within the ensuing 12 hours.

A heavy snowstorm was raging in the El Paso county, extending east to the Guadalupe landing field of American Airways, according to radio advices.

The westbound passenger schedule was canceled this morning by American Airways but a single-motored ship, one of the fleet Steamships of the A. A. fleet, brought the mail this far west. Due to weather, the ship was being held at the field here early this afternoon. Pilot Paul Vance came in on schedule from San Antonio with the mail.

The regular westbound ship of Saturday was forced down near Spur, Texas, when Pilot Rader, circling north of the course to escape blinding weather, had it "close in" on him in that vicinity. He landed the ship early and the mail was brought here at 3 a. m. Sunday by automobile.

Pilot Andrews, on the regular Sunday westbound schedule, was held up at Dallas until 2 p. m. by tough weather and arrived here about 3:30 p. m. The weather broke between Colorado and Sweetwater which was perfectly clear when he reached here. He arrived a few minutes before Rader, coming down from Spur. Rader returned to Dallas, Andrews flying on to El Paso. While the two big ships were here Pilot Bove arrived from San Antonio after a late start due to the weather.

The Sunday eastbound ship flew on schedule to Dallas.

Boy, 14; Two Men, Charged In Robbery

Transients Attack Driver Of Truck In T & P Yards Here

Two men and a boy of fourteen were being held here Monday on charges of robbery of Vernon Webb, truck driver for T. W. Ashley, Texas company agent Sunday night.

Those held were: Carl Gore, 14, of Eustace, Henderson county; G. W. Hazelwood, Columbus, O., and Albert Lewis.

Webb reported that his truck became mired near the Big Spring sign No. 1 and near where a group of transients had a bon fire going in the T & P yards. Several of them gathered around the truck.

Webb went to the Big Spring No. 2 gin office to get help in pulling his truck out of the mud. He left his money there.

He was returning to the truck when three men attacked him, went through his pockets, and kicked and struck him considerably.

Deputies Denver Dunn and John Allred answered Webb's call and made an arrest near the scene in a few minutes. With assistance of railroad company agents they picked up several other men further west in the yards.

All three of those under charges were identified by Webb and a companion, a Hartman boy, and one of the three confessed, said Dunn.

The Gore boy said that his mother resided at Eustace, near Athens, and that his father was dead.

Quail Season Opens Tuesday

Not Unlawful to Shoot 'Em Outside Howard, Borden And Bring In

The open season on quail begins Tuesday morning in all counties in this section of the state except Howard and Borden, in which a special law has invoked a two-year closed season on quail, doves and pheasants. The open season in other counties will continue to January 15.

It is not unlawful to shoot quail outside Howard and Borden counties and bring them into those counties, Walter Winn, game warden, pointed out Monday morning.

He said, however, that it would be well for those killing the birds outside of the county to be in a position to name the owner of the land where he killed them.

Discovery of Sal-Ammoniac In Borden County Test Announced; Commercial Production Planned

FORT WORTH, Nov. 30.—Discovery in West Texas of large natural deposits of ammonium chloride, commonly known as sal ammoniac, was announced here Saturday by C. A. Godfrey, 3328 James Street, who said he will form a group shortly to market the product in commercial quantities.

Godfrey said the discovery was made in a test well in Borden County that was plugged and abandoned at 2,600 feet after bitter salt water had been encountered at the 2,400-foot level. Water that overflowed the slush pit before the hole was plugged spread over an acre of ground and solidified.

Curiosity of the discoverer was aroused by the manner of solidification, which was dissimilar to that of ordinary salt water deposits. A sample of the product was pronounced by a laboratory to be ammonium chloride, 99 1-3 per cent pure.

A report from the United States Geological Survey upon a sample of the product sent to it for examination doubted that any extensive natural deposit could occur in the West Texas area.

Victim Named In Thefts Of 2 Machines

Dick Madison, Sr., Released On Own Recognition

Paul Jones Calder, 21, died at 11:45 p. m. Sunday in Big Spring hospital from effects of a wound inflicted late Sunday near Ross City in the oil field in a struggle with Dick Madison, Sr., Foran merchant, over Madison's pistol.

Calder had been named in two charges of automobile theft as a result of his actions of Sunday afternoon.

He was charged with stealing Ford coupe belonging to Melvin Ash of Merkel in front of the Read hotel, where Ash was stopping.

The coupe was wrecked in a deep ditch on Main street near Ninth a few minutes after it was taken.

Calder, bleeding from cuts about the face supposedly caused by flying glass, appeared a few minutes after the Main street crash at the home of Dr. M. H. Bennett, Seventh and Main. Dr. Bennett's mother, happening to go onto the front porch, saw a man in Mrs. Bennett's car, attempting to start it. She questioned him and, when he paid no attention but continued attempting to start the car, told him she would call Dr. Bennett, who was at a theatre, and the sheriff's office.

The man left the car, went across the street to the home of Houston Cowden. No one was at home and he disappeared behind the house.

Car Stolen
Dr. Bennett and Deputy Sheriff Bob Wolf arrived in a few minutes. Wolf was met at the Bennett home in a few minutes by several friends of Lois Madison, son of Dick Madison, Sr., who informed him Lois' car had been stolen from in front of his home, a block east of the Bennett home.

The sheriff's department notified officers in surrounding towns to watch for the Madison car. A Dodge sedan, Carl Madison, brother of Lois, called his father at Foran and told him to watch for the car.

In a few minutes Mr. Madison sighted the car being driven through the field and gave chase. He forced the driver to run into a ditch and returned with Calder to Ross City. After telephoning the sheriff's office here that he was bringing the prisoner here.

Mr. Madison reported that his son, Dick, Jr., got into the driver's seat of Lois' car and he had Calder get into the back seat.

One shot fired
Mr. Madison seated himself beside Calder, he said, and as his gun was being worn on the side of his car he was changing it to the other hip when Calder grabbed the gun and started to open the car door.

One shot was fired. Calder was brought to the hospital in an Eberly ambulance.

Mr. Madison was released on his own recognizance pending filing of formal charges in connection with the affair.

Funeral services for Calder were announced for 2 p. m. Tuesday from the Eberly Funeral Home with a Methodist minister in charge. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Calder of Ranger and Hobbs, N. M., respectively; a brother, Joe Lee of Hobbs; a sister, Mrs. May Dean of Hobbs, all of whom will be here for the funeral, and two other sisters, Mrs. Betty Weeks of Ingram, Ark., and Mrs. Ada Smith of Plainview.

Local Men To Road Parley Highway No. 9 Matters Topic For Hearing At Austin

C. T. Watson, E. Reagan and Ray Wilcox left Sunday for Austin to appear, along with representatives of Sterling and Tom Greene counties, at a hearing before the state highway commission in connection with matters affecting state highway No. 9 between Sterling City and Big Spring.

Efforts have been made for some months to obtain right of way for re-routing of No. 9 across a corner of Glasscock county, which the state has offered to pave without cost to the county provided right-of-way can be secured.

The highway commission and the Sterling and Tom Greene county officials are intensely interested in seeing the road paved on into Big Spring.

Mrs. E. L. Crawford returned Sunday night from El Allen where she had been visiting her parents. She was met at San Angelo by Mr. Crawford.

British Dirigibles

WHEN the British air ministry ordered the big dirigible R-100 sold for junk the other day, it emphasized once more the rather surprising fact that only the Germans —and, lately, let us say with pride, the Americans—seem to be able to build big dirigibles and make them work.

The British have had shockingly bad luck with their dirigibles. They have sent several on spectacular flights over the Atlantic, but their disasters have outweighed their successes, and few Englishmen will object to the discarding of the R-100. The French and Italians have had an equal lack of success with the big ships.

But the Germans seem able to build dirigibles that are eminently safe and utilitarian. Under German tutelage, Americans have learned the lesson, too. Whatever the future usefulness of the dirigible may be, it is evident that it will be demonstrated almost solely by Germans and Americans.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

The Next Texas Delegation

WICHITA Daily Times:
A TEXAS correspondent of the New York Times thinks that Texas may have another favorite son to support in next year's Democratic convention. He sees the possibility of Garner's receiving the vote of the Texas delegation, but thinks that the prospective speaker's rather limited acquaintance outside of his own remote district may militate against that happening.

The favorite son business does not appeal to us, even when we know that it will not be done in the ridiculous way that it was in 1928, when the Texas delegation voted for Jesse H. Jones of Houston. If we must have a favorite son at the convention, John Garner is the logical man.

Texas has cut such a dismal figure at the last three national conventions that many Texans would like to see her have a more impressive part this time. The New York Times writer finds some support for McAdoo, with Tom Love, who presumably has forgiven the California for voting for Smith in 1928, in charge of the McAdoo camp. But most prominent Texas Democrats, the New York paper's correspondent believes, are inclined to "throw in" with the eastern states. They like Baker better than Roosevelt, he says. Efforts to interject them in Melvin Traylor and Bill Murray have failed, he adds.

Probably the Murray cause will develop more strength in Texas later on, but its protagonist, E. G.
Benter of Dallas, is neither a skillful leader nor an influential one.
Texas as a whole doesn't know Mr.
Traylor well enough to get interested in him. Probably we shall see a very determined effort in behalf of Roosevelt or Baker; the fact that both have considerable follow-ings among the regular Democrat points to the possibility that neither could capture the delegation, but that the two elements could combine to prevent a McAdoo delegation, but the two elements could combine to prevent a McAdoo delegation being sent. In that event, it would be necessary to start looking around for a favorite son.

The selection of Mr. Garner would be logical, appropriate and agreeable.
But it will not happen until the Roosevelt, Baker and McAdoo forces have shot their bolts.

A Washington
Daybook

By HERBERT FLUMMER
WASHINGTON — Harry Hubert is listed officially on Uncle Sam's payroll as cashier of the United States treasury.

His job is to receive all government deposits and send records of them to the bookkeeping
and warrants division for the proper notations
and distribution.

Quite a job in itself—
But Hubert
has another job which few persons know. In fact, it is doubtful whether there is any public record which outlines the scope of it.

Perhaps as good a way as any to describe it is to call Hubert the custodian of the repository of absolu-tion of the treasury—or, more simply, "keeper of the conscience fund."

Paying Up
To illustrate, not so long ago a world war veteran wrote to him, inclosing a small check. It was for two army shirts which the soldier explained he had made away with in wartime. The matter had been troubling him ever since.

A high government official sent him $2 with the explanation that he saw a filing case, worth about 50 cents at a government auction sale.
He did not have time to wait for the auction, so he took the case. The $2 was to fix it up with his conscience.

There are numerous payments of two cents each, probably representing a second use of a postage stamp.
This job—"keeper of the conscience fund"—dates back as far as 1811. At that time $5 came in with much secrecy to the treasury. No one knew what to do with it, but before the year had ended $245 had been added to the $5 in the same manner.

It was 16 years before another contribution was received, but now money comes in regularly.

1918 A Good Year
The year 1918 was the most successful of all—more than $55,000 coming in. One man had a $30,000 conscience. No one knows who he was, but it is thought that his restitution had to do with dutiable articles brought in under cover. The most common "conscience" is thought to be connected with income tax falsifications.

A great many contributors to the repository of absolution come from people who sign their names. A larger number, however, are anonymous.

Uncle Sam guards jealously the former. He gives them credit for their desire to get the matter off their minds.

Incidentally the repository of absolution has fared rather badly in the last year or so. The fiscal year that closed last June showed slightly over $6,000 profit. Perhaps those who should pick in with conscience money are waiting until times are better.

HOW'S your HEALTH

Edited by the New York
Dr. Ingo Goldstein Academy of Medicine

Heredity And Fatalism
To an incredibly large number of persons heredity seems like a grim and inescapable force from whose inscrutable operations there is no deliverance.

This conception of heredity is false, partly because under the term heredity there are commonly included in vast number of diverse forces, and because there is little distinction made between the true hereditary and the accidentally inherited conditions.

Let this appear to be a splitting of hairs, let us hasten to illustrate the difference.

The color of one's eyes, and the straightness or curl of one's hair are true inherited factors.

Hemophilia, or a failure of the blood to coagulate properly is a disease condition transmitted hereditarily from parents to offspring; so too, is albinism a condition of excessive whiteness in which nearly all pigment is absent from the skin hair and eyes.

Syphilis, however, is not an hereditarily transmitted disease. It is congenital.

Whatever may render the new born child infected was not resident in the cells through the union of which the child was begotten.

In no aspect of its operation is heredity more baffling to the lay person than in the so-called hereditary transmissions of a tendency to disease.

Numerous careful studies have demonstrated that there is such a transmission of tendencies.

But—and this is the important and practical point—the existence of a tendency toward a disease does not mean that it will develop into an actuality, do what we may.

It is possible by relieving the strain to keep the human machine from breaking at its weak points.

Many a frail constitution, with a full knowledge of its frailty has been kept intact and working precisely because its frailty was known.

Voltaire's long life is a point in illustration.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 30 (AP)—Extensive research has been undertaken at the University of Texas looking to the commercial exploitation of the products obtained from petroleum distillates with particular attention being paid to the dye industry.

The investigation is being carried on under direction of Professor J. R. Bailey, the work being financed by grants from the American Petroleum Institute and the Universal Oil Products Company. Many new organic bases and several new types of bases have been isolated.

Dr. Bailey stated, including 2, 3-dimethyl quinoline and 2, 4-dimethyl quinoline that form valuable intermediates in the synthetic preparation of commercial dye-stuffs.

Investigation of the possibilities of petroleum bases as a source of products of medicinal value has been started on a large scale at the University of Pennsylvania. Research experts were reported by Dr. Bailey to be enthusiastic over the possibilities in this field.

70 Cents Per 100 Pounds Advanced For Sudan Seed

LUBBOCK, TEXAS, Nov. 30 (AP)

Growers of sudan grass seed in the territory west of a line between Lubbock and Amarillo, and extending to Clovis, N. M., will be advanced 75 cents a hundred pounds with an agreement to hold the seed off the market until next spring.

The cash advance which will enable the farmers to hold their seed for a better price is being made by the Sudan Grass Seed Growers' Association, recently organized here under the direction of Fred W. Mangelsdorf of Atchison, Kan. The cooperative has the endorsement of the federal farm land.

Indications are that the demand for sudan grass seed will be large at planting time next spring. Mangelsdorf said. "The market already is getting stronger. The seed will be stored in elevators and then sold next spring. Growers will be paid the difference between the 75-cent cash advance and the selling price."

San Angelo Men Start Two-Month Rio Grande Tour

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Nov. 30 (AP)—Planning to penetrate one of the wildest areas in the nation, two San Angelo men left recently for Sierra Blanca to start a two-month tour of the Rio Grande.

The two, James and John Bramble, brothers, took with them a small skiff and a house boat, 4 by 16 feet, in which they will float down the river.

They will trap f r beaver and fish, sleeping in the house boat and towing it behind the skiff in day time. They plan to come out of the river at Hot Springs. The beaver season will open January 1.

The brothers will go through the most severe canyons in Texas when they nose through the Grand Canyon of the Rio Grande, which a New Yorker lost his life a short time ago.

They expect to go for weeks without seeing other humans.

Revised Rates On Compensation Insurance Issued

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 30 (AP)—Revised rates for the various classifications of hazard under the workmen's compensation law will be placed into effect December 1 by the Texas insurance commission, both on new business and renewals.

Application for a flat raise in the rate level of workmen's compensation insurance to 12.9 per cent was denied. The commission also refused an application to adopt specific rates applicable to each hazard classification.

The rates as promulgated were based primarily on the experience records of the various industries for the past five years.

What do football players talk about in the huddle?

An official was talking about just that in a smoking compartment as the war correspondents rumbled toward the Cornell-Dartmouth game in Hanover.

"Yes, sir," he said, stretching his legs, lighting a big cigar, "you hear some funny ones, but the most amazing pair of monologues I ever listened to came in that insane-asylum 33-33 game Dartmouth played against Yale.

"Yale was leading 26 to 3. It looked like a rout to everyone in the Bowl, especially me. Then Bill Morton got off a long pass, Dartmouth. It's a cinch. All we need is 3."

"Well, I bent over to listen to what was going on in the Dartmouth huddle. There was Morton and Bill McCall, the fellow who catches his passes, so eager they could hardly wait to decide the play.

"Listen, Morton kept saying, 'They're on the run. We've got 'em. It's a cinch. All we need is 3.' 'Well, I bent over to listen to what was going on in the Dartmouth huddle. There was Morton and Bill McCall, the fellow who catches his passes, so eager they could hardly wait to decide the play.

"Well, this Albie Booth called those giants around him, and they looked big enough to be his uncles.

"Get this," he barked at them. "Dartmouth's clicked. They're going to run wild. It's going to be a tough fight. If any of you guys want to get out of here, now's the time to speak up."

"Every Yale man in the huddle nodded grimly, but no one moved toward the sideline. I still thought they were all crazy. But those kids knew what they were talking about.

"Half an hour later they were tied, 33-33, and I tell you I never expect to hear again anything as amazing as that, called like that was."

HEAT AT ATHENS

One of the most extraordinary contrasts of the gridiron season occurred in the south on the Saturday that Tulane walloped Georgia and Tennessee took the measure of Vanderbilt.

At Athens, no fewer than 18 penalties were stepped off by the referee during an afternoon that was balmy in more ways than one. Up at Knoxville not a single penalty was called. So far as I have observed both are records for major competition this season.

If they also had penalized the sideline crowd at Athens for being offside or unnecessarily rough, the afternoon would have developed into a tract meet for the gentlemen officiating.

HAYNES HOOKS CATFISH

Before the Battle of Athens, the big argument revolved around Catfish Smith and Jerry Dalrymple, the rival candidates for All-America end. At least one southern gentleman, somewhat partial to Georgia, was willing to wager the Catfish would outscore all the other ends on the field combined. The final summary showed Vernon (nickname) Haynes, Tulane's other end, with six points, Smith, with one and Dalrymple with none.

LAREDO, Texas, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Morse telegraph instrument that was used by President Porfirio Diaz in Mexico City in 1906 in officially sending the message that opened the ports of Salinas Cruz and pier to Mexico, with the president manipulating the key, is now in the possession of District Attorney John A. Knowing that the district attorney was a great admirer of Diaz, a friend sent the telegraph key to him, with a notation of the important events in which it was used.

Three Intersectional Games Scheduled By Longhorns For 1932

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 30 (AP)—Three intersectional games have been carded for the University of Texas Longhorn football team next year. They will feature the University of Missouri, University of Oklahoma and Centenary College, the Harvard game having been dropped because of the long trip.

One date, October 1, has not been filled. It will be played at home, preferably with a Texas team.

Five members of the Southwest Conference have been placed on the schedule. They are Rice, Southern Methodist, Texas Christian, Baylor and Texas A. and M.

A tentative game has been scheduled with Southwestern at Austin, September 24 to open the season. The October 1 date is open and the Steers will play Missouri at Columbia, Mo. October 8; Oklahoma at Dallas October 15; Rice at Houston, October 22; Southern Methodist at Austin, October 29; Baylor at Waco, November 5; Centenary at Austin, November 16; and A. and M. at Austin, November 24.

POINSETTIAS BLOOM

LAREDO, Texas, Uo, 30 (AP)—The autumn-like conditions that prevail in the Laredo section, besides sending peach trees into bloom, have also caused the poinsettia, known as the "Christmas flower" to put out full bloom this year about a month earlier than usual.

The lack of rain and dry weather, with high winds prevailing at times, followed by cool nights, has worked some freakish results the past month. Peach trees that went into bloom, however, soon lost the blooms, but the poinsettias have put forth large crimson flowers.

WEST TEXAS SPORT HASH

The fact, folks, is that Big Spring had no idea of playing San Angelo again; did not challenge the Bobcats; and, in fact, local fans were talking a Midland-Big Spring game when Principal Kenley of San Angelo called Bristolow and said the whole town was crying to see the Steers perform.

Kenley said when the game here Thursday ended that Angelo was through with football for the year. But with most of the people of his town yelling for more action and all stirred up over Blondy's praise of Tack Dennis as the outstanding back of the state, Kenley figured the game would draw a record crowd in Angelo.

Since the San Angelo boys have based out maybe we'll see some action against Midland.

Thanksgiving Day game here. The total of receipts was approximately $1,100, George Gentry, high school principal, said this morning. Each school cleared about $400 over expenses.

The Steers played before approximately 10,000 people in three games—5,043 at Sweetwater, 2,128 here Thursday and about 2,500 at Midland. Counting the smaller crowds at the seven other games about 13,000 or 14,000 paid to see the Steers perform.

Blondy Cross comes along in his Sunday spurge and says that, although the Steers were doped to win from the Bobcats four or five touchdowns the Cats barked at the touchdown door all afternoon and with any break from Lady Luck would have won. He goes further and says that in spite of all this Obie Bristolow was much dissatisfied with the windup.

"He promptly challenged San Angelo for a playoff," says Blondy.

"Despite the fact the San Angelo team appeared superior to the heavier Big Spring eleven, Coach Bristolow became excited and dared the Concho crew to meet his charges again. Bristolow had planned a post season game with one of the district 1 teams. District 1, however, is in a muddled situation. Amarillo, Lubbock and Pampa are tied for the championship. None of these teams will be available for a post season game until any time soon.

"San Angelo school officials did not appear to care to mix with the Big Springers again. San Angelo's sportsmen, including J. Walter Duff and Gene Lowrie, discussed the matter at length with local school officials and Saturday night it was decided to give Big Spring another chance to win a football game."

The fact, folks, is that Big Spring had no idea of playing San Angelo again; did not challenge the Bobcats; and, in fact, local fans were talking a Midland-Big Spring game when Principal Kenley of San Angelo called Bristolow and said the whole town was crying to see the Steers perform.

Kenley said when the game here Thursday ended that Angelo was through with football for the year. But with most of the people of his town yelling for more action and all stirred up over Blondy's praise of Tack Dennis as the outstanding back of the state, Kenley figured the game would draw a record crowd in Angelo.

Since the San Angelo boys have based out maybe we'll see some action against Midland.

Extermination Of Predatory Fish Is Planned

AUSTIN, Nov. 30. (AP)—An active campaign of extermination against gars, turtles and other enemies of game fish will be started next spring by the Texas game, fish and oyster commission in an effort to build the state's fish sanctuaries back to the envied position they occupied a few years ago.

J. G. Burr, chief of the research department of the commission, stated Texas faced a serious problem in its lakes and rivers as the result of the depredations of gars and turtles which are destroying the nests and spawning places for game fish.

Heavy fishing in the past few years, coupled with the increase in the number of gars and turtles, has led the commission to its campaign. The first item in the campaign is the extermination of the gars and turtles.

The gars are the most dangerous foe of inland game fish. They not only wreck havoc with the nests during spawning season but catch and eat thousands of game fish annually. The turtles do most of their damage by tearing up the nests and destroying the eggs.

The gar is fast and vicious and its long snout, lined with sharp teeth, makes it comparatively easy for him to gouge fish out of nooks and crannies.

Hot months of the late summer have contributed their bit to increasing the difficulties of the game commission. It was necessary during the past summer to transport millions of fish from lakes and streams that were exceedingly low to fresh and more expensive bodies of water. Millions of fish were saved through the transfers but thousands died before they could be moved.

Reports reaching Burr from the larger lakes indicate their fishing qualities have depreciated materially in the past few years. Lake conditions, generally, were described by Burr as bad, particularly in the lakes easily accessible to automobiles.

"In the conservation of fish we are faced with same situation that faced us a few years ago with game," Burr stated. "When game was abundant, the predatory animals had little or no noticeable effect. With the coming of numerous hunters, however, it became necessary to reduce the number of predators. Likewise, the supply of fish, with so many fishermen, can be maintained only by control measures against predatory fish and other aquatic enemies."

Burr is the inventor of the boat device that kills gars by electricity. The cost of the machines is too great to permit extensive use by the state and it is patently impossible for the one machine operated by the state to cover the main fishing sanctuaries.

Burr said he was trying to interest prominent sportsmen in development of the machine for use on private lakes and that he hoped fishing clubs through the state would aid in the movement.

If necessary, however, Burr indicated he would press for operation of the gar killing devices on a large scale by the state commission.

WHEN WINTER COMES

IS YOUR house packed to the eaves with tremendous stores of flour . . . meat . . . clothing . . . and other supplies to carry you through the long winter?

Not very likely!

But if not, won't you—like the butterfly that played all summer without a thought of the cold days to come—won't you be in danger of facing famine, months before spring comes round again?

Certainly not!

When wintry winds are blowing their coldest, and the storm is wailing like forgotten banshees on the roof-top, the chances are you may be eating juicy strawberries from Costa Rica and fresh asparagus from Florida. For the day of storing up supplies against the barrenness of winter has gone forever. It passed when America ceased to be a lot of scattered communities, and became a nation united by swift lines of transportation.

As you read the advertisements telling you just what the stores contain for you, fresh to your order, remember that here are the inexhaustible storerooms of today . . . storerooms that have banished forever the anxieties that went with the snows of yesteryear.

Sterling Ready To Turn Oil Field Back to R.R. Board

By R. W. BARRY
AUSTIN, Nov. 30. (AP)—Governor B. S. Sterling will welcome the day when he can turn the East Texas oil field back to the Texas railroad commission, administrator of conservation laws in normal times.

"I certainly am not serving in the capacity of what someone has aptly termed 'supreme administrator' of conservation laws in East Texas because I want to," Governor Sterling said.

Some of the railroad commission's friends had been misled because the governor, through his martial law authority, had taken over the field and was issuing through the military ordering production.

"It is a case of necessity," he said. "The railroad commission has been enjoined from enforcing production over there, leaving it to me and the Texas National Guard to hold the area in line. I'll be plenty glad when the time comes that I can turn back to the railroad commission and let them have the full responsibility. But so long as they are enjoined by a federal court order there isn't anyone who can do the work but me, through martial law."

He said he had kept the commission advised of his every move so that when the day arrived he could turn loose the reins, surrendering them to the commission. It would have its finger on the situation.

It was recalled that Thanksgiving Day marked the first anniversary of advent of what turned out to be the nation's greatest oil pool. It was about this time last year that C. M. (Dad) Joiner, after several weary, lean years of drilling away, brought in the first well in what is now the East Texas field, spreading over portions of Smith, Gregg, Rusk and Upshur counties.

From the first there was opposition by operators there to production by the state. Independents having discovered the field, they wanted to be permitted to develop with development without official restraint. Every move on the part of the state to curtail production was opposed.

Finally when the railroad commission took official action and set an allowable, it was flagrantly disregarded. Rampant production continued and the great drilling campaign went on.

Other oil areas in the mid-continent territory entered stiff protests and argued East Texas was dragging down the entire oil structure, pulling the market to unprofitable levels. There was a big controversy between two factions as to how production should be regulated.

Finally, Governor Sterling called the Texas legislature into special session to consider the situation. New production laws, designed to strengthen the railroad commission's powers to regulate the field, were enacted. The commission set an allowable and undertook to enforce it, but almost immediately Governor Sterling decided to place the area under martial law. He called out the troops August 17 and closed all wells, keeping them shut for several weeks. Then they were permitted to open under a production allowable set by the railroad commission, the military acting in an adjunct capacity in its enforcement.

Brook-Lee Oil Company brought suit in federal court and obtained a temporary restraining order against the railroad commission enforcing the regulation. Governor Sterling countered by issuing a military proclamation embracing the railroad commission's last order and he has administered the conservation laws there since.

"It is a hard pill to hold, but I am going to swing on until the railroad commission can get back in the saddle," he said.

Commander Lists Legion Aims For '32

Service to Disabled, Protection of Orphans, Widows First

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 29. (AP)—Service to the disabled, protection and aid to orphans and widows of comrades, promotion of employment, proper national defense and the advancement of world peace are outstanding major objectives of the American Legion for 1932, Henry L. Stevens, Jr., national commander, said in an address here tonight.

Advance 1932 membership is exceeding all preceding years, he announced, adding that this record is the answer of the World War service men and women to the critics of the Legion.

Stevens said in part: "Throughout this land of ours, pledged to uphold the highest ideals of citizenship there is in the American Legion a force greater in number than there are soldiers in our army, or sailors in our navy, or marines in our marine corps, more than one million men and women, giving their strength in man power and brain power to promote the good citizenship and the welfare generally of all our people for whom those members once fought in war."

"The new Legion year is now just opening before us. Our programs of activities have been determined, and we are starting to put them into accomplishment. This early, more than a month before the first of January, when Legion dues start, our organization, already has enrolled in advance membership more than one-third of the million men and women who are paid-up members for the present year of 1931. This is a record never reached before. It is a record that seems somewhat inconsistent with the times, if we consider other organizations and commercial affairs. But it is not inconsistent with American Legion ideals. Born in the great emergency to continue that high type of service which its members performed in war, the ex-service men and women of this country responded readily to the call when they were most needed, and there was never a time in the history of our country when the sound and sane influence of this great cross-section of American citizenry was more needed than it is today."

Carl Estes Voices Support Of Allred

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, Nov. 28.—Carl Estes, Tyler publisher and leader of the independent oil men's fight to keep the East Texas oil field in operation, praised Atty. Gen. James V. Allred's course in filing anti-trust suits against major oil companies, during a visit to the capitol.

"We're behind him in East Texas," Estes declared.

Col. Estes conferred for an hour with Allred concerning the operation of gasoline filling stations under control of the major companies, the subject-matter of the $17,850,000 penalty and ouster suit of the attorney general against 15 companies and two marketing associations.

"Assuming Mr. Allred's facts are correct, I consider he is going down the middle of the road and doing what the state ought to do," Estes declared.

Mr. Estes, colonel on a governor's staff, officer in the national guard, one of the most youthful publishers in the state, got into the oil fight to keep the East Texas field from going under control of a few large companies, and later to fight its virtual shut-down under state prohibition.

Along with numerous East Texans to whom the oil discovery brought wealth, Estes is credited with having earned large sums from his oil interests and royalties.

Recently he established a newspaper at Van, and a few days ago he purchased the weekly newspaper at Carthage.

Weather Cuts Attendance In Bible Classes

Reports from the Sunday school superintendents of the city report that attendance yesterday at the churches was somewhat below normal, due to blast of winter.

They were as follows: First Baptist, 140; East Fourth Baptist, approximately 175; First Methodist, 418; Church of Christ, 125; First Baptist, 314; Presbyterian, 54.

At the First Baptist church there was a special service in connection with the beginning of the every-member canvass, which starts this week. The two sons of Mrs. W. R. Wolcott sang "I Know the Bible Is True" and the smallest and largest Bibles in the possession of the membership were shown. Both were more than a century old. Mrs. C. W. Willis, oldest member in the church, had the smallest and Mrs. Roy Jones the largest.

McCulloch Library Cannot Be Closed Without New Vote

BRADY, Tex., Nov. 30. (AP)—When the McCulloch county commissioners recently decided to close the county library, they apparently had not read the state library law.

At their regular November session the commissioners voted to withdraw financial support from this institution, which they thought would automatically abandon the county-wide library system. This order was to be effective on Jan. 1.

Since then Miss Edwin Sue Goree, state library organizer, has conferred with the commissioners and has advised them that a mere order of the commissioners' court cannot accomplish the legal disestablishment of a county library. According to the state library law, such a library cannot be disestablished without the consent of the majority of the voters, who must petition the commissioners, Miss Goree said.

She further pointed out that unless the McCulloch county library is legally disestablished by a petition of a majority of the voters, the commissioners must provide funds for its maintenance, according to a recent ruling by the attorney general.

Determined! Mexicans 'Postponed' Marriage Two Years When 3-Day Notice Interfered.

This is one way to 'get by' the three-day period between filing of notice of intention to marry and issuance of the license.

Not to speak of giving one's self an opportunity to decide whether he really wants to be married for keeps.

A Mexican filed his notice of intention here two years ago next month.

He never appeared for his license.

The other day he appeared, with an interpreter, to learn whether he would have to obtain a new doctor's certificate to get a license.

He was told that it would be a good idea.

Attendants in the clerk's office learned from the man that, after finding he and his girl would have to wait three days to marry they just went on to the country to pick cotton and had been living together ever since.

However, they still felt the same way about it and wanted to go ahead and get married according to Texas law.

Judge At Menard Continues Cases

MENARD, Nov. 30. (AP)—Judge Joe Matthews of Menard recently continued all cases on the county court docket because, as he said, "times are pretty hard and this is no time for foreclosures." He said he might take the same action when court convenes next February.

Judge Matthews said some of the attorneys asked for a default judgment on cases on file but he told them he would not allow any liquidation to depress the market on sheep, goats and cattle in this county. He reminded the attorneys that in the panic of 1907 lawyers of Brady refused to file suits and helped prevent senseless liquidation.

A bootlegger has never gone to the penitentiary from Menard county, says Judge Matthews. He handles the bootlegging cases with a fine of $250 for sales, the bootleggers find it too expensive to do business and move on. The district court does not concern itself greatly with the liquor problem. Occasionally federal officers make arrests in the county, but the cases are sent to San Angelo for trial.

Judge Matthews says any defendant charged with violating the state cotton acreage restriction law will be freed in his court without trial.

Recently the game warden arrested two men for having two fin-

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croceote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, croceote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croceote, throat healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the croceote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Brooks County Folk Takes To Ditches As Cotton Trucks Pass

AUSTIN, Nov. 30.—Taking to the ditch when their cars meet cotton trucks is a regular routine for citizens of Brooks county who are still paying off its bonds for 44 miles of highway. County Judge J. A. Brooks told the railroad commission.

Judge Brooks, former Texas ranger for whom Brooks county was named, said he was sent here by the commissioners' court to enter a protest against the licensing of heavy trucks and permitting their operation in his county to the detriment of the citizens and the destruction of the highways.

"Our people are extremely nervous, from their experiences with cotton trucks and oil trucks," he testified at the rail commission's hearing on contract truck permits. "This doesn't apply merely to the women and children, either. We have had several serious accidents, as the result of running trucks on our narrow highways. The trucks can't get off the hard surface. So the citizen, the local taxpayer, the man or woman driving a car on the highway, is forced to turn out and get into the deep sand or the mud beside the road to pass these trucks."

"Our country is a gateway to the valley country, and as a result we bear the brunt of heavy traffic. We are still paying for our highways, and will be paying for them after they have been worn out by trucks, unless the trucks are limited and regulated, and the number held down."

One Place Girls May Not Go — To U. S. Army Air Schools

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 30. (AP)—The women have found a place they can't take away from the men.

They invade their polls, they have taken a place in the once sacred barber shops and they have reached a point of competition with them in all phases of public life; but they can't go to Randolph Field.

On an average three to four letters daily are received at the West Point of the Air from boys and girls seeking information about Air Corps flying schools.

The girls are always advised to seek their information and training at the nearest creditable commercial flying school.

"I suppose I'm like most people who read the newspapers..."

"I DON'T read all the ads, any more than I read the whole of any newspaper or magazine. But I do read a good many of them."

"Recently I've been reading more than usual, and I certainly like what Chesterfield has to say and the way it is said. I would probably like the cigarette, too, but somehow I just haven't got 'round to trying it."

"Come to think of it, I can't tell you why I smoke this other cigarette. It's more from habit, I suppose, than for any real reason."

"I'd never thought about it before, but last night, at a party, I noticed eight of my friends—five men and three girls—who had changed to Chesterfields. They told me that Chesterfields are milder, that they taste better, that they just seem to satisfy."

"Of course, cigarettes are a small thing, but, after all, they give me a lot of pleasure, and a cigarette like Chesterfield that you hear such good things about, must be good. Anyway, I've just bought my first package of Chesterfields, and I believe I'll find them just like the ads say—milder—taste better—pure—satisfy."
