Motley County School participates in Distance Learning Grant

Motley County School is one of nineteen school districts in Region 17 to participate in a $291,918 Distance Learning and Telemedicine Grant from the United States Department of Agriculture. The award was announced on Tuesday (January 24) to superintendents and technologists at the Education Service Center in Lubbock.

Girard, Paducah, Patton Springs, Spur, and Turkey-Quitaque), Motley County School already has an active distance learning program. Deputy Agriculture Secre-tary Chuck Conner announced in December the award of 79 Distance Learning and Telemedcine grants, which will provide improved educational and medical services to residents of 36 states. Six awards were made in Texas. Nationally, the grants total more than $29.4 million.

Motley County School will receive a portable interactive television system for the elementary school and will participate in a series of virtual field trips focused on identified Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS) developed by the Sci-ence Spectrum in Lubbock. Motley County teachers will also work with the Science Spectrum to develop curricu-lum to support the virtual field trips

Randy Brown, Motley County Superintendent, and district technologist Shelley Cox attended the announcement press conference in Lubbock on Tuesday. Brown said, "This grant is an opportunity to ex-tend distance learning to the elementary school and will increase our capability within the Rolling Plains Consortium to ensure that our students have exceptional learning experiences."

The Distance Learning and Telemedicine Program is designed to enhance educational and health care services in rural America. This year 227 grant applications were received and 162 were found to meet program eligibility requirements. The 79 successful applicants were se-lected from that list. During the past five years, USDA's Rural Development has invested over $4.6 billion in telecommunications programs across America.

Voters should question Legislative candidates on children's textbook fund

by James B. Cardle, Pres. & CEO Texas Citizen Action Network

Last fall, Texans witnessed the spectacle of our children being forced to share worn out and out-dated textbooks while the legislature attempted to raid the children's textbook fund to pay for other, and never passed, education "reforms"

After parents and educators expressed their outrage and focused public attention on this issue, a disaster was averted when Gov. Rick Perry stepped in to ensure that new books were delivered to our schools.

But some members of the legislature already are laying plans for their next assault on the children's textbook fund -apply named the "Permanent School Fund", or PSF. Their ef-forts, if successful, will have the effect of preventing students from having a new set of badly needed math textbooks for the 2007 school year. It will also di-vert textbook money to pay for legislator's pet projects and expand state government unnecessarily. Texas voters can prevent a repeat of last year's textbook debacle by insisting that legislative candidates pledge to protect the children's textbook fund and our state textbook process, which is commonly known across the country to be the envy of every other states because of its tried and true effectiveness.

Back in 1874, our state's forefathers had the wisdom to create the Permanent School Fund. The Texas Constitution requires that the proceeds from the PSF be used "in perpetuity" to provide textbooks & curriculum for every child in every pubic school in our state.

This fund, managed by the State Board of Education, has grown from its original $2 million investment to become one of the largest endowments in the country, some $22 billion. It now provides more than enough revenue for the children's textbook fund, with money left over to pay for other educational needs.

Instead of seeing the text-

PSF.

Another textbook crisis is now brewing over new math materials. The time to act is now.

Voters should question ev-ery one of their legislative candidates in this year's elections to find out whether they will defend the children's textbook fund and vote against so-called "local controls" that will raid the fund and undo the real education reforms we have worked so hard to implement.

Several years ago, a group of companies came together to form an effort that they not so subtly labeled "no vendor left behind." Their scheme was simple: get the legislature to define computer hardware and network equipment as "instructional materials" so it could be paid for - at the expense of text-books - out of the PSF. And, instead of having the state buy textbooks for all the schools, money from the trust fund would be sent directly to school districts with a requirement that districts spend hundreds of millions of dollars on computer equipment - regard-less of whether the schools wanted or needed the equipment. Many have already equipped their school from monies provided by Texas tax-payers to the TIF, the Technology Infrastructure Fund that Texans regularly see at the bottom of their telephone bills. Legislation to enact this new state mandate almost passed the legislature last year disguised as an education reform. It was couched under the banner of local control. And they undoubtedly will make another run at passing this special interest scheme during the 2006 Special Legislative Session that will soon be called to address school finance, or in the next regular session.

We must be clear about this one fundamental issue: Computer equipment is not "instruc-tional material" any more than desks or football stadiums are.

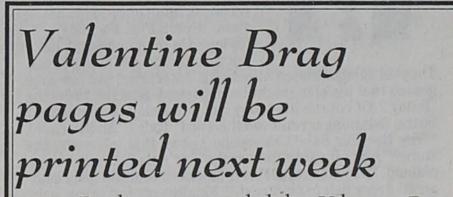

Instructional materials provide educational content through textbooks, CD-ROMs, online services, interactive soft-book fund as one of our state's greatest education assets, some view it as a huge slush fund just waiting to be tapped for other purposes.

If funds for instructional materials are sent to school districts with a mandate that some of the money be spent on com-puters with no requirement to spend any of it on instructional content, the entire accountability system will begin to unravel. The 15 members of the State Board of Education (SBOE) have had many differences on other issues, but they unanimously agree on protecting the children's textbook fund, the ware, and other materials.

The key word here is "con-tent." The children's trust fund must be reserved for purchasing instructional content, not for equipment.

Over the years, Texas has developed an orderly, efficient system to ensure that new instructional materials containing the state's required curricu-lum are provided to every child in the state at the same time.

The state's accountability system, the testing and assessments required by the "No Child Left Behind" law, depends on all students learning the same material at the same time.

Anyway, while on our nature walk, we saw several deer, one big and stately 12 point buck, several covey of big, fat quail, a beautiful pheasant, hawks, and rabbits. It seems to me there is an abundance of wildlife this year.

We're really lucky here to have access to the beauty of wildlife right at our back doors.

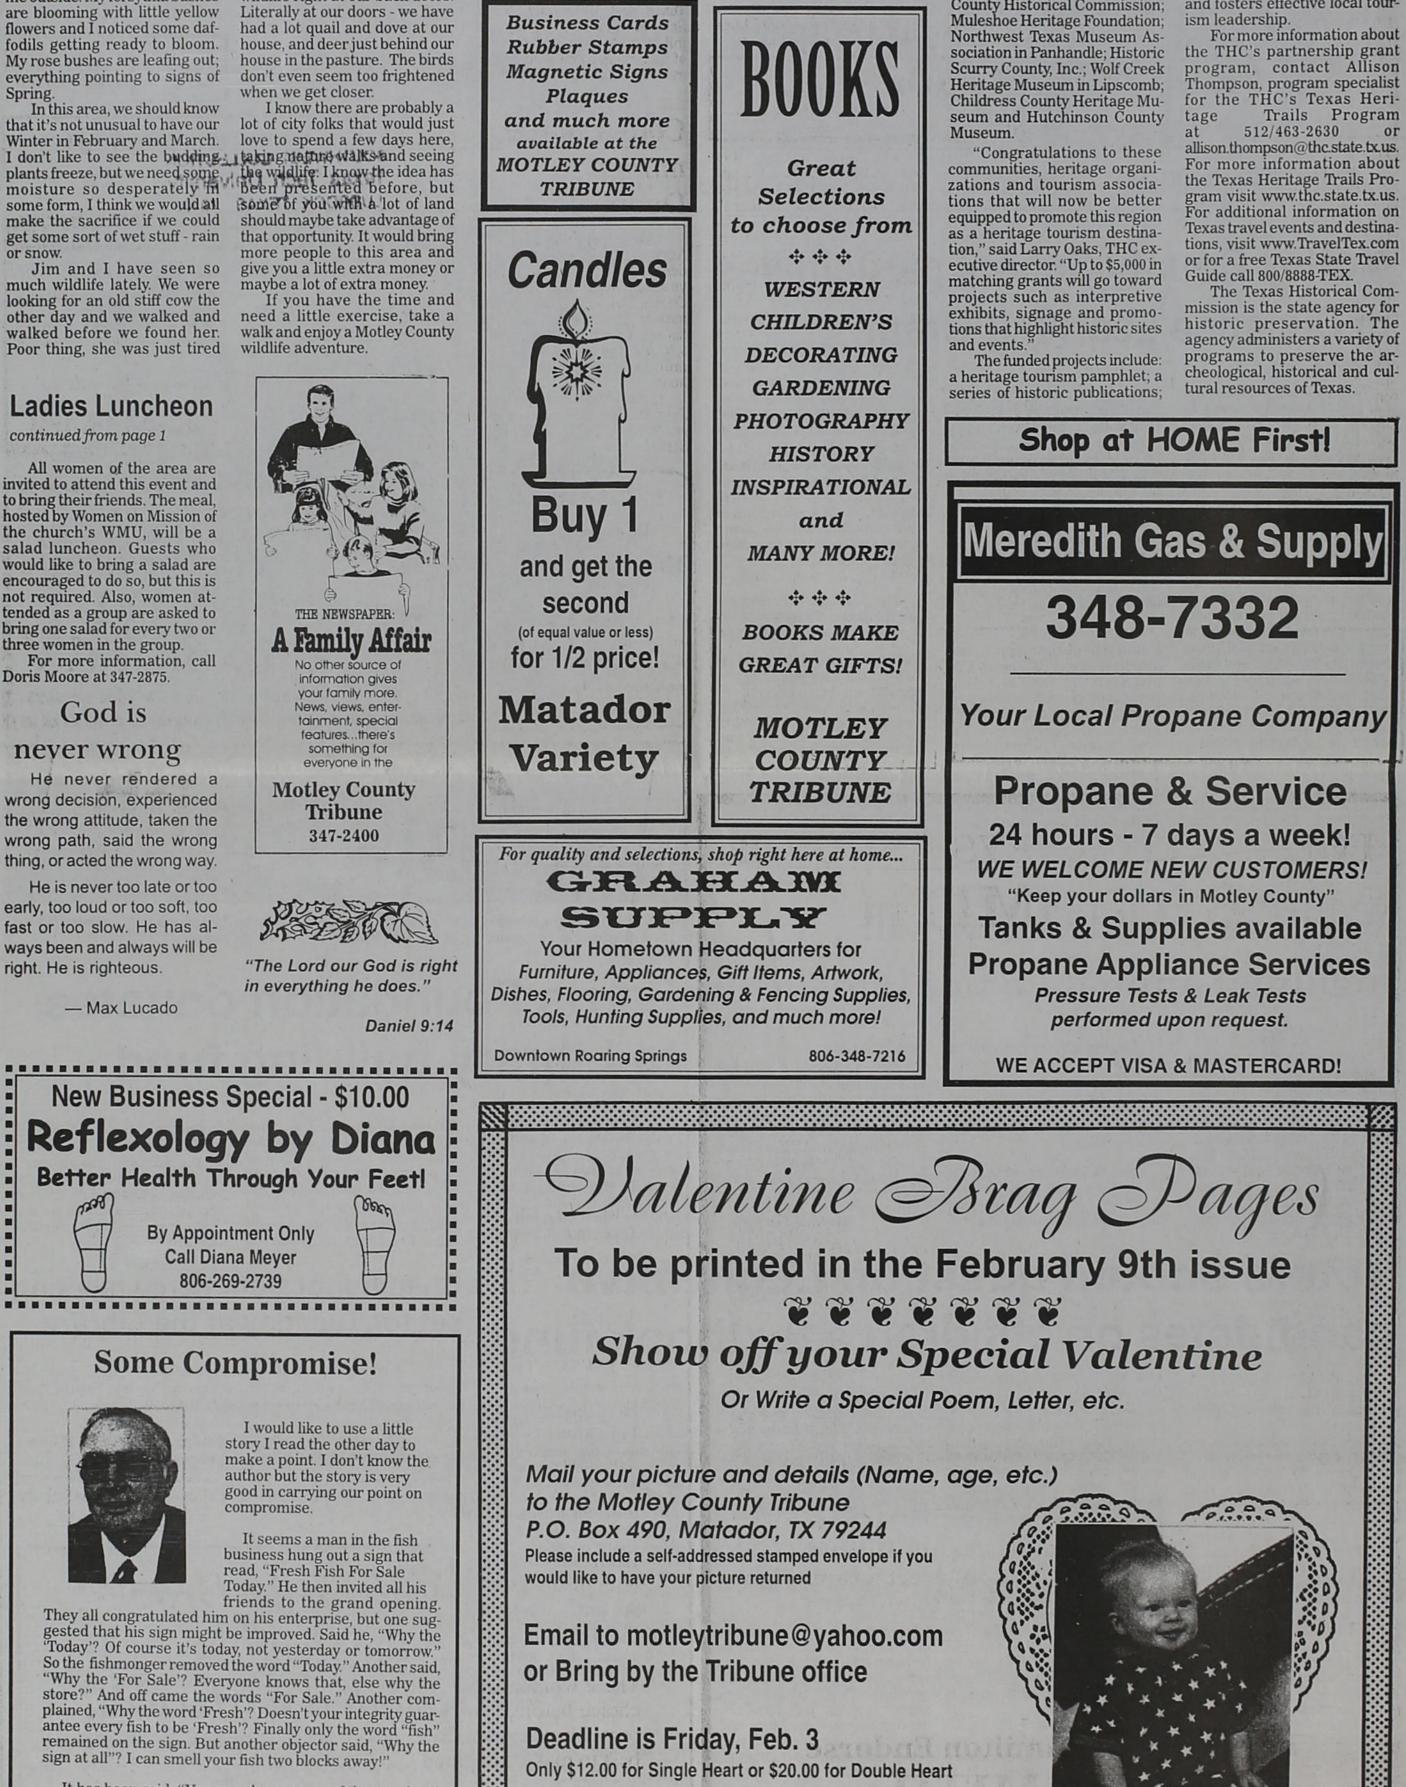

Today, Thursday, February , there will be a meeting of the Friends of the Library at 4:00 p.m. in the Library. We invite everyone to attend.

We had a lively book discus-sion of Sena Jeter Naslund's book Ahab's Wife last week. Eighteen ladies took part in the discussion led by Marisue Powell and Patricia Green. The consensus was that those who read the book either loved it or hated it. These two diverse opinions made for a rollicking discussion among these attend-ees: Ruby McGuire, Marihelen Wason, Lindy Stafford, Winifred Darsey, Betty Moore, Joanie

Stephens, Betty Henry, Dorothy Knight, Billie Koon, Jeanette Case, Janie Campbell, Joyce Campbell, Dartha Westbrook, Marie-Louise Liebe-Harkort, Deb Spray, Sue Seigler, Jo Crowder and Suzanne Abbott.

We appreciate the memorial donations that we received last week. We thank Charley and Opal Johnson for their donation in memory of Lola Pohl and we thank W.C. Pallmeyer for his donation in memory of Lola Pohl and Susanna Woodruff.

Please don't forget to come to the Friends of the Library meeting.

Heritage Tourism Grant recipients announced by Texas Historical Commission

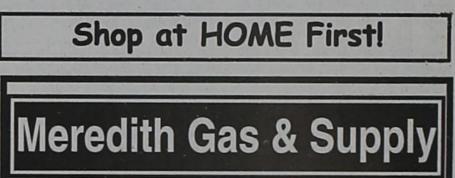

Austin -- The Texas Historical Commission (THC) has awarded $30,000 in Heritage Tourism Partnership Grant funds to seven organizations for the promotion of the Texas Plains Trail Region, a 52-county area located throughout the Panhandle of Texas.

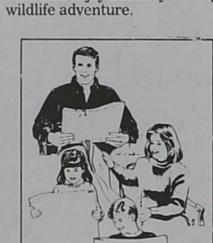

The grants are part of the THC's award-winning heritage tourism initiative, the Texas Heritage Trails Program. The partnership grant program helps communities fund projects that enhance the visitor experience to cultural and historic sites and events in the Texas Plains Trail Region.

Recipients include: Lamb County Historical Commission; establishment of a brochuresharing, cross-promotional network; production of a historic home video; directional signage; interpretive exhibits; web site upgrades; and the re-organization of a museum's pro-motional efforts. All projects will promote the Texas Plains Trail Region -- a requirement to obtain the funding.

The Texas Heritage Trails Program increases tourism at cultural and heritage sites in regions across Texas and revitalizes local economies through regional tourism development and marketing. The program also stresses the importance of historic preservation to tourism and fosters effective local tour-

Consider:

Perception is reality with a time lag.

-- BT CEO Ben Verwaayen

Hopefully, reality won't catch you with a time lag this time.

It may seem early, but time moves really fast, so you, your club or organization does need to get moving if you want to take advantage of the opportunity coming up on March 5th. The Boondockers are coming to Matador. They are planning a motorcycle race for March 5th, in the afternoon after church.

When you hear, "Motorcycle Race," you may think of Hell's Angels or some such group, but nothing could be further from the reality of this group. They are families, mothers, fathers, and children, who do things together on the weekends to have a good time. They don't sit in front of the TV or segregate into age-group defined clusters. They travel together, get to know different places and different people, and are out to have a good time without bothering anyone.

And they want you to join in and have a good time, too.

This event can benefit the whole county in many ways. It can benefit the communities directly in that the riders are charged an entry fee, and if the income exceeds the costs of staging the event, the surplus will be donated to the Chamber, to be divided among the groups and clubs that come out and help make the event a success.

And of course it can benefit the clubs and groups directly, when they participate by offer-ing food and drinks for the Boondockers to purchase. If we have anything like the 150 riders who participated in Spur, there will be a lot of family members, in addition to the riders, and they will be grateful for anything you or your group can offer.

H - FEF

Since the Chamber of Commerce wants to help by coordinating the projects or conces-sions planned in connection with the event, we ask that you come or send a representative next Tuesday, February 7th, for the Chamber meeting at 5:30 p.m. at the Library. You can talk to Dianne Washington at 347-2636 or Annette Hollinsworth at 347-2388 if you have any questions.

So plan early, and prevent the time lag. See you on Thursday at the Chamber meeting.

Rural Health Education Scholarship application available

The Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center Office of Rural and Community Health has opened the 2006-2007 Rural Health Education Scholarship application. The Rural Health Scholarship Program provides approximately $150,000 in financial assistance annually to students who are committed to returning to a rural community to practice

The Rural Health Education Scholarship Program is geared to address the shortage of health professionals in rural West Texas by easing the expense of college for rural students.

The Rural Health Education Scholarship program is part of Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center's rural health initiatives to develop a pipeline of health care professionals to meet the health care work force needs of West Texas. This pipeline begins with the work of the West Texas Area Health Education Center Program and its regional centers to promote health careers to young people across West Texas. The AHEC of the Plains offers classroom presentations, health careers, summer camps, and other activities to area schools in an effort to foster students' interest in health careers and the opportunities that exist in rural communities.

Entering freshmen, junior college transfers, and current students at Texas Tech University as well as incoming and current students at Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center, who are eligible for instate tuition, are eligible to apply for the scholarship. Scholarship recipients must show a substantial interest in health careers in rural Texas. Priority is given to students from rural Texas.

The scholarship amount for undergraduate students is generally $2,500 per year for a maximum of four years and is renewable providing the student maintains a 3.2 grade point av-erage and participates in rural health-focused activities. The number and amount of awards offered are based on funding availability.

For more information on the scholarship and to submit applications online, visit http:// www.ttuhsc.edu/ruralhealth/ scholarships.aspx or contact Liz Inskip-Paulk in the Office of Rural and Community Health at (806) 743-1338.

THE AGE OF THE EARTH AND UNIVERSE?

Before launching into this and before anybody gets their nose out of joint or their knickers in a knot, let me say again, this is NOT essential orthodox (right belief) doctrine. There are good nature Christians on both sides of the issue, some believing in an old earth and universe ("old earthers") millions or billions of year old, while others believe in a young earth and universe ("young earthers:) sixten thousand years old, and some are "flip-floppers." The point is, this is still an open question! But, it is an important question, one we can vigorously debate, but not divide over. Be-sides, it's interesting.

An old maxim that some attribute to St. Augustine, goes this way: "In essentials, unity; in "age" question clearly is within "non-essential liberty," but is still a profound question for a number of reasons. A "young" earth" more neatly fits a plain reading of Genesis 1-11 as statements of historical fact, rather than allegory, whereas a very "old earth" is an absolute necessity to support the theory of Darwinian evolution, which is decidedly anti-God and anti-

Yours truly has always been a bit of a "shade-tree" geologist, astronomer, and theoretical physicist, and came to this study a committed "old-earther," because that is what he was taught as truth and he assumed it was proven. Not so now! After a deep study of both the Bible and emerging scientific-evidence, he is a committed youngearther, and can prove its high non-essentials, liberty; and in all things, charity (love). "The "nuts." In the only remaining alto "nuts." God and they know it!

You may be asking, "How can this be? We were all taught 'old earth' in school and college." That's true, but there's been a "cover-up" and brain-washing. What we will cover in coming articles is intentionally not taught our students, as it would upset the entire "apple cart." The science curriculum is dictatorially controlled by the National Center for Science Education, the National Education Association, and the National Science Foundation, and they are committed to the protection and preservation of Darwinian Evolutionary theory at all costs.

Why? To teach or allow scientific evidence of a "young earth" in the classroom would absolutely destroy evolutionary theory and leave them facing the only remaining alternative-

Hunter Education Course fee increase approved

Austin, Texas – The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission adopted a fee increase for attending a hunter education class from $10 to $15. The increase will take effect June 1, 2006.

According to Steve Hall, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Education Director, the increase is a needed incentive to increase volunteer instructor recruitment efforts. Under current rule, an instructor is authorized to retain $5, which has been in effect since 1995. The department has determined that economic factors have affected the out-ofpocket expenses incurred by volunteer instructors over the last 10 years, and that it is appropriate to increase the amount retained by volunteer instructors.

"Volunteer instructors are

State approves project supporting military operations

Austin -- The state is fulfilling its commitment to build new roads and other infrastructure to support expanding military operations throughout Texas. The Texas Transportation Commission authorized a $13 million construction project, Thursday, January 26, that will improve roads around the Red River Army Depot in Bowie County.

"This action by the Texas Transportation Commission completes Texas' pledge to make needed improvements to roads in and around the Red River Army Depot," said Governor Rick Perry. "Once com-pleted, these projects will re-lieve congestion and take the strain off existing local roadways and improve the Depot's access to I-30 so that employees can respond more effectively to repair and maintenance demands in support of expanded missions it has received to support the Global War on Terrorism.'

The Transportation Commisson also authorized ment.

Last December, TxDOT received a proposal submitted by J.D. Abrams, L.P. proposing to expedite construction of the Inner Loop highway. The project calls for construction of a 7-mile roadway connection between Biggs Field and the El Paso International Airport.

In other action, the commission approved granting up to $12.25 million in toll equity to the Northeast Texas Regional Mobility Authority. The money would fund the design, engineering, traffic and revenue, legal and financial services to develop the Loop 49 project in Smith County. Financing the project in such a manner could expedite its construction by more than 20 years.

During the meeting, the commisson and TxDOT staff held a discussion to begin outlining the department's state and federal legislative priorities for the near future. TxDOT is working to accomplish five goals: reduce congestion, eliminate unsafe conditions, expand economic opportunity, improve air quality, and increase the value of transportation assets.

the backbone of the hunter education program," said Hall. "Last year, approximately 2,500 volunteers provided hunter education training to 32,000 persons in Texas."

Every hunter (including outof-state hunters) born on or after Sept. 2, 1971, must successfully complete a Hunter Education Training Course to hunt in Texas.

There are some exceptions for youngsters. Youth younger than 12 can hunt but must be accompanied by a person licensed to hunt in Texas who has completed a hunter education course, or is exempt by age. Youth ages 12-16 can hunt on their own if they have completed hunter education, but adult supervision is recommended.

Currently, there are three ways to take hunter education, traditional classroom instruction, home study and skills trail testing and an online course with skills trail testing. Home study and online course participants must come to a testing site to complete their training.

TPWD is looking at additional innovative alternatives to provide effective and convenient hunter education training, including the potential use of new technology using simulated live fire exercises through computer technology. The department also offers a deferral program that allows hunters to purchase a $10 "waiver" good for up to one year under certain provisions.

A complete listing of hunter education courses is on the TPWD Web site.

Since 1972, over 713,000 Texans have completed the hunter education course, which is mandatory in 50 states and 10 Canadian provinces. Hunter education became a legal requirement in 1988. Partly as a result of hunter education, Texas hunting accident rates have steadily decreased from a high of more than 12 accidents per 100,000 hunters in 1966 to below five accidents per 100,000 hunters in recent years.

Volunteer instructors must be at least 21 years old, have taken the hunter education course, filled out an application, and been through a game warden interview and an instructor course. Anyone interested can contact TPWD at (800) 792-1112, Ext. 4999 or see the TPWD Web site.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

their Christmas tree was a "great big fireball." She flagged down Kempf in his truck and they went into the house. He crawled in a few feet and saw flames through the dense smoke. He grabbed a garden hose and had to get ice chunks out before the water would flow forcefully. Kempf turned into a firefighter. The next thing Mrs. Wilhite knew was the fire was out and all the windows opened.

Kempf quietly departed after the firefighters arrived. "They could have lost their house without his help" said a fire department spokesman. The estimated damage was $25,000.

"To me Kempf is a hometown hero," said Mrs. Wilhite. "He was so levelheaded and I was an emotional wreck. It could have been much worse! I am really thankful he was there!"

John Kempf is a 1992 Randall High graduate and a six year Starkey employee. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Starkey of Flomot.

Donnie Turner suffered face and eye injury when unloading a bull at Floydada Livestock Sales in Floydada Tuesday, Jan. 24. The stock trailer iron gate swung back hitting his face when the bull decided to get back in the trailer. His wife, Linda said he looked like a raccoon he had such bad bruises.

Wilburn Martin visited Thursday and Friday in Borger with his daughter and husband, Marilee and Fred Cooper. Joining him there Thursday night for supper was his granddaughter, Lindsay Martin of Amarillo. They enjoyed the men's basketball game Thursday night at Frank Phillips College.

Dear Voters,

Sincerely,

Bill Smith

Candidate for 110th District Judge

I'd like to take this opportunity to set the record straight and dispel some rumors and false information you may have heard about me. As Will Rogers once said, "Rumor travels faster, but it don't stay put as FALSE: You may have heard that I would move the district office from Floydada to Silverton.

TRUTH: No way. My plan is to travel the district, holding court wherever the cases arise. The majority of my time would therefore be spent in the Floyd County Courthouse. The office will remain where it is.

FALSE: You may have heard I have a lack of experience.

TRUTH: We don't live in a high-crime metropolitan area, so I don't have the weekly trial experience of a TV lawyer - Hallelujah! Isn't that one of the many reasons we choose to live here? As judge, I will continue do my part to protect our quality of life by upholding the law and protecting the rights of

Since elected in 1996, I have assisted the District Attorney in EVERY felony criminal trial before a jury in Briscoe County. These trials have included felony injuries to children, attempted capital murder, and murder. EVERY felon has been found guilty by the jury in each of these trials. I have tried four criminal cases before a jury in the Briscoe County Court. I have also presented cases before the grand jury on my behalf, as well as for the District Attorney when she has been unable to attend.

It's important to note that I have brought before the court in excess of 200 criminals who have pled guilty rather than face trial in Briscoe County Court. I consider this a win/win situation, prosecuting crime while saving taxpayers the expense of costly trials, not to mention hours and hours of jurors' time.

I have also represented child protective services when they have had to remove children from abusive parents. I have experience in family law matters such as divorces and adoptions. As an arbitrator, I have filled the shoes of a judge. I have decided cases after hearing witness testimony and reviewing documented evidence. My decisions as an arbitrator are based on the same knowledge and skills a judge would use.

I will never shy away from comparisons and contrasts with an opponent. Falsehoods are another matter. Distorting facts is a questionable, if not dangerous, habit for a judge.

TRUTH: I am experienced, educated, equipped and ready to serve you as 110th District Judge. And I'm

Birds, rodents can cause significant damage to animal feeding operations

Amarillo -- Thousands of starlings perched on a high wire may be an impressive sight for some, but for livestock operation owners, they are a picture of money flying off the property. Birds and rodents both cost feed yards, dairies and grain elevators thousands of dollars every day, said Joe Zotter, biologist for the Texas High Plains Grain Elevator Workshop here.

Texas Wildlife Services professionals resolve conflicts resulting from wildlife, Zotter said. The agency is funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Texas A&M University System.

"The European starling is nothing more than a rat with wings," Zotter said. "Thousands can accumulate on a single feedlot or dairy. We helped one feed yard that had an estimated 1 million birds every day from November to February."

If each bird consumes 2 to 3 ounces of grain per day, that means two semi-truckloads of grain are flying off daily, he said. and, because the birds only select certain gains from the ra-tions being fed to the animals, it throws the whole nutritional balance off, Zotter said.

"It has been reported by some confined animal facilities to have endured economic losses as high as $5,000 per day due to feed loss and disease in livestock caused by starlings and blackbirds," he said.

Dropplings from multitudes of birds, whether they are starlings, pigeons or sparrows, can cause disease, he said.

Avicides, pesticides for birds, are one method of control, Zotter said. DRC 1339 has been the most effective product he has used. The government-restricted powder can be used on corn to bait areas where birds habitually feed. The avicide may take one to three days to effect the birds," he said.

come in contact with the droppings

Histoplasmosis, which has pneumonia-type symptoms, can lead to serious problems in humans if not properly diagnosed, Zotter said. Other zoonotic diseases transmitted by pigeons include encephalitis, cryptto-coccosis and salmonella, he said.

Feral pigeons, European starlings and house sparrows rely on human's habits to live, he said. Grain storage facilities or anything in ill repair can serve as a nesting or resting area.

Eliminating and modifying their preferred perches can be done by adding cat-claw wire on the surface or using a slick material such as metal flashing or plastic at a 45 degree angle, Zotter said

Pigeons, which often avoid laced bait, might need to be con-trolled with direct shooting, he said. The wildlife services can utilize red lights, night vision equipment, hollow point ammu-nition and pellets to help pro-vide control, Zotter said.

'We're not out to destroy anything other than pigeons when we do the indoor shoots," he said. "It's a selective method of shooting birds and can be a good alternative to using toxicants where there is a concern for non-target exposure. It's easy, effective and quick.

'Sometimes shooting is the only solution," Zotter said. Rodents also cause destruction. Rats and mice can chew holes in grain sacks and gnaw on everything from pipe insula-tion to electric wires. They also spread disease, he said.

Mouse and rat droppings carry a number of pathogens and parasites, as well as viruses. Anyone who walks through a contaminated area may be exposed, Zotter said. fective in controlling their movement, he said. Traps must be set strategically up against a wall or in confined areas to be most effective.

Whether the pest is the rat on the ground or what Zotter calls "flying rats," he advised to use a mixed bag of methods for control and not rely on just one.

Low Interest

Emergency Loans The Secretary of Agriculture designated Hall County a primary natural disaster area due to damage caused by excessive rain, hail, and high winds that occurred on October 10, 2005. Motley County was named as a contiguous disaster county.

This designation makes farm operations in primary and contiguous counties eligible to be considered for low-interest emergency loans from the FSA. FSA will consider each loan application on its own merits, taking into account the extent of losses, security available, and repayment ability.

These applications will be received through September 18, 2006. For more information, contact Larry Goetze at the Donley County office or Debbie Roberts at the Hall County office.

Loans for Socially Disadvantaged Applicants

The Farm Service Agency can make direct and guaranteed loans to socially disadvantaged applicants to buy and operate family-size farms and ranches.

A socially disadvantaged applicant is one of a group may be made for ownership or operating purposes, and may be made by any lending institution subject to federal or state supervision (e.g., banks and units of the Farm Credit System). FSA typically guarantees 90 to 95 percent of a loan against any loss that might be incurred if the loan fails.

Persons who are primarily and directly engaged in farming and ranching of family size operations may apply.

Socially disadvantaged loan applicants do not receive automatic approval. Individual applicants under this program must meet all requirements for FSA's regular farm loan program as-sistance. Contact the county office staff or USDA Service Center for more information.

Youth Loans Through FSA

The Youth Loan program assists eligible rural youth with loans to establish and operate a money making project in conjunction with 4-H or FFA. These loans are a good way for young-sters to get a start in their own farming operation while learning financial management and responsibility. For more information contact the local FSA
