TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Evil must start with a weakness and progress through deterioration of forces supporting character. It is like the leak in a dam that grows in magnitude until the structure is destroyed.

It is strange that the weak are often reluctant to grant amnesty for an offense while seeing in it a reflection of their own conduct. Might, when properly administered, may on the other hand, support the order of compassion.

One way to keep a conversation simple is to listen with respect for equal time.

The congestion of personal problems often restricts the number that can pass a given point within a 24-hour period.

The man who knows which side of his bread the butter is on, may be unable to determine whether it is a substitute or genuine.

A new automobile may be a prestige symbol but it may also raise speculation as to the number and size of payments remaining to be paid.

My reckless spending started as a boy when I would go to town Saturday afternoon and buy a White Owl cigar for a nickle.

A smoldering hate can become a blazing fire that consumes friendship and produces contempt for the world in general.

Big Rock Broken By Mighty Hammer

The big rock of steel and concrete south of the Matador Auto Co. agency, has been broken. The massive man-made stone was once the base for a compressor used in the ice plant formerly located on the site.

Glenn Woodruff, manager of Matador Auto Co., purchased the building and had Jameson Machinery Co. dig the compressor base out after the structure had been razed. The rock was too big to move (some estimates of its weight were as much as 30 tons).

Ferrier Bros., of Seymour, doing bridge work for Cooper & Woodruff on State Highway 70, used a crane and 3,000-lb. hammer to break the rock. They also broke up the foundation of reinforced concrete that was once the base for a diesel power plant that supplied Matador with electricity more than 30 years ago.

Woodruff acquired the property from West Texas Utilities Co. several years ago. He plans now to level the site and use it as a parking area.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Waybourn of Lubbock, former Matador residents visited friends here Sunday.

IT WAS HIS DAY—Jack Bradshaw, right, is shown here receiving a plaque from Stuart Dixon, during "Jack Bradshaw Day" Tuesday, February 18, in the new ASCS Building which had its formal opening last week. Mr. Bradshaw, a native son of Motley County, is now Assistant to the State ASC Committee in Bryan. Mr. Dixon is chairman of the Motley County ASC committee. Wording on the plaque which now hangs in the new building, is as follows: "Motley County ASCS Building dedicated to Jack Bradshaw in recognition of outstanding service rendered to Agriculture in Texas. COME TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Protestant Seminary Enrollments Climb

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
The clergy shortage that has hampered Protestant churches for two decades may soon be a thing of the past.

Seminary enrollments—the best index to the supply of future ministers—have been in a steady upward trend for the past five years. Since 1964, total enrollment at seminaries accredited by the American Assn. of Theological Schools has climbed from 21,025 to 28,633.

Meanwhile, the demand for additional clergy has slackened, as churches have experienced a slowdown in membership growth. During the peak years of the postwar religious revival, church membership increased at rates as high as 3.5 per cent a year. Last year, the increase reported by the Yearbook of American Churches was less than 1 per cent.

Already Reached
As a result, some Protestant bodies have already reached and others are in sight of the day when they will have, if not all of the ministers they need, at least as many as their inadequate budgets will allow them to hire.

The outlook is different, however, in the Roman Catholic church. Catholic seminary enrollments have been declining steadily for more than 10 years. Since 1968, the number of students enrolled in priestly training has dropped from 49,000 to 43,000. And there is so far no sign of a turn-around in this trend.

The situation is causing considerable concern to America's Catholic bishops, who discussed it at length during their last semi-annual meeting in Washington last November.

While the bishops didn't reach any formal conclusions, there was apparently general agreement that the decline in seminary enrollment is one more symptom of the travail the church is suffering as it grapples with the task of renewal.

With 60,000 priests to care for 48 million baptized Catholics, the United States still has one of the most favorable priest-to-communicant ratios in the world. But the seminary enrollment figures do not bode well for the years ahead.
Last year, Catholic seminary enrollments dropped by 5,543, or 13 per cent. And that came on top of a decline of 2,667, or 6 per cent in the previous year.

Preliminary reports from major sees point toward another substantial loss this year. For example, the archdiocese of Philadelphia says its seminaries now have less than half as many students as they had four years ago.

Beginning at 1:30 p.m. the program will be held in the church parlor, concluding at 4:30, with a refreshment break between 2:30 and 3 o'clock. An Annie Armstrong Easter offering will be taken for home missions.

All women of the church are invited to join the members of WMS in attending the meeting.

SENIOR HIGHLIGHT

by Laura Jacobs

James Hoover is the seventeen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Rayworth Hoover of the Northfield community. He was born in Childress, January 8, 1952. He has blue eyes and blond hair.

Since entering high school in 1965, James has been very busy studying, running track, and being an active member of the Future Farmers of America. He was a member of the judging team his sophomore year. James is also recognized for his musical talent. He has appeared on the Amateur Hour three years in high school, as well as performing on specials such as the Senior Class Christmas Program.

When James is at home he likes to play his guitar, and listen to the radio. He prefers country and western music, but also likes modern and popular. His favorite color is blue.

After graduation, James plans to attend West Texas State University where he plans to study Data Processing. When asked why he wanted to specialize in this field, he replied, "I like to run complicated machines."

Representative Of Wendy Ward Speaks to FHA

Mrs. Jean Burk, the Wendy Ward representative for Montgomery Ward of Lubbock, spoke to the Future Homemakers of America, February 19, at their monthly meeting in the high school auditorium.

The Wendy Ward program in Lubbock is the first one in West Texas. At the present, it is the only one in the area, however, one is being planned in Amarillo. The Lubbock branch is also one of the most successful ones in Texas. Mrs. Burk stated that the reason for this was the low cost of the course.

Mrs. Burk teaches charm courses at the newly instituted Wendy Ward Charm School in Lubbock. She began her talk by stating that women from 3 to 83 years of age all agree on one thing—they want to be beautiful.

"One must possess an attitude of beauty as well as form beauty habits to be beautiful," Mrs. Burk said. "Charm and beauty are individual and learned; people are not born with them."

Mrs. Burk gave the girls hints concerning accessories appropriate for day time, date time, play time and evening. She concluded her discussion with reminders that posture reveals as much about a person as his signature.

YOUTH AMERICA OFFER CLINICS

"The youth of America is the oldest tradition. It has been going on now for three hundred years." This is the motto of the organization "Youth America." Youth America, a non-profit service, was founded on these words. The organization raises funds for college scholarships, and presents workshops of various types throughout the United States to help young Americans learn to help themselves. Youth America raises funds for their scholarships through the workshops they present.

The students of MHS have been invited to attend these workshops: Stage Band, Rock and Roll, Folk Group, Cheerleading and Art. Every clinic has been prepared, and will be presented by highly trained professional in the field. The entrance fee is $3.00 for the all day classes.

The programs include pointers and lectures on techniques; auditions; evaluations; prizes and trophies; and a question and answer period. The cheerleading classes also include fund raising projects and skits; pep rally ideas; new routines; stunts; and an election of three cheerleaders. The art clinic plans 35-mm slide presentation reviewing art of the past 100 years and basics of good color and composition.

The clinics are held in Dallas and Houston, in Texas. Anyone wishing to obtain further information should contact Mrs. J. E. Edwards.

Matador lost to Turkey in another heart breaker, Saturday night. Matador led 33 to 32 at the half, but Turkey outscored the Matadors in the third quarter, and the clock ran out soon for Matador to catch up in the fourth quarter.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM YOUR STATE CAPITAL

By—Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN.—Gov. Preston Smith handed the 61st Legislature a $261.5 million new revenue program to balance his general revenue budget recommendations totaling more than $1.4 billion.

Reaction varied widely, though few expect the $148.8 million direct biennial tax bill submitted by the governor in his message to the joint session will pass as proposed.

Ninety per cent of $138 million in general fund spending which Smith recommended over the Legislature Budget Board's $1.1 billion appropriations bill would go to education. Teacher pay raises—$1,266 a year for B. A. teachers and 1,580 for M.A. holders—would take $220 million over next two years.

Smith suggested ways in which the extra money could be raised, some of them already controversial.

One of those was the so-called "Cavness plan", advocated years ago by Former State Auditor C. H. Cavness and now sponsored by his son, Rep. Don Cavness of Austin.

It proposes to divert all but 27 1/2 per cent of the revenues from the public school lands into day-by-day state aid to schools. This would pull an estimated $71.6 million in two years which otherwise would go into the permanent school fund. Under present law, all the income from school oil and gas leases goes into the permanent fund and is invested. Income from the investments is distributed among schools on a per capita basis.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler and the School Land Board have come out against the proposal to spend 72 1/2 per cent of the income.

Smith's other revenue proposals are these:

* An increase from 11 to 14 cents a package in taxes on cigarettes, to raise $45 million in two years.

* Extension of the sales tax to cover services such as laundry, dry cleaning, repairs, parking and cable TV, to raise $48.8 million.

* Extension of the sales tax to cover wine, beer and liquor, to raise $40 million.

* Extension of the sales tax to the purchase of cars and other equipment bought for rental purposes, to raise $9 million.

* Putting an additional state fine of $10 on all moving traffic law violation cases, to raise $38.5 million.

* Raise notary, corporation charter and uniform commercial code fees, to raise $2.6 million.

* Increase fees paid to the Secretary of State, to raise $2.6 million.

* Remainder of Smith's revenue would come from the $58.5 million surplus.

Governor urged the following for education in addition to the teacher pay hike. Vocational-technical education improvements totalling $25 million more than previously recommended; $12 million to hire more teacher aides; $16 million increase for special education of handicapped; $5 million to conduct a pilot eight-week optional summer school program; $3.3 million for teacher sick leave; $12 million more for junior colleges; $3 million to develop regional educational closed circuit television systems; $8.3 million each for new medical schools in Houston and Lubbock; $7.3 million for new dental school in San Antonio; $600,000 to expand Baylor dental and medical units and $500,000 for studies measuring results of public education.

Governor thinks $11.7 million more is needed for medical assistance programs; $6.5 million for a 3.4 per cent state employee pay raise; $5 million more to pay employee group insurance premium; $2.2 million more for his own office; $1.8 million to implement water planning; $200,000 for Water Rights Commission; $200,000 each for urban studies at Arlington and Houston; $300,000 for Parks and Wildlife Commission and $300,000 for centralized services. Department of Public Safety would get $8.5 million more from special funds to hire more personnel, build additional facilities and improve communications.

But on one of the big issues of the legislative session, increased appropriations for higher education, Smith stood pat with the Legislative Budget Board recommendations. This is $73 million less on the seven "formula" items. College presidents told the appropriations hearing that they simply cannot handle the flood of new students without the $73 million.

On the proposals of Gov. John Connally's Committee on Public School Education for consolidation and tax equalization, Governor Smith drew a middle ground. He advocated a state stamp tax on real estate transactions as a way of studying the variation in assessment bases for local school tax purposes. He referred to the rural school consolidation proposals in critical terms, but did not come out against it or suggest to the Legislature any decision on the recommendations for consolidation.

LEGISLATION MOVES ON—Governor Smith has signed into law bills to raise state employee retirement benefits an average 10 per cent and to raise from five to six and a half per cent the maximum interest rate on state and local bonds.

Senate passed 30-0 and sent to the House a compromise workmen's compensation reform bill, raising top benefits from $35 to $49 a week for injured or ill workers. Senate also passed a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize appropriation of funds for governors-elect between general election day and inauguration, bills to create separate boards of regents for East Texas State and West Texas State universities, authority for county commissioners to furnish free office space and telephones to legislators in their home districts and tax exemption for 500 non-profit rural water cooperatives and nursing homes.

House lagged far behind the Senate but did complete action on the bond interest bill, create a commission to operate the Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz Museum in Fredericksburg and pass a bill to permit local libraries to join in a statewide network for exchange of books and service.

Liquor-by-the-drink constitutional amendments landed on Senate and House calendars with favorable committee reports and predictions of support by two-thirds of lawmakers. Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes appeared to be taking a personal hand in steering the senate legislation.

Meanwhile, the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee unceremoniously killed another familiar measure—San Antonio Sen. V. E. (Red) Berry's proposal to legalize horse race gambling in Bexar and Harris counties.

Constitutional amendment to remove welfare ceiling has cleared Senate Committee. Bill is pending in Senate to rename Corpus Christi State School for the late Sen. Bruce Reagan who handled legislation creating it.

ALLOWABLE BOOSTED—Texas Railroad Commission fixed oil allowable for March at 45.6 per cent of potential, compared with 42.8 per cent for February.

At the same time, Commission notified oil and gas officials it plans strengthened rule over offshore drilling to head off an incident like the oil leak off the California coast and the resulting pollution.

COURTS SPEAK—Texas Supreme Court has set a March 26 hearing on the suit challenging constitutionality of the state's Sunday closing law. Spartan's, Barker's, Shoppers World and Globe Stores won a verdict in San Antonio District court that the law is invalid.

High Court left in effect the decision of Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals that the "reasonable doubt" rule applying to adult criminal trials also must be adhered to in juvenile delinquency cases.

Supreme Court held that a district court jury or judge should pass on whether an Amarillo television broadcast improperly termed a Borger man a supermarket bandit. Suspect was freed before the broadcast on his arrest.

Electric company is not liable for punitive damages in the accidental electrocution of a young woman who was boating on Lake Jacksonville, Supreme Court concluded.

OFFICIAL MEMORANDUM

By PRESTON SMITH, Governor of Texas

GREETINGS:

Special observance of increased emphasis on our education system has been marked annually for nineteen years by a Public Schools Week in Texas.

During this period, parents are encouraged to visit the public schools, and all citizens are urged through special programs to recognize the tremendous importance of our system of education. Our goal is to make Texas public schools the finest in the Nation, and to achieve this our citizens are urged to take an active interest in the school systems and to cooperate with their school boards, superintendents, principals and teachers.

Never before in our history has there been a greater need for educated leadership. As we rush to train young people in science and technology to keep pace with world events, it is also important to remember that our public schools will furnish tomorrow's leaders with the basic human, moral and spiritual foundations necessary for more advanced training and knowledge.

THEREFORE, I, as governor of Texas, do hereby designate the period of March 2-8, 1969, as PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK in Texas.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 28th day of January, 1969.

County Agent Gives Annual Summary of Agricultural Work

by Bill Palmeyer

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service, with headquarters at Texas A&M University is the educational branch of the USDA. These responsibilities are fulfilled by demonstrations, distribution of publications, publication of news items and reports, meetings, visits and consultations with individuals and organizations and through the 4-H Club program.

Cooperating in this effort are the USDA, State of Texas and Motley County to carry out a program planned by the local people on recognized needs.

The Motley County Planning commission is the coordinating body, with subcommittees organized for livestock production; field crops production and youth work. Members of these committees plan and determine the work to be done during the year, as well as assist with the carrying out of this work.

During the year, 1817 individual contacts were made, either through farm visits, office calls or telephone conversations. In addition, 297 contacts were made with organizations and agencies. 384 different meetings were held, and 5,998 publications were distributed.

Letters written totaled 6,426 and 185 news articles were released. 250 days were worked during the year, and 13,662 miles were driven. 142 days were devoted mainly to agricultural production, management and natural resource use; 2 to marketing and utilization; 38 on 4-H and other youth work; and 68 on community improvement and public affairs. In addition to the 38 days devoted to 4-H and other youth work, 62 of the 212 other days were devoted mainly to 4-H programs for a total of 100 days work with youth and 150 days work with adults.

FHA Water System Benefits County

Nearly 250 rural Motley County residents are now benefiting from community water financed by the Farmers Home Administration according to Alfred A. Harrison, County Supervisor.

"Lack of clean, fresh water and proper sewage disposal facilities is an age-old problem not yet solved in many Texas rural communities; however, our rural water and sewer financing program is helping to close the gap between rural and urban utility services", says Harrison.

Texas now has in operation 466 rural water systems and 11 rural sewer projects financed by the Farmers Home Administration. These systems serve over 257,000 rural and small town residents. There are 93 water and/or sewer projects under construction which, when completed, will serve an additional 53,000 rural people.

Banks, insurance companies, and other private lenders loaned about 90 per cent of the funds used in this program last fiscal year. The Farmers Home Administration insures repayment to private lenders and makes direct loans when private sources of credit are not available to applicants.

Harrison pointed out that rural water and sewer projects are organized through local initiative of prospective users in the community. Loans are repaid from the earnings of the systems during periods of up to 40 years.

The lines will be replacing portable aluminum lines which cause a high friction loss between the pipe and water which in turn causes water seepage, and also throws a heavy load on the irrigation pump.

on your grand opening

This 40x42 ft. (1680 sq. foot) building was recently completed for James Stanley of Matador

This building represents a wise investment in the future of this entire community. We are proud to be a part of this project. The Stran-Steel components that are used in this building are the most modern available. They have been computer designed and mass produced for greater control over quality and costs. The durability of the solid steel beams is unquestioned. Precision engineering permitted the building to be put together quickly at the job site.

Attractive Stran-Steel buildings are available for every type of business. We will be happy to work with you or your architect to provide estimates and complete construction service. Call us today.

THE OLD MAN AND THE RAIN— This is not a posed photo. The rhouse building roof leaked in every pore last Thursday morning. This picture was made at 5 a.m. after editor Douglas Meador had fed the entire run wearing a raincoat and his hat. Buckets, pans, coffee cans and other containers were spaced throughout the backshop.

the Bird home on December 13, 1897.

As pioneers of both Dickens and Motley counties, Mr. and Mrs. Morris witnessed the growth of this area. They lived at Red Lake until 1908, when they came to Motley County. Following her husband's death, May 24, 1942, Mrs. Morris continued to make this her home until 1961, when she moved to Hico. She returned to Matador in 1963.

Although in failing health for a number of years, and blind for several years, she was alert and maintained a cheerful outlook on life and always enjoyed the visits of friends who called on her. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

Resides her husband, Mrs. Morris was preceded in death by two children who died in infancy.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Audrey Price of Matador; a sister, Mrs. Inez Reed of Fredell; three grandchildren, Charles Price of San Marino, Calif., James Price and Mrs. Carolyn Sowell, both of Matador and seven great-grandchildren.

Firefighting Unit Acquired by City

Matador Volunteer Fire Department has acquired a new (used) piece of firefighting equipment. It is a 1950 Chevrolet fire truck purchased from the Fire Appliance Co. of Wichita Falls. It had formerly been owned by the city of McLean.

The truck will replace the 30-year-old Ford now used as an auxiliary in emergencies. It carries 500 gallons of water and will be equipped with hose and booster.

The truck is financed by the 25c per month per meter charge which has been used to aid in maintaining fire equipment for several years.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

In addition to the greenbug, winter grain mites are attacking wheat and other small grains. This mite feeds on the leaves of small grain at night or on cloudy days, and on bright days the mites hide under the foliage on the soil surface, burrowing into the soil when the surface is dry.

Infested fields have a grayish or silvery appearance, which is caused by the removal of chlorophyll and plant juices by the feeding mites. When heavy infestations persist over a period of time, small grain plants die.

Both cultural and chemical control measures have been developed through research for control. Where small grains are rotated with other crops at least every two years, the damage caused by the mite is greatly reduced. Chemicals recommended are malathion, methyl parathion, parathion and phosphamidon. Rate of application and other information relative to grazing is given in Texas Guide for Controlling Insects and Mites on Grain and Forage Crops, which is available in my office.
