Highlights and Sidelights FROM YOUR STATE CAPITAL

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

(Delayed)

Houston legislators have offered bills to strengthen the state's open meetings law, to require posting of advance notices of all government agency sessions.

San Antonio Sen. V. E. (Red) Berry has introduced a proposed constitutional amendment to divide Texas into two states— North Texas and South Texas.

LEGISLATION ADVANCES —In the sharpest debate of the session, the House passed a tough bill to control disruptive activities on Texas school campuses and sent it to Senate.

Earlier the House approved a long string of bills including creation of a new medical school at San Antonio, changing the name of Stephen F. Austin State College at Nacogdoches to Stephen F. Austin State University, and lengthening the minimum time between local sales tax elections from two years to one. Later, representatives passed a law requiring eggs to be labeled as Texas or out-of-state products. A bill to increase city employee retirement benefits was dropped after an amendment excluded the Texas Municipal League staff.

An early House showdown was expected on the $3.5 billion water bond constitutional amendment. Senate voted authority for separate State Commission for Rehabilitation Service to Handicapped, approved a $468,931 emergency appropriation to rebuild the old fire-damaged gymnasium at Southwest Texas State College, changed the name of Corpus Christi State School to Bruce Reagan State School (in honor of former senator), and passed a bill to allow Texans to buy long guns and ammunition in contiguous states.

Both houses agreed on bills creating a commission to administer the Admiral Chester W. Nimitz Memorial Museum in Fredericksburg, and to designate an Animal Health Commission to prescribe tick-dipping material and regulations. Governor Smith signed into law a bill by Rep. Bill Clayton dissolving the Earth-Springlake Hospital District.

AG OPINIONS —Although state employees, covered by 1966 amendments to the federal fair labor standards act, have valid

AT CAMP PENDLETON— Pfc. Allen Dale Rector has returned to the Marine base at Camp Pendleton, Calif., after a month's special training in North Carolina. He has been in the Marine Corps since October. claim for overtime pay, the claim does not apply where the worker has been granted compensatory time off the job at time and a half pay. Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held.

Other recent opinions concluded that:

* Annexation of Briggs Independent School District by Burnet Independent School District is valid.

* A card distribution pyramid plan constitutes illegal lottery. Those which make misrepresentations are in violation of the Texas Consumer Credit Code, and those relying on price fixing or exclusive dealing violate the anti-trust act.

* Eminent domain power proposed for the State Water Development Board under a new bill would be superior to that of local water districts.

* General or perimeter enclosure around tract which surrounds another tract under different ownership and control does not constitute such boundary marker necessary to sustain trespass conviction. Opinion request was prompted by Hardin County hunting club leases.

COURTS SPEAK — Texas Supreme Court invalidated Houston's annexation ordinances of 1962 and 1965 over Pasadena land, and upheld the smaller city's 1965 ordinance taking in 5,000 acres in the same general area.

High Court refused to recognize Amalgamated Transit Union as the bargaining agent for the Dallas Public Transit System. Decision, upholding the intermediate court, said that Dallas is authority in ownership, control and operation of its own bus system.

Court ordered the trial in a medical malpractice suit brought by Leslie Bond against two doctors in Taylor County.

Electrical Supply Corporation of Dallas got a favorable ruling in its suit against Mercantile National Bank for accepting a $21,124 forged check. Court also backed the lower court verdicts favoring Mercantile in its suit claiming Fort Worth National Bank was liable because it endorsed the check first.

APPOINTMENTS — In a surprise move, Governor Smith named former State Highway Engineer DeWitt C. Greer to the State Highway Commission.

Other appointments included the following:

John Green of Odessa as Ector County district attorney; Fritz Lanham of Baytown as director of state-local relations in the governor's office; Jess B. Gilmer of El Paso to the Rio Grande Compact Commission; and Augusto Alberto Vidales of San Antonio to the staff in the Texas Office of Economic Opportunity.

Junior-Senior Banquet Slated

The annual Junior-Senior Banquet will be held in the grade school gymnasium, March 28, at 8:30 p.m. The theme of this year's banquet is "The Last Round-up." Mrs. A. L. Fair, Home Ec. teacher, is in charge of the decorations and food. Mrs. J. E. Edwards, the class sponsor and math teacher, is in charge of the program.

The funds for the banquet are raised by the students participating in the Junior play and the Amateur Hour. The students are not only in these activities, but they also sell tickets. The banquet is given by the juniors for the seniors. Only members from the two classes can attend.

The time of the banquet is set late, giving students time to attend the Baptist Revival, or tend last minutes details for the livestock show Saturday.

Several announcements preceded the program which was on land judging. The announcements were: Livestock show, Saturday, March 29; Riding Club meeting, 2:30 each Sunday afternoon, at Tutt Garnett's, State Leadership Camp at Lake Brownwood, July 28 through August 2; District Camp, May 26, 27, and 28; Rifle Club second and fourth Monday nights in each month; 4-H Foods meeting, Wednesday afternoons in the Baptist Church basement; Grass and Land Judging Contest, March 25, Paducah; and County Elimination Contest, April 21.

Interest Caused By Typewriters

The typing classes have taken a new interest in typing. The reason for this interest is the seven new Underwood typewriters.

The typewriters are made out of heavier material which eliminates loudness. The keyboard also contains all the characters of the electric typewriters' keyboard. The machines are Underwood Olivettis.

The old typewriters were taken out of the typing room to make room for the new ones. The old timers will be distributed over the school building for use.

4-H Schedule Is Announced

The Matador High School 4-H Club met March 17. The business proceeded as usual with President Steve Bostick presiding.

Football Team Sets Date for Easter Seals

Head Football Coach Kennedy announced that the annual Texas Football Boys' Lily Day for Crippled Children in Matador will be held April 2. The boys will start the door to door collection at 7:00 p.m. Football players conducting the sale will be identified by the Easter Seal coin canisters they will be carrying.

Bob Lilly, defensive tackle of the Dallas Cowboys football team, is serving as State Chairman for the Football Boys' Lily Day for Crippled Children in Texas.

The Easter Seal appeal is conducted by the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas, which last year provided treatment and services for 17,622 crippled children and adults in Texas.

Ninety per cent of the funds contributed during the Easter Seal campaign remain to finance rehabilitation services for handicapped Texans. The Easter Seal Society annually spends more money for direct services to the handicapped in Texas than is collected in the Easter Seal Appeal.

New Control of Boll Weevil is Tried in Area

(Special to The Tribune)

A team of forty inspectors from the Texas Department of Agriculture will fan out over Hall, Briscoe, Motley and Dickens Counties during the next two weeks getting permission to set up traps for a new kind of boll weevil control.

Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said in Austin this week that the cotton industry may be on the threshold of one of the most significant breakthroughs in boll weevil control in decades. The four-county area is a primary target in research work this spring.

The new boll weevil weapon relies partially on traps similar to ones previously used in pest surveys. The traps are baited with live male weevils which feed and produce a chemical that attracts female weevils. Once attracted, the insects get stuck on the glue-covered fins of the traps.

Commissioner White said the traps will be used in areas where insecticides have been applied in the fall during the past five years and has greatly reduced the weevil population. Another phase of small test plots of early fruiting cotton are an important part of the experiment.

In connection with the traps, small test plots of cotton will be planted earlier than normal adjacent to hibernation quarters to provide entrapment grounds for the insects that might not be caught by the traps.

To Treat Cotton

The cotton in the trap plots will be treated with TEMIK, which will kill the weevils when they feed on the plants.

"The traps and test plots will give us a double shot at the insect in the early spring in an effort to eliminate the emerging, overwintering weevils," White explained. "If the traps don't get the early insects, we believe the treated cotton will take care of much of the remaining pests."

Some 26,000 of the sticky traps will be set in the area, along with the treated test plots. The experiment is being conducted in a four-county growing area which normally plants about 40,000 acres of the crop.

Effectiveness of the trap crop will depend largely on whether plant pest control workers can establish the fruiting cotton plants in the field ahead of the normal crop.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is working with the U. S. D. A. Agricultural Research and Plant Pest Control Division, Plains Cotton Growers and the Cotton Producers Institute on the project. Commissioner White said his inspectors will be making contacts with growers in the four-county area in connection with the work. "I anticipate wonderful cooperation from all concerned when they fully understand the work being undertaken," he said.

New Car Named For A Rugged Texas Pioneer

Frontier history and modern industry come together in Ford's new subcompact car, the Maverick, to be introduced April 17.

The car carries the name of one of Texas' foremost pioneers, Samuel A. Maverick, and embodies some of his most important characteristics.

It was Sam's rugged independence—not his heroism and his leadership among the tough early settlers of Texas—that led to his becoming part of the American language and the namesake for a new car.

Samuel Maverick, Texas pioneer, struck out on his own in 1835, and after a lifetime of adventure and achievement left his name in our language as the term for a go-it-alone, independent thinking person.

A patrician in his native South Carolina, where he was a lawyer and landowner, Maverick cut most of his ties to the Old South and headed for Texas, and its freer, more open society.

This grandson of Revolutionary War General Robert Anderson was imbued with the same love of freedom and liberty as his forebear who fought for American independence. Sam Maverick fought for independence too, but in a different arena, the wide open spaces of Texas.

He escaped being killed in the Alamo massacre only because he had been sent as a delegate to the convention which was to declare Texas independent from Mexico. He was one of the signers of the Texas Declaration of Independence.

Captured and imprisoned as a quarry worker for the Mexicans after an unsuccessful defense of San Antonio, Sam Maverick was offered the personal freedom that was so precious to him. The only condition, he was told, was to express approval of re-annexing Texas to Mexico.

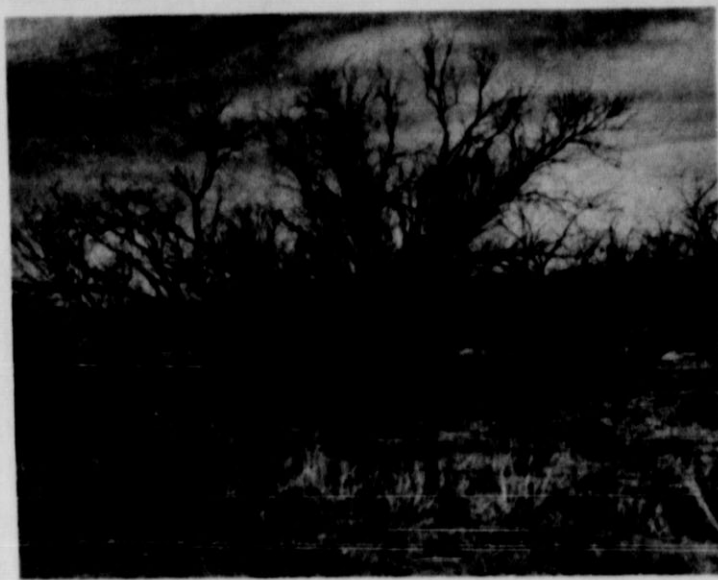

Maverick refused, reportedly explaining:

"I cannot sacrifice the interest of my country even to obtain my liberty . . . I regard a lie as a crime, and one which I cannot commit."

Maverick is said to be a kinsman of one of the country's founding fathers, President James Madison. Nevertheless, he worked for Texas independence from the United States, as well as from Mexico.

During the Civil War he was a partisan of the South, serving as an assistant treasurer of the Confederacy and working for the peaceful removal of federal troops from Texas. He worked to bring railroads to the state, fought Indians as a Texas Ranger, and on an exploratory trip with a

TIME to aerial spray big moisture eaters is just around the corner, according to the Soil and Water Conservation Service. Drawing power from big mesquites is 60 to 90 feet in any direction and it takes 200 to 300 gallons of water to grow one pound of mesquite. It requires only 60 to 80 gallons to produce one pound of grass. By spraying or root plowing there a great potential of grass and pounds of beef per acre. group of fellow Texans almost starved to death.

Pioneer, statesman, fighter for freedom, all these things and more Samuel Maverick was. But it was because of a small personal act of will that his name became part of the language of America.

His independent ways and self-sufficient attitude made him unique among cattlemen—he refused to brand his cattle.

In those days the brand was the seal of ownership, the mark that stamped a steer as one of the herd. And so, in time, Sam's unbranded critters, free of any man's brand, became known in those parts as mavericks. Later the word was applied to men who were individualistic and "unbranded."

There is a contemporary footnote to the Maverick contribution to the American language. Sam was not the last of his clan to go off on his own and so add a new word to our speech.

Former Congressman Maury Maverick of Texas, in an article for the "New York Times," inveighed against the morass of tangled legalisms and tortured sentences of the governmental bureaucracies.

"Gobbledygook," Congressman Maverick called the impenetrable wordage. And gobbledygook it remains.

Sam Maverick would have been pleased.

Student Publications Influence Subject of TU Radio Broadcast

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl).—The influence of student publications, both on and off the campus, will be discussed on next week's (March 24-30) "Insight: Campus '69" radio broadcast from The University of Texas at Austin.

President Norman Hackerman's guests on the 30-minute program will be Karen Elliott of Matador, journalism student and news editor of the Daily Texan, and Paul Ray of Fort Worth (20 Valley Ridge Road), a law student who serves on the board of Texas Student Publications, publisher of the Texan, the UT Austin yearbook and three magazines.

Sources of financial support for student publications will be examined, as well as news, editorial and advertising content.

The declining popularity of college humor magazines will be analyzed. Advent of "underground" newspapers in university communities and their effect on established campus publications will be another topic.

Relationships between the University administration and student publications and between the Journalism Department and the student newspaper will be explained.

The weekly program is produced by the UT Austin Communication Center, in cooperation with the University Information Service. Joe Gwathmey, radio production supervisor for the Communication Center, is moderator.

Brochure on "Flowers of Texas" Released by Texas Highway Dept.

AUSTIN—"Flowers of Texas"—a spectacle of bloom and blossom—introduces some 60 species of Texas' most beautiful flowers, shrubs and trees in all seasons.

The Texas Highway Department, which released the lavish new color folder today, expects it to be one of the most popular items among the family of recreational and travel literature produced by the Department.

The new folder was designed for two purposes—to erase any notion held by out-of-State residents that Texas is an arid, barren wasteland—and to enhance the pleasure of both Texans and visitors by identifying some of the State's most common and colorful plants.

Far from being a wasteland, the folder points out that Texas leads the nation with an abundance of blossoming plants—more than 5,000 species of wild flowers alone. Closeup photographs illustrate tropical plants of the Lower Rio Grande Valley, wild orchids from the Big Thicket, bright plains flowers, and vivid blooms of thorny cacti.

Flower fanciers and garden clubs have frequently asked that such a publication be added to the family of travel literature produced by the Texas Highway Department. In response to that demand the new folder lists 56 species by common and botanical names, including facts about blooming season and where they are usually found. Other species are illustrated in landscape views.

Free copies of the new "Flowers of Texas" folder may be obtained at all Highway Department offices and Tourist Bureaus. They are available upon request, and in limited quantities to garden clubs and similar organizations.

Requests by mail should be directed to the Texas Highway Department, Travel and Information Division, P. O. Box 5064, Austin, Texas 78703.

Jehovah's Witnesses Return from Lecture (delayed)

Twenty-three members of the Quitaque Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses have resumed their regular schedule of activities in Kingdom Hall after attending a three-day convention and Bible lecture March 7-9 in Snyder.

Principal speaker was L. M. Dugan, using the subject, "Law and Order—When and How?"

"Lawlessness and disorder have gone far beyond man's ability to correct as evidenced by the fact that people of all levels of society now live in fear behind locked doors of their own homes," were the introductory remarks of the speaker before 620 delegates.

Pointing to the fact that law and order is possible, Dugan assured the audience that the Bible promises an eternity of peace, freedom from fear and real security for those who now demonstrate to God their desire for such conditions.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

There is variability in hay quality and livestock producers should be aware that quality is largely determined by the amount of fertilizer hay receives and the age at which it is harvested.

Most crops cut for hay should be harvested in a young, actively growing stage. For Coastal bermudagrass the best time to harvest is about once every four weeks and for crops such as sudan hybrids, johnson grass and other grasses, the best time to harvest is before seedheads emerge.

Fertilizers influence protein and other qualities in hay crops, therefore a soil test is important in the production of good-quality hay.

A 7-year study by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has demonstrated that cows will stay in better shape and wean heavier calves when pastured on mesquite-controlled ranges. Researchers were E. D. Robison, P. T. Marion and B. T. Cross of the Station at Spur.

The project was conducted from 1967 to 1968 on eight 20-acre native grass pastures in the Rolling Plains. Mesquite on four of the pastures was controlled periodically with mechanical and chemical treatments, while the other four pastures were untreated.

Two groups of five 3-year-old cows were selected to graze the four pastures under each treatment in rotation at monthly intervals. Cattle remained in their respective areas at all times except for a 60-75 day breeding season each year. All animals on both areas performed satisfactorily during the entire study, but cows grazing cleared pastures lost less weight in the winter and gained more in the summer than those in mesquite land.

Calves produced on the cleared pastures averaged heavier at weaning time than those on the brushy areas. The biggest difference of 74 pounds occurred in 1967 and the smallest difference of 6 pounds in 1962, a high rainfall year.

For the 7-year period, weaning weights averaged 509 pounds with the cleared pasture calves and 473 pounds for those on mesquite pastures. Better production on the improved pastures has been worth an additional 78 cents per acre per year. Forage production also increased on the cleared pastures with the major improvement found in plant composition and forage quality.

Do you know what your personal possessions are worth? You not only need to know but also should maintain a current inventory of such items, as every day somewhere homes are destroyed by fires, storms and other disasters.

After such losses, families usually have a hard time trying to remember all their possessions. Knowing the value of possessions lost or damaged can be of untold value in settling claims for insurance and tax purposes.

It will take time to make a list but it is the only accurate way to know what you possess and their value. It is a good practice to keep a record of the date of purchase, name of the dealer and cost of each item. Keep the inventory in a safe place, outside the house if fireproof storage is not available, and for your protection, keep two copies in different places.

If you don't have a list of this type, why not take time to compile one. Who knows when it will be needed?

Protect the trunks of newly planted shade trees from sun scald by wrapping the trunks with a special tree wrap available from garden centers and nurseries or by covering with burlap to prevent damage from direct rays of the sun. Newly planted trees should also be staked to prevent the wind from blowing them over during the periods of heavy rain.

Do not be in a hurry to prune back your rose bushes, even though they may be an eyesore in the winter landscape. They may be partially pruned back to prevent damage by the winter wind but the heavy pruning should be done in late winter or early spring just before the major growth begins. Heavy pruning early in the winter will often force new growth during a prolonged warm spell which makes the rose bush extremely vulnerable to sudden drops in temperature.

CARD OF THANKS

Your kind expressions of sympathy are gratefully acknowledged and deeply appreciated for each and every kind deed, for the food, for each sympathetic word of consolation during the dark hours following the death of my darling wife, Anna. I pray that I may be just as comforting to you in your time of sorrow as you have been to me in my recent bereavement. May God's richest blessings be with each of you.

DO YOU NEED TO WORK—to make a living and feed a family, to pay off a mortgage, to buy a few luxuries and to build up Social Security retirements? Will your Social Security be enough to retire on and enjoy life, or will you need to work a little just to help buy the necessities of life? A Programmed Life Insurance Plan can be set up to guarantee Bill and Sue's education, a paid up mortgage, last illness and/or death expenses should you die prematurely, or greatly supplement your Social Security payments when you do retire.

Why not have an insurance "check-up" now and see where you stand? The proper program may be considerably smaller in cost than you think. For more information and at no cost, please call 348-3126 Roaring Springs.
