

Wait Till Mr. Tire Maker Sees This!... It'll shoot his "Tricky" Comparison Chart Full of holes!

A recent photograph of Mr. Pinson, his trusty car, and his faithful Riversides.

Meet T. J. E. "Uncle Happy" Pinson of Platte Center, Nebraska—known in the frontier days as "Devil's Arrow." Mr. Pinson is one of the colorful figures of the old west. He rode on the plains with Buffalo Bill, and knew Jesse James and his brother Frank. You see him in the photograph standing beside his 1912 Ford with two Riversides tires, just removed, after giving ten years of service and covering more than 40,000 miles. The hat he is wearing is punctured by bullets from the guns of Sioux Indians. Mr. Pinson paid $18.65 each for his Riversides in 1920. Since then, Riversides have been improved tremendously, and the prices have dropped amazingly. You can buy Riversides today, in the Ford size for only $4.55, and they are guaranteed WITHOUT LIMIT. Mr. Pinson's endorsement of Riversides came to us unsolicited and was not bought at a price. It is a voluntary testimonial of the satisfaction that Riversides have given him.

MR. PINSON'S RIVERSIDES LASTED 10 YEARS...

and covered 41,428 miles over rough territory

What chance have "comparison charts" you see in the papers and magazines against evidence like this! Who cares about charts showing "Rubber volume, weight, and the like," anyhow! We could build a tire bigger, heavier and wider than any tire on the market (bigger even than Riversides) — but that alone wouldn't give you satisfaction. It's mileage you want in a tire and these "paper comparisons" don't tell how far a tire will run.

We'll match Riversides . . . ON THE ROAD . . . against ANY tire made. And we'll beat it in price. Ask Mr. Pinson!

Riverside Tires are one of the best known in America. They have been sold for 19 years. They are made by one of the largest tire companies in the world. They are built to the most rigid specifications known. They are the finest quality it is possible to produce. They are backed by the most daring tire guarantee ever written. And they sell for less than any first-quality nationally advertised tire on the market! These sound like sensational claims. But they're facts.

And Montgomery Ward & Co. stands back of every word. Note this—the nationally advertised tires offered to you at the same prices as Riversides are not the first-quality tires of the manufacturers who make them—but their second-quality tires—put on the market to meet Riverside competition. So always compare qualities as well as prices. The table at the right lists some of the best known first-quality tires that do compare with Riversides in quality—you compare the prices!

Farewell Party Given For Mrs. V. V. McGrew By Mrs. I. H. Hamlett

Colonial Motif is Decorative Theme of This Exceptionally Lovely Party in Hostess' Colonial Home

Mrs. I. H. Hamlett entertained with a Colonial Bridge party at her home on Runnels street Friday afternoon honoring Mrs. V. V. McGrew, who is leaving to make her home in Tyler. Three tables of players were present.

In all the party accessories the hostess used the Colonial theme which was especially appropriate in the Colonial furnishings of her home. The tables and score cards were copies of Godey prints. The tables were covered with orchid-colored covers.

The house was profusely decorated with roses. On the green trays, on which the refreshments were served, a large pink rosebud was placed at each guest's plate. The trays carried centerpiece of small old-fashioned flowers of the kind that grow in Colonial gardens.

On each table during the play was a small basket of old-fashioned candies. The baskets bore cards containing quotations from the song, "Auld Lang Syne."

Mrs. Davenport made high score and was given a glass flower bowl in the old-fashioned ruby shade. Mrs. Pistole cut for high and was given two aluminum pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Lincoln.

After the games a shower of farewell gifts was brought in for Mrs. McGrew, as token of friendship from the guests. Many lovely gifts were included.

Mrs. McGrew presented the hostess with a set of hand-etched tea glasses containing the game design which was so popular in the Colonial days.

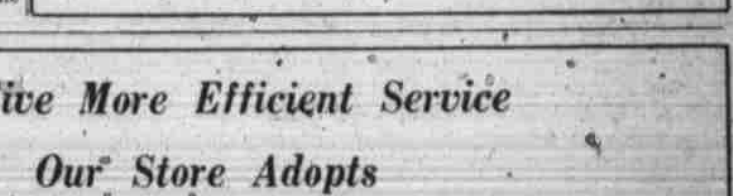

The guests were Mrs. Tom Ashley, O. L. Thomas, John Hodges, E. Pistole, J. Y. Robb, M. H. Bennett, H. C. Timmons, L. D. Davenport, V. H. Flewellen, Victor Martin, W. B. Clark and V. V. McGrew.

Wage Earners Must Feel Incomes Secure Before Heeding Admonition To Spend Freely Declares Green

WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP)—Exhortations to spend freely can have little effect on wage earners unless they feel secure about their incomes, according to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Urging employers to guarantee future work to at least part of their workers, Green today expressed the belief this would stimulate buying and aid business recovery. His statement was in a sense a corollary of his previous recommendations for an annual wage.

"Before all else is the problem of security," he said. "Workers want to know that they can count on a job. Without taking undue risk, most employers can unquestionably guarantee work to a certain portion of their work force. Practically every employer can estimate the number of men he will need in dull seasons."

Green warned employers that, perhaps a million men have found work since January, there is little prospect of immediate relief for the more than 3,000,000 left jobless. He predicted further "furloughs" during the summer, and said:

"A guarantee of employment to even a portion of the country's work force would help business revival enormously and bring relief from anxiety to thousands of workers' families. At present workers are holding all they can in reserve for fear of losing their jobs. They can not do otherwise for they can not see ahead. The funds they hold in reserve amount to billions of dollars. If they were sure of their jobs the release of these funds would be an immense stimulus to business."

In addition to a guarantee of work, he proposed three other expedients:

Provision of all available work among employees, discontinuance of wage cutting, and community relief planning with the aid of industrial funds and municipal and charitable organizations.

NASH

Aviation demands Twin-Ignition!

NASH OWNERS CALL IT INDISPENSABLE!

Air Commerce Regulations, issued by the United States Department of Commerce, absolutely require two spark plugs per cylinder on all commercial aircraft motors of over 40 horse power.

Aviation demands perfection in power. And so two spark plugs, twin sparks, are employed in aircraft motors—to burn the gasoline more efficiently—to provide power, speed, safety and economy beyond the reach of single ignition.

For the same reasons, Nash engineers, in Nash Eight-90 and Eight-80 motors, also provide Twin Ignition.

Of course, you can get along without Twin Ignition. But here, in engineering figures, is what you are missing:

The same motor, with Twin Ignition instead of single ignition, produces 22% more power, 5 miles an hour more top speed, and 2 extra miles of travel from every gallon of gasoline.

And, the prices of these Twin-Ignitioned motored Nash Straight Eights are no higher than the prices of other cars without this important improvement!

Douglas Fairbanks Begins Three-Day Run At Ritz

Bebe Daniels Playing With Veteran Star

'Reaching For the Moon' Great Vehicle For Versatile One

Douglas Fairbanks has lived the public something new and years ahead of the times in "Reaching For the Moon," his new picture for United Artists, directed by Edmund Goulding, who is called the most versatile man in Hollywood. The modern comedy-drama comes to the Ritz Theatre today, Monday and Tuesday.

Supported by a cast of noted stage and screen personalities, several of them stars in their own right, Fairbanks has put aside his spear and jerkin for a collar and fountain pen. He portrays a sensation successful young stock broker who cuts a swish both in the financial and love markets.

As the leading feminine interest in his life there is Bebe Daniels, a fit screen mate for the dynamic Doug, having beauty, courage, and a splendid sense of drama.

Jack Mulhall, young star with the experience of a veteran, is prominently cast as the star's best friend and confidant.

Edward Everett Horton, who has enjoyed starring honors on both stage and screen for years, has an outstanding comedy part as Fairbanks' valet. Others of the "million dollar cast" include June MacCloy, late of George White's "Scandals," and halted by Director Edmund Goulding as notable among the new crop of young actresses.

There is also Luana Walters whose unusual poise and beauty brought her this, her first screen part. Claud Allister, as an English light comedy character, Helen Jorgens, Eddy and Walter Walker are all suitably cast.

The story of "Reaching For the Moon" is set in present-day New York, or rather, it anticipates the architecture, fashions and spirit of two years hence. Skyscrapers, pent houses, a palatial ocean liner and fashionable haunts abroad provide the background.

This does not imply a fantastic riot of queer shapes and decorations. Modernist furniture, and appropriate, settings in the best manner, beautiful and harmonious, have been designed and created by Edmund Goulding and William Cameron Menzies, the supervising art director. The smart, ultra effect is exactly suited to the theme and the tempo of the picture.

The gowns and extreme habiliments worn by Miss Daniels and the scores of handpicked beauties in the cast will reveal what the

Warner Oland Popular With His Director

Swedish Artist Knows All Fine Points, They Declare

Every director who has the privilege of directing Warner Oland in a picture is happy. Oland, of "Fu Manchu" note, is playing the role of first importance in Tiffany's film version of "The Drums of Jeopardy," Harold MacGrath's mystery story to be shown at the Queen Monday and Tuesday.

George B. Seitz, director of "The Drums of Jeopardy," has declared that Oland surpasses nine-tenths of the screen's players in his understanding of pantomimic detail and in his quick perception of a director's or a writer's meanings.

Oland's career would lead to the assumption that he is this type. Born in Sweden and educated in the United States, he has played on the stage in most of the important nations of the world. The great variety of his experience—writing, directing and acting—gives him a foundation of artistry broader than is normally possible for the average actor. His role in "The Drums of Jeopardy" is that of a Russian seeking revenge on a noble family for the ruin of his daughter.

Others in the cast of this Tiffany production are June Collyer, Lloyd Hughes, Wallace MacDonald, Michele Auer, George Pawcett, Ernest Hilliard, Hale Hamilton and Florence Lake.

"Father's Son," latest First National production, comes to the Ritz Theatre Wednesday and Thursday. This amusing and realistic comedy, which is based on Booth Tarkington's "Old Fathers and Young Sons"—is not excelled even by the same author's "Penrod," which as everybody knows have no equals but Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn.

"Father's Son" is the story of one Bill Kinroy, a freckle-faced, twelve-year-old, who is forever being reprimanded by his father, a man in middle life. Bill's small misdeeds are punished in many ways, but especially by his being kept from his gang, the tender soliloquies of his mother being without avail to soften dad.

Bill, of course, has his inevitable satellites—his dog—his dearest friend, Vestibule Pullman Johnson, the colored junkman's kid. There is also the real bad boy of the neighborhood, the old swimmer's hole gang and all the roughneck tribe of Skinnys, Fats, Heds and Jacks.

"Father's Son" is like a return to childhood—all the joys and pains of that evanescent state being unparadoxically manifest.

But he finally decides to pack up and run away, since he cannot be understood by his father. It is then that the really big drama of the enthralling story develops. How mother finds Bill, brings him back, and later goes away from home with him; how dad gets the right slant and the troubles straightened out—is only part of a grand and glorious picture which is guaranteed to delight everybody in the family.

The cast of "Father's Son" is superb. Leon Janney is the hero, Lewis Stone the dad who has to be shown, Irene Rich the mother, John Halliday plays the part of a wise doctor, who becomes a chum of Bill. The bad boy is done by Mickey Bennett. Little Robert Dandridge is remarkably fine as the colored pal of the boy who wasn't understood. Others in the cast are Gertrude Howard, Bertha Mann and Gladys Ligon. William Beaudine directs.

Fairbanks' Career Is Unusual One

This is a thumb-nail biography of Douglas Fairbanks, star of "Shooting at the Moon," to be shown at the Ritz Theatre today, Monday and Tuesday.

Born in Denver in a leap year. Early athletic inclinations. At the age of two he leaped from a wood shed ten feet to the ground and still carries the scar on his forehead.

He began learning the famous speeches of Othello and Hamlet at seven. By the time he was ten he had memorized scores of the familiar passages from Shakespeare.

At seventeen he played the roles of Cassio and Lascaris with Frederick Ward's troupe.

When he went to Harvard, studying Latin, French and English literature.

Again the stage, this time in support of Effie Shannon and Herbert Kealey in "Her Lord and Master." Next a trip to Europe on a cattle boat with two pals. They each had $50 in cash when they started; nothing when they returned.

He tried finance, spending six months on Wall Street in stocks and bonds before he resigned. A fling at hardware manufacturing was equally disappointing. Then the stage again and success on Broadway with eventual stardom under the management of William A. Brady.

He invented a new type of acting, quick in tempo, spectacular in acrobatic feats, and rich in humor and romance. Finally, the screen, where he created a stellar place for himself and built a world following, his latest vehicle being "Reaching For the Moon."

Robert Montgomery Again

George Irving, Edward Nugent, Joan Marsh and Robert Montgomery in a scene from "Shipmates," which comes to the Ritz Theatre Friday and Saturday.

Blonde And Brunette Beauties, Carole Lombard And Kay Francis, With William Powell at Queen

Two of screen's most beautiful actresses will be seen in supporting roles of William Powell's "Ladies' Man" when that picture comes to the Queen theater Wednesday and Thursday.

They are Carole Lombard and Kay Francis whose respective crowning glories, incidentally, are as opposite as could possibly be.

Miss Lombard is an extremely blonde type—Miss Francis' hair is black as a raven's wing.

In "Ladies' Man," both fall in love with the smooth-mannered and glib-tongued Powell, who is the big of the society set in which he moves with the polite ease of a Chesterfield, without the aid of a job, a salary, or an income.

Miss Lombard, like Gloria Swanson, started her career in the "Chance" and "For the Defense" in one Mask Bennett comedies. Her achievements rapidly built a reputation and others.

Richard Arlen, Due At Queen In 'Gun Smoke'

Star of 'Border Legion' Supported by Mary Brian

Actors who enjoy great popularity with the fans of Hollywood are in the cast of Paramount's Western thriller, "Gun Smoke," which comes to the Queen Theatre for a two-day run on Friday next.

Heading the cast is Richard Arlen, who was the hero of "Burning Up," "The Border Legion," "The Santa Fe Trail" and others.

The romantic feminine lead is played by Mary Brian, recently seen in "The Royal Family of Broadway," and Arlen's sweetheart in "Burning Up."

Eugene Pallette is a lute-throated, musty hunter and six-shooter fool from the badlands. He was in the S. R. Van Dine murder mystery films as Sergeant Heath, and has since played in nearly a dozen features.

Louise Fazenda is the ranch cook with whom Pallette carries on a love affair. She was in "The Desert Song" and "Gold Diggers of Broadway."

William Boyd the big, bruiser politician-lawyer of "The Spoilers," is the leader of the gun mob from an eastern city which invades Arlen's town.

William V. Mong is the old prospector who becomes a victim of the gangster's violence. He entered motion pictures in 1916, playing one of the leading character parts in "The Connecticut Yankee." He has appeared in such films as "The Girl Said No," and "Murder on the Roof."

Guy Oliver, who is said to have played in more pictures than any actor in Hollywood, is Posey Mendel, the sheriff in the picture.

According to testimony brought out at the trial, Gage is charged with forging the name of Jess Jenkins to a receipt for $25.

Toby Adams, who signed the complaint against Gage, alleged the man moved into a house in Jones Valley of which he was the agent. He was told, Adams declared, that if he would pay $5 for the time he had been in the house and move at a designated time he would allow him to remain the rest of the month.

When Adams returned, it was alleged Gage presented a receipt for $25, declaring he had paid that amount to Jess Jenkins for two and one-half months' rent. Gage alleged the receipt was forged. He did not take the stand in the examining trial.

AMERICANS NOW GAINING PLACE FOR PAINTINGS

PARIS, May 30. (INS)—That American artists are gradually gaining significant recognition in Europe is to be seen by the large part they are holding in the Salon d'Art Independant in the Gallery of the rue de la Boetie.

This little Salon groups modernist artists who succeeded some years ago from the big Salon des Independants and reflect all currents of contemporary French art. It always contains a high percentage of really interesting pictures and very often reveals genuine youthful talent. All are distinguished for their freshness and vitality.

Among the 400 works on view are two striking paintings by Leo Steinbach, of St. Louis. Her "La Grande Table" and "La Petite Table" show a fine sense of color, good draughtsmanship and originality in handling.

Paul Ullmann, of New York, a young artist who is rapidly coming into the limelight, is showing an attractive "Nude" and "Portrait." Other Americans exhibiting here are Anne Neagoe and Margaret Stokes, the latter with a fine still life.
