GUIDELINES SUGGESTED FOR HOSPITAL VISITORS

So Aunt Madge had her gallbladder removed, and you're off to the hospital bringing tidings of comfort and joy. Along for the ride are Auntie's favorite goodies - a two-pound box of candy, fragrant yellow roses to liven her room, your precious 4-year-old with the runny nose, and two hours worth of gossip from Cousin Sally's birthday bash.

Before turning the comer, put on the brakes and heed some sage advice from Lynda Collins, manager of Social Services at The Methodist Hospital in Houston.

"Some patients are too sick to visit with anyone or just don't feel up to it, and they may not tell you so," says Collins, "so you need to be sensitive to the patient's needs. "On the other hand, some patients may need visitors to keep them going," Collins adds.

THIRD PLACE

Our Lord once said that the greatest of all commandments is to love God with all your heart, soul and mind. The second greatest, Jesus said, "is to love your neighbor as yourself." Let me ask you something. If God comes first and others second, where does that leave you? That's right! In third place. That is Biblical arithmetic. That wasn't hard at all.

It may not be hard to figure but it sure is hard on a person's ego sometimes. And to try to live by that concept is difficult especially if a person is accustomed to living by the philosophy of "I take care of number one." Some think that to be happy means getting what they want and having it their way all the time. A "Burger King" mentality is not Biblical.

Our Lord knew what He was talking about. He knew that "third place people" do derive the most satisfaction out of life. He should know, after all He was Himself a "third place person". He loved God first, then us second, and finally Himself, third. Does this help in gaining a better understanding of why Jesus went willingly to Calvary's

El Progresso Club Hears Program On FFA Activities

by Winifred Darsey

An interesting and informative program on the purpose and activities of the FFA. Mr. Jim Cooper, Agriculture teacher in Motley County High School, introduced Bradley Thacker, Senior Student, and Brandi Jameson, Junior Student.

Bradley gave a very interesting resume of the aims, activities, benefits, and accomplisments of the FFA. He attended the National Convention in Kansas City in 1995.

The Convention theme of "Leadership for a Lifetime" was emphasized by Bradley, stating that young people are aided for adulthood by all the advantages of this wonderful program and education, in academics, competitiveness, in area meetings, State Convention, also, judging of livestock, and others. Bradley will study agri-finance.

Cap Rock Telephone Cooperative, Inc.

Customer Notice

Cap Rock Telephone Cooperative, Inc., (Cap Rock) purchased the Dickens, Matador, Paducah, and Roaring Springs exchanges from GTE Southwest effective October 1, 1995. On November 21, 1995, Cap Rock filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("Commission") requesting approval of the acquisition and certification from the Texas Commission to serve the four exchanges. The application has been assigned Docket No. 15035. The Commission intends to investigate the acquisition and its impact on the public interest pursuant to Section 1,251 of the Public Utility Regulatory Act. A copy of Cap Rock's application is available for inspection at the Cooperative's business office located at 121 E. Third Street, Spur, Texas.

The local exchange access line rates of customers in the four exchanges will not change as a result of this acquisition. With respect to intrastate access rates, Cap Rock is billing access service customers in the four exchanges out of the TSTCI Access Service Tariff instead of the GTE Southwest Texas Facilities for State Access Tariff. The revenue effect on switched access rates of going to a different access tariff is estimated to be minimal. The only substantive access rate change due to the application of TSTCI's access tariff will be with special access and billing and collection rates which amount to a small percentage of total access revenues. A copy of the Cooperative's access tariff and the proposed local exchange tariff pages reflecting the inclusion of the four exchanges in the Cooperative's Local Exchange Tariff are also available for inspection in the Cooperative's business office.

Person with questions about this project should contact Cap Rock Telephone Cooperative at (806) 271-3336. Persons who wish to intervene in the proceeding or comment upon action sought, should contact the Public Utility Commission at 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Austin, Texas 78757, or call the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221 for the text telephone. The deadline for intervention in the proceeding is February 6, 1996.

You you may call Social Security's tollmight also know that Social Security free number, 1-800-772-1213, or your pays survivor's benefits to widows and local Social Security office. widowers on the records of their deceased spouses. But you probably don't know that in certain cases, a parent can receive Social Security benefits in the event of a worker's death.

Social Security pays monthly benefits to parents on the record of a deceased worker under the following conditions:

The worker must have paid Social Security for a certain amount of years. The time required varies depending on the worker's age at death.

— The parent must be at least 62 yers old and must not have remarried since the worker's death.

— The parent cannot be entitled to his/her own, higher Social Security benefit.

- The parent must be able to show that he/she was receiving one-half of his/her financial support from the worker at the time of death. This proof of support must be submitted to Social Security within two years of the worker's death.

Here is an example: Mrs. Williams is 63 years old and lives with her 40year-olds son, Rob. He works as an electrician, is married with two children, and supports his mother. Mrs. Williams has never worked outside of the home. She and Rob's father were divorced after five years of marriage when Rob was four years old. Mrs. Williams did not remarry after her divorce. One day, Rob dies in a work accident. Mrs. Williams can file for dependent parent's benefits on her son's Social Security record.

The amount the parent will receive is equal to 82 1/2 percent of what the worker would have received in Social Security benefits. If both parents are entitled to bnefits, the amount is 75 percent each. However, the amount is subject to a family maximum and may be less if the worker also has children or other dependents who qualify for

The benefit can be paid only to biological parents, but to adopted parents and stepparents as well, if the child was adopted or became a step-

What's at Stake in the Continuing Budget Stand-off

homas Jefferson advised, "In matters of principle, stand like a rock; in matters of taste, swim with the current."

I believe it is important for Texans to understand that we have a budget impasse in Washington, D.C., today because of a grave difference of opinion on matters of principle, not politics. Balancing the federal budget is not a matter of taste. Requiring the government to live within its means for the first time in a generation is not a gimmick. The federal government has grown too large, spends too much, and if not reformed will spin out of control.

The Republican Congress is determined to stick to its principles and balance the federal budget. The President refused to endorse entitlement reforms and refuses to submit a budget that ever balances. That, in a nutshell, accounts for the continuing budget stand-off and the recent 21-day shutdown of many parts of the federal government.

While this argument over principles may seem remote to some Texans, it really isn't. What's at stake here has a direct impact on Texas pocketbooks. If President Clinton had signed the Balanced Budget Act which Congress submitted to him, the average Texan would have saved: * $2,754 a year in lower mortgage payments

* $262 per year in lower state taxes as a result of lower state and local interest payments

* $628 per year in lower interest payments on each student loan

As they say at the circus, that's not peanuts. The Balanced Budget Act included, as well, tax credit provisions that

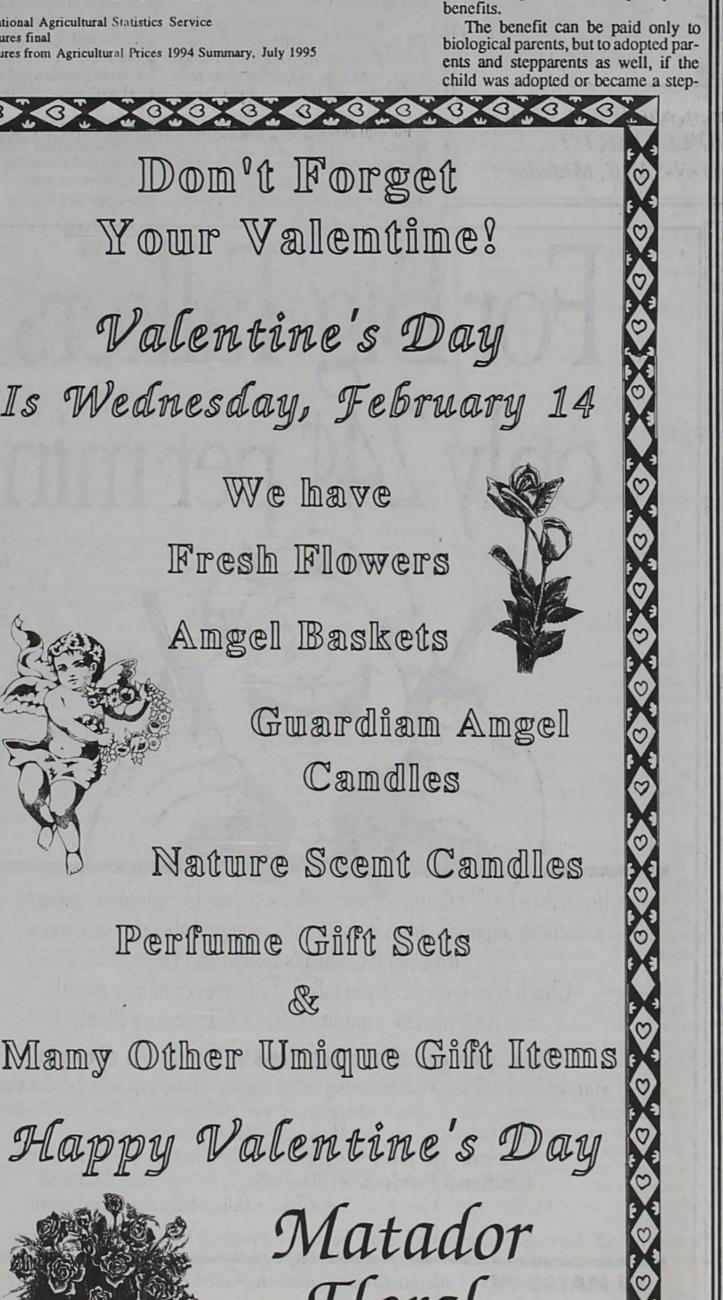

* Helped more than 2 million Texas taxpayers with more than 3.6 million dependents keep more than $1.6 million a year. * Eliminated the federal income tax bill in our state for 285,000 taxpayers with 677,000 dependents. That's $167 million per year staying with the working families who earned it. * Saved state and local taxes over seven years because of lower interest rates ($639 million over seven years). That would have been an additional $639 million available to fund education, better roads and more local law enforcement - or to go toward lower taxes. Here's what we are getting instead as a result of President Clinton's veto of the Balanced Budget Act: Interest rates can be expected to increase, costing American families $979 more per year in interest on their home mortgages, student loans and car loans, along with $1,500 in future taxes to pay for the extra $100 billion in annual interest payments on new federal debt. Apparently, to some, those costs are acceptable. To me, they are not.

I would like to say thank you for all the cards, flowers, phone calls, visits, food, and prayers during my recent illness. I especially want to thank Frances Hobbs for everything she did to help me.

Christene Briscoe

I want to give my heartfelt thanks to all of you, my friends and relatives, who have been so supportive to me during my stay in the hospital and in my sister's home in Plainview where I was still getting "Rehab" care and the "Tender Loving Care" of my sister and family. I appreciate every card, phone call, and visit, flowers, and gifts, your words of encouragement and especially the prayers that have gone up before the throne of God in my behalf. I brought all my cards home and am reading them over again and receiving a new blessing from each one of you. Thank you for the food that you have brought to me since I am back home again. I would like to call each one of you by name and say thank you. You have been a big part of my recovery. So a big hug to each one of you. And I love you.

SNOW HELPS DRY SPELL

A snow advisory was issued by the National Weather Service in Lubbock Thursday night, Feb. 1st. Before dawn Friday, a glistening blanket of snow covered the ground. Snow flurries fell off and on throughout the day and continued until mid morning Saturday. One to two inches of snow and icy conditions were reported. Single digit temperatures and below zero WCF were registered during the weekend.

Temperatures turned upward Monday, Feb. 5 with sunny skies. The moisture was a welcomed sight since the land is drier than normal and the siege of grass fires we have had in the area.
