Dirt Bikes Trail Through Matador For Seigler Ranch Boondocker Enduro Race

David Whitaker displays his third place trophy, and is pictured with his Yamaha dirt bike. David won his trophy in the short race, which is 55 miles. He is the son of Brent and Teresa Whitaker of Matador.

Matador turned into a dirt bike trail, leading to the Seigler Ranch, northeast of town, for an Enduro Race, sponsored by the Boondocker Club out of Lubbock, this past weekend.

The Boondocker Club leases land from Mark and Debbie Seigler and Sue Seigler of the Seigler Ranch for dirt bike races and trail riding.

The Enduro Race, held this past weekend, brought over 330 riders from as far away as Wyoming, Colorado, and New Mexico.

The race consisted of two courses, a short course, 55 miles, and a long course, 75 miles. The last 20 miles of the long course was set up for 90 mph speeds.

There are several races held each year all over the country. Riders entered in the race gather points in each race and at the end of the year, the rider with the most points, wins.

Local resident, David Whitaker, the 14 year old son of Brent and Teresa Whitaker, was entered in the race, and won a third place trophy. Former resident, Luke Boedeker, the 14 year old son of Terry and Robin Boedeker, now of Turkey, was also entered in the race.

The Seiglers feel very fortunate to have the Boondocker Club leasing their land. They came by this good fortune quite by luck, as the club had first approached Marisue Potts, after losing their lease for some land in Spur. Ms. Potts, having her land leased to hunters, suggested they contact the Seiglers.

The Boondocker Club, which was organized in 1973, is a family oriented club, with riders from 4 years old to grandparents. They have several family parties at different special occasions during the year. Every weekend ten to 30 members camp at the ranch.

This Enduro race is the first the Boondocker Club has been able to sponsor in the last three years, due to the fact they had nowhere to have a race of this size.

This race not only benefited the Seiglers, but was also beneficial to Matador, as the motels were full, and the restaurants served a lot of the riders. Riders also stayed in Turkey, Paducah and Childress.

Anyone who may be interested in becoming a member of the club or for more information contact Kenny Grant, 806-792-6921.

Texas Department of Health to offer Preventative Dental Health Services To Motley County ISD Students

The Texas Department of Health, Dental Health Division, will offer a preventive dental health service to children whose families qualify during the week of October 14. This service will be offered at the Motley County School campus.

This preventive service involves the placement of dental sealants, a plastic coating that is painted over the chewing surfaces of permanent molars. The procedure helps prevent the teeth from decaying by covering the deep grooves and fissures which trap food and bacteria and are difficult to clean. By preventing bacterial plaque and food from initiating the decay process in these highly susceptible areas, decay can be significantly reduced in each child's mouth and help prevent dental problems from occurring. Dental Sealants may only be placed on mature, healthy molars. Molars that are not mature or may already have some type of damage will not receive a sealant.

During the Week of October 14, a dentist will quickly look at the teeth of each qualifying student. The screening process is used to identify the teeth which qualify for the dental sealants. Following the screening process, a dental hygienist will apply the sealant to all teeth that qualify. The screening process may also identify any other dental problems that may exist. If dental problems exist the parents will be notified by the Texas Department of Health. The dental sealant program is not responsible for repairing any damage that may already exist. If you have any questions concerning this program you may call Wayne Morren at 347-2676.

State Funding to School Linked to Student Attendance

by Principal Wayne Morren

Regular attendance and punctuality are required of every student attending Motley County Schools. By law students must attend school until the end of the school year in which they turn seventeen. Students who have good attendance generally achieve higher grades, enjoy school more and are more employable after leaving high school. Students who attend regularly will benefit from the instructional program and will develop habits of punctuality, self-discipline, and responsibility.

School funding is linked directly to attendance. State funding for a local school district is based upon the number of students enrolled and the amount of days that each student is present. Student absences affect the school through the amount of funding that we receive from the state. Approximately 63% of our school budget comes from state funds. It is very important for student attendance to remain high at Motley County Schools. The school system needs your support in maintaining a high attendance rate.

If you have questions concerning the attendance policy, about your child's absence, or you know your child has an appointment or other reason to miss school please contact Wayne Morren at 347-2676.

BOOSTER CLUB NEEDS YOU!

The Motley County Booster Club needs you!

Booster Club meets Monday nights at 7:30 p.m. in the Field House.

Everyone is invited and encouraged to attend these meetings! Support the Matadors!

Moving date is nearing! I hope! Of course, with any fix-up project there are always a few unexpected quirks that have to be worked out. But looks like everything is finally coming together and hopefully we will be moving this weekend.

I guess if you need to come to the Tribune Monday, you'll have to check our location since I'm not positive if everything will actually come together for our weekend move, but that is the plan. Thank you for being patient and cooperative.

I consider myself a very patriotic, loyal to my country person, but the last couple of weeks I have been very thankful that my son decided to continue his college education, instead of joining the Navy, as he very seriously considered, this summer. When he presented this idea to me, I told him it was his decision, and I would support him in whatever he decided. But I breathed a sigh of relief when he decided to continue with college.

With thousands of U.S. troops preparing to deploy to the Persian Gulf and over 32,000 soldiers, sailors, and airmen already there, my heart and thoughts are with the mothers, wives and other loved ones of those young men and women.

Don't get me wrong, I salute our servicemen and women. I admire the strength, stamina and courage they must have to leave this country and travel to a far and unknown place to fight and defend people and reasons they don't know or fully understand. I thank God these men and women are there and ready to fight to aid those with desperate need.

I was very young during the Vietnam conflict, but how well I remember the worry and concern of my family as my two uncles and first cousin were all in Vietnam, and other family members stationed in other countries, knowing that at any time, they could be deployed to Vietnam. I remember watching the news briefs on TV of the war footage and the anxiety and fear the scenes of war brought.

I remember the look in my grandmothers' faces when these broadcasts were aired and the joy they felt when they received letters from their sons. I will never forget the relief and joy our families felt when these men came home, but with a look of change upon their faces, surely of pain and despair they saw which reached deeper than anything they ever imagined.

I remember the special attachment I felt to the person without a face with the name on my POW bracelet, and the pain I felt when contacted by his family that he had been declared dead.

My son's grandfather, Lt. Col. Louis F. Jones, was declared an MIA (missing in action), after his plane was shot down over Laos. He was finally declared dead, after many years of wonder. I'm sure his family still wonders.

All this anxiety and fear was brought back to light during the last Persian Gulf War when my cousin's son, who is not much older than my own son, was there. And again the joy the family felt, when he returned home, safe and unharmed, but with that same look of things unimagined.

War has taken its toll on many in our great country. There are so many wonderful, loving men and women who never returned. Lives were changed because of situations of war. Let us not forget.

May we constantly remember to keep these men and women in our prayers and to pray also for their families.

May God bring peace to our world!

The Library received some oldies but goodies this past week. We have nine, new-to-the-library Jude Deveraux hardback books. In this group of books is her James River Trilogy: Counterfeit Lady, Lost Lady, and River Lady. If you are a Deveraux fan, come in and get re-acquainted with some old friends.

We also have 100 Years 100 Stories by George Burns. We have a new Mrs. Pollifax mystery by Dorothy Gilman, Mrs. Pollifax Pursued.

We want to thank several people for their donations to the library last week. Thanks go to Ann Seigler for her donation, and we appreciate the memorial donation in Jack Bradshaw's memory by Sonny and Dorothy Russell. We also appreciate the memorial to Kenneth Lefevre made by Ruth and Orville Lee. These donations help the library and, at the same time, provide a lasting memorial to special people in our lives. We thank all these people for their generosity and support.

Come in and see the display by the Class of 1946 in the case in the library. Earlyne Jameson and Evelyn Garrison furnished the display as they prepare for a special celebration of their Fifty-Year Reunion at Homecoming, October 18-19.

Motley County Arts & Crafts Club Begins 29th Year

by Winifred Darsey

Motley County Arts and Crafts Club began its twenty-ninth year on September 9 with great anticipation for the future.

Many interesting and fun programs and workshop are planned, i.e. whisk broom dolls, bois d'arc tree flowers, sweatshirt jackets and many others.

Mrs. Edna Duke of Floydada taught the club how to make birdhouse ornaments and to make miniature Christmas trees from pinecones. Joy Archer brought tree stands for the tree made by her husband, Leo. The fanciful trees were a pleasure to make and the finished product very charming.

Noon recess came with a bountiful covered dish luncheon and was enjoyed by everyone.

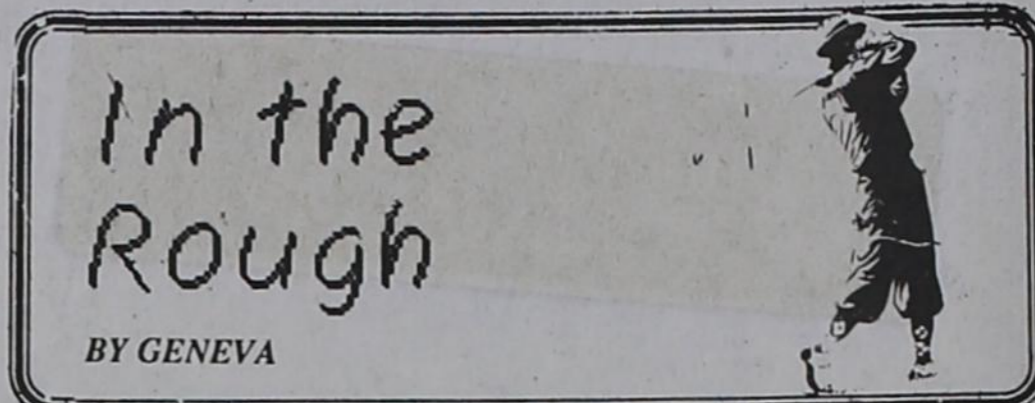

Club President, Geraldine Key, conducted a business meeting, the date was set for our Fall Bazaar, November 9. The docents were named for this month. Make plans to attend our Bazaar, visit, have cookies and coffee and hopefully buy our crafts. Many new items will be added to our displays.

Members present were Lorene Lancaster, Joyce Meredith, Verdie Neighbors, Winifred Lee, Joy Archer, Elsie Thacker, Lana Copp, Dixie Letteken, Pauline Hand, Dora Watson, Una Simpson, Betty Bostick, Marion Woodruff, Toni Fellows, Geraldine Key, and Winifred Darsey and guests Gloria Lee, Nelda Boone, and Hannah Rose Alexander.

Mrs. Edna Duke is the mother of Mrs. Lana Copp. The club expressed many thanks to her for a great workshop.

The program for October 7 will be making flowers from bois d'arc tree fruits, into dried flowers. All members are urged to attend.

Adult Entering Golden Years Faced With Choices

by Teresa Cox
Plainview Herald

Adults entering their golden years are often faced with several choices when it comes to housing changes. Depending on the amount of care needed, the variety of local professional facilities can be a bit overwhelming.

With the addition of Santa Fe House in Plainview another facet of elderly care enters the picture. With a focus on maintaining independence for clients, assisted living facilities have found a special niche in assisting older individuals.

"The philosophy around assisted living is to be very homelike and to avoid anything that is institutional," says Paula Hendrick, Santa Fe House director. "Anything we do - from the building, the services and the staff - fulfills that philosophy."

Because of this, she says, visitors won't see employees in uniforms or wearing nametags. Also, facilities won't have over 50 residences in order to maintain the small, homelike feel.

In keeping with the homelike atmosphere, residents live in their own apartments, choosing from either a studio model or a one-bedroom living quarter. The decor is completely up to the tenant as well. "We want them to bring their own furniture, their pictures and decorate their apartments the way they choose," Mrs. Hendrick said.

Assisted care facilities like Santa Fe House are equipped to care for individuals with health problems and medical needs, and Mrs. Hendrick says they will work with various home health agencies as well as Hospice to provide whatever specialized care they may need. In addition, the facility has a licensed nurse on call 24 hours if the need to care should arise.

Unlike retirement homes, which are catered to independent, able-bodied individuals, assisted care homes welcome residents who need a bit of extra care. They are equipped to handle tenants with Alzheimers and dementia, Parkinsons, developmental and physical disabilities, and those bound by wheelchairs.

"It is important that tenants maintain and retain autonomy over their lives," Hedrick adds. "Just because a person has to change a place of residency doesn't mean that we should try to change their routine and lifestyle."

Part of that autonomy includes following five points of their philosophy: independence, individuality, privacy, choice and dignity. Along those lines, residents have choices in terms of laundry, household chores, help with medicines, bathing and other needs. In short, no tenant receives exactly the same blanket care as others.

"All services are individualized to the tenant. We don't do generic services for everyone," she said. "We only do what they want or need and we offer choices in all of our services."

Santa Fe House offers meals, house-keeping, maintenance, 24-hour security services, a beauty shop, private telephones and cable television access, whirlpool bath, laundry service,

Costs for residents vary according to the level of service needed. Apartments are only single residences unless the tenant requests otherwise. ## COTTON NEWS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

Producers looking forward to a jump in new crop cotton prices received help in that direction with the release of the United States Department of Agriculture's September 11 crop report.

The September report, which detailed 1996 crop estimates for all commodities, showed a sharp decline in Upland cotton production of almost 700,000 bales. Production figures for the Texas High Plains were left unchanged.

Total Upland cotton production for the U.S. was estimated at 17.326 million bales, down from the August estimate of 18,001 million bales.

In other figures released by USDA, no changes were made to either planted or expected harvested acreage. Supply and demand numbers estimated a reduction of cotton stocks of 400,000 bales resulting from a combination of lower production, increased domestic usage and lower export sales.

December futures rose the 300 point daily limit following the release of the report, but has shown little movement through the end of the week.

The return of mild daytime temperatures and cloudy skies could create problems for High Plains producers needing warm sunny weather to put the finishing touches on the 1996 crop.

"We could definitely use another 2-3 weeks of warm, sunny days to get this crop ready for harvest," says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson.

Producers hoping for an extension of a Section 18 exemption for the best available weapon to use against potentially devastating late-season aphid build-ups had their wishes come true today.

According to information received September 13 the Section 18 exemption in place for FURADAN 4F has been extended until September 30, 1996. Also revised were treatment thresholds that will allow the use of FURADAN 4F on cotton.

The previous Section 18 exemption was scheduled to expire September 15.

New treatment thresholds specify that for fields with 5 percent open bolls FURADAN 4F can be used when aphids reach a population of 15 per leaf using the same sampling plan used for other aphid counts. Producers will still be limited to 2 applications of FURADAN 4F under the Section 18. If two applications have already been made then no more will be allowed regardless of the latest extension.

"It is very important that cotton producers remember that they are limited to just 2 FURADAN applications under the Section 18 exemption," says Lubbock County Extension Agent Mark Brown.

Producers who have questions about the use of FURADAN 4F can contact their County Extension agent or Dr. Jim Leser at the Texas Agricultural Research & Extension Center north of Lubbock.

LUBBOCK -- Almost two weeks of cool, cloudy, rainy weather is proving a mixed blessing to the Texas High Plains cotton crop. About a third of the 3.5 million acres annually planted in the area was lost to drought, blowing sand and bad weather as the season began.

The widespread, soaking rains of late August and early September have provided enough moisture for the surviving 2.25-million acres of cotton to mature without moisture stress. In August and the first week of September the Texas A&M University Agriculture Research and Extension Center have recorded 6.2 inches of rainfall, almost equalling the 6.89 inches received in the first seven months of the year.

But lower temperatures and cloudy skies accompanying the rain are threatening delays in crop and fiber maturity. The first few days of September saw High Plains temperatures in the 70s and mid-80s in the daytime and dropping into the 50s and 60s at night.

"This crop has excellent yield capability, but needs above average September temperatures and reduced insect pressure to realize its full potential," said Dr. Jane Dever, cotton geneticist who is coordinator for the "AgriPartners" (cq) program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. AgriPartners field technicians assist county extension agents in monitoring the crop throughout the growing season.

Some earlier planted irrigated fields are just beginning to open their bolls, Dever said. Across the High Plains, less than two percent of bolls were open the end of August, she reported.

"Although the prospects look promising for an average yield of one to one-and-a-quarter bales an acre, the unseasonably cool and cloudy weather, insect pressure and possible increased vegetative growth following the rains are cause for concern about final boll set and boll weight," Dever said.

The rains and cool weather made it difficult to scout fields and treat pest infestations on a timely basis, said Dr. James Leser, Extension Service cotton entomologist.

The weather provided almost ideal conditions for aphid population buildup and beneficials failed to curb these increases, Leser said. "Aphids do very well once temperatures drop into the 80s, and the reduction in light intensity accompanying the cloudy weather has also favored aphid increases," he explained.

The extension entomologist said in addition to aphids, "beet armyworms have flourished and boll weevils have really become a headache in some fields." He noted that boll weevils have been found in Randall County, just below Amarillo.

Leser said a cold front predicted to reach the High Plains cotton fields around September 10 was expected to drop daytime high temperatures 10 degrees below normal and nighttime lows into the 50s. "This will result in heat unit accumulations approaching only five a day, slowing plant development and fiber maturing. But that could also slow the insect development, he said.

Dr. Carl Anderson, Extension Service cotton economist and marketing specialist at College Station, said the 2.25 million acre crop in the Lubbock area is expected to produce about 2.5 million bales. "The rest of the state, where we have slightly more than 2 million acres, will make a half-bale an acre on an average, about a million bales," he said.

"We're about a million bales less than we were a year ago. But we planted 1.2 million acres less, as well," Anderson said.
