

Armored Assault Hurls Back US Defense Line

Red Push Using "Monster" Tanks

TOKYO, Wednesday, July 12. (AP)—The North Korean Communists hurled American defenders back close on the Kum river in South Korea today in a major push powered by an estimated 80 tanks.

Some of these Russian-made tanks were identified as 60-ton monsters.

This enormous strength was displayed despite the announced knockout of 65 enemy tanks by American Air Forces only the day before the general Red offensive got under way.

A spokesman at American field headquarters in South Korea said the Communists were using 80 tanks on the American front in the Chonui area alone.

They also were using most of their infantry strength in the big drive, he said. He recalled that some days ago the invaders were estimated to have 15 divisions totaling 75,000 effective infantry fighters.

Communist troops disguised as civilians infiltrated the American lines in a foggy night in advance of the big push.

The enemy's deepest reported thrust drove the Americans out of Chochwon, five airline miles north of the Kum river.

The Kum is the last major defense line north of Taejon (previously identified as U.S. field headquarters but not so mentioned in late dispatches.)

American were fighting desperately to stem the Communist rush, but a field headquarters spokesman acknowledged they were withdrawing to previously prepared positions.

The huge tanks roared out of an early morning fog, crushing U.S. machinegun and light artillery positions. Behind them, Red troops—possibly a division strong—pressed the attack.

North Koreans who had infiltrated the American lines were reported to be seen in the area.

Draft Machinery In Motion; Army Seeking Ships

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Draft machinery to produce the 20,000 recruits asked for by the Army is in motion today, while military leaders sought ships to carry already trained troops to back the defense of Southern Korea against invading Communists.

The Army said it is studying the possibility of opening induction centers to handle the draftees as well as the flow of volunteers yesterday's call-up is expected to produce.

Army officials explained, however that induction centers may not be necessary, unless the enlistment volume increases considerably.

Army officials said that an immediate decision about setting up induction centers could be delayed as Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, said it would take about 60 days for his reactivated organization to provide recruits the Army could start turning into soldiers.

The call for 20,000 men—the Army said it wanted them "at the earliest possible date"—would indicate that few would be inducted in any one community on the first ground.

Gen. Hershey said that if the draft call goes as high as 300,000 men he believes the men can be provided from among those registrants who are 22 years of age or older.

The draft law permits drafting of men 19 through 25 (18-year olds must register but can't be drafted until they are 19) and the plan is to take the oldest eligible first.

However, since so many of the 24 and 25-year olds are exempted from the draft because of service in World War II, the accent at the start will be on those who are 22 and 23 years old.

Hershey said he had no idea about the size and timing of future draft calls. He used the 300,000 figure as a basis for discussion.

The Defense Department said yesterday's call for 20,000 was intended to meet the manpower ceiling approved by President Truman last week. The exact figures that are in the ceiling are still a secret.

President Truman has not yet made use of his new powers to call the reserves or the National Guard to active duty.

Security Rules Prove Confusing To Newspapers

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—The freedom given military commanders to make local rules for security here, is proving confusing to newspapers here.

The Chronicle reported today that in the absence of a unified policy from the Department of Defense, the Navy, Army and Air Force locally are doing their own interpreting.

DRIVE TO CUT U. S. SUPPLY LINE THREATENED—Broken arrow points up threat to U. S. supply line from Pusan to Taejon which General MacArthur's communique said was in increased Communist activity in the Yangang area east of Chonju.

Huge Allied Air Armada Blasts Reds

Jets With Rockets Hit 65 Tanks, 218 Other Red Vehicles

TOKYO, July 11. (AP)—Jet fighters, streaking in with rockets and machineguns, today seared Communist North Korean supply lines feeding the blazing 45-mile wide front south of Seoul.

The biggest air armada since World War II—almost 300 warplanes—left roads, bridges and railroads strewn with crippled and knocked out equipment.

Gen. MacArthur in his communique said 65 tanks and 218 other Red vehicles were destroyed or damaged by the fighters and bombers.

The Far East Air Forces, in a later communique, cut the figure to 39 tanks, apparently finding duplicate reports on some sorties.

The allied planes—American and Australian—concentrated on roads leading to the Chonan, Suwon and Pyongtak areas, south of Seoul.

Three Russian-made jets—the first to go into action so far as is known—were flushed out of hiding. They were reported on strafing missions by ground troops, a spokesman at MacArthur's headquarters said.

The FEAF communique made no mention of the North Korean jets, but MacArthur's headquarters identified them as Yak-15's.

The allied Air Force concentrated its major efforts on the embattled western front, where a tank clash between Red and American armor was in progress.

Planes smashed a front-line triangle north of Chonan, Suwon and Chungju, ranging from 22 to 70 miles north of advanced American headquarters at Taejon. It was in this sector that invader strength was massed for its southern drive.

No personnel were lost and all planes returned safely, FEAF said.

Other Nations To Join Fight

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Gen. Omar Bradley was quoted today as saying American forces in Korea will be joined by ground troops from other members of the United Nations.

Chairman Tydings (D-Md) said Bradley gave that information to the Senate Armed Services Committee during a two-hour, closed-door session. Tydings would not name the other UN members.

Pressed with questions from reporters, Tydings would say only that other members of the UN have offered ground forces and that these offers have been accepted.

He declined any comment when asked specifically whether Chinese Nationalist troops would go to Korea. The Chinese Nationalists have offered some 30,000 men.

The State Department has maintained a cool attitude toward that offer on the theory that use of Chinese Nationalists might invite intervention in Korea by the Chinese Communists.

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, was called before the Senate group to give it an up-to-the-minute report on the Korean situation.

TRUMAN SELECTION

Picks Gordon Dean New AEC Chairman

WASHINGTON, July 11. (AP)—President Truman chose Gordon Dean, now acting chairman, to be chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission today.

The White House announced that Mr. Truman has decided on Dean, who has just started a new three-year term, and will make the formal announcement shortly.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters the naming of an AEC chairman does not require Senate confirmation.

Dean has been acting chairman since the expiration of the term of Sumner T. Pike on June 30.

Pike's nomination for a new term was approved yesterday by the Senate after considerable controversy.

Mr. Truman's decision to make Dean permanent AEC chairman still leaves one vacancy on the commission. This nominee will serve for five years. There has been no indication of who might be appointed to this place, which would bring the AEC to its full five-member strength.

One name mentioned in cloak room gossip was that of Wilson M. Compton, 59, president of Washington State College, but it was just as quickly discounted by other sources. Compton, an economist, is a brother of Atomic Scientists Karl T. and Arthur H. Compton.

Pike, Mr. Truman's choice for the second longest AEC term, won Senate confirmation hands down yesterday. Although his triumph had been conceded privately in advance by opponents, the 54 to 24 vote in favor was considerably more lopsided than anticipated.

Thirty-eight Democrats and 17 Republicans voted for the 56-year-old Maine Republican, while five Democrats and 19 Republicans opposed him.

The vote rejected a 5 to 4 recommendation of Senate members of the joint congressional Atomic Energy Committee that Pike be permanently retired from the post he first took over under a recess appointment from Mr. Truman on Oct. 28, 1946.

He was confirmed for a regular term April 9, 1947 and served continuously until last June 30 when his term expired while the nomination was still tied up in the Senate. He had been acting chairman since Lilienthal's departure.

STASSEN CLAIMS

Tax Cut Bill Is Bad For Schools

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Herold E. Stassen charged today the bill to cut excise taxes embodies an attempt by the Treasury Department "to bring American colleges and universities under control of the federal government."

The University of Pennsylvania president heatedly assailed a proposal in the House-approved bill to apply regular corporation tax rates to unrelated business operations of educational institutions.

Stassen spoke out after Sen. Byrd (D-Va) called on the Senate to go slow on any tax cutting that will put the treasury deeper in the red. His reason: The "very evident" prospect of increased military spending.

The $1,010,000,000 tax slashing bill, with its hike in levies on big corporations, has found few—if any—all-out friends to stand up for it in the Senate.

Referring to the proposed tax on unrelated business operations of educational institutions, Stassen told the Senate Finance Committee holding hearings on the legislation.

"This proposal would immediately give to the governmental officials of the treasury the authority to tell the universities and colleges what activities they may enter, through the device of passing upon these activities as 'related' or 'unrelated' activities.

"This will in effect be an immediate governmental censorship which will be very serious to the academic and scientific freedom of the educational institutions."

Stassen agreed that business or industries, such as macaroni and sparkling factories owned by educational institutions but operated as separate corporation entities, should bear the regular corporation taxes.

But, where the university operates the business itself, the tax should not apply, he said.

GIs Vow Revenge On Reds For Atrocities

NEAR THE FRONT IN KOREA, July 11.—I saw two dead American soldiers Monday who had been shot through the head. Their hands were tied behind them.

This was Communist North Korea's answer to the plea of the International Red Cross for humane treatment of prisoners in Korea's civil war.

Gen. MacArthur has ordered United Nations troops fighting in Korea to observe the civilized rules of warfare. Maj. Gen. Chung Li Know, chief of staff of the South Korean Forces, has issued orders to his troops to observe MacArthur's instructions.

The two soldiers lay just off a main road which carried the vital, frantic traffic supplying front line fighters. They had been there since Monday morning, I was told later by infantry officers at rear command posts.

These officers said three Americans had been tied and shot in the head but I saw only the two bodies. (Yesterday, Lt. D. C. Gates, Joinville, Tex., reported seven American soldiers, their hands tied behind, had been shot to death by North Koreans. There was no indication whether the three reported today were some of those, or additional atrocities.)

I found no one who witnessed these slayings. Based on what was known of the fighting at this point early Monday, the belief was held generally that the soldiers, riding in a jeep in the morning mist, suddenly found themselves only 20 yards or so from a North Korean tank. With the tank guns raised upon them, they jumped out and surrendered.

Their bodies showed what happened afterward. One of the green clad corpses lay face downward, the other on its side. Cloth bands about three inches wide, like the bandages each American soldier carries in his first aid kit, were tied so tightly around the wrists of each that the hands showed purplish brown, the arms above the things much lighter.

The gravel road at that point cuts through a small ridge. Below each approach to this small hill the green rice paddies which stair-step steeply down to a small river. Two Russian built tanks were said to have pushed through the morning fog to the top of this ridge, retreating after a hot sun burned away the fog.

I reached this hill late in the afternoon aboard a tank retriever—an armored tank-like vehicle that pulls disabled tanks back to safety. Almost immediately the deadly crescendo of a fighter plane's dive, which sounded as if it were coming toward us, caused all aboard to hit the ground. The plane had another target—a stalled or damaged enemy tank. It was a few hundred yards from the top of the hill on the side toward the front line. The road makes a left turn at the foot of this hill. An American tank was just off the road at this bend.

We had halted at the top of the rise beside another American tank. While recovering from the confusion of the false air attack, I probably said something senseless to the tank crew. The tank retriever backed forward without me.

"We're going down to get that enemy tank," one of the crew shouted. It was then I saw the two bodies on the opposite side of the road. The tank men had plenty to say about the North Koreans who killed the two men in the road. It was in terms soldiers use when ordinary words fail.

Tax-Burdened British May Get Some More

LONDON, July 11.—Britons, groaning under the world's highest taxes, were told last night they can pay more—and may have to.

The warning was given by the nation's money and taxes boss, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps, in reply to house of commons suggestions from Conservatives that tax gathering has reached its limit.

Britons now pay 40 per cent of their national income in taxes. Sir Stafford agreed he has reached the limit of taxability. There are indirect taxation, death duties, and many other ways by which taxes can be raised.

"If it were the question of an emergency the situation would be quite different."

Paoge Finds Most Texans Back Acts Taken Toward Korea

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The people in Texas are fully back of President Truman's decision on Korea, Rep. Bob Paoge of Waco found on a trip home.

He said on his return here yesterday.

"The only complaint they have—and that is my feeling too—is that we should have told the world long ago that we would back up Korea militarily."

"That might have stopped the North Korean invasion."

He said he opposed an economic aid bill for Korea last January "because we wouldn't say at the same time that we would back this up with military aid."

Crack Marine Unit On Way To Combat

EDITOR'S NOTE: James P. Hackett, Associated Press correspondent at Atlantic City, enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps Dec. 19, 1941, and served as a combat correspondent through the Pacific War. Discharged as a captain in November 1945, he is a Marine reserve officer.

By JAMES P. HACKETT AP Staff

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 10.—Eight years ago almost to the day, a large force of U. S. Marines put out into the Pacific — combat bound.

The First Division of Marines was on its way to Guadalcanal to stem the southward drive of the Japanese. The division went into action Aug. 7, 1942.

Today, the First Division is combat bound again—on its way to help stem the southward drive of Communist forces in Korea.

Eight years has made some difference in the First Division. Very few, if any, of the Marines who slogged through the mud of Guadalcanal will land in Korea.

The 150 First Division is just about one-third the size of the 1942 force. Three out-sized battalions make up today's First Division, compared to three full regiments in 1942.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur is no stranger to the First Division. It was assigned to MacArthur in 1943 and under his command took Cape Gloucester on New Britain to clear the way for the Army's sweep around the eastern shore of New Guinea. The cape action was considered a classic of World War II.

Korea in the rainy season presents the kind of country you'd expect to find in the Pacific. Like other American kids, the Marines will gripe about the mud, the rain, the food. But they'll squirm through the mud and up and down the hills. The First Division has its own tradition as well as that of the Marine Corps to push it on.

If Korea is the pot in which World War III is being brewed, the Marines will be disappointed. They like to say they fired the first and last shots of any war involving America. But they'll take their places alongside the Army in Korea without a grumble.

The Marines have been ready for combat ever since they put up their rifles on Okinawa in 1945. Gen. Clifton B. Cates, Marine commandant, always said "we're ready to move at midnight or at any time."

How many more Marines will be shipped to Korea is up to the Defense Department. The Marines still have their Second Division, a force about the same size as the first, located at New River, N. C.

If the Marines follow the same manpower policy employed in World War II, they will build their divisions to full strength overseas. The Marines developed six full divisions during the war in the Pacific, using New Zealand and the Hawaiian Islands as primary training bases.

It may be necessary in Korea to form raider battalions again. The raiders were used first on Guadalcanal to penetrate Japanese lines and raise havoc while the First Division contained the main body of the enemy. The three battalions of Marines that make up the First Division could be used as raiders, leaving the front line fighting to the Army.

ALL EQUIPPED, BUT — This South Korean soldier decked out in camouflaged helmet and wearing ammunition found part of his equipment too burdensome to bear. He sagged to find marching more bearable without the offending footgear. (AP Wirephoto).

Company Invites Town To Party

MIDDLETOWN, O., July 11. (AP)—Here is the kind of birthday party you may have been looking for: The guests — perhaps 50,000 of them — don't have to bring any presents. Everything at the party is free. That includes the eats, the drinks and the entertainment which will include everything from tossing rings on canes to a wrestling show and an aquacade.

And the hosts and the fellow workers will do all the work. The party will be held here Wednesday to celebrate Armo Steel Corp.'s 50th birthday anniversary. Host will be Armo and its employees. Guests will be anyone in Middletown and its environs that wants to attend. Armo will put on the party and the employees will serve the food and drinks and do the other jobs connected with entertainment of the guest. Charles H. Hook, Armo's chairman, explained it this way: "We are inviting everyone in Middletown to come to our party and help us celebrate our golden anniversary. Middletown has played a vital role in Armo's progress."

"Because the city and our company have always worked together in a spirit of helpful co-operation, we have grown together. Certainly we should celebrate the occasion together." Just to give you an example of the kind of a party it will be, here is the menu: 150,000 hot dogs someone figured

That would be 34 miles of hot dogs to eat and to eat! 100,000 bottles of soft drinks; 150,000 ice cream bars; 20,000 boxes of crackerjacks and 150 gallons of mustard. They'll give away 10,000 balloons. There will be a carnival with a ferris wheel, merry-go-round, several other rides and the usual "skill" games such as tossing rings over canes.

There will be a fireworks display and, at the same time, more entertainment the hosts have arranged a three-match wrestling card that will include such professional wrestlers as Lord Biceps and Billy Venable. The Aquacade will have Bruce Harlan of Ohio State University, champion Olympic diver, as its star. It also will have a water bat-let and rhythm swimming. Middletown's Sunset Park will be the scene of the mammoth party. It will start at 1 p.m. and last until 11 p.m.

CLOCKS GO HAYWIRE, SO DOES CORSICANA

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD AP Staff

They had a time with the wrong time in Corsicana.

All over town, Western Union clocks in business establishments were from five to 15 minutes off last week. This went on several days since Western Union's local clock expert was on a holiday and couldn't be found. Appointments — and even trains — were missed.

The Corsicana Sun recognized the crisis and headlined a front page story: "Erratic Clocks Cause Confusion Over Entire Town." The story quoted the local Western Union manager, a dismayed man indeed, as saying he had no idea what was wrong. He had appealed to the Dallas regional office for aid, he said.

The aid came, all right, and next day everything was under control. We asked A. F. Moody, Western Union's assistant general manager in the Southwest, what happened.

"I've been with the company 40 years," said he, "and never saw anything like that happen before. Our master clock at Corsicana, which regulates our other clocks over the city, went out the blink. The steel spring that holds the pendulum broke, and from then on the clock wasn't responsible, of course. It went off the beam, and all the other clocks that it regulates did the same."

"When we found the trouble, there was no spare spring in Corsicana, so we rushed one by automobile from Dallas. We certainly were glad to straighten out that situation. It was a very surprising thing to me — I had come to think of Western Union time as infallible."

In Texas alone, Western Union has about 4,300 clocks. Moody, a tall, pleasant, grey-eyed man, a resident of Dallas, told us.

"And we take our clocks seriously," he chuckled.

Daily at 11 a. m., master clocks over the nation, such as the one that went on the bludge at Corsicana, are regulated by direct wire impulses from the naval observatory at Washington.

"Right on the dot, at 11 a. m., employees in the local offices are watching their master clocks to see if there is any change at the moment of regulation," said Moody. "The result is entered into a chart. Some of our master clocks go a 3/2 without losing as much as a second."

Denounces Use Of UN Flag By U. S. In Korea

MOSCOW, July 11. (AP) — The Russian government today denounced the use of the United Nations flag by American troops fighting in Korea and attacked as illegal the Security Council's sponsorship of a U. S.-headed unified command for the Korean war.

A Soviet note to UN Sec.-Gen. Trygve Lie said the council's resolution of July 7 taking these actions "aims at unlawfully using the United Nations flag to cover armed actions of the United States in Korea."

Such U. S. actions, the note declared, "constitute direct aggression on the part of the United States with regard to the Korean people."

The Russian note, replying to a message from Lie informing the Kremlin of the council resolution, was published in all Moscow papers today.

It charged that the council resolution was a "gross violation" of the UN charter because the Soviet Union and the Chinese Peoples (Communist) Republic were not represented at the council meeting.

The Soviet Union, a permanent member of the Security Council, raised the same objection previously by refusing to recognize the council resolution calling for military aid to the South Korean government.

Russia, chief advocate of the Peking government's so-far-unsuccessful campaign for UN membership, since January had boycotted all UN meetings at which the Chinese Nationalists have been represented.

YOUNG AMERICANS

Fight Like Heroes In Faraway War

AMERICAN ADVANCED HEAD-QUARTERS IN KOREA, July 11. — There are a lot of young Americans fighting like heroes in this faraway war they do not understand very well.

You can get an idea from the wounded of what it is like up there to the north where the outnumbered Americans are trying to check the southward drive of the invaders from Communist North Korea. The 21-year-old soldier sat in the railroad car which was bringing back the wounded from the front. He was brown-haired.

"That machinegunner," he said. "He just stood there and poured machinegun bullets at them until his whole squad got out."

"Then we got him back and he has four holes in him. I think he's going to be all right."

He paused, then went on. "The lieutenant and me and the guy back here," he said, pointing to a wounded soldier resting on the coach chair behind him, "had been shooting bazookas. Then something—maybe a grenade—got us. "It tore us wide open. This guy here is burned bad. I was lucky."

There had been reports of Americans battling North Korean tanks with bazookas at ranges as short as 20 yards. I asked the soldier if the bazooka was any good against the tanks he had fought.

He waved two fingers in my face almost violently and shouted. "We stopped two of them! That's what I've been telling you. Two of them and their crews, and then we got it, me and the lieutenant and this guy here."

DOUGLAS ASKS PRUNING

Solon Seeks Cut In Home Spending

WASHINGTON, July 11. (AP)—Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) turned the edge of a billion dollar pruning knife toward the $34,688,000,000 one-package money bill as it came up for debate in the Senate today.

Douglas told reporters he will offer a series of amendments aimed at trimming a billion off of the non-military expenditures in the bill.

He is acting separately from a group of Republicans and Democrats who are sponsoring an amendment — rejected by the appropriations committee — to cut 10 per cent off personnel outlays and 20 per cent off travel expenses outside of the military agencies for an estimated saving of $600 million.

Chairman Taft of Ohio said the Republican Policy Committee will discuss the amendment at a closed session and decide what course the GOP wants to take in trying to effect some economies.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) said he is working with both Republicans and Democrats to help get the amendment in shape for action by the Senate.

Playing a lone hand, Douglas said he will seek to cut $300 million off personnel outlays with an amendment providing that many government agencies could fill only one half of all vacancies that occur in jobs in their departments. In addition, he would ask for a flat 2 per cent cut in the number of jobs.

Douglas hoped to pick up a $100 million saving by reducing the annual leave of government employees.

He aimed a $300 million reduction at funds for rivers, harbors, roads and dams.

The Illinois senator proposed a $75 million cut in subsidies paid railroads, airlines, ship builders and operators. He said he would propose a postal rate increase aimed at raising $200 million new revenue.

Chairman McClellan (D-Tenn.) of the appropriations committee was prepared to call up the omnibus bill with the hope that it can be passed before the week is out.

Sen. Robertson (D-Va.) suggested that senators limit themselves to 10 minutes debate on each amendment, but Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, said there ought to be some general discussion of the bill before there is any debate limitation.

DIDN'T TEACH THEM ON THIS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 11. (AP)—The keeper of the bloodhounds at the Tennessee State prison escaped yesterday, but the bloodhounds couldn't track him down.

Charles Lenning, about 30, trusty serving 12 years for house-breaking and larceny, walked away from his job guards said.

The guards picked up his trail, all right. But it led to a dead-end — Lenning had gotten into a car. He's still at large.

CLAIM WEST ORDERS GERMAN ARMED FORCE

MOSCOW, July 11. (AP)—Pravda charged today that the Western Powers have given orders for the immediate formation of a permanent West German army of 30,000 men.

The newspapers, official organ of the Communist Party, called it "the new, most crude violation of the Potsdam agreements by the western powers."

Pravda, in a Tass dispatch from Berlin, said the army would be mechanized and have automatic weapons.

It said Hitlerite officers of all ranks were arriving in the West German capital of Bonn to lead the army.

This step, it said, had given rise to

Paper Finds It Must Not Stray From Red Line

HONG KONG, July 11. (AP)—Shanghai reports said today the North China Daily News, last week Communist English language paper published in that Red city, learned the danger of straying from the Communist line.

The Reds objected on June 30 to a headline: "North Korea declares war against South Korea."

Everyone knows, the Reds said, that "it was South Korean reactionaries under the instigation of American imperialists that invaded North Korea."

The Communists suspended publication of the North China Daily News for three days.

Bridges' Own Union Turns Against Him

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11. (AP)—Harry Bridges' opposition to his own CIO union supporting U. S. action in Korea precipitated a near riot last night.

Several fist fights broke up the meeting of Local 10, International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, and prevented a vote on the anti-Communist resolution.

Bridges is a member of the local.

Angry rightwing longshoremen as he led the opposition. The resolution had been offered by Phil Sandin, president of the local.

The resolution condemned North Korean aggression, pledged the union's loyalty to the United States, promised to load all war cargoes, and declared:

"We shall not join in, condone or recognize any Communist demonstration or picket lines.

Bridges offered an amendment expressing support for the United Nations "cease fire" order and asking peaceful settlement of the Korean war. Sandin said the same motion was defeated at a union meeting last week, and thus had been disposed of. Bridges' appeal from Sandin's ruling was defeated by a vote.

The fist swinging started after one longshoreman then shouted: "All the Commies should be loaded into armored cars and sent to Tule Lake."

Tule Lake, Calif., is the area where Japanese nationals were interned during World War II. Bridges recently was convicted in federal court of perjury for denying at his 1945 naturalization hearing that he had ever been a Communist. He is free on bond pending hearing of his appeal.

NBA IS VEXED WITH CHAMP

WASHINGTON, July 11. (AP)—Featherweight Champion Willie Pep didn't fight here last night. He was honeymooning.

Boxing Promoter Goldie Ahearn was happy at the romance and looking forward to a big box office later when Willie does fight. The National Boxing Association was annoyed. Because Pep didn't show up for a scheduled 16-round bout with Bobby Bell of Youngstown, O., the association suspended him.

Pep, 27, was married yesterday morning in Hinton, Md., to 22-year-old Dolores von Freckell. Both are from Hartford, Conn.

The Rev. R. J. Sturgill, Baptist minister who tied the knot, said he assumed the newlyweds were "going back to Rehoboth Beach (Md.) where they've been since Saturday."

A Bible Thought For Today -

Some have doubted the historical facts regarding this legendary character. Some ancient people reckoned by months not years. No one can dispute the final fact, and he died! It is not how long we live but how well. "And all the days of Methuselah were nine hundred and sixty nine years; and he died." -Gen. 5:27.

For Practical Purposes, Water Problem Has Its Basic Decision

The Colorado River Municipal Water District directors didn't recommend a course of action to constituent cities at their meeting here Monday, but developments had the same effect. A modified program was advanced to split the ultimate program in two parts— one for short-range needs, the other for long-range supply. There was little doubt that this will become the district's proposition to the cities as soon as "tentative final" datum and forms can be perfected. Thus, with a proposition of its own, the district can hardly be expected to embrace one advanced previously by the Bureau of Reclamation.

mand within the immediate future. Pipelines of ultimate size would be installed from Big Spring to Odessa. In the case of Odessa, the pumping head would be about 100 feet. In the case of Big Spring the flow would be by gravity. While this facility was being installed, land would be purchased for a lake site. This would set the stage for the second step, the impounding of a lake possibly 10 years hence. At that time, a pipeline would be extended to connect with existing lines at Big Spring. Preliminary figures indicate that water, under such arrangement, could be provided without any great increase in cost to either city. While final judgment of it would await the presentation of the minute details of the proposal, the outlook now is quite promising. The prospect for early action is the best that it has been since the idea of a multi-city water project was launched originally in April of 1946.

Pegging Of Grain Prices Fixes Factor For Value Of The Crop

Recent posting of the grain sorghum 'can at $1.87 per bushel answers at least part of the question raised about the potential value of the county's current crop. That part has to be with the value per unit. Weather will determine the number of units—or the number of tons. Conceivably, with a reasonably good break in moisture conditions at this stage, the county could make 25,000 tons of grain. Approx' ate value would approach $1,000,000. Of course, lowering of the support price could cost the producers $100,000 if prices sag to the support level. So for they have not done that, but then the current crop has not yet come on the market.

Reports on cotton acreage over the state show a 34 per cent decline over last year. Our own county is down by that amount or more. It will be interesting to note the exact amount of cotton left to a fair stand by time the compliance date falls. We have an idea that while some have deliberately overplanted so as not to be short, that on the whole our aggregate acreage will fall under the allotment. Under less favorable conditions it could have been far under. This happens frequently in West Texas. Thus, it is important that the powers that be in Washington should now shave acreage too sharply under any plan for this area. Weather as much as acreage is the controlling factor.

JCS Recommendations Carry A Lot Of Weight With President

WASHINGTON. — FOUR MEN—THE Joint Chiefs of Staff—are the top military planners in this country. It's their job to figure out what the armed forces of this country can, or can't, or should do in any given situation. Back in 1947 Congress decided to put an end to the old conflict between the Army, Navy, and Air Force. While each was completely independent of the other, they often worked at cross purposes and competed with each other for money to spend, for equipment, and even for men. And their ideas on military planning how, they could be brought together, Congress thought, this wasteful conflict might be ended.

an admiral goes over the problem, and the recommendation. It either approves or sends it back to the group for more working over. BUT SAY IT THINKS THE PLAN PREPARED by the group is all right. It then recommends this to Bradley and the other three members of the JCS. The JCS can approve or send it back for more study. But—although Bradley is chairman of the JCS and can take part in its discussions, under the law he cannot vote when the other three members get around to making a decision. And—the decision of those three men must be unanimous. If one disagrees, then they turn the problem over to the secretary of defense, Louis Johnson, for decision. Since in this country civilians are in control, on the big questions the JCS can make no decisions but can only recommend to the two heads of our military set-up: President Truman, who is commander-in-chief, or Louis Johnson, secretary of defense. But—since recommendations of the JCS are supposed to represent the best military brains we have, they have tremendous weight.

Food Called Good

JERUSALEM.—Lord Boyd Orr, former director-general of the United Nations food and agricultural organization, thinks Israel has a "good menu." He so told Dr. Dov Joseph, minister of supply and rationing, during a visit to Israel. Lord Boyd Orr examined the food lists prepared by the minister and said the present food rations were sufficient to maintain the health of the Israelis. Israelis long have complained about a 7-ounce individual weekly meat ration and a steady diet of frozen fish, potatoes, carrots and peas. They also get some eggs.

Cat Nurses Rats

COPENHAGEN.—Farmer Christian Harpoeth of Toender, South Jutland, found his cat nursing five well-fed young rats. Sometime ago its kittens had been drowned and since then the cat had hidden. When traced she was taking care of the rats. Now she is mourning the loss of her foster-children who have been drowned, too.

Truman Turned Down A Diplomatic Plan To Halt Switchmen's Walkout

WASHINGTON. — Only a few insiders realized it but, at his last press conference, President Truman blithely tossed out the window a carefully nurtured plan for halting a nation-wide rail strike. Behind the scenes, Utah's scholarly Elbert Thomas, Senate Labor committee chairman, together with Wayne Morse, who settled the 1941 nation-wide rail strike just before Pearl Harbor, had pleaded with Mr. Truman to follow a path they had smoothed out—namely, an appeal to the patriotism of the switchmen to go back to work. Instead, the President went along with the suggestion of Harry Darby, the freshman Republican senator from Kansas. Unsmiling, he curtly announced that the striking switchmen should get back on the job, or the government would take drastic action. Senators Thomas and Morse, one a Democrat, the other a Republican, had urged Mr. Truman to handle the switchmen's strike and the threatened trainmen and conductors' strike, set for July 15 all as one problem. "The brotherhoods don't want to strike," Senator Thomas told the President. "The railroads have the union in exactly the same position the mine operators had John Lewis the last time. An appeal from you would keep the trains moving."

Rock Island strike as a test case. MCGARTHY'S REDS. When Senator McCarthy last week hurled his usual barrage of vitriol at the State Department, claiming that Reds were in charge of its Korean policy, he overlooked one thing. The man in charge of the State Department's Korean desk happens to be a member of McCarthy's own party. Furthermore, his Republican antecedents are far more distinguished and more conservative than those of the senator from Wisconsin. The Korean expert in question is Harry Frelinghuysen, son of the former Republican senator from New Jersey, and one of the oldest families in that state. Far from being a Communist, young Frelinghuysen still remains a member of the Republican party, though he believes in giving his best to his country whatever administration is in office. Serving in the U. S. Army in Korea as a lieutenant, he bucked brass-hat inertia and the tendency of many American officers to take Korean service as a chance to live on the fat of the land with live servants and a four-hour work-day. Back in Washington Frelinghuysen has been at the forefront of those who recognized the danger in Korea and pushed for more aid to Korea. Independently wealthy but believing that every American should serve his country, he has been working day and night shifts. Yet Senator McCarthy now brands him a "Red."

WASHINGTON. — A hard question for which President Truman has not yet found the answer is: What and how many Republicans must be dealt with in order to get bipartisan foreign policy on a firm basis for the difficult days ahead? The President says wistfully that he wants to cooperate. His problem is to find Republicans with whom to cooperate short of taking the entire minority into his personal confidence. Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg is, unhappily, still not strong and he has no obvious successor. Other minority members of Senate Foreign Relations do not have his experience and qualities of leadership which would enable them to dominate their side of the aisle. Yet the President and the Senate, too, must respect their prerogatives or suffer for it. The presidential ambitions of three key senators—Taft, Lodge and Wherry—are a complicating factor. Their colleagues, perhaps unjustly, will not follow personally ambitious men in such delicate enterprises. Then there is the basic, deep division on foreign policy within the party. Seeking answers to the problem, the President recently summoned Senator Bridges of New Hampshire to the White House. Senator Bridges is a conservative and somewhat given to snip-

Truman Has Problem Of What GOPs To Include In Bipartisan Policy

WASHINGTON. — A hard question for which President Truman has not yet found the answer is: What and how many Republicans must be dealt with in order to get bipartisan foreign policy on a firm basis for the difficult days ahead? The President says wistfully that he wants to cooperate. His problem is to find Republicans with whom to cooperate short of taking the entire minority into his personal confidence. Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg is, unhappily, still not strong and he has no obvious successor. Other minority members of Senate Foreign Relations do not have his experience and qualities of leadership which would enable them to dominate their side of the aisle. Yet the President and the Senate, too, must respect their prerogatives or suffer for it. The presidential ambitions of three key senators—Taft, Lodge and Wherry—are a complicating factor. Their colleagues, perhaps unjustly, will not follow personally ambitious men in such delicate enterprises. Then there is the basic, deep division on foreign policy within the party. Seeking answers to the problem, the President recently summoned Senator Bridges of New Hampshire to the White House. Senator Bridges is a conservative and somewhat given to snip-

ing at the administration or all fronts behind the closed doors of the Appropriations committee, on which he is ranking Republican. But when the chips are down he has voted internationalist, even during the hard 'thirties. The senator and the former senator did not need to discuss personalities; both know the score. They did talk frankly about the problem. Senator Bridges told Mr. Truman he would have to widen the scope of his bipartisan conference to get good results. Give the Foreign Relations committee all its dues, he urged, but, in addition, bring into all vital conferences the following: Minority Leader Wherry; Senator Taft, chairman of the Republican Policy committee; Senator Millikin, chairman of the Republican conference; and the ranking Republican on Appropriations and Armed Services—in both cases, Bridges. This selection encompasses the Old Guard, the rank G.O.P. Senate affairs. It notably omits the progressive bloc including internationalists like the ever-reliable Morse of Oregon and the articulate and well-informed Knowland of California, a foremost exponent of American intervention in Asia. With the Foreign Relations minority added to it, this would give Mr. Truman a G.O.P. council which could reasonably be expected to line up about as follows: Senators Vandenberg (if present), Smith of New Jersey, Bridges and Lodge, internationalists; Senators Wherry, Taft, Hickenlooper and Wiley, inclined toward isolation, or as they prefer to call it, nationalism; and Senator Millikin, swing man. President Truman said thank you to Bridges; apparently so, thank you, to himself. John Foster Dulles, Governor Dewey's adviser and now State Department consultant, has been doing what he can to bridge the gap. Dulles has reported faithfully to congressional Republicans and carried the message of their desire for a personal report from Mr. Truman. But he has no party status; Governor Dewey's defeat and impending retirement have reduced his prestige. The President got good and bad results from the Bridges visit. Bridges has firmly refused to join the determined Wherry-Taft-Jenner, etc. band calling for the resignation of Secretary of State Acheson. But his Foreign Relations colleagues took a dim view of the attention paid him and their ruffled feathers had to be smoothed down.

The Old Army Mule Is Lucky; He's Exempt From Draft Law

As Armed Forces Reservists, Guardsmen, and potential draftees view the Far Eastern situation, not nostalgically, with thoughts of the possibility of a return to military service, there's one creature who probably doesn't give a hoot if the North Korean Comrades crowd the Democratic forces all the way into the Yellow Sea. In fact, he probably thinks it would serve the latter right if they did get shoved around a little. That is, if he pauses a moment to remember what the American Army has done to him in the past. We refer to the horse, whose dismissal from action with U. S. troops was completed during the last war, after nearly 100 years of service that saw his rise to a position comparable to that now held by the atom bomb. Demise of the horse, however, came at the end of a gradual decline which stretched over nearly half a century. Just as he was crowded off the highways by the internal combustion engine, the animal was finally pushed off modern battlefields by weapons of destruction too potent for him to withstand. End of his service was forecast during the Spanish-American war when the Gatling gun was introduced, setting up a road block too formidable for horseflesh. The beginning of World War I saw the valiant horse making a comeback, but he was already licked and the end of that conflict found him reduced to the role of common draft animal, pulling artillery pieces and loads of supplies. When the First Cavalry division demounted to enter the Southwestern Pacific theatre during World War II, the horse, was completely discharged. But in spite of his unglamorous exit, the old Army horse didn't succumb before he had served his country "beyond the line of duty." In fact, without him, troopers probably never would have succeeded in subduing the savage Indians of western America. Beginning after the war with Mexico, General Scott used mounted rangers and dragoons in Indian wars along the upper Mississippi. The Cavalry patrolled the 2,500 miles between Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and Oregon, protecting settlers in a wilderness where a man without a horse was dead and linking isolated posts along the way. The Cavalry made up at least a third of the Army in 1855. During the Civil War, Confederate horsemen kept Union commanders awake at night—until Gen. Grant and Sherman adopted Cavalry and employed it in the best manner in which it was probably ever used. During the '70s and '80s, mounted soldiers successfully coped with the incursions of Indians waging a "war of extermination." However, subsequent wars saw the introduction of weapons against which the unarmed horse was caught flat-footed. In modern warfare he is as out of place as the bow and arrow. The First Cavalry division is reminiscent only in name of the role the four-footed soldier played in past conflicts. Soon that reminder will be gone, if the Army's present reorganization plan is followed. Military leaders hope to delete the name Cavalry from its units, changing the nomenclature to Armor. The latter term is more descriptive of the part modern mounted troops play, they explain. So, unwanted and almost forgotten, the horse is taking his place on the sidelines along with catapults, spears, and his wooden likeness that was first to enter the gates of Troy. WAYLAND YATES

Soviet Hopes To Strain U.S. Economy Via Satellites' Wars

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT aims of Soviet strategy in furthering its world revolution is to bleed the democracies economically with the hope of thus rendering them vulnerable to Red attack. This crafty line of thought long has permeated Bolshevik operations. A prime example of it was the Russian blockade of western Berlin. That forced America and Britain to maintain a long and tremendously costly air lift to provide the city with necessities. And it's notable that Moscow carried out this coup without expending much strength herself. Now we have the Korean show, which is more or less a piece off the same cloth. Russia has two main objectives in backing Communist North Korea's invasion of non-Communist South Korea. THESE OBJECTIVES ARE (1) To gain control of the entire Korean Peninsula because of its strategic value in possible future operations, and (2) to compel America and other western allies to spread themselves and to expand economic strength in defending the South Korean republic. Again we note that while Russia has trained the North Korean armies, and has provided many sinews of war, the Soviet itself hasn't become directly involved. As usual she is using one of her satellites to do the heavy work for her—under expert Russian military guidance, of course. Evidence that Russia again has been crafty is seen in the reaction by the western powers, John M. Hightower, AP diplomatic expert in Washington, reports that administration officials are beginning to regard the Korean war as a long, difficult and costly struggle for America. HIGHTOWER ADDS THAT, DEPEND- ing on how the fighting goes, this development of a less optimistic outlook about an early end to the war apparently means a steady build-up of American forces in the war zone—with increasing requirements for money, men and munitions. Furthermore, the U. S. is faced with the need to keep up a billion dollar flow of arms to western Europe, the Middle East and southeast Asia, while keeping its own forces set to deal with any new moves by the Red bloc. So that's the strain Russia is putting on America, without taking on any great, additional load herself. And Korea isn't by any means the only theatre involved in this Red strategy. Over in China the Chinese Communist regime has served notice on the United Nations that it is determined to capture the big island of Formosa "despite any military steps of obstruction taken by the United States government." America has assigned naval units to protect Formosa, which is the seat of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government and his last stronghold. AND WHAT IS THE SIGNIFICANCE OF this? Well, it means that Moscow is pushing another of its satellites into the foreground to challenge America. It is an effort to make the United States weaken itself by widening its operations. That there is the making of a long and costly struggle in Korea certainly is in the cards. As this column has pointed out before, Russia is in the position of pouring an endless stream of Manchurian and Chinese Communist troops down through the North Korean funnel into South Korea. So long as this can continue there always will be new Red troops to take the place of those knocked out. The U.S.A. will have to bring a mighty lot of military strength into play before the situation can be overcome—and that will take time. This accounts for America's action in ordering use of the draft to bring her armed forces up to full operating strength for the Korean war.

Korean Butchers Rate Lowest In The Nation's Social Scale

NEW YORK. (AP) — AMERICAN GIT'S fighting in Korea find themselves in a country of odd customs and ancient ways. There is little about either the land or the people to remind them of home. The main impression is one of bareness. The Koreans are one of the world's most durable races. They've had to be to survive grinding poverty and disease. They are taller and lighter-skinned than the Japanese, and they can do more work on less food. They were kept in ignorance under Japanese rule. In the larger cities, however, there is an eagerness to accept western ideas and modes of life. GRADUALLY, BOTH MEN AND WOMEN are giving up the old practice of wearing only white clothing. This tradition began centuries ago, when people were required to don white garb as a sign of mourning for three years after a ruler died. Then three rulers died in succession, and the Koreans got so in the habit of wearing white they've been doing it ever since. But now they prize American-style hats and coat jackets—worn over white robes. Koreans aren't particularly fond of that trading commodity GI Joe has found so useful in other lands—chewing gum. They prefer ginseng tablets, which they believe keep them healthy. If you call on them, they rarely offer you tea, as in Japan. They haul out tobacco. They use a pipe about a yard long. The Koreans love meat, vegetables, red pepper, pickles, radishes, and garlic. Butchers rate lowest in their social scale, scholars rank highest. BOYS USED TO WED AT 11 OR 12, girls at 14 or 15. But the custom of child marriage is slowly dying out. The husband swears his oath before a wooden wild goose he brings to the bride's home. When she goes to live with him in his parents' abode, she has to handle all the house cleaning chores. Her mother-in-law is the boss, and takes life easy from then on. Rich men have more troubles with their relatives than a Hollywood producer. They must care for any impoverished member of the family, no matter how distant the kinship, and this often requires houses with 80 to 100 rooms.

CRMWD Drafts Tentative Plan To Supply City, Odessa Water

Little time is being lost in drafting a tentative final form for a joint water supply proposition to Big Spring and Odessa by the Colorado River Municipal Water District.
 Both Simon Freese, Fort Worth, the district's engineer, and John D. McCall, Dallas, the district's attorney, spent considerable time in conference and in gathering information here Monday following a board meeting. No time has been set Tuesday for a possible report from the two, but observers did not consider it improbable that the CRMWD might be convoked within a month to adopt officially the proposition it would submit to the two member cities of the district.
 As matters now stand, it appears the CRMWD will propose a development in two stages. The first for short-range supplies, would hinge on retouring of pipelines through Martin county and there tapping a fairly recently discovered prolific field of potable water. The second would deal with the impounding of a lake on the upper Colorado River in southwestern Scurry about 25 miles northeast of here. However, part of the first step would be the purchase of land for a basin for the lake. On tentative time-table, lake construction would be projected for 10 years hence, but if demand justified, the time would be shoved forward.
 During the 10 year period, if that is the way it worked out, the district calculated it would lay in reserves which would make financing of the second stage more attractive and thus permit the additional bond load without having to increase rates.
 When submitted, it expected that the district proposition would be financed by an "open end" revenue bond. That is to say, the initial issue would be open so that additional bonds could be issued with the same standing when the time came. The district's position would be that of applicant. Presumably, it would contract with member cities for minimum annual payments, plus minor lifting charges.

Nebraska Flood Waters Rage On

CRETE, Neb., July 11. — The raging Big Blue River flood waters tolled downstream today after inundating parts of four towns and causing millions of dollars worth of property and crop damage.
 The record breaking flood crest, resulting from the runoff of a 13-inch rain at York, 50 miles northeast of here, is expected to reach Beatrice, 25 miles south of here, early Thursday.
 The flood, most extensive in the history of York, McCool, Beaver Crossing and Crete, already has claimed five lives, and driven more than 600 from their homes.
 As cleanup operations proceeded without interruption at towns already hit, preparations were being made at DeWitt and Beatrice for the high water.
 Observers expect the raging flood waters to reach DeWitt today. At Beatrice, a city of about 11,000, a river crest of 25.5 feet, nearly a foot over the previous record and eight feet over flood stage, is predicted for today. Farmers were moving livestock to higher ground and furniture and other household goods were taken from homes expected to be in the path of the flood waters.
 A small fleet of amphibious army "ducks" manned by volunteers, was standing by.
 The only casualties reported to date were a family group drowned in a flash flood near Fullerton, about 100 miles northwest of here. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bogner of Hastings, their two small children and a niece were found dead near the point where their car was washed from the road.

Little Damage Reported From Sandstorm Monday

Some damage, possibly not serious although not yet thoroughly assessed, resulted from a rip-roaring but short-lived sandstorm Monday evening.
 Riding in on a front from the north, the red mass rolled in to reduce visibility to less than a quarter of a mile. The U. S. weather bureau at the airport measured the velocity at 30 miles per hour, with gusts to 38.
 In the sandy land belt to the north, from whence came part of the mixture, cotton along roads and turning rows suffered burn. Worst effects were felt in the Elbow sector, where last week showers had come. Where the land had not been stirred since the showers, coarse sand grains on the surface gave young cotton a lacing. However, the burned appearance indicated that the wind itself did more scorching than the sand, which appeared to be rising here.
 Further south there were a series of showers as the front ran into thunderheads. At one point south of Garden City, as much as three inches came in a localized near-cloudburst.

Raschi Slated To Face Robin Roberts Today

CHICAGO, July 11. (AP) — Yankee Vic Raschi and the Phils' $25,000 bonus baby, Robin Roberts, clash today in the 17th renewal of the All-Star baseball game at its Comiskey Park birthplace.

Although the fans' dream game has become a managers' nightmare, a sellout crowd of 49,000 is due to jam the Chicago White Sox ball park by game time. The first ball is to be pitched at 1:30 p.m. (EST) with television and radio (MBS) swinging into action 15 minutes earlier.

The embarrassed National League, trailing 12-4 in games, is a 9 to 5 underdog.

Burt Shotton, Brooklyn manager, is on the hot seat with Chicago fans because he tried to keep the Cubs' Hank Sauer out of his starting lineup. The fans, who voted Sauer into third place among the outfielders with more than 700,000 ballots, won out in the end. Sauer finally was restored to the starting lineup after Commissioner A. B. Chandler reversed an earlier ruling.

Sauer, normally a left fielder not noted for his defensive skill, will be in center because Shotton doesn't want to change two outfielders.

"I don't want to break up two position to fill one," he said. "If I moved Eno Slaughter (St. Louis) to center, then I'd have to play Sauer in right and only Ralph Kiner (Pittsburgh) would be playing a familiar position. I've got to put Sauer in center. I'm just sorry about that."

Shotton added, with a wink, that he'd just instruct his pitchers not to permit the batters to hit fly balls out there.

"For all I know," he said, "Sauer may turn out to be the star of the game. I hope so."

Manager Casey Stengel of the American League stars makes no secret of his displeasure over the use of several of his pitching selections last Sunday.

After naming Raschi to pitch the first three innings, Casey was cagey concerning his pitching alignment beyond the New York right-hander.

"I don't know who I'll use after that," he said. "I may use Detroit's Art Houtteman and Cleveland's Bob Lemon—both of whom pitched Sunday.

Casey alluded to the three Yankee hurlers on the squad—southpaw Tommy Byrne, right-hander Allie Reynolds and Raschi. "I arranged for them to be ready."

It was felt, however, that Casey, despite his chagrin, would use Detroit's Ted Gray in the middle three innings and would finish with Chicago's Ray Scarborough.

Shotton also was reluctant to name the hurlers who would follow Philadelphia's Roberts to the mound.

"I doubt that any of my three will be a lefthander, except in an emergency," Shotton said, Brooklyn's Preacher Roe and Boston's Warren Spahn are the only left-handers among the eight pitchers.

Cincinnati's Ewell Blackwell and either Brooklyn's Don Newcombe or New York's Larry Jansen are likely choice to follow Roberts.

Shotton planned to make very few changes in the starting lineup in the event his team got off on top.

"It's honor enough for a man to be named on the squad," he said. "I will make no changes if I'm ahead. I'm not going to put a man in the game just to get his name in the box score. We're out to win this one and I'm going to use the best men as long as I can."

NEW NET KING—Pancho Segura (above) of Ecuador is looking for new worlds to conquer after sweeping to the singles championship in the recent national pro meet with smashing wins over Jack Kramer and Frank Kovacs.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

A man must look to his future, which is the big reason L. B. (Sci) Russell quit the Howard County Junior college athletic staff to assume Stormy Davis' old job at Cisco JC.

Russell faced a bleak future here, the job of building up a football team that won no games in 1949 and whose prospects for an improvement on that record are little brighter this fall.

The hands of any coach who steps into the job here are tied for the simple reason that the school is not able to offer much financial aid to its boys. Naturally, the youth with ability to play football is going to take the best possible offer. He can't be censured for that.

Neither should the fortunes of the Hawk football team reflect on the ability of a coach. It has often been said that material contributes something like 90 percent toward the success of any team.

HCJC will continue to draw most of its material from lads who live here and whose parents can afford to send them to school. Boys who fall into that category might be, and often are, very capable. The trouble is, there isn't an over abundance of them.

Russell steps into a position at Cisco where success should come easier. More financial assistance is offered the boys there and Sci knows he can go out and get the grid hopefuls by dangling an athletic scholarship in their faces.

The fact that the HCJC basketball and baseball teams do as well as they do speaks well for the coaching wizardry of Harold Davis.

When Davis came here, the Hawk cape team was having difficulty holding its own with local independent teams. He made the best of what he had, however, and has improved upon his record every year.

There is little telling how far he could go, if his chances to bid for the top athletes were equal to those of other jaycee coaches in the state.

BLOUNT AND CORDILL WOULD RATE TEAM

An Odessa football fanatic, writing to Spec Gammon in the Odessa paper, would name Peppy Blount and Olie Cordill of Our Town to the all-time all-opponent team of the Odessa high school eleven which is quite a compliment in view of the fact that the Broncos have met the best the state has to offer down through the years.

Others appearing on the 'honor roll' include Kyle Rote, Hubert Bechtel, James Garner, Tuffy Nabors, Joel Williams, Jay Francis and John Kimbrough.

SORROWS COME NOT AS SINGLE SPIES

Jack Gray, the University of Texas basketball coach, sings a tear-jerking lament over the fact that his 1950-51 cage team has been wrecked because several key athletes failed to pass examinations.

In February, Starter JBill McGee, the ex-Notre Dame hand, and Freshman Bryan Miller exited from the squad because they failed to pass their grades. Around a month ago, Jose Palafox, the All-American junior college transfer from Tyler and Fred Whillock, a crackerjack player from Cayuga, were lost to the squad for similar reasons.

If it's any consolation to Gray, he has a fellow sweeper here, Frank Hardesty, who takes his UT athletics more seriously than Gray and Football Coach Blair Cherry combined, is wearing a black stripe around his sleeve.

Byron Townsend, the ex-Odessa gridder, is working for a pipe-line construction outfit in Tennessee this summer.

DONKEY BASEBALL GAME BEGINS AT 8 O'CLOCK

Manager Squeaky Thompson of the jaycees says he has lined up a razor-sharp outfit to send against the striping paper boys. At least, they talk a good game, he adds. Jim Hartley will toe the pitching rubber for the Thompson troops, if his mound will let him. Bill Horne is assigned to catching duties.

Harvey Wooten will man first base. R. L. Heith will take over the second base post while Ike Medlin will play third and Tommy Gage shortstop.

In the outfield, it will be Jim Zack, J. C. Robinson and Pete Jones.

C. W. Turner, Tip Anderson, George Weeks, Mark Sutphen and others will be in uniform and will play, Thompson promises.

Truman Kirk and Smokey Stovall, who will muster mind the route boys' offensive, have lined up a starting team composed of Larry Isaacs, catcher; Bobby Butler, first base; Read West, second; Gene Bledsoe, third; Jimmy Kelly, shortstop; Frank Jones, left field; Claude McMillin, right; J. T. Rogers, center; and Dickie Cooper, pitcher.

Funds, over and above expenses, will be used to promote jaycee ventures.

Admission prices will be 50 and 25 cents.

Selbo Handcuffs Pampa Brigade With 3 Blows

PAMPA, July 11. — A reformed shortstop, Glen Selbo, went to the pitching mound for the Lamesa Lobos here Monday night and proceeded to blank the Pampa Oilers, 10-0.

Selbo hurled hitless ball until the fifth, at which time Os Engel broke the monopoly with a single. The Lobos went out from as early as the second round. They chased George Payne to cover in the seventh with a three run outburst.

Hank Robinson hit a long home run with a man on in the second to give Lamesa all the runs it needed. Robinson, with the Lobos on a five-day look, also got a single in four trips to the plate.

Every player in the Lamesa lineup hit safely with the exception of Pedro Robinson, 13 hits, including three by Bill Ashley.

Hubbers Handed 2 To 1 Decision

By The Associated Press

The Lubbock Hubbers, currently atop the West Texas-New Mexico League race by two games, picked up their victory last night the easy way when a run was walked in giving them a 2-1 decision over Abilene.

Second place Lamesa blanked Pampa, 10-0. Borger edged Clovis, 10-9 and the Amarillo-Albuquerque game was rained out.

Ken Wade walked Lubbock Pitcher Bill Ewen with the sacks, full to give the Hubbers their win. Ralph Rhames homered for Abilene, and Nelson Davis nudged one out of the park for Lubbock.

Glen Selbo gave the Pampa Oilers only three hits in his white-wash job.

Borger picked up an unearned run in the ninth frame to beat Clovis. Eddie Carnett hit two homers driving in three Borger runs.

Bob Lemon Pokes 33rd Home Run

By The Associated Press

Big Bob Lemon, Oklahoma City's fenceblaster, has just 22 home runs to hit to tie the Texas League record. He has 64 games in which to get them.

Lemon poked his thirty-third over the palings last night in leading the Indians to a 16-8 victory over San Antonio. He thus went four homers ahead of the pace set in 1924 by Clarence Kraft of Fort Worth when the big first baseman clubbed 55 to establish the record.

Bovines Win In 10th From Angelo, 7-2

Uley Records 6th Victory

SAN ANGELO, July 11. — The Big Spring Broncos won their fifth straight decision from the resident Colts in the San Angelo park when they crowded five tallies across the dish in the tenth inning to finish ahead, 7-2.

The Colts practically handed the decision to Jesus Uley and the Broncos, committing three errors afled in the big inning.

Bert Baer opened the frame by going all the way to second base when Shortstop Jack Smith accepted his ground ball but threw it into the Angelo dugout. Gabe Castenada hit a roller to Johnny Taylor at third and promptly threw it away, allowing Baer to tally.

Jimmy McClure, who went all the way on the pitching rubber for Angelo, got Pete Hernandez and Uley on hoppers but Felix Gomez followed with a triple that registered Castenada and the Steeds were off again.

Danny Conception dispatched the ball to Smith, who fumbled the chance and Gomez romped home. Conception then went all the way home on a long single by Jorge Lopez and Lopez finally got across on Potato Pascual's single in shallow left field.

The Colts put runners on first and third with only one out in their part of the tenth but Uley settled to strike out Bob Cruces and Wayne Wallace to end the threat and make certain of his sixth win of the season.

Angelo counted first, picking up two runs in the second on Steve Follett's two-bagger, a single by Chino Lopez and a misplay.

Big Spring moved back into a tie in the sixth on three consecutive hits and a misplay.

The loss was the fourth straight suffered by the Colts and moved them 4½ lengths behind Big Spring and Vernon, now tied for third in the standings.

The two clubs tangle here again tonight when they Big Spring moves home to tangle with Midland on Wednesday.

Texas May Have No More Than 35 Pro Baseball Clubs Next Year

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

DALLAS, July 11. (AP) — Texas this year took the national lead in number of professional baseball clubs but didn't hold it long. The state started with 47—two more than the leader in these many years, North Carolina. But in about a month Donna-Weslaco and Robstown dropped out of the Rio Grande Valley League.

Texas may finish the season with 45 and a tie with North Carolina but several clubs in several leagues are having tough sledding right now and the state may lose even its tie before next year.

It's pretty certain that Texas won't have anything like 45 clubs in 1951.

Every indication points to the merger of the Rio Grande Valley and Gulf Coast leagues, both Class C circuits. Only four clubs are drawing sufficiently in the Valley loop—Harlingen, Corpus Christi, Brownsville and Laredo, the latter when it started playing better baseball.

These four probably will combine with Port Arthur, Galveston and Lufkin of the Gulf Coast, with Orange taking the other franchise. It would appear that travel might be a handicap but there are only about 450 miles between Harlingen and Brownsville and Port Arthur. Harlingen is 355 miles from Del Rio in the Valley League this season.

Our information is that Presidents Kelly Nemark of the Valley League and Howard Green of the Gulf Coast are to get together shortly to talk over the proposed consolidation.

Such a merger would eliminate four clubs.

LONGHORN SOLID

The East Texas League isn't doing very well and even some of the Class B Big State League clubs are having a rough time. We note where Greenville, usually a good drawing town, is having its difficulties. The Big State probably will survive with perhaps an adjustment of one or two and the West Texas-New Mexico and Longhorn Leagues are quite solid.

Beaumont in the Texas League is drawing so badly its owner has put out a statement that the franchise may have to be moved if it doesn't do better, but it isn't likely this city will give up its long-time franchise. Beaumont has had those "save baseball in Beaumont" scores before.

Our guess is that Texas will have about 33 clubs next baseball season. Despite the fact that Texas

Bombers Host Lamesa Today In Playoffs

First game of a series to decide the representative of the east half of District 6 in American Legion Junior baseball play is to be unreeled at Steer park beginning at 4 p.m. today.

Foes will be Conn Isaacs' Big Spring Bombers and Lamesa, who split even in two games during the regular season.

A double header, if necessary, will be played in Lamesa Thursday.

Lamesa turned back the Big Springers, 7-5, in Lamesa last Saturday. Big Spring had won the first encounter, 8-7.

The winner of the series will square away with the Odessa Blue Sox, champions of the west half, next week.

Indications are Floyd Martin may trow today's game for Big Spring against the Dawson county team. Coach Isaacs will have Jack Sparks and Howard Washburn ready to go in Thursday's play.

Washburn did a great job of relief pitching against the Lamesans last week Sparks had failed to slow the opposition.

Egypt Won't Vote

CAIRO, Egypt, July 11. (AP)—Informed sources said today Egypt has decided not to vote for United Nations recognition of Red China. Her ballot in the Security Council might have been decisive.

MALE SPRUCES UP

Straw Hats Sell Fast In New York

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—The men folk appear to be sprucing up. Merchants who sell shirts, pajamas, hats and sportswear report business better than last year—in some cases 50 per cent better. And some see a definite trend in the male to go fancier.

Manufacturers who turn these items out say re-ordering by retailers is keeping them busy. Some say orders for fall are half again as big as last year. Shirt production so far this year is 11 per cent ahead of last. Pajama production is up 44.5 per cent.

The straw hat people are jubilant, almost dumbfounded. For the first time in several years, New York stores didn't break out with a rash of straw hat price reduction sales July 5. On the contrary, manufacturers say they have been getting re-orders from retailers. One straw hat maker is keeping his factory operating through July to fill these orders.

A Toledo, Ohio, store reports its best straw hat season in three years. Some Dallas stores say sales are up 15 to 20 per cent. The hat research foundation quotes its members as reporting the biggest straw hat year in 20 years.

The foundation credits this to advances in styling and merchandising methods. Straw hats are lighter—there's a Panama weighing only three ounces—they are more porous, and come in a greater variety of styles, the foundation says. Sport shirt production outstripped dress shirts the first part of the year. Together they ran 11 per cent ahead of 1949 output. Shirt makers say retail orders are well ahead of last year. Some see fall business from 18 to 20 per cent ahead.

A trend toward fancier is reported in many stores. Some of the items reported in good demand are lightweight short-sleeved sport shirts, colored yarn shirts, and sport shirts with knitted backs. Some makers believe the striped shirt will stage a comeback this fall. Shirts made from sheer fabrics are selling well, according to 26 of the 26 stores represented on the style committee of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers.

The U. S. Government's Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics has been looking into the clothes closets of a number of Minneapolis and St. Paul families. Its survey shows that in those cities the average husband owns an overcoat, topcoat and raincoat, four hats and caps, three suits, five pairs of extra trousers, 14 shirts, 18 pair of socks, four pair of shoes, and 18 ties.

VILLAGE GETS NEW SLOGAN

FILLMORE, N. Y., July 11. (AP)—"No rigor, more vigor" is the watchword for this rural community's second century. Civic leaders hope it will promote village improvements, the need for which was suggested in the centennial slogan—"A century of vigor mortis". The centennial observance wound up Saturday.

He Flies Fast But Can Also Move On Ground

AN AMERICAN AIR BASE IN JAPAN, July 11. (AP)—Lt. Donald J. Ferns of Cincinnati is a fast man on the ground, too. Ferns bailed out of his burning B-26 bomber over Korea last week. He hit the ground running—south—and didn't stop until exhaustion overtook him in a rice paddy 10 miles away. When he got his breath he said he ran some more—faster, he swore than the great Scandinavian Miller Gunder Haegg could do the mile.

Finally a friendly Korean helped him find his way to the nearest American headquarters.

Back in Japan, Ferns and his crew, which also reached U. S. lines, resumed flying two days later.

Mount Etna in Sicily has had one of the longest eras of activity among the world's known volcanoes.

NEURITIS

The word itself tells the condition to be inflammation of nerves. Isn't it quite possible then that pressure on the nerve trunk by a slightly misaligned spinal bone could be the cause of this nerve trouble? If your condition has not responded don't give up. Investigate what Chiropractic may offer.

Applicants Rush To Join Service

By Associated Press
A rush of applicants for military service hit New York City recruiting offices yesterday. Army and Air Force authorities said the number seeking to enlist was the greatest since World War II. Similar upswings in recruiting were reported in other cities across the nation—presumably the result of the war in Korea. Resumption of the draft was cited as a cause of the trend.

In Atlanta the number seeking to join the Navy was reported up 100 per cent.
"We have all the recruits this office can handle at this time," a Navy spokesman there said.
