TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Predicting rain in West Texas is a tradition handed down from father to son, or in some cases from mother to daughter. A secretary has a ball point pen that always begins leaking when rain is certain. She says it is an old Indian sign.

Duty may border on sacrifice but affects our comfort or bank balance.

Memory is projected down the long rows of childhood of withering cotton and thriving weeds. Calouses from a hoe handle and the blistering soil beneath bare feet were the consequences of an age before the advent of chemicals and efficient machinery to control unwanted vegetation.

Age was not intended to be a sequela resulting from the regulation that the field of youth has been harvested. Laughter echoing through the golden years reflects the essence of joy that is the heritage of having lived fully.

There is no market value on true friendship because the worth of a great mountain of gold has not been determined.

In case you are interested it is possible to buy small cans of mush at some of the big town markets. I would not be surprised to see pieces of rainbows in jars on a grocery shelf.

The best way to stay out of debt is not to want something badly you will go in for.

She attended twirling school in Lockney last summer and has continued to work with the school instructor, who lives in Lubbock. She plans to attend Southwest Twirling Camp and Drum Major Clinic at Cisco Junior College, Cisco, this summer.

Some places of business will close in observance of the holiday, including the Post Office, Courthouse, Government office, City Hall, and West Texas Utilities Co. but many will remain open including the First State Bank.

RICHARD CAMPBELL

Campbell Ready For Red Raiders

LUBBOCK (Special) — It isn't far from Matador to Lubbock, but it's a long way from the Matador's to the Red Raiders of Texas Tech.

Making the long journey and taking it in stride is Richard Campbell, who is making a serious bid to become a starting end on the 1966 Tech football team. Campbell is being used on defense and his performance during recently ended spring drills was so impressive that he is listed as a starter on the second team.

Campbell lost little time making his presence felt. He was outstanding on the freshman eleven and made the transition to the varsity easily this spring. He caught the eye of the coaches with his strong work and even J. T. King, a cautious man with praise for a true sophomore, liked his work. He assessed the Matador player this way:

"When it comes down to strict potential, there are few lads who have more than this young man. Campbell can become an all-conference end before he leaves here — if he wants to badly enough."

He has size, speed, strength and everything an outstanding defensive end should have," King continued. "But he can't make it without doing many a death in the process. Whether he's willing to pay that price for greatness remains to be seen."

By unanimous vote, the assembled attorneys general of the fifty states awarded Carr the Wyman Award which is presented each year to the attorney general who has done more to advance the objectives of the National Association of Attorneys General to help make the United States a better place for all in which to live.

The announcement of the award was made by the President of the national association, Louisiana Attorney General Jack P.F. Gremlion. The award, highest honor that the nation's attorneys general can bestow upon one of their members, was first initiated in 1957. Last year's winner was Clarence Meyer of Neb.

Parents of children contemplating transfers are urged to contact Judge Reeves' office immediately.

Meet The Winner

It is not always easy to pick a winner, but it is no problem for Ronald Davenport employed at Billy's Grocery.

Last week some attractive girls were seeking donations to the Lockney Rodeo Association at $1, for which they gave a ticket. Davenport gave a dollar and received a ticket numbered 391.

Monday he was notified that he had been awarded a $265. Carl Darr hand tooled saddle. He received his saddle Tuesday. Davenport doesn't own a horse.

Right Answer Is Not Enough Says Speaker In Baccalaureate Address

It is not enough to have the right answer — you must stand up for what you know to be right," Matador High School graduates were told Sunday night in a Baccalaureate address by Minister Jim Ravanello of Lubbock Christian College.

From the beginning of his dynamic message until he finished, the speaker held the attention of his audience.

His introduction was the scripture text Luke 2:52, "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man."

"This is all we know of Jesus as a teenager," he declared. "Jesus spent his life doing good for other people, and he was the most popular man who ever lived. However, Jesus was not all things to all people. He also had enemies who resented his popularity."

He cited the Sermon on the Mount as a lesson in serving one's fellowman. "If we live the right kind of lives, the world will fall into place in like manner... love thy neighbor as thyself."

The secrets of success are not contained in popularity or in terms of material gains, Mr. Ravanello declared. "Success is the progressive realization of a worthy idea," he quoted.

He struck an optimistic note regarding the future of the world in the hands of the present generation. The rioters and beatniks, he said represent about 1% of the young people.

He pointed out that the country needs young people who are loyal.

"We need a greater loyalty to God, more loyalty to our families, and a greater loyalty to our country... we need more young people who will stand on their own feet and not depend too much on their parents and the government for a livelihood."

Matadors Bow In Bi District Bout

Overpowered by the four-hit pitching of Gordon Kitten and plagued by errors, the Matador High School baseball team bowed to Cooper, 22-2, Thursday in a bi-district decision on the Lorenzo diamond.

In the first, Luis Moore and Don Cox got on base with singles. The team failed to bring either boy around before Charles Meador hit an infield fly to third baseman and retired the side.

Throughout the next five innings, Kitten, a boy with great control and versatility of speed, scored nine strike outs. He was equally successful at the plate, slamming three of his team's five home runs. A double and a base on balls accounted for his other two times at bat.

Cooper scored all 22 runs in the first, second, fourth and fifth innings. In the final go-around, Stephen Gwinn snagged a center field fly and relief pitcher, Larry Bostick struck out two, to hold the Cooper crew scoreless.

In the bottom of the seventh, the Meador brothers combined to give Matador two runs. A single and a steal by Charles put him in scoring position. Joey singled and Charles raced home with Matador's first run. Meador scored on a grounder by Larry Bostick, a steal and an error by the first baseman.

Charles Meador, losing pitcher, lost his second of five decisions. He pitched 26 innings this season, striking out 48 and walking 16.

Meador and Moore, batting 444, led the Matadors this year. Don Cox, a consistent freshman, finished the season with a 400 batting average. Ronnie Cox, who played his last game of high school baseball Thursday, batted 333 this year.

Representatives from 11 West Texas Counties met in Lubbock again Saturday in the interest of tuberculosis control efforts in a 23-county area. R.M. (Bob) Stanley and Mrs. Stanley of Matador attended. Mr. Stanley was named a director of the West Texas Tuberculosis Association.

Leading movement of the group in the Saturday meeting was a voluntary merging of TB control in the area.

Dr. John B. Selby, Lubbock physician and a director in the state TB association, was elected president of the area association. In commenting on the merger, he said "through the merging of small TB associations which are tied together by geography, economics and similar health problems, the services of one specialized, professional staff would be provided to conduct better TB programs and offer better services, which individually none of the associations could afford."

He said that decreased costs for fund-raising and administrative would result "to provide better services to the public through better use of the Christmas Seal dollar."

Samoan Christmas Hot And Humid And Celebrations Are Boisterous

(By Jackie Harp)

Resting on the waters of the wide Pacific like a shadow of silver. A good friend from California had sent money for a holiday treat, and what could be more special than lunch at the new Intercontinental Hotel!

Taste Of Luxury

From our exotic rattan chairs in the dining room we could see the sparkling blue swimming pool and the ocean crashing on the rocks below the terrace wall. The large room is richly carved and the French windows are elegantly hung with pearly white shells. The chandeliers are magnificently created from bubbles, bangles and bamboo.

We savored our first taste of U.S. beef since leaving the states, and enjoyed the luxury of being served. It was really a treat.

But just to add a touch of humor, I must tell you that the two million dollar hotel has rats that scurry about their business (whatever that may be), oblivious of guests.

Backtracking even further I will mention just a word or two about Thanksgiving.

Some of you know that Bob entered the hospital on that day for minor surgery and removal of a lump, which was flown to Hawaii for a biopsy. In three days the results were cabled back and we were relieved to know he was fine.

Our family enjoyed one of the frozen turkeys that was shipped in to the stores, and birthday cake in honor of Scotty, who turned 11. He received a guitar from the family and shows promise of being a good player. Vicki celebrated number four and received her usual "birthday baby."

If I tried to tell you all that's happened since my last letter, this would end up being a manuscript, so I will just mention some points of interest like:

Thirty-six hours of fellowship with the Coleman and Jenkins families on their way to the states following four years of mission work in New Zealand.

The passing of a close Samoan friend and our experience at a Samoan funeral in a remote village that took us back 2,000 years in time. My personal experience writing for a local newspaper called the Samoa Times... watching with curios-

by Karen Elliott (delayed)

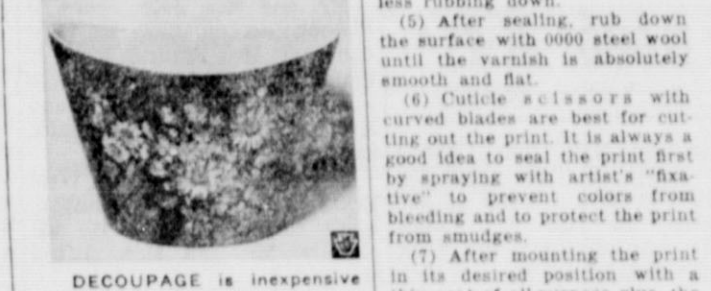

Charles Meador silenced the Jayton Jaybirds by pitching a two-hit ballgame Friday night at Matador whipped Jayton, 22-4, and walked off with a district championship.

Of the twenty-three batters who faced Meador, thirteen retired on strike outs. Working behind the plate was Joey Moore. In the first inning Moore triggered a four run avalanche when he chased in Meador with a home run and the free hitting Matadors trotted out of the dug out leading 6-0.

Revive 18th Century Decorators' Art

In the 18th century ladies of creative ability and infinite patience emulated their artists and craftsmen in the art of decoupage. They cut out charming prints of cupids and flowers, animals and fairy tale figures from books, magazines and valentines and, with manicuring scissors, gluepot, brushes and lacquers, they decorated trays, boxes, screens and furniture with beautiful designs and colors. The technique, which called for the application of many coats of varnish and rubbing down between multiple coatings, produced a picture that seemed imbedded into the background like an original painting. Some rare pieces made their way into museums and today fetch prices as handsome as oil paintings.

Little of the technique of decoupage (pronounced day-KU-pahj) has been learned until recently when artists and do-it-yourself enthusiasts recreated it as a lost art and spirited a revival from coast to coast.

Instructions in the art is still limited however.

The following nine simple steps for the beginner have been outlined by the decorating staff of The O'Brien Corporation, paint and varnish manufacturer of South Bend, Indiana: (1) Carefully cut out a clear, clean print or illustration that is not too thick and printed on one side only. It should be a complete unit, like a flower or bouquet of flowers, that will make up the entire decoupage design. (2) than being forced to be safe by law.

Recently all cotton producers in the county received a letter listing recommendations for a cotton program for the county.

I would like to again remind local producers that these items listed are not requirements but only suggestions. The reason they were suggested is that the May planting date has proved successful in economic cotton production at the Spur Experiment Station over a period of years. We all know that the later the crop is planted, the more we have to depend on a late frost to make a good crop, and with the appearance of the boll weevil, we have found that early cotton provides feed for early emerging weevils, thus increasing the insect control problem. Moisture conditions are the main item determining the time of planting for the dry land farmer, but when conditions are right at the recommended planting time, why not give it a trial?

Included with the letter were Insect Control Recommendations and information on Cotton Diseases. I also indicated that teams would work in the county to help check for insects. At present, 3 teams are to work in the county, and each is to check 120 fields every 10 days. This means 360 fields to be checked in the county, and when the check is made, farmers will receive a card telling what was found. Again, what the farmer does after he receives his report is up to him, but for a successful eco-

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

With warm weather nearing, insect time is nearing also. Flyswatters are still valuable, but pesticides are very helpful if used properly.

Follow these rules, and harmful results will not occur; Buy the right chemical for the right job. Read the label, understand and follow directions. Use clean equipment, properly designed for the job. Mix pesticide solutions in a well ventilated area, preferably outside and avoid inhaling pesticide sprays or dusts.

Store pesticides in close, well-labeled containers, where children or pets cannot reach them. Don't store near food, feed or seed. Dispose of unused chemicals and empty containers properly. Keep a record of the chemical used, the time required to do the job, weather conditions, rate of application and where and when used.

Transport the chemical in the bed of a truck or trunk of the car, not in the driver's compartment. Apply when there is little or no wind to minimize drifting of the spray or dust. Don't use pesticides near wells, cisterns or other water sources.

Pesticide safety is an individual responsibility, but misuse may harm others as well as yourself. At present, there is no law that forces us to act safely while handling pesticides. Let's keep it that way by being safe rather

WTU NOTEBOOK-PATTERNS FOR PROGRESS

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ... its benefit to you

Economic development means developing all of the basic economic resources of a community or area to their fullest potentials, creating new wealth in the area and attracting wealth from outside the area. It CAUSES a higher standard of living for all of the people, making the community a better place to live, work and play. It PROVIDES improved community facilities, increases job opportunities, especially for the young people, and attracts new people to the town.

- FIVE BASIC SOURCES FOR ECONOMIC IMPROVEMENT
- INDUSTRY—creates new jobs, utilizing and increasing the labor force's value to the community plus helping to share the tax burden for improved community facilities.
 - TOURISM—adds wealth to the community that was created outside of the area, and makes a favorable impression on tourists as a good place to live. Tourists' dollars circulate many times within a community.
 - AGRICULTURE—improvement of product yields and quality of products produced plus further processing of the products can add greatly to the economy of an area.
 - NATURAL RESOURCES—developed in an area change and increase the wealth as well as providing job opportunities. Depletion of the natural resources can cause adverse effects on the economy.
 - GOVERNMENT—local, state and federal institutions and agencies keep tax money in the area and in some cases, bring in additional wealth from the outside.

An object of a sound economic development program is to balance the economy of a community or area from all five sources. ATTENTION and EFFORT should be given to the ones which present the best possible chances for economic development and improvement. Attracting new industries, or the expansion of existing industries, usually provide an excellent opportunity for economic development.

"Doorways to Future" is Featured in 8th Grade Graduation Program

Doorways to the Future was the commencement theme for twenty-seven Matador eighth grade students Monday at 10:00 a.m. in exercises held in the high school auditorium.

Following the processional by Mrs. Ronald Davenport and invocation by J. E. Edwards, Debra Stockton outlined in her salutatory address one doorway to success Adventure.

Valedictorian Gail Lynn stressed the importance of gaining experience from one's adventures. "There is nothing that will take the place of experience," Miss Lynn said.

Following the salutatory address, Brenda Wason, third in her class, read the class history. Resolution was the door to success Miss Wason discussed.

The door of Opportunity was foremost in Darrell Cruse's presentation of the class will. After disclosing their will, the graduates took a look into the future, with Patty Edwards as a guide. Miss Edwards emphasized the rewards of a healthy imagination, as another "doorway."

Presentation of the class key followed the class poem by Laura Jacobs. Presentation of the eighth grade key by the graduates to those "in the seventh grade who stand eagerly waiting to take their places," is one of the big moments of graduation. Don Pitts presented the key and Jackie Bynum gave the response.

Stanley Martin presented a gift from the class to Mrs. J. E. Edwards, eighth grade class sponsor.

Special music was provided by Debra Stockton, Patty Edwards, Jeff Berryman and Ronnie Welling. The group sang "Climb Every Mountain" and were accompanied by Mrs. Davenport.

Supt. Charles Johnson awarded diplomas to the graduates who exited through a doorway decorated with red carnations, class flower. A miniature white fence, entwined with carnations, stretched across the stage. A white banner bearing in red, "Doorways to the Future" served as a back drop.

Knight. The latter was a starter last year and appears to have retained possession of the assignment. But if Campbell continues his strong work when drills begin next fall, he stands a good chance of being the No. 2 man. Despite the fact that seven defensive starters return from last year's Gator Bowl team, anyone with defensive ability is being watched closely. The Raiders led the Southwest Conference in total offense and their passing attack was second to none, but the defensive work wasn't as good as had been expected.

Injuries last season helped to reduce the amount of experience in the defensive units and sophomores gained a lot of playing time. As a result of their baptism under fire, defensive play in the spring was stronger.

All of which underlies the potential Campbell has. If he was good enough to gain the No. 2 spot in the spring, the future looks bright for this husky 6-1, 215-pounder.
