Amy's Anecdotes

by Amy Woolsey

Being a teenager, you have a lot on your mind. Sometimes, I like to sit upstairs in my room, alone, and just think of what's going on in the world around me. I think of my family, friends, and well, everything!

Most teenagers never think of how lucky they are to have a family and a roof over their heads. To hear of and see the thousands of homeless people, we have in the U.S., depresses me. The government doesn't have enough money to make jobs for those people, yet they give foreign countries millions of dollars, (our dollars), for no reason. I'll never understand! In my opinion, I think our people should come first. We, the people, have more right to that money, than any other country.

Just take a look around us, look at all of the hungry and homeless people in this country. If the government is closing down, due to not having enough money, maybe they should look at all of the homeless, hungry, and dying people we have in the U.S., just so they can see that they aren't the only ones suffering.

The next time you get angry or frustrated for not having enough money to buy that shirt or pair of pants — just think of all those homeless people who don't have enough money to even eat.

Methodist Church Harvest Festival brings back many memories for longtime member

First Methodist Church in south Matador in 1900

NOTE: The First United Methodist Church of Matador held its annual Harvest Festival and Descendants day on Sunday, October 13, honoring charter members and their children. Mrs. Mary Hamilton Meason, a longtime church member, shares some memories with us.

by Mary Meason

At this time of Harvest Festival in the Methodist Church, and the honoring of the Charter Members and their children and those who were early members, all bring clearly to mind my early life in the Methodist church.

At first it was the Methodist Episcopal Church South, then gradually as prejudice began to slowly (very slowly), fade the "South" was dropped and it became the Methodist Episcopal Church, then finally after the unification of all the different branches of Methodism, it became the United Methodist church, the Women's Missionary Society became United Methodist Women and the Epworth League became the Youth Fellowship.

There was always a pounding for the new preacher and everyone gave food of some kind to help supplement the low salary that the pastor received at that time. Missionary barrels were packed with used clothing to be given to the new preacher family or to be given to Missionaries over the world. I'll never forget how angry my mother became when she was helping pack the barrel one time. Someone brought clothes that were dirty, with no buttons, and had holes in them. She took them out of the barrel and threw them away. The ladies would sew on buttons and repair the clothes that could be salvaged.

My earliest memories of the missionary society are fond ones. It seemed to me that the ladies always had a quilt in frames and everyone would take a lunch and then quilt all day. Those were always beautiful quilts, I thought.

My father was very strict about the Sabbath Day! My older brother really felt the brunt of strict observance of the Sabbath. He could play no games, couldn't go swimming or dig caves or any of the things children did for entertainment at that day and time, and absolutely no swimming. Then when my younger brother came of age, he could go to Willow Creek swimming, play games, dig caves and go to west tank or to Boone's Mountain. But he had to be back in time to go to Epworth League and Church.

By the time I was old enough to do things, daddy would go swimming with us, but we still had to go to Epworth League and church. Illness or death was the only acceptable excuse for missing Epworth League, Church and prayer meeting on Wednesday night.

All the children and young people went to church in those days. After the children were allowed to sit away from their parents we would all sit on the back seats. Of course, there would be a lot of giggling and whispering, and if it got loud enough the preacher would call us down by our names. We always dreaded going home after church if our names were called, because all our entertainment would be taken away for the day. We would welcome the time for Epworth League and Church after that day!

The old church that stood just west of the Texaco station had a most wonderful bell in the steeple. The rope that was used to ring the bell hung down in the vestibule and it was great fun to ring that bell. Poor Josephine, no matter how hard she tried she was so little and light weight, she could never make the bell ring. I certainly didn't have any trouble making it ring!

The most trying times were in the summer when all the churches had two weeks of revival meetings, each one following the other. There were three churches then and that meant six weeks of revivals. We had to attend every service, morning and night, as well as the young people's meetings before church at our church. There were no parties, no nothing for those entire six weeks. Even if we didn't attend all the services of the other two churches the "do nothing" rule was in force. And the sermons! An hour of solid preaching got pretty rough. In those days the preachers preached pure hell and damnation and often times just scared the younger children half to death.

But there was no doubt in my mind that if I did any of those things he preached about that I would be struck dead on the spot. But I'm sure that some of those instilled fears, kept me from doing something I shouldn't do in later years.

Our District Superintendent used to be a Presiding Elder. I've never been able to understand why the names and organizations of the church had to be changed to longer and more difficult names just because the church changed its name.

The old church had bare plank floors and had knot holes in many places. One time we had a Presiding Elder named Dodson. He was here for some reason and sat down in a cane bottom chair, leaned back against the wall, one leg of the chair got into one of the knot holes and Brother Dodson fell over backwards grabbing and grasping for something to hold on, but there was nothing to break his fall. He was a big man and he really fell with a crash. Of course, all the young people broke up completely. Thank goodness, my dad found it as funny as we did and no punishment was forthcoming.

It seemed to my brothers and me that every Methodist preacher that came to town found his way to our house. There was one who came to our house unexpectedly just as meal time one evening. I don't remember his name. Mom didn't have anything but left-overs for supper, so she got all the food out, added to it or warmed over whatever she had. In all this she had some lima beans that had been warmed over so many times it was hard to tell what they were. The preacher picked up the bowl and said, "Is this pudding, Sister?" Daddy said, "No sir, that's lima beans." The reply was, "No thank you, I don't choose beans". My brother, John, and I couldn't keep from laughing and we felt sure we were going to be sent from the table, but daddy found it as funny as we did, so all was well.

There was an old, old man in our church who had a long white beard, and he walked with a cane. He was the oldest man in the congregation, I think. At any rate, everytime we got a new preacher he would always call on this old man to give the benediction on that first Sunday. In those days people kneeled at the pews for prayers. After an hour or more of a lengthy sermon this dear old man would pray for 30 minutes or more. I know he prayed thirty minutes because John and I would time him. He prayed in a high quivering voice. Poor old fellow, he just got to pray when we would get a new preacher. I think that was when kneeling for prayers came to an end. I remember one time, daddy was rather vexed because the old fellow prayed so long. He said, "My knees were raw from kneeling, old Brother prayed for everybody, one by one, in the church, then the entire community, then for fear he left out someone he started all over again."

My dear father had one suit for "everyday" and one for "Sunday". One Sunday he forgot to take his money out of his everyday suit to take to church for the offering. At that time our collection plates were aluminum and people had only silver for the offering. That Sunday when Daddy reached in his pocket to get his money he discovered he had forgotten but he found a button in his pocket and when the plate came to him he hit the side of the plate and rattled the money and it sounded like he had dropped in a whole handfull of change. I've always wondered what the church treasurer thought when he found that button in the plate.

Daddy always went to sleep just as soon as the pastor started preaching and slept until the praching was over, but he always seemed to know what the preacher had said. One Sunday he was sleeping exceptionally well. The preacher finished his sermon, asked the congregation to stand for the closing prayer and called on some man to give the prayer. Mom nudged daddy to wake him up, he stood up, cleared his throat and started praying, along with the other man. He very soon discovered he want supposed to be praying and hushed!

There was a very dear lady in our church who had a hat with a peacock feather on it. Now this lady had a habit of turning her head at every sound or movement made all during church. My brother John and I made a point of sitting behind her and counting the number of times she turned her head. The highest count we ever had was 65. It was also entertaining

DIRECTORS: H.R. Jameson, James Bearden, Coy Franks, W.D. Lipscomb, W.H. Marshall

SWCD PERSONNEL ASSIST WITH MANAGEMENT AND PLANNING: The Upper Pease SWCD provides assistance to the SCS by furnishing technical personnel to help implement conservation management and practice activities. Soil Conservation Technician Renee Myer helps implement the Computer Assisted Management and Planning System (CAMP) for the Matador Field Office. SCS personnel use CAMP for conservation planning and management of the 1985 Food Security Act Plans. The SWCD also provides assistance through technician Brent Whitaker, who assists with the management of the SWCD owned grass drills and equipment. The district has provided over 176 work days of assistance to the SCS in the 1990 fiscal year. SWCD personnel also assist with conservation education such as the annual poster contest. The poster contest annually involves over 100 students.

RESOURCE CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT: The Upper Pease SWCD, during FY 1990, petitioned the Four Winds RC&D for membership. The RC&D program is a USDA program that can possibly assist Motley County in numerous environmental problems such as roadside erosion, low water crossings, landfills, flooding areas, and in economic development. The SWCD also invited the Motley County Commissioners Court to petition for membership and the County agreed to apply. The district plans in fiscal year 1991 to meet with the city of Matador and Roaring Springs to determine their interest in RC&D.

High intensity rainfall which occurs often in Motley County can cause extensive damage to farmland as well as growing crops. Diversions, Basin terraces, waterways along with standard and parallel terraces continue to be the leading practices for control of damage from these types of rainfall. 437,000 feet of terraces were installed on highly eroding cropland during 1990. Two waterways were completed as was the installation of one farm pond. Underground outlets continue to protect erodible cropland in portions of Motley County. Many producers are installing permanent grass windstrips on newly constructed terrace systems. These grass strips in conjunction with the terraces do an excellent job of controlling both wind and water erosion in Motley County.

CONSERVATION PLANNING

The Matador field office currently has 475 district cooperators conservation plans which cover 487,084 acres in the Upper Pease Soil & Water Conservation District. The Food Security Act of 1985 (FSA) created a new concept in conservation planning for district personnel and the response from local producers has been great. As a result of the 1985 FSA, any person farming highly erodible land must have a conservation plan to participate in USDA programs. Development of the FSA plans was completed last November with approval of the district on 368 conservation plans on over 84,000 acres. The local farmers have responded well in development of these plans and 143 producers covering 29,087 acres have already completed their plan. To continue participation in USDA programs the plan must be complete by December 31, 1994.

CONSERVATION RESERVE PROGRAM IN MOTLEY COUNTY: The Conservation Reserve Program consists of 143 contracts on 32,428.6 acres. In 1990, more than 6,500 acres of highly erodible land were seeded to permanent grass through CRP. More than 5300 acres of Weeping Lovegrass and slightly more than 1200 acres of Native Grass Mixtures were seeded in these CRP contracts. A total of 59 contracts of the 143 on more than 12,945 acres have become fully established to an adequate stand of permanent grasses such as Weeping Lovegrass, Plains Bluestem, Sideoats Grama, Blue Grama, Kleingrass, and Green Sprangletop.

NEW TECHNOLOGY: In an effort to better assist the producers of the Upper Pease SWCD, the district purchased new laser surveying equipment last year. The new laser level reduces the number of people required to accomplish field surveys and construction check outs. The laser level is used by both district employees and SCS personnel.

MOTLEY COUNTY GREAT PLAINS CONSERVATION PROGRAM
The Great Plains Conservation Program is a long term agreement between producers and the USDA in which the Department of Agriculture provides from 50 - 75% cost share for the implementation of conservation practices. This year the Matador SCS Field Office developed 2 GPCP contracts for Pat Sheridan on 1296 acres and Joe Thacker on 630 acres. Currently there are 20 contracts in the Great Plains Program in Motley County. These producers are John Barton, Lucretia Campbell, Darrell Cruse, Donnie Cruse, Davis Farm Supply, Francis Brothers, James Gwinn, Gary Lancaster, Carter Luckett, Hal Martin, Patton Estate, A.J.
