City Budget Hearing Set For Tonight

City Manager's Recommendations Will Be Outlined

COMMISSION MAY DELAY ITS ACTION

Comment Of Citizens On Proposed Fiscal Policy Welcomed

Public hearing on the 1937-38 fiscal city budget proposed by City Manager E. V. Spence is scheduled for this evening at 8 o'clock in the city courtroom.

Comment Welcomed
The budget will be read and explained by the city manager and comments and suggestions from private citizens will be welcomed from the floor.

Missing from the annual hearing provided by law will be W. S. "Uncle Billie" Davies who succumbed here several months ago. It was not unusual for him to be the only citizen, save the press, present at the hearings. He never missed one.

The budget prepared by the city manager will be considered by the commission following the hearing. It may not be approved in its final form for some two weeks yet.

Total budget figure is $272,753.50, and represents an increase of $49,268.58 over the preceding budget. Of the appropriations, $203,461 goes to the general fund and $69,292.50 to the interest and sinking fund.

In the interest and sinking fund requirements is listed $14,500 for bond assumptions from the general fund, a transaction already completed, leaving a normal requirement of some $6,000 less than last year.

Paving Program
Principal gains in the budget are found in the street department where $69,902 is suggested for a paving program on 20 blocks and the widening of Third street the width of the city. Street improvements are calculated to cost $53,890 if citizens take advantage of all paving offers during the year. Actually the figure may not run half that amount.

The water department has a sizeable increase in sight with a proposed appropriation of $47,337 for extension of mains, replacement of booster pumps and installation of a dual system along Third street. It is possible that an auxiliary reservoir may be raised during the year.

Administrative salaries for the year are pegged at $71,320, according to a budget schedule. An airport appropriation is fixed at $3,025, some $6,000 of which is for a suggested WPA improvement project.

Estimated revenues are fixed in the budget at $243,650, approximately $8,000 more than collected this year. The disparity between the estimated revenues and estimated expenditures is covered amply by a $60,000 surplus in the city's general fund.

PAYMENT MADE ON 831 CROP CONTRACTS

Records from the state office Tuesday showed that payments had been made here on 831 of the 1936 crop program contracts in the amount of $202,135.94.

There are still a few contracts to be satisfied here, possibly running the total to $205,000 by the time all claims are satisfied.

George Slaughter, chairman of the Texas agricultural conservation commission said that payments in Texas would amount to approximately $33,000,000 on about 182,000 claims.

TO CONVENTION

Sheriff Jesse Slaughter said Tuesday that he may attend the 59th annual convention of the state sheriff's association convening at New Braunfels, Texas, on June 16 for a three day stand.

CIO WINS NEW FORCES FROM FEDERATION ON PACIFIC COAST

PORTLAND, Ore., June 8 (AP)—John L. Lewis, Committee for Industrial Organization drove a wedge into the American Federation of Labor stronghold on the Pacific coast today, captured the Inland Boatmen, and threw open its arms to 120,000 woodworkers and maritime employees.

Thus, the C.I.O., supported by Harry Bridges, aggressive leader of the Pacific Coast International Longshoremen's association, and Harold Pritchett, president of the woodworkers' federation, claimed victory in the opening sessions of two major labor conventions.

The executive committee of the Inland Boatmen, representing about 2,000 coast workers, voted to break away from the A.F. of L. and affiliate with the C.I.O. after

WRECKAGE OF PLANE LOCATED

A once mighty airliner, lost nearly six months, was found near Alpine, Utah, in the Wasatch mountains. The wreckage was splintered into a "million pieces." Airline officials said it might be "days before the bodies of the five men and two women occupants could be dug from drifts 25 to 50 feet deep. Workmen are shown here probing 20-foot drifts with heavy wire in search for the wreckage.

Bones Found Near Site Of Plane Wreck

Workers Labor On To Uncover Bodies Of Victims Of Crash

SALT LAKE CITY, June 8 (AP)—Search shifted radically today for the bodies of seven victims of a December air crash following discovery of a human leg bone, a shoe with laces neatly tied and large fragments of fuselage.

The bone was a fractured strip only four inches long but it was immensely significant to searchers as the first trace of human form among several hundred pounds of strewn wreckage and air mail discovered on mountain-top cliff ledge 25 miles southeast of here Sunday morning.

The find shunted search activities from the knife-edge southern tip of Hardy ridge, approached only from the village of Alpine to the base of its 1,000-foot precipice beat reached from the Salt Lake City (northern) slope.

There, at the edge of a giant snowfield which the sun touches only briefly each day, 20 men dug and scraped away hopefully at ice and debris.

How to get the bodies off the mountain, once they are found, remained a problem. Crew members said use of toboggans, with pulley hoists over several sharp declines, probably would be the solution.

DOCKET CALLED FOR CO. COURT TERM

County Judge Charles Sullivan Tuesday called the court docket for the current term and set criminal and civil dockets for the third week in June.

The criminal docket, consisting largely of two dozen liquor law violation complaints, was set for June 21. Approximately half a dozen civil suits were called for June 23.

AMELIA STOPS AT POINTS IN AFRICA

DAKAR, French Senegal, June 8 (AP)—Amelia Earhart flew here today from St. Louis, capital of Senegal, for an easier takeoff on the next leg of her flight around the world.

Aviators here said Miss Earhart's time of 13 hours and 22 minutes for the 1,900 miles from Natal, Brazil, to St. Louis, Senegal, where she landed yesterday, apparently was a record for the eastward South Atlantic crossing. The westward mark of 12 hours and 5 minutes also is held by a woman, Maryse Bastie.

Miss Earhart flew through rain most of the way across the ocean she said. The visibility at nightfall was bad and her wireless worked poorly.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES TO MEET THIS EVENING

Board of trustees of the Big Spring Independent school district will convene in regular session at the school at 7:30 this evening, it was announced.

Considered one of the most important meetings of the board has scheduled in many months, the meeting will deal with such subjects as proposed building program, tax rate and teachers salaries.

It was pointed out that the board welcomed interested citizens listening in on the meeting.

Park Fund Among Those Lopped Off

Says State Doesn't Have Money For Big Bend Project

AUSTIN, June 8 (AP)—Gov. James V. Allred swung a keen veto axe today, lopping off heads of three more bills passed by the general session of the legislature, recently adjourned.

Park Fund Denied
Measures he executed would have appropriated $750,000 for creation of a park in the Big Bend area of the Rio Grande, $250,000 for a cotton research laboratory and $800 to replace a school building destroyed by fire at Douglasville, Cass county.

The governor signed the new liquor regulatory bill and bills creating the upper Red River flood control and irrigation district and appropriating for support of the judiciary in the next biennium.

He announced he would sign the general education appropriation bill without deleting a single item.

The governor cut down the Big Bend park bill on grounds the state did not have the money, that no permanent policy with reference to the project had been adopted and that it was not known whether the federal government, whose aid had been solicited, would co-operate in the financing.

Do It At One Time
"We might find we had acquired a lot of private land and the government would not take it over," he said. "The business-like thing would be to plan the whole matter and consummate it at one time."

Depleted state finances he also gave as a reason for disapproving the cotton laboratory proposition, which likewise called for federal assistance.

He vetoed the school appropriation in line with his previously announced opinion the state should not establish a policy of replacing such buildings.

AWAIT COMMITTEES

AUSTIN, June 8 (AP)—The legislature marked time today in its anti-gambling crusade while awaiting action of committees.

Sen. Frank H. Rawlings of Fort Worth, chairman of the sub-committee to which the bills introduced in the senate had been referred said the sub-group likely would complete its work later in the day.

The house criminal jurisdiction committee had set a hearing for this afternoon on bills to prohibit dog track betting and theater bank nights and put teeth in the statutes against horse race bookmaking.

Several more bills were introduced in the house. One would prohibit bookmaking on any race between animals or machines. Another would allow citizens, the attorney general or local officers to obtain injunctions against bookie shops and a third would tighten statutes against marble machines.

Study A New Court Plan

Measure Calls For Enlarging Tribunal To 11 Members

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—A proposal by Senator Andrews (D-Fa) for a flat enlargement of the supreme court to 11 members received consideration today by senators seeking a compromise for the Roosevelt judiciary bill.

Informed senators said administration leaders had encouraged Andrews, possibly with a view toward accepting his suggestion as a substitute for the president's recommendation to add five justices unless those over 70 retire.

Andrews declined to discuss the situation, other than to say increasing interest in his proposal had been evidenced.

Provision might be made, it was said, to qualify Andrews' scheme by allowing appointment of only one additional justice in a year.

Opponents of the bill said they understood an amendment by Senator Hatch for a court of fluctuating size had not yet been discarded by administration supporters.

The Hatch proposal would authorize the president to appoint one additional justice a year for such justice over 75 years until a maximum of 15 was reached. The number would drop back gradually as the older justices left the bench.

PRECIOUS SEED Cottonseed Worn As Valuable 'Gem'

LUBBOCK, June 8 (AP)—A recent address in Dallas by Charles J. Haden, Atlanta, Ga. capitalist, who referred to cottonseed as "diamonds" has brought repercussions here. District Clerk Floyd Jackson is wearing a stickpin with a single cottonseed as a "stone." Jackson said that rising prices of cottonseed may make the seed "a rare gem."

German Spy Activity In Spain Told

Propaganda Center Existed Before The War, Police Assert

By ALEXANDER H. UHL

MADRID, June 8 (AP)—Police reported today that they had uncovered evidence that a German spy and propaganda center existed in Madrid before the start of the Spanish civil war.

Agents said they had confiscated large quantities of Nazi propaganda, both in Spanish and German, in a raid on an apartment of a German resident of Madrid who is now in Paris.

The supposed German espionage leader's name was not disclosed. Two Spaniards allegedly connected with the agency were arrested. One was said to have possessed an introductory letter to the German from the late Jose Primo De Rivera, a Spanish fascist leader.

Police said large volumes of propaganda material and correspondence indicated a network of espionage agents had operated throughout Spain prior to last July 18, when the war started.

"It appears that German authorities were not unaware of these activities, particularly the diplomatic representatives and consular agents of that country," a police communication said.

Officers declared the alleged propaganda agency collaborated with the Spanish insurgents "in preparation for a fascist revolt as well as for the intervention of foreign forces."

PWA EXTENSION IS PASSED TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—The senate received today a house-approved measure to extend the Public Works administration for another two years.

Officers decided to handle the proposal as an amendment to the $1,500,000,000 work-relief bill rather than as a separate measure, the relief hearings are nearing completion.

Under present law, PWA would expire on June 30 after four years of existence as an agency to make loans and grants to local governments. Senator Hayden (D-Ariz) said after visiting the White House, however, that President Roosevelt had no objection to its continuation.

The house voted yesterday without a roll call to give PWA a $259,000,000 working fund for the extension period.

U. S. DEATH RATE HIGHEST SINCE '29

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—The census bureau said today the 1936 death rate in the United States was 11.5 per 1,000 population—the highest since 1929. The 1935 rate was 10.9.

Deaths last year totaled 1,474,177, the bureau said, an increase of 81,425 over the previous year.

The bureau reported the heat wave last July and an increase in respiratory deaths early last year were the principal factors.

North Dakota had the lowest death rate last year—8 per 1,000 population. Low rates included Arkansas 9.2, Texas 10.7.

Window panes were broken and cars parked outdoors were damaged. An inch and a half of rain fell.

Sixty feet of the McClellan creek bridge north of McLean was washed out and telephone lines were down in several communities. A two and a half inch rain fell at LeFors and McLean.

All Building Work Halted By Walkout

Mediators Seek To Reach Peace Agreement In Other Disputes

STEEL CONTROVERSY CARRIED TO COURT

Thousands Remain Idle As Union Activities Hit Wide Front

(By The Associated Press)
A second "labor holiday" in Lansing, Mich., halted building operations as mediators sought today to bring opposing factions together for conferences in other industrial sore spots.

Stores Closed
The holiday was called by unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Yesterday crowds jammed downtown streets, auto plants shut down and stores closed after United Automobile Workers of America leaders called a sympathy strike to protest arrest of eight Committee for Industrial Organization pickets.

Spokesmen for building tradesmen who led today's general walkout in the Michigan capital said the strike had halted operations on every city and state project as well as private building in the city.

In Buffalo, N. Y., and Youngstown, O., steel workers organizing committee leaders sought city health department inspections of Republic Steel Corp. plants where nonstriking workers were housed.

Attack Suit
At Youngstown, the Steel Workers Organizing Committee attacked "as a front" for Republic Steel Corp. an injunction suit of three railroads to restrain interference with their shipments by steel strike pickets in federal court today as peace plans in the seven state controversy simmered and Republic planned to reopen a picketed plant.

Edward Lamb, general counsel for the Committee for Industrial Organization in Ohio, obtained a postponement of the suit in federal court at Cleveland. Judge Samuel H. West set Friday for a hearing on the union's motion to dismiss the suit.

At Providence, R. I., the strike of 1,200 public works employees was called. Workers at an independent steel plant in Baltimore voted by a 4 to 1 margin to have the C. I. O. represent them in negotiations.

To Call for State Help
Mayor Daniel A. Knaggs of Monroe, Mich., said he would ask Gov. Frank Murphy for state police if necessary to permit reopening of the Newton Steel Co., a subsidiary of Republic Steel. He said a straw vote showed the majority wished to return to work and that the plant would reopen tomorrow despite picketing.

While an estimated 73,000 steel workers remained idle in seven states, the Republic company plan- See STRIKES, Page 8, Col. 1

VIOLENCE FLARES IN GARMENT STRIKE

SAN ANTONIO, June 8 (AP)—Violence flared today in San Antonio's garment strike when Fernando Cisneros, a cutter employed by Shirlee Frocks, Inc., was waylaid by three men while on his way to work and beaten into unconsciousness.

Three women workers of the dress company were set upon as they alighted from a bus near the entrance to the factory, but succeeded in fighting their way to safety. They were scratched and beaten by a group of women who gathered on the sidewalk.

Police on duty at the plant rescued the girls and arrested two pickets on charges of simple assault.

Private Funeral For Jean Harlow Will Be Conducted Tomorrow

Body Not To Lie In State; Actress Had Premonition Of Death, Says Friend

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 8 (AP)—The body of Jean Harlow, clad in white, lay in a bronze casket today as a close associate recalled that the blonde actress once voiced a premonition of death.

Less than two weeks ago, the day she was stricken and rushed home from the studio on which she was working, she expressed her fears, Violet Denoyer, friend and make-up attendant, said.

"Jean looked at me strangely one morning—the same day she was taken ill," said Miss Denoyer.

"You know, Violet," she told me, "I have a feeling I'm going away from here and never coming back."

The glamorous actress' mother, Mrs. Jean Bello, was in a state of near-collapse today and in the care of a doctor.

William Powell, sweetheart of Miss Harlow and who was with her when she died yesterday forenoon, was in seclusion at his home.

Last night, Mrs. Bello sent a white gown to the mortuary to clothe her daughter's body. It was a simple gown. White was Miss Harlow's favorite color.

Asked for Powell
Mrs. Bello also asked that her daughter's hair be brushed back from the forehead and fluffed out over the ears in the manner so familiar to the motion picture audiences.

C-C Workers Launch Drive On Wednesday

150 New Members To Be Sought For Civic Organization

Campaign plans completed and workers enlisted, the chamber of commerce stood ready today to launch its membership drive at 9 a. m. Wednesday.

Goal of the enlistment movement is 150 new members and an approximate budget increase of $2,000. The budget hike was proposed to eliminate occasional solicitations for promotional activities which the chamber could support with ample financing.

The campaign is to be conducted on an organization plan shaped through five group leaders. Each group leader has five group captains who in turn average three team members.

Chamber officials hoped for nearly 100 men to join in the campaign so that it may be attended to rapidly.

Workers will be permitted to select names of people who they believe they can best approach. Prospect cards will be given team members who are in turn to confer with prospects.

Britain Makes A New Offer

Proposes Plan To Induce Fascist States Back Into Committee

LONDON, June 8 (AP)—Great Britain offered a three-point proposal today to induce Germany and Italy back into the non-intervention committee and to safeguard Europe from the chaos that might spread from a new "incident" in the Spanish civil war.

Great Britain proposed:
1. Extension of safety zones for neutral shipping and warships in the neutrality fleet patrolling Spain.

2. Assurances from both sides of the Spanish conflict to abstain from provocations such as the recent Spanish government aerial bombardment of the German pocket battleship Deutschland, a neutrality vessel, in Ibiza harbor.

3. An arrangement, in the event the first two measures fail to bring Italy-German agreement, to bring the matter up for consultation by all four powers engaged in the patrol—Britain, France, Germany and Italy—to consider necessary action.

The prospects for an agreement were not viewed optimistically in European chancelleries, but the situation was not regarded as hopeless.

In the face of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's threat to resume liberty of action in Spain in the event of further "provocations," some French quarters expressed the belief any effort to win Rome and Berlin back to collaboration was doomed to failure. Others believed he might change his stand.

READING AND WRITING By John Solby

"THE DAILY NEWSPAPER IN AMERICA; THE EVOLUTION OF A SOCIAL INSTRUMENT," by Alfred McClung Lee; (Macmillan; $4.75).

Most writing on the subject of newspapers is pretty bad. Most of it, truth to tell, can't be otherwise, anymore than can most writing about the dry goods business—those people doing the writing are too close to the business to see it objectively. And too many shibboleths are in the way.

Apparently Alfred McClung Lee, associate professor of sociology and journalism at the University of Kansas, is not too close. At one rate, he has written something he calls "The Daily Newspaper in America," and it is far and away the best thing of its sort this reader ever has found. It is very long—nearly 800 pages. But it does not suffer from elephantiasis. This is all good firm flesh; functioning muscle, as it were.

Professor Lee tells the whole story of the newspaper in America—not merely the monkey business about Benjamin Franklin and the roll, and similar pabulum. You will be astounded to know how much happened before and during the Revolution which has a bearing on the story; you also will be amazed at some of the feats of journalism early in the last century.

Nobody has told the story of the press associations quite as Professor Lee has told it, either. He is so delightfully frank, and so entirely without animus that when he takes a jab nobody takes offense. The so-called standardization of the modern paper is explained from slightly different hypotheses, the curious battle with radio (which never should have been) is likewise described without the slightest prejudice.

Church Gain Is Reported

Reports Made At Annual Meeting Of Christian Science

BOSTON, Mass., June 8.—Progress of Christian Science expressed in the organization and recognition of fifty-nine new churches and societies; in sales increases of 66 per cent for the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science; in an increasingly friendly public thought as reflected by legislative bodies when handling measures involving medical and religious freedom; and in much good healing work; featured reports Monday by church officers at the annual meeting of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist.

The election of Judge Clifford P. Smith of Newton, Mass., as church president for the coming year, and of Edward L. Ripley of Brookline as treasurer, and Ezra W. Palmer of Marshfield as clerk, was announced. The president is elected by the Christian Science board of directors to serve for one year. His duty is to be presiding officer at the annual meeting. Judge Smith declared in his address that "To insure its strength and success, an organized movement requires (1) a good purpose clearly stated, (2) an intelligent plan for achieving this purpose, (3) active co-operation in accordance with the plan by the persons who compose the movement. "The Christian Science movement has the first of these essentials in our Leader's writings on the nature and purpose of our church. The second of these essentials (a practical plan conceived in wisdom) we have in our Church Manual. The third essential can be restated for our movement as active and united efforts to communicate, demonstrate, and propagate the Science of Mind-healing. For this essential, the responsibility rests on all Christian Scientists collectively and individually. The obligation to prove by its effects that our religion deserves its name is not limited to listed practitioners; this obligation extends to all who are enrolled as Christian Scientists."

The fact that the Christian Science denomination has 578 branches was cited and Miss M. Rosamond Wright, manager of the department of Branches and Practitioners, reported further for the year, "Good growth in our movement is shown through the organization and recognition of fifty-nine new churches and societies as branches of the Mother Church, and six new university organizations. Twenty-five of these branches are in Europe, thirty in North America, two in Australasia, one in Africa, and one in South America."

LIQUOR CANNOT STAND THE LIGHT OF TRUTH

WHO'S TO BLAME? The temperance situation in the United States today is probably worse than at any time for a quarter of a century. Those who deplore existing conditions are constantly asking themselves and others the question: "who's to blame?" When that question is asked, there are plenty of ready answers. One possible answer, however, is rarely if ever made, namely: "I am partially to blame." Such an answer has not been conspicuous except by reason of its not having been employed. Practically all of us, in our effort to fix the blame, have most heartily joined in the refrain suggested by the words of Charlotte Perkins Gilman: "Preach about the other man, Preacher!"

The man we all can see! Preach about the other man, Preacher! "Not about me!" The attitude of a church or of any social betterment organization is nothing more or less than the composite attitude of the individual officers and members. The voice of any group of citizens is that which arises out of the mingled individual voices of that group. Public opinion is the consensus of the individual opinions of the citizens. The church, the organization, the municipality, the state and the nation, are all constructively effective or ineffective, according as the individual units are strong or weak.

Comparatively only a few of the people are leaders of thought and action; a much larger number are voluntary, intelligent, discriminating followers; and a still larger number drift with the tide. Every man or woman, therefore, who is a leader in any realm is very largely responsible for the attitude of many others.

Government, laws, and civilization are as good as the individual citizens as a group will permit. When leaders who believe in decent government, wholesome social customs and a well ordered society apply that belief to practical life in the family, the church, the lodge, the organized society, the community and the nation, the problem of interdependence and other related social problems will be well on the way toward solution.—Ernest H. Cherrington.—(Submitted by the local WCTU.)

MEETINGS CALLED BY MARTIN AGENT

STANTON, June 8.—County Agent G. A. Bond will conduct a series of four consecutive meetings for farmers in Martin county this week, to fill out questionnaires. Opening with a meeting at Courtney Monday, the series will include a meeting at Lenora Tuesday, one at Brown Wednesday and close with one at Stanton Thursday.

Questionnaires to be considered concern the regulations of the 1937 conservation program and farmers will be asked to suggest changes for the 1938 program. "It is felt that a cross-section of farmers' opinions will be useful to committees in submitting recommendations for next year," Bond said in explaining the purpose of the meetings.

for Women only

CARDUI is a special medicine for the relief of some of the suffering which results from a woman's weakened condition. It has been found to make monthly periods less disagreeable, and, when its use has been kept up awhile, has helped many poorly nourished women to get more strength from their food. This medicine (pronounced "Card-u-i") has been used and recommended by women for many, many years. Find out whether it will help you by giving it a fair trial. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.—adv.

Stallworth Is Named Coach At Greenville

By TOM BEASLEY

THE GREENVILLE school board named "Speedy" Moffett, former Steer coach, but another Big Spring takes his place as head coach of the Lions. The board named Dan Stallworth as "Speedy's" successor. Dan was junior high school principal here some eight or ten years ago. He left Big Spring for a teaching position in Quana.

GENE SPENCE, back from a trip to A. and M., reports fine football prospects in Agiland. Johnny Morrow, stellar end who quit to play major league baseball, won't even be missed, according to the Aggie coaches.

SPENCE HAS received an offer from Tex Robertson, University of Texas swimming coach, to bring his Longhorn stars here on the 28th of this month for an exhibition at the Muni pool. Adolph Kelfer would be included, and they ask a guarantee of only $50.

MRS. RHEA Vernon of Abilene, led an early group of practice shooters yesterday as golfers swarmed over the San Angelo course getting the "feel" of things before qualifying play Wednesday for the annual women's West Texas Golf association championship. A number of local women were on hand, including Mrs. Obie Bristow, Mrs. C. I. Phillips and Mrs. Willie Rix. Mrs. R. E. Winger of Fort Worth, defending champion, was also on hand for early practice rounds and turned in scores of championship flavor, according to scribe Tony Slaughter of the San Angelo Morning Times.

RUMOR HAS it that Obie Bristow and Ed Stewart of Big Spring will play in the second annual invitation tourney of the Fort Worth Colonial club. The ace shot-makers of the southwest will try their skill on the new bent grass greens. Qualifying play is scheduled on Thursday.

THE LUTHER Wops defeated Knott, 10-6, Sunday in a Sand Belt league game.

DAVE CHRISTIAN of Big Spring lost five race horses in a fire at Ak-Sar-Ben track in Omaha, Neb. Sunday. Lady Peenzie, Schmie, Texas Pal, Hustle Away and Kiddie. Dave's trainer, Clyde Bailey, suffered burns but is reported resting well in an Omaha hospital.

PERU ENTERS TEAM IN SOCCER GAMES DALLAS, June 8 (AP)—Athletic Director Bob Humphrey said today Peru had entered a team in the Greater Texas-Pan American Exposition soccer games to be held July 15-18.

Other participating teams include Argentina, Mexico and the United States, the latter to be represented by the national champions, the Highlanders of Trenton, N. J.

DAN STALLWORTH NEW GREENVILLE FOOTBALL COACH

GREENVILLE, June 8 (AP)—Greenville high school apparently has settled its football coaching problem today.

Dan Stallworth, who piloted the Quana high school Indians for seven years, twice turning out district championship teams, yesterday signed a contract to coach the Lions. He will replace Milton (Speedy) Moffett, over whom the squad struck in protest of the school board's failure to renew his contract.

Recently, however, members of the striking squad indicated they would be ready to play under any coach named by the board.

YANKEES MAKE POOR RECORD ON WESTERN TRIPS

NYORKERS LOSE TO TIGERS, 4-3

By BILL BONI Associated Press Sports Writer It may have been good advice when Horace Greely first uttered the crack but the world champion Yankees are beginning to lose faith in this "go west" business.

The first time they deserted the Bronx for Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis, they compiled the indifferent record of four victories and five defeats. Now, going into Chicago to meet the amazing White Sox, their report card shows only two triumphs in six starts since they opened the tour in Cleveland a week ago.

Until yesterday, when the Tigers gave them a 4-3 trimming, their own misguided actions had been responsible for much of their woe. But yesterday they had no such excuse—just too much good pitching by Southpaw Jake Wade, who let them down with four hits and struck out nine, and too much hitting by the Detroiters, who landed on Lefty Gomez for eight hits, including Hank Greenberg's game winning homer.

Manager Joe McCarthy hardly can look forward to the White Sox series with enthusiasm for the Sox are riding the crest of a nine game winning streak, best to date in the majors, that virtually has tied them for second place with Cleveland.

Possibly it's Manager Jimmy Dykes' big black cigars that hold the secret of Sox success. The team has the 1936 American League batting champion in Luke Appling, a slugging first baseman in Zeke Bonura, and a shrewd catcher in 36-year old Luke Sewell, but beyond that little of any note.

Yesterday the Sox belted four Athletics' tomsers for sixteen hits and a 12-6 triumph.

Nor could it have pleased McCarthy much to hear that Bob Feller should be back with the Indians in another week. The Indians have been doing well enough, as witness the 17-5 shelling of the Senators yesterday that marked Earl Whitehill's 200th major league victory.

In the other American League game Oral Hildebrand's six hit effort turned back the Red Sox, 9-6, as Wes Ferrell lost his sixth.

Meanwhile the Giants widened their National League lead to two games and a half over the idle Cubs with a 5-2 defeat of the Pirates. The Dodgers gave Roy Henshaw, who won his first game last Saturday, his second triumph in three days by edging out the Reds, 5-4, in ten innings.

PUBLICITY ON TAX INQUIRY A LIKELY TOPIC FOR DEBATE

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Representative O'Connor (D-NY) predicted opposition would develop on the house floor today to a tentative agreement by two committees over publicity for the proposed inquiry into tax dodging.

O'Connor is chairman of the powerful rules committee, which finally compromised with the ways and means committee to authorize a majority of the investigators to disclose information about the financial affairs of any tax payer.

He said, however, he expected debate by members who want no publicity, those who desire a "real show" or those who prefer to keep the inquiry resolution in the form approved by President Roosevelt and adopted by the senate.

As phrased originally by the administration, the resolution would have given the joint committee broad rights to ignore laws forbidding the disclosure of data from income tax returns.

GEORGIA VOTING ON PROHIBITION REPEAL

ATLANTA, June 8 (AP)—Georgians voted today on 26 constitutional amendments and repeal of the state's 22-year-old prohibition law, closing an off-year political battle between Gov. E. D. Rivers and former Gov. Eugene Talmadge.

Talmadge urged defeat of the "new deal" amendment and retention of the prohibition law. Rivers stumped the state on behalf of the amendments, vital to his Roosevelt program in Georgia, but remained aloof from the repeal question.

Georgia's dry law was upheld in 1935 by a majority of about 200 votes.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—The wolves are howling for the scalps of Charlie Dressen and Steve O'Neill. It's been 35 years since a golfer won the P.G.A. tourney and the National Open in the same season. The way is being paved for a Pedro Montaner-Barney Ross weight title fight outside of New York. Mebbe Jersey will land it (or Philadelphia). Go to college and take the wife along. Athletic directors are accustomed to finding work for their prize athletes, but a mid-western mogul bumped into a new one recently when a star tackle refused to report unless a job was found for his wife. P. S.: She got it. Biggest single ticket buyer for the Braddock-Louis fight is a Chicago millionaire who bought—and paid for—$3,900 worth of "cherce" pasted-boards.

One Chicago newspaper reports it received scores of telephone calls last Thursday night from persons wanting to know who won the Braddock-Schmeling fight. Miss Thomson In 3rd Round British Open TURNBERRY, Scotland, June 8 (AP)—Barbara Thomson of Los Altos, Calif., reached the third round of the British women's golf championship today, eliminating Betty Henderson of Great Britain, 4 and 2.

Miss Thomson's victory came after the only other American survivor, Betty Buechner of Glen Cove, N. Y., had been eliminated by Jean Hamilton of Great Britain, two up. Her long drives and great recoveries from bunkers saved the day for Miss Thomson. Time after time she lifted the ball cleanly from the sand onto the green, winning or halving hole after hole that appeared to be irretrievably lost.

Oakland Hills Holds No Terrors For Runyan

Long Hitters Find Course Hard To Play

Runyan, who tips the beam at 140 pounds and stands about five feet six, boasts the nickname of "Little Poison" due to his ability to hit 'em down the middle and into the hole with the least possible trouble.

Runyan's face beamed as he finished his first practice round yesterday, and today he disclosed the reason. "I hope," he said, "that they let that crop grow tall enough to hide Bobby Cruickshank. When the rough is tough, and the fairways narrow like these, we have a chance against the long hitters. No long hitter can turn loose all his power and keep 'em down the alley on a course like this."

Runyan displayed his ability to beat the long hitters when conditions are right by defeating Craig Wood in 1934 for the Professional Golfers' championship at Buffalo, and that same year he was gold-medal's big money winner.

A year ago at Baltusrol he shared the lead at the end of 18 holes with a 69, but faded in the stretch as Tony Manero came on to win. Runyan did not post a score in the practice round.

Ky Lafoon, the Chicago Cherokee, paced the practice round yesterday with a 68, three under par, after missing a four foot putt for a birdie on the last hole.

Octanes Beat Shoppers To Widen Lead

By HANK HART Victory over the improved T. & F. Shoppers Monday night the Cosden Octanes increased their lead in the local softball league and left open only one possibility of a slip-up in their chase for the first half title.

The Refiners won eight of their first nine games of the season, and play the Fincher Roadrunners Friday in what should be the deciding game for first half honors.

The Octanes failed to get started until the third frame of last night's game but pulled out in a hurry once they started scoring. They tallied three runs in the third, one in the fourth, another in the sixth, two in the seventh, and topped off the scoring with a four run uprising in the eighth.

The Octanes raked the offerings of "Bucket" Hays for a total of 14 base hits, while Horace Wallin was limiting the 'Gas House Gang' to eight.

SAN ANTONIO, June 8 (AP)—Drastic revision of the Amateur Athletic Union's method of handling track and field was both recommended and predicted today by two notables of the athletic world—Charley Paddock and R. L. "Dink" Templeton.

Paddock, once the "world's fastest human," now business manager of a Long Beach newspaper, and Templeton, Stanford university coach, were revealed as in complete accord on one subject, namely that the A.A.U. should be completely remodeled.

Paddock, Templeton Urge AAU Shakeup

Seek New Method Of Handling Track And Field

SAN ANTONIO, June 8 (AP)—Drastic revision of the Amateur Athletic Union's method of handling track and field was both recommended and predicted today by two notables of the athletic world—Charley Paddock and R. L. "Dink" Templeton.

Paddock, once the "world's fastest human," now business manager of a Long Beach newspaper, and Templeton, Stanford university coach, were revealed as in complete accord on one subject, namely that the A.A.U. should be completely remodeled.

The Paddock argument: "The only solution x x x is to have the government step in as in other countries and take the financing, development work and even the actual supervision of competition in its own hands. I feel confident the plan will be put into effect some day."

Templeton, like Paddock, long opposed to certain A. A. U. policies, predicted "it is going to come to the place sooner or later where the collegiate organizations can't stand it any longer and will take over track and field on a national basis from the A.A.U."

"The organization doesn't even attempt to encourage and develop athletes, particularly among the youngsters," Templeton said.

Templeton said the A. A. U. should adopt the policies effective in some foreign countries, "where track and field development is as much a part of the national diet as eating and sleeping."

San Antonio's Missions swept toward the Texas League top today, advancing another half game while Oklahoma City languished in the dug-out at Houston because of the elements.

The Padres are now in third place, within two and one-half games of first place. San Antonio downed the Fort Worth Cats 4-2 last night, scoring once in the second and stretching one hit into three more runs in the fourth. Bob Musierief gave the Cats eight hits but Fort Worth couldn't cash in until the seventh and the rally was short.

While Oklahoma City was watching the rain at Houston Beaumont, second place team, failed to take advantage of the opportunity to advance, losing to the Dallas Steers 2-1. The game was called in the eighth due to rain. Fred Marberry was in fine fettle, the ex-big leaguer allowing the Shippers but four hits. Dallas got but two off Bob Harris and Joe Rogalski but Jim Levey stole home with the winning run.

Galveston edged into fourth place in the standing with a 6-3 victory over Tulsa. Orville Armstrong went the route for the Buc. Tulsa used three hurlers. Rain fell in the third and fourth innings.

Hardboiled Siren? That Was Just A Pose For Harlow; Boys On Studio Lots Knew Her As A "Reuglar Gal"

HOLLYWOOD, June 8 (AP)—The world knew Jean Harlow as a hardboiled siren. It was a pose, a trademark, nothing more.

On the back lot, the ordinary guys and gals of the film business swear by her memory. They ought to know.

The giant sound stages were cavernous of hushed sadness yesterday afternoon as the newboys shouted themselves hoarse outside the studio gates. "Extra! Extra! Harlow dead!" It was strong news, something nobody could believe right off.

A little man, thin-haired and mustached, turned over the controls of his big mobile camera to another technician and went home. He was Hal Rosson, third husband of the blonde girl who had died.

The male star on the same set had been missing all morning. He was William Powell, who held Jean Harlow's hand before the end came, then wept.

Over in the studio laboratory, on spoils of film, was the record of her last performance. It was not complete. It lacked a week's scenes. The public will never see it.

Some one else, the "front office" announced, will take Harlow's place—if that is possible—and a picture that has cost nearly a million dollars, "Saratoga," will be remade.

Harlow was never high hat. When a party on the set celebrated the finish of "Personal Property," she helped serve hot dogs and pop to the crew.

At the start of "Saratoga," there were fresh flowers as usual in her dressing room. One bouquet was from Powell, her sweetheart. Another was from a typewriter repairman she had befriended. Harlow was like that.

"Saratoga," in production at the time of Jean Harlow's death, is a film based on the Anita Loos story which is running currently as a serial in The Herald. The picture is due to be remade with another player in Miss Harlow's place. Clark Gable and Joan Crawford are other stars in the picture.

Goodyear Puts New Quality Tire, R-1, On The Market

One major manufacturer—Goodyear—has done something about rising prices, offering a new quality tire at a moderate price, so that car owners may reap the benefit.

"Announcement of the new Goodyear R-1 tire was welcome news to motorists in Big Spring as well as in every other section of the country," declared Troy Gifford, local dealer for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. "Week after week headlines have been emphasizing the fact that prices are steadily going up. Increasing cost of goods to the consumer constituted a challenge Goodyear couldn't overlook, and several months ago Goodyear's development engineers were assigned the task of producing a quality tire at a price millions of motorists had been accustomed to pay. Result was welcome news to automobile owners—the new Goodyear R-1," Gifford continued.

"Low price is not the only advantage of the new product. Embodied in the R-1 are the quality features that made the Goodyear G-3 All-Weather the world's most popular tire—wider, flatter tread, higher shoulders, 12 per cent more rubber in the tread, Supertwist Cord carcass, center traction to give maximum protection against skidding, and handsome, streamlined sidewalls for smart appearance.

"In putting the R-1 on the market at a time when labor and material costs are rising and costs to the buyer are generally on the increase, Goodyear is again more than living up to its policy of serving the public welfare to the best of its ability."

CHURCH RIFT SEEN IN MENTION OF CHANGE IN DIVORCE LAWS

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., June 8 (AP)—A rift in the Church of England was seen today in the demand by the outspoken Bishop of Birmingham for a reform in the divorce laws which caused the church's opposition to the marriage of Edward and Windsor, and twice-divorced Wallis Warfield.

Dr. Ernest William Barnes, bishop of the industrial diocese since 1924, coupled his support of reform in the nation's divorce law with a suggestion that communion be given divorced persons.

The bishop's demand brought into the open again the issue which led the Anglican church to refuse to bless the marriage June 3 of abdicated Edward VIII and the woman for whom he gave up his throne.

The church authorities have not recognized the religious ceremony performed by the Rev. R. Anderson Jardine, "poor man's pastor" from Darlington, as conferring his sanction on the union of Edward and his duchess, now on their honeymoon in Austria.

Dr. Barnes has created stir in church circles before by championing such causes as birth control and "mercy killings."

Money In Circulation At High Mark

Banking Authorities Assert Many People Are Still Hoarding Cash

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Federal banking authorities said today some persons who hoarded money during the depression still are holding onto it.

They based this assertion on a treasury statement showing that money in circulation totaled $6,426,352,614 on April 30. If equally distributed, this sum would provide $49.74 for every person in the country.

The total of money in circulation includes all the currency and coin in the nation, exclusive of that held in the treasury or federal reserve banks.

Circulation during the last few months has topped all previous periods except in 1919-20, when more money was needed to operate business and industry accelerated to a war-time pace.

Federal reserve board officials said recent business expansion has increased circulation but added that a substantial sum of money still rested in private hoards.

They said the total outstanding is far in excess of the normal needs of business.

The government has called in gold and gold notes, but there is no prohibition against keeping other money.

Officials said currency of large denominations forms the bulk of hoarded money, and cited there has been no reduction of big bills in circulation since 1933.

Lie Detector Ruse Fails To Work On One Youngster Of New York

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—The life of the big city is not altogether a mystery to youngsters of First Avenue. And Tommy Ryan definitely is of the wiser element.

He never had seen a G-man movie on Broadway, so he meant business yesterday afternoon when he flashed a $10 bill before Abe Shaplow, taxi driver, with an order: "Take up to Broadway, buddy, and look for a G-man movie."

The cabbie looked the nine-year-old up and down carefully and also surveyed Tommy's trailing companion, Johnny McLaughlin, neighborhood chum, 12 and taller but positively not the spokesman. Shaplow asked where the $10 came from.

"None of your business; get goin'," barked Tommy.

An incredulous policeman took the boys to the East 51st street station after Tommy said they earned the money in nickels and dimes over a period of many weeks.

Tommy repeated the story to detectives. From Johnny came only an occasional "ya, that's right—just like Tommy says."

The detectives took Johnny upstairs. They tied a towel light around his arm, tied a string on the towel, and attached the other end of the string to the back of a black enameled alarm clock.

"Now," they announced, "you are connected to a lie detector. Now we'll get to the bottom of this."

Then the detectives, grave-faced, watched the "lie detector" intently. "Where did you get the $10?" asked one of the officers.

"Tommy got it," gulped Johnny. "From his mother's ice box," he said.

The detectives, now sought cooperation from Tommy. They brought him up and explained everything.

"Don't kid yourself," Tommy interrupted. "That's just an alarm clock. I guess Johnny squealed okay, but you don't get nothing outta me."

And they didn't.

Blue Mosquitoes Cause Panic JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UP)—Appearance of lark blue mosquitoes struck terror in a certain area of northern Transvaal, where a severe epidemic of malaria was already raging. Local residents feared some new horror until the clerk of a country store, observing something wriggling in an inkwell, discovered it to be full of mosquito larvae, in which apparently they had bred.

Mexico Oil Workers Back To Their Jobs

Federal Board Asked To Arbitrate Employers' Demands

MEXICO CITY, June 8 (AP)—Mexico's 18,000 oil workers who fled up operations of 17 British and American companies for 11 days in a general strike against the $400,000,000 industry, were ordered back to their jobs today.

Red and black strike flags came down in the capital and elsewhere over Mexico's vast petroleum domain; pickets folded their tents, and put away their ches and checkbooks to start again the flow of motor fuel and other petroleum products which virtually had been stopped.

The workers' syndicate formally halted the strike last night when it asked the federal conciliation board to arbitrate its demands on wages, hours and other working conditions.

The syndicate promised that Mexico City's motor vehicles would have 50,000 gallons of gasoline by 9 a. m. CST, today.

The end of the walkout represented a victory for President Lazaro Cardenas and fulfillment of his promise of Saturday night that the strike would end Monday.

In its continuing dispute with the employers, the syndicate announced it would:

Ask the conciliation board to force the companies' acceptance of the syndicate's draft of a blanket labor contract;

File action against the companies, through the board, for losses suffered by the workers in consequence of the conduct of those companies in refusing to sign the collective contract, as well as for wages during the strike, expenses of the General Oil Congress and strike costs generally;

Seek retroactivity of the contract to May 28, the day the strike started;

Insist upon a conciliation board membership that would "deserve the confidence of the workers."

LOCAL GOVERNMENT FINANCING

Selecting for his subject, "State Control of Local Finances", an Oklahoma university professor has written a book. Without reading the volume it is fair to presume that it gives reasons for such control and perhaps ways to exercise it. No matter—the title is what will intrigue some people who will wonder how a state can control local finances when it seems unable to control those of the state. Not in Oklahoma, especially, but in many states.

Here in Texas, as a rule, most local finances are in better condition, better managed, than are those of the state, with the possible exception of some West Texas towns that had an oil boom, held the thought that it would last forever, and bonded themselves to an extent that they could not pay. They were the exception, however.

The Texas constitution exercises a considerable control over local finances so far as telling what shall be the maximum tax rate and things like that. It pretends to control assessments and collections, also, but this is rather a figure of speech than an actuality. Some local units are more successful than others in the collecting of revenue, and this has always been so, for some are offered by men who think in terms of the general good rather than in getting votes to keep them in office.

If the idea of the writer of the book is to have the state exercise greater control over local finances than is now done, he will have to set out a better system than is now laid down, and it is questionable if such a system can be devised or made workable. Local self government is one of the basic rights of this country and while we have contracted the habit of calling on Washington for money we still insist that it be controlled locally, though the insistence does not get us very far.

+ Man About Manhattan +

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—From the gold coast of Hollywood comes this tale of a sentimental Irishman who was moved to tears by one of his own pictures. It was "Captains Courageous," and in it were Spencer Tracy and Freddy Bartholomew. Russ Countryman, New York art editor, was visiting in Hollywood and, upon attending the premier of the picture, was pleasantly surprised to find himself sitting next to Spencer Tracy.

There are a lot of tender moments in the film, and when the lights came up everybody was dabbing handkerchiefs at their tear-strained faces. Tracy was weeping too. "Well," he said, apologetically, "I can't help it. That kid gets me, even when I work with him."

Less sentimental but just as amusing is this account of Belle Didjah, the dancer, who went to Vienna not long ago and was interviewed by a very homesick New Yorker. As he talked with the dancer he began to rave over the old town, recalling nostalgic episodes and commenting hungrily about restaurants he knew so well back in Manhattan.

"But of all New York," he cried, "I pine most for the coffee and doughnuts at that famous doughnut shop at 45th and Broadway."

That set Miss Didjah thinking. She didn't say anything at the time, but later that evening, after she returned to her hotel, she cabled her managers in New York and gave them some instructions.

So her managers quietly went over to the Mayflower doughnut shop and purchased a carton of these confections. Each was wrapped individually so that it would retain its freshness and fragrance, and then the treasure was sent by first class mail to the lonely correspondent in Vienna. They ought to be there about now, and can't you see his eyes popping?

Miss Didjah, unhappily, experienced an annoying experience and for a time it threatened to cast gloom over her tour. The trunk carrying her costumes and much of her music, half of which were original manuscripts, was lost. It required several days of frantic wiring and telephoning to locate the missing wardrobe.

Belle was the first American dancer ever to appear professionally in the Holy Land. Once, crossing the desert, she met a sheik with ten of his wives, and he asked her to dance for him. She was hesitant, wherefore el sheiko commanded his ten fraus to climb down and tread a measure on the burning sands of the Sahara, just for Miss Didjah's amusement. Of course, she couldn't be lacking in gratitude, so she danced too. He was so pleased he gave her two silver rings, which she still wears.

Robinson bargaining for best court compromise.
Minor features may pass, but no new judges.
Opposition planning to table measure.
Supporters say Roosevelt delayed dickering too long.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—All that President Roosevelt's so-called revival of the supreme court issue amounts to is simply this: Senate Leader Joe Robinson has been authorized to put the six-judge bill on the auction block in the senate cloakroom and to sell it for the best possible compromise. What he can get, if anything substantial, is debatable. Even staunch friends of the six-judge bill will whisper in your ear that they are licked by at least three or four votes. The opposition claims more, and claims or seems to have more.

Neither side is inclined to argue much. The destination of the bill probably will be the senate "table," a legislative limbo where legislation is consigned in lieu of the waste basket. But if, in addition, some unobjectionable features of the program (creation of a supreme court proctor, enlargement of the lower courts, etc.) can be whipped into shape along with some concessions in supreme court procedure, this "compromise" may be passed. That any new justices can be added to the court is extremely doubtful.

It just boils down to Mr. Roosevelt's desire to get "something" without tearing his party apart. It is only a question of salvaging with the accent on the first syllable.

Lure

Those who are watching Robinson working in the cloakroom note that he seems to be playing one point heavily. He is not unmindful of the vanity of some of the milder opposition senators who could use the personal credit of sponsoring an acceptable compromise.

The compromise must come from the opposition because it is in control of the situation, and the man whose name goes on the compromise as author may rate a footnote in history. At least, the temptation for fame is a considerable factor and the opposition leaders are worried.

This angle casts the only doubt on the outcome.

Common Sense

The opposition is shouting their views but privately planning exactly opposite tactics. When and if the bill is called up, they will move to lay it on the table.

This parliamentary maneuver is perfect because the motion is not debatable. A vote must be taken on it immediately without any talk whatever. If the opposition has sufficient votes to put it over, that ends the whole business. The bill will be buried officially and finally.

Both sides want to avoid debate for an unquestionably good reason. Example: In Indiana, Minton is for, Van Nuys against; in Texas, Sheppard is for, Connally against; in South Carolina, Byrnes is for, Smith against. Debate would cut right down the middle of the democratic party in these and other states, leaving needless bitterness from which the party might not be able to recover before the next congressional election.

A few of Mr. R.'s senatorial supporters are so convinced that tabling offers the best way out, they may develop a severe cold and confine themselves to bed when the vote comes.

Note—Presidential pals at the capitol feel Mr. R. waited too long before dickering for what he could get. His stealer is gone. The court has outsmarted him by decisions which make court packing seem unnecessary (or else Mr. R. won a triumph over victory without packing, depending on the way you look at it). However, congressional advisers have been unable to make Mr. R. see it that way. They have reason to believe he will go on the air shortly and tell the people that the senate is preventing him from carrying on his program.

Pride Test

The Germans are very secretive about it, but are making good use of their proving ground in Spain. They post sentries around everything German in the Franco army.

Even members of General Franco's staff are not permitted ready access.

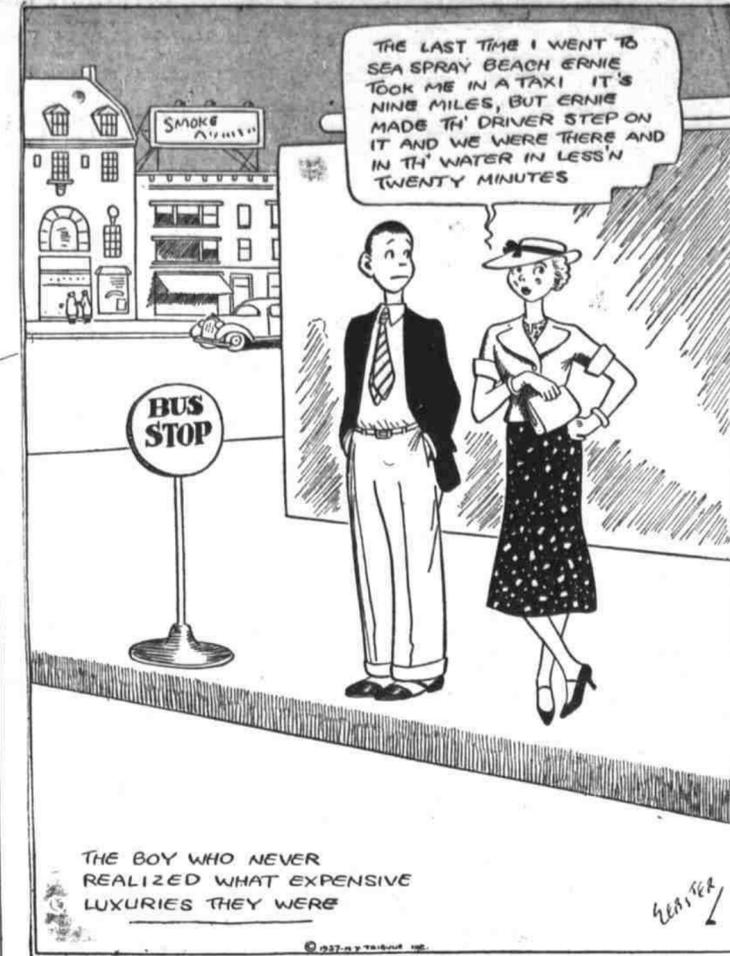

But those who have penetrated the sentries have learned several interesting things. Example: German anti-aircraft guns have been proved most efficient, while the light German tank (about which the general staff was so proud) has been the biggest disappointment. This tank was found too light to withstand even infantry fire and was so speedy it outdistanced its own infantry, thus detaching itself from its support. The Germans, after finding this tank unsatisfactory, have developed a slower tank with heavier armor, only to find it is almost a reproduction of the French tank.

Hitler is changing his technical personnel frequently on the Spanish front in order to give war training to as many as possible.

CHAPTER XVII
Madison beckoned to a waiter and asked him if he would bring him a blank check.

"No need of that," protested Pruett. "If you're afraid you haven't enough cash to see you through to New York, I'll let you have what you need."

"It's not that," answered Madison. "I have plenty of petty cash, as you might say, but I haven't ten thousand. I must pay Duke here for my losses today."

The waiter who had hesitated when Pruett spoke, happened to glance at Duke, who quickly shook his head.

"Your credit is as good with me as it is with Mr. Pruett, Madison," said Duke. "Anyway, tomorrow you may win it all back from me."

"But by the time the first race starts tomorrow, I'll be almost home. I've had my holiday—and a glorious one—now I go back to the grind."

"You mean you're actually going? That you can resist the pangs of all these friends of yours? I'm disappointed in you, I am. And here I always look it for granted you were a good American!"

"I don't get the connection," said Madison laughingly. "And I always passed in logic when I was in college. Go on, I'm interested."

"It ought to be plain to anyone that you don't believe in majority rule. You are in a minority of one, as the demonstration a moment ago showed."

Duke reached for his glass and as he did so, he saw Carol's hand on the table. It was clenched tight. He was afraid she would speak—would say that she had not voiced her opinion. Luckily it was Madison who spoke.

"You've all made it hard for me to leave," he said. "And I want to thank you for what Duke calls that demonstration. But there are other things beside believing in majority rule which add up to being a good American. One is to preserve friendly relations with foreign nations. And it just happens Ambassador Sigora was waiting for me in New York. I can't let him down."

"Of course you can't," agreed Duke. "Who wants you to?"

"Is he in New York?" asked one of the men. "Because if he isn't—"

ers with the president on the legislative program was significant mostly for what was not said. Court packing was mentioned only casually. The farm bill and the sugar bill were not mentioned at all. The omission could hardly have been unintentional.

Leaders do not waste time with non-essentials when they lock the door and get down to real business.

The woman was neither young nor beautiful nor attractive, but Duke could have kissed her at that moment. In fact he could have kissed every woman at the table, slapped every man on the back. If he had trained them, they could not have been better stooges.

"I have an idea," said a man named Stanton, bowing to Carol. "Send him Miss Clayton's photograph. Then he'll understand."

Duke at that moment could willingly have killed the man. If he had deliberately tried to make a faux pas, he could not have done better. The man was not a boor like Dinmore. He did not realize he had made a "break," but Duke heard quick little drawings-in of Madison, "on that and everything else?"

"Spoken like a gentleman, a sage and a lover!" said Duke. "Who are the rest of us to tell you what to do? That privilege belongs to just one person in the world." He turned and smiled at Carol.

"Then," said Mrs. Pruett, "of course you're staying, Mr. Madison."

"I hate to ask you to stay, Hartley," she said. "If you really should go, I can't make up my mind."

"That's understandable," said Duke. "It is a big problem, so come everybody—it's up to us to help her decide. She is between love and duty—but—"

He reached for the hand lying beside him on the table and raised it high in the air and began singing:

"She's a jolly good fellow."
They all joined in, all but Madison. He was watching Carol intently. Why did she hesitate? Why didn't she beg him to stay? He was worried, a little suspicious and more than a little hurt.

"For she's a jolly good fellow—"
"Which nobody can deny!"
They sang it once and then again and then once again. Carol drew her hand free of Duke's and motioned for them to stay.

"Thank you all," she said sweetly. "That old verse has made me feel it is wise sometimes to forget the prudent thing and do what one wants. Of course, Hartley, you must stay."

"You have spoken," said Madison, "and now if all of you will excuse me for a moment, I'll put through some phone calls."

As he rose from the table, Carol rose, too.

"I wonder if you'll all be good enough to excuse me, too? I will be seeing you tomorrow. I hope; but just now, I am a little tired and before I go to bed," she gave Madison one of her sweetest smiles, "perhaps we can walk in the garden a few minutes."

"That's such a good idea," he said, "that if you don't mind, all of you, I think I'll make this my reverie. Stay on and enjoy yourself as long as the place keeps open, but I'd like a little time alone with Carol. And I, too, will be seeing you tomorrow."

They did not speak until they were out of the room. Then Carol said:

"It's too late to phone the ambassador now, Hartley—even if he doesn't go to bed early and somebody I imagine ambassadors always do, it's three hours later in Washington than it is here."

"Right as always," said Madison. "Oh, this is good," she said, softly, slipping her hand in his. "Your friends are all right—but I didn't come out here to see anybody but you. Other people get in the way. I couldn't talk before them. But now, dear, I can talk—just to you. And I think you should stay. Wait a minute," she said, as she saw a look of disappointment in his face. "It isn't just that I don't think you should neglect your work. I'll neglect mine if you are here—I told you I couldn't keep my mind on my handicapping when you are around. But most of all, dear, I want to feel that I'm a good influence in your life. Part of that may be selfish. But I want your family to go on liking me and I'm afraid they won't, if they think I dragged you back to the race-tracks. Do I make myself quite plain?"

"Absolutely," he said. "It is hard to be separated, but it won't be for long. I see you couldn't talk freely before other people. I'm glad you are being so frank with me now. I'll take the plane tomorrow."

"And you'll stay out here with me a while before you go back and tell them?" she asked anxiously.

"I'm not going back. What do any of them care really? The little time I have I want to be with you."

How far from frank she had been! She was thinking that the only truth in what she had said was that she did not want him to bet on races. But the reason she cared so deeply about that was that she was afraid about Duke's "law of averages" began to work well. Duke would be bankrupt. There was something even more important. With Hartley out of the way, she and Duke could be together more.

Perhaps with no one between them—no, she had not been frank with Hartley Madison.

Has this momentary victory made Carol kinder to Duke—or Carol falling in love with him? Tomorrow's installment finds them in a new and fascinating encounter. Don't miss it.

Hollywood

Sights and Sounds

By Robin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — "Hell!" said Olivia De Havilland. And a short time later, "Damn!" she said. But the interviewer, except for a slight gasp at the "Hell!" and another at the "Damn," was unperturbed when his story came out, it recorded neither expression as coming from fair Olivia's lips. It mentioned her youth, her beauty, her sweetness and innocence and let it go at that.

When Olivia asked him later what he thought of her new vocabulary, he merely grinned. Olivia's swear-words, you see, weren't convincing. Olivia was disappointed, because she'd meant them to be.

Tries Stern Measures

Like many another sweet young thing who fears her personality is causing her to be "typed," Olivia had decided on stern measures. When you press her for an explanation of her timid "Hell!" and "Damn," she gives it freely: too much "sweetness and light" in the stories written about her.

"I believed there ought to be some spice in them, too, just a little harmless spice. So I said the naughty words and tried to make them come out naturally," she says.

Maybe some day when the girl plays an unpleasant role she'll be able to get away with "spice," but not until then.

Olivia hasn't been alone in wanting to change her type. Satisfied with her as she is, the studio early in her career experimented with her in still pictures. They had her put on the most clinging black silk dress available, one that would have suited a Harlow or a Crawford. They made her up heavily, with lashes that should have given that come-hither look. They posed her in "voluptuous" poses and they took many pictures.

No Glamor Girl
But in all of them Olivia looked like a sweet little girl who was "dressing up" in mamma's things and trying to look wicked. The poses intended to look gay and abandoned jelled into pictures of Olivia De Havilland trying to look gay and abandoned.

Olivia liked the pictures no better than the studio did. The studio continued to put her into sweet girl roles in costume pictures, in which she could wear dainty frills and act herself. It put her into "Call It A Day" in much the same sort of role—and the places where she went wrong in it were those at which she didn't act herself but tried to act.

So for the present "that sweet De Havilland girl" will have to realize that she really is sweet. Timid helms and dams to the contrary, she'll never fool us.

Wants Inquiry Into Interference With Mail During Strike

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) said today he would seek information from the postoffice department about charges by Senator Bridges (R-OH) of interference with mails in Ohio strike territory.

McKellar also promised that the senate postoffice committee, which he heads, would consider Friday Bridges' resolution for an investigation.

Bridges, hearing a committee meeting scheduled for today had been postponed after he proposed the inquiry, wrote McKellar: "This is an alarming and emergency situation due to the strike conditions now in existence."

"If action is not forthcoming," he told reporters, "the matter will be put up to the senate itself. A number of senators have assured me of their support."

Senator Bailey (D-NC), a member of the postoffice committee with Bridges, said he would vote for an investigation.

An agricultural conservation program is being carried on in 234 Texas counties under county agents.
