A Second Glance

By Leon Watson

I wonder what it would be like to be held for ransom. The thought would have to cross your mind if the ransom was going to be paid and you were going to be permitted to live or if the officials were going to call the bluff of the captors.

Some well advised ex-military people have told me that Russia is planning to demand the United States to surrender or the nations people will be wiped out. They say this could come as early as 1980.

We know that there are about 40 Soviet MIG-23 "offensive" fighter-bombers in Cuba. They were discovered several months ago by U.S. intelligence units. They are capable of carrying nuclear weapons up to 1,200 miles. That means the nation's capital is within their range.

But for some reason top officials in the Carter Administration did not get upset. They just tolerated the fact. The introduction of these jets into Cuba is a maneuver in a stage confrontation being created by the Kremlin and pro-Soviet advisers of Carter in the White House and State Department.

Have you ever wondered how Communists could take over the U.S.? Maybe they don't plan to fire a shot after all. Read on.

The first objective of the Soviet buildup in Cuba is to set the stage for a U.S. Soviet agreement which in effect will begin the disarmament of the U.S. in Central and South America, the Caribbean region and surrounding waters. The plan calls for the U.S. to turn its strategic naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba over to Castro.

Worked out at the highest levels of the Kremlin and the National Security Council, the U.S. government's highest policymaking agency, the sinister plan is designed to increase Soviet and Cuban influence throughout Latin America and the world while decreasing that of the U.S. (Makes you wonder why Carter vetoed building the B-1 bomber and the neutron bomb).

It has leaked out that Soviet and U.S. officials have agreed secretly to a high-level meeting in Mexico City aimed at implementing the "surrender by stages" plan and SELLING IT TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

The first of these meetings was scheduled to begin last week, December 3. The plan of the meeting was presented to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance when he visited Moscow in October.

The Soviets and some top-level Americans tried a similar plan in 1962. A meeting was set up between Soviet leaders and President Kennedy. But Kennedy found out about Soviet missiles and bombers in Cuba and told them to get out. Kennedy used the great U.S. military power to make Russia back down. He told them that never again would Soviet shipments of offensive weapons to Cuba be tolerated.

To make sure their plan isn't blunted this time, Soviets got Vance to agree to the Mexico City meeting in advance, and sent Carter a warning not to try the "Kennedy military solution" this time since the balance of power has shifted now to the Russian side.

U.S. intelligence has reported that the MIGs in Cuba are the type now deployed in Eastern Europe for launching nuclear attacks against NATO nations. The U.S. has confirmed the MIGs to be "offensive weapons". Kennedy had told the Soviets to keep offensive weapons out.

Why has Carter turned his back on this situation? Vance is meeting with the Russians and they are using the MIGs in Cuba as a great bargaining weapon. It is alarming to think our leaders are letting themselves be pushed around by the Soviets. But what is more alarming is the fact that the State Department has tried to rewrite the Kennedy order of 1962. They keep saying Kennedy meant Nuclear weapons instead of offensive weapons as he stated.

Who's side is anybody on? Is Carter going to make them get out or just show his teeth and bow to them. Both the US and Russia have been building up their fleets of warships and submarines in the waters around Cuba.

The U.S. has 36 warships, two nuclear-powered subs, and more than 300 Air Force and Navy aircraft in the region. It is the largest build up in the Gulf since the crisis of 1962.

The Russians have two guided-missile frigates, several high-speed guided missile patrol boats, a guided missile destroyer, an oiler, 12 nuclear powered and armed subs, and two diesel subs with cruise missiles. Now what are all those doing this close to America?

Visitation Day Termed Success

Parent visitation, December 5 and 6, was a success. One hundred sixteen parents, representing ninety percent of the students in grades 1-6 and sixty five percent of the students in grades 7-12, visited our school system. Sixty students, from a student body of two hundred fifty-seven, were not represented. A renewed parent interest and support by the local Parent-Teachers Association and Student Council helped to make this occasion successful. The interest and cooperation of all parents is appreciated and, hopefully will result in an improved education for all of our children.

Commissioners Renew Contract

Motley County Commissioners met Monday, December 11, in the Commissioners Court Room.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Data Process Contract was renewed with the Western Data Service Inc.

A Tax Appraisal Program contract was signed by County Judge Forrest Campbell after approval by the Court.

Plans to close the Court House, December 25 and 26 were approved.

Distribution of Motley County School Office Equipment was discussed with Supt. Charles Johnson.

All members were present with judge-elect Billy Joe Whitaker and Commissioner-elect Bill Jameson as guests.

John Russell Named To SPAG Position

One of three new representatives elected to the SPAG Board of Directors at the Annual Meeting September 19 is Motley County Commissioner John M. Russell. Commissioner Russell is the at-large Board representative for the Motley County membership.

A Motley County rancher, Mr. Russell is a native of that area, having returned there after retirement. The Russells have three married daughters and a thirteen-year-old son at home.

Commissioner Russell is a past-president of the Matador Lions Club, and was voted "Lion of the Year" by that organization in 1977. He holds a degree in Animal Husbandry from Texas A&M, and was County Supervisor of Mitchell County for the Farmers Home Administration for 17 years.

Methodists Plan Meeting Concerning New Church

Rev. Carlton Thomason, District Superintendent will be here for a special Church Conference at the United Methodist Church, Friday, December 15 at 7 p.m. The purpose of the meeting is to consider the proposed plans for the new church building. All members are urged to be present.

Program Sunday At Baptist Church

SECOND annual Christmas program by the children's and youth's departments of the Sunday School department will be presented at the First Baptist Church Sunday evening, December 17, at 6 o'clock, it is announced by Mrs. Roy Hobbs, who is directing the play.

Assisting Mrs. Hobbs are Mesdames Vann Francis, Ronnie Vandiver, Mike Barton, Kenny Barton, Bundy Hal Campbell, Butch Renfro and Jerry Golden. Mrs. Ronnie Cox and Mrs. Vann Francis will provide the music at the organ and piano, respectively.

The play will consist of scenes and skits narrating the birth of Jesus, and a dramatization of a modern day observance of Christmas, closing with a candlelight service by all the youth.

Following the play, a covered dish supper will be served in the church basement.

Everyone in the community is invited to attend the program and to join in the fellowship and bring-a-dish supper. Families having visitors are urged to bring them also.

M.C. School Plans Open House Tues.

Building physical, mental, emotional, social, and spiritual strength in children is a cooperative job for both the home and the school. Parents cooperation is critically important and teachers need home support. For this reason the Motley County faculty and administration set up the Parent-Teacher visitation Day, which was deemed a success with a majority of the parents attending. To further acquaint the parents with their child's school and teachers, the Motley County P.T.A. will hold an open house next Tuesday, December 19, from 7:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Refreshments for everyone will be held in the cafeteria at 8:30 following the visitation of classrooms.

To cooperate, parents and teachers must feel comfortable with each other. Even though one or two meetings doesn't establish cooperation between parents and teachers, the Open House will allow parents and teachers to visit with one another informally and also get to know the parents of their child's classmates. When parents and teachers enjoy each other, cooperation comes naturally.

The Open House is being held at night or order that fathers may attend. Of particular interest to the men, will be visiting the Vocational Agricultural building which is in the old grade school building. Parents have had occasions to see most of the new school but the shop being housed in a different building is seldom seen by most of the parents. During his thirty-one years of teaching, Mr. Bill Moss, Vo-Ag teacher, has done an excellent job in building up the shop equipment for the vocational training. Even if you do not presently have a child in the vo-ag program, you may wish to visit the building and discuss the program offered by our school, with Mr. Moss.

Children think their teachers are great. They think their parents are great. They want these great persons in their lives to know and like each other. For this reason, the P.T.A. would like for ALL PARENTS TO BRING YOUR CHILDREN AND VISIT YOUR SCHOOL NEXT Tuesday night. Because the Motley County School has not formally held an open house since the new building was completed in 1973, everyone in the community is cordially invited to come to Open House.

All Matador P.T.A. parents are asked to bring a batch of cookies for the refreshment period.

The list of faculty at Motley County Schools is as follows: Mrs. Margaret (Bryant) Stanley, 1st grade; Mrs. Brita Allen, 2nd grade; Mrs. Irene Stephens, 3rd grade; Dean Willmon, 4th grade; Mrs. Kathy Gillespie, 5th grade; Mrs. Billie Willmon, 6th grade; Bill Peacock, 7th grade; Miss Carrol Clancy, 8th grade; Danny James, Social Studies and Coach; Ronald Bradshaw, Math and H.S. With the annual cost of health care averaging $500 per person, following these tips from the personal money management experts at The Consumer Credit Institute—a counseling service of over 800 consumer finance companies nationwide—can help you prepare for expected, and unexpected, health-related expenses.

Having the proper insurance is the key to financing major medical expenses, such as surgery and hospital bills. Both individual and group health policies available include a combination of plans that cover a wide range of possible health costs. You should take inventory of your current health insurance, checking on what is covered by insurance at your place of work.

Any coverage you get should protect your family against the health problems most likely to occur. Later, as your financial situation improves, you may want to add coverage for the less likely risks.

Ideas To Help You
The five best tools for the smart shopper? A pencil, the weekly supermarket ads, a sharp knife, a good cookbook and unit pricing.
Use the pencil and the ads to plan the week's main meals, utilizing the specials. Invaluable is a good cookbook to point the way to interesting new twists on economy foods as eggs, cheese, liver, frozen and canned fish, and ground beef - and, of course, leftovers.
You can cut costs with a sharp knife. Whole broiler/fryers, for example, are generally cheaper than cut-up ones. Buy several when they're on sale, cut them at home, package and freeze.
Spending a few minutes to compare unit prices shown on the shelf tags in supermarkets can make a big difference. Consumers can take advantage of this handy short-cut to compare price per pound between brands and types of packaged items.

Dear Editor

What a unique bit of Motley County History is being written through this column. It is certainly one that should be preserved, and through this method it is happening. I speak of the recent stories about the Indians visits. Our family (the R. P. Moores) have always enjoyed this part of our county history because of our father and his stories. And the older brothers and sister remember the coming of the tribe well, as, we are sure do most of the others their age.

Recently when we were together in Belleville, Ill. we talked about what they remembered and thought that it would be fun to add our tidbit to those of others. And at the same time encourage others to write to you. It was good to hear from our cousin Roy Lyons and his memory of those days.

Our father told many stories about Quanah Parker and his warriors. They came to hunt in the area, although we wonder now what they were hunting. But the "Matadors" always gave them meat and Daddy and the other merchants in town gave them other staples. They always made the rounds of the stores to collect their "loot". Perhaps this is what they were hunting. They usually camped on the flat north of the old school in the northeast part of town. And the children of the town went there to watch these "strange creatures". It would be interesting to know how many of the people around today remember going to their camp.

There is a very interesting story that we were told by our father that perhaps only he knew. It seems that Uncle Dick Seay was a cousin of Quanah Parker's mother Cynthia Ann Parker who had been captured by Indians in the early days of Texas history. He had told my father the story and wanted to have the opportunity to talk to Quanah Parker on one of his trips to the area. And so one time when they were there Dad sent for Uncle Dick and arranged for Quanah Parker to meet him at his store... Dad said that when he mentioned the possibility that he might have a relative in the area Quanah Parker was very skeptical and said that everywhere he went people made such claims and he did not believe them, but he agreed to see Uncle Dick. When Quanah came into the store Dad introduced the two and Quanah began to ask questions of Uncle Dick about things that only family members would know. Finally, after a considerable time of grilling him, Quanah broke into a big smile, jumped over a table where they were sitting and gave Uncle Dick a big hug, declaring that he had at last found a true cousin. He seemed delighted and stayed in the store for a considerable length of time to visit with the two of them.

The funny thing about that story is that our Dad had always been told that his own mother was a cousin of the Parkers, but he had none of the proof that Uncle

Dick did and so did not mention it to Quanah Parker.

Now let us hear from others! And while we are at it we could write the story of the coming of the railroad to Matador in the same way.

Sincerely yours
Marjoria Moore Harper

To the Editor.

I was in Matador first time 6 weeks and the last time 3 weeks. I stayed with Edna Russell on her and her neighbors invitation. I called her Mrs. Mae.

I visited U. L. Wiley and wife first time and Mrs. Ford at the Ford Ranch. But they were gone on my last trip. I kept in touch thru the Matador Tribune with Mrs. Bourland, Edna Russell and Mrs. Donovan. I love to read Hazel and her golf in the paper. I loved the people from Matador. They saw I got to church every Sunday. Wynona G. was so wonderful also. So I said now that my good friends The Meadors were out of the paper. I did not expect a paper anymore.

They say great minds run in the same channels. We are 81 and 82 yrs old. I said we will pay off $1,000 for the new roof we had to have house Ins. for 3 yrs and $44. for Insurance. I will send the Tribune a check for one year. When Mr. Bates gave me the envelope Matador Tribune, I said Its for a check for next year paper. I cut every 2nd Glance out and show it to voters who visit us and tell them to use it as a guide of what to do about their voting.

I have read every Matador paper from beginning to the end and live over my visits to some of the best people I ever knew.

I am the granddaughter of a Civil War veteran. A Union soldier. He volunteered at age 16, was wounded in the 2nd Battle of Bull Run. His father was killed in battle.

My grandpa was Daniel Christian Uffelman. My mother was his daughter Carrie Uffelman Poet.

Daniel died 1922 and grandma 19025 at that time I had a son. Three months in 1922 and 3 years old in 1925.

This sounds like a history, but I have been laughed at when I said I was the granddaughter of a Civil War Veteran. You are a scholar and your Editorials are wonderful.

Well I hope someone sends news of Edna Russell. She did not answer my last letter.

Mrs. Edith Bates

Dear Friend:

For more than 20 years Matador Community Chest has rendered vital services, and administered funds. Control of all funds is kept by a local 10 member Board of Directors, which serves without pay.

Most of the funds we receive are directed to the activities of the young people, which includes Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts. The Chest also has a fund for local charity cases.

Agencies receiving a percentage of funds collected include the Red Cross, USO and Salvation Army, Outside solicitation is kept to a minimum, and most groups know that Matador has a Community Chest and has never asked its contributors for more money in the same season. This year we are attempting to conduct the campaign by mail to save time of people who solicit and to save your time. A self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed for your convenience.

We will appreciate your contribution and your promptness, as we hope to conclude the drive by December 20, 1978.

Thank you very much,
Larry Hoyle, President
Matador Community Chest

Baptists Hear Program On Missions

Foreign Missions was the theme of a program Wednesday night, Dec. 6 at the First Baptist Church as an emphasis for Week of Prayer for Foreign Missions Dec. 3-10, and stressing the annual Lottie Moon Christmas Offering goal of $40 million. The goal set by the local church is $1,750.

Miss Lottie Moon was a Southern Baptist missionary to China from 1873 until her death 39 years later. In 1887 she suggested that Southern Baptists observe the week before Christmas as a time of prayer and giving for missions. However, it was not until 1918 that the offering was first officially called the Lottie Moon Christmas Offering for Foreign Missions.

The Wednesday night program followed a covered dish supper, and included talks by three different age groups comprising youth auxiliaries of the Women's Missionary Union. The Mission Friends, Girls in Action and Acteens proclaimed the week's theme of "Tell It Out With Gladness."

A special feature of the evening was a report by Mr. and Mrs. Dick Groves, of their work six months this year as Mission Service Corps Volunteers in Corrente, Piaui, Brazil, where they visited Rev. and Mrs.

Bruce Oliver, former pastor of the First Baptist Church here, and his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Groves showed colorful slides explaining the work being done in that area, by teachers, preachers, journeymen and missionaries, as well as scenic views of the country.

Article Written By Former Motley County Resident

An article by Benny J. Simpson, son of Mrs. Una Simpson of Northfield and the late A. B. Simpson was featured in the fall publication of Texas Wildflower Newsletter, Kerrville, Texas. A soil scientist at the Texas A&M Research Center just north of Dallas, Simpson was reared in Motley County and is a graduate of Matador High School. He is described in the newsletter as "a remarkable plant-hunter, phopagator, photographer and writer, who roams Texas on week end in search of rare trees and shrubs."

He has written a number of articles on trees of Texas, which he plans to publish in book form. The following article is on "Mountain Mahogany."

It is a land so far away, those hills of home, vast and seemingly empty.

At times, the stars are so bright and seem so close and bursting that at any moment you expect the Creator to tip the Big Dipper and pour liquid stardust on every sagebrush and twisted tree in that beautifully desolate landscape.

This rugged country is one of the last bastions of the friendly and over-curious little busybody known as the prairie dog. Where once he numbered in the hundreds of millions, he now survives only in a few scattered locations where he is protected by a few ranchers who care.

Here, too, one may hear the clear, staccato calls of El Coyote as they perform their moonlight sonata.

You simply must catch the first mournful and bugle-like note.

It starts high up Cottonwood, a tentative queeting cry. It is then echoed from Turkey Creek, and then by another on Wind River; then, Housetop Canyon joins and Chainey Mountain Creek and Turtle Hole Creek; finally, an entire chorus gives forth from every sand hill up and down the North Pease River.

In the hushed stillness, one imagines the soft strains from the fiddle of the late James Robert Willis being wafted along the canyon walls. This can't be, for Bob left the cotton sack at the end of the row, down on the Little Red, almost 50 years ago and the last poignant strains from the magnificent Guadagnini were heard in 1972.

Here, beneath the brooding peaks of the blue Quiaques, a dense forest grows on the East, facing jumbled walls of the great Caprock Escarpment of the fabled Llano Estacado in Briscoe County.

It is a Lilliputian forest, being dwarfed by scarcity of rainfall, and fertile soil. It has been honed to a miniature size by the wildly eddying West Texas winds as they explore every hidden crevice of the steep, sheer slopes.

Standing limb to limb for mutual protection are Pinchot Juniper, the silvery gray Mohr Oak and the little, twisted trunks of Silverleaf Mountain Mahogany (Cercocarpus Montanus var. argenteus).

Silverleaf Mountain Mahogany seeks the strong limestone soils of the Edwards Plateau, Rolling Plains, High Plains and the Trans-Pecos.

It is a shrub to a small tree of not higher than 20 feet. Its leaves are evergreen and small - one inch long by about three-fourths of an inch wide. They are dark green above with a dense white wool on the undersurface.

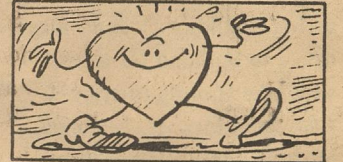

Its most beautiful seasons are late Summer and early Fall when the fruit with its long, silky, crazily-twisted tail adorns the tree.

The little fruit is sharp pointed and reminds you of a threaded needle. The seed can be blown many yards and the sharp point of the "needle," being at the heavy end, lands first when it hits the ground. The "thread" (style) then hygroscopically twists and turns at every nuance of humidity change and literally screws the little needle (seed) into the soil. The thread drops off once the seed is positioned for a chance at germination.

Silverleaf Mountain Mahogany is very palatable to all browsing animals; thus, its tree-like form is seldom seen by plant hunters. Its wood is very dense and hard, hence its name, though it is extremely brittle.

This small tree of the Rose Family is not even closely kin to the great Mahogany of commerce (Swietenia and professional foresters stubbornly refer to it merely as cercocarpus. ...Due to its small size, evergreen foliage and very attractive fruiting habits, it should be more widely grown, especially where yard space is at a premium.

The heart is only about 5 1/2 inches long and 3 1/2 inches wide.

People Getting SSI Should Report Events

People who receive supplemental security income (SSI) payments because they are 65 or over, or blind, or disabled are responsible for reporting any change in their circumstances that could have an effect on their monthly payment, a social security spokesperson said recently.

It is extremely important that these reports are made on time. If not, incorrect payments might be made that would have to be repaid, or, the person might be due more money than he or she received.

It is easy to make a required report, the representative said. Reports can be made in person or by phone. In any report, be sure to include these details: Name of the person, the correct should also report any improvement in condition, and if the person takes a job while still disabled.

Students under 22 should report if they start or stop attending school.

In addition, someone should notify social security on behalf of a person who becomes unable to manage his or her own money and upon the death of a person.

To make reports about SSI or to get more information, contact any social security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest social security office can be found in the telephone directory under "Social Security Administration."

under which the payment is being made, the change being reported, the date it occurred, and if the report is in writing, signature and address.

The following occurrences must be reported to social security:

- Any move or change of address.
- Entry to or discharge from an institution.
- Leaving the U. S.
- Separation of husband and wife.
- Marriage or the end of marriage.
- Any change in income.
- Any change in resources—property or materials that are owned.
- Blind or disabled people

In parts of India it was customary to tie together the clothing of a bride and groom.

Railroad porters were first issued "red caps" to match the red carpet rolled out for passengers on the legendary Twentieth Century Limited.

People once believed that if their palms itched they would receive money.

A GLEAM of love-light in the eye;
A glint of gladness in the sky;
An added charm in passers-by—
That's Christmas!

A hint of halo in the day;
A thought of "others" when we pray;
A gentle glow that lights the way—
That's Christmas!

A goodwill flame within the heart;
A zeal to act a nobler part;
An urge the upward way to start—
That's Christmas!

Pest Management in Grain Sorghum Needs Greenbug, Midge Resistance

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

Vast fields of important single-plant crops in Texas, such as grain sorghum, offer ideal conditions for the buildup of incredible numbers of destructive insects.

To counter this threat, phenomenal research progress within the past decade has provided the basis for development of successful sorghum pest management programs.

Called integrated pest management (IPM), these strategies have incorporated selected chemical, cultural, and natural methods of pest control.

IPM is based on identification and control of the "key" pests, which in Texas are the greenbug and the sorghum midge.

The first outbreak of the greenbug in sorghum occurred in 1968 in almost all sorghum production areas of the United States. IPM of this pest was designed to make maximum use of all control technology.

Dosage rate manipulation of several approved insecticides achieved the desired ecological selectivity. Extremely low doses of insecticide (less than 1/10 pound of active ingredient per acre) achieved greenbug control, yet spared most of the naturally occurring beneficial species.

If properly timed, based on established economic thresholds, only one insecticide application is needed, and resurgence of the greenbug is prevented by parasites and predators.

In spite of this knowledge, high rates of persistent systemic insecticides were relied on by producers to control the pest. These treatments were highly effective, Teetes says, but broadly toxic and disruptive of the ecology. In a 4-year period insecticide resistance developed in some areas and now hampers the use of selective insecticide rates.

Increasing insecticide resistance called for new control methods. One of the more significant control tactics is the use of resistant varieties or, in the case of sorghum, resistant hybrids.

Teetes stresses that plant resistance is but one of the available control tactics. However, it has a number of advantages: 1) it's economical, 2) it's specific for the problem, 3) it leaves no harmful residue in food or the environment, 4) it is not harmful to pollinating or other beneficial insects, 5) it does not (or only minimally) disturb nature's balance between destructive insects and their natural enemies, and 6) it's compatible with biological, chemical, cultural, and other control methods.

The fact that plant resistance is compatible with other control tactics is the main reason it's so important to integrated pest management.

For example, plant resistance to insect damage may 1) alter the effectiveness of insecticides or permit reducing or even omitting treatments, 2) suppress numbers so they never reach an economically damaging level, 3) be tolerant of the insect attack and still be able to bear profitable yields, 4) slow the rate of increase of the pest and permit a buildup of natural biological control agents, or 5) influence pest density, thereby providing a food supply reservoir for beneficial organisms useful later in the growing season in the same or neighboring crops.

An example is the beneficials which develop to abundant numbers in sorghum and later move to cotton.

Soon after 1968, Station scientists found sources of greenbug resistance in a number of sorghums, which were released to commercial seed companies. This resistance has meant direct savings of $20 million to $54 million a year to producers and, indirectly, to the public.

So the initial problem with greenbugs was eased on the High and Rolling Plains; the greenbug-resistant sorghum hybrids outyielded susceptible hybrids by 900 pounds to the acre where greenbugs were a production factor.

But Texas' problems with the greenbug were by no means over. The greenbug resistance that solved Plains producers' problems was not in hybrids best adapted for Central and South Texas.

The complicating issues were adaptability and the fact that the greenbug-resistant hybrids were susceptible to downy mildew and head smut. Consequently, recent research efforts have concentrated on developing sorghum parental lines resistant to downy mildew, head smut, and greenbugs and adapted to South and Central Texas. Such parental lines are being developed and released by Experiment Station sorghum breeders, Drs. Jerry W. Johnson and Fred R. Miller.

The combination of greenbug resistance from a female parent and downy mildew resistance and adaptability from a male parent produces an acceptable hybrid for Central and South Texas.

Adapted greenbug-resistant, downy-mildew, and head-smut resistant sorghum hybrids will be available commercially in 1979, and additional improved hybrids will be available in the future.

One of the factors that makes possible the rapid development of greenbug-resistant sorghums is that the resistant character is dominant and simply inherited. This allows flexibility in its use for combining the greenbug-resistance factor with other desirable characteristics in hybrid combinations.

Teetes emphasizes this point because it explains one of the problems in developing midge resistance, which is not dominantly inherited. Resistance to the midge is recessively inherited, and both parents must have it.

Preliminary research on midge resistance indicates that antibiosis (bad effect on insect when it eats plant) is the major resistance factor, but levels of non-preference (insect prefers other sorghums) are also present.

"We have been evaluating experimental hybrids for 2 years and are confident we're making progress," Teetes says. "As a point of comparison based on my observations, under unnaturally high midge density, the best midge-resistant sorghum hybrids set about 50 percent seed when susceptible hybrids set none."

"During 1979, we will start a large-scale hybrid evaluation program, and by 1980 we should have a good idea what the best hybrids are for future development of midge resistance," Teetes concluded.

SCS Office Concerned About Food Resources

The ability of farmers and ranchers to continue to produce adequate food and fiber was the number one natural resource concern expressed in Texas during a series of statewide meetings held earlier this year.

Soil erosion by water, deterioration of rangeland, shortage of municipal and rural water supplies, and irrigation water management came in second, third, fourth, and fifth -- respectively -- in a tabulation made by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

George C. Marks, state conservationist for the SCS in Texas, said that some 8,500 Texans established these priority concerns during a series of 377 public meetings held last spring and summer. The meetings were held in compliance with the Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act of 1977.

James Gillespie, district conservationist for Soil Conservation Service at Matador, said the number one resource concern expressed in the local Upper Pease Soil and Water Conservation District was erosion of soil by both wind and water. Economics of conservation, use of marginal lands for farming, use of controls, and decentralization of government controls, came in second, third, fourth, and fifth in a public meeting held in June at Matador.

SCS and local conservation districts sponsored the meeting in each of the state's 198 soil and water conservation districts.

Other state concerns listed in order of ranking were flooding, loss of rural lands to urban sprawl, soil erosion by wind, rural development, increased demand for recreational facilities, and loss of wildlife habitat.

The public inputs from Texas were forwarded to Washington where they will be combined with responses from the other states. National concerns will be announced in 1979. At that time, the public will again be asked to help SCS and conservation districts decide what conservation programs should be used to solve local concerns.

A national conservation program will then be presented to President Carter to concentrate on the Nation's top natural resource concerns on a priority basis.

Rabies in Animals Is a Threat to Man

Man is doing much to protect himself and his pets from rabies, but there is much yet to be done as evidenced by increases in rabies this year.

While local leash laws, pickup of strays and increased emphasis on pet vaccinations have improved the situation, continued high numbers of cases in wild animals pose a threat to pets and humans, said Foy V. McCasland, D.V.M., chief of the Bureau of Veterinary Public Health of the Texas Department of Health.

Twenty-five years ago, in 1953, said Dr. McCasland, 1,000 dogs and 68 cats were diagnosed as rabid in Texas. The number decreased to 45 dogs and 13 cats in 1977. However, of the 389 confirmed cases of rabies last year, 311 rabies cases were reported in wildlife including 256 cases in skunks. "In rural areas, especially," said Dr. McCasland, "it is easy to see how rabies can cross over from wildlife into the pet population."

Human rabies is rare in Texas today. The last case of human rabies in Texas due to natural exposure within the state occurred in 1962. Two human deaths from rabies acquired from animals in Mexico have occurred in Texas, however, one in 1977 and one this year.

Rabies in humans reached a peak in Texas during the 12-year period from 1946 through 1957. In that 12-year span, 29 cases of human rabies deaths were documented by laboratory findings.

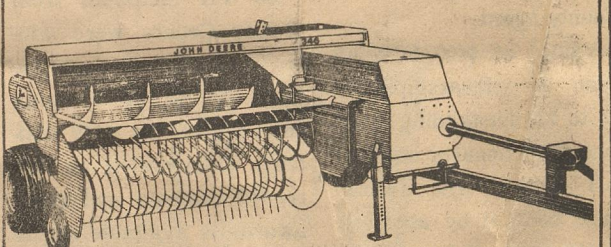

In addition to vaccinating their pets, Texans can help prevent rabies exposure by avoiding strange-acting wild animals. Rabid animals sometimes lose their fear of humans and will even attack them.

Skunks, which normally roam around at night, often are seen during daylight hours if they are rabid.

Motley County Fields Losing Too Much Soil

Estimating soil loss from cropland is just a part of the job of the Soil Conservation Service, according to James Gillespie, SCS District Conservationist serving the Upper Pease Soil and Water Conservation District.

The real task is helping farmers with conservation management and erosion control practices that will bring the soil loss down to limits where the soil will remain productive for years to come.

"Many fields in Motley County are still losing too much soil to maintain a constant level of productivity over a long period of time," says Gillespie. "Many farmers are actually losing 10 or more tons of soil per acre every year, which is excessive."

"If these erosion rates continue, nothing will be left eventually but the subsoil and this land usually has to be converted to pasture. Even then it is not very productive," Gillespie said.

The Upper Pease Soil and Water Conservation District is making an effort to get farmers to request assistance in estimating the soil loss on their cropland. In most cases, conservation practices can be applied to reduce these losses to a point where the land remains productive and farmers still make a profit.

"In the long run, conservation pays," says W.H. Marshall, chairman of the Upper Pease Soil and Water Conservation District. "Bringing soil losses down on cropland in Motley County will not only benefit the farmer but will benefit everyone who depends on farm crops. I believe that takes in everyone."

BOYS -- GIRLS ENTER PADUCAH TOURNAMENT

By Carla Hart

December 7, 8 and 9, the Motley County Varsity boys and girls were entered in the Paducah Varsity Tournament.

Thursday, both teams traveled to Paducah to face the Paducah Dragons. In the girls' game, the Matadors snatched the win, 63 to 41, with Bunni Zabielski and Gwen Calvert donating 14 points each. Jones put in 16 for Paducah. In the boys game, the Matadors didn't have much luck. They were defeated by the Dragons, 66 to 52, their first loss of the season. Nevertheless, Robert Parker chucked in 18 points for the Matadors while Hickman and Mosley had 20 for PHS.

Friday, the M.C. girls were pitted against the Valley Patriots in a grudge match. At the half, the Matadors went to the dressing room behind the Patriots 16 points. And during the second half, the M.C. team decided to give the Patriots their money's worth. Pouring out all their efforts, the Matadors couldn't make the win, losing by only 6 points, 67 to 61. But the girls scored 31 points in the last half. Ann Moore, a senior, donated 17 for the M.C. team. Angela Eudy, had 15 for Valley.

In the boys game the M.C. team faced the Chillicothe Eagles. The game was a fast and exciting one with the boys talents all in unison. They pulverized Chillicothe 81 to 50. In the score department, Lester Campbell was high point for M.C. with 18 points while Vernell Fobbs had 17 points for CHS.

Saturday, December 9, the boys went back to Paducah to face the Quanah Indians in the contest for third place. The Matadors held the lead at half-time, 27 to 24. In the second-half, the M.C. team held the lead until the last few minutes, as Quanah scored and tied the game at the end of the fourth quarter, 55 to 55. With an additional three minutes of play, the Matadors fought to regain the lead but failed as they were defeated, 59 to 63.

In the girls game, Motley County was pitted against the Quanah Indians, again trying for third place. At the half, M.C. led the confident Eagles, 32 to 26. The second half proved to be an exciting one as the teams were tied at the final buzzer, 52 to 52. After the three minute overtime, Motley pulled out the win for third, 57 to 55. Bunni Zabielski, a sophomore, had 15 for M.C.H.S., while Carpenter, had 27 for Quanah.

The Motley County Varsity teams will travel to Floydada, December 12, to take on the Whirlwinds at 7:00 p.m.

Thursday, December 7th the Motley County J.V. Girls and boys traveled to Spur to compete against Rotan in the tournament.

The girls final score for this first game was MC-30 to RHS-28 with Linda Nimmo's jump shot barely going in at the sound of the buzzer. Linda Palmer was high point for the Matadors with 9 points. High point for Rotan was Ramez with 11 points.

The boys also had a successful game. The final score was MC-52 to RHS-47. Charlie Campbell had 24 points for the Matadors, while K. Pease had 18 points for Rotan.

Friday the girls played against Post, hoping to advance to the finals. The final score for the girls game was MC-23 to PHS-46. Angie Green had 8 points for Motley, Giddors had 16 points for Post.

For Kidney Patients

Several important changes in the Medicare program for people with permanent kidney failure went into effect October 1, a social security representative said recently. Workers insured under social security or their dependents are eligible for Medicare protection if the worker or dependent requires dialysis or kidney transplant because of permanent kidney failure. The changes include: Medicare coverage can begin the month a course of dialysis begins if certain conditions are met.

Medicare can pay 100 percent of the cost of home dialysis equipment if certain conditions are met. Medicare can help pay for almost all home dialysis supplies, including disposable items. Medicare can help pay for periodic support services to assist a person to remain on home dialysis if furnished by an approved hospital or facility. Medicare coverage can begin the month a person is admitted to an approved hospital for a kidney transplant or preliminary surgery if certain conditions are met. Medicare coverage can continue for 36 months following transplant, or longer if the transplant fails. For more information about these important changes in Medicare protection, contact any social security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest social security office can be found in the telephone directory under "Social Security Administration."

Holiday Shopping Safety Tips

Holiday shopping in Texas often entails driving from one shopping area to another, making purchases at each stop.

Since a car loaded with packages is an invitation to thieves, the Insurance Information Center (IIC) offers these hints:

--Always remove your key and lock your car doors when you're away from the vehicle even just for a few moments. Its estimated about 80 percent of all cars stolen are left unlocked; 40 percent have keys left inside. An ounce of prevention therefore might go a long way toward curing the theft problem in Texas.

--Be sure all windows are closed.

--When leaving a car unattended, put all packages or other items of value in the trunk. Be sure the trunk is locked. If you don't have an enclosed storage area, at least cover or otherwise obscure any possessions that might tempt a thief.

In Texas last year, Texas Department of Public Safety estimates some 61,734 thefts of property from motor vehicles were committed. That stolen property was estimated to be worth more than $19 million.

Many of these types of theft may not be covered by insurance. It can depend on the value of the property, type of policy, amount of deductible, personal of public transportation, or whether there was forced entry.

The best way to prevent the disappointment of a loss, according to the IIC, is to make every effort to keep it from happening in the first place. While the number of thefts tends to increase at certain times of the year, caution should be used at all times.

BANKING IS EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Head Off Howling Winds--With Home Improvements

By Willis W. Alexander
Executive Vice President
American Bankers Association

With the "dog days" of summer fresh in memory, it's hard to entertain very vivid thoughts of the howling winds of winter. But, if you want to avoid worries come November—now's the time.

Last year's severe cold, scarce energy supplies, and increased fuel costs prompted some banks to promote energy conservation for their communities and customers. Most of the programs relied on reduced loan rates as an incentive to undertake energy-saving projects.

A recent ABA survey of the nation's more than 14,000 full-service banks indicates that many are continuing these double-barreled interest-saving, energy-conserving deals.

The survey also showed that while interest rates for conventional home improvement loans averaged between 10 per cent and 12.50 per cent, the rate on "special" energy-conservation loans dropped as low as 8.50 per cent.

Home-improvement projects eligible for such loans range from insulation of ceilings, walls and floors, to total revamping of heating and cooling systems. While the banks offer guidelines, most are also open to individual customer's own ideas.

Specific things you can do include (in addition to the above): storm windows and doors, or double glazing, basement foundation insulation, window and door weather stripping, new or rebuilt furnaces, heat pumps and automatic night set-back thermostats.

Also recommended are: devices for electronic furnace ignition, fireplace damper integrity (including heat reclaimers and flue dampers), duct and pipe insulation, solar heating, and efficient hot water heaters and roofing.

Although each home situation is different, and there are many types of insulation, statistics show that effective and efficient insulating can reduce fuel bills by as much as 18 per cent in some cases.

Even if you know your house is already insulated, you should check to see how much you have. Many homes built during the past ten years fall short of recommended building standards set down by energy conservationists. You might have only four inches in your ceiling, for instance, while eight to ten inches is now recommended for northern climates.

Remember, insulation is cheaper than fuel, and at the moment there is no shortage of it. Then, too, the money you save on fuel can pay for the improvements in a few years, while at the same time providing you with a home that is more saleable in the future.

VIVA VELVETEEN

VALENTINO DESIGNS IN COTTON VELVETEEN to create little tailored suits suitable for street wear.

THE LATEST COATS are three-quarters long and made of cotton velveteen, like this one from Yves St. Laurent.

COATS ARE NOT JUST ACCESSORIES. This cotton velveteen coat designed by Chloe is an important part of the new suit look.

Soft, chic and sexy, velveteen of pure, natural cotton has long been in the forefront of fashion for glamorous nights. Now it's delightful for days as well.

One little tailored suit designed by Valentino shows printed, pure cotton velveteen that's suited to street wear. The broader shoulders and full bottom skirt are highly figure flattering.

Velveteen is also very popular with Yves St.

Laurent. His new three-quarter length coat of all-cotton velveteen is used to round out the look for day or evening. The big cuffs and slit pockets of this latest length coat add to its casual air.

Coats, it's becoming clear, are no longer mere accessories to wear outside your outfit. Chloe has designed this three-quarter coat of cotton velveteen to look sublime as a suit. The shoulders are smartly padded, and the big fur boa and tiny velveteen hat add an aura of elegance that can last all day and into the night. Since it's of 100 percent cotton, it can be worn practically around the calendar, as well as around the clock.

Fashionable women, it seems, won't be caught napping—they'll be wearing sweetly sophisticated cotton velveteen.

4-H Records

Worth Over Quarter Million

More than a quarter-million dollars worth of scholarships will be awarded during the 57th National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 26-30 at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, points out Bill Pallmeyer, Motley County Agent.

Valued at $400 to $1000 each, the scholarships will go to 273 outstanding teens who are national or regional 4-H winners. The awards are donated by about 50 businesses and foundations and are arranged by the National 4-H Council, a non-profit educational organization serving 4-H. Winners are chosen on the basis of their accomplishments in 4-H project work, leadership and citizenship.

More than 100 4-H members from across the country are expected to attend this year's Congress, of which 46 will be from Texas. Most delegates have their expenses apaid by private sector donors.

No 4-H members from Motley County were winners in 1978, but now is the time to start keeping records for the 1979 contests. Information on 4-H record contests and other awards is available at the County Extension Agent's office, and members who are not currently keeping a record on their accomplishments are encouraged to do so, as a record is one of the requirements for the Gold Star Award, the highest award presented on the county level.
