Timely tips on the prevention of home fires, and ways to preserve life during a fire were given in a talk to Matador Lions Club Tuesday, March 17. Speakers were Fire Chief Rodney Williams and First Assistant Dudley (Dude) Speed, who is second in command of the Matador Volunteer Fire Department.

Chief Williams outlined hotel safety tips which have been widely distributed since the Las Vegas hotel fires. These included checking fire exits, having your room key with you at all times and remaining in rooms if at all possible, and keeping towels and sheets drenched with water from the bathroom. "Remember, never use the elevator...controls are heat activated, and the elevators can become stuck. And always call the fire department instead of the hotel management, when fire breaks out."

He placed emphasis on fire precautions in the home, especially where there are children or elderly and handicapped persons. "The best ways to make homes safer is by prevention, don't leave matches where children can get them; don't smoke in bed; don't empty ash trays in waste baskets; use proper size fuses and breakers in wiring your house, and allow only qualified electricians to do the work," he warned, and advised that all extension cords should be inspected periodically, and discarded when the insulation begins to wear. He further urged the use of smoke detectors and fire extinguishers in the home, and issued a final warning concerning children. "Teach your children how to escape when fire breaks out."

Assistant Chief Speed said that one item of growing concern is the increased use of wood burning stoves and fireplaces in an effort to cut fuel costs. "Although these methods of heating were used exclusively until oil and electricity, they create fire hazards unless they function properly, and especially stoves, which need to be installed properly and inspected frequently. A faulty flue or chimney can result in the loss of your home, and possibly lives."

He displayed samples of stickers and decals which the fire department has ordered to be placed in specific windows in a home, so that the fire department may be alerted that handicapped or elderly persons, or small children live there.

"Call your fire department. We will try to help you in any way possible. We are a volunteer service organization, at your call. We will even inspect your home for fire hazards, if you will call on us," both speakers declared.

The fire department phone is 347-2323 and alerts 20 persons on the line, including Fire Marshal Don Warren, whose home number is 2457, and Williams can be reached at 2857. The fire department number is to report fires only.

Lion Ronnie Vandiver, president announced that future directors meetings will be held at the First Baptist Church, and reminded the members of the volleyball tournament set for April 2-4, and of the District 27-2 convention April 16-18, in Lubbock. He led the members in expressing appreciation to Lion Walter Jones for an enjoyable meal.

Special guests at the meeting were the outgoing Lions Queen, Bunnie Zabielski, the new Queen, Shelley Jackson, and the Queen candidates, Reneigh Gwinn, Traci Green, Deanna Durham, Beverly Witcher, Varlena Lee and Sonja Schuder. Other guests introduced by Lion Bob Stanley included Mike Patterson of Bryan, Louis Eubank of Des Moines, Iowa and Julian Zabielski, in addition to the speakers.

Motley County Selected For Crop Insurance

Farmers in Motley County can now obtain subsidized Federal Crop Insurance against a partial or total loss of their 1981 crops. The county is one of 250 counties in which insurance is being offered for the first time as part of a nationwide expansion recently authorized by Congress. Policies are currently available for cotton, grain sorghum and peanuts, according to Jackie Harris, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation district director. Under the new program, the Federal government pays up to 30 percent of the insurance premium of policyholders who do not elect to participate in the separate

USDA disaster payments program. Farmers who participate in the disaster payment program on an insured crop may purchase insurance but are not eligible for the subsidy. After the 1981 crop year, the disaster payment program will be ended. Federal Crop Insurance is designed to enable farmers to insure a part or all of the money they invest in their crops against loss due to all unavoidable causes. Policies can also be used as loan collateral to assure funds for payment in a poor crop year, says Harris.

Policyholders can elect to insure 50 percent, 65 percent or 75 percent of their average crop yields.

They can also choose, from among three selections, the price they want to be paid for each bushel or pound their insured crop falls short of the production guarantee.

Another option provides an additional premium discount when the hail and fire coverage of the FCIC policy is replaced with an equal or larger amount of private hail and fire insurance.

For information about the subsidized insurance and the protection it provides, contact the FCIC office in Amarillo or one of the local insurance agents now handling the program. Application deadlines are April 30 for all three crops.

Our Apology

Energy Policy And Profits
Question: What effect will decontrol and the windfall profit taxes have on my energy stocks?

Answer: The windfall profits tax, of course, will make a dent in the industry's profits. But this could be offset by gains from decontrol of gas and oil prices. In fact, energy experts at the investment firm of Bache, Halsey, Stuart Shields believe that profit growth should beat the inflation rate over the next few years. Furthermore, Bache anticipates that oil and gas price hikes will bring a revision in asset values—values that are not fully reflected in current stock prices.

County Agent's Corral

By Jerry Cummins

Nematodes--The Underground Enemy

Root knot nematodes are the single most important home garden disease in Motley County. I would estimate that at least 50 per cent of the gardens in this area are damaged by root knot.

One problem with controlling this pest is that it's hard to detect the problem early enough for gardeners to take protective measures. Once nematodes are found on plant roots, little can be done to save that year's crop.

So, it's important to inspect the roots of plants for galls as you remove them from the garden in the fall. These galls or knots on roots indicate the presence of root knot nematodes and this is the time to take effective steps to control the pests.

Another symptom of root knot is stunted, yellow plants. Examine the roots of such plants for galls. As soon as root knot nematodes are found in the garden, immediately remove all diseased plants. Get as much of the root system as possible because it is in these roots that the nematode will carry over in the egg stage to the next crop. Root tissue around the eggs will protect them from chemical treatment and drying.

Once plant roots have been removed, till or spade the area as deep as possible. This breaks up remaining roots so they will decay faster and dries the soil to reduce the number of young nematodes (larvae) in the soil. If nematodes are detected in the spring garden, continue spading at two-three week intervals until fall planting time. This continual tilling of the garden will reduce the nematode population even further.

In that portion of the garden not being used for winter vegetables or for those of you who do not want to plant a fall or winter garden, plant the garden to rye (cereal) in mid-September. Water the garden regularly to get maximum fall growth for the small grain.

Rye will act as a control for nematodes. Many of those entering the roots will not be able to undergo complete development and will be killed. When the rye is spaded or tilled under at the end of the season, it decays and produces an organic acid toxic to nematodes.

In addition, rye serves as a source of organic material encouraging the growth of fungi which feed on nematodes. Rye should be turned under as soon as possible after Jan. 1. This will allow some time for plant decay before spring planting.

When soil temperature reaches 50 degrees F for seven days at a depth of six inches, treat the area with Vapam fungicide using one qt. per 100 sq. ft. Water the chemical into the soil using one inch of water at the time of treatment. Re-water in 24 hours, using an additional one inch of water and repeat in 48 hours.

Vapam is water soluble and will be leached down into the soil with irrigation. It is important that the chemical be moved as deep in the soil as possible to get maximum control. There may be some of you in the county whose soil is such that one inch of water cannot be applied before run-off occurs. In these areas, apply water until run-off begins and then repeat at 24 and 48 hours after treatment.

This method of treatment takes care of the entire area compared to row application where only a 12-inch band is treated. After treatment, leave the area undisturbed for seven days. Then till the soil to get the chemical out. Wait an additional two weeks before planting.

Additional steps can be taken at planting to further insure nematode control. In those areas where root knot is found to be most severe in summer or fall, plant onions, garlic or sweet corn. These crops are not susceptible to root knot, and their use will further reduce the nematode population.

Also, it should be standard practice to plant nematode resistant varieties when available. Following is a list of nematode resistant varieties that have done well in this county.

Crop-Tomatoes, Root Knot Nematode Resistant-Big Set, Better Boy, Terrific, Bonus, Small Fry (cherry type); Crop-Southern Peas, Root Knot Nematode Resistant-Mississippi Silver (cream); Crop-Sweet Potatoes, Root Knot Nematode Resistant-Jewell, Centennial.

Gardeners who find that they are able to follow only one or two of the above-mentioned practices because of planting or economic restrictions will have less success in controlling nematodes.

Once nematodes are found in a garden, the control program as outlined above must be followed annually. Based on current knowledge, it is impossible to completely eliminate nematodes from a garden. But a sound control program will keep the population at a manageable level.

Planting your garden is next. More on that later.

A Second Glance

By Leon Watson

Usually each year following the stock show we wait a week or two to print the results and placings. This always gives the officials time to get all their information together.

However, this year I was determined to publish the results in this issue so the news would be timely; since I had already got information for stock shows at Petersburg and Crosby County I knew it could be done in a short period of time.

I kinda' caught our local official off guard though, so if the information is not complete, it is all I could get.

The House Regions, Compacts, and Districts Committee, which is responsible for State House and congressional redistricting, recently released 1980 Census Preliminary counts which show the changes in counties population since 1970.

The report shows Briscoe County with 2,794 in 1970 and 2,578 in 1980, down 7.7 per cent. Hall County went from 6,015 in 1970 to 5,571 in 1980, down 7.4 per cent. Childress County was up 5.7 per cent, from 6,605 in 1970 to 6,981 in 1980. Floyd County dropped 10.2 per cent, from 11,044 to 9,914, and Motley County had 2,178 in 1970 and 1,902 in 1980, down 12.7 per cent.

Hale County is up 10 per cent since 1970, going from 34,137 to 37,539 in population. Lubbock County only gained 18.2 per cent, from 30,194 in census population in 1970 to 35,676 in 1980. The report shows Lamb County with a 4.5 per cent gain from 17,770 to 18,564.

Cottle County dropped 6.5 per cent since 1970, from 3,204 to 2,996. King County lost 6.7 per cent going from 464 to 433. Dickens County lost 5.4 per cent, showing 3,737 in 1970 and 3,537 in 1980. Crosby County was down 1.6 per cent, from 9,085 to 8,941.
