Attorney General

The death of Senator Howell of Nebraska may figure in the selection of an attorney general. Arthur F. Mullen, Democratic National Committeeman of Omaha, is making a fight for it. President Roosevelt wants to favor him in some way. He was Farley's right-hand man at Chicago and later in the campaign in New York. Governor Bryan of Nebraska may appoint Mr. Mullen to fill out Senator Howell's unexpired term. If Governor Bryan selects former Senator Gilbert H. Hitchcock of Omaha the cabinet position may fall to Mullen.

Jim Reed

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri for attorney general was at first discounted because of his age. Investigation showed him to be two years younger than the late Senator Walsh.

Reed Is 72

Reed is 72. Walsh was 74. Reed is the same type of fighter that Walsh was.

Frankfurter

For solicitor general Prof. Frankfurter of the Harvard Law School, is a probability. It is not believed that President Roosevelt will appoint a solicitor general until he has definitely decided on the attorney general. Since consulting the attorney general is in order before the formal appointment is made, who will fit best with Frankfurter may prove a major consideration.

Leaders Not In Sympathy With Changes

Senate Reduced Alcoholic Content To 3.05 Per Cent By Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Democratic leaders decided Friday to send beer legislation to conference with the senate.

The house bill allowed 3.2 per cent alcoholic content. The senate limited it to 3.05 per cent.

Rep. Byrns, Democratic leader, said at a press conference proponents of the bill desired the house to disagree with the senate amendments.

WASHINGTON—Thursday night the senate assured the nation's thirty that so far as the federal law on beer of at least 3.05 alcoholic content will be legal sometime in early April.

Acting with dispatch, the senate adopted the house beer bill after reducing the alcoholic limitation from 3.2 per cent and sent the measure back to the other branch for consideration of amendments.

House leaders planned to meet tomorrow and decide what should be done. Indications were the house would oppose the senate's changes and insist upon 3.2 alcoholic percentage. This meant the measure would go to conference for a settlement of the disagreement and probably would be finally approved and sent to President Roosevelt early next week. Fifteen days after he signs the bill it will become operative.

In addition to the change in alcoholic percentage, the senate adopted an amendment to legalize 2.05 per cent wine and to prevent sale of the legalized beverages to persons under 16 years old. It rejected a proposal that advertising the drinks be prohibited in dry states.

The roll call on final passage on the beer bill follows:

Democrats for—Austin, Bachman, Bankhead, Black, Brown, Buckley, Bulow, Clark, Copeland, Dietrich, Dill, Duffy, Fletcher Harrison, Long, McCarrin, McKellar, Murphy, Overton, Pittman, Reynolds, Robinson of Arkansas, Thomas of Utah, Trammell, Fyding, Van Nuys, Wagner Walsh, and Wheeler, Total 31.

Republicans for—Barbour, Cozart, Herber, Johnson, Keam, LeFollette, McNair, Metcalf, Norris, Reed, Steiwer and Walcott, Total 12—grand total 43.

Democrats against the bill—Adams, Bratton, Byrd, Caraway, Connally, Hayden, McGill, Neely, Pope, Russell, Sheppard, Stephens, Thomas of Oklahoma, Total 13.

Republicans against—Austin, Borah, Capper, Dale, Fess, Frasier, Goldsborough, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Keyes, Nye, Patterson, Robinson of Indiana, Townsend, Vandenberg and White, Total—17; grand total against—30.

The following were paired or announced for the bill, Barkley, Byrnes, Coolidge, Kendrick, King, Lewis, Davis, republicans, and Shipstead, farmer-labor.

These senators were paired for announced against: Bailey, Costigan, George, Glass and Smith—democrats; and Dickinson and Norbeck—republicans. (Gore (L. Okla.) obtained unanimous consent to be excused from voting.)

The positions of Cutting and Schall, republicans, and Long, democrat, who were absent and unpaired, were not announced by their colleagues. There are two vacancies.

The senate's final vote of 43 to 30 cut across party lines as do all votes involving the prohibition laws. Thirty-one democrats and 12 republicans supported the bill, while 13 democrats and 17 republicans opposed it.

WASHINGTON (AP)—House democratic leaders decided Friday to send the beer legislation to conference with the senate.

The house bill allowed 3.2 per cent, while the senate bill limits it to 3.05.

Representative Byrns, democratic leader, said at press conference proponents of the bill desired the house disagree with the senate amendments.

Schools Here Complimented By Inspector

Miss Anderson Finishes Visits To Rural Districts

Miss Woodie Mae Anderson, state rural school supervisor, paid tribute to condition of Howard county schools on completion of an inspection tour that carried her to every school in the county.

"Schools in this county have higher standards than in any county I have inspected this year," said Miss Anderson. She scored Chalk and Midway for standardization and inspected R-Bar, Vincent, Gay Hill, Center Point, Cable, Moore, Highway, Lonax, Morgan, Fairview, Richland, Green Valley, Sisco, Vealmoor, and Soash.

Her report indicated all schools asking state aid would be granted an amount equal to, and in some cases in excess of, the first half payments received here.

However she stipulated that certain requirements for the individual schools would have to be met before the money would be paid.

The only major infraction against the state code she found in local schools was that teachers holding elementary certificates were attempting to teach high school subjects. She demanded this be corrected. Schools in this class were R-Bar, Vincent, Lomax, and Soash. Mrs. Pauline C. Brigham, county superintendent, has instructed all schools not meeting requirements to correct conditions to conform with the state code and to bring affidavits of the correction to her office this week end.

As soon as all affidavits are in this county will be eligible to its state aid.

Miss Anderson left Friday morning for Lamesa where she will inspect Dawson county schools.

The Second Marné

The events of the past ten days may be compared with the second battle of the Marné in the summer of 1918. The invading forces had delivered their most terrible blow. The defenders had been driven back, their lines had been broken, demoralization was spreading, and a rout was threatened. Then suddenly under unified command, and with the support of fresh troops, the offensive was halted, the lines were reformed, morale was restored, and the defenders found themselves in a position to begin a counter-offensive. But they had not yet begun it. That is the point at which we have now arrived, and the analogy should suggest to us that what we have won is not the war, but a great battle, and that a severe campaign of many battles along the whole front has still to be carried through. The great achievement of the past ten days has been the revival of the people's confidence in themselves and in their institutions. They believe that they have a leader whom they can follow. They believe they have a government which can act. They believe again that with human intelligence, a resolute will, and a national discipline the measures that have to be taken can be devised and executed. They believe that there is no special interest of any kind that can resist or obstruct. This change of spirit is of incalculable importance. Only in this spirit can the country hope to move rapidly and steadily onward to the decisive solution of the problems of the depression. For the measures thus far taken, the banking bill, the economy bill, and the beer revenue bill are only the beginning of what has to be done.

The deflationary forces which have been in operation since 1929 became super-deflationary when the banks were closed. With the currency and gold that had been drawn out of the banks hoarded, and with bank deposits immobilized, the effective purchasing power of the country was tremendously reduced. The first task was to restore some part at least of this immobilized purchasing power. There are three steps in that restoration. The first was to provide enough currency to carry on the business of the country at the low level of activity to which it has sunk, to prevent it from shutting down entirely. This is by way of being done through the reopening of the banks.

But it has to be reorganized that this reopening is only partial. There will be banks that do not open at all for the present. In addition the bank that do reopen, though they are able to pay out their deposits, are not in a position to perform adequately the other great function of banking, which is the lending of funds to finance economic enterprise. Because the banks had to pay out enormous sums to depositors, the banks themselves have had to go heavily into debt; because they have to remain as liquid as possible to be ready to meet their depositors' demands, the pressure to restrict credit is likely to be very considerable.

The second step in the restoration, then, is to get the banks out of debt so that they may be able to lend. This is the main reason for calling upon the hoarders to redeposit their gold. As gold is put back in the banks it enables the banks themselves to get out of debt, then to replenish their reserves, and then to begin lending gain. It is not enough, therefore, that the gold hoarders should be appealed to, and threatened. It is equally necessary that the currency hoarders should be appealed to, and, if necessary, threatened. For a man who is hoarding a thousand dollar Federal Reserve note is really hoarding four hundred dollars in gold, since forty per cent of a Federal Reserve note is covered by gold. Morally he is in no better position than the gold hoarder. The situation should be explained to the currency hoarder. He should be made to realize that redeposited money is safe, and then if he does not respond, measures of a more stringent character should be considered.

This brings us to the third step. Since it is necessary not only to protect the depositor but to bring about a resumption of investment and of credit facilities, it is necessary not only to assure the hoarders but the banks and private investors that the integrity of the dollar is to be maintained. For nobody will lend who thinks he will be paid back in worthless currency. This means that the government will not put itself in a position where its own expenditures are out of control and an uncontrolled inflation must result. The decisive action on this point has been taken in the Economy Bill, which provides the most perfect assurance the Administration could possibly offer that it proposes to keep the situation in hand.

Having got this far, where are we? Well, measures have been taken which may be regarded as making the banking system good to the degree in which it operates at all. The reasons for hoarding have been removed. The basic element of confidence in the currency has been provided. All of this may be regarded as the absolutely essential defense against complete rout.

From this position, as it is consolidated, the counter-offensive has to be undertaken. A prime element in that counter-offensive is, of course, the spirit of confidence itself and the conviction that measures will resolutely be pursued designed to stimulate investment, increase purchasing power, and thus raise prices and restore values. Those who are saying that the measures thus far taken do not themselves promise a movement to offset the deflation from which we are suffering are, of course, quite right. But it is impossible to believe that the Administration, confronted with the consequences of the super-deflation, having achieved such astounding political success thus far, will not pause and let the deflationary forces run their course. With the power and prestige it possesses, with the buoyancy of spirit it has aroused, and with the flexibility of means at its command, the Administration can

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—One million bucks. Fifty cents an hour. A thousand a homer. Nothing.

These were a few of the answers to a question—how much should Babe Ruth get this year?—In a poll conducted among the 2,000 jobless residents of Gold Dust Lodge by the Salvation Army. When all the ballots were in and an average struck, it was found that the gentlemen of Gold Dust Lodge, whose present income is $60,000.00, believed that the Yankee slugger should receive $48,999.09 for his 1933 services. This is just $1,000 less than Colonel Jake Ruppert's offer.

In addition to the 1,087 voters whose estimates were included in the average, 18, were of the opinion that Ruth was entitled to "all he can get." Two Gold Dusters answered with "give him $3,000 a year. That's all a man who never has done a useful day's work in his life is worth."

Another chap—Probably an old Red Sox pitcher—wrote "give him nothing and put him in jail." A fellow who signed his slip "just a fan for all sports in all fields of life" was of the opinion that Babe should get $100,000.00, despite "Andrew Carnegie's warning that no man is worth more than $100,000 a year."

One Gold Duster said Ruth hardly fail to proceed deliberately with measures to counteract the extremes of deflation and to aim at a stabilization of prices at a level which is higher than the destructive level to which they have fallen.

should get just what he did last year, and then went on to explain why. "If Ruth's pay is cut," he wrote, "the money will go to Colonel Ruppert, and what does Colonel Ruppert need with money? He's already got millions, and in addition has a brewery where he can sit all day and drink beer if he wants to. I've got no sympathy with a man in that position."

Another one of the questions in the poll was, "In view of the fact baseball owners have cut players' salaries, do you believe they should also cut admission prices?" The great majority of the voters favored a cut in prices, with suggested slashes ranging from 15 to 25 per cent. One fellow, who gave his former occupation as a piano tuner, said that 25 cents should be the top price during hard times.

Two Rackets Undermine Oil Prices President Of Petroleum Institute Declares In Speech To Legislators

Ames Flays 'Hot Oil' And 'Gasoline Tax Evasion' Games, Urges Strict Production Control

AUSTIN (UP)—C. B. Ames of Oklahoma City and New York, president of the American Petroleum Institute, said in a speech to Texas legislators Thursday night that present low prices for oil had resulted from the existence of two oil "rackets."

Ames said the major purchasers were powerless to raise the prices in the face of the "hot oil racket" and the "gasoline tax evasion racket."

The A. P. I. president was spokesman for a group of executives of major purchasing companies. The group appeared at the invitation of the house of representatives, which is considering a number of oil bills.

Other members of the group were J. Edgar Pew of Philadelphia, president of the Sun Oil Company; R. C. Holmes of New York, president of Tidewater Associated; E. G. Seibert of Chicago, president of Stanolind; R. G. A. Van De Woude of St. Louis, president of the Shell; William N. Davis of Bartlesville, vice president of Phillips; W. M. Irish of Philadelphia, vice president of the Atlantic; James Anderson of Houston, vice president of the Humble, and H. R. Straight of Bartlesville, vice president of the Empire.

Might Grow Worse

Ames warned that unless production of excessive oil and gasoline tax evasion were stopped by adequate laws and strict enforcement, conditions in the oil industry might grow worse.

"The states of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and California have 85 per cent of the American production, and they and they alone have the power to cure the troubles of the oil business at their source—production," Ames said.

He suggested that as the biggest oil state Texas had the same kind of an opportunity to lead in the correction of ills of the oil industry as President Roosevelt had done in banking.

As requisites for effective production control, Ames named adequate laws and penalties for violations, valid orders for administration by regulatory bodies, and vigilant watch to see that they are enforced and violators are punished.

Gross Production Tax

The house revenue and taxation committee recommended passage of a bill to change the basis of the gross production tax on crude petroleum. The present tax is 2 per cent of the value at the well. The bill would levy a flat tax of 2 cents a barrel, collectible from the purchaser of the crude oil, regardless of its value.

It was estimated the change to a flat per barrel basis would increase revenues from this source by approximately $2,000,000 over receipts of last year.

The house killed a bill to establish a state board to license architects.

A bill to grant relief to West Texas owners of state-patented oil land was passed by the house. The bill would provide the method of paying to the state school fund the bonus and rentals held to be due the fund by the state supreme court. The court ruled the school fund should receive one-half the bonus and rentals from oil and gas development.

Installment Payment

Land owners would be allowed 20 years in which to pay the indebtedness, but would be charged 4 per cent interest. The bill would apply only to landowners under the state and not to oil companies that had leased the property from the land owners.

The house passed a bill placing a penalty of from $10 to $200 in the law which prohibits the employment of women for more than nine hours daily or 54 hours a week. The penalty provisions had been struck out by the court of criminal appeals.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary Ickes has issued a call to governors of oil producing states to meet in Washington March 27 to consider regulation of overproduction of petroleum products.

The aim of the meeting will be the curbing of oil production so as to benefit all concerned.

14,000 Telegrams Sent To President Roosevelt

WASHINGTON (UP)—A new White House record: Twelve days in office and President Roosevelt has received 14,000 telegrams praising his actions.

And here's a record too: 1,500 telegrams were sent there today to urge supported his veteran's and federal pay cut economy program, while only 39 disappeared.

The peak of this business was reached after the president's address explaining in simple terms what the banking situation was and why.

Santa Fe, N. M. Chief Of Police Succumbs To Gunshot Wounds

SANTA FE, N. M. (UP)—Chief of Police Apolonio Pino, 53, died from bullet wounds suffered in a fight Sunday with Policeman R. E. Burrus. Burrus today was charged with first degree murder.

Burrus has been held at the state penitentiary for safe keeping since Sunday when a threatening crowd gathered at the county jail.

Fugitive From Texas Leaps To Death From Ship

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—A spectacular leap from the United States Fruit Company Steamship Turrialba near the mouth of the Mississippi River, ended in death Thursday for Henry J. Toussaint, fugitive from the Texas penitentiary, where he was serving a life sentence for killing his father.

He leaped, suitcase in hand, apparently intending to flee into the lower Louisiana swamps. A searching party found his body in the river shortly before noon, near Ponte A La Hache.

Although he boarded the ship voluntarily at Tela, Honduras, ship officers said Toussaint showed signs of uneasiness as the vessel neared port. He was traveling as a regular passenger, unescorted. It was believed he may have thought the ship would stop at Havana, where he could escape again.

Two weeks ago he was deported from Panama, where he had been making his home after escaping from the Texas prison in 1928. When the boat stopped at Tela, he walked ashore and remained hidden until the boat had sailed. It was thought then he had fled into the mountainous jungles of interior Honduras.

Two New Orleans detectives met the Turrialba when it docked at quarantine to arrest Toussaint, a former Harvard student and formerly engaged in engineering work in Panama. Superintendent of Police George Meyer said he had a request from Texas authorities to hold Toussaint for them.

Railroad To Abolish Pool

Surcharge Distribution For Weaker Carriers Abandoned

NEW YORK (UP)—The railroads have decided to abolish the pooling plan under which freight surcharges have been collected and distributed for the benefit of weaker carriers. It was learned after a meeting of the Eastern railway president's conference.

In a decision March 13 the interstate commerce commission ruled the railroads be allowed to continue collecting the present emergency freight rates by extending the date of their application to Sept. 30, 1933. The were to have expired March 31.

Leading Proceeds

At the same time the commission recommended the carriers to continue to lead the surcharge proceeds to meet railroad interest charges. But the railroads have found it impossible to accept this suggestion and it is believed the railroad credit corporation, the distribution machine through which the surcharges have been allocated, will be abolished as soon as feasible, it was learned.

Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives, already has advised the commission of the railroads' attitude. It was reported.

The original decision of the commission authorized surcharges to take effect January 2, 1932, but ordered the railroads to pool such charges for the aid of the weaker carriers. Approximately $60,000,000 was collected under the pooling plan of last year.

City Of Wheeling, W. Va., Is Flooded

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP)—Wheeling was flooded Thursday with the Ohio river standing at 45 feet.

Boats were used as transportation for nearly a quarter of the city. Street car service was suspended except in one district. At least one thousand homes were under water and water was creeping into the central part of the city.

Personally Speaking

Rev. W. D. Hall is visiting the Assembly of God churches as preacher in Lubbock, Levelland and Morton. He will return Saturday.

Two bus loads of Elbow school children attended the Thursday morning service of the revival conducted by Dr. George W. Truett.

Miss Woodie Mae Anderson, state rural school inspector, plans to leave Friday for Lamesa where she will be located for the next two weeks.

Kitchen At City Welfare Building For Kiddies Only

Misapprehension of the purpose for which a kitchen has been equipped at city welfare headquarters in the old city hall building by Mrs. F. C. Scott, welfare worker, has been noted, she said Thursday.

The kitchen was put into use not for the purpose of conducting a "bread line" or "public soup kitchen" but to care for children who are under-nourished, said Mrs. Scott.

Records are kept on all children fed there, including their physical condition and other pertinent data. The plan was adopted by Mrs. Scott, she said, to protect a number of small children whose health was threatened because they could not or did not receive sufficient food at home, she declared. The plan is meeting with good success, she added.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The foreign relations committee Thursday ordered favorably reported to the senate for consideration the nomination of Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina, to be ambassador to Mexico; Jesse I. Don't Smother Body Odor End It!

No telltale M. S. to offend
(MEDICINE SELL)

New deep-pore cleansing now reaches and instantly removes stale perspiration curds. Good-bye, strong-smelling soaps!

CRUEL and unusual punishment is forbidden by the Constitution. And yet—millions of people still punish their friends by smothering body odor with an equally offensive medicine smell!

Now happily the cause of body odor—stale perspiration curds—has been discovered. And research chemists have developed a quick and odorless way to end it instantly. Stale perspiration contains calcium, salt and particles of fat. The thick and sticky lather of most ordinary toilet soaps is unsuited chemically to mix with this waste material and disperse it. Instead, it hardens into clogging curds!

That's why deep-pore cleansing is needed to remove the objectionable curds—and it is a scientific fact that there is only one way to accomplish this. Kirk's Coco Castile—being a 100% pure vegetable oil soap—mixes with the particles of perspiration curds, loosens them, then rinses out completely. Try Kirk's Coco Castile today. Feel the invigorating effect of its deep-pore cleansing action. Experience the thrill of a clean, odorless body. The cake is half again larger, half again heavier than average toilet soaps—an exceptional bargain. It is made by the largest soap makers in America. Be sure to ask for Kirk's by name.

One I Love

By LAURA LOU BROCKMAN

CHAPTER X

It seemed to Janet that she had been thinking of Rolf and no one or anything else but Rolf since the day she had last seen him, the day their engagement had come to an end. But when she came face to face with him again Rolf Carlyle was far from her thoughts.

It was on the Saturday following her trip to the movies with Mollie. Janet was in front of the Brewster Hotel. By odd coincidence it was almost exactly the same place where she had seen Rolf with Betty Kendall on that other Saturday.

It happened this way. Janet had had a very special task to perform that morning. Bruce Hamilton was out of town. He had departed unexpectedly the day before, making hurried preparations. In the midst of half an hour of rapid fire dictation Hamilton had suddenly stopped short.

"Good Lord!" he exclaimed. "I forgot about Miss Graham!" Janet knew about Miss Graham. She was an important member of the advertising staff of Fisher-Looms, Inc.—one of Every Home's best clients.

Miss Graham was coming to Lancaster to arrange some demonstrations of Fisher products. Very high type demonstrations with educational value. The plan was to persuade one of the local women's organizations to sponsor the affair. Since Fisher-Looms had been buying a page of space in every issue of Every Home magazine for more than six months and there would be a new contract to discuss before long it certainly behooved Bruce Hamilton, the magazine's advertising manager, to show Miss Graham every courtesy.

"She gets in Saturday morning," Hamilton said. "I was to have lunch with her." He paused, frowning at the mental ink stand before him, and tapped his desk meditatively.

There were several moments of silence. Then all at once he exclaimed, "See here—how's this? Why can't you go to see Miss Graham and take her to lunch?"

"But, Mr. Hamilton—!" He was smiling. "You'll like her." Hamilton assured the girl. "And you can do it, too. Tell her why I couldn't make it. Tell her I'll give her a ring Monday morning and arrange to see her later."

"You see," he went on, eyeing Janet. "If you don't go I'll have to ask Dawson. Somebody's got to be there. If Chambers was here he'd take care of it but he isn't here—and Dawson puts his fingers into this department too much as it is. Don't say anything to Miss Graham about the new contract. I'll take care of all that. Tell her we want to be helpful in every way we can—"

And thus Janet Hill found herself lunching at the Brewster Coffee Shop Saturday noon. She had never been in the hotel before but Miss Graham was stopping there. Janet thought Miss Graham was one of the most attractive women she had ever seen. She marveled that such a beauty should want to devote her days to figuring prices, okaying proofs, discussing column inches—all the dull routine of business in an advertising office. Miss Graham, however, didn't seem to think it dull business. She asked questions about Lancaster and talked gayly, interestingly of other cities she had visited.

Janet was fascinated. She was so interested in all Miss Graham said that the excitement of lunching at the Brewster was forgotten. Over the coffee and dessert they sat talking until suddenly Janet realized how late it was getting. She offered excuses, smiled and blushed when the older woman paid her a compliment and said goodbye.

She had carried out Mr. Hamilton's instructions exactly as he had said. It gave Janet a pleasant feeling of importance to have had a part in dealing with one of the magazine's clients. It made her feel that she was more than just a secretary who typed letters, answered telephone calls and took care of Mr. Hamilton's appointments.

"If I could only be like she is some day," Janet thought, "working wouldn't be so bad."

She was thinking of the becoming suit and handsome fox scarf Miss Graham had worn, the distinctive way her short, dark hair laid back from her face. What was that Miss Graham had said about the little town in Mexico?

Janet pushed through the hotel door out to the street. She turned and almost walked into someone. A tall man in a gray topcoat started. Janet stepped back. "Oh, excuse me—" she began with a little embarrassed laugh and then stopped. Her face drained of color.

It was Rolf Carlyle. He stood looking down at her and he said, "Why—Janet!" in a voice that was not quite steady. It might have been surprise or emotion that gave the words that unnatural sound.

"Why, Janet!" Rolf said and then added, "Sorry, I didn't see you—"

"I guess I wasn't looking where I was going," the girl said quickly. Her composure had returned. "How are you, Rolf?"

"Oh, I'm all right. It was sort of a surprise meeting you like this."

"Yes, it was." Neither of them spoke for a moment. Then Rolf said, flushing slightly, "Which way are you going?"

Did he wonder why she happened to be coming from the Brewster Hotel? Janet failed to enlighten him. It was Saturday afternoon and she was not due back at the office but for some reason she didn't want to tell Rolf that. She didn't want him to think she had nothing to do with a half-holiday but go home and stay there now that she was no longer engaged to him. For an instant she considered pretending that she had a date. Then she said, "I have to do some shopping. I'm on my way to Landings."

Landings was the town's largest department store. "Going that way myself. Mind if I walk along?"

"Why no. Of course not."

They walked the length of the block. Rolf spoke of the weather which was pleasant and said that spring certainly would be there almost any day now. Janet agreed, adding that some of the shrubs in the park were beginning to show buds. Rolf, with a slight air of self-satisfaction, told her he was handling a new "account." It was a good one. He went on to mention some trivial office gossip.

Janet's face was as festive as mask. No one would have guessed to look at her that her heart was pounding feverishly, that her hands in their neat black gloves were like ice. The color that had left her face at the surprise encounter came flooding back and her heart was singing with excitement.

But at Rolf's mention of the Atlas Advertising office that singing ceased abruptly. Janet spoke before she could check the words. "I understand you have a new girl in your office, Miss Kendall?"

"Oh, yes," Rolf's tone was casual. If Betty Kendall's name had any special significance for him he did not betray it. "She's D. R.'s niece—may be you know that. Doesn't know anything about writing ads, of course, but I suppose she can learn."

"She's very pretty," Janet said. "I saw her picture in the Times."

Huge Unemployment Relief And Public Works Program Planned

WASHINGTON (UP)—A comprehensive $2,500,000,000 unemployment relief and public works program now is the objective of the Roosevelt administration, it was disclosed by Senator Wagner, Dem., N. Y., who is cooperating in drafting it.

President Roosevelt was expected to confer at the White House Wednesday night with Wagner and other senators on details of the program.

As tentatively outlined by Wagner the program would include:

1. $1,000,000,000 for self-liquidating projects in states and municipalities.
2. $500,000,000 for a federal public works program.
3. $500,000,000 for reforestation.

Apparently Rolf thought this statement needed no comment. There was something he wanted to say and it did not seem to come easily. They had reached a corner where the only building was set back from the street. There was no one else near. Rolf slowed his step and said, "Listen, Janet, I want you to know I'm sorry about the other night. We shouldn't have quarreled that way. I mean I wish we could be friends—"

She looked at him swiftly. The young man's eyes were straight ahead.

Janet's own voice sounded hushed and a trifle breathless. "I'm sorry, too," she said. "I didn't mean all those things I said. I shouldn't have said them. Only—well, I guess I misunderstood. I thought you were in love with that other girl. With Betty Kendall. Oh, Rolf, these two weeks have been terrible! I couldn't eat or sleep or anything. I've wanted to talk to you! I've wanted to tell you I don't feel the way I did about getting married."

I mean I was wrong. We don't need to wait until we've saved $500. We don't need to wait at all. I'll marry you any time. Today! This very afternoon if you say so!"

She stopped, suddenly alarmed. (To Be Continued)

Saturday Night— "Beer by Saturday night" is the senary at the Capital. The beer bill will be rushed through both Houses immediately following the economy bill.

Broadway— The Senate galleries during the consideration of the economy bill looked like a Broadway picture house at a holiday performance. They were packed to the doors, people standing in the aisles, and long cues waiting to get in.

MORE—MORE J J J NEW YORK By James McMillan

Banks— Congressmen and others who have been worrying for fear the solution of the banking crisis meant that the New York bankers would come out of it with a stranglehold on the nation's financial system, can put their minds at rest. Nothing could be further from the true prospects.

In fact the New York bankers have never in their history been so completely on the outside looking in. They hung around all day Sunday with bated breath to know who was going to be allowed to reopen. As a final gesture to show who was boss, the Federal Reserve withheld information on licenses even from the biggest banks until 10:19 Sunday evening.

There was poetic justice in the fact that the bankers—who have so often high-hatted newspaper men—had to get their information about Washington events in the last days of the holiday from the reporters themselves.

Officers of the applying institutions were present in most cases but a few banks had sent messengers. The social equilibrium was restored when word was passed out from the sanctum that the precious slips would be handed to officers only.

The licenses were distributed the moment the President had finished speaking. There was no alphabetical sequence but those having friendly relations with the Federal Reserve Bank were relieved of their anxieties earliest.

The only break the New York banks expect to get is an extension of branch banking privileges. That will be so hedged with stricter supervision there will be no chance for carefree exploitation.

The reports you hear about deposits exceeding withdrawals on the first day of New York's reopening are thoroughly authentic. Several leading banks had to open extra windows for receiving deposits. Withdrawals were about normal for the first day.

Chances of further trouble are very slim. If it should occur the banks have an ace in the hole. They are forbidden to permit withdrawals for hoarding purposes—and it is left to the judgment of each individual bank as to what constitutes hoarding. Application of the ruling has been rare to date but it provides an effective emergency brake.

It would have been a boost to public confidence if the statements as of the close of business on March 3rd which the New York City banks had to submit to the authorities in order to get their licenses for reopening could have been published. One bank showed a liquidity of 87% and, if capital items are deducted, of 114%. That bank was by no means an exception. The total amount of currency required and received by member banks in Greater New York from the Federal Reserve Bank on Monday morning was smaller than on an ordinary payroll day (Thursdays and Fridays).

Write-Offs— The best estimates here indicate that about $8,000,000,000 of the $42,000,000,000 total deposits in the nation will be tied up in banks that are not permitted to reopen.

About the only apprehension the banks have left is that the liquidation of the assets of unopened banks might depress the value of security holdings of sound banks. But Treasury control over the conservators is expected to forestall any serious problems on this line.

Investigation— Insiders here anticipate resumption of the Senate investigation within two or three weeks. This will be done on Senate initiative—the President will probably neither ask for nor block it. Banks with one possible exception will be left alone. The target will be some of the biggest figures in the financial world and a new angle of attack will be tried on the Stock Exchange. This bomb doesn't look like a dud.

Stock Exchange— Meanwhile Exchange authorities continue to be ever so helpful. The latest move is to relax restrictions to enable members to give a boost to Treasury financing.

The main consideration about reopening the Exchange from the Government angle is said to be assurance that the market will not open with a sharp break in prices. Bootleg transactions have indicated a downward tendency. If necessary rigid minimum price restrictions will be clamped on.

Mexican People Topic Of Speech By Prof. Hutto

Mexican dishes are not Mexican but Indian, John R. Hutto disclosed to Lions Friday in a brief discussion of Mexicans. Mr. Hutto is principal of the public schools for Mexicans.

Hutto explained why the average Mexican is much more gifted in the arts than the American. This is because the Mexican culture and civilization antedates that of this country by at least 1,000 years, he said.

"While our forebears were invading the island now called England, these people were in the midst of a civilization that equaled that of ancient Egypt," he stated. In a terse sketch he recalled the cultures existing from the Mayas to the Aztecs, and pointed out the beginning of the Mexican people when Cortez burned his ships behind his men at Vera Cruz and set about conquering Mexico. Intermarriage between the Spanish soldiers and Indians produced the Mexicans, he said.

He struck at the contention that the most intelligent class in Mexico was predominantly Spanish. "The outstanding statesman Mexico has produced did not have a drop of Spanish blood in his veins," declared the speaker.

Hutto paid tribute to the courteous and gentilities displayed by Mexicans, saying they were a better mannered people in that respect than the average American.

He then played two numbers on the piano, and Carl Young sang "At the End of a Cobblestone Road," carrying out the Saint Patrick's day theme. He led, with Mrs. J. H. Kirkpatrick accompanying in a novelty number.

On the suggestion of Leon J. E. Payne, another voter unanimously to support vigorously a drum and bugle corps of Mexican Boy Scouts a troop sponsored by the club. The club officially launched its campaign for the district Lions convention in 1934. It is being held in Amarillo this spring, Big Spring having lost by a single vote margin last year.

Saint Patrick's Day Observed By Irish Everywhere

From the humble hod carrier to the police commissioner, Irish to the world over celebrate Saint Patrick's day Friday.

Sure, and it was Saint Patrick that was a chaunt the snakes out from the old country about fifteen centuries ago, these delightful Celtic people tell you.

However the patron saint of Erin was neither Irish, nor did he banish snakes from the Emerald Isle, historians avow.

Rather, Saint Patrick was of Roman ancestry, born in Scotland and later a Christian missionary to Ireland. The popular saying that St. Patrick drove the snakes out of Ireland is peculiar, as snakes never existed in that island.

It is 330 feet from the north and east lines of section 15, block 20, township 1 south, T. & P. survey. The Midcontinent company has staked location for a north offset to the F. H. E. well, between it and Mid-Continent's Denman producer.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stocks reacted under profit-taking Friday while grain prices again advanced. Cotton was moderately lower after Thursday's sharp advance. Bonds were steady but rather dull.

All grains opened higher at Chicago. Barley advanced three cents, wheat started at one and five-eighths up, and corn eight to two cents up.

Cellar Dug By Landreth For Test In Ector

Location One Mile East Of Landreth's Holt Producer

Cellar is being dug by Landreth Production Co. of Fort Worth for the test it will drill jointly with the Texas Co. on the latter's acreage in northern Ector county.

The operation will be Landreth-Texas No. 1 Holt, 660 feet out of the southwest corner of the southeast quarter of section 13, block 43, township 1 north, T & P Ry. Co. survey. The Texas Co. assigned to Landreth a half interest in the quarter section for the drilling of the test and will furnish the 6 5/8 inch pipe.

The location is one mile east of Landreth No. 1 Holt, which was completed recently at 627 feet, flowing 110 barrels of oil daily and is three miles slightly west of south of Southern Crude Oil Purchasing Co.'s two producers on the Dick Cowden ranch.

Eppenaer Drilling Co. of San Angelo Tuesday set a whipstock to drill by a rock bit lost Feb. 18 at 3,647 feet in line in Sta. 1nd's No. 1 Elliott Cowden. This followed recovery of the second bit, which was lost ten days ago while trying to drill by the first bit and lubricator in the cemented hole.

The test is 320 feet from the south line and 1,320 feet from the west line of section 26, block 43, township 2 south, T & P Ry. Co. survey and is a north offset to L. C. Harrison and others No. 1 F. V. Addis estate. No. 1 Addis last November obtained production that indicated the opening of Ector county's third pool.

Big Spring Not To Enter Track Meet

Contrary to an announcement published in the San Angelo newspaper, Big Spring will not be an entry in the Range Country Track and Field Meet to be held in Barnhart Saturday.

Head of the local team entered, they would have been defending champions of the L. Q. Sparks senior trophy which was won by the Steer tracksters the past season. For permanent possession, it is necessary to win three times in succession.

Competing in the state basketball tournament at Austin, March 10-11 caused the track aspirants to get a late start. Under the tutelage of Obie Bristow, a small group has been reporting to the site of the old airport in Washington Place for the past three days, conditioning for the cinder path. However there hasn't been any rush, only twelve ambitious youths reporting Thursday afternoon, and from the looks of things, the boys will need plenty of practice to constitute a dangerous menace. The late start makes it impossible for the Steers to take part in any early events.

For quite a while a tumor has been circulating to effect that a 440-yard relay had been substituted for the javelin, but a report comes from Roy B. Henderson, Athletic Director of the Interscholastic League, informing coaches that no such change has been made.

Emergency School Committee To Meet

The emergency school committee appointed by the president of the Chamber of Commerce will hold its first meeting Saturday 11 a. m. to consider purely the state aspect of problems confronting the schools.

Consideration will be confined to two points, sources of income and economies in administration of institutions of higher learning. The committee held a preliminary meeting Thursday afternoon.

Only Car Theft During Revival Occurs Last Night, Officers Report

W. L. Sandridge fell victim to the only car theft perpetrated during the course of the recent revival conducted by Rev. George W. Truett.

On the last evening of the revival, car thieves took a 1928 Chevrolet and annually conduct a summer coaching school, rang the bell again Thursday when they announced the signing of Andy Kerr as a member of the football faculty for this year's school, July 31 to Aug. 12.

Kerr's head coach at Colgate University, Hamilton, N. Y. His team was untied and undefeated last season. Kerr will give to the Tech School his theories on the double wing back style of offense, which he teaches. Harry Kiple, head coach at the University of Michigan, and Bernie Bierman, head coach at the University of Minnesota, are other members of the football faculty. Directors of courses in basket ball, track, physical education, treatment of injuries and organization of athletics will be announced later and the Tech chiefs are confident they'll have the best balanced school in the country.

First Methodist Services Begin Sunday Morning

The First Methodist Church continues the evangelistic work so magnificently launched by Dr. Truett's presence in Big Spring, by a week of evangelistic services, beginning Sunday morning with the pastor, Dr. J. Richard Spann, preaching, and Rev. C. R. Hooten, pastor of the Methodist church, Stamford, directing the singing.

Sunday morning sermon at 11 o'clock will be "Christianity's Frozen Assets." At 7:45, at the evening time, the sermon theme will be "A Vital Religion." Everyone is cordially invited to share in these services.

Week-day morning services will be at 10 to 11 o'clock.

The Men's Bible class of the First Methodist Church, which has been growing steadily in recent months, offers a delightful hour of helpful worship and fellowship, in addition to a challenging message which the pastor brings to the men from Sunday to Sunday. Next Sunday's lesson theme is, "One of Man's Ancient Enemies in Modern Dress."

Breezy Version Of Earthquake Given In Letter Received Here

Bob Swartz, Compton, California nephew of Rhea Gravens has a breezy version of the earthquake extending along the west coast last week end.

"Speaking of the tremors following the terrific shock which all but leveled the Compton business district, Swartz says, "I have the screens off my windows and if they get too rough all I gotta do is just step outside and let 'em shake."

Looking back he says since "the big shock we have had one or two smaller ones every hour and they sure get on your nerves, cause you never know just how big they are gonna get."

All deaths at Compton occurred in the business district and, adds Swartz, "there is hardly a building down there that doesn't have to be torn down, if it isn't already down." According to him, there was practically no damage in the residential section, some houses being moved a foot or so.

And in the same carefree style, he describes martial law and the sailors with "guns that look like cannons."

Acuff Becomes Leader Of Scout Troop No. 3

Scoutmaster and troop committee of Troop No. 3 and the Area Executive Williamson conferred Thursday evening to consider resignation of R. A. McDaniel as scoutmaster.

McDaniel gave up his position because of lack of time, being succeeded by Loy Acuff, assistant scoutmaster.

Dr. Lee O. Rogers and Jack Cummings were appointed to aid Acuff in running the troop in an effort to induct into the program more advancement, camping, and efficient operation of the patrol system.

Services Tonight And Saturday At Baptist Churches

"Though Dr. Truett has gone home, the meeting will continue tonight and Saturday night at the First Baptist church, as well as the West Side and East Fourth Street Baptist churches," Rev. R. E. Day, pastor of the First Baptist church, said Friday.

"I am asking all who have given their names for membership in the First Baptist church to be present tonight if at all possible," he said. "Everyone who is already a member will be present if conditions permit and the public as a whole is most cordially invited to be with us. The subject for Friday night will be "The Importance of Moving Everything When We Move."

East Fourth Baptists To Continue Services

The East Fourth Street Baptist church will continue services tonight, tomorrow night and through Sunday.

Pastor Woodie W. Smith will preach. His subject this evening will be "The Nine-Fold Description of Christ" and Saturday evening: "The Six Mysteries of Godliness." Sunday morning theme will be: "The Five Elements in Redemption" and Sunday evening: "The Cross."
