Strangers Here Find Foothill Shangri-La

MATADOR is going to have some new citizens. They are Mr. and Mrs. William Wise of Albany, Ga. and their family. Mr. Wise was the driver of the cattle truck which turned over on a curve west of town Saturday.

"These are the most wonderful people in the world," Mr. Wise said of Matador citizens after the accident. "I did not know there was a place in the world like this," he added.

Mrs. Wise, speaking from her hospital bed, said: "I would not even go home if we had the children here."

"We are going to move here," Wise said. "I want to live here. I can get a job driving a truck out of Lubbock, or some other town, and make Matador my home."

Shortly after the accident Arvel Wootley provided Mr. Wise with a jacket, took him home for coffee, and offered to drive him anywhere. Mrs. Givens Lawrence gathered the couple's clothing, washing and ironing it. Max Barton provided feed and water for the cattle. TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR
Now retired from politics and state office, a Democratic leader says his party has many things in its favor, the greatest being the stupidity of Republican campaign planners. He is convinced the GOP could have elected Bush over Benson if the planners had not tried to elect an entire slate, including the office of Governor. "They got the Democrats stirred up," he said.

It is getting more difficult to understand what the eyes behold. During a sandstorm two windmills of the same make across the road from each other and a short distance apart, were not pointed in the same direction. If you can't believe a windmill, a lot of room remains for other doubts.

Much of the debris that tears can wash away will lodge somewhere further down the stream.

Age produces a certain desperation that may blight the fruit of pleasure before it has a chance to mature.

Strength may be the ability to control a weakness until it is consumed in its own juices and jellies into a trait of pleasant personality.

The art of postponing some things which are cankered with dread, until they can no longer achieve their original purpose, is a secret which many happy people keep to themselves.

Part of the wisdom of the ancients must be credited to the easy reach of solitude which was at their convenience.

Keeping a large circle of friends depends on treating each one squarely.

SCHOOL PROGRAMS HONOR VETERANS

Veterans of four wars were honored yesterday (Veterans Day) in county school programs. At an assembly here in the school auditorium Supt. Charles Johnson was master of ceremonies, with invocation by Coach Stan Irvine, singing of America led by J. R. Whitworth, pledge of allegiance led by Clarence Woosley and address by Minister Woodrow Pringle of the Matador Church of Christ.

Minister Pringle (himself a Purple Heart veteran) told his listeners that America was in danger of losing its precious freedom, and that the nation was following the path of great nations which have decayed. He urged his audience to turn back to God, to obey the law and respect authority. "Veterans of past wars have made possible the freedoms we know today," he declared.

At Roaring Springs, Principal Billy Pierce served as master of ceremonies. Pledge of allegiance was led by Tim Brooks and the Veterans Day address was made by Pat Peacock.

A list of deceased Roaring Springs veterans was read and veterans from four wars, WWI, WWII, Korean and Viet Nam were recognized. About 25 veterans, including six from World War I, were present. A film on the D Day landing concluded the program.

Pat Peacock made an inspiring address on patriotism and great freedoms of the United States. His father Bill Peacock, is a veteran of World War II and the Korean War.

A similar program was planned for the Flomot school in a joint observance by the VFW and American Legion.

Said Art Albracht, Staff Writer for the Amarillo Daily News: "...the Matadors enjoyed a double dividend as a result - taking over the top spot in Class B and the District 3-B leadership."

The Matadors' outstanding defense took the play away from the Longhorns when they recovered 6 fumbles and caused a Longhorn loss of yardage throughout the game. Alert Randy Cook recovered four Longhorn fumbles, while Bobby Simpson, Robert Elliott and Gerald Jackson pounced on one each. The half ended 0-0.

The Matadors permitted only one touchdown when Lazbuddie's Charles Lee in the third quarter went over from the one yard line and also carried the two point conversion run.

Fourth quarter and the Matadors' offense was aroused when Quarterback Bill Barnhill ran 51 yards and shot a scoring pass to flying receiver Andy Green. The conversion try was unsuccessful. Halfback Donnie Jackson captured a pass for 62 yds. at the Longhorns' end zone. Not to be denied a winning score, Matador pilot Barnhill flew past the Longhorns' defense and scored unopposed from the 4-yard line. Halfback Jackson stuck to his gifted running for a pass going over for the extra points for the final 14-8 score.

Offensively Barnhill led the Matador runners with 83 yards and fullback Robert Elliott sped for 70 yards. The Matadors netted 258 yards to the Longhorns' 253.
