Fake

The Hitler government has been caught in a somewhat serious case of propaganda faking involving a United States Senator. Evidence concerning it is now being gathered by proper authorities here. It may prove to be important because Mr. Hitler is making a policy to lambast the American press at every opportunity. Our correspondents in Berlin have even been boycotted by the Brown Shirts.

This case may afford a keener little way to persuade Mr. Hitler to confine his dictatorship to his own people.

The Senator involved is Borah, former chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. All he knows is that the Associated Press have called him one night about March 23. It read to him an interview published in German newspapers that day and attributed to him. The interview had been called back to the A. P. here from its Berlin office.

In it Borah was quoted as saying Mr. Hitler was one of the finest men who ever lived; that Hitler's revolution was a fine thing for the German people; that he thoroughly approved of German policies.

The Senator told the A. P. it was a pure fake from start to finish. Consequently it was never published in this country. But the German people still believe it.

Anyone who knows Borah and his policies will never doubt for a minute that the propaganda was pure invention. It was a fraudulent attempt to use his popularity in Germany to promote Hitler with his own countrymen.

Borah does not know it yet, but the man who sent the interview to Germany was Dr. Halfeld. And Dr. Halfeld is in this country on a private mission for his employer the Minister of Economics Hugenberg in the Hitler Cabinet.

It is Hugenberg's job to see that the German papers present daily songs of praise for Herr Hitler. Any newspaper which does anything else over there is put out of business.

The A. P. is in no way to blame in the incident. It did not publish the interview and had nothing to do with it, except to get the tip on it from Germany.

Borah remembers that shortly before the interview was published a German who spoke very broken English came to his office. He could not understand his caller and apparently spoke no more than two words as he was leaving.

China—The Japs have quietly jockeyed themselves into a strategic military position where they can sweep thru North China whenever they choose.

Indulging in an evening of festivities prior to a day of serious consideration of a dozen prominent speakers, legionnaires of the 16th district inaugurated their annual convention here Saturday afternoon.

Registrations early in the afternoon gave indications of an unusually large crowd in attendance. Eighty-four had been signed shortly before 5 p. m. and the Sweetwater delegation, backed by its band, had not appeared at headquarters although the musicians marched through the city.

Feature of the day was the colorful parade which swagged through the business district soon after 8 p. m.

Led by the Sweetwater band, legionnaires, the parade moved down the streets behind the national and legion colors. Veterans of Foreign Wars joined in the march. The Garden City band under the direction of G. A. Hartman and the Mexican Boy Scout drum and bugle corps tutored by Fred Drew added zest to the affair.

At 9 p. m. delegates and members of the local post were standing by for two dances, one to be given at the Casino and the other and the official one at the Settles hotel.

Sunday, the big day of the convention, will open at 9:30 a. m. with a business session. Appointment of a resolution committee will be effected in the session which will adjourn at 10:50 a. m. when Fred Drew blows church call from atop the Settles hotel.

An impressive military church service has been arranged, with two speakers proceeding Rev. W. G. Buschacher, who will bring the message.

In the afternoon a galaxy of noted legionnaires and talented speakers will address the final assembly of the convention. The public is invited to the Sunday sessions.

Among those to speak are Carl Nesbit, state commander, Col. Bill Eastwood, national vice commander, Earl Eastry, past state commander, J. H. Graves, department commander of Arkansas, George Broome, national committee man, Shrimp Murphy and George Hughes, department adjutants, and E. Pat LaTouche, district commander from Houston. Van Perkins, Cameron, and candidate for the state commandery was to be here for the convention.

Casey's Trial Ticket Sales Are Started

Contest Conducted Among Various Organizations

Ticket sales for the comedy "Casey's Trial," to be given to supplement a local convention fund to be used in entertaining the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention were under way with contest drawings Saturday.

Edward Lowe, representing the Kiwanis club, Mrs. Jess Slaughter for South Ward P. T. A. Club, Mrs. W. J. McDonald for the Methodist ladies, Mrs. J. T. Allen for the four brotherhood auxiliaries, Mrs. J. L. Thomas for the Presbyterian ladies, Mrs. W. J. McDonald for the City Federation, and Mrs. Pauline C. Brigham for rural schools were given tickets to be distributed for the event.

Under the rules each organization entered will be eligible for the prize of $100 after selling as many as 100 tickets. Organizations selling the greatest number will get the award which will be graduated upward with total ticket sales.

Garden City Band Members Measured For New Uniforms

Twenty-eight members of the Garden City band were measured last week for new uniforms, Director G. A. Hartman said Saturday. The uniforms, to be made by a Texas concern, will be of the convertible type giving the band two uniforms in reality. They will be delivered by May 1, Hartman declared.

The band will participate in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention here May 11, 12, 13, it was announced.

Ten Million Dollar Refining Plant May Be Built At Houston

HOUSTON (AP)—Indications that the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company will build a Houston refinery costing approximately $10,000,000 multiply despite the reticence of company officials in revealing their plans.

It was learned upon reliable authority that a 100-acre tract on the ship channel now occupied by the Crown Central Petroleum Corporation refinery has been chosen as the site for the new plant.

Other indications were: Three 80,000-barrel storage tanks were being moved by Crown Central from the Winkler field, West Texas, to its Houston refinery. Extensive oil storage facilities at the Crown Central plant, formerly leased to other concerns, now are leased only for short periods.

The chamber of commerce learned that the Kellogg Company of Jersey City, large manufacturers of refinery equipment, is now at work on an order for equipment placed by Pan American.

Herbert S. Lane, vice president of Crown Central, declined to confirm or deny the rumors which have been prevalent for weeks.

Additional Tax Favored By Majority

Educators And Legislator Tangle Before Crowd Of 500

Representatives of 21 counties in a conference on public school financial problems here Saturday split into two well-defined sections at conclusion of the meeting when resolutions recommended by a committee including one representative of each county was put to a vote. Result was that proponents of the committee report, practically all of whom were teachers, easily gained adoption of an item asking an additional tax to be provided as temporary emergency relief for the schools.

The minority of the resolutions committee, consisting of the five members not teachers, urged abolition of the emergency tax provision, which suggested that a luxury sales tax and a graduated income tax be used to furnish additional revenue.

The meeting developed a general discussion of public school finances from two viewpoints; those of the educator, and of the legislator and business man.

Fernando E. Metcalfe, representative in the lower house from this district, differed sharply with State Superintendent L. A. Woods and H. W. Stillwell, president of the Texas State Teachers Association, who in the morning session declared that the proposition was simply "no more taxes and no schools next year or more taxes and open schools."

Senator A. P. Dunham, representing this, the 30th district, reviewed what he termed inequalities in distribution of per capita apportionment and rural school aid. He said that West Texas paid more into state school funds than it receives while other sections receive considerably more than they pay.

He urged that the state department of education, and not the department of education, and contended that such procedure would provide sufficient funds to maintain the schools next year through a normal session.

Other resolutions in addition to the tax recommendation the meeting, aimed at by more than 500 persons, most of them teachers and trustees, adopted the following resolutions:

1. Urging that special emphasis and effort be placed upon collection of taxes, already assessed and that delinquent steps be taken to make efficient evaluation of tax payment and the suspension of penalties on delinquent taxes be eliminated.

2. That the present $72.00 per capita apportionment should be maintained even at a sacrifice, temporarily, of other state departments.

3. Urging larger economic units of public school administration, thus reducing overhead administration cost and increasing efficiency in education, without additional taxation.

4. That 6-year-old children be left on the school rolls as schoolchildren.

5. That per capita apportionment be based on enrollment of the schoolchildren.

"Some of us look at education problems in one light and some another," said Mr. Metcalfe. "I preferred this session of the light with the determination in such reductions in expenditures were really hurt. The house has cut appropriations for some departments as much as fifty per cent. The senate has struck an average of 25 per cent for reductions."

He referred to the report of the state auditor for the past biennium. It showed, he said, that after payments...

Notoriety Breaks Over Head Of Girl From Gutter, Who Gains Fame

Judy Carroll didn't need a press agent to get her name and picture in the paper—she needed one to keep it off the front page and out of the scare headlines!

No performance of her most popular play ever stood them up as on the day she testified in the criminal court in the embelishment trial of Commissioner Howard. Her nose and cleverness never deserted her until the District Attorney asked if the Commissioner wasn't the father of the child she was about to adopt.

This notoriety breaks loose around Judy Carroll, portrayed by

Eddie Cantor Comes To R & R Ritz Theater Saturday Evening April 22 In New Film, 'The Kid From Spain'

'Ex-Lady' With Bette Davis At Ritz Thursday

Gene Raymond Leading Man; New York's Artistic Set Reviewed

"The Kid from Spain," Eddie Cantor's third and best starring vehicle for Samuel Goldwyn, opens at Ritz Theatre as a midnight matinee, Saturday, April 22 and presents the pop-eyed comedian in what he sincerely believes is his greatest offering to the cause of amusement.

This picture continues Cantor's plans with Goldwyn of one film a year. Last year there was "Palmy Days" and the season before, "Whoopee," but, successful as those were, Eddie believes he has more than topped them with "The Kid from Spain."

In other words, this is Eddie's annual screen song-and-dance comedy. It is the story of a button-eyed lad, who, getting kicked out of school with his roommate for suspicious goings-on in a girls' dormitory, gets involved in a bank robbery and escapes to Mexico disguised as a prominent bullfighter. There accepting the acclaim due to the man he is impersonating until forced to go into a real bullfight.

Gray Love Public Nonsense and song make up most of the picture and make of it a gay, romantic fable of love, shot through with dark, smiling eyes and matadors. The story itself is Eddie's own idea, but its elaboration was done by Mr. Goldwyn. He brought in William Anthony McGuire, Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby to write the book and music; and by so doing he got the story, which he believed served the purpose.

He made tests for several weeks in the selection of his heroine, and he made other tests for other

Constance Bennett in "Rockabye," RKO-Pathé picture in which Joel McCrea and Paul Lukas are featured in support Tuesday and Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

How was that notoriety to affect her career? Would the public like her in a new play called "Rockabye" in which she would portray a girl of the gutters rising to fame? Could she, too, convincingly play such a role, or not at all?

Jack Pell, author of "Rockabye," thought not. When he told her so the sparks flew between them. Soon they were caught in a tremendous heart fire that threatened to burn down the barriers that stood in the way of their love.

What reached the heart of this profoundly sophisticated actress to lead to the supreme sacrifice that measured the power and beauty of this, her first honest love?

'Secrets' On Ritz Program Opens Today

Leslie Howard Chosen To Play Leading Male Role In Picture

Cycles may come and cycles may go, but the age-old love story of the man and woman who fight their way to happiness together, overcoming all obstacles, remains basically the greatest and most satisfactory screen theme.

It all depends upon the way and by whom the story's told.

So declared Mary Pickford, who considered more than thirty vehicles, including stage plays, best-selling novels and screen originals, before she chose "Secrets," which comes to the Ritz theatre today and Monday, as the story best calculated to prove of universal appeal.

Simple Love Story "Secrets" is a simple love story, according to Miss Pickford, a down-to-earth romance of plain people, without so-called sophistication, wisecracks, or "daring situations."

There's an elopement to foil a rich American father who wants his daughter to wed a poor clerk; a young couple battling the hardships of western ranch life; battles with cattle rustlers; the rearing of a family; eventual prosperity, clouded by the husband's affair with another woman; a loyal, devoted wife who refuses to let threatened scandal wreck their happiness.

These are the ingredients with which Miss Pickford and her supporting cast, including Leslie Howard opposite the star, Director Frank Borzage, Scenarist Frances Marion and a technical staff have made "Secrets."

Both director and scenarist are two-time winners of Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences awards, highest honor in filmdom. Borzage with "Seventh Heaven" and "Bad Girl," and Miss Marion with "The Big House" and "The Champ." Mary, likewise, is an Academy winner, having been given the award for her work in "Coquette."

Picked Own Cast A stickler for careful preparation, Miss Pickford made sure that her story was "right" before she permitted a camera to click, and she personally selected every principal in the cast.

The role of John Carlson, cattle

a vehicle which is the last word in modern stories. It is "Ex-Lady," which comes to the Ritz Theatre on Thursday.

The manners and morals of New York's artistic set are depicted in all the modernity of today's and tomorrow's ideas, rather than borrowing on the material of yesterday.

In the title role, Miss Davis enacts the part of a modern girl, frank and sincere, who wants her romance unfettered by the conventionalities of marriage. The part of her sweetheart is played by Gene Raymond, blonde star of stage and screen.

The struggle between today's and yesterday's ideas and codes, and their conflict with the careers of the young people provide some unusual mix-ups and a spicy plot that provides intriguing material for the vivacious new star.

The story is set against the background of New York's artistic colony with its colorful, Bohemian atmosphere and it shifts in sequence to casinos and night clubs in Havana, contrast of locale is added to contrast of types and ideas thus providing moving brilliance to this hour of entertainment.

A finely cast group of players appear in support of Bette Davis and Gene Raymond. Important parts are played by Frank McHugh, Monroe Owsley, Claire Dodd, Kay Stroza, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Alphonse Ethier and Roddy Waoding.

The picture is based on the ultra-modern iconoclastic story by Edith Fitzgerald and Robert Klutin, and was adapted to the screen by David Boehm.

It was directed by Robert Florey.

Chain Gang Picture At Queen Today

Paul Muni Star Of Widely Discussed Cinema Production

One of the most heralded motion pictures to be presented in Big Spring in many a moon, opens today at the Queen Theatre. It will also be shown Monday and Tuesday. It is "I am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," starring Paul Muni, with Helen Vinson, Glenda Farrell, Preston Foster, David Landau, Sally Blane, Noel Francis, 37 other important roles, 53 "bit" players and more than 2,000 extras.

Not only is "I am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," said to carry more thrilling and sensational episodes than any picture made this year but it presents a triple romance of strange and glamorous loves, against a background of incredible prison chain gang brutalities.

The story, which was authored by Robert E. Burns, who is still in hiding from chain gang police, shows men driven to desperation by the tortures of the whipping post, poor food, excessive labors in broiling heat and other cruelties. Paul Muni, as the fugitive, makes a sensational escape and crosses into another state. After years of struggle, he makes good under an assumed name, but a woman who discovers his past, betrays him. He is returned to the chain gang only to escape again in one of the most breath-taking episodes of the current season.

There is no more touching figure than this fugitive, a man yearning for love and home, an ex-serviceman skulking from place to place, not daring to show his face, unable to marry the girl he loves devotedly. Truly, a man without a country. He is vividly and dramatically portrayed by Paul Muni, who left the New York stage success "Councilor At Law" to make "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang" for Warner Bros.

The picture reaches a breathless climax as he is captured, on the one hand, by a posse which has set out to "get" him for abducting the girl, and, on the other, the band of cattle rustlers who had been the original cause of his troubles.

'Bondage' Has Miss Jordan In Leading Role

Star Achieves Stardom In Hurry by Unusual Abilities

Announced as a motion picture that sets a new standard in screen realism, "Bondage," the drama from Fox, starts an engagement of two days at the Queen Theatre Wednesday. It is an Alfred Santell production made from the screen play by Arthur Kober and Doris Malloy. The adaptation is from the successful novel by Grace Sothcott Leake.

The leading roles, that of a young shop-girl and a youthful physician, are portrayed by Dorothy Jordan and Alexander Kirkland. Already established as one of the outstanding of the younger screen stars, Miss Jordan is said to achieve her greatest performance with this role. It affords her the opportunity of a complete characterization studied with varying emotions. Kirkland is said to add a notable performance to his long list of highly successful portrayals.

The cast selected in support of the principals is a notable one that features a number of Hollywood's younger set. It is headed by Merie Tottenham of "Cavalade" fame, and includes Nydia Westman, Jane Darwell, Edward Woods, Isabel Jewel, Dorothy Libaire and Rafaela Ottiano.

An unusual musical background has been provided by Samuel Kaylin.

rancher, is a departure for Leslie Howard, who has risen to screen heights in pictures such as "Outward Bound," "A Free Soul" and "Smilin' Through," and it was because he was so eager to play an American westerner opposite Miss Pickford that he cancelled a long-planned voyage to his native land after completing his part in "The Animal Kingdom."

Among the members of the cast are the dead-pan comedian, Ned Sparks, who deserts his usual suave city-type portrayal for the role of a sharp-shooting ranch hand, C. Aubrey Smith, Blanche Frederici, Doris Lloyd, Mona Marie, as the woman who tries to lure Howard away; and Allan Sears, who played leads opposite Miss Pickford in the old silent picture days, and now returns in a villainous characterization.

Has Four Locales "Secrets" has four principal locales—Salmon, Idaho; the desert country of Southern California; Monterey, California, and Washington, D. C.

She was put into a book because she was such a vitally alive personality at the age of—well, almost ninety.

You can't read the introduction to the book without a feeling of respect for the woman. Her childhood story, usually the dull part of a biography, is fresh and thrilling and hard to put down. She was an intense red-headed creature with her own ideas from the start. And did she express those ideas? Yes, indeed, for a difficult life from the very beginning, a life that would call on all her reserves. This story tells how she measured up.

It is one of the most human of documents. And if you appreciate realism flavored with common sense and a direct attitude toward life, and spiced with adventure, you will find this an ideal combination. If you prefer romance, well, I found the story as romantic as it was realistic, a cross section of a woman's soul. A red-headed woman's soul! And being almost a frontier woman herself, I robbed it up whole, finding it more exciting than any mystery.

"Humanity"

April
In spite of moribund and high winds and other adversities, the second issue of this fine little Texas magazine has continued to make its bow to the public.

We believe this issue will be especially interesting to Big Spring people because of the thrilling railroad story, "When the Bounce Bled." It is one of those simply told but exciting yarns full of suspense and parishing of the good old-fashioned story-telling method.

Col. Billie Mayfield's "1930" continues with its second installment. The editor's editorials remain outstanding features of the magazine. "The National Income" particularly interests him this month. He is very enthusiastic over the new president. He sums up Mr. Roosevelt's attitude in this telling sentence: "He (Mr. Roosevelt) is setting for capitalism the example this world has been literally bleeding for—the intelligent sharing of the privileges and opportunities of money with the people."

We feel that "Humanity" is worth the price of its subscription just for the editorials of W. H. Harbin, the editor. We can't tear our hair over the fiction, although it's up to standard, all right. Every magazine must make its appeal on some unusual feature this magazine has one, in its editorials. Its author is The People articulate. He appears to be becoming a voice. If you follow the magazine you will see what I mean. A voice given to those who have long had no voice.

Thimble Club Meets

With Mrs. J. B. Neel

Mrs. J. B. Neel was hostess to the members of the Thimble Club Friday afternoon for a jolly session of rook.

Mrs. Miller was the highest scorer of the afternoon. Four guests attended. They were: Misses, Gus Pickle, Seth Pike, John Davis, and Miss Catherine Smith. The members present were: Misses, Sam Eason, F. D. Wilson, C. E. Talbot, G. S. True, J. B. Pickle, W. H. Ward, R. H. Ivey, W. A. Miller. Mrs. J. B. Pickle will be the next hostess.

Informal Members

Play At Mrs. Ford's

Mrs. Steve Ford entertained the members of the Informal Bridge Club Friday afternoon with a very charming bridge party at her home in Edwards Heights.

Mrs. Inkman made high score for club members and Mrs. Williams for guests.

A nice salad course was served to the following members and guests: Mrs. C. W. Cunningham, W. W. Inkman, J. E. Young, Ashley Williams, G. H. Wood, E. O. Ellington, Louis Paine, Jules Schneider, of Dallas, M. K. House, R. W. Henry, A. E. Service, and Wilburn Barcus.

Mrs. Inkman will be the next hostess.

Miss Zillah Mae Ford has returned from a delightful visit with friends in Abilene.

Throwing Tomatoes At The Doctor

Tomatoes Instead Of Apples Are A Better Way Of Keeping Well Says Nutrition Specialist In Lecture Here

By O. B. F.

I actually felt sorry Friday afternoon for all town women who were playing bridge, almost as sorry as I felt for the rural women who didn't have the gasoline to run their cars into town to hear Miss Lola Blair, nutrition specialist, talk to the 4-H women on foods.

Food values are a new item in our diet. The alert women who have kept up on her reading in becoming conversant with vitamins and their value to the human body. I doubt, however, if many women in Howard county, urban or rural, know that citrus fruits, tomatoes and food strong in Vitamins A are especially good for the respiratory tract, the lining of the lungs, nose and throat. They will not cure, but make a sore throat well overnight but a diet strong in these vitamins will build up these parts of the body and help a person to build up resistance to colds.

Some people still believe that an apple a day will keep the doctor away. Others have discarded the apple for the onion, having faith in its odor, anyway. Keep the doctor away with tomatoes and citrus fruits and it's better to it by swallowing them than by throwing them at him, advises this specialist.

Almost everyone expected Miss Blair to talk of gardens and so she did. But anyone who knows anything about home demonstration work knows that the stress is laid on the foundation of good feeding—a properly balanced diet. Rural women are supposed to be more in need of this knowledge than city women because so many of them try to live on a small variety when it is possible for them to raise a large variety.

The truth is that town women don't know so much either. Not half as much as they think they do. A few town women attended the lecture Friday but the club house could have held several more. Miss Blair began at the beginning and talked about a balanced pantry.

She began with a summary of conditions in homes of Texas women who were members of the club. There 1400 pantries in Texas that observed Pantry Achievement Day last year. That is, these rural women knew their pantries held almost everything necessary for a balanced meal and were willing to let the public take a look. In 957 of them nothing was lacking, neither relishes nor preserves, in addition to the important foods, including the three kinds of vegetables with location and prices.

This work is not suggested for women who have the money to buy what their families need, but for women who must raise and can produce from the farm, home garden or occasional purchased products. For women who must help their husbands provide a better food supply for their families than they would have otherwise—that's pretty comprehensive these days.

The first requirement, said Miss Blair, was to decide how much the pantry needed. That is exclusive of preserves, jams, jellies, chowchow, and other old-fashioned products. Then to work out, according to a pamphlet Miss Blair distributed, the amount necessary for the months when the family could not have fresh vegetables and meats. The pamphlet is too detailed to reprint. It is "Feeding the Family the 4-H Pantry Way." Those interested can obtain it by getting in touch with Miss Myrtle Miller, new home demonstration agent.

The three kinds of vegetables are leafy, or green colored vegetables; starchy; and other kinds. The other kinds are water-carriers. They include turnips, beets, egg plant, fresh shelled peas and beans, onions, okra, etc. Every person needs at least one serving a day of each of these three kinds, in addition to two servings of fruits, milk, butter, proteins and grains.

It is impossible to reproduce a lecture in its entirety in one article. Miss Blair talked of many things, some applicable only to women with gardens, some only to farm women. The following high lights contain items of news interest to most women:

Do You Know That
Russian thistles make good greens when young and tender?
Onion tops are included in lists of edible greens.
Corn should not be canned in No.

3 cans or large jars? No. 2 cans and the smaller sizes are better?
Can fried okra without any liquid added to the can keep perfectly? You have only to heat the can and there you have it already fried for the table.

Long cooking destroys Vitamin A? Do not cook your tomatoes, for instance, any longer than necessary. This is one reason why the fruit values in preserves, jams, etc. are destroyed when the fruits are cooked so long.

Peanuts can be ground with the red inner shells? They are even more healthful this way.

Every family of five should consume two pounds of leafy vegetables a day?

That Texas women in the 4-H clubs put up 130 millions cans of food for their families last year?

Two tablespoons of syrup are worth more to the body than preserves or jellies? Syrup contains what the body needs? Preserves, etc. are not foods but extras.

Long cooking of cabbages, turnips, Brussels sprouts, kohlrabi is not desirable? It develops a sulphide that makes these indigestible. Cook them as rapidly as possible.

Good marmalade can be made of kershaw, pumpkin, squash, if one lacks fruits?

Tomatoes are classed with fruits? Red pepper hash makes a pretty little Christmas gift in a glass jar tied with a green ribbon? Just the proper Christmas treat.

This new pamphlet, "Feeding the Family the 4-H Pantry Way," is so simple and comprehensive that requests are pouring in all over the Union for it. Any family can estimate what it needs from it by dividing the numbers given by 5 and multiplying the answer by the number to be fed.

That Midland had 75 out to attend a home demonstration meeting? Or well...

The four grain cereals recommended by the 4-H leaders are: Wheatena, Oatmeal, grape nuts and shredded whole wheat?

Mexican children as a whole have better teeth than white children or negro children because of the tortillas in their diet? White children eat too much meat and white bread.

That spaghetti, macaroni, rice, are not starchy vegetables but grains? They are not potato substitutes?

In conclusion Miss Blair gave three good recipes: one for pie-crust cheese made with curds, the other two for sandwiches with surprise fillings.

Homemade Pimento Cheese
5 cups curds, drier than cottage cheese curds.
1-2 teaspoon soda.
Small can pimentos.
1 teaspoon salt.

Melt 1-2 cup butter add to it a cup of thick cream, sweet or sour; add to that the cheese mixture. Put it in an enamel vessel; hold over vessel of hot water and stir (preferably with a wooden spoon) until every bit of the curd is smoothed out. Pour into buttered mold, for 24 hours.

If you want this for sandwiches use a square tin for a mold. If you want it round, use a baking powder. The secret of this lies in having good curds.

The cheese will keep about two weeks in a good ice box. If you can succeed in keeping the family away from it that long. It will not keep as long as American cheese does.

Oilives can be added, if desired.

To get real motoring satisfaction... you need the SIZE, the WEIGHT, the QUALITY Buick provides

"What a difference!" "This is real comfort." "It takes a car like this to make motoring really enjoyable." Those are the comments we hear when people come to us to find out what we mean by the statement, "Buick gives more and better miles."

Buick gives more and better miles because it's a big car—with wheelbases from 119 to 138 inches in length. It has the weight necessary to assure road-steadiness and riding comfort—3866 to 4901 pounds. It has been constantly improved in quality of design, materials and workmanship throughout thirty years of progressive manufacturing.

To get real motoring satisfaction, you need this size, this weight and this quality. We shall be glad to demonstrate the new Buick Eight and let you see for yourself the greater enjoyment you can expect from a Buick. We will also show you that a new Buick Eight is inexpensive to own.

EXPECT MORE of Electrolux

NOW AIR-COOLED at New Low Prices
Expect Lowest Operating Cost—Utter Silence—and MORE!

FROM a vital development in the science of home refrigeration—such as you now get in the New Air-Cooled Electrolux—you can EXPECT MORE.

For one thing, expect more economy. Electrolux has no moving parts. It uses no water. The tiny gas flame which circulates the refrigerant consumes still less gas than formerly. The refrigerant is hermetically sealed in rigid steel and needs no renewal. Air-ordinary air-cools it. And an automatic shut-off completely protects the flame.

But lower operating costs only begin to tell the story! Expect silence—utter and permanent—with Electrolux. Expect such exclusive features as adjustable split shelves, two temperature chilling units which insure constant uniform cold, and automatic trigger release on ice trays as well as porcelain interiors, non-stop defrosting, plenty of space, sparkling ice cubes, extra food space.

When you come to our show room—expect to find the very finest refrigerator that money can buy! For you will—in the New Air-Cooled Electrolux! Yet prices are lower than ever. Terms liberal.

The thousand-word platform adopted by a militant democracy at the Chicago convention last June evidently differed from most platforms in other ways than in mere length. It seems to have been a platform that was meant to be read out plain by plain—something absolutely original in American political practice.

A Washington correspondent has been checking over the Chicago document, and has made the discovery that the Roosevelt administration already has succeeded in getting several of its 14 principal planks written into law.

There will be no trouble about the Roosevelt expansion program for the Tennessee Valley may be trimmed here and there but not materially.

It is nothing serious. The trouble apparently is that the prima donna has been overfed on publicity after a lifelong diet of classroom dullness. The brain trust probably will be constantly in the public eye from now on. Congress will use to that Congressmen dislike the college professors intensely. The professors have a superior air and as far as having drafted most of the legislation that Congressmen would ordinarily write themselves. That does not make for good feeling. The only bill so far actually drafted in Congress was the Home Loan Mortgage Bill written by Senator Byrnes of South Carolina and associated. He took it to Mr. Roosevelt with profuse apologies that Congress would dare draft a bill of its own. Mr. Roosevelt laughed.

Philippines— A personal relationship was behind the selection of the Detroit Mayor Murphy as Philippines Governor. Politicians raised an eyebrow because they did not know that G. Hall Roosevelt, a cousin of the President, has been city solicitor out there. Also Murphy got off the mired Al Smith bandwagon at the start and leaped into the Roosevelt parade. Murphy is a comer in national Democratic politics. He is smart and efficient. The Philippines job has always been looked upon as one of the best stepping stones to better things.

Short Week— Word was passed down the line in Congress early in the week that Mr. Roosevelt would order a five day week for government personnel. That order may be used to kill the Black 20-hour week bill for industry now pending in the house. The Democratic leaders do not care for that bill particularly. It is full of holes. In addition the manufacturers' lobbies have recently been active against it.

Power— There will be no trouble about the Roosevelt expansion program for the Tennessee Valley may be trimmed here and there but not materially.

Notes— A smooth job is being done by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment under the direction of Joseph House and Robert Barry. They are pushing repeal resolutions along quietly but relentlessly in the state legislature. His comrades call Sen. J. Ham Lewis "The Gold Tongued Whip" because he carries out his duties as Democratic whip with Ciceronian gestures. His chief duty is to suggest the absence of a quorum when attendance is running low but he always makes a beautiful brief ceremony out of that routine. That is not a small job in his own right. He has plenty of help from his own as well as from the opposition party. The evidence that the platform has merit of its own. The document itself is clear-cut and decisive; the work of the president and congress in making it effective is no less so.

WHIRLIGIG— Intercollegiate brain trust. It seems the boys do not trust each other. One is passing around the whirrigig that another is an employe of the railroads. A third one says that a fourth is not enough of an economist to live within his salary.

NEW YORK By James McMillin Stock Exchange— The Stock Exchange will soon adopt one of the most revolutionary changes in its history. It will forbid members participating in the underwriting of security issues. Private banks with Exchange membership are the particular target. This is another clean shaven cowboy righteously aspect of the government campaign to reduce the big fellows to the ranks. It will also have a marked effect on combination banking and investment banking houses such as Hayden Stone and Hornblower and Weeks. Hereafter those who float securities must have no other business. The impetus for the ruling came from Richard Whitney's recent White House conference. It was a neat test of Whitney's good faith in cooperating with the government on Stock Exchange reform. It will hit some of his closest connections hard, although his own house has never done any underwriting. The President's idea is to divorce brokers from all activities which would prevent their giving unbiased advice to clients. In the past too many axes have been ground on the clients' necks. The Exchange already has a ruling which prevents members from specializing away from the floor in issues already listed. But many "ground floor" racketeers have been worked on the side with new securities.

Curb— The Curb investigation has developed an odd sidelight. A majority of the Curb brokers actually did not know that most of the stocks they dealt in most actively had never compiled with listing requirements. Some of the evidence being developed by the state is pretty hot stuff. If public relations require it the Stock Exchange is about ready to back the Curb-sight off the boards.

Directors— No less than 15 New Yorkers hold directorships in more than 50 companies a piece. The champion is Albert J. County, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad—who has 121 to his credit. Henry L. Doherty is second with 114 and W. Alton Jones of the Doherty organization is third with 110. Some of these prizes collections will go by the boards when the security regulation bill goes through. Banks which always thought it a swell idea to be represented on the directorates of corporations which owed them money are getting a change of heart. There will be a lot of resignations in this category soon. Plans are being discussed in certain quarters to beat the securities bill by appointing clerks and office boys as directors. The clerks and office boys would have the pleasure of taking the rap if anything went wrong.

Beer— High pressure artists are busy with beer stocks. About $25,000,000 worth are being offered for public distribution. So far the results have been mostly foam. The public remains painfully uninterested.

Bonuses— The New York State Senate slipped over a seat one recently when nobody was looking. It passed a bill forbidding the payment of bonuses or any form of compensation besides salaries to corporation officers. The measure would not have much effect in New York. Very few large companies are incorporated in this state but the idea might become contagious.

Mortgage Bonds— There has been a sudden undercurrent revival of interest in guaranteed real estate mortgage bonds—even without the guarantee. Prices remain low but bonds issued against land and buildings are almost unobtainable. Mortgagees against buildings alone are not popular. A New York lawyer has unearthed a quirk in the law whereby mortgage bonds must be accepted at par in payment of rent in the building against which they were issued. He has been buying up such bonds around 20c on the dollar and reselling them to appropriate tenants for 40 to 50 cents.

Real Estate— The impression is growing in informed quarters that land values have touched bottom. The real

Cantata To Be Given On Sunday Eve

The choir of the First Christian Church will give a cantata, "Easter Joy" Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. The cantata is compiled and arranged from the works of Gounod, Liszt, Verdi, Schubert, Wagner, Tchaikovsky and Offenbach. The following musical numbers will be given: Instrumental introduction; Chorus, "Hail Him," Solo, soprano, "Welcome Fair Season," Chorus, "To Life Awake," Solo, soprano, "Come, See the Place," Chorus, "Victory," Solo, soprano, "Wonderful Light," solo, soprano, soprano and alto, "The Living and the Savior Live," Solo, bass, "Awake! Awake! Chorus," "Hail Mighty Victor."

Mr. F. C. Scott will play the offertory. Special scripture readings will be given by the pastor, Rev. E. J. Shattlesworth.

The members of the choir taking part were: Misses Roy Carter, Willard Reed, Joe Brown, F. M. Turner, J. D. Wallace, L. A. Banks, Virgil Smith, Steve Bakula, Earl Reed, and Miss Stella Hubert; Messrs. Steve Baker, E. Bethell, Virgil Smith, E. W. Jetter, John Garrison and C. M. Shaw.

Soloists will be: Misses Willard Reed, Roy Carter, Joe Brown and E. Bethell and E. W. Jetter.

Mrs. Omar Pittman is choir director.

Eastern Star Notice The Eastern Star has postponed Past Matrons and Past Pastors' evening from this coming Tuesday until May 2, meeting after next. The regular meeting will be held Tuesday. Those who want to study Tuesday night are asked to come 7 o'clock.

One I Love

CHAPTER XXV

Headlights loomed at the turn in the road and a big car came racing toward them. It was filled with a noisy, laughing crowd and as they passed the reader a jeering laugh whirled out. Someone cried triumphantly, "Look at the necking party!"

Almost in the same instant the car was gone but the spell of the night had been broken. Janet moved away. She said, "It's been ages since I've seen you, Jeff. What have you been doing?"

"Oh, the usual things. Follow in the office took me home with him last week-end. He's got a little place out about 20 miles, drives in every day. Say—it's great, too! He and his wife live out there all the year round. They've got two kids—both boys. There's a stream not so far away and you ought to see those little devil's wets!"

"You like the country, don't you?"

"I certainly do! Nelson's got a tennis court and when we weren't playing or swimming we sat around on a big porch swapping yarns. The kids have a dog, too. Not much for looks but smart just the same. Oh, I liked it out there. You bet I did. I think a fellow would be pretty lucky if he could have a home like that—"

"Look!" Janet stopped him.

"Fireflies!"

"Tiny flash...kroedmfypcmrw. They lights flashing here and there in the darkness glowed for an instant and then disappeared. "That's what they are," Jeff agreed.

"I love to watch them," Janet told him. "There's something almost like magic about them. Look—there are some more!"

"You wouldn't think they were so wonderful if you could see one of them in daylight."

"No, I suppose not." There was a pause and then Janet said, "I think you're right about it, Jeff. A home in the country—like you described—would be wonderful. I think I'd like it better than Mrs. Curtis' big house. I mean if I could have her house for my own instead of just working there. It's beautiful and everything is expensive but I don't think anyone's ever been very happy there."

"How about you?" Jeff asked quickly. "Aren't you happy?"

Janet looked away toward the necklace of lights hung over the city. "I wasn't thinking about myself," she said. "It doesn't make much difference where I am, I guess."

Suddenly she wanted to confide in Jeff. He had helped her through hard times before. She wanted to pour out to someone all the worries, the struggle and suffering that had been stored up in her heart for so long. Jeff was a real friend and would understand. She turned toward him. "I don't know whether you know or not," she said slowly. "Rolf's back. You remember I told you about him?"

"Yes, I remember."

"It's all turned out in such a queer way—the girl he married—she's Mrs. Curtis' daughter. I'd never have gone there to work if I'd known that. I only found it out a few weeks ago. White Betty and Rolf were away. Then I thought I'd leave before they got back but they came unexpectedly. "Have you—seen him?"

"Oh, yes. Several times. Betty comes to the house almost every day but Rolf isn't there very often. Do you think I should go away anyhow, Jeff?"

"Why, I don't know." The young man's voice sounded rather uncomfortable. "That's entirely up to you, seems to me. If you want to, stay. And if you don't—why don't?"

"It isn't as simple as that," Janet assured him with a sigh. "I'd have to have another job and there don't seem to be any. I've read the want ad columns and one day I went to an agency. There don't seem to be any jobs anywhere for secretaries or stenographers. And Mrs. Curtis has been awfully nice. She raised my salary a few weeks ago."

"Then it seems to me that's settled," Jeff said. "I'd stay."

"It doesn't seem to make much difference," Janet went on thoughtfully. "I'd feel the way I do no matter where I was. I mean—"

"I know what you mean!" Jeff broke in harshly. "You can't forget the fellow, can you? Little crazy about him. You try to tell yourself you're not but just the same it's true. Oh, yes, I know all about that!"

"Why, Jeff?" She was amazed at his vehemence—and then all at once she understood. "You mean—you've felt the same way? You mean there's a girl you're in love with and she cares more for someone else?"

"She could not see his face in the darkness. "Something like that," Jeff told her.

For a moment there was silence between them. Then Janet put a hand on the young man's arm. "I'm sorry, Jeff," she said softly. "I wish I could help. I suppose there isn't any way?"

"No," he said. "I guess not."

Neither spoke. Then after a time Janet said, "Do you want to tell me about it, Jeff?"

"Nothing to tell," he said. "There was a girl but she fell for another fellow and—well, that's all there is to it."

"You're braver about it than I am," Janet told him. "I wish I could be like you, Oh, Jeff!" she went on bitterly. "Why do things have to be the way they are? Why can't the right people fall in love and stay in love? It never seems to be that way in real life! At least hardly ever!"

"That's too deep a question for me," Jeff said. "I've wondered about it myself sometimes."

After a time Janet remembered that it was growing late. Throughout the drive back to Mrs. Curtis' home she thought about what Jeff had told her. Who was this girl who had treated him so badly? Dolores Calahan? Someone he had known before coming to Lancaster? But a young man deeply in love with one girl would not have shown such interest in another girl for another. It must be Dolores.

He had never mentioned her, never spoken of her since the day Janet had met them together. That seemed significant. Young men often mention girls who are casual acquaintances. It is the one unshrined deeply in the heart about whom they are reticent.

"How could she do it?" Janet asked herself. Why, any girl in the world should be proud of Jeff's love! Proud of Jeff, himself, too. He had wit, attractiveness and he was loyal, dependable and understanding.

And here he was breaking his heart because Dolores preferred someone else. Janet's own opinion of the girl was not high but since Jeff loved Dolores, Janet wanted him to win her. Jeff was too fine to be cheated in that way.

Janet felt there was a new bond of understanding between them when she told him good night. She said with a sudden rush of feeling, "Oh, Jeff, you've been such a good friend! You helped me just by listening tonight. Maybe we can help each other. If there's ever any way—if there's anything I can do for you you'll tell me won't you?"

"I'll tell you, Thanks Janet."

She slipped her hand into his, pressed it and then disappeared into the house.

Several times during the next few days Janet thought of that conversation. But there were other things to occupy her mind. Mrs. Curtis decided suddenly to go to a lake. Doctor Roberts thought the change would be good for her and it was settled that she was to leave the following week. It was amazing what a burst of activity this number of copies and tables. The prices numbers were made by lovely Easter eggs in baskets on each table.

Mrs. Herbert Whitney and Mrs. Hayes strippling were the only guests. Mrs. Whitney made high score and was presented with lingerie.

Mrs. Kin Barnett made high for members and was presented with an Everitt score pad.

A refreshment plate containing sandwiches, strawberry shortcake and tea was passed to the guests, and following members: Mmes. Kin Barnett, J. S. King, H. G. Foose, W. G. Wilson, Jr.; Misses Mary Allen and Josephine Cole.

Miss Cole will be the next hostess.

In spite of the fact that Silver Bay was so quiet, Mrs. Curtis ordered three new chiffon dresses, a new dinner gown and several wash silks for mornings. She bought three new hats and four pairs of shoes and there were ever so many smaller items for her wardrobe.

Janet bought herself a white frock, a very simple dress suitable for summer evenings. It was longer than her street dress with tiny sleeves and a low, rousing neck. She put the dress on Sunday evening and came down stairs.

Dusk had begun to fall but there were no lights burning. No one was in sight. Janet walked through the hall and into the library. Eustace, seeing her, jumped down from a chair and came toward her, just in time.

Janet picked up the cat, stroked his head absent-mindedly. She was thinking of a night a year ago when she and Rolf Carlyle had come to an amusement park and extravagantly ridden three times on a roller-coaster. It was such a gay evening! They had laughed and had such a good time. She thought of the girl she had been a year ago. Such a different girl than she was today! Rolf had changed too.

Thinking of Rolf, Janet turned. She had to think of him, for there he was—

The Thrill That Comes Once In A Lifetime

WASHINGTON (UP)—American cotton mills consumed 494,167 bales of raw cotton in March, against 441,663 bales in February and 488,907 in March, 1932, the census bureau reported today.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—The Mangel Body Co., a subsidiary of the Mangel Co., doubled the number of men working at its plant and now is employing 500 men.

TOLEDO, Ohio—Libby-Owens-Ford Glass Co. reported for the March quarter a profit of $223,103, against only $44,321 in the corresponding period of 1932.

BURLINGTON, N. C.—Several hundred skilled workers will be added this week to two plants of the Burlington Mills, Inc., the North Carolina silk mills and the Mayfair Mills, all of which are inaugurating three shifts daily.

PORT ARTHUR—Between 200 and 300 men have been called back to work at the Gulf Refining Company plant here. Superintendent Charles R. Stevenson said today, making a total of nearly 1,000 men re-employed by the refinery in recent weeks.

Miss Margaret Alderson has arrived from Denton to visit her sister, Mrs. L. A. Talley, for the Easter holidays.

What's The Answer?

by Fred Locher

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN
The Washington Conservatives

There appear to be about three principal objectives to be sought by the government to come to Washington for what Secretary Hoover has described as "an early exchange of views preliminary to the forthcoming World Economic Conference in London."

The first objective might be described as the turning of world public opinion from the issues that arouse political antagonism to those that affect economic recovery. The assumption is, and it is the right assumption, I think, that the increasing bitterness of nationalistic feeling, the increasing suspicion and fear on the frontiers, and the lapses into the barbarism of civil war and persecution, are the result of economic misery and peppery. Civilization will not stand the strain of such prolonged and acute suffering; there comes a time when civilized habits break down in the mere struggle for existence, as they do among men shipwrecked and starving, when the will to live overpowers morality and men become political cannibals in their dealings with each other.

In such a state of affairs mere political maneuver and agreement is of no use; no political stabilization is possible among people moved by the sheer impulse to survive. There must be relief for their sufferings. In the present world situation that relief must come, if it comes at all, from the prompt, bold and concerted action of the three nations, the United States, Great Britain and France, which exercise the predominant influence in the economy of the world.

The dangers of war, and of political disintegration, must be averted primarily by a resumption of employment. There is no other way. The political tension in the world today reflects the economic tension, and it cannot be relaxed effectively by proposals to disarm, by security pacts, by diplomatic combinations, and by protestations of good intentions. The world must go back to work or it will go to war.

That is the issue, and on that issue the world's attention needs to be centered.

The second objective of the Washington conversations is to prove to the governments that there is a new deal in Washington, that the era of blind economic nationalism symbolized to them by the Smoot-Hawley tariff is over, that the era of Congressional usurpation which reduced the American Executive to impotence in international affairs is closed. No delegation arriving in London could convince the governments that there is a change of heart, mind, and purpose in Washington, that they are not once again to be offered good advice which we do not intend to follow in our own practice, but that the United States policy means to the rest of the world, and with determined effort for its own interest, to help settle those questions which trouble mankind.

Since President Roosevelt and the party leaders cannot go to London, it is very desirable that the European statesmen should meet them here, see with their own eyes and hear with their own ears, what manner of men they will be dealing with for the next few years.

The third objective is to work out some agreements which will insure the London conference against failure. The most fundamental of these agreements must necessarily deal with money and prices and the monetary disorder which is at the root of the trouble. If agreements can be reached for a common policy and co-ordinated action by the British, French, and American treasurers, by the Bank of England, the Bank of France, and the Federal Reserve System, the problem can be solved if it is humanly possible to solve it. For the financial power of these three nations is sufficiently predominant in the world to put into effect any plan of action they can agree upon. Their interests are sufficiently varied to guarantee the rest of the world against any danger of discrimination.

At least so far as Great Britain and the United States are concerned there can be no doubt that what they will seek is to bring about a rise in commodity prices, and that all questions relating to the exchange value of currencies, their metallic base, the price of gold, and of silver, resumption of specie payments, credit expansion, and bank reserves, will be treated as means to the end of raising and then stabilizing the general price level. It is to be hoped that France will enter the discussions in the same state of mind, that is to say, with the same realization that the position of the world is too serious to permit any one to approach these matters, will be treated as means to the end of raising and then stabilizing the general price level. It is to be hoped that France will enter the discussions in the same state of mind, that is to say, with the same realization that the position of the world is too serious to permit any one to approach these matters, will be treated as means to the end of raising and then stabilizing the general price level.

Two Local Scout Troops Gain in March, Tabulation Of Reports Show

While two local troops showed gains for the month of March in the Buffalo Trail council rating sheet, the trend was generally downward.

Troop No. 4 registered a gain to place ahead of all other local troops. Troop No. 5 was close behind with three points less, leading Troop No. 7 by a smaller amount. Troop No. 2 was the only local unit failing to report.

Below is the rating of Big Spring troops:

Troop	Measurings	Advent.	Hiking	Points
Four	100	31	98	98
Five	100	33	98	90
Seven	100	100	45	100
Three	100	25	44	100
One	100	47.3	20	20

Troop No. 5 made an afternoon hike south of the city park Friday and spent the daylight hours practicing for the annual scout jamboree here May 5 and 6.

Under the supervision of Assistant Patrol Leader Dale Smith, the scouts set up a big wall tent. Then the entire troop engaged in drill, obstacle races, antelope races, tug-of-war.

Several scouts passed tests. The evening was spent in story telling around the council fire, after which camp was broken.

Among those present were Dale Smith, Tony Lee McCoy, Durwood Riggs, Howard Hart, Charles Ray Smith, Jack and Bobby Dahany, Howard McMath, William Mann, Preston Lovelace, James and Leonard Sikes. The troop will meet at 8 p. m. Wednesday and 7:30 p. m. until after the jamboree, it was decided.

H. D. Council To Reorganize

Meeting Set For April 29; Miss Miller Announces Other Trips

The Home Demonstration Council had charge of the meeting of high Miss Lois Blair talked Friday afternoon at the club house. Mrs. Bob Ashby of Elbow presided and Mrs. G. W. Davis, of Gar, acted as secretary.

Miss Myrtle Miller, new home demonstration agent, introduced Miss Blair, nutrition specialist of the Extension Division of A. M. College, who talked to the women on a balanced food budget for the year and helped them plan the amount of vegetables and meats that a year's supply would be on hand, to last from summer to summer.

After the lecture Miss Miller brought in samples of brigadier tiles and told the women of the arrangement made with Mr. Spence to make the tiles for almost infinitesimal sum.

A committee was named to see the legislators and to protest against in state appropriations for the home demonstration.

Miss Miller was invited to the next meeting of the Home Demonstration Club to be held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. C. Tate in the Maracah Lease. Her residence is east of the highway, the first house north of Mrs. Overton's.

Elbow and Lomax Home Demonstration Clubs are invited.

Miss Miller will give a practical demonstration of tile brigadier at this meeting.

On Tuesday afternoon Miss Miller will assist with the R-Bar Home Demonstration Club at the home of Mrs. G. W. Davis.

Wednesday afternoon is also available for a meeting in Howard County, after which she will go to one of the other two counties. Any club who wants to arrange a meeting is asked to get in touch with her immediately. Her office is upstairs in the courthouse.

A council meeting will be held on Saturday, April 29 at the City Federation building. Two delegates from each club are asked to attend. The president and one appointed delegate. The object of this meeting is to reorganize the Council so that Miss Miller may distribute through it the necessary information for the clubs. Her time is so short in each of the three counties that she will not be able to attend the clubs individually.

An open meeting will be held on the first Saturday in May, May 6, at the City Federation club house. All members of clubs and other rural women interested in gardens are asked to attend this meeting. Miss Miller will discuss the varieties best adapted to this climate, when to plant and other factors important in raising a well-balanced food supply.

Rural women are asked to keep these dates in mind.

Midland Hostess City To 6th District Of Club Women

The Sixth district of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs will hold its 1933 district meeting at Midland this month on April 24, 25, and 26. Many club women from Big Spring are planning to motor over in small parties for one or more of the three days.

Midland, says the "Federation News," is a delightful city, with fine buildings, a beautiful hotel, welcoming homes and cordial hostesses. Its location should make it possible for many in the extreme parts of West Texas to attend and yet it is accessible by splendid roads to the eastern part of the District and to the clubs in the South. Many surprises and unusual features on the program and in the social affairs are going to make this an outstanding convention. A challenge is issued to all of Sixth District to fill up the automobiles with happy passengers and set forth for Midland. There are prizes to be awarded for poems, year books, reports, rugs, contributions to Scholarship and Loan Funds, but the best prize of all will be the fourth experience awaiting the fortunate ones attending and enjoying the happy Convention Days.
