Emergency Farm Loan Applications Being Accepted

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by excessive rain, hail, wind and flash flooding, which occurred between May 1,1992, and June 30, 1992, and continuing are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) office located in Spur, FmHA County Supervisor Larry Clements said today.

Motley County is one of 27 in Texas recently named by Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan as eligible for loans to cover part of actual production losses resulting from the excessive rain, hail, wind and flash flooding, which occurred between May 1,1992, and June 30, 1992, and continuing.

Larry Clements said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses or the operating loan needed to continue in business or $500,000, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest is 4.5

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an EmHA emergency loan," Clements said, Farmers participating in the PIK or Federal Crop Insurance program will have to figure in proceeds from those programs. figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their loss.

"Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until May 11, 1993 but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in procarming season," Clements said.
FmHA is a credit agency of the U.S.

Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who are U.S. citizens and to farming partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U.S. citizens hold a majority interest.

Next year is my class of '63 30th year, so some of us met and started planning a reunion, probably one in the summer (tentatively July 10). Three of my classmates were here, Pat Cooper Minton, Glenda Lynn Burdett and Wilburta Jackson. They joined Mary Newman

Did anyone know what the unidentified flying object was that flew over the football field Friday night? Everyone I talked to saw it. It was a long green glow and appeared and disappeared in a matter of seconds, and there seemed to be an unusual roar during this time. What do you think?

Proper Thinking

When we exercise proper thinking we will overcome temptation. Evil thoughts can be driven out of our minds only when crowded out by pure thoughts. Pure thoughts can fill the mind so that there remains no room for that which is low, sordid, evil and impure. The apostle Paul wrote, "Finally, brethren, Inc apostic Paul Wrote, Finally, bretinen, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any priase, think on these things." (Phil. 4:8). Our hearts when enlightened with good and noble thoughts will have no room for evil ideas

The wie man, Solomon said, "Keep thy heart with all diligence, for our of it are the issues of life." (Proverbs 4:23). Again in Proverbs 23:7 we read, "As he thinketh in his heart, so is he."

But our God has given us the key to victory: "bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ," (II Cor. 10:5). When our thoughts are ennobled by the Gospel of Jesus Christ, we will overcome the temptations which this world offers.

God did not intend that we should be lost. Regardless of how sinful and depraved the world might become, God has given us instruction for godly living. Our God has made provision through His Word that we might walk in righteousness and be able to overcome temptations. (I Cor. 10:13). Proper thinking based on biblical principles is imperative.

DRIVING SAFETY OF ELDERS

For older adults of all ages driving personal vehicles represents independence and gives a certain kind of control ence and gives a certain kind of control over their own lives. Having a car give mobility and freedom that, for many, is an integral part of their lifestyle. When an elderly person shows signs of unsafe driving, families face a difficult time because so many emotions and pat-terns of daily life are associated with driving. When an older adult starts show-ing signs of fender benders class calls ing signs of fender benders, close calls, poor judgement, or other indications that their driving is threatening their safety and others, children may need to get involved.

A special concern for many parents is the safety of their children who ride in a grandparent's car. If you're worried about your parent's driving, try having a heartto-heart talk. Express your concern for his or her safety and the safety of others. Also, this may be a good time to agree on such practices as:

such practices as:

— Driving only in the daylight,
— Avoiding rush hour traffic,
— Refraining from driving when taking certain medications,
— Taking frequent breaks on trips,
— Staying off the road in bad weather.
Many older people now take the (AARP 55) Alive/Mature Driving Program, a suggestion you might make. Some voluntarily give up driving when they sense it is unsafe. But in other families it is the adult children who must prompt them to make this decision which is often traumatic, because it is a painful intrusion into the parent's life.

Some families have found that it takes some of the burden off their shoulders to ask an official to revoke the parent's li-cense. States vary in their testing procense. States vary in their testing programs for older drivers. Some retest when it is time for the license to be renewed, using the reasoning that sensory impairments increase with age. Others say that such testing is discriminatory.

If mandatory testing is not required where your parent lives, you can still inform the motor vehicle department if you truly feel that his or her mental or physical condition is a serious driving hazard. Asking a physician to help may work, because in some states physicians are required to report patients' conditions that would jeopardize safe driving. However, doctors dislike violating confidentiality established with their patients, may be concerned about lawsuits, and may not cooperate.

If you don't want to talk directly to your parent about the matter, written information will help open the subject for discussion, even your parent denies that it is applicable to the current situation (see sources at the end of this article). It also may be helpful to ask how your parent feels about driving under different conditions. He or she may report difficulty in making out signs, problems with glare in bright sunshine, lack of depth perception at night, and being uncomfortable at the wheel. On the other hand, no problems may be reported. This may be accurate, except that most of us lose quickness in motor responses with increasing age.

Be prepared with some facts, as you discuss driving safety with your parent.

discuss driving safety with your parent:

— Drivers over age 65 have a higher accident rate per mile driven than all others except the group 25 years old and younger.

— Even in minor collisions, older people are more vulnerable to injury than younger drivers.

— Most older adult accidents occur when driving conditions are "ideal" -clear days, dry pavement and straight

Most accidents happen within 15-

25 miles of the driver's home.

— Intersections with heavy traffic are the scene of many older drivers' accidents. These intersections are under-standably confusing, demanding the special alertness and quick decisions that place heavy demands on the driver. Too many drivers don't respond to these

If your parent continues to drive safely don't hassle about it. If there are signs of trouble, suggest alternatives such as: — Hiring a driver for needed transportation. See how this cost compares to maintaining the automobile.

Taking a taxi more often.
 Using community transportation services provided for older people.

If one or both parents must give up driving, be sensitive to the effect of this decision on their daily lives. Do what you can to help them stay involved in activities they enjoy outside the home. Help them re-evaluate the locations where they live and its accessibility to shopping services and recreation. Suggest alternatives for them to consider, when appropriate. USDA ANNOUNCES NEW PROVISIONS FOR DISASTER PROGRAM

Producers applying for U.S. Department of Agriculture disaster payments under Phase II and Phase III of the Disaster Assistance Program will be able to receive payments in a more timely man-ner. The USDA extended the disaster signup and ensures that producers who qualify for benefits under Phase II and Phase III of the Disaster Assistance Program will receive a payment rate of 50.04 percent of the payments for crop losses approved for coverage.

approved for coverage.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service is extending the deperiod for producers to file for benefits under Phase II of the program to Feb. 12, nou 1993, for those crops planted in 1991 for harvest in 1992. The original deadline was Oct. 2. Payment of benefits up to 50.04 percent will be made to producers as soon as they have furnished the required documentation and the application is approved by their local ASCS icc.

Committee. The extended signup period does not change the requirement for producers to purchase crop insurance on the same crop for 1993 if this year's crop loss same crop for 1993 it mis year's crop lose was more than 65 percent, as required by the 1990 farm bill. The extension gives producers adequate time to file their claims under the disaster program.

THREE GOOD REASONS TO GO THROUGH CD WITHDRAWAL

1. RATES 2. RATES 3. RATES

How do you feel about locking in an interest rate when rates are at a 26 year low? In fact, when you consider inflation and taxes, the real return on your CD can be negative. With Delta tax-deferred annuities, if the rate Delta earns on your money goes up, the rate you earn goes up. Guaranteed.
