Kermit Coach Helps MC Track Program

Track season for students at Motley County is beginning this month, and thanks to Head Track Coach Randy Hicks from Kermit, Motley County has some additional equipment.

Residents passing the track field south of the school can see the new high jump and pole vault pits and pop-up hurdles that our students will be using this spring.

When the Kermit schools purchased new track equipment, Coach Hicks, who was track and football coach at Motley from 1975 to 1978, gave our school their used equipment.

According to Coach Danny Williams, the new pits are regulation size foam rubber with bright red covers. "They are larger and safer than our old pits with more area to jump on," stated Williams.

Twenty new hurdles and two pole vaulting standards are also part of the equipment received from the Kermit Independent School District.

Perspective Guest Columns And Opinions

One Nation Under God

From Grandma's Perspective

By A. Christian

I was born in the summer of '41 into a family of great wealth. But in my father's great wisdom, there has been many things he has allowed me to learn on my own. He would have helped me had I asked, but independence has always been a part of my heritage—until I discovered one day that he really wanted to be of assistance to me and was only waiting for me to ask.

He allowed me to live in two rooms for a while. No electricity, no water, no telephone, no television, no bathroom—nothing but the bare essentials. I did the laundry on a rub-board; hung clothes outside in the dead of winter when they would freeze before the clothes pins had made good contact with them; I have carried water from a well a mile from home; I have carried water from a creek; I have carried water from a dirt tank the cows drank from; later I hauled it many miles. I now appreciate the turning of a faucet to get good, clear, cold water.

I was allowed the privilege of planting, harvesting and canning much garden stuff; of making my own soap; of learning to sew, knit, crochet, paint, keep house, cook, plan meals. I learned to make do with whatever was at hand and most of the time, it was little. For that I am thankful.

My father taught me never to brag on my gifts and talents, but how to use them and that they are as important and special as anyone else's. He taught me love and respect for my parents and my own family, and to put God first—then my spouse; then my children and then my church. He showed me the value of Sunday school and church.

My father allowed me a first hand look into the world of wealth, fashion and expensive homes, cars, etc. This was so that I could learn for myself that money is a poor master after all and that people that are of any worth will not look down on me when I arrive in my old car and outdated clothes.

He strengthened and encouraged me to build, to decorate, and to try again when I made mistakes. He taught me the importance of forgiving and to be forgiven. He showed me how to have compassion and love. He never butted in, but was always there when I needed him the most.

He showed me the value of honesty, fairness, impartiality; the joy of finding beauty in the unloved and unlovely; the joy that comes from sharing and treating my neighbor as I want to be treated. He has showed me how to ignore those that would spitefully use me or say things about me in their ignorance of human values. Because of my father, I can know who my friends are and I can be a friend.

My father allowed me to rear my own family and to love them; not to expect my parents or the neighbors to watch over them, correct them, train them. He taught me that children are a gift and not one to be shoved off on some one who cannot be responsible for them. For this I am thankful also.

I have learned to work hard, manage well and be thankful for whatever is placed in my care. I know that the most important work I will ever do is the care of my home. It is by far the most rewarding job a person can have—and I have had many. Some from necessity, some from the boredom of being alone.

Although my father has improved my living standard considerably from what it once was, I haven't received my main inheritance. I have so much to look forward to because I believe in my father with all my heart and I am trying each day to live up to the standards he set for me. One day, I will receive wealth and riches beyond my wildest dreams, and since my father now supplies my every need, I don't have to be concerned about material things.

I am looking forward to seeing my father. He is getting ready to come take me on a marvelous trip that will be more thrilling than any I have ever taken, so I am going to be ready.

My Father? My Father is my Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.
Mrs. H. Soltwisch

Social Security News

Terry Clements

The 1983 Amendments to the Social Security Act changed the provisions for Medicare payments to hospitals. Beginning October 1, 1983, Medicare hospital reimbursements will be based on a predetermined fixed rate for each type treatment. Hospitals are prohibited from charging beneficiaries more than this fixed amount plus the Medicare deductible. This standardized prospective payment provision replaces the computation of Medicare payments based on each specific hospital's past costs.

The new provision is centered around the classification of medical services into "diagnosis related groups." Payments are based according to how each of the services is classified.

The new payment provisions will be phased in over a three year period. In the first year, beginning October 1, 1983, the Medicare payment to hospitals for each case will be 25 percent of the new prospective payment rate plus 75 percent of the rate based on the hospital's past costs.

The payment based on the new prospective payment rate will rise to 50 percent in the second year and 75 percent in the third year. Effective Oct. 1, 1986, the Medicare reimbursements to hospitals will be based solely on the prospective payment amount for each type case. Each year, the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services will determine the rate of increase in the standardized rate necessary to maintain efficient, effective and high quality medical care. Every four years, the standardized rate will be recomputed to reflect changes in technology.

If you have a question concerning Medicare or any Social Security question, please call us at 293-4371. If you need to visit our office our address is 1401-B West 5th St. in Plainview.

Helpful Hints

By Catherine Henderson

1) When you open a bottle of cold drink, turn the top of the bottle from you. Sometimes the drink will explode due to the defect in the bottle cap.

2) If you are making a water container or trough or a drum from a gas container tank, don't beat or hammer on it, it will explode.

3) If you live alone don't go into the house at night smoking. Sometimes gas will leak out in the house. If there is a large amount, don't call anyone, open the doors and get out. If you turn on a light switch or use the telephone with the house full of gas, the house will explode. Wherever there is an electric cord, it will set fire inside the wall.

4) If you're about 500 miles from a small atomic bomb when it goes off, you see a radiation cloud passing through and you are not in your shelter, stand as near an animal as you can. The hair on the animal will pick up the radiation. The animal will also flop her ears as if there were flies on them.

5) If gun powder explodes and hits you in the face, your face will be the same color for some time.

CONSTANT COMMENTS
By DAVID & EUNICE BIGELOW

Did you know that tea is the world's most popular beverage—besides water? Tea appeals to people of every age because it's a completely natural beverage...is low in caffeine...and offers a great variety of flavors.

Choose from classic traditional teas—plain black teas such as Irish Breakfast, English Teatime or Earl Grey; special blends—fine black teas to which flavorings such as lemon, peppermint or orange and spice are added; and herb teas. Herb teas contain no tea leaves at all—they're herbs, blended together for a variety of delicious flavors, such as orange and spice, mint or apples and cinnamon.

Enjoy the simple pleasure of a cup of tea by itself or use teas as the base of other drinks. Special blend teas such as "Constant Comment" are especially nice to combine with other ingredients, such as liqueurs or fruit juices, to make truly special tea punches, toddies and more. Write for our free recipe brochure, "Out Of This World Recipes Featuring Constant Comment" for simple ways to serve unforgettable teas and tea drinks.
