Candlelight Service Read At Post By Chaplain For Illinois Couple

Miss June Schwieger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Schwieger of Port Byron, Ill., and Pvt. James Franks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Connie Franks of Erie, Ill., were married at 9 p. m. Saturday night in candlelight service read at the bombardier school post chapel.

Chaplain James Patterson read the wedding vows. The chapel was decorated with flowers and white tapers in tall candelabra.

The vows were exchanged before a white arch twined with green fern. Two large baskets of peach gladioli and blue and white flowers were on either side of the gateway to the altar. A golden cross and two gold candlesticks were in the background.

The bride wore a white bridal satin and lace gown made on princess lines with a fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline. The leg-of-mutton sleeves ended in a pointed cuff over the wrists. Satin covered buttons made the fastenings down the back of the dress. The bodice was shirred and trimmed with lillies of the valley. Lace inserts extended from the shoulder to the hem and around the three foot train.

The bride's veil was of tulle trimmed with lace and was fingertip length. It was held in place with a coronet of seed pearls and brilliants. Her only jewelry was a gold bracelet, gift of the bridegroom, and a gold necklace with her brother, Ronald Schwieger's fraternity crest.

Her bouquet was centered with an orchid and showered with white carnations.

The maid of honor was Jane Pearson, Boston, Mass., who wore pink chiffon made with a shirred bodice. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations and blue tuberoses. Sgt. James Tye, Boston, Mass., was the bridegroom's attendant.

The bride's mother dressed in pale blue chiffon with white accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Wedding music was by Auxiliary Lewis who played "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" by Wagner as the processional.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the First Baptist church with Mrs. P. D. O'Brien and Mrs. Roy Rogan acting as hostesses.

Baskets of gladioli decorated the rooms and the table was strewn with red rosebuds and fern. A three tiered white cake topped with a miniature bride and groom was cut and served.

The bride was graduated from Hilldale III high school in the class of 1941 where she won honors in an essay and literary contest.

The bridegroom was also a student at the Hilldale school and later attended trade school at East Moline, Ill. He was employed by the American Machine and Metal company in East Moline prior to entering the army.

Shoe rationing reminds us of those long ago days when we could look but couldn't touch things ranging from candy to the next door neighbor's baby.

In those days, some things would strike our eyes and we'd reach for what we wanted. But, as it was usually on the taboo list, the standard remark was, "mustn't touch."

Mother was usually the deciding factor in such matters, and now it's the government. We stand and look at windows full of shoes. Summer ones, fall ones, high heeled and low but that ration card we carry says "look but mustn't touch."

When we were little and so admonished we would howl to high heaven, to try to dent parental will. Sometimes we won over the highest authority, and it was quite a feeling of victory.

But now we could howl from morning till night, and we do in a grown up sort of way, but we can't move the iron will of a ration book. The story remains the same, three pairs a year, no more.

"Mother knows best" was another stock answer that used to cover a variety of denied wants. Now it's the government that in effect puts us on the head and says "wait until the war is over" instead of "you can when you grow up."

Collections Fall Off In 35 Sources Of Federal Revenue

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—Despite an over-all increase of more than $9,324,000,000 during the fiscal year 1942, collections fell off in 35 of the government's 86 sources of internal revenue, the treasury reported.

Total receipts in the 12-month period ended June 30 were $22,371,388,498, compared with $13,047,868,517 for 1941-42.

Sharpest drop occurred in manufacturers' excise taxes. In that group, gasoline taxes fell $80,801,324 below the $889,587,150 taken in during fiscal '42; levies on auto manufacture dropped more than $75,000,000 to only $1,424,230.

Biggest revenue hike resulted from higher income and excess profits levies, more than doubling the previous year's $8,006,883,543 to reach $16,898,888,091.

Receipts from liquor taxes were up $375,129,749.

Revenue from theater admissions gained $39,418,454.

SIX DON'TS

for Better Wartime Operation of Your Electric Refrigerator

- DON'T put steaming hot foods in the refrigerator, as this increases the inside temperature. Give hot foods sufficient time to cool.
- DON'T overload your refrigerator. Overloading prevents proper circulation of cold air.
- DON'T let a "blanket of frost" collect on the freezing unit. When frost is more than one-fourth inch thick, it's time to defrost. In hot weather, frost collects faster.
- DON'T use a sharp instrument to pry ice trays free. You may puncture the freezing compartment and cause serious damage. Remove ice trays carefully.
- DON'T run your refrigerator on "high" any longer than necessary when you are freezing desserts or other foods. When the freezing is finished, turn control to normal.
- DON'T try to fix your refrigerator yourself when trouble develops. You'll save money, and may save your refrigerator, by calling a reliable refrigerator service man.

Post Office Business Is Increased

Volume in all phases of activity has picked up pronouncedly during the fiscal year ending June 30 at the postoffice, figures released by Postmaster Nat Shick show.

Only unimpressive gain in the number of COD packages mailed, and here it is surmised that an abundance of money is naturally cutting down in this type of business.

Why receipts show gains of from 20 to 50 per cent from month to month may be explained in these figures given by the post-office.

1941-42 1942-43
Type 1941-42 1942-43

This increase in business, the postmaster said, had been handled with the addition of only two more staff members.

They tried to find out through U.S. Army headquarters, but when they refused to show their orders no one there would help them. Army regulations are that military personnel coming into an area report to the adjutant general's office.

Colonel Ralph Pulsifer of the adjutant general's office knew that the WACs were expected. He told his assistant that there should be two WACs in town, and that they would just see how long it took the women to check in.

They waited and they waited. Finally, Pulsifer decided he had better go find the WACs. He ran into Capt. Hansen just outside U.S. headquarters.

"Don't you know you are supposed to report to the adjutant general's office?" he asked.

"No, sir," she replied, "my orders were to report to General Eaker."

He finally persuaded her it would be okay for her to come in—in fact he ordered her to report to his office—and then helped the two secretive WACs on their way.

Daring Rescue Of 50 Wounded Marines Told

GUADALCANAL, July 22 (Delayed) (AP)—The daring rescue of more than 50 wounded American Marines by three Catalina flying boat crews who fought off an enemy bombing and strafing attack lasting half an hour while taking the wounded aboard at New Georgia Island was disclosed at the Solomon Islands air headquarters today.

Lt. (j.g.) R. B. Blodgett of Sacramento, Calif., pilot of one of the flying boats was wounded in the arm. His co-pilot, Ensign A. L. Mearns of Santa Cruz, Calif., was slightly wounded by a shrapnel fragment.

With several holes in the wings and hull and the air speed indicator out of commission, Blodgett took off with the heavily overloaded flying boat and successfully landed the evacuees and crew on water at night at a base. Two other Catalinas carried out similar loads.

This first mission to evacuate wounded was made July 11, a day after the combined marines and army infantry had completed a five-day jungle march from their anchorage and captured four heavy Japanese naval guns on the western point of Enogai Inlet.

Flight Leader Blodgett related the story of the rescue flight this way:

Three flying boats first landed in the late afternoon. Each plane immediately put out two rubber lifeboats manned by two crewmen each to ferry the wounded from the shore.

"We took aboard the wounded," Blodgett said, "and shortly after we had finished, Joseph Strimmetter of Fort Worth, Tex., the crew captain was hauling in anchor when two planes attacked us.

"They made a couple of strafing runs and one bombing pass before we could get our guns firing! One small bomb landed in the water off our bow.

"Marines shore guns joined in firing on the enemy planes, which kept up their strafing passes but didn't dare again approach within effective range. After a half hour of this, the Japanese withdrew."

Waiting until almost dark after the Japanese withdrew, the three planes took off on the return flight.

They were targets for some ack ack but were unhit.

Lt. (j.g.) A. M. Caldwell, San Diego, Calif., piloted the third plane. His crew included Lt. (j.g.) R. K. Giffen, Lubbock, Tex.

Milk Producers, Authorities Ready To Tackle Problem Of Improving Quality Of Milk Supply In This Area

In seemingly better spirits and with more understanding, milk producers and health authorities today were ready to tackle the problem of steadily improving quality of milk from the local milkshed.

A. C. Frather, state health department milk specialist, here for a meeting of producers and health unit officials, said he planned to return in about 10 days to spend several weeks with these marketing supplies locally.

He and V. A. Cross, sanitarian for the Big Spring-Howard county health unit, will call on every producer at milking time, going over any problems the producer has and offering suggestions, he promised.

At the Monday meeting, milk producers raised several questions about milking methods, equipment, etc., and answers indicated that while certain equipment standards might be passed for the duration, that all contributing to milkshed would be expected to put forth all reasonable effort to deliver clean milk.

Marvin Sewell, apparently voicing the sentiment of several other producers, expressed a desire

Shortage Of Cotton Choppers May Lead To Drought Damage

Effect of insufficient cotton choppers is apt to be revealed in drought damage later on should the current "dry spell" become prolonged, County Agent O. P. Griffin predicted today.

Lack of hands as well as lack of experience on the part of those who have served as cotton choppers this season has resulted in much of the county's acreage being left too thick for safety's sake. Properly spaced cotton has phenomenal drought resisting qualities, but where it is so closely spaced that plants compete with one another, its staying properties are greatly diminished.

However, all of this may be borrowing trouble, for thus far cotton has been making one of the most remarkable growths on record for this county. In areas where there has been an abundance of moisture, abnormally hot weather has only served to make cotton grow as if by magic. The crop has suffered in spots in the western part of Howard county and in southern Martin county.

Feed has begun to twist, but it is not yet materially damaged. Several more days of intense heat without moisture might cause irreparable harm to the plants and reduce grain yields. In the absence of showers, the leaf worm menace has been held in abeyance, for it has been too hot and dry for the creatures, already spotted in some localities, to hatch. This is enabling many producers to stock up on calcium arsenate and to get poisoning equipment ready in event it is needed.

New Rule Puzzles, Yet Amuses, AAA Chairman Here

Somewhat puzzled, somewhat amused, just a wee bit at a loss as to why any citizen, regardless of his position, can't make an honest statement when he wants to, L. H. Thomas, veteran chairman of the county AAA set-up, shows no indications of letting a new "gag" rule run him into retirement.

Over in Taylor county B. H. Pritchard, head of the AAA and USDA war board for that county, announced he was ready to "quit and go back to my farming." He added that he "intended to remain a free man... and I'm plenty sore at this moment."

Under a rider tacked on by congressmen in voting appropriations, no AAA field employees may give any AAA information to the public through press or radio in the future. This was an outgrowth of a house committee recommendation after an investigation of complaints from colonels and the Farm Bureau Federation that AAA employees and committeemen had sought to influence congress in consideration of the incentive-crop payment asked by Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard. Congress rejected the request.

Under new regulations, distribution of AAA information must now be left to state and county agricultural extension services. Thomas and M. Weaver, administrative assistant, said that henceforth County Agent O. P. Griffin would be authority for local AAA statements.

Home Made Putter Was Used By 'Jug' M'Spadden

Tam O'Shanter Champion To Play In Detroit

CHICAGO, July 27, (AP) — Four years ago Harold (Jug) McSpadden took 39 putts on 18 holes during a Pasadena Calif. golf tournament and decided on the spot that his putter rather than himself was to blame.

So he went to work and fashioned a home-made weapon out of odds and ends screwing a brass plate onto the face of the club and boring holes in the bottom, which he filled with enough lead to bring the weight up to a hefty 21 ounces.

Yesterday he cashed in on this over-weighted battle axe by staking a 20-foot birdie putt on the 18th green to card a 71—one under par—and win the Tam O'Shanter open championship by a one-stroke margin in a playoff with Buck White of Greenwood, Miss.

Jug collected $2,000 to White's $1,400.

Tourney officials auctioned off Jug's golf club for $4,000, but were flatly refused when they asked if they could put this precious putter up for sale.

The Philadelphia pro, who worked up from the caddy ranks of Kansas City, Mo., to become runner-up for the 1937 PGA championship and winner of the 1939 Canadian open, as well as the Miami open last winter, now goes to Detroit to play on the Ryder cup team against Walter Hagen, challenger, August 7 and 8.

Dodgers Manage Narrow Win Over Brave Bostonians

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

A last second reprieve, in the form of Augie Galan's ninth inning single that tied the score followed by Arky Vaughan's grand slam homer with the bases full in the tenth, kept the Brooklyn Dodgers from tumbling into third place in the National league yesterday.

Vaughan socked a tremendous drive to deep center for an inside the park homer off relief pitcher Bill Brandt and a 10 to 6 Brooklyn triumph.

Brooklyn remained 8 1-2 games out of first place, however, as the pace-setting St. Louis Cardinals made it nine in a row by beating the Boston Braves, 6 to 3.

In the American league the first place New York Yankees made only three hits off Jake Wade, but beat the Chicago White Sox anyway, 5 to 2. The victory stretched the Yanks' lead to eight games as the second place Detroit Tigers lost to the Philadelphia Athletics, 2 to 1.

Catcher Ray Mueller walloped two homers, good for six runs, as the Cincinnati Reds thumped the Phillies 8 to 2, while the New York Giants ended a seven-game losing streak by beating the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 3.

The St. Louis Browns snapped their five-game losing streak by defeating the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 1, behind Bob Muncie's three-hit pitching.

Cleveland started a new winning streak by walloping Washington, 7 to 2, as Jim Bagby chalked up his 10th win of the campaign.

Conn Suggests Special Bouts In Army Post

NEW YORK, July 27, (AP) — Speaking strictly as a soldier, Corporal William David Conn of the 119th Engineers stepped up today with a suggestion that Billy Conn, the fighter, and Joe Louis, the champ, put on their red-hot return brawl for the doughboys at army posts all over the world.

This is the punch-party that was on the way to drawing a million dollars last fall—at $25 per copy—before it got an official "thumbs down." And Billy's idea now is that the army send him with sergeant Joe on that planned world tour of army posts so they can give Uncle Sam's soldiers the show wherever they are—and for free.

From out in Camp Campbell, Kentucky, the Pittsburgh pretty boy dropped a line to his manager, Johnny Ray—known around and about as Broadway Johnny—proposing the idea. Naturally, if the plan gets the green light, Joe and Billy would be boxing exhibitions.

But their return go has been rated the hottest thing in sports ever since the night two years ago when Conn came closer to taking the bomber's heavyweight title away than any other challenging back-buster since Joe pinned on the bauble back in '37.

And Billy reckons that if folks want to see it that much, why not give Uncle Sam's boys a road show preview—a preview, mind you, because he fully expects he and the sarge will get together with the blue chips down as soon as this bigger fight is over.

Stamp No. 14 Good August - October

WASHINGTON, July 27, (AP)—Sugar stamp No. 14 in ration book No. 1 will become valid August 16 and will be good for five pounds of sugar through October, the Office of Price Administration announced today. This is on the same basis of previous rations—about one half pound per person per week.

The presently valid stamp No. 13 will expire August 15. OPA said it made the early announcement to enable the trade to plan packaging.

After School Softball league games, the 365th, winner of the first half and doped to romp away with the second, salvaged the bruises of several recent beatings and rallied to beat the 3652nd Ordnance, 5-7, while the 359th rode in on the strength of Henderson's homer to a 3-0 victory over the 78th.

That blow of Henderson's, coming in the first with two mates aboard, was all the scoring for the game. Henderson added another hit and Timko got a double for the 78th, but a fine pitchers' duel between Tate and Reich choked off further offenses.

Trailing by four runs and anemic at bat, the 365th put on a storybook finish in the seventh by scoring five runs. Lazarus was the 365th hero with two hits, the second going for a single although it doubtless could have been stretched to a homer had it not been punched across the winning tally. Block had two for three for the 365th, and Halder, Ordnance twirler, did heroic work at bat all in vain. He got two for three.

Literally pounding the Mess men into submission, all but three of the North Maintenance batters got two for four. McCord set the pattern with a homer and single with both Melisk and Nelson contributing a three-ply knock and a bingle. Line scores:

Wounded Soldiers Will Have Own Golf Course

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., July 27, (AP) — Wounded American doughboys soon will be hastening their recovery on a nine-hole golf course tailored to fit their strength.

"We have all the equipment available," said Lieut. Fred Morganstern, special service officer at the army's vast Valley Forge General Hospital. "If things move along as we hope we'll be playing on it this fall."

To conserve the strength of recuperating players, the course—built by army personnel—will be semi-miniature in size, with the 110-yard No. 3 hole the shortest. Weekly visits of eight or 10 pros from the area were promised by Diegel, who said: "The British discovered early in the war that golf is of immense value in the rehabilitation of patients. We feel that the best we can do is provide the facilities for the boys and instruct those who show any desire to play."

A message for you...from 1953

(Today, John Jones is just an average American, wrestling with all the doubts and worries and problems that beset every one of us right now. But let's skip ahead 10 years. Let's look at John Jones then—and listen to him . . .)

"SOMETIMES I feel so good it almost scares me.

"This house—I wouldn't swap a shingle off its roof for any other house on earth. This little valley, with the pond down in the hollow at the back, is the spot I like best in all the world.

"And they're mine. I own 'em. Nobody can take 'em away from me.

"I've got a little money coming in, regularly. Not much—but enough. And I tell you, when you can go to bed every night with nothing on your mind except the fun you're going to have tomorrow—that's as near Heaven as a man gets on this earth!

"It wasn't always so.

"Back in '43—that was our second year of war, when we were really getting into it—I needed cash. Taxes were tough, and then Ellen got sick. Like most everybody else, I was buying War Bonds through the Payroll Plan—and I figured on cashing some of them in. But sick as she was, it was Ellen who talked me out of it.

"Don't do it, John!" she said. "Please don't! For the first time in our lives, we're really saving money. It's wonderful to know that every single payday we have more money put aside! John, if we can only keep up this saving, think what it can mean! Maybe someday you won't have to work. Maybe we can own a home. And oh, how good it would feel to know that we need never worry about money when we're old!"

"Well, even after she got better, I stayed away from the weekly poker game—quit dropping a little cash at the hot spots now and then—gave up some of the things a man feels he has a right to. We made clothes do—cut out fancy foods. We didn't have as much fun for awhile but we paid our taxes and the doctor and—we didn't touch the War Bonds.

"We didn't touch the War Bonds then, or any other time. And I know this: The world wouldn't be such a swell place today if we had!"

We'll Have An Interest In Italy--And At An Early Date

The columnists and the radio analysts are having their field day in regard to the Mussolini upset, and we'll be treated to many an opinion as to causes and results. The one sure sign is that Italy's exit as an enemy nation is greatly expedited.

The fact that his "resignation" has occurred is indication that the Italian people, too, had recognized Benito for what he was. If the king hadn't taken the steps he did, an uprising probably would have occurred. This was doubtless foreseen, and the overthrow of Mussolini was an action taken to forestall a more disastrous turn of events.

troops before long enter the country, occupy what they want, establish the bases they want and exercise the rule they need to extract it means that the attack on Germany will be facilitated to a degree, but the attack must be carried on.

Washington-- Appropriations May Taper Off With Next Year

WASHINGTON--It won't mean anything so far as taxes are concerned for years to come, but it's considered certain on the Hill that wartime appropriations for the last two fiscal years hit the peak.

Starting with 1944, war appropriations probably will taper off sharply, even if the war still is raging, and may even do a crash dive if victory is in sight.

As a matter of fact, members of Congress, now returning home for the first long period in more than three years, probably will make a point of this. There has to be some answer to charges such as that hurled by Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones in his tiff with Vice President Wallace: "Squandering the people's money, even in wartime, is no proof of patriotism."

Couple this with the declaration of Sen. Robert M. La Follette: "I do not hesitate to make the statement that if Congress refuses to appropriate another dollar, this war could be carried on for two years without any (further) action by Congress."

And that from Sen. Harry S. Truman: "The Army and Navy . . . know how to waste money better than any other organization I ever had anything to do with."

Wrap these statements up with that of Sen. Harry F. Byrd: At the beginning of the 1943-44 fiscal year, there was more than $303,000,000 in the Treasury, appropriated for war purposes, but unexpended, and the war agencies of the government have authority to make contract authorizations for nearly $25,000,000,000 more."

He pointed out that this staggering sum (only a book obligation, not cash in hand, understand) is exclusive of the vast amounts being expended by government corporations. Emphasizing the fact that up to now Congress has almost without a whimper appropriated everything that the Army, Navy and other war agencies have asked for, Senator Byrd said: "It seems to me the time has come when closer scrutiny should be given the colossal appropriations now being made."

Add all this up and you begin to get the picture of things to come. Not yet has the United States been able to spend a hundred billion dollars a year for war purposes, yet appropriations and contract authorizations now enacted give us $228,000,000,000 to play with next year.

In the closing days of the Congressional session, there was plenty of evidence of rebellion against blanket appropriations. Army and Navy requests for funds did go through unscathed--but with some reluctance. Some other war agencies didn't do so well.

It's pretty freely predicted that once the boys get back to explaining billions to the constituents, it will be a different story and that from autumn on the Army, Navy and other agencies will have to spend what they have already, and spend it well, before they get more.

New Drug Made From Mold; Jungle Natives' Medicine Developed

By JOHN L. SPRINGER AP Features Writer In England a mold fell accidentally from the air. A girl in Germany pricked her finger with a needle. A scientist rolled a clump of New York dirt in his hands. Screaming witch doctors in the Amazon mixed a brew to kill their enemies.

These four incidents, at different times and in different places, helped open the way for what scientists now are calling "the age of medical miracles."

The wandering English mold led to the discovery of penicillin—the mighty germ-fighter that scientists expect will save the lives of thousands on the battlefronts of the world. The experience of the young German girl unfolded the sensational sulfa drugs. The New York soil was the birth-place of gramicidin, even more powerful than sulfa. And preliminary studies show that the witch doctors, with their brew of curare, long ago hit upon the relaxing agents medical men have needed to treat diseases without shock.

Penicillin's story goes back to 1929 and the laboratory of Professor Alexander Fleming in London as he began a routine study of bacteria. As he had done many times before, Fleming prepared a virtual Garden of Eden for his germs. He filled a culture plate with a jelly-like substance in which they might thrive and multiply. Then absent-mindedly he left the plate exposed.

He returned to find the bacteria dead. Fleming sought the reason, and discovered an uninvited guest—penicillin, a common mold found in the air and soil and a member of the same tribe as the greenish, moldy growth found on hard, stale bread. It appeared to have given off a "poison gas"—penicillin—that paralyzed bacteria.

For years Fleming tried to extract the gas and explore its effect on the germs that invade human beings. Then Howard Florey, Oxford university's see pathologist, stepped in and found how to do the job. Sensational Tests First tests of penicillin on humans made hardened medical men rub their eyes. One patient's body was covered with abscesses. He was given injections and within five days his sores had gone. Serious eye infections cleared up. Germs in open wounds were routed.

Scientists say it's still too early to tell all that penicillin can and can not do. But its entire American production, under strict government control and sponsorship, is going to the armed forces. And penicillin researchers believe that on the battlefields—where open wounds have scourged soldiers for centuries—its brightest achievements will be recorded.

The sulfa drugs—sulfanilamide and its offspring, sulfapyridine, sulfathiazol and others—had a similar accidental beginning. These are the drugs that have slashed away at pneumonia, child-bed fever, erysipelas, gonorrhea, scarlet fever and scores of other dreaded diseases, and that have kept deaths from wound infections in World War II to an amazing minimum.

An obscure student named Gellom, at the Vienna Institute of Technology in 1906, opened the story. He devised a dye—"paraminobenzenesulfonamide"—out of more. But the studio bosses called in a man of their own, and the final release was eight or nine reels. "Today 'Greed' is still showing at the Museum of Modern Art in New York, and in Russia I understand they never start to make a picture without looking at 'Greed' first," von Stroheim says.

"There were so many amusing stories about me," he says. "Many of them had a grain of truth but little else. They made a laugh for readers -- including producers who believed them. For instance, I never kept a crowd of extras on salary for three days while I tried to coax a scene from a dog, but that story persists to this day."

Von Stroheim became a director after the last war, when fans were tired of war pictures and arrogant Prussian officers were no longer needed before the camera. For nine months he was jobless. Then he talked the late Carl Laemmle into letting him produce, direct, and star in a story he had written, "Blind Husbands."

"It cost $42,000, I made it in seven weeks," he says, "and it made over a million dollars." Then came "Foolish Wives," and the build-up of von Stroheim as a merry spender. It was billed as "the first $1,000,000 picture" and a lot of people, even in Hollywood where folks should know better, believed it. In the midst of his fourth production, "Merry-Go-Round," he was removed as director. And then came the picture that "ruined" him: "Greed," based on Frank Norris's realistic novel "McTeague."

Samuel Goldwyn signed him to do it, and "Von" went to work. He shot for nearly two years, and came up at the end with 42 reels—after Goldwyn had left the studio (now M-G-M) to produce independently. The new studio manager was aghast at the footage, ordered it lopped. Von Stroheim himself wanted it cut to 24 reels, for showing in the manner later followed by Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude"—two hours before dinner, time out for dinner, two hours afterward, all in one evening. "I was ahead of O'Neill," he says, "and nearly 20 years ahead of 'Gone With the Wind,' which was nearly four hours long."

"Von" cut and cut, got it to 24 reels, then enlisted the aid of his friend Rex Ingram who painstakingly eliminated six reels

Hollywood Sights And Sounds--

Complete Come-back Is Made By Von Stroheim

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD -- If you talk to Erich von Stroheim, you'll hear him call himself a "ham" five times in the first half hour. His come-back as an actor—or a ham—would seem to be complete, a return that will last as long as pictures require a horrible example of the Nazi militarist, stiff-backed, bull-necked, leeringly evil. "But 'Von' is not completely happy with his success, will never be wholly satisfied until he is permitted again to direct pictures as well as act in them.

MURDER IN TIN By CARL A. PETERSON

Chapter 8 After leaving Fall, I could only think of Sam Taggard's daughter. Our facts about her were not too revealing. I was looking forward to meeting her. If she were a Gestapo agent, I wanted to know.

The Taggard tin was certainly a mess and Sam Taggard alive or dead, was still in the center of it. If he were dead, our main job still had to continue. His discovery had to be rediscovered and the missing maps found.

The other alternative was to send tin-hunting expeditions into all the mountains of the Latin America. I thought of Lila Taggard again. She must have gotten my name from the desk clerk. And she had also found out when I was in my room and when I was out. And Mirtilo had called upon her during the siesta hour when people usually do not have visitors. It was then only then that she had called on me and asked me in English not Spanish where her father was. Strange actions. She suspected me of being a Government man and yet she had brought Mirtilo and myself together. Why?

When I finally reached the hotel the manager nodded at me from his desk. "I have a letter for you, Senor Calder." He passed me an envelope.

Flopping down into a chair I slit the envelope open. I first looked at the signature—Taggard. I read: "Dear Mr. Calder, I called on you to thank you for your assistance. I will get in touch with you when I return. Yours truly, Lila Taggard."

"Oh, nothing much. I have a place in Acapulco. I do water colors. I also copy some of the native patterns introduce variations of my own and send the designs to department stores."

"A retired tourist, aren't you?" "Not exactly. I sell some of my designs. Anyway, you can't call me a tourist. I've lived south of the Rio Grande most of my life."

"Now if I were living in the States," she said, "I might be described as a tourist." "I don't think you would be a tourist back in the States," I pressed the street level button. "You might be a WAAC or working in a war plant."

SPECIAL LENSES AID TO GUNNERS
SOUTH BRIDGE, Mass., July 27 (AP)—Manufacture of military goggles with red plastic lenses to aid gunners in following the paths of tracer bullets to enemy targets in broad daylight, was announced by the American Optical company.

The goggles help gunners estimate how close the bullets come to the targets and also aid in adapting pilots' eyes to darkness, the company said.

mining engineer who spends his time advising women to work in defense plants. See here Mr. Calder, I'm sick and tired of being hounded by the Government. "I am not an F. B. I. man," I insisted. She shook her head as if to say: It's pointless lying to me. "I followed your friend, Mirtilo yesterday," I said.

"You did." Her composure was a pale composure. "He's not a friend of mine."
"Why do you feel you're being hounded by the government? It's your Government or have you forgotten like your father?"
"My father—" She gasped out the two words and trembled.
I stared at her. Her emotion was the real thing as far as I could tell. And what if it were the real thing, I thought. Hadn't she called me into her room yesterday when Mirtilo had been there? She was working from some blueprint of her own. She had her own reasons for wanting Mirtilo to meet me and for me to meet Mirtilo. Like a draftsman she had connected our two spheres of activity with a straight line. She knew that both the Gestapo and our side had set themselves the common task of finding Sam Taggard. She had her own reasons for wanting to derail both of us; to re-direct our drives towards each other and away from her father. She had had considerable success last night, I considered. "Where is your father?" I said quickly.

...and it won for him a doctor's degree in chemistry.

For almost 30 years the formula lay virtually unused for medical treatment. Then, in 1935, Dr. Gerhard Domagk's search for a killer that would attack germs but not cell tissues led him to the Gelmo dye. He tried it on sick mice and rabbits—and it worked.

Then his daughter pricked her finger. Blood poisoning set in, and the best specialists Domagk could find told him the infection would be fatal. In desperation he tried the sulfa. The girl recovered—and the first of a long line of "miracles" began.

THIRD WAR LOAN IN SEPTEMBER

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt today formally proclaimed Sept. 9 for the start of a third war loan campaign and asked every American to "back the attack" with war bond purchases according to "his conscience."

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau has set a goal of $15,000,000,000 for the drive and Mr. Roosevelt asserted that "in carrying the war into enemy territory, we shall need greater amounts of money than any nation has ever asked from its citizens in all history."

man occupation and control it is too early to forecast.

Declaring that vast Allied forces are standing at the doorway of Italy, the prime minister asked: What is it these vast forces bring to Italy? They may bring, if the Italian people so decide, relief from war, freedom from servitude and after an interval a respectable place in a new and rescued Europe.

He added: "When I learned of the scenes enacted in the streets of the fine city of Palermo, of the entry of the United States army and I review the mass of detailed information with which I have been supplied I can not doubt that the main wish of the Italian people is to be quit of the German taskmasters."

If Italy continues to fight with the Germans, however, he said, "from North and South, from sea and from air and by amphibious descents we shall endeavor to bring the utmost rigor of war increasingly upon them."

At this point he said that orders have already been given to the effect:

"Since no 'approaches' have been received from the Italians he said, 'no new decision is called for from us except the decision already taken to pour fire and steel upon every military target of significance throughout Italy.'"

Food Demonstrations Planned This Week

Two food conservation demonstrations are being planned at local churches this week, Mildred Atkinson, food conservation specialist, announced Tuesday.

The first will be Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. in the East Fourth Baptist basement. The other will be Friday at 9:30 a. m. in the First Presbyterian church basement at 701 Runnels.

All women are invited to participate. Miss Atkinson suggested they bring their lunches. If they also bring food to can, ample jars and lids should be brought along also.

Guffey Wants Wallace Again

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—The political future of Henry Agard Wallace, Iowa farmer and magazine editor who became vice president, was dug up today for a post-mortem only a short time after some capital speculation had laid it peacefully to rest.

Spearheading the spadework was Senator Joe Guffey, who said: "I have no hesitancy whatever in saying that I'm for Roosevelt and Wallace as a democratic ticket in 1944."

O'Daniel Brothers Part Owners Of Radio Station

CORPUS CHRISTI, July 27 (AP)—Pat and Mike O'Daniel, sons of United States Senator W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas, are among stockholders of the new 50,000-watt radio station to be operated here by Baylor University and Carr P. Collins, head of the Crazy Water Crystals Co. of Mineral Wells, according to Broadcasting, weekly news magazine of radio.

Bollworm Infestation Threatens Howard County Cotton Fields

A "believe-it-or-not" is threatening many cotton fields in the county, County Agent O. P. Griffin said Tuesday.

In several instances, cotton bollworms have appeared long before their time—even infesting fields which had no blooms at the time eggs were laid.

The Moore community appears to be most heavily attacked, with the Charles Adams, Edgar Phillips and R. D. Hatch estate farms reporting worst infestations to date. The condition is spotted in the community even as it is over the county.

Griffin warned that bollworms could work particular havoc at this stage of cotton development. After feeding on leaves for about four days, they will attack squares

Five Escapees Are Captured

WATERTOWN, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—The recapture of five soldier-prisoners from Pine Camp military reservation was announced today by military authorities.

The provost marshal's office said the quintet would be returned today from Otsego county jail at Cooperstown, where they were confined after their apprehension by state police about midnight.

All are subject to further court martial for escape from confinement, the office said.

Officials, who expressed uncertainty as to how the five escaped from the 14,000-acre reservation yesterday, declined to disclose the charges on which they were sentenced originally.

The fugitives were identified as Alfred Cole, 23, Plainview, Tex., and Lyle Allen, 23, Beloit, Wis., serving 15 years each; Eugene Foster, 20, Clarkdale, Tex.; Clarence E. Byerly, 19, Galesburg, Ill.; and Nicholas Cromley, 18, Lempeoc, Calif., serving six month terms.

School Transfer Deadline Near

There remains only the rest of this week, County Superintendent Walker Bailey reminded Tuesday, to effect scholastic transfers, since July 31 is the deadline.

Bailey explained that these should transfer:

Pupils in rural districts who have already completed the grades taught in their home district and who plan to attend a high school.

Pupils who have moved from one school district into another since the school census was taken last March. These should transfer to the district where they plan to attend school.

Pupils whose district will not have any school this year. These should transfer to whatever district they plan to attend.

Boy Scout Budget Parley Today

Boy Scout leaders of the Buffalo Trail council will convene at 8 p. m. today in the Settles hotel for the important annual budget parley.

The session, which will be presided over by Charles Faxton, Sweetwater, veteran council president, is being held a little earlier than usual.

Prospects are that financial drives over the entire 16-county area will be held simultaneously the first week in September to avoid conflict with the third war loan drive after Sept. 9 and the united war chest fund drive in October.

All districts of the council are expected to be represented, to agree upon quotas for the year. Other routine reports also will be heard.

Construction Labor Urgently Needed

Construction labor is now an urgent need here, O. R. Rodden, manager of the Big Spring sub-district office for U. S. Employment Service, reported Tuesday.

The need arises principally out of a project at the airport.

Labor-Management Committee Idea Is Given Boost By WPB

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—The labor-management committee idea is now getting a pulmotor, a shot in the arm, and a pat on the back.

The War Production Board (WPB) is all for more committees, hopes to have more set up in the next five months than were organized in the past 17 months.

The committees are composed of labor and management representatives, usually three or four of each group and only one committee to a war plant.

They meet regularly together—or are supposed to—to work out better ways of doing the production job.

The first committees were created in March, 1942. In the 10 months before year's end there were 1,900 of them. In the next 7 months only 300 more were added. WPB is bent on adding another 2,300 before Jan. 1.

Some of the committees are credited with being extremely successful, some less so, some pitiful. The reasons are many.

Important to success is the caliber of committee membership, real cooperation between labor and management. WPB is embarked upon a campaign not only to create more committees but to:

Pep those already existent but moribund; stimulate the activity of all committees; help all committees work by citing examples of successful committee work.

One prime means of doing this—WPB hopes—will be through a weekly publication, "The Labor-Management News," an 8-page paper first published last Saturday by the agency. It will go to management and labor.

The paper's emphasis will be on direct information and examples of how committee jobs are being done. There will be less dependency on the poster kind of inspiration which WPB had featured strongly before.

Here 'n There

W. L. McCollister, who always has a fine garden at his place in southeastern Big Spring has managed to produce considerable stuff this year despite dry and hot weather. Right now he has 600 tomato plants which bear a crop about ready to ripen. Originally he had 900 but hail nipped about a third.

The Rev. Bob Shuler, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church in Los Angeles, Calif., leader of successful revival here last year, is serving as evangelist for a union revival in Sweetwater. Despite precautions against spreading infantile paralysis, crowds have filled a tent to overflowing.

Woodson Brigrance, who farms in the Center Point region, reports that his cotton is doing fine. Abnormal heat has only stimulated its growth. However, feed stuff is beginning to twist under the continued and oppressive heat.

Gip D. Oldham, Carlbad, N. M., surrendered his driver's license for a period of six months and paid a $50 fine in corporate court Monday on entering a plea of guilty to a charge of dangerous driving.

Lieut. Bill Turpin is stationed on a small island in the British West Indies and says that conditions are very pleasant. He is a post exchange officer. Mrs. Turpin is residing here.

Firemen had two fire runs over the weekend. One was a car fire at 117 Main street Saturday evening and the other a trash fire at 303 W. 3rd street shortly after midnight the same evening.

Pfc. George Little, stationed at Camp Howze, is here visiting with relatives. He reported one of his brothers, Chester, was now a flight officer and stationed at Louisville, Ky.

After a silence of several weeks, Mrs. A. P. Kasch has heard from one of her sons, Arthur, who had been stationed in England for nearly a year as a bomber ground crew member. He wrote that he had breakfast in England and supper "on the hot sands somewhere in the Middle East."

The city pound is getting a few cow customers these days. With a poundmaster literally "riding herd" on Big Spring stray cattle are being penned by the city as rapidly as they are reported. Tuesday police cornered some stray cows with a patrol car while the mounted poundmaster arrived to take charge. Penalty for having an animal get in the pound is $2 plus 50 cents daily for feed.

Car lights are for a purpose and had better be in condition to serve that purpose, police warned again Tuesday. Police Chief J. B. Bruton said that there would be a series of checks made at night to discover faulty lights. Also, officers will be out to check on automobile horns. Points for the tests will be moved about, and as Bruton said, "there's no telling when or where we will start."

Four paid fines in justice court Tuesday morning, on pleas of guilty to charges of drunkenness. Two women were named in complaints of disturbance, and one paid a fine on a plea of guilty. Case of the other had not been disposed of.

Word Is Awaited On Sewer Program

City commissioners will review routine operations at their regular semi-monthly meeting this evening.

City Manager B. J. McDaniel said he hoped to have more definite word from the army concerning its participation in a sewer extension program. There were indications that possibly this participation would follow the lines as originally outlined before construction of the bombardier school here—an outright contribution to the city for plant enlargement in return for facilities.

Meanwhile, Clarence Cooper, city engineer, was about ready to start work on temporary work at the plant. This, said the city manager, would include a pumping system for effluent and sludge to higher drying beds.

Wall Street

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—Selling hit the stock market in the fourth hour today, after a morning of fairly good recoveries, and leaders in virtually all departments backed down 1 to more than 3 points.

Confusion over Italian developments, given as the excuse for liquidation of war issues in Monday's sharp relapse, seemed to have abated to a considerable extent when the session opened. Many weak performers of the day before revived moderately. Dealings, however, slackened appreciably on the attempted right-about and, when it was observed that buyers were exceptionally timid, professional operators began to offer rails and industrials in sizeable blocks. The pace slowed later and extreme casualties were reduced here and there.

Prominent on the side were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, American Telephone, Western Union, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Caterpillar Tractor, Douglas Aircraft, Owens-Illinois, Texas Co., and Westinghouse.
