

Entire Community Mourns After Local Youth's Death

A 14-year-old eighth grade student was killed Monday afternoon when he was struck in the head by a shot gun blast as he walked home from school.

George Mangram Jr. died at about 4:45 p.m. in an alley a block from the school in what officials said was apparently an accident. No charges have been filed although the case will be examined by the Grand Jury, according to County Attorney Howard Traweek.

Services were pending at press-time with Seigler Funeral Home in Matador. Born in Matador, Mangram was a student at Motley County School and was a member of the Macedonia Baptist Church.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Mangram Sr.; three brothers, Matte, Joe and Timothy; and six sisters, Debbie, Donna, Regina, Kathy and Margaret.

At an inquiry Tuesday morning witnesses said the victim, and Les Woosley and Memori Assiter were walking together after school at about 4:40. Jade Jones, 15, who was on his way out to their farm at Whiteflat, pulled into the alley to talk to them. He had placed a Remington 12-gauge pump shot gun in the seat of the pickup he was driving, barrel down toward the floor, in case he saw some birds to shoot.

Miss Assiter said she got into the pickup and Jones and she began to look at a magazine. Woosley also got into the pickup and began examining the shotgun. Mangram told his companions he had to be going and began walking away. Woosley had pumped a shell into the chamber shortly before it discharged, striking Mangram in the left side of the face.

Justice of the Peace Roy Smith pronounced Mangram dead at the scene, just east of the foundation of the old school building which had been destroyed by the May tornado.

(Note: the Mangram family requests the prayers of the community, that God will shed His grace on them in their time of sorrow.)

Hats Off To Motley County

By Mary Streit
Ext. Agent-Home Economics

A key to any successful program is having the support and interest of the community. This statement is no less true of 4-H. 4-H success is due to the many volunteers both parents and leaders, who give their time, talents and money to "making the best better." Motley County is blessed with many capable, caring and creative people.

In the last month, two major 4-H events have been completed. They were successful due to the contribution of these leaders and parents. The 4-H Food Show had 27 participants who did an extremely good job of presenting not only their food but themselves (under pressure) to the judges. They did well because of the hours of preparation at home and at project meetings getting ready for this event. Barbara Parks, Nona Long, Pat Palmer, Ossie Brown, Linda Perryman, Dean Willmon, Karen Davis, Janice Timmons, Rosa Lee Davis, Syd Pipkin and Janie Campbell organized and planned the county food project and show. Many of these were active project leaders and many others assisted.

Besides organizing the project, a county food show was also planned. Leaders and parents contributing to this event were numerous. Decorations for the Food Show were provided by the Roaring Springs Club which included Barbara Parks, Nona Long, Pat Palmer, Ossie Brown and Billie Willmon. The Matador Club represented by Donna Hoyle and Linda Perryman provided the refreshments.

Janie Campbell secured the judge's gifts. During the food show scores were checked by one representative of each club: Janice Timmons, Donna Hoyle and Ossie Brown. Those cleaning up included: Barbara Parks, Janie Campbell, Nona Long, Linda Perryman, JoAnn Burkes, Karen Davis, Joannie Stephens, Rosa Lee Davis, Ossie Brown and Geraldine Pitts.

The 4-H Awards Banquet was another major event where parents and leaders gave of themselves, unselfishly. The terrific program for the banquet entitled "Hats Off to 4-H" was written and directed by Frances Hobbs. She also created the clever little cowboy hats which decorated the tables. Kathy Dempsey and Linda Perryman coordinated the event. Donna Hoyle and Olivia Barron decorated the tables. They were assisted by Laurie and Tonya Hoyle, Cathy Perryman, Mickey and Kathy Dempsey and Darryl Perryman.

K-P duty is a less glamorous yet necessary part of any banquet. Those working in the kitchen, serving and cleaning up were Kathy and Bobby Jack Dempsey, Bruce and Dorothy Lefevre, Ossie Brown, Joyce Campbell, Geraldine Pitts, Rosa Lee Davis, Linda Perryman, Billie and Dean Willmon, Ron and Alyson Richards, Ross Bearden, Syd Pipkin, Billy Hand and Ronnie Vandiver. As always the food was delicious as well as hot. Walter and Algarie Jones deserve all the credit. The programs were done by Greta Smallwood who is always there. She does more than her job. Then there are countless others who work tirelessly in the background and shun the limelight. Our sincere thanks to those persons.

As you can see, it takes many willing and dedicated people to carry off these events. Yet to come are many other events. Rifle Project led by Ronnie Vandiver and James Gillespie, followed by the stock show are just two. On and on it goes. The one thing that remains constant throughout the years is the need for these tireless, dependable moms, dads, grandparents and interested community people.

You are what makes it work. Our hats are off to you! The agents, Roy Minkley and Mary Streit wish to express our sincere appreciation and deepest gratitude for a job well done. With a community of caring people working together, we can "make the best better."

Mini-Thoughts On Theology

By Pearl Alexander

"Hitherto shalt thou come, but no farther: and here shall thy proud waves be stayed" Job 30:11. God, speaking of the sea and the boundaries that He set. As Christians we experience the same sorrows, disappointments, "storms" that others do, in addition to the testings and trials of our faith. But God, knowing our individual weaknesses, sets bounds to all these things and says "This much...no more."

The most photographed tree on the West Coast is a cypress, on a rocky ledge, just above the ocean, that took root and grew in spite of the storms that beat against it and so can we! God's boundry for testing in our life, plus His grace makes us victors!

THURSDAY PLAY

Louise, Geneva, Olivia and La Voe played for low putts. Geneva was winner. La Voe was really playing pretty---shot a 37. It was a nice day for playing.

A long time friend of your reporter never ceases to be amazing. She is very alert---abreast of the times and current events; has a keen memory of long ago---dates, names, places and events.

She is interested in golf, though not active, and in watching the tournaments on TV---admiring the various scenic courses over the country. She reads "In the Rough," and wants to know the terminology of the game. She called during one of the big tournaments, wanting to know what a "birdie" was.

Also, one of her favorite pastimes is a good game of dominoes---and she "holds her own" with younger players---these days. She has pleasant memories of many games with her son-in-law, one of Motley County's most respected, popular and well known sheriffs.

Recently---as of Nov. 4---she celebrated her 96th birthday! Congratulations and my best, Mrs. Cora Carter!

Pumpkin Pie with the Middle in Mind

People who are watching their waistlines have generally had two choices when the year rolled around to holiday festivities and feasting.

They could say simply, "I'll make up for it after the holidays, but I'm just going to eat everything now!" Or they could look longingly at the goodies and forsake them all—not much fun!

This year, conscientious weight-watchers have a third option—at least where that perennial dessert favorite, pumpkin pie, is concerned. They can have their pie—its delightful aroma, its marvelous taste—and still keep the calories under control. The answer to a waistline-watcher's prayer is Calorie-Trimmed Pumpkin Pie. Only 207 calories for 1/6 of a pie. Here's the recipe:

CALORIE-TRIMMED PUMPKIN PIE

- 1 can (30oz.) LIBBY'S Pumpkin Pie Mix
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 4 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
- 1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup whipped topping
- Vegetable cooking spray
- 1/4 cup graham cracker crumbs
- 8 gingersnap cookies, cut in half (optional)

A special treat for calorie-counters—and everyone else, too—is this delicious calorie-trimming pumpkin pie.

In medium saucepan, combine pumpkin pie mix, egg, gelatin and nutmeg; mix well. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Chill until partially set, about 1 to 2 hours. Add vanilla. Fold in whipped topping. Spoon into 9-inch pie plate generously coated with vegetable cooking spray and sprinkle evenly with graham cracker crumbs. Chill until firm. Before serving, insert overlapping cookie halves at intervals around the edge of pie plate, if desired. Yields one 9-inch pie, cut into 6 servings. 207 calories per serving. VARIATION: For a calorie-trimmed pie with a crumb crust omit last three ingredients. Combine 1 cup graham cracker crumbs with 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine; mix well. Press firmly into bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate. Chill. Spoon pie filling into crust, chill until firm. Cut into 6 servings. 285 calories per serving. This recipe is one of the more than 140 favorite pumpkin recipes found in Libby's new "The Great Pumpkin Cookbook." Pumpkin—so much more than pie.

Chili Pie — A Great Fall Favorite

When the first cool winds of autumn begin to blow, one's thoughts often turn to chili, which is likely to be avoided during hot, summer months. Spicy hot chili, made with beer and topped with dollops of delicious cornmeal dumplings, puts a new face on an old familiar friend. It's a great crowd-pleaser and it's economical, too.

Many time-honored recipes, passed down through generations of western chili lovers, mix all the traditional seasonings with beer. Beer has been used as a meat marinade and sauce base for centuries. It tenderizes chili meat and adds a unique flavor that you won't find in any spice can! The alcohol in the beer evaporates during cooking, leaving an unmatched, aromatic flavor.

Chili originated around 1850 in Texas. Trail cooks on long cattle drives through barren prairie were responsible for providing grub to ravenous cowboys. Cooks threw whatever meat they had into the stew pot, and flavored it with plenty of chili peppers. Chicken, buffalo, rabbit and rattlesnake all found their way into countless chili recipes.

One enterprising trail cook ensured his spice supply by planting small gardens of peppers and other spices in mesquite patches along the cattle drive trail. By the time he returned, the spices were ready to harvest and dry in the sun.

Many folks today still dry their own chile peppers by lining on strings and hanging them in a dry place. This provides a ready supply of fresh spicy peppers and is an attractive decoration as well. Whether you dry your own or use canned spices, you'll find that beer adds a unique taste to the spicy goodness of chili.

Beer can also brighten a variety of other foods. A new historical book published by Adolph Coors Company, A Taste of the West from Coors, is full of delicious ideas for mixing food and beer.

The book costs only $7.95 and can be bought in local bookstores or ordered by sending check or money order to Coors Cookbook, P.O. Box 10227, Des Moines, Iowa 50336.

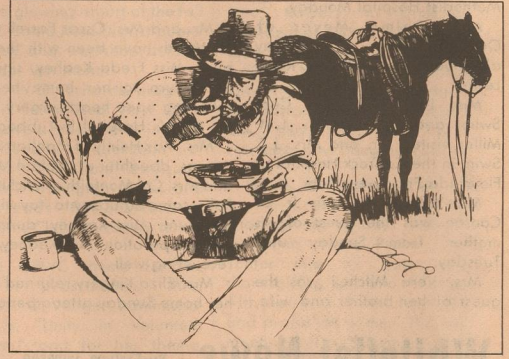

The book's 113 recipes, compiled over two years of research throughout the West, show western food lovers how to marinate, bake, mix and flavor foods with one of the oldest cooking ingredients known to man.

Try Chili Pie with Cornmeal Dumplings (a recipe from the book) and you'll see. It's easy, nutritious and delicious. Served with a tossed green salad and a stein of beer, it's a tasty meal you won't forget!

Chili Pie With Cornmeal Dumplings

- 1 1/2 pounds of beef stew meat cut into 3/4-inch cubes
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 15 1/2-ounce can red kidney beans, drained
- 1 12-ounce can beer
- 1 8-ounce can tomatoes, cut up
- 1/4 cup tomato paste
- 1 4-ounce can chopped green chili peppers
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 1 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
- 3/4 cup yellow cornmeal
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 2 tablespoons cooking oil
- 1 beaten egg
- 1/3 cup milk

Place meat, onion and kidney beans in bottom of ungreased 3-quart casserole. In bowl combine beer, undrained tomatoes, tomato paste, undrained chiles, garlic, chili powder, 1 teaspoon salt and cumin. Pour over meat. Bake, covered, in 350° oven for 2 hours. Combine cornmeal, flour, baking powder and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Stir in oil, egg and milk. Drop by tablespoons onto hot stew, forming 8 dumplings. Bake, covered, 30 minutes more or till dumplings are done. Makes 8 servings.

Cooking Corner Tips To Help You

Tomato surprise: Too many tomatoes? Let the surplus crop star in spiced tomato preserves.

If you have grown a bountiful crop of tomatoes this season, or a friend has, the preserves are a delicious answer to using the surplus. Even if you don't grow your own tomatoes, the store bought variety are usually inexpensive enough now to put preserves by for family treats as well as holiday gifts.

It can be easy to make blue ribbon quality preserves when you start with a high quality powdered fruit pectin such as Williams Pen-Jel or Jel-Ease. Canners say that pectin can eliminate guesswork and allow you to use fully-ripe fruits for best flavor and color. Recipes are included on the back of every pectin box.

SPICED TOMATO PRESERVES

- 3 pounds of tomatoes (3 1/2 cups prepared fruit)
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 pkg. Jel-Ease Fruit Pectin
- 5 1/4 cups sugar
- 1 1/2 tsp. grated lemon rind
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
- 1/2 tsp. allspice
- 1/4 tsp. cloves

Jelly glasses or 8-oz. canning jars should be used for jams and jellies. Plastic containers may be used only for freezer jams and jellies. Use jelly glasses with a paraffin seal only for jellies; jams and preserves have a softer texture which can loosen and break be stirred down). Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from heat, skim and stir with metal spoon or skimmer for 5 minutes to remove foam. Ladle into jars. Sealing Jars:

TO SEAL WITH LIDS: Pour or ladle hot jam or jelly into hot jars, leaving 1/8 inch at top. Immediately wipe jar rim clean, place hot metal lid on jar and screw metal ring on firmly. Invert jar, then turn upright. Check for seal in 12 hours.

TO SEAL WITH PARAFFIN: Pour or ladle hot jelly into hot jars, leaving 1/2 inch at top. Cover with a thin layer of melted paraffin, about 1/8 inch thick. Prick air bubbles in paraffin. Note: Paraffin is flammable so melt in double boiler. Jam and jellies may be heat processed for 5 to 15 minutes without affecting the quality of the product. Heat processing gives a better seal and eliminates the possibility of mold growth. To heat process jams and jellies, use standard jars with 2 piece lids. Pour hot jam and jelly into clean hot jars, leaving 1/2 inch at top. Wipe jar rim clean and cover with lids and rings. Place jars in boiling water bath canner; be sure water covers tops of jars. Heat process 5 to 15 minutes; count time from when water returns to boil. Do not heat process jars which have been sealed with paraffin. Yield: 5 1/2 to 6 cups

SCALD, PEEL AND CHOP fully ripe tomatoes. Simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes. TO MEASURE: Use the same 1 cup measuring cup for both sugar and tomatoes. Measure tomatoes into 6 to 8-quart saucepan; if necessary add water to equal exact amount. Add lemon juice, grated lemon rind, cinnamon, allspice and cloves. Measure sugar into mixing bowl; set aside. TO COOK PRESERVES: Combine tomato mixture and Jel-Ease in saucepan. Cook over high heat until mixture comes to a hard boil, stirring constantly. Add sugar all at once. Cook and stir over high heat until mixture comes to a full rolling boil (one that cannot

PLANS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Do-It-Yourself Home Entertainment Center

More and more homeowners these days are discovering a way to save money while adding beauty to their homes. It's easier than you might think, say experts, to custom design your own home entertainment storage unit to hold your electronic equipment, books, records, games, everything you need—and have it look just built-in.

All you'll need for the job are various pieces of plywood—fir or hardwood is recommended, because both give you the option of choosing a light or dark finish, stain or paint to enhance your work—and some basic tools, such as a tape rule, combination square, claw hammer, rip and crosscut hand saw and screwdriver.

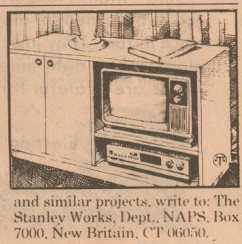

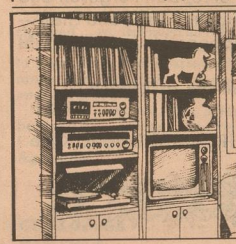

Before constructing, say the experts at The Stanley Works, a major manufacturer of quality hand tools, consider the size of your equipment. There should be enough space so you can remove it easily for service and cleaning. The space you have will determine the size of the unit.

Letter to the Editor

Thanks to a young man:

Life is good and full of surprises. One morning recently a young man knocked on my door and wanted to know if I wanted some brush and debris moved from my yard. Of course I did, and had tried to find some one to do it, without results.

Before noon it was cleared and taken away. Now I do not have to worry about a fire and it looks so much better.

Those who helped need to know that I thank them and am glad that I live in the same community with them.

Lois Smart

Mr. Watson,

I want you to know how very much we appreciate all the articles you have so graciously printed about our History Day at the Ranch and the Memorial Roping. How nice it is to have the support of so many people when one endeavors a project.

Thank you for your kindness, Lou & Stanley Burleson

Profitable Farming

Dr. Geoffrey Thomas
Area Agronomist
Garst Seed Company

It's fair time again. All through "farm" country the results of another year of hard work are brought together, looked at, compared, judged and discussed. Winning ribbons are carried home with pride.

There is another fair going on, too. Not at the fairgrounds but in strategically placed test plots in corn and sorghum fields throughout all major producing states. There are thousands and thousands of such plots. In them are results to be seen, judged, and discussed. There are winners and there are losers.

Posted signs at roadside show the locations of these test plots. But test plots are a lot like libraries. They stand there full of information but too few people take advantage of them.

As the current corn and sorghum crops push on toward maturity, producers are beginning to think in terms of the yield they will get. They have fresh in mind the problems that have affected their crop this year. Some will be thinking about trying a different variety next year.

The thing is, this year's weather, and diseases and insects...the whole mix of factors...not only affected this year's crop but also the crops producers will harvest six or more years down the road, in 1990 and beyond. The reason this is true is because the varieties that will make up those future crops are being tested now. It takes at least six years to develop and release a new corn hybrid and six to ten years to develop and release a new sorghum variety.

A good many of the varieties producers will choose from over the next several years are out there now in test plots showing their colors in side by side comparisons with each other and with established performers.

As they say, a picture is worth a thousand words. Now is the time to see these new varieties in true on-farm conditions. Some of these new varieties won't make it. Some will. Some will be the "blue ribbon" hybrids of the future.

The goals of the plant breeder change all the time. They have to, because the needs and demands of farmers change.

Take advantage of the "fair" in this year's test plots. Even if you missed the scheduled field day the plots are still there for public inspection and observation. A good look at these plots is a good first step in the process of deciding what to plant, and test, on your own farm next year.

County Agent's Corner

By Ray Minkley

Cotton Growers, as well as producers of wheat, soybeans, and live cattle, can now trade commodity options. An option is a contract that gives the buyer the right, but not the obligation, to buy or sell a commodity futures contract for a specified period of time. It gives farmers another pricing tool to assist in price risk management. It is a type of "insurance" against sudden price drops.

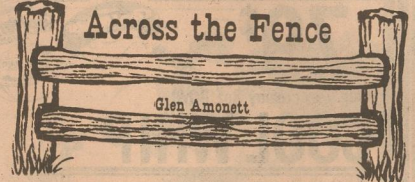

Carl Anderson, Extension Economist-Cotton Marketing, and Ed Smith, Extension Economist-Grain Marketing, will conduct a seminar on commodity options at Stamford on Nov. 29 and at Paducah on Nov. 30. The educational program for each day will cover the following topics.

10 a.m.- Factors Behind Commodity Price Levels. 10:30 a.m.- Brief Discussion on Techniques Involved in Using Commodity Futures. 11 a.m.- Mechanics of Commodity Options. 12:00- Noon lunch.

1 p.m.- Applications and uses of Commodity Options. 2:45- Comparison of Current Marketing Opportunities. 3:30- Adjourn.

Due to the size of the facilities, the numbers at these seminars is limited. Contact the County Extension Agent's Office for details.

Cattle that have been raised out on the range may never become accustomed to having people around. Several years ago I bought some cattle off a ranch down south of here and put them on a place in Dickens County. Those cattle had habits like none that you have ever seen before. If they saw a pickup coming they were friendly enough, especially if it was loaded with hay, but they were always watchful for a man on horseback. If they saw the rider first he would never get an accurate count because the whole herd would vanish like a covey of quail as they ran to hide in the nearest bush. They would stay hidden until long after the rider left. To get a cow out of the brush a fellow has to go barreling in after her and he can get swept off his horse by getting hung up on a limb. If a horse hasn't been trained for the job he may refuse to chase cattle through thick brush.

Those cows raised some good calves, but the calves learned the bad habit of their mothers. They could hide in even less brush. In the summer of '72, I sold those cattle on the hoof to a local cow man. He was going to take some of these prairie type cowboys down there the next day to help with the loading. We were looking forward to a real show when these cowboys and horses from the wide open spaces began chasing wild cattle in the brush country.

We were delayed in getting off the next morning and when we arrived down there about mid-morning it was a shock to find the cattle already penned. Every horse was covered with sweat and lather so it must have been a rugged chase. To this day those jokers act like it was a routine day's work. There must be a lot of hidden talent around here or they learned awfully fast.

The local cow man who bought those cattle was Ray Hillman. He and Bill Holloway were the cowboys with the sweaty horses. The cattle haulers that day were Alton Dendy and Carrick Hodgrass; each of them had a fine gooseneck trailer.

Enjoy your coffee without worrying

HOUSTON, TX. — Can drinking too much coffee increase your risk of developing cancer?

"It appears doubtful," says Dr. Guy R. Newell, director of cancer prevention programs at The University of Texas M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

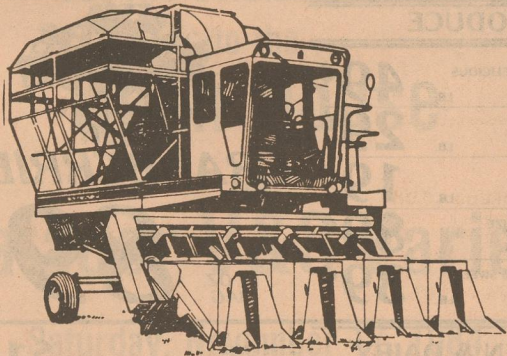

For every study suggesting coffee is a villain in promoting cancers of the bladder and pancreas in particular, other research has failed to show any connection between coffee and malignant diseases.

"No biologic explanation can be given for why coffee could be implicated, either. Some investigators assumed caffeine would be the culprit, but this is a natural component in both coffee and tea and there is absolutely no link to tea intake and any kind of cancer," Dr. Newell notes.

Considering the large amount of coffee consumed in the United States and many other countries, he says relatively few human studies have been done about the possible role of this popular drink and cancer.

"I'd like to see some very careful research to check out the alleged associations. Meanwhile, I see no reason for people not to have another cup of java and enjoy it," Dr. Newell says.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank those of you that I have been unable to thank personally for the birthday cards I received and your letters expressing your appreciation and enjoyment of the Homecoming program. Your help and encouragement have been a beneficial factor with the things you say I have accomplished. I thank you for loving me in spite of my many faults!
Earlyne L. Jameson

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Allan Thomas are so very thankful for all the words of sympathy and love shown to us during our time of sorrow. The many friends and neighbors thoughtfulness and service rendered unto our family will always live in our hearts and minds.

The lovely flowers and memorials sent to our loved one were greatly appreciated and lifted our spirits. A special thank you to the Northfield community for all the food and help they gave us, for without friends like you, life would not hold the meaning that it does. Thanks once again. The family of Allan Thomas

THANK YOU

We would like to thank everyone for their prayers, cards, visits, phone calls, flowers and food brought to our home after my surgery. God bless each—
Betty Luckett
