Matador VFD Sponsors Severe Weather Program

Some of the topics discussed were the Matador tornado, warning systems, radio communications, weather spotting, safety precautions and disaster plans.

Those attending were also shown a film concerning weather which concentrated on the Wichita Falls tornado.

Citizens and cloud watchers from Matador, Dickens, Hale Center, Silverton and Crosbyton were among the group of 90 that benefited from this most informative meeting.

Local DRT Members Give Books To Library

Three local members of the General James Smith Chapter of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas presented books of historical significance to the Motley County Library this week. Mrs. Furman Vinson, Mrs. S.C. Burselon, Mrs. Frank Potts completed this year's planned sesquicentennial projects for the historical preservationist group with the presentation.

Ride the Wind by Lucia St. Clair is a fictionalized version of the story of Cynthia Ann Parker and her life among the Comanche Indians. Since the Comanches roamed and hunted in our area, local history buffs will find this book of special interest.

A book of interest to genealogists, Texas Rangers Indian War Pensions, abstracted by Robert W. Stephens, presents information on the Texas veterans of the frontier which was taken from the files of the National Archives in Washington, D.C.

Those of German ancestry will find Terry Jordan's book, German Seed in Texas Soil, full of interesting statistics, facts, and photographs concerning the early immigrant farmers. Land grants, cotton farming, wine-making, sheep raising and settlements are among the many topics covered in this informative book.

Librarian Beverly Darsey invites history buffs to browse through these new additions and the library's growing collection of Texana. A fictionalized account of Mackenzie's calvary scouring the plains and breaks for Comanches is a recent acquisition which has proved popular with patrons. Written by Max Crawford, a Floydada native, Lords of the Plain has received excellent reviews in Texas Monthly.

In addition, of interest to those researching family histories, Mrs. Darsey reminds patrons that the genealogy department had a recent spurt of growth with the generous loan of many books and periodicals by Virginia Hoyle, long time library supporter.

So, come by the Motley County Library, in downtown Matador, and get acquainted with the fascinating world of history.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jackson of Amarillo and Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson of Wichita Falls were visiting in Matador last weekend.

Jo Ann's Jots & Jingles

One has to suppose that it is a sign of old age when one begins to reminisce about childhood. Well, I have to admit that I am guilty.

Sunday afternoon the kids were out walking their livestock and doing whatever it is they do to groom them for the stock show. City-raised as I was, I haven't the faintest idea what it is all about. All I know is that I liked what I saw.

It sure beat the heck out of stickball on the sidewalks of New York City or riding the subway for 30 minutes to go to Central Park so I could see a tree.

(with apologies to the composer of THE SIDEWALKS OF NEW YORK):

East side, west side,
All around the town.
The kids are all preparing,

Nothing seems to get them down.

County-wide they're working
To groom and shine their stock.
Nothing will deter them

As they work around the clock!
Nothing seems to get them down.

A bride-to-be had just shown her friend the list of wedding guests. "Isn't it strange," asked the friend, "that you've included only married couples?" "Oh, that was Albert's idea," the bride-to-be replied. "He says that if we invite only married people, the presents will be all clear profit."

Mini-Thoughts

"He shall be like a tree planted by rivers of water, that bringeth forth its fruit in its season." Psalms 1:3

Tumbleweeds have very shallow roots and the mature plant is easily driven here and there by the changing wind, scattering seed as it goes.

Some Christians are driven here and there emotionally, by changing circumstances and scatter seeds of discontent, discouragement and unhappiness wherever they go. But the Lord would have us to be like a tree, putting down deep, strong roots so we may produce both shade and fruit for the hungry and weary.

A little prayer, a little study of God's Word will produce only a shallow Christian life. Drink deep of the Word, labor in prayer and be a tree for God, not a tumbleweed!

Special Thank You

Thankfulness fills my heart with the goodness of God for sparing my life and the blessing of my witnessed testimony (Luke 10:27-37) of good Samaritans coming to my aid in my time of need.

With deep gratitude, I thank Glynard David Moore, Bill Lockett, Brent Whitaker, Charles Gwinn, James Taylor, Carter Lockett, Robert Smallwood, Joe Guerrero, Alex Guerrero, James Simpson, Charlie Renfro, Kenneth Thompson, Dean

Turner, Frank Torres, Steve Burns, Thomas Tilson, Joe Hernandez, Butch Renfro and Ronnie Davis for plowing my land.

I also appreciate the flowers, gifts, cards, calls, visits, food and most of all your prayers during my hospitalization and since my return home.

May God bless you for your many acts of love and concern. Joseph E. (Gid) Simpson & Family

Native Lady Re-elected To State Historian Office

Miss Billie Beth Moore, native of Matador, has been re-elected as State Historian of the San Jacinto Descendants. The twentieth anniversary of the Organization was held on Saturday, March 9th, at the Doubletree Inn in Dallas. The Dallas Chapter with Mrs. Harry Joseph Morris was present as host for the luncheon and meeting. Mrs. Sam Lee Farrow, Jr., State President of Temple, presided.

Miss Moore is one of the Incorporators of the San Jacinto Descendants and her father, the late William R. (Bill) Moore was a Charter member and served on the State Executive Committee and as Historian.

She has served on the State Executive Committee, as Historian, Secretary, First Vice President and Publicity Chairman and is currently serving her fourth term as Historian. She is a descendant of WILLIAM VANOY CRISWELL who fought at the Battle of San Jacinto on April 21, 1836.

Mrs. John A. Hamilton and Mrs. Olive (Moore) Russell of Matador are sisters of Mr. Moore and aunts of Miss Moore. Her mother is Mrs. Velma (Walters) Moore of Fort Worth.

Speaker for the annual San Jacinto Descendants meeting was Mr. Quentin McGown IV, Program Director, Texas Sesquicentennial Committee from Austin. He is in charge of the State-wide Associations and presented a narrated slide program on Texas and then talked about the activities being planned for the 1986 Sesquicentennial Celebration. During the business session, a report was given on the thirty-six names of heroes of the Battle of San Jacinto which are not on the monument in Houston. These names have been approved for addition on the MEMORIAL PLAQUE in San Jacinto Museum.

The 1986 Sesquicentennial Annual meeting is set for April 20 in Houston with the traditional wreath laying at the San Jacinto Monument in memory of the heroes. Each descendant present will honor the memory of his or her ancestor who fought at the Battle of San Jacinto or who were in the baggage train at Harrisburg handing out supplies and tending the wounded.

The Houston Chapter will be the host for a luncheon and this service.

Local Women Attend GFWC Convention

Mrs. Robert M. Dickson, president of GFWC El Progreso Club, and Mrs. Harold Campbell attended the GFWC Santa Rosa District Convention in Vernon, Texas last Friday and Saturday. At the meeting of the Executive Board, Mrs. Dickson was elected as a trustee for Texas Federation of Women's Club to represent the Santa Rosa District.

As a member of the TFWC Scholarship Committee, Mrs. Harold Campbell made her annual report to the convention.

She is also District Chairman for grading of the Yearbooks. Three yearbooks were sent to state for further competition. The El Progreso Club yearbook which was compiled by Mrs. C.D. Garrison was one of the books in this group.

The GFWC sponsors contests in a number of areas such as poetry, short story and photography. The contest begins on the District level and this year Mrs. Robert Dickson won first place for all three of these categories.

An Arts and Crafts competition is also held at this convention. Mrs. Carl King won both first and second place for her watercolors. Mrs. Robert Dickson won first place for an illustrated scrapbook of her poems and second place in the needlecraft division.

"I sense a scowl."

Did you hear about the Texan who just bought his son a cowboy outfit—a 20,000-acre ranch, 1000 head of cattle and 200 horses?

The parking-lot owner called the three attendants together. "Look, boys," he said, "we haven't had one single complaint about a dented fender all week." He paused to let his words sink in. "Now tell me, he belted, "how can we make any money leaving that much space?"

Americanism Program Features Statue Of Liberty Restoration

The Statue of Liberty was the subject of a program on Americanism given March 14 for GFWC El Progreso Club, meeting at the Summit Savings Community Room. Mrs. W.N. Pipkin was program leader and introduced the subject with the yearbook quotation, "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses, yearning to breathe free," from a sonnet entitled "The New Colossus," composed by Emma Lazarus and engraved on the Statue's pedestal.

A resume of the background of the Statue and update on its restoration was given by Mrs. Harold Campbell. As an introduction to the program, Mrs. Robert Dickson sang a solo titled "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor," the music of which was composed by Irving Berlin. Casio accompaniment was played by Mrs. Frank Pohl for this, and group singing by the club of God Bless America and My Country 'Tis of Thee.

Mrs. Campbell's commentary contained some little known facts such as, the Statue was first called Liberty Enlightening the World. Initially proposed in 1865 as a gift to America from France, the Statue was conceived and created by the French sculptor Auguste Bartholdi, and built around an iron framework designed by Gustave Eiffel. The Statue cost $400,000 to build and was paid for by contributions from the French people. The completed Statue was presented to the American Ambassador by the people of France on July 4, 1884.

Further, the Statue was dismantled and shipped to America in the summer of 1885. The $270,000 needed to build the pedestal and install the Statue on Bedloe's Island (now Liberty Island) was raised by Americans, a significant amount of which was contributed by school children.

The Statue of Liberty was finally dedicated by President Grover Cleveland on October 28, 1886. It is again being dismantled for restoration purposes. Though it has had a regular maintenance program, the wind, rain, pollution and salt water of 100 years have done their damage to both the Statue and Ellis Island which is included in the current Liberty Centennial Campaign for readiness next year.

Ellis Island Immigration Station opened on Jan. 1, 1892

on Ellis Island which first served the U.S. Government as a site for an arsenal and fort, until 1954 when the station was closed and declared surplus government property. It is estimated that more than 17 million immigrants passed through the station. In 1965 Ellis Island was added to the Statue of Liberty National Monument. On May 18, 1982, President Reagan announced the formation of The Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Centennial Commission and appointed Lee A. Iacocca its Chairman.

The interesting paper presented by Mrs. Furman Vinson, who is in California at the hospital bedside of her mother and also her sister, who have undergone surgery.

A roll call of "Show and Tell My Heritage," brought added enjoyment to the program. Among family heirlooms displayed were jewelry, including a bracelet, several rings and a strand of matched pink pearls from China, a 200-year old pair of dark eyeglasses with four lenses (the outside two folded over the two front ones), an immigrant's shawl, and two quilts.

Inspirational Thought by the leader was a column by Gaston Foote in the Fort Worth Star Telegram, in which he had used a number of quotations by Abraham Lincoln.

Mrs. Dickson, president, conducted a business session before the program and also served as hostess.

Present were Mesdames W.D. Lipscomb, John Hamilton, J.E. Edwards, Joe Campbell, Carl King, Douglas Meador, and E.A. Day, Miss Rachel Patton and those mentioned, Mmes. Pipkin, Pohl, Dickson, and Harold Campbell.

An Unexpected Friend

By Caleb Pirtle III

THE BELLS AWOKE Arthur Daniels, and he thought for a moment that he was probably dead, and it wouldn't have surprised him at all. But slowly his head cleared and the fog faded away from the edge of his eyes, and Arthur Daniels climbed out of the lumpy mattress that was only costing him fifty cents a night but was dreadfully overpriced at that. His bare feet touched the floor of the old walk-up hotel, and he shuffled toward a window that had been stuck closed with paint years ago, and Arthur brushed back the dust from a cracked pane, looking out over a backstreet of Matador. It was empty. And at the far end, the bells were playing a song he had never heard before. But then, Arthur Daniels couldn't remember much of anything he had ever heard in church, except the commandments against lying and stealing and killing, and he had at least managed to keep from breaking one of them.

The morning was as grey as the town below him. And Arthur felt like maybe he belonged. He had spent his whole life on the move, not quite sure if where he was going, not quite sure if he had ever gotten there. As a young man, he had begun picking cotton in those black delta fields of Mississippi, and the rows stretched out before him as though they would never end. Maybe they didn't. Arthur just followed them day after day, month after month, and he looked around one morning and found himself a long way from home. The cotton wilted and the winter winds along ice in his face, and Arthur turned back toward the house that held the fire and the laughter of his family. That had been 22 years ago and he hadn't quite made it back yet, though he never quit trying. The road, a week earlier, had stopped at the edge of Matador, Texas, and so did Arthur Daniels. He smiled as he listened to the bells and was glad he had awakened early enough to hear them.

He guessed cotton had led him astray. Or maybe it was the war. Both had beaten him and left him alone, and Arthur found that he had just about as much in common with strangers as he did with friends. Neither paid a lot of attention to him, but Arthur Daniels didn't mind. He made it just fine and always found something to eat whether he was hungry or not, and he almost always was.

Arthur wasn't proud. He dug post holes until his hands were raw. He chopped kindling, and the blisters became callouses, and his hands were as tough as uncured leather. He dug a well or two out in the Llano Estacado, the land of the backside bolls, out where water was only a promise and men could die of thirst before they ever ran across it. And he chased cattle, sometimes on foot and sometimes on a horse. And Arthur always found a job as easily as he lost it. He was never fired. It's just that one day he wouldn't be around anymore. And a boss hated to see a hand like Arthur Daniels walk away. He didn't say much. He never got in anybody's way. He seemed to prefer those chores that he could do by himself, the only ones nobody else would take. Arthur definitely liked being alone. He wasn't close to anyone.

He had been. There were people that he liked to be with and drink with and laugh with. Why, Arthur had stood up as the best man at George's wedding. He and Sam had started a small grocery store together down just west of New Orleans. They threw a party to announce its grand opening, and Arthur let the wine mix with his politics, and he even announced his candidacy for mayor. And his friends thought Arthur Daniels just might have won. But the war cut the campaign short. And Arthur buried George at Shiloh, and he left Sam lying on a hillside at Vicksburg, as the green of the grass turned brown beneath the stains of wasted life. And Arthur never bothered to get close enough to shake hands with anyone again. He was a loner because he couldn't bear ever saying goodbye again.

Arthur Daniels eased out into the Matador Sunday morning and glanced at the little chapel down at the end of the street. Men in pressed suits and ladies in white dresses had crowded around the doorway, and children played chase between the buggies. Arthur looked down at his own clothes. His pants were wrinkled and dirt had been ground into the fabric. There was a patch just below the left knee where the horse had knicked him, and his boots were as cracked as the windows in his lonely room. He needed a shave, but he usually did. And Arthur felt like whistling, and he usually didn't. He slapped the dust from his shirt sleeves and walked slowly toward the ringing of the bells.

Every eye watched as the gaunt man found an empty seat on the back pew. But no one spoke. Men frowned. Women looked quickly away. And children whispered. Arthur Daniels was an outsider, an unfamiliar face in a town that never took the time to trust an unfamiliar face. Arthur picked up a hymnal but did not sing. He stared ahead and hoped to hear the bells again.

The minister piled brimstone in front of his congregation that morning, then set it afire. And he spoke of a Man who had walked as a stranger among men, of a Man who had been rejected and persecuted and spit upon. As the service drew to a close, the minister raised his arms and said loudly, "If there are any Christians in the crowd today, please stand and testify for Jesus."

No one stood. And Arthur raised an eyebrow and shook his head. "Isn't there a single Christian here? Nobody here that loves Jesus? If there is will he please rise and give a soul-stirring testimony for Jesus?" Arthur looked around him and slowly rose.

"Bless you, brother," the minister said. "Please tell us your experience. What do you know of Jesus?"

Arthur Daniels shrugged. "I don't know much of anything about Him," he said softly. "You told me more this mornin' than I had ever heard before. Me and this Jesus fella aren't really acquainted at all. But I'll tell you one thing, preacher, I'd stand up for any man that ain't got no more friends than He does."

Heads were bowed. And they said someone prayed and someone sang. But no one saw Arthur Daniels walk away on the morning that the man in the ragged clothes had condemned them all. □

INTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

VA Home Loan Program Still Serving Millions

Some people are eligible for a government guaranteed VA home loan without realizing it.

There could be some surprisingly good news for many people who are trying to buy or sell a home. Many veterans who thought they were no longer eligible might qualify for a Veterans Administration-guaranteed home loan.

Many older veterans who once used their home loan eligibility and think they have no benefits left could have additional eligibility due to later increases in the maximum guaranty which currently stands at $27,500. The benefit is also, in effect, renewable if the veteran pays off the original GI home loan and disposes of the property.

The GI home loan program was established in 1944 to help returning World War II veterans purchase homes and property to build a home. Since then, eligibility has been extended to members of the U.S. Armed Forces. Eligibility requirements for veterans and service members is based on certain minimum period of active duty service. Also eligible are spouses of service personnel who have been missing in action or listed as a prisoner of war for more than 90 days and unmarried surviving spouses of veterans who died on active duty or as a result of service-connected injuries.

The main purpose of the GI home loan program is to help veterans finance the purchase of homes at a favorable rate of interest and with little or no money down. The guarantee, in effect, takes the place of the down payment and encourages private lending institutions to make loans that they otherwise may not be willing to make.

Veterans can use the loan to purchase, construct, alter, improve, repair or finance a home. This includes the purchase of condominiums and manufactured homes, with or without a lot.

The loan applicant is required to make his or her own arrangements through the usual financing channels, then the VA guarantees up to 60 percent of the loan to a maximum of $27,500 for home loans, and 50 percent up to $20,000 for manufactured homes. As of Nov. 21, 1984, the interest rate was 12.5% for home loans, 14% for improvement loans, 13% for manufactured home loans and 14.5% for a manufactured home with lot. Lenders and brokers have current rates.

While veterans using the program have been directly favored by the more liberal terms on their loans, this has also induced a competitive liberalization of the terms of conventional mortgages, therefore benefiting other recipients as well. As a result, the impact of such home loans on the economy and on the mortgage market vastly exceeds the actual volume of the loans themselves.

Numerous non-veterans have also benefited from the program in another way. A non-veteran may be eligible to assume a veteran's mortgage and benefit from a typically lower interest rate.

VA guarantees part of a veteran's loan that helps get a "GI loan" featuring:

- A more moderate interest rate.
- No downpayment (unless required by the lender or the price exceeds the reasonable value as determined by VA).
- A long amortization or repayment period with fixed-rate interest.
- Assurance that the veteran can pay off all or part of the loan in advance without penalty.

What The VA Does for the Home-Buying Veteran

VA appraises the home to determine its reasonable value in the prevailing housing market.

In most cases, VA makes available an inspection service for proposed new houses to see that the house meets accepted standards of construction and conforms to the plans and specifications upon which VA's appraisal is based.

What The VA Does Not Do

VA does not have the legal authority to:

- Act as the veteran's architect. It does not supervise construction of the house the veteran buys or guarantee that the house is free of defects.
- Act as the veteran's attorney. It cannot give legal services if the veteran runs into trouble in buying or constructing a home.

VA cannot compel a builder to remedy defects in construction or otherwise compel the builder to live up to a contract with the veteran.

All the details about the GI Home Loan program are available at VA regional offices or from any veterans service organization. Toll-free telephone service is also available to veterans nationwide. The number can be found in the phone directory under U.S. Government.

The Way We Live Makes Our Electric Meters Run Faster!

In The Winter

Because the sun works less in the winter and we need artificial light, we use our electric lights more. And, since it's cold outside, we tend to go indoors and turn our thermostats up, so we can enjoy the comfort of generated heat. We also use electric blankets in the winter. Electricity can help make winter more comfortable in many ways.

In The Summer

Because the sun works more during the summer months and it's hot outside, we go indoors and turn our thermostats down to make our homes cool. Electric fans that help to cool our homes and electric gardening tools for grooming our yards, among other things, also help make our summers more pleasant.

All Year Long

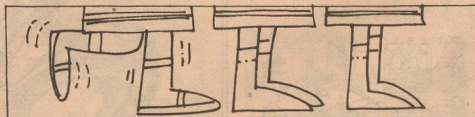

Because we enjoy the convenience and comfort of: electric blenders, can openers, clocks, clothes dryers, clothes washers, dishwashers, door bells, drills, fans, freezers, hair dryers, heating pads, hedge trimmers, irons, lawn mowers, lights, saws, sewing machines, shavers, stereos, televisions, toasters, vacuum cleaners, waffle irons, waste disposals, water heaters and other benefits too numerous to mention, we use more electricity.

Because we're human, we forget about these things until an electric bill reminds us.

WTU is proud to be able to supply all the electric energy you need, and we encourage you to use it wisely.

Some people once believed that if they slept with their mouths open, their souls would escape that way and turn into little white mice.

In old Siam, it was considered bad luck if the king could not stand on one foot during a special three-hour ceremony.

Angel Falls in Venezuela is over 3,000 feet high. Niagara Falls is only 167 feet high.

Dealers Convene For Historic Meet

It was agricultural history in the making last week in Las Vegas when Case IH dealers from around the country joined forces for the first time.

Larry Hoyle, owner of Matador's new Case IH agricultural equipment dealership, Matador Motor and Implement, joined nearly 2,200 other dealer principals for the formal kick-off of the expanded J I Case agricultural equipment operation.

On January 31, 1985, the U.S. Justice Department gave the final green light to Tenneco Inc.'s purchase of International Harvester's agricultural equipment business, which has now been merged into Tenneco affiliate, J I Case, headquartered in Racine, Wisconsin.

A high point of the dealer meetings was the unveiling of colors and graphics for the new Case International product line. Displayed on a Case IH 2096 tractor, the new graphics feature a major IH hallmark -- the characteristic IH red.

The new logo retains the best of both traditions, putting the two established logos side by side -- Case IH. This fresh look will soon be a familiar sight across the continent.

"There was a terrific feeling in the air," said Hoyle. "The entire Case IH dealer organization was excited -- excited to see the equipment, excited about the new look, the new logo, the new colors -- and excited to be a part of the new Case IH Agricultural Equipment dealer network.

"Our Case IH dealers can offer the most complete product line in the industry, backed by the financial strength of Tenneco," he said.

Case IH dealers participated in intensive training seminars on product features such as the Case IH Intelligence Center, CDC engines and power transmissions. The seminars also profiled equipment lines including combines, hay and forage tools, planters and tillage equipment.

In addition to product information, dealers learned of new financing programs, warranties, parts availability and other information vital to farm customers.

"I think our customers will be delighted the way things are shaping up," said Hoyle. "Both Case and IH warranties will be fully honored, parts availability will be excellent -- and Case financing, warranties and service will just be outstanding," he said.

New Case IH dealers carry two- and four-wheel drive agricultural tractors up to 400 gross engine horsepower, plus a full line of planting, harvesting, tillage and other agricultural equipment. The equipment line reflects the technological expertise of two strongly innovative companies.

Early Riser CycloR Air planters and Axial-FlowR combines offer unparalleled productivity and efficiency. The Case IH Intelligence Center, standard on most tractor models, is the industry's most comprehensive electronic monitoring system.

New Case state-of-the-art diesel engines, already featured in the Case 96 Series tractors, will gradually be phased into all of the company's agricultural and construction equipment.

Case is a worldwide manufacturer and marketer of construction and agricultural equipment.

Tenneco, Inc., with headquarters in Houston, is a $15-billion, multi-industry company with major operations in integrated oil, natural gas, pipelines, construction and agricultural equipment, automotive components, chemicals, shipbuilding, packaging, life insurance and agricultural/land management.

It took astronauts about three days to get to the moon; at that rate, it would take 878,000 years to reach the closest star, Proxima Centauri.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Swat Jones wishes to thank everyone for their support and sympathy in our time of sorrow. Thanks to the friends who helped with the girls, Rev. Eddie Marcum who helped with the funeral service, the ones who brought food to the house, came by and called. We will always gratefully remember the support and kindness.

CARD OF THANKS

NOTE OF APPRECIATION
 We would like to thank the Matador Cattle Company, Motley County Agriculture Committee, and the Motley County 4-H for building the fence around the stock show arena.

HERE'S ONE THAT PUZZLED a queen. It is said the late Queen Victoria was fond of puzzles, and that she was completely stumped by this one. Make a good English word out of these letters:

ABENOTY

There is no trick about it; just rearrange the letters to make a word. Perhaps you'll guess it immediately; then, again, perhaps you won't.

Name three consecutive days of the week without mentioning Sunday, Tuesday or Thursday. Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow.

Terry: "Why did they hang that picture?"
 Mary: "Probably couldn't find the artist."

"Watch your fingers."

EX-LAX; "The Family Friend;" helps your body help itself.
 Ex-Lax helps get your body's own natural rhythm going again. Gently. Dependably. Overnight. That's why more families use Ex-Lax - Chocolated or Pills - than any other brand. Make it your Family Friend.

Read label and follow directions.

The guide on a sight-seeing bus in Milwaukee informed his passengers that at that moment they were passing the largest brewery in the world. A bored man in the back came suddenly to life. "Why?" he demanded, rising to his feet.

A non-actor asked an actor friend if he was going to let his three-year-old daughter go on the stage. "Not for another year," said the thespian. "I want her to have a normal childhood."

"You're taking too much punishment. Make him work on your head."

"But I only asked for a little m... of Texas!"
