what you care to know about winter gasoline

No gasoline can start up any quicker than it vaporizes. You know how heat makes vapor, but it's something different to get up a vapor in winter cold. The special winter blending we have carefully worked out for Conoco Bronze makes it vaporize even when a carburetor is sucking in the coldest outside air you'll find in the U.S. With this high-explosive vapor and any kind of spark, only one thing can happen-a good fast start.

When you absolutely know this about a gasoline you know why to choose it for a time like February around here. The biggest reason in your mind for getting Conoco Bronze this weather is its easy starting. Yet it is not like those "winter-type" gasolines that cut down on full mileage. With your Winter Blend Conoco Bronze you can count on the whole ball o' wax-no shortened mileage - no hit-or-miss getaway - no long-time choking that ruins your oil and maybe your engine-no starting or battery worries. You can just put all of that down. Continental Oil Company, Established 1875
