Rains Bring Splendor To Territory

Unusual rainfall and the advent of warm weather has created lush growth of flowers, grass and trees in this territory. Planting of trees sponsored by the Matador Lions Club during past years has created a new appearance and beauty in town. A distant view of Matador presents a much changed aspect from former years when few trees adorned the streets.

In addition to the profusion of multicolored wild flowers over the prairie and in Matador, almost every home in the city has its own flower garden and roses. Some of the most beautiful roses to be found anywhere in the country are being grown by Matador residents.

Famous Jack Lamb Pictures At School Auditorium Tues.

Residents of this section will have the opportunity of seeing full technicolor moving pictures of actual branding scenes on the Matador Ranch and scenes from the Matador Roundup and Rodeo staged here last May, when Jack Lamb, through the courtesy of the Gulf Oil Company, presents a two-hour show at the high school auditorium, Tuesday evening May 20.

Proceeds of this show, which was witnessed by thousands during its 9-day performance in Carnegie Hall, New York, will go to a local benefit. Admission for the one show here Tuesday night will be 15c and 25c.

Cowboys To Receive Passes

The only stipulation in showing the picture here is that a section of the auditorium be reserved for cowboys and employees of the Matador Ranch and that they receive passes to the performances. Mr. Lamb stated in a letter to Superintendent B. F. Tunnell, "It is in reality their show. I am giving it primarily for them and in order not to be selfish, we are going to let the community see the pictures for a small price."

The two-hour show includes the ten following subjects: "Quail hunting, Wild west rodeos, (Matador and other rodeos), Duck shooting, Famous flower gardens, Romantic Old Mexico, Bass fishing, Ranch life (scenes from Matador ranch), Indian dances, Travelogues and Arizona.

J.M. Garrison And Son Shot In New Mexico

Former Residents Of County Victims Saturday Shooting

J. M. Garrison, 60, and his son Arthur, 34, former Motley county residents were shot to death on the streets of Quemado, New Mexico, Saturday afternoon, by Louis C. Wilson, 65, two-gun and "salty" blacksmith.

After the shooting on Quemado's main street, Wilson terrorized the town, threatening to shoot anyone who approached the bodies. He later barricaded himself and wife in his home and stayed off arrest for 48 hours until he was finally arrested by state police after threats to dynamite him out. Quemado is a small cattle town 100 miles west of Socorro, near the Arizona border.

Wilson pleaded not guilty when booked on two charges of murder. He was removed to Albuquerque for safe keeping, pending preliminary hearing next week.

Relatives Live Here

Mrs. R. A. Seay of Matador is a sister of the elderly slain man, and other relatives include his mother of Flomot, Mrs. Earnest Fisher of Flomot, Mrs. C. D. Garrison of Flomot, Mrs. Finis Bourland of Flomot and Riley Day of Matador. Two brothers, Gabe and Charlie Garrison of Silverton, left Sunday afternoon as word of the tragedy was received. They arrived in the New Mexico town too late for funeral services of their brother and nephew and had not returned home yesterday.

The shooting, it was declared, was believed to hinge on a dispute over cattle grazing rights.

Matador Ranch Historical Job Moved To Ft. Worth

The WPA project to transcribe the history of one of Texas' first ranches, the Matador Land and Cattle Company, will be brought from San Antonio next week, it was announced Tuesday. The project will be located in Fort Worth in approximately two years, it was estimated Tuesday.

The tedious job of transcribing the records of the 900,000-acre empire with headquarters in Motley County will be completed by at least 30 Fort Worth clerical workers busy under the sponsorship of local governmental units of the original sponsor, Texas Agricultural College at Lubbock. Lucye Goyer, assistant director of the Community Service Program section of the college, announced the move after a meeting with County Judge Miller at the use of space in a building at 306 East Third Street rented by the city and the county.

The project has been located in San Antonio, but was forced to move because so many clerical workers there are busy on certain national defense projects, Goyer said.

The official name of the project is the State Editorial Unit. Its records will be compiled with the project's venture, "American Print."

The Matador ranch was founded in 1822 and was refinanced and operated by a group of Scotch immigrants headed by Ferrier Macfarlane. The ranch was sold to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in 1937.

The cost of expanding the facilities of the Texas petroleum industry forced Texas oilmen to raise $800,000,000 from banks and investors.

Texas Oil Pays Heavy New Taxes

The Texas petroleum industry will pay new taxes almost equivalent to the additional funds for old age assistance raised by the omnibus tax bill, figures obtained from the State Comptroller's office show.

New taxes imposed on the Texas petroleum industry by the bill total $10,990,617, it was estimated. The Texas old age pension fund will get an additional $11,253,121 from new taxes levied by the omnibus bill. Of course, not all the new petroleum taxes go for old age assistance, as teacher retirement, dependent children, needy blind and the general revenue fund all get their share.

Altho the petroleum industry will be paying much of the increased cost of the new Texas pension program, its employees will receive virtually no benefit. Its workers are beneficiaries of the Federal old age insurance law with benefits which usually disqualify them from any State assistance. Furthermore, approximately half of the petroleum workers of Texas are employed by companies already maintaining pension plans for their employees.

Of the total of $22,687,501 in new taxes which the bill is estimated to raise, the petroleum industry will pay $10,990,617, or almost half. Most of this falls on Texas oil producers who are expected to pay $8,536,000 more in gross production taxes alone, or a total of $23,536,000 in this one tax. Gas producers are due to pay $700,000 more, or a total of $1,400,000, and carbon black producers $179,617 more, or a total of $600,000. Petroleum's share of the new franchise tax is estimated at $750,000, while a new gross receipts tax of 2.2 per cent on oil and gas well servicing is expected to raise $825,000.

The $10,990,617 added to the $39,419,222 already paid in State taxes by the Texas petroleum industry will make a State total of $70,409,839 a year for this one industry. This is 48.8 per cent, or practically half, of all State business and property taxes paid by all classes of business and property in Texas, including the new levies of the Omnibus bill. This does NOT include gasoline taxes paid by the individual motorist on the petroleum industry's principal product.

In addition to its State taxes, petroleum pays $36,470,211 in local taxes and approximately $20,000,000 in Federal taxes, or a total of $106,880,050 a year. NOT counting gasoline taxes paid by the motorist. The total of nearly $107,000,000 is equivalent to an annual tax of $483 for each of the 221,150 employees of the Texas petroleum industry.

Farm families who have little money can't afford to buy all the food they need for a good diet, but they can afford to grow it, Allie Mae Tipps, home management supervisor for the Farm Security Administration, said yesterday in discussing the part farm families have to play in the nationwide drive to assume ample food supplies for the United States and other countries resisting aggression.

"Fact is," Miss Tipps said, "they can't afford not to maintain cows to furnish a year-round supply of milk, cream and butter; to raise enough chickens to provide meat and eggs all year, instead of just a few months in the spring, and to produce a variety of animals for other kinds of meat, including pork, beef and lamb."

"Farm families in Motley County being assisted in their farm and home operations by this agency are learning that they can have more food and better food for less money by raising bigger gardens, increasing their poultry flocks and feeding a few livestock for home consumption." Miss Tipps declared.

Miss Tipps said that although borrowers of the FSA have always followed a live-at-home plan and grown most of their food and feed on the farm, a majority of them are planning to produce more than ever this year. They expect to take full advantage of the opportunity to reduce their own living expenses and at the same time produce additional quantities to meet the national needs for greater supplies.

The home supervisor believes that FSA borrowers in this county are in full accord with a recent statement by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, in which he announced a nationwide drive to produce every possible egg from present laying flocks this spring and summer.

This effort is a part of the nation's determination to assure ample food supplies for this and other countries during the present emergency. It should, according to Department Officials, increase egg production for the whole country in the next 15 months by about six percent.

Among families in Motley County who have increased their poultry flocks and facilities for handling additional numbers of layers this summer and next fall are: G. W. Blackshear, L. B. Boling, R. E. Cates, J. H. Childers, F. Z. Clifton, Dowel Garrison, F. Z. Martin, I. M. Tiffin, V. D. Tiffin, F. M. Casey, R. M. Morris, E. W. Hartman, L. L. Lynn, R. M. Martin, M. A. Posey, E. W. Smallwood and A. L. Tanner.

Robert M. Morris increased his laying flock last year to 175, which necessitated the building of 2 additional houses. As Mr. Morris believes in keeping a record of each farm enterprise, he has an actual record of cost and profit on his flock. Since January 1, 1941 he has penned 100 hens and has sold the eggs to a hatchery at 6c above market price. He not only sells eggs to the hatchery, he runs an incubator himself, setting the eggs from his penned flock. The baby chickens sold have brought him $29.00 and he now has 520 eggs setting that have been contracted. He has sold eggs to the hatchery amounting to $58.23. From the other hens, he has sold eggs which brought $86.61 and has used 60 dozen eggs in the home. During the first 4 months he gathered 962 dozen eggs. He now has 460 chickens from his own flock and 90 pullets from a high production flock which will be penned in 1942. The feed cost has been $48.00 for laying mash; the grain was produced on the farm.

In the near future Mr. Morris plans to build a laying house, thus providing more space which will reduce crowding. This year he has had many eggs broken. By profiting from his past experience, improving the quality of his flock, providing adequate facilities and feeding better rations, Mr. Morris believes that he can help in supplying food during the present emergency, as well as providing funds for his family's needs.

Pied 'Pisious BY MRS. M.

Lives there a man who will or can Exert his powers to understand Or comprehend to such extent As discern twixt "set" and "per- manent"?

When a woman extols her husband's virtues to the world, it is usually a dead give-away that all is not so quiet on the martial front, and that more than likely she is erecting a smoke screen to conceal the true state of affairs. Sometimes it is to assuage a wounded vanity in denial of his short-comings, but more frequently because she exercises her privilege of berating him in private.

Uninteresting wives fall in several classes, not the least of them being husband-quoters. Next to children-quoters, husband quoters can become tops as obnoxious companions. Admitting that some of the utterances of the head of the family can at times be entertaining with new and varied witticisms, they can become equally witless when relayed by an animated spouse.

On the other hand, husband-critics are to be deplored. Husbands are much more charitable where their wives' faults are concerned, at least when it is a question of discussing them in public, than most wives. In any group of women, if they are not discussing their children, their neighbors, their operations, or clothes, they will in all probability be on the subject of husbands; and the chances are that the conversation will not be too flattering.

P. S. It has been said that a man's ego will not allow him to admit, at least to the world, that his selection of a mate was so unwise as to justify criticism.

A Golfing Parody (Clipped)

"I think that I shall never see a hazard rougher than a tree—a tree o'er which my ball must fly if on the green it is to lie; a tree which stands that green to guard, and makes the shot extremely hard; a tree whose leafy arms extend to kill the mashie shot I send; a tree that stands in silence there, while angry golfers rave and swear. Niblicks were made for fools like me, who cannot ever miss a tree."

At last the editor is going to have that long past-due, well-earned rest.

Tomorrow I'll be starting in the direction of my homeland for a visit, and ere the gate is closed on my departure, I venture to say that all his suppressed notions about running the household, without any interference whatever, will assert themselves. I'd even wager that an extra supply of paste for the office will be concocted in order to use the Mix-master which has been firmly prohibited, in the stirring process; prohibited that is, since the first batch, when the mixture splattered, and some of the ingredients peeled the paint off the face of the motor-jacket.

Incidentally, any news or items of social interest which local readers might turn in during my absence will be greatly appreciated. The other member of the force, Mary Ola as you all know her, has been charged with the responsibility of seeing that the women's interests are carried on, and she will need and appreciate all the assistance you give her.

In this connection, I wish to thank those of you who have from time to time, tendered like aid in handing in, or mailing us local news items, as well as our "stand by's" who assist in reports on church and social activities.

★ 29 MILLION!

A record

★When the 29,000,000th Ford rolled recently from the assembly line, an all-time record for the industry was set. 29,000,000 units built by the same management and all bearing one name—a name that has become one of the best-known trade-marks in the world!

It is significant that this achievement comes at a time when our country is making a mighty effort to re-arm swiftly. For to further that effort, to help speed it along in any possible way, we have offered the vast facilities of the Rouge Plant and every ounce of our experience.

As you read this, a new $21,000,000 Ford airplane engine plant, started only last fall, is nearly completed. A new magnesium alloy plant, one of the few in the country, is already in production on lightweight airplane engine castings. Work is right now under way on a new $18,000,000 plant for mass production of big bomber assemblies. Orders have been filled for military vehicles of several types, including army reconnaissance cars, staff cars and bomb service trucks.

In the midst of this activity for National Defense, building the 29 millionth Ford car is simply one part of the day's work.

The public has acclaimed the 1941 Ford car as the finest in Ford history. Ford Dealers are enjoying their greatest sales and expecting their best year since 1937.

It is good to be producing the things America needs, and to be setting records on the way!

School Children Aiding Endowment

School children over Texas are contributing nickels and dimes to the endowment fund for permanent maintenance of Stratford Hall, birthplace of Robert E. Lee, in Virginia, Lee Hager, vice chairman of the Texas committee, said Saturday.

"Stratford Hall impresses upon the children of his generation and upon ourselves the glory of the tradition of a great family," Mr. Hager said, "and stirs the ambitions of our boys and girls to emulate the lives of the Lees."

Superintendents of schools participating are being sent a scroll to be inscribed with the signature of student donors regardless of the size of contributions.

Arrangements have also been made for a day to be set aside at "Robert E. Lee Memorial Day in Texas" when an outstanding student orator in each school before a general assembly of students and teachers will deliver an address on "Stratford Hall, Shrine of Democracy."

A booklet depicting the mansion and properties, restored with faithful accuracy to early colonial appearance, together with scenes from the life of the plantation, is being furnished Texas school libraries.

"The Texas committee would like to see every school child in Texas given an opportunity to participate in this patriotic undertaking," Mr. Hager said. Stratford Hall will become more of a living ideal to the school child when he can feel that he has had a part in its preservation for the future. The committee welcomes these small contributions," Mr. Hager declared.

NO RIVAL ISSUES

Attorney General Gerald Mann's speech at Sulphur Springs in opening his candidacy for the United States Senate serves to make clear that the brief campaign will have to be fought out on personalities rather than issues. The principal contenders for the place, those at present in public office, are all agreed on support of the Democratic administration. They can find nothing on which to quarrel on the hustings. The voter will be left to choose merely whom he likes.

It is true, of course, that Attorney General Mann lacks experience outside the borders of the state and that there has already been raised by friends of his opponents the contention that the Senator should be chosen from the congressional delegation. Because, however, the delegation supplies two candidates and a third is flirting with the temptation to run, the Congressmen themselves cannot afford to capitalize on this issue for fear of dividing too much of the vote in an election where plurality can win. Nor have either Mr. Dies or Mr.

Local Men See Showing Of New Oil

Conoco's new motor oil, Nth Oil, to be presented to the motoring public soon, was introduced in this territory to a large group of Continental Oil Company employees at the Hilton Hotel in Plainview, Friday night.

Preview of the new product was made possible in a dramatic technicolor sound motion picture, which explained the experimentation and research in the field of motor lubricants.

"Destruction test" of the new motor oil was made in Death Valley California last August, where six new Chevrolet coupes, all of the same model, were used. The cars were "broken in" by the drive to Death Valley.

There, under the supervision of Prof. J. L. Jacklin of Purdue university, each car was given five quarts of oil. One car received the new Conoco Nth Oil, each of the others a top-ranking oil of other make bought by Prof. Jacklin on the retail market. Daylight runs then were maintained at the rate of 57 miles an hour until each motor in turn "went out". The first car to quit had traveled a little more than 5,000 miles. The fifth car to give up had just topped 7,700 miles. The sixth car, that containing Conoco Nth oil, finally threw a connecting rod thru its block at 13,398.8 miles. None of the six cars had been given a drop of oil, during the grueling run, in addition to the original five quarts with which it started, the record showed.

Those from Matador attending the banquet and preview of the new product included L. B. (Bob) Robertson, local Continental Oil Company commission agent, Bill McCaghren and Lloyd Fulkerson, representatives of his organization and two guests, Wiley McCowan and W. R. Moffett.

Paul R. Erdwin, assistant divisional superintendent of Fort Worth and other Conoco officials attended the meeting.

Johnson been so long in Congress as to wear the toga of elder statesmen. Mr. Johnson indeed has served little more than one term and his political reputation so far has been made as an astute and able electioneer, not on the floor.

Meanwhile, the Attorney General has made one elevation move as astute as it is honorable in turning back to the State of Texas his pay for the period that he remains away from his office to campaign. Clearly, none of the officeholding candidates are going to resign. Mr. Mann has done the next best thing and has also furnished an example which his opponents will be loath to emulate.

Senior Play Is Enjoyed By Many

The senior class play, "Simple Simon Simple", presented Tuesday evening in the school auditorium was declared one of the most enjoyable home-talent entertainments ever given here, by the capacity-filled auditorium of spectators.

Proceeds of the play, which amounted to around $45.00 will be used in completing the tennis court, a gift of the class to the school.

The play opened in the living-room of the home of Simon

Simple, an inventor, played by LeRoy Nelson. His wife, Sophie Simple, (Helen Hill) runs a boarding house and his son, Sammy, (Lowell Barkey) and daughter Stella, (Frances Stearns) hold positions in the town. It is a case of "everybody works but father", for Simon occupies all his time in the cellar, tinkering with various things he has "invented". Although he is known to the townspeople as "simple Simon", the plot proves that he isn't as simple as he seems when he outwits the town's miser.

The supporting cast included: Sally Ann, maid at the Simples; (Mary Ellen Barton); Minerva Webb, boarder at the Simples; (Estelle Martin); Hazel Hawkins, Sammy's fiancée, (Ruth Jameson); Thankful Barlow, who the Hotel Elite, (Merritt Finner); Elwood Eikins, just from the city, (Bob Jones); Dorothy Duckworth, from city (Lucille Plumlee).

All characters knew their parts perfectly and gave splendid performances, attesting to the skill directing of Principal Ezzell.

Music was furnished by acts by Holeman Knory Juanita Mize.

Oil lease and royalty payments to Texas farmers and ranchers amounted to 22 cents extra bonus for every dollar they received last year from their oil and livestock including U. S. Government benefit payments.

Growers To Receive Free Lint Classing

Growers and ginners all over the Belt have been asking the question: "Are we going to get free classing and reports on this year's cotton?"

Mississippi, and Louisiana. The early areas also include all Texas counties that are east of the 100th Meridian. The 100th Meridian runs down the east side of the Texas Panhandle and due south to the Mexican border. All Texas counties lying east of that line are classified as "early-planting."

Officers of the Agricultural Marketing Service and Division of Extension in the Cotton Belt have announced that they have organized cotton lint classing groups to visit the cotton fields this season. Requirements for getting the classing reports will be the same as last year. But a limit within which representatives can apply for classing has been set.

Now, for groups in the late planting areas. They have until August 15 to file their applications. The late areas include all of Texas west of the 100th Meridian. They include Arizona, New Mexico, and California. And they include—as well—the States of Oklahoma, Missouri, Kentucky, and North Carolina. All of these make up the late planting district.

However, for all groups that want classing for their 1941 cotton, the Agricultural Marketing Service says, "Don't delay, file your applications as soon as possible." The reason for this—from the growers' standpoint—is that early filing means all necessary shipping tags and other supplies can be delivered to the group well in advance of the first ginning. Last year, some groups waited so long to file their applications that they didn't get their supplies in time for their early-ginned cotton. So they didn't get their class on samples from the first cotton they ginned. That's the main reason the classing offices advise group representatives to send in their applications just as soon as their members have their cotton in the ground.

From the cotton classers' standpoint, the classing officers want to know as soon as possible just how many approved groups they'll have for the free classing and the market news reports. They need this information so they'll be able to give just as fast service on classing and return of the Form 1 reports to growers, as they were able to give this past season.

Any of you who want to ask for the free classing and market news for your 1941 cotton can get the blanks you need, and information as to how to fill them in, from your nearest cotton office of the Agricultural Marketing Service. For most of you who are listening to this announcement over this station, that nearest office are at Dallas, Austin and Lubbock, Texas, and Altus, Oklahoma. Just address your request to the Agricultural Marketing Service, located in the above cities. You'll get the forms both promptly and without any charge. They're free.

Hunters report less quail this year than in many years. Quail are scarce all over the Middle West and Southwest; there is not one where there were 10 or 15 last year, on an average.

Hot Weather Diseases To Require Care

The approach of summer weather foreshadows greater prevalence of intestinal disorders, according to morbidity reports reaching the State Health Department. "Infants are most susceptible to so-called 'summer complaint' (diarrhea and enteritis), but older persons are also affected, the aged being more likely to contract the disease," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Symptoms of diarrhea and enteritis usually appear suddenly, accompanied by fever and severe diarrhea due to inflammation of the bowel (enteritis). The patient suffers depletion of bodily fluids, and the bowel discharges often contain blood and mucus. Convulsions and coma frequently precede fatal cases, particularly in the infantile type of summer diarrhea."

Vital statistics records of the State Department of Health distinguish between fatalities from diarrhea and enteritis occurring under two years of age and those occurring among persons over two years of age. Death records filed in the Vital Statistics Bureau for 1940 show that 1,972 infants under two years of age died of diarrhea and enteritis, and 553 persons over two years of age were victims of this disease.

Diarrhea and enteritis as a rule is contracted by use of contaminated food products or contact with a patient or carrier. Dysentery bacilli (germs) are often found thru laboratory examination of intestinal discharges. Laboratory studies further demonstrate that many patients suffering from symptoms similar to diarrhea and enteritis in reality have contracted bacillary dysentery. This infectious disease is very similar to typhoid fever in its methods of spread and contraction.

Prevention of diarrhea and enteritis is dependent upon public health control measures, chiefly: (1) Safeguarded food, milk, and water supplies; (2) improvement in sanitation, methods of excreta disposal, and fly control; (3) scrupulous personal cleanliness on the part of all those who prepare and serve food; (4) careful attention to matters of infant care and home hygiene.

Skilled Men Needed For Defense Work

General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, has put the machinery of the System into motion to comb the Selective Service rolls of the State to insure that every man skilled in the operation of a defense production machine be engaged in that capacity.

The telegram received by General Page from General Lewis B. Hershey, National Director of Selective Service, reads:

"Your attention is called to the President's announcement of May 2 that because of the critical situation which confronts our Nation and the new 24 hour, 7 day machine production schedule, the rolls of the Army and of Selective Service and the Manpower of the Nation as a whole will be combined to insure that every man skilled in the operation of a defense production machine be engaged in that capacity. Direct that you call the attention of all Selective Service agencies in your State to the President's announcement and take immediate action to again recheck the lists of Class 1-A men and men awaiting physical examination to assure conformity with our policy as emphasized by the Presidential announcement. The burden of making the necessary determination is on Selective Service, and reluctance of an individual or his employer to claim deferment must not be allowed to defeat the paramount National interest. Proceed without delay to carry out instructions herein."

LETTERS From ENGLAND

Tonbridge, Kent 18-4-1940

Dearest June, I feel honored to have you concerned about me (Aren't I conceited!). Your letter came yesterday morning and I had been thinking of you.

By the way, where did you get "blue-pencil" from? Jack Warner—our modern comedian says that his sisters—Elsie and Doris Waters (also comedians) said the other day that Jack has saved a whole nation from swearing.

Thank you for the Easter card. Many of the girls see your letters and fade away at the sight of ten pages. When we were at Charlton nearly all our farm read your letters and I showed them to my teacher but now we have no time as once we get into school, we don't have one minute free. My friends say that you are a very nice girl (they can tell by your letters) and say that your school fellows seem a jolly nice crowd.

I will try and press you some flowers but most of our early summer cultivated flowers are too big and fleshy. I will send you some wild violets and primroses and gaisies next time. The Spring is very lovely down here in Tonbridge, the buds are all becoming green on the trees and there are hundreds of tiny lambs frisking about. We have been for waks hunting for "first finds" along the lanes. I do wish you were here. Have you any trees where you live. We have thousands. I am dying to hear the first cuckoo. All the birds are pulling the lawns to pieces to build their nests.

What do you think about Norway and Denmark? Although we (England) have done things that sound wrong we have only done it to stop Germany being unfair to neutrals and ourselves. Many people are saying that America wants to make money out of this war, but we are all doing terrible things, especially Germany.

It does not seem three years that we have been writing. I could

TREND TOWARD MODERATION SEEN BY PUBLIC LEADERS

REPRESENTATIVES of government, economics, medicine, law and sociology declare that the eight years since beer's relegalization in 1933 have been marked by increased respect for law and order, reduction of racketeering and gangsterism, and a renewed trend toward true temperance.

In statements issued recently a group of leaders of American thought contrasted the economic and social betterment since relegalization with the "empire of crime" that flourished during prohibition.

The values of beer in promoting temperance and order around the camps where our new armies are being trained was emphasized by Dr. Yandell Henderson, Professor of Physiology Emeritus at Yale University. He urged that Federal and State Governments avoid new increases in taxes on beer which might induce any return to bootlegging.

Dr. William Gerry Morgan of Washington, D. C., Past-President of the American Medical Association, said: "I believe that beer as it is consumed by a vast majority of individuals is harmless and therefore the ideal beverage. True temperance is the goal we should strive for. The two poles of intemperance are prohibition on the one hand and drunkenness on the other."

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York: "The legalizing of beer has been of great industrial and economic value to the nation. The repeal of prohibition greatly added to public respect for law and order, reduced racketeering and gangsterism, and brought substantial economic gains to industry and labor."

James W. Gerard, U. S. Ambassador to Germany, 1913-1917: "Above all our youth is learning the benefits of true temperance, and the invisible empire of crime which threatened the very foundations of our society has been destroyed."

Dr. Samuel Harden Church, President, The Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh: "The legalization of beer as a beverage for those who want it marked the restoration of liberty in the life of our American nation; but liberty can be a boon to humanity only when it combines temperance as an inseparable element in the national character. It is my hope that temperance will grow until it becomes a part of the soul of America."

Hiram Bingham, U. S. Senator from Connecticut 1925-1933: "The effect on the morals and the health of young people has been excellent—in striking contrast to the evil and seductive results of prohibition."

John Erskine, Author: "We took a big step toward civilization when we said goodbye to prohibition eight years ago and renewed our acquaintance with temperance. Morally and economically we have profited, I am sure, by recovering our senses."

Mathews Well, Vice-President American Federation of Labor: "Working men and women were among the first to realize that the national prohibition law was a grave error, resulting in loss of hundreds of thousands of legitimate employment opportunities for America's workers."

not bring many things away with me, but I know that I have nearly all your letters.

Well, I must close now. "Thank Goodness" you will say. Love to all your friends.

Lots of love, Doris.

P. S. I am going to have a French correspondent but I shall always like you best.

THIS MADDENED WORLD OF OURS

Today, after more than twenty years of peace, the world faces a new and vigorous war of nations. Although the European war has not yet involved the entire world, it has presented itself so that unless nations alter their courses before long, they will find themselves engaged in another major conflict of destruction.

War is an antique which has been improved upon until it has become so death-dealing that thousands of men's lives depend on whether their government enters the war or remains at peace.

It has become indeed a maddened world—drafting men to take their chance of life or death on the field of battle; manufacturing war machines to kill and destroy man and property; building costly lines of defense; planning, scheming, spying on other nations; trying to excel each other in destroying a civilized world.

Why must nations take this attitude? Is it fear, greed, or the ambitions of man that plunge a civilized world into a gruesome and prolonged war? The world cannot be sure; it knows that people have fought since time was first recorded. It will be a glorious day when we can feel that the world is safe from war.

Junior-and-Senior Banquet A Success

Almost all the Juniors and Seniors answered the call to colors Friday night, May 9, when they assembled in the basement of the Baptist Church to hold the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. They gladly did this duty for their dear old Alma Mater.

The Banquet was a lovely affair with a decoration scheme carried out in red, white, and blue; everything was very patriotic.

The program was kept in order by Commander-in-Chief L. M. Cox, Secretary of Labor, Dorothy Wason, gave a report of school labor affairs, and Wiley Kennedy,

Sophomores Present Wonderful Program

The Sophomores, sponsored by Hugh C. Gray, presented a merry chapel program last Friday afternoon, much to the delight of the remainder of the student body.

First, Rachel Carpenter, Mary Ruth Muse, June Barton, Joyce Daniels, Buster Mize, Mack Jacobs Norman M. Pitts, and Sonny Russell sang two all-American songs; followed by "Music By the Trio" . . . Holeman Knoy, Senior, Delbert Stone, Junior, and Morris Stephens.

A play—at least, we suppose it could be called a play—was next on the program. Tom Ed Jameson, Fausteena Fulfer, Betty Green, Algie Durbin, Lawrence Spray, Alton Marshall, and Bill Rushing played the parts excellently.

Another song by the boys, "How Dry I Am", was offered; and an exciting test of the Matador drinking water was the last number. The drinking water, it was discovered after it had landed all over the audience, was merely pop-corn.

The announcer was Catherine Daffern.

Grandpa says that an office holder is a politician who has traded the bunk for a berth.

In case you English or Modern History students need to know, John Milton wrote "Paradise Lost" when his wife returned from her vacation.

president of the Senior Class, represented the Senior Citizens in an address. Mr. Tunnell, who was to speak, gave most of his time in order that the Seniors might have an opportunity to bid the school and the lower classmen farewell. These impromptu speeches were all very interesting.

Everyone who attended the banquet reported a grand time, and the Seniors thank the Juniors for their efforts in preparing such an elaborate banquet.

SO GIRLS WANT TO BE BOYS!?

Do girls want to be boys? Or do they think they are pretty smart just as they are? Well, we think maybe the answer is "yes" and maybe it is "no".

However, we won't argue the subject right now. We'll leave it up to the student body, but let's consider a few points.

Did you ever notice how many girls' names are taken directly from boys' names? For instance, "Harriet" is just "Harry" without trousers, "Geraldine" is just "Gerald" with skirts, and "Paula" is just "Paul" prettified.

Then take sports. Girls are now playing baseball and basketball, and are even wishing that they could play football. It must be the popularity of football that makes them want to play—you know women like to have their names in the papers.

And there's office holding. Now-a-days women have more jobs than men. They'll soon be hiring jobless men to be their private secretaries.

Students, what is your opinion? Do you think the fairer sex will soon be managing all the affairs of men?

Here's A Chance To Check On You

Here as collected by EL MATADOR reporters, are specifications for the ideal girl and boy as agreed upon by a few students of MHS.

According to Wiley Kennedy, the ideal girl is pretty, but not too pretty; she is agreeable, but has a mind of her own; she dresses tastefully but not expensively; and the crowning factor—she can be romantic when the occasion demands. Intelligence might come in handy once in a while, too.

Bob Jones said, "My idea of an ideal girl is one who realizes that a pal and a lady are the same person from different points of view." To soften the blow from Bob, there's one fellow who wants a girl who is religious and makes friends easily. A sense of humor is absolutely essential, but good looks are a minor requirement. It may be best not to mention his name, for he would probably be swamped by "not beautiful, but—" young things.

The boys apparently prize intelligence above every thing else. They like originality, a sense of humor, and "an appreciation of home values".

Most of the girls prefer the "tall dark and handsome" type. Ruth Simpson relieved the monotony by choosing a red-head. They all like their gentlemen well-mannered, neat, dressed to fit the occasion, and good mixers. Most of them prefer sports clothes. And boys, if you have a little common sense, it won't be necessary to be good-looking.

It would be too bad to dishearten anyone, but the perfect example of the proof that women are hard to please is found in Helen Hill's statement. "I have not found my ideal boy yet. I like a mixture of John Payne, Spencer Tracy, and a former school teacher of mine." We'd like to meet this guy if you ever find him, Little Dark Angel!

He: "Since I met you I can't eat, I can't sleep, I can't drink."
She: "Why?"
He: "I'm broke."

MYSELF

By EDNA ST. VINCENT MILLAY

I have to live with myself and so I want to be fit for myself to know.

I want to be able, as days go by, Always to look myself in the eye, I don't want to stand with the setting sun

And hate myself for the things I've done.

I want to go with head erect, I want to deserve all men's respect,

And so in this struggle for fame and wealth

I want to be able to like myself, I don't want to look at myself and know

That I'm bluster and bluff and an empty show;

I can never hide myself from me, I see what others never can see, I know what others can never know,

I cannot fool myself, and so— Whatever happens, may I always be Self-respecting and conscience free.

Mavinee has been eyeing Jewel recently . . . Jimmie Joe and Justine are seen together quite often, it is reported . . . And no wonder; she's a sweet gal, and he's a grand fellow . . . Folks, LeRoy is telling that Estelle is now "just another one of the Jones girls"; that so, Bob?

Only one more week of school, chil'un; excited? . . . By the way, Flora will be moving to New Mexico then . . . That's part of the reason she and Holeman have been taking in the town these last few weeks . . . J. C., Helen S. didn't go to the banquet either. Now we know your secret! . . . Have you heard Ruth Jameson saying eenie, meenie, minie, mo to the several boys on her list?

What's this about Billy Bishop not learning anything this year? Why, we gals know better than that, ourselves! . . . The halls would be a better place in which to stumble if James Rufus would give the feminine hearts a break . . . Lawrence wishing he could get a girl partner in Biology; they have to start collecting butterflies soon—and I do mean soon, if not already . . .

Love among the fishes: Dorothy Lou and a lad from Whiteflat by the name of "Skeet"; Gracie and the football hero of '44, Vance Campbell; LaNell taking George right from under Glenda's shiny nose; Mary and Kat thick as bees in a honey comb; Don Paul and Frances Seigler are yum yum and then some; Leon and Margie deciding "So You're The One."

I sat alone at twilight Forsaken by God and man, And murmured over and over "I'll never eat onions again."

Well, kids, this is the last edition of your EL MATADOR your editor will write completely by her lonely; next week we will publish the Senior Edition, and then—vacation My only hope is that you have enjoyed reading it as much as I have enjoyed writing it for you . . . even though I did get terribly disgusted at times. May you all have a swell vacation and come back next September ready for more news and gossip written by a new editor . . . Junell Jackson.

Cracks At The Crowd

"Say, you're getting on that horse backward."
Byron: "Shut up, smart Alec. You don't know which way I'm going."

He: "I had a date with a professional mind-reader once."
She: "How did she enjoy the vacation?"

Bob: "Gosh! Isn't she pretty?"
Byron: "Yeah, but most of her beauty comes out of a bottle and off a hanger."

Coach (teaching Math): "Give me an example of an imaginary spheroid."
Freshman: "A rooster's egg."

"May I try on these trousers in the window?"
"I should say not. We've got a back room for that."

Most dogs beg until you give them something to eat, and then bite you when you change your mind.

SHOULD HOLD HIM
"Please," the newly-arrived foreigner asked, "What do you mean by this word 'bolt' of yours. I read here that a man bolted his food, he saw a bolt of lightning strike a tree just outside his window, but he took the bolt of cloth the miller needed for bolting flour and, bolting for his door, mounted his horse, which startled by a thunderbolt, bolted like a bolt shot from a crossbow."
"Well, I'll tell you," said the American. "A bolt is a gadget with a thread on one end that is used to screw a nut onto."

The expenses of Texas government have trebled the past fifteen years.

The Texas petroleum industry now pays 44 1/2 percent of all business and property taxes including sales taxes such as gasoline tax. If sales tax counted, petroleum and its products bear 54 per cent of State's tax income.

The Texas petroleum industry now pays over $75,000,000 in State and local taxes, counting gasoline taxes paid by the individual motorist. All the oil produced in now pays an average tax of 15 cents per barrel.

Improved Soil Aids Child Health

Observance of Child Health Day every May 1 indicates the nation's interest in the welfare of its future citizens such as this radiant child. This interest is shared by the 6 million farmers cooperating in the AAA farm program. As a contribution to proper nutrition for growing children, these farmers are creating soil conditions which assure an abundance of healthful foods both now and in the future. Application to the land of liming materials and superphosphate, shown in the top picture, is one means of doing this. Such practices mean better pastures, more and better milk from dairy cows, and healthier American children.

Vivid pictures of Western ranch life and Wild West rodeos keep spectators glued to their seats; and Mr. Lamb's pictures of Old Mexico and Arizona are masterpieces within themselves.

Everyone should see the picture since it is rare in a lifetime to see the genius of such profound artistry portrayed on the screen. Mr. Lamb is a born artist, and he is one of the few men in this nation who is able to capture all the beauty of the great outdoors in his camera. His sensational pictures are really a saga of Americanism.

In Matador Last Year Mr. Lamb was in Matador last year during the two-day rodeo, altho he arrived too late for the parade, but he made pictures of the celebration. However, he made more pictures of the Matador range wagon, branding and cattle work. The pictures have been a sensation wherever they have been shown. The great expense of making and showing the pictures is defrayed by the Gulf Company in order to create more tourist interest in the south and west. The company makes no profit from admission to see the pictures.

Since the school auditorium has a seating capacity of about 500, tickets in that number will be sold, but there positively will be but one showing. Advance sale of tickets will be offered and to be assured of seeing the picture, show-goers are advised to purchase tickets at the first opportunity.

Nearly $250,000,000 was spent last year in Texas in the drilling of 9,775 oil tests in every section of the State.
