

Crude Output Rises Sharply

Daily Average Flow Jumps 51,685 Barrels; Texas Makes 869,610

TULSA, Okla. (UP)—Crude petroleum production mounted sharply in the United States last week, the Oil & Gas Journal reported today.

The daily average flow increased 51,685 barrels to 2,150,199 barrels with production increases reported in virtually every field in the nation.

Oklahoma set the pace in the increase, the state's daily average rising 37,015 barrels to 423,530 barrels. East Texas had moderate gains, the daily average increasing 5,922 barrels to 335,908. Total Texas production was up 1,772 barrels to 869,610.

Reports from California said last week crude increase endangered the new higher prices posted in that area. Daily average production in California, the Journal said, increased 16,500 barrels to 468,000 barrels.

The Oklahoma increase came in the first two weeks of the monthly period when crude runs usually exceed those of the last two weeks. The Oklahoma corporation commission, acting under the new military control board, moved to reduce the flow. It ordered Oklahoma City's field reduced 9,900 barrels a day to 87,000 barrels. Today, the commission prepared to issue orders for a 25,000 barrel cut in other prorated areas. Testimony before the commission indicated demand for Oklahoma oil had dropped 24,000 barrels since June 1.

Chairman Hill, Kansas public service commissioner, conferred with Oklahoma officials yesterday, advocating a 10 per cent crude slash, a reduction which he said would result in a 25 per cent crude oil price rise.

"We can't ask the flush fields to carry this load. It is up to producers in unprorated fields to take the initiative," he said.

Hill said eastern oil companies had assured him a 15 cent a barrel increase in prospect if the daily average production of the nation is held to 2,000,000 barrels. Gov. W. H. Murray expressed opposition to Hill's plan. The Kansas official left today for Dallas to confer with Texas oil leaders.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN
America and the Lausanne Conference

It may be said that an economic solution of the reparations problem has been reached at Lausanne and that what remains to be done is to adopt the solution to popular sentiment in the various countries. Thus it is agreed that Germany should not be asked to pay anything for at least three years. It is agreed that the payments she makes thereafter must be so small that the whole of it would not at the outside be equal to much more than two annuities out of sixty odd called for under the Young plan. It is agreed that these small payments shall be due only if and when in the judgment of a neutral body, the World Bank at Basle, Germany can borrow the money to make them.

Although there is still some dispute as to the exact amount which Germany is to promise she will try to borrow, the creditors appear to have committed themselves to three principles: no payments to three years, a small cash payment as a final settlement and this cash settlement to be made and this cash man credit is good enough to permit the sale of her bonds. Once the creditors agree to these principles at Lausanne they will of course, mark the upper limit of any demand they can ever again make upon Germany. More than this the creditors will not obtain whether or not the agreement is ratified by the various parliaments.

Henceforth, Germany's liability under reparations can not be larger than the interest and amortization on a loan of about $750,000,000. The German taxpayer might have to find about $100,000,000 for ten years. Under the Young plan he had to find five times as much for thirty-six years and nearly four times as much for another twenty years.

The proposed settlement would bring to an end the existing reparations system. This system was arranged so that Germany should pay the whole debt owed by the Allies to the United States and a small surplus, most of which went to

PARKER WINS ANOTHER FROM LOTT

Frankie Parker (right), 16-year-old Milwaukee lad, is shown with his coach, Mercer Beasley (center), and George Lott, America's No. 2 ranking tennis player, when Parker defeated Lott for the Western Ontario title at Windsor, Ont. It was the second time in three final meetings that Parker defeated the former Davis cup star and 1931 national singles runner-up.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marterer of Buffalo Gap, N. Y., who have been the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gilmore and family for the past three weeks left Tuesday morning for Pasadena, Calif., and Seattle, Wash.

FINE PAID IN PENNIES
DALLAS (UP)—Police Sergeant W. D. Williams smiling said "O K" when a motorist fined $5 for traffic violation offered him the money in pennies, but he added "you'll have to wait here until I count them."

It took 30 minutes to make the count which disclosed a shortage of 13 cents. The motorist spent the next hour desperately telephoning friends to raise the rest of the fine.

Chief Objection To Liquor Plan Of Canada Is That Government Is Thrown Into Business, Says Writer

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The chief objection raised by prohibitionists and the more moderate wets to any such liquor plan as is enforced in Canada is that such system place the federal or state governments in the liquor business.

Drys consider the Quebec plan—involving sale by the province of spirits, wine and beer—as a step backward toward the open saloon. To them such a program represents the failure of ideal toward which they worked since Carry Nation began her Kansas crusades.

But they are not alone in pointing out what they consider the disadvantages of government sale of liquor. Even so confirmed a wet as Rep. John O. Connor of New York—co-author of one of the numerous beer bills submitted to this congress—sees flaws in the Canadian system.

Opposed
"I am opposed to putting the government in the liquor business," he said. "It has been considered in some quarters as not entirely above reproach. I have always believed the 18th amendment should be repealed and the matter referred to the states to deal with as they see fit."

"On my recent trip to Canada, I saw two drunken people, both American tourists. Speaking after a rather superficial study, I should say the Canadian system is good. The government or the states should handle the liquor problem."

Indorsed
Senator Elingham, Rep. Conn., anti-prohibition leader in the senate, indorsed the Quebec system. "It has succeeded in promoting temperance," he said. "It makes no attempt to control mild beverages such as wine and beer. They don't bother with them because they know wine and beer are non-intoxicating unless a man wants to make a hog of himself."

He believes, however, in event of a change in the prohibition laws

Lod Calohan Dead At 60

Man Who Knew Many Cattle Brands Started In West Texas

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—William (Lod) Calohan, 65, one of the most famous cattlemen of the southwest, died here late yesterday after being overcome by the heat.

Calohan became a cowboy at the age of 10 and had been in the cattle business ever since. His work later was detection of stolen cattle. He knew more than 15,000 cattle brands.

Lod Calohan began his career in the saddle with the Scharbauer outfit in the Midland country, according to old-timers here, who declared he was known by most all of the men who were in the cow business in West Texas.

Some consideration should be given to the desires of different states for different enforcement provisions and does not favor "trying to saddle on all the United States any one plan."

Hyer Will Campaign For Democratic Ticket

DALLAS (UP)—Julien C. Hyer Fort Worth, candidate for the Democratic nomination for congressman-at-large, Place 3, said here last night he would campaign for the national party candidates after the July and August primary elections.

Hyer said invitations to speak for Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and Speaker Garner had come from several states.

The candidate, a dry, said he favors the resubmission of the 18th amendment.

Plainview—$89,750 contract let for construction of post office building to W. Smith.

Besides relieving M. Herriot of a political embarrassment, the effect of suspending ratification would be two-fold: it would delay the restoration of Germany credit and it would make it a little more difficult to deal with the American congress. For as long as the plan is not legally in effect, the reparations problem will be politically alive, and while no succeeding French government could hope to obtain more money from Germany than the sum now being fixed at Lausanne, there would be a real possibility that M. Herriot's successor might try to sell ratification for political concessions. Thus the atmosphere would remain troubled and in a troubled atmosphere the stricken credit of Germany can not be restored.

In dealing with the United States there can be little doubt that Congress would be most firm if the impression were created that Europe had contrived a situation in which America must yield or take the blame for prolonging the financial disorder. The temper of Congress is such that it is most likely to be magnanimous if there is no moral compulsion from Europe. I do not think any competent American observer would dispute the statement that the most promising way to deal with America is for Europe to make the settlement now contemplated at Lausanne and then to open negotiations here.

This procedure involves no financial risk. For the European creditors can not get any more out of Germany just because they fail to get complete relief from America. On the other hand, if they arrive to negotiate, having burned their bridges and solved the problem in Europe, their moral position here will be invincible. They will have testified to their conviction that the prompt liquidation of the war debts is desirable, and that the whole agitation does not conceal hidden political maneuvers. It will cost them nothing to do what is right and most expedient.

No American is in a position to say what kind of settlement can be made here, just as no Frenchman was in a position thirty days ago to say that France would be as generous and as far sighted as France has shown herself to be. It should be noted, however, that the Republican platform is silent on the subject of debts and this silence signifies a realization that a new deal is necessary. No responsible Republican official at Chicago had any doubt on that point.

The Democratic platform has a direct statement opposing "cancellation" of debts. But this sentence did not appear in the original draft as it came from Governor Roosevelt's advisers. Their view is to be found a few sentences earlier where they declare their belief in the maintenance of good faith and of good will in financial obligations. The anti-cancellation clause was forced into the platform by Mr. McAdoo and the Hearst influence; it was accepted regretfully but on the understanding that a debt can be radically repudiated without being cancelled. Events at Lausanne show how far it is possible to go without "cancelling" a debt.

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) state's offer to build these roads. It means that that tax rate would not have to be raised.

The fact is, a plan may be worked out in some manner that would make possible providing this right-of-way and still make possible slight reduction in the tax rate a year from now if the legislature votes to allot part of the state gasoline tax revenue to payment of county bonds.

Summing up: Howard county must take advantage of the state's offer to build the highways within the county and, Howard county, if she is grateful, ought to return a majority vote for Ross Sterling for governor.

Invocation was led by Mrs. W. G. Bailey of Plainview. Wendell Bedichek read the gist of the new national platform of the Democratic party. Mr. Spence called on Edwin A. Kelley, a republican, to discuss it. Mr. Kelley said "I may be damned by my party but I will say that the Democratic platform is more honest, more energetic and foreseeing than that adopted by my party. The Republican platform has a lot more to say on both sides of every issue."

He took his text from the 26th chapter of Genesis, verses 18 and 19: "And Isaac digged again the wells of water, which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father, for the Philistines had stopped them. And Isaac's servants digged in the valley and found there a well of springing water." And from Jeremiah 2-18: "For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me, the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water."

Drive Government Out of Competition Candidate Pleads

Austin - Driving the government out of competition with the farmer, stopping its injury, by driving down prices, of the producer, thinning out the useless government bur-ans and payroll parasites, is the principal plank upon which W. Selden Reed, Austin business man, is running for congressman-at-large, Place No. 1. Mr. Reed, son of M. H. Reed, one of the state's foremost cotton men, is making his first political campaign.

Co-Operative Canning Plan Is Discussed

Chamber of commerce directors Tuesday evening discussed a plan for co-operative canning of local farm products. Merely prospective, the plan calls for some means by which the city and county might furnish cans to farmers on a share basis of the canning. Canned goods gained by that method would be held in reserve to deal with extreme charity cases during the winter. The plan is also calculated to aid farmers unable to buy cans now.

SPORTS ON

By CURTIS BISHOP

Mr. Mose Sims, who is manager of the Abilene Oilers and whose athletic experience ranges from semi-pro croquet in Louisiana to club football in California, is not at all pleased with the details of the baseball tournament planned here for the 21, 22, 23, and 24th. He is interested in such a program, especially in the hundred dollar prize, but objects to certain clauses, particularly the ten dollar entrance fee.

Mr. Sims also adds that he would like to have a game for Sunday, July 17 away from home and wonders if we know of anyone that has an open date.

Sims says that with added strength in a couple of places he would have a capable crew and that if he should decide that it would be to his financial advantage to enter the Big Spring meet he would personally see to it that this re-enforcement was found. And the Abilene club is a strong one.

It would be hard for the year in a year out baseball fans to reconcile themselves to hearing Simms' name called the Abilene Oilers. On it are the pair of Andrews, both of whom performed for the T. & S. shops, Sam "Slick" Moore, a student in Abilene Christian College, Clyde Pratt, the sweet-fielding, hard-hitting outfielder, and Ed Crouch, the blonde dazler of the 1929 and 1930 city league.

Ackerly, the home of Leonard Rose if notable for nothing else will have a big celebration July 20 and among the events on the program are a pair of baseball games between Les Brown's charges and two Howard county opponents, either the Foran Oilers or the Mexican Tigers.

The announcement is not yet official and neither of the teams have been invited but we're passing the word along so that our pal Charlie Ferguson can sign up all the Coahoma and Big Spring baseball players before Manager Brown gets in touch with them.

Two prominent Big Spring citizens will also perform at the Ackerly jubilee. Sheriff Jess Slaughter announces that he will rope and milk the widest cow to be found and Calvin Boykin, not to be outdone by a peace officer, declares that he will ride any bull that the celebration officials can locate.

We'll challenge the field to a pie eating contest.

To our right is a letter from a Mr. Henry Rockwell of Coleman, who is presumably one of the tournament committee at the Coleman Country Club, boosting his city's invitational tournament that will begin July 17. Among others that Mr. Rockwell has lined up for play in the second such championship test at Coleman is a lad named Henderson, (the name is only a guess) who toured Louisiana course in 30 while Ed McClure, the Louisiana state champion, stood by and marveled.

Naturally the score was a new course record. Walter Hagen had set the old mark on one of his barn-storming tours years ago, and it had withstood the test of brassie busters for nearly four years. The par on the course is 72.

The word is passed along via Frexy Anderson of Abilene that Buck Bailey, the Washington State College coach, who spends part of every year looking West Texas high school athletes over, has at last made a conquest. The report is not official, but rumor has it that Boyce Magness, the Breckenridge ace of '29 and '30, will journey to the Pacific Coast along with Bailey next fall.

There is no need to go into detail and narrate any of the Magness feats. It is sufficient to say that he is the rival that Tack Dennis has had in West Texas high school football circles since we can remember. Some might even say that Magness was a better all-around back than Dennis.

The Breckenridge star played part of last year with Schriener Institute.
