Cap Rock Telephone receives national recognition

Rural Telecommunications, a national industry magazine, recently recognized Cap Rock Telephone Cooperative, located in Spur, Texas, for the deployment of high speed Internet in rural America. Specifically, how the technology is being used for telemedicine and telepharmacy in the communities of Quitaque and Turkey, Texas.

Rural Telecommunications is a bi-monthly magazine published by the National Telecommunications Cooperative Association, a nonprofit, corporation formed in 1954. NTCA membership includes more than 550 small, rural locally owned and operated cooperatives and commercial telephone companies.

Shary Denes, Editorial Manager for Rural Telecommunications, states the following in her column, "From the Editor": "Other articles in this issue highlight NTCA members and their continued efforts to raise the bar when it comes to technological breakthroughs. Take Cap Rock Telephone in Texas. which has been offering highspeed Internet access since 2001.

"That foresight made it possible for an innovative doctor to bring telemedicine to two small communities served by the Telco, saving residents hours of travel time to bigger cities for medical care ("Cap Rock Telephone Opens Door to Telemedicine"). "Making life better in rural communities, easing the diffi-culties of some and strengthening the prospects of others, be it in large ways or small, NTCA members make a difference in the daily lives of their customers. It isn't always easy, and it may not always be appreciated, but it's an unwavering hallmark of their commitment to rural America."

HONOR SOLDIERS

The Motley County Tribune would like to pay tribute to those servicemen and women with Motley County ties.

its residents and business, the vast reach and profound impact that advanced technologies can have in rural areas is amply illustrated in Turkey and Quitaque, Texas.

The two communities, located 10 miles apart in the Texas Panhandle - with a combined population of less than 1,000 people - now have easy access to medical care in their towns, thanks to the foresight of two innovators: Dr. Sidney Ontai and Cap Rock Telephone Cooperative (Spur, Texas).

Recognizing the need for physicians in rural Texas, Ontai moved from Los Angeles in 1998 to start a family practice in Plainview. Patients who came to see him from such small and distant communities as Turkey and Quitaque drove nearly 60 miles to Plainview, one of the closest cities.

Faced with a long commute and few options, as neither community had a medical facility, many people opted to leave lesser ailments unchecked, and major illness or emergencies were hindered by an hour's drive for medical help. After hearing several disturbing stories about strokes that killed patients while enroute to emergency care from Turkey to Quitaque, Ontai decided the two small towns were ripe for telemedicine. However, he needed two key elements to achieve the goal: broadband capability from the local telephone company, and funding.

The technology part of the equation was easy: Cap Rock Telephone had been providing high-speed Internet access since 2001. Ricky Martinez, public affairs coordinator for Cap Rock, said the cooperative wa extremely pleased to see On "take this technology to the next level," and was eager to share the capability with its customers. "It's a way to show customers what broadband can do for them," he said.

Ken Young Studio now open in downtown Roaring Springs

Just down the street from the Bed & Breakfast, in the quaint little town of Roaring Springs, an Art Studio has recently opened. Ken Young Studio adds to the artistic flair of the town, joining the other downtown businesses, each one offering their own unique style. One might say that Roaring Springs is quite the 'artsy town.' Ken Young, who has been making his living in arts since 1972, opened the studio about two months ago.

He and his wife, Dinah, moved to Roaring Springs in 1998, when they purchased a pecan orchard which had been donated to the Motley County Chamber. The couple were both raised in Lubbock and graduated from high school there. They were high school sweethearts and rekindled their relationship at their 30th class re-

Ken attended Texas Tech University and the University of Houston where he studied Economics. He was in the armed forces and was stationed in Japan and Viet Nam. When he returned stateside in 1968, he bought a Cannon Camera and started taking pictures, something he had always enjoyed.

His love for the arts grew from that camera and developed into much bigger avenues. While living in Houston in the early 70's, he taught himself to draw and later became interested in sculpting. "I thought of sculpting as a 3-dimensional drawing," he said.

Ken worked on his sculpting in the day and attended school at night, studying photography. At this time, he supported himself with his artwork selling at Arts & Crafts Fairs in the Hous-

Learning to draw and sculpt turned me into a real artist," he said.

He moved to Breckenridge, Colorado in the late 70's. "I would ski all day and work on my sculpting at night," he said. By 1977 he had priced himself out of the market and moved back to Houston. By this time Ken was well established as an artist and commissioned sculpting wall murals for several large office buildings in Houston. Ken had always admired Tiffany's windows, and dreamed of having his artwork displayed there. "I wasn't smart enough to know that you shouldn't solicit Tiffany's," he said. "After several calls, they agreed to see my work and loved it." His work has been displayed in Tiffany's windows, which brought more success. 'By 1981 I was booked 3 years ahead," he explained. The commission work was mostly for medal murals in oil company office buildings and banks. He sculpted a large free-standing wall mural at the Kingwood Park Library.

The success of his mural work, allowed Ken time to try new things. "I had always loved the black pottery from Mexico and wanted to develop something in black work," he said. He says by trial and error and a mistake he developed what he calls Kinetic Illusion sculpting.

The unique pieces change as you look at them. The black ironwork art is made up of lines which form a certain object as one moves toward it. As a wedding gift for his wife, he sculpted a Kinetic Illusion piece which forms a heart.

After developing some health problems, Ken decided it was time to bring out his photography, paintings and draw-

At his studio, Ken's specialty is Giclee, which is the French name for Museum quality digital prints. "I shoot on a special film, which really captures color and detail," he explained. The film is scanned into the computer and with special programs he can work with the shot, giving it a painting effect, resulting in something beauti-

Ken will do specialty photography at his studio, offering shoots on location. He has recently been shooting at the Matador Ranch and has captured some amazing shots.

Ken will also do studio shots, by appointment, for senior pictures and portraits.

With their work in Roaring Springs - (Mrs. Young is a licensed massage therapist), the couple has had the opportunity to pursue other interests.

Ken contracts with Minute Maid to work with the Olympics. He started doing this type of contract work while living in Houston doing production work. He has produced national sales meetings, t-shirts, national posters and banners that have gone all over the world. "We knew we wanted to do hands-on work with the Olympics when the kids were grown and gone," he said. The couple has two sons, two daughters and four grandkids.

The Youngs have worked with the Olympics at the last two events, first in Salt Lake City, Utah and then in Sydney, Aus-

The couple heads the team which provides all the drinks for athletes for thousands of meals per day. "We have really enjoyed this work and being a part of the Olympics," Ken said.

They are now in the process of preparing for the Greece

"We love Roaring Springs," Ken said. "We are so thankful to be here. Each time we travel, we realize how fortunate we are to live here, when we return."

"We know that God had a hand in bringing us to Roaring Springs," he explained. While living in Lubbock, we knew we wanted to move to the country. We had both come to Roaring Springs while growing up, going to the Springs, and knew we liked it here. We had looked at the area and decided we would like to move to Roaring Springs.

The next day we saw an ad in the Lubbock paper for the pecan orchard."

"Our friends love it here, also," Ken said. His boss and friend, from the New Zealand Olympics, visited not long ago. "He had told us he would visit us after an around the world tour. We received an email with his itinerary, listing 2 days in New York, London, etc., and five days in Roaring Springs. He said this was the only place he visited where he was able to relax."

Ken welcomes visitors to his Studio.

Motley County Ag Teacher attends board meeting in Austin

Austin -- Jim Cooper, Agricultural Science and Technology teacher from Motley County attended the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association of Texas Board of Directors annual meeting April 6-7. Cooper has been teaching agriculture for 21 years and is currently on the board of directors.

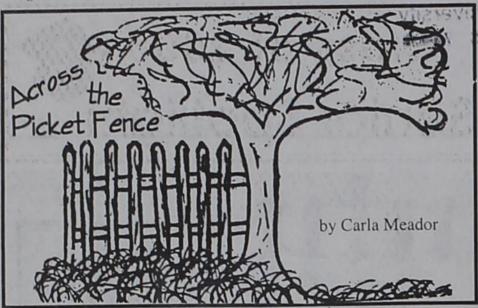

Board members who attended the annual meeting in Austin decided the direction policy and budget for the Association's upcoming fiscal year. They met with various elected officials as well to discuss current legislative issues and policies affecting the Association membership and agricultural education. Representative Pete Gallego, D-Alpine, addressed the board members at the Monday morning breakfast.

Jack DeShazo, president of the association, stated, "The leadership demonstrated by these selected teachers within our Agricultural Science profession will help direct the future of our association. This group understands the role that our profession plays in helping to impact the future of our students and in sustaining the very important industry of agriculture."

The Ag Teachers Association was founded in 1940 and its membership annually reaches above the 90% range of ag science and technology teachers in the state. The association holds an annual professional development conference in July, presents tenure awards to teachers with 10 years and more of teaching experience, and also offers members a variety of discounts that range from automobile dealerships to credit cards.

For those of you who may not have noticed the story on the front page for the last few weeks, about honoring our servicemen and women with Motley County ties - if you have a loved one in the service at this time, regardless of their location, whether they are stationed in Iraq, somewhere in the Persian Gulf, stateside, or elsewhere in the world, we would like to pay tribute to them.

We have received very few pictures. I do not want to leave anyone out. I have tried to call a few that I can recall. Please let your loved one be a part of this tribute.

The three members of our Military, pictured on the front page, are truly heroes. They are giving for others.

My sister, who substitute teaches at school, shared a story with me about some young elementary students. She said that last week some servicemen, Marines she thought, were at school, handing out literature, etc. She was in the library with her students, when the Marines came in. She said the children gasped, they were so excited - saying "Ms. Rose, Ms. Rose, look they're heroes! Can we get their autographs?" Of course she said yes.

The kids were scrambling to get pieces of paper so they could get the men's autographs. The nice servicemen obliged and were so kind to the children. She said the kids talked about that all day.

She said that incident made her realize just how the children view the servicemen during this time that our country is at war. It touched her heart, and mine.

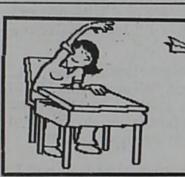

I think that incident speaks volumes for those children's parents, who apparently have taught them respect for our US military.

Remember, if you have a loved one or know someone who does, who is a member of our military, please make sure their picture and information gets to my office.

National Day of Prayer, May 1

National Day of Prayer will be observed May 1, 2003. The theme for this year is Righteousness Exalts a Nation, based on Proverbs 14:34, "Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a disgrace to any people." Organizers believe this verse contains an important exhortation for the citizens of this country, especially in light of re-

A local observance will be held on the Court House lawn near the Gazebo, in Matador, Thursday, May 1. Everyone is wel come to come be a part of this very important event. Time and more details will be printed as available.

New books include the latest Ella Clah mystery, Tracking Bear, by Aimee and David Thurlo. Following the usual format of these authors, this book involves a threat to the "rez" in form of a nuclear power plant and the murder of a tribal policeman. Set in northern New Mexico, this novel will interest all Tony Hillerman readers.

We also have T. Jefferson

Parker's newest, Cold Pursuit, Also new to the library is the DaVinci Code by Dale Brown. Have you read John Grisham's latest, King of Torts? How about Jester by James Patterson & Andrew Cross? We also recommend The Cat Who Brought Down the House by Lilian Jackson Braun. All of these best sellers are ready for you to check out and enjoy.

New in the children's Department is Easter Parade. This book is a beautifully illustrated book of Irving Berlin's famous song. It even shows the "rotagravure." The characters, which are cute, fuzzy animals, are all decked out in beautiful Easter bonnets as they parade down Fifth Avenue.

Individual Faithfulness

The Church is composed of all its members in much the same way a rope is constructed. I mean by this, all of its strands make up members. A rope is no more or no less than the fiber strands of which it is made. And a church is no more or no less than the aggregate of the members com

The rope is made strong by all its strands pulling together and lending support to all other strands. When we think of a strong rope we may think particularly of the interdependence of its many tiny strands. In the same way we may be overlooking the essential element of church strength.

A rope is materially weakened by the failure of any single strand. It places a heavier burden on every other strand and thus jeopardizes the entire rope. In much the same way, the failure of any church member places an undue burden on every other member.

The rope begins to fail when any one of its strands ceases its function. The Church's growth is often defeated by just one member! Achan caused the defeat of all of God's people at Ai. Read the account in Joshua chapter 7.

Eternity alone will disclose how many churches suffered defeat because one member failed to function faithfully. Each Christian should keep in mind that the Lord's church and its strength in the community, rests directly upon his or her individual faithfulness. One loose strand weakens the entire rope!

The joy of Easter giving observed by Do Gooders

The Do Gooders' Club began the month Tuesday, April 1 at the Community Center in Flomot by observing the joy of Easter giving by making lap throws for the Lockney Care Center and clothes protectors for the Floydada Care Center.

Mesdames Trula Martin and Geneva Martin, hostesses presided at a pastel Easter decor service. They served chips, dips and cookies with pink fruit punch. The table was laid with a pink cloth with a lace overlay. The centerpiece was a beautiful floral arrangement of ivy and pink Calla Lilies.

A short business session was conducted by Mrs. Waydetta Clay. No business report given as secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Alma Shorter had a medical appointment.

Mrs. Judy Stark was the lucky winner of a ceramic Easter rabbit at the ticket drawing.

Members attending were Mary Jo Calvert, Trula Martin, Suzie Shannon, Anna Beth Clay, Waydetta Clay, Leona Degan, Judy Stark, Kathy Shorter, Nada Starkey and Geneva Martin.

Spaghetti Supper will honor Volunteers

by Winifred Darsey

The Site Committee of the Motley County Senior Citizens will honor the Senior Citizens Center volunteer workers with a Spaghetti dinner at the Center, April 24, at 6:00 p.m. The public is invited to attend and enjoy this fun time. There are no tickets to be sold, but donations will be accepted.

This committee was organized to help fund ways and means to aid the Center with expenses.

The Senior Citizens were delighted over the chest and flower pot made by Dale Bumgardner. All agreed it was beautiful and enhanced the outside appearance. Thanks for such a nice gift.

The film, "McIntosh and T.J." will be shown on May 17 at 8:00 p.m. Keep this date in mind.

Honored guests at the supper are those who deliver meals to residents who are unable to attend. They are Marion Woodruff, Geneva Wilson, Jo and Walter Trammel, Patricia Smith, Pearl Patten, Joan and Keith Patton, D.A. and Ruby McGuire, Bill and June Moss, Lorene Jordan and Joyce Campbell.

Motley County MCYO prepares for upcoming softball season

by Shonda Elliott

The MCYO (Motley County Youth Organization) met on Monday, March 31, in the Mot-ley County school cafeteria for the first meeting for the 2003 season. Present were Tina Brooks, Timmy Brooks, Tammy Simpson, Shawn Elliott, Shonda Eliott, Crawford Mason, Marvina Mason, Olivia Osborn, Robert Osborn, Wendy Taylor, Kim Fletcher, Mindy Jameson, and Denise Crowley. Many items were discussed. Last year, an equipment room was built by Shawn Elliott to store all baseball equipment. This was built to allow the old equipment room free for the storage of concession stand goods and a freezer. This year, it was voted for Shawn to build a shading over the top of the stands to allow cover from the sun and weather. Everyone agreed and the shading should be ready for this year's season.

Everyone agreed to donate money for the end of year school party to Joyland again this year for the elementary students. Also agreed was to donate money to the All-Night Drug-Free Party to be held graduation night.

MCYO will again this year hold a track meet for the little kids. This event will be held on Saturday, May 17th. Forms will be available soon for this event. More information will be provided in next week's paper.

Sign-up for the 2003 season will begin on April 1 and run through April 11th. Forms were disbursed at school to the children to take home. In the case that your child did not bring home a form and is interested in playing, please contact Tammy Simpson during the daytime hours at (806) 347-2664 or in the evening at (806) 347-

West Texas PTPI Chapter provides grant for Texas Tech students

by Penny Pipkin

The West Texas Chapter of People to People International (PTPI) played a role in making possible a humanitarian community service project by awarding a $2,000 grant to six-teen Texas Tech students, all members of the Tech German Club under the direction of Dr. Meredith McClain, Tech German Professor and member of the West Texas PTPI Chapter.

The students spent their spring break in a village near Dresden, Germany, helping clean up an area devastated by last fall's horrific flooding. They left for Germany March 13 and returned March 22.

The students said that the residents of Bad Schandau where they worked welcomed them warmly and harbored no resentment in spite of the re-cent strain in U.S. - German relations over the Iraqi War. They gained valuable insight that hostilities can exist between governments but not necessarily between peoples. This is a perfect example of PTPI's founder, President Dwight Eisenhower's belief that separate them."

"...given a chance, people will make friends across, around, over and under all the natural and man-made barriers which Heiner Model, German consul general from the Houston consulate, recognized the students on Thursday, March 27, while lecturing about "German American relations - a diplomat's perspective."

Motley County 4-H'ers participate in photography project

Motley County 4-H'ers recently participated in the Photography project.

Those participating were
Sarah Ferguson, Cory Durham,
Christian Brooks, Garrett Jenschke, Reagan Elliott, Shane'a Russell, Colton Russell, Mandi Ream and Charli Ream.

These kids worked very hard and snapped a lot of great pictures.

In February they toured Ken Young's Art Studio in Roaring Springs. Mr. Young talked to the group about photography (i.e setting up a picture, using lines and knowing where the sun is.)

A meeting was held March 8 to finalize plans for picture contest dates and a trip to get the film developed.

On Sunday afternoon,
March 23, J.D. and D'anna

Russell, along with Connie Durham headed out to Plainview after church with Colton and Shane'a Russell, Cory Durham, Reagan Elliott, and Christian Brooks. They were met there by Lonnie, Kim, Garrett and Guthrie Jenschke. The kids had their film developed and watched the process, looked at cameras, film and other equipment. They enjoyed pizza before returning home. Pictures were judged on Tuesday, March 24. Winners were announced on Wednesday, March 25 as follows:

Senior: Mandi Ream, Black & White digital; Charli Ream, Color digital; Colton Russell, 35 mm, Color, Promote 4-H, People, Career, Black & White Promote 4-H.

Junior: People color 35 mm - First, Garrett Jenschke, ; 2nd Reagan Elliott; 3rd Christian Brooks.

Landscape/Scenic: First, Garrett Jenschke; 2nd Cory Durham; 3rd Reagan Elliott.

Humor: First, Shane'a Russell; 2nd, Cory Durham; 3rd, Christian Brooks.

Black & White Landscape/ Scenic: First, Shane'a Russell; 2nd, Garrett Jenschke.

Career: First, Garrett Jenschke; 2nd, Shane'a Russell. Promote 4-H, Color & Black & White: First, Shane'a Russell. Digital Color: Sarah Ferguson.

All Juniors receiving first place will be advancing to the District Roundup.

All Seniors receiving first place will be advancing to the State Roundup in June.

The funding came from the Department Agriculture's Rural Utilities Service (RUS) Distance Learning and Telemedicine program, which provides funding for educational and health care needs in rural America. Start up was not cheap, however. Ontai received nearly $500,000 in grants from the RUS, and put up about $200,000 of his own money.

With the funding, Ontai was able to furnish the two clinics with the teleconfering system needed to transmit various data using DSL technology, including EKG readings, electronic stethoscope findings and a host of blood work. The turkey clinic opened in 2000, with telemedicine equipment added later, and the clinic in Quitaque had its grand opening in 2002. Last November, Ontai expanded the clinic's capabilities to include a telepharmacy in Turkey, in partnership with (and administrative oversight by) Texas Tech University School Pharmacy. Ontai plans to open other clinics in the area as funding, and community support, allow.

Don Turner, an emergency medical technician (EMT), runs the two clinics, splitting his time between each to examine pa-tients. And while the bulk of the exams are of the traditional type, a growing number are "seeing" the doctor virtually. Throughout the "virtual exam," Ontai is as good as in the room being able to see and hear the patient and Turner.

The exam goes much like any other exam done by the thousands each day across the country. Upon arrival, the patient is examined by Turner, who starts with the usual paperwork, then moves on to filing out a chart with the patients vitals: blood pressure, pulse, temperature, etc., and the reason for the visit.

The data is sent via computer to Ontai in his Plainview office, which the doctor receives instantly.

"With the clinic here, I can do the lipid panel and liver and glucose and hemoglobin and finger stick," Turner said, ticking off a litany of tests that patients now can access without having to commute hours to large medical facilities. Emergency cases that can't be handled at the clinics are sent to the nearest hospital by ambulance. However, the setup isn't completely free of traditional doctor/patient interaction. Ontai visits the two clinics once every two weeks. "When I first went to work here, I didn't even know how to turn the computer on, but it's been really interesting," Turner said. "I'll record heart and lung sounds, and (Ontai) can hear it in Plainview," via the telemedicine equipment. If he said, adding that "there are Ontai wants to see the patient's a number of communities in that ear canal, for example, Turner holds the instrument to the ear, and the docter "sees" the patients ear canal and can diagnose from there.

Turner said the technology has been particularly helpful for people on medications that need frequent follow-ups to regulate dosages, such as blood thinner medication and and and avide

"At the start (of taking the medication), they have to have their blood regulated every few days to monitor the thickness or thinness (of the blood). Before, they had to drive 100 miles to Amarillo to get that done," Turner said. As immense as the technological capability may sound, Cap Rock's Ricky Martinez said installation from the telco's standpoint was minimal. "We needed to provide live IP addresses to (Turkey and Quitaque). It really was no more than what we go through with our schools."

Cap Rock ran an article about the medical clinics in its customer newsletter to both inform surrounding communities about the new telemedicine technology, as well as to, hopefully, entice other areas to consider bringing telemedicine to their towns.

'We service just under 5,000 square miles," which includes 12 counties and seven school districts, Martinez said.

"More than 80 percent of our customer base is DSL capable," acreage" that could consider bringing telemedicine to their acceptance Full telemedicine has been slow in coming, although the overall response from the communities has been largely positive. Nev-ertheless, selling longtime residents on the idea has been "tough," Ontai said.

"They won't flock to you because you opened the door," he said of many of the older community members. Standard advertising won't do the trick either. "They'll come if someone they went to high school with said it's a good place to go, not because you run an ad in the paper," he said.

Turner agreed, although he added that many of his older patients get a kick out of seeing the technology in action. "We're still getting new patients; I guess some that hesitated at first may be deciding it's okay."

Turner said he sees an average of three telemed patients a day between the two clinics, although he may see as many as 30 total patients in one morning. Ontai estimates that the two clinics have served some 400 telemed patients since opening.

Of Cap Rock's contribution to the telemed clinics, Ontai said he is "blown away" by the level of technology the telco makes available to its communities. "I have twice the bandwidth of DSL in Turkey as I have at my hub (Plainview). I may be the first one to use (the technology) this way, but Cap Rock didn't put it in for me."

Turkey Mayor Pat Carson summed it up this way at the grand opening of the Turkey clinic, "There is a very good chance that if Turkey did not have DSL, we might not have a clinic. And without a clinic, citizens may not receive the medical attention they need because of cost and travel.

USDA Rural Development increases mortgage limits

Temple, Texas -- Bryan Daniel, State Director for the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Rural Development, announced today that the mortgage limits for the Rural Housing Direct Loan pro-gram increased significantly ef-fective March 24, 2003. The heightened limits will enable families to select from a wider range of available housing and will make new construction more of a viable alternative where needed.

The new mortgage limits are from $92,591 - $122,154 with an average of $103,774.

Totals for Fiscal years 2000-2002 reflect a USDA Rural Development investment of $208,471,410 in rural Texas through its Rural Housing Direct Loan program which brought home ownership to close to 2,990 households. The Rural Housing Direct Loan program provides loans that assist eligible households to purchase a home located in a rural area. Qualifying applicants may obtain 100 percent financing to purchase an existing dwelling, purchase a site and construct a dwelling, or purchase newly constructed dwellings located in rural areas. Rural Housing Direct Loans afford financing at reasonable rates and terms, mortgage payments based on the household's adjusted income, and require no down pay-

COUNTY AGENT'S

REPORT

by Lonnie Jenschke Motley County Extension Agent

by Dr. Douglas F. Welsh, Landscape Horticulturist Texas A&M Univ. College Station

In a few months we will be in the midst of another hot Texas summer. Properly watering plants during the summer tends to be one of the most confusing and misunderstood gargardeners do not recognize in-adequate watering until it is too late and plants are badly damaged or dead.

"How often should I water?" and "How much should I apply?" are a couple of the mostoften asked questions from gardeners. Since water is both essential for healthy plant growth and often costly to apply in quantity during the summer, it is important to get it to the plant's roots efficiently and keep it there. The following are several suggestions for easier and more effective watering. These techniques apply to all gardening, from shade and fruit trees and vegetable gardens to lawns and house plants. 1. Never water strictly by the calendar. We don't drink water 'every ten minutes' or 'every hour', so why should plants be watered 'every two days' or 'once a week'? Instead, learn to recognize dry plants and soil and use these as your tip-off for watering. Too many factors determine how fast soil dries for us to put watering on a regular

2. When the plants are dry, water thoroughly. Water lawns so that the soil will be wet several inches down. To encourage deep rooting and drought tolerance. One of the worst mistakes people make in their gardens is trying to 'sprinkle' them each day by using their thumb and the end of a running hose. Most gardeners just don't have the patience to stand in one spot long enough for deep water penetration.

Water trees by taking the sprinkler off the end of the hose and letting water run slowly for several hours out under the drip line (not near the trunk). Be sure that runoff does not occur.

3. Most plants should be watered in the morning. Evening watering increases the likelihood of disease invasion, as the majority of diseases develop most rapidly in cool, moist con-

4. While watering your lawn, try to keep water off the leaves of trees and shrubs as much as possible. This is especially important for such plants as crape dening chores. Often, ardent myrtle and roses, which are troubled by leaf diseases which spread rapidly on wet surfaces.

5. Symptoms for plants which have been kept too wet are about the same as for those kept too dry. Roots in water-logged soils die and do not take up water, so plants wilt and turn yellow. Try not to water a drowning plant!

6. Organic matter, such as shredded pine bark and composted manure can increase water absorption when they are worked into our native soil. To keep moisture in the soil, use a thick mulch, such as shredded pine bark, grass clippings or tree leaves. In addition to reducing evaporation, mulches also keep the soil cooler and make weed pulling much easier.

7. Be especially careful to keep newly planted trees and shrubs well watered. Their developing root systems are sensitive to under- and over-watering. But again, don't drown

8. Always soak chemical fertilizers into the soil immediately after application. These materials are excellent sources of plant foods, but they are also salts, and can pull water out of plant tissues, resulting in burn, unless they are watered into the

9. Gardeners often wonder what type of sprinkler is best. Generally speaking, most do a satisfactory job of making an even application. However the most efficient and effective type is the impact sprinkler (the kind used on golf courses and athletic fields).

For plants to thrive during the upcoming summer months, they will need plenty of water, but equally important is properly applying the much needed
