An iron heart is breaking in the old Linotype machine that has created the type in a newspaper for more than a third of a century. It has a mechanical intuition that has cast a shadow across its future as certain as if the machine had set the type for its own obituary. It has a reluctance in performance as a doomed man might have in being forced to build the scaffolding for his own execution. Time and technical advancements have made the once mighty machine obsolete in a field it dominated by efficient performance, to a point where no new models are being manufactured. An era is ending for the machine capable of reusing the metal that recorded a death, to chronicling a new birth. Metal that once shaped words of war or other disaster has been reused over and over again, in printing happier events that affect a community and area. The old machine is helpless now to defend its position against replacement; the present can be made secure only in the process of change.

LET'S Team Up

On this farming problem. We furnish the seed -- you pray for rain and let's see what happens.

GOOD QUALITY SEED and FERTILIZER AT GOOD PRICES!

You may haul it farther-- But you won't haul any better hog feed than what we can mix for your hogs at comparable prices.

As my old daddy once said, "If you have done it, you aren't bragging."

It's easy. If an agent represents many companies and handles all types of insurance, you know he is fiercely independent. He isn't tied to any one company and by representing many, he can place your business where it's best for you. Working on a commission basis he represents only your interests.

And if he lives in the community, he's local. A local, independent agent is hard to beat.
