the MAN HUNTERS BY MABEL McELLIOTT

...LARRY GANNON, pretty secretary, is secretly in love with BOB DUNBAR, young millionaire. At a party given by DENISE ACKROYD, who hopes to marry Bob, Susan realizes he is not for her. Bob fights with BEN LAMPMAN, another friend of Susan's. ERNEST HEATH, Susan's employer, happens along and escorts her back to the Ackroyds' house. His wife threatens to sue for alienation of affections but JACK WARING, Heath's assistant, is able to prevent this by producing an incriminating letter. Mrs. Heath goes to Reno instead. Susan tries to forget Bob. RAY FLANNERY, stenographer in the next office, confides she is heartbroken because "SKY" WEBER has married another. Susan's chum, ROSE MILTON, plans to give up a career for the man she likes. Ben is angry because Heath sends Susan flowers and they quarrel. Waring learns Denise has deliberately caused a misunderstanding between Susan and Bob. Heat hawks Susan to marry him when his wife's divorce decree is granted.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIII

It was the Saturday after Heath's astounding proposal and Susan found the atmosphere of the office strained and embarrassing. She tried to appear as though nothing had changed but of course everything had. At one o'clock after Waring and Fernon had gone her employer came out and spoke to her. "May I drive you home?" he asked. Susan felt a sort of terror. The time for a decision had come. She had tossed and turned at night, seeking an answer, but had found none. She had not dared to confide in Aunt Jessie's opinion. She went to get her wraps, pale as the prospect before her. This man was everything that was good. He was chivalrous and kind. He had wealth and position. But there was no use denying that she did not love him. Once during the drive she shivered. The man turned to her abruptly. "That coat you're wearing isn't warm enough," he told her. "I'd like to see you in fur. You should wear soft, warm, brown fur. That would suit you."

Susan laughed excitedly. "Let me give you these things," the man urged. "I haven't wanted to press you into a hasty decision but can't you let me know soon?" Susan trembled. It was as if she had feared. She would not be able to get off the hour much longer. She felt trapped. "Give me just another day," she begged. "Give me until Monday." He agreed. The house was very silent as she let herself in with her key. Where was Aunt Jessie? Saturday was usually her busiest day. Almost invariably she could be found with her head tied up in a towel, shaking rugs with fury and dusting with fine precision. Susan went into the kitchen calling her but there was no answer. Then she thought she heard a feeble voice from the direction of the bedroom.

ed to. She did it because it was her choice." Susan groaned. "She's never had anything. She's cooked and scrubbed and sat up late at night sewing and she's always been worried about money." For the first time in her life she realized how difficult it was to be poor, how important security was. Perhaps Aunt Jessie had been conscious for some time of that pain in her right side but had postponed seeing the doctor because she felt she couldn't afford to be ill. If she gets well, Susan promised herself wildly. "I'll make it up to her somehow."

REG'LAR FELLERS

ing. "In the morning. All right, doctor. Thank you." She turned a smiling face to Susan. "He says she came through in fine style. She'll have a bad night, of course, but you can see her tomorrow. Oh yes, he wants to talk to you then." Susan flung her arms around Rose's neck, sobbing with relief. "There, there," Rose soothed. "It's all right now. There's no sense in your feeling so badly. You'd better go to bed." The aftermath of the operation what she should do surely this was it. For almost 30 years Aunt Jessie had been taking care of her. Now it was Susan's turn. "I think I can," she told Dr. Smith. "Good girl." He rose. "That's splendid. Don't worry about her. She'll get along well." They let Susan see her aunt for just a few minutes. She was still a little hazy from the effects of the anesthetic. Susan whispered to her. "You're not to worry about anything I've had some splendid" (CONTINUED ON PAGE 5)

Presbyterians Meet In Circle Sessions Monday

Circle sessions took up the Monday afternoon program of the Women's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. T. S. Currie entertained the Dorcas circle in her home in Edwards Heights. The meeting was opened with a devotional given by Mrs. L. S. McDowell, after which a quilt was pieced and tea towels and pillow slips made for the circle box.

Members who enjoyed the pleasant afternoon were the following: Mesdames H. W. Caylor, L. S. McDowell, C. F. Rogers, Mrs. O'Neill, J. L. Thomas, Fred M. Campbell, William Cushing, R. C. Strain, and the hostess.

Mrs. R. T. Piner was hostess to members of the Kings' Daughters circle in her home in Edwards Heights. The hostess was leader and gave the devotional, "Our Great High Priest," which opened the meeting. The remainder of the afternoon was taken up with sewing for the church orphans' home box.

At the close of the session, refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. W. C. Barnett and Mrs. J. B. Lattler, visitors, and Mesdames R. W. Middleton, W. L. McKee, Kia Barnett, Dobbins, W. G. Wilson, Guy Tamsett, Tracy Smith, L. C. Dahme, Emory Duff, Frank Jones, R. V. Tucker, E. E. Fahrkamp, Graham Foshee, Elmer Bostler, S. L. Baker and the hostess, members.

Eight members of the Whatever circle met at the home of Mrs. C. W. Cunningham on Scurry street. Following a brief devotional, the members worked on a quilt which will be sent to the Presbyterian orphans' home in Itasca.

Those present were: Mesdames V. Wood, Ida Mann, B. F. Williams, J. O. Tansit, Rutherford, J. R. Chapman, Gools, and the hostess.

W.C.T.U. Announces Wednesday Session

The Big Spring Women's Christian Union will hold an important meeting in the First Baptist church at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. It has been announced that subjects of great interest and prime importance will be presented. Among them will be a letter received by the local president, Mrs. Clyde Thomas, from the state president, Mrs. Claude de Van Watta, in which is set forth the great necessity for all women to be alert and active in the political conventions from start to finish. Letters from county and state political candidates to the society's questionnaire will also be taken up.

Two-Toned Trim
PATTERN NO. 275

Simplified illustrated instructions for cutting and sewing are included with each pattern. They give complete directions for making these dresses.

The two-toned stripe is used in 275 to emphasize the diagonal line. This very new form of trim is exceptionally smart. In this particular frock the stripe molds the form of the blouse, and adds a slender appearance to the kimona sleeves.

The belt at the natural waist-line accentuates the snug fit of the hips. Two encrustations at the sides lead into a skirt flare. Altogether the effect is slenderizing and chic. Equally good-looking in velvet, crepe or wool. Designed in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Sizes 40 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch fabric.

To get a pattern of this model send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins.

Please write very plainly your NAME AND ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern ordered.

Our new fashion magazine with color supplement and Paris style news is now available at ten cents when ordered with a pattern and fifteen cents when ordered separately.

'Has West Texas Come Back?' Question To Be Considered At Sweetwater Convention

SWEETWATER — "Has West Texas Come Back?"

"Yes," vigorously answers officials of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce who have been in Sweetwater during the past week making preparations for the 14th annual convention for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"West Texas is carrying on with the same enthusiasm, courage, and determination that it did during the good business years, according

Enforcement — Not Repeal

THE VOTE ON BEER

The vote on the beer bill in the House will be useful to analysts in search of the strength of the extreme wets in Congress. Every man who voted to authorize the making of beer and to tax it in the face of the Eighteenth Amendment is as plainly a nullification as ever stood up in South Carolina or Connecticut. The wets mustered 132 votes on that proposition. It is evidence of the lengths to which the thirty element in this country are willing to go in order to get intoxicated.

As a matter of fact, there is no road to beer through Congress except by way of nullification. It is clearly improbable and politically almost impossible that thirty-six States can be induced to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment. The wets who have thought the thing through are seriously engaged in bringing to pass systematic outlawry by congressional complicity and duplicity. Between bootlegging without congressional authority and bootlegging with it in the face of the Constitution, who can say which is the more to be deplored?

The liquor trade is not greatly embarrassed by respect for law of any kind. Law-abiding saloonkeepers and brewers and distillers there were in the old days; it is foolish to deny that. In every State such men were known and are remembered to this day. But the trade as a whole, from the distillery and brewery down to the grog shop near the railroad tracks, has been a problem in law enforcement from the beginning. To such men prohibition does not indeed prohibit. Local option did not localize. License did not shut out licentiousness. Free liquor did not make for freedom.

THE BEER TALK INTRIGUES ME

STRICKLAND GILLIAN

However, the beer talk intrigues me. I once would have said "interests me" but that is old stuff. It means the same, but "intrigues" has it over "interests" like a tent. And here is something I thought about when I saw all the European bankruptcy and beer running neck and neck, and yet heard the clamor for American beer as a panacea:

Why is Germany in trouble? She has beer.
Why has England got it double? She has beer.
Why is Belgium in distress? Italy in such a mess?
Why grow pease less and less,

Deft Girl Scout Robin Hoods Make Own Bows and Arrows

At the first hint of summer the Girl Scouts got out their tools and began working on the gadgets and weapons they will need for camp sports. Bead Robin Hoods are these three who can not only shoot an arrow but also point it and guide its flight with properly placed feathers.

Where there's beer? One would think there'd be no sorrow. Where there's beer. The millennium'd come tomorrow. Were there beer. Yet the countries that have brought us. To the brink where now you spot us. Raising bogies that have got us—All have beer!

I'd espouse that panacea. Fozny beer. I'd believe that there would be a heaven here. Were there beer. But the grieving is the deepest. Where the stuff has been the cheapest; Road to solvency seems steepest. Where there's beer!

Were that brew the magic token—Potent beer. Then that word should soon be spoken. Over here. But those frantic demonstrations. Of a lack of clothes and rations. In those beer-befuddled nations—Whoops, my dear!

to the responses we are getting from our many affiliated towns all over the area." Manager D. A. Bandeen said Saturday.

"Out of the one hundred and one towns that have been affiliated with us during the past year, all are staying in except one or two small ones, and they may be in before the convention opens," he continued. "Right now we have directors nominated in ninety-seven towns, with promises from fifteen more that they will name theirs in time to get them nominated at the convention. The encouraging thing about the naming of directors is that twenty additional towns, not previously affiliated, are naming directors and coming into our organization. That is very pleasing in view of present conditions."

Other encouraging features of the advance preparations for the Sweetwater meeting are that there are already twenty bands that have signified their intention of being here. Anton, a small town of some three hundred fifty people, is bringing a forty piece band, and twenty other people. City Councils, commissioners, County Judges, County Commissioners, Legislators, and Mayors are showing keen interest in the group conferences on public expenditures and taxation.

Girls' Auxiliary Has Social Meet

The Girls' Auxiliary of the First Baptist church met in regular business and social session Monday afternoon at the church with Mrs. J. W. Aderholt in charge in the absence of Mrs. R. L. Gommillion, sponsor.

Lois Whitehead was in charge of the games and contests which made up the major part of the social session.

The meeting was closed with serving refreshments by the following members: Lola Mae Hall, Frances Aderholt, Clara Lou Nummy, and Mary Elizabeth Dodge. Members present were: Mae Dell Halley, Mary Elizabeth Dodge, Clara Lou Nummy, Frances Aderholt, Lillian Read Hurt, Lottie Lee Williams, Betty Carroll, Merle Miles, Josephine and Corine Mittel, Jean Etta Dodge, Mary Jane Rainwater, Cornelia Francis Douglass, Dorothy Jean Sain, Dorothy Lay, Rose Taylor, John Anna Terry, Betty Terrell Woods, Lola Mae Hall, Joy D. Birdie Bailey Society Meets For Bible Study

The Birdie Bailey Missionary Society of the First Methodist met Monday afternoon in the church in a Bible study session. Mrs. Hugh Duncan was in charge of the study program, while Mrs. Herbert Keaton gave the devotional. Business items included the report of the social service committee submitted by Mrs. Jack Roden. Eighty calls, four bouquets, seven trays to the sick and $1 in cash made up that report.

Members in attendance were: Mesdames Will Knox Edwards, Maddox, C. C. Carter, Reagan Bollinger, Burns, A. Schmitz, Hayes Stripling, Keaton and Roden. The new mission study text will be taken up in the next meeting, if was announced.

DO YOU INHALE?

Why are other cigarettes silent on this vital question?

Do you inhale? Seven out of ten people know they do. The other three inhale without realizing it. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Remember—more than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

Do you inhale? Of course you do! So be careful. Safeguard your delicate membranes!
