Voters Petition Hospital District Election

A NEW MOVEMENT to create a Motley County Hospital District has been started. It was estimated late yesterday that in the neighborhood of 450 property-owning taxpayers had signed a petition to the Commissioners Court requesting that a hospital district election be held. Only 100 signatures were required to petition the court to call the election.

Neighbors Meet And Plow Land Of Boyd Perkins

A similar election was defeated in August, 1965, by the small margin of 36 votes, with less than half of the county's estimated qualified voters going to the polls. The new movement was started as a result of the announcement of Dr. J. S. Stanley that he would close his 18-bed hospital here on July 1, because of his own failing health. Reports are that copies of the petition are being carried in all county communities, with a large number of signers. In some instances some of the most ardent opponents of the original election, have signed the petition requesting the court to call a second election. Petition carriers said they had met with little opposition to calling the second election. Since eight or ten copies of the petition are being circulated it was impossible late yesterday to determine the exact number already signed. Workers said they would probably continue through this week to obtain as many names as possible before submitting the petition to the court Monday.

Voters Register Under New Plan

County car letters and numbers (white on black background) start with BMK-350 to 999, then start with BML-10. Present motor vehicle licenses expire at midnight April 1.

RAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Every day is a battle which stirs the magic cauldron of ambition, as the train chugs over the rails, fanned by steady winds of necessity. Contemporary says it is getting harder every day to come to the necessities of life, and that they ain't hardly fitten to be had for the price.

Great truck starts with a bang, enough to slosh the blood in the cattle's veins. Cowed, dozing creatures looking through slats at bewildering lights, later glimpses of the stars, and a scent of grass and manure. Poor creatures subjected to the destiny created by man's speed on to doom. A more hours. A stunning and gushing blood. The hooves bearing the hoof prints empty. Young grass springs with the sod to feed more.

Of the most compulsive of appearing innocent is to be not being guilty. Back when I was a boy some statements being made political leaders would be tabled as whiskey.

It is almost impossible to develop without knowing the to which it may be extended to meet the needs of sacrifice. A comforting thing about life is the length of time which improvement may be delayed before reality begins to slip from the roof of today.

Small solace but those who despair at old age can well see that the unpleasant incidents they will not be forced upon again.

Marine Trains For Guerrilla Warfare

CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF. (Special) — Marine Private John G. Castillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Castillo of Roaring Springs, has completed individual combat training here. The four-week course included over 200 hours of instruction under simulated combat conditions, covering squad tactics, guerrilla warfare, day and night combat, patrolling, and the use of infantry weapons.

Following this course, he has been engaged in four weeks of basic specialist training in his military occupational field. Marines to be assigned to infantry units will be taught infantry sub-specialties, such as the machine gun, grenade launcher, rifle or mortar. Marines to be assigned to highly technical specialties will be sent to military technical schools for their specialist training. Leathernecks bound for the Pacific will receive more training when they report to the Staging Battalion at Camp Pendleton. This training will emphasize jungle warfare, patrolling, and evic action based on experience gained in Vietnam.

Pvt. Castillo is a graduate of Roaring Springs High School, and was reared in that community. He is a member of the American Legion, and past State Vice-Commander of the American Legion, who addressed the regular monthly joint meeting of Fleming Post and Auxiliary, following the usual covered dish supper. In 1969 at seventeen years of age, he came to America from Bavaria, Germany to escape the despotism of Germany's military state.

Legion Reminded Liberty Has Price

"I wonder if you realize how fortunate you are to have been born in America?" was the question asked of Legionnaires, their wives, members of the Auxiliary and guests, Monday night. Speaker was Henry Teubel of Tulsa, a World War I veteran and past State Vice-Commander of the American Legion, who addressed the regular monthly joint meeting of Fleming Post and Auxiliary, following the usual covered dish supper. In 1909 at seventeen years of age, he came to America from Bavaria, Germany to escape the despotism of Germany's military state.

Mr. Teubel emphasized that liberty has a price which each American must be willing to pay. "We cannot sit, complacent in our false security, and hope to save our blessings," he declared. Urging Americans to stand up for God and country, he reminded the group that after two thousand years, Christianity controls only one-fourth of the world's population, while in fifty short years, communism has obtained a death grip on one-half of the world's surface and one-third of its people. In closing, he quoted from the Bible, "Woe unto those who are at ease."

Earlier in the evening, Larry Hoyle, Matador's most recent veteran, expressed thanks for all the mail and encouragement he received while in Viet Nam. "I (Continued on back page)

LIONS SEE SCHOOL IN MODERN LIGHT

A large attendance of hungry Lions met at the school luncheon Tuesday, for the regular luncheon meeting of the Matador Lions Club. The food and service was superb. The meeting was called to order by Boss Lion Glenn Woodruff, with invocation by Rev. W. F. Gaede. Plates of hot rolls and butter preceded plates of steak and gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans and salad. The dessert was cherry cobbler. The luncheon was served by attractive high school girls.

Two guests, R. W. Overstreet and C. L. Berry were introduced. A number of committees made reports and the Lions Club voted unanimously to pay the outstanding debt (about $200) of the 1965 Little League operation in which approximately 85 boys played baseball.

Supt. Charles Johnson announced that class rooms would welcome visitors, but recommended the new controlled reading program, in which some students had been able to advance as much as two grades since starting. Groups of Lions visited the various class rooms of grade school and found the "Controlled Reader" class of Mrs. Glendell Smith outstanding. Second grade students were reading as rapidly as some college students, and understanding what they read. Some of the more advanced sixth grade students were reading in the neighborhood of 250 words per minute. It was declared. Some of the new math machines were also aiding in rapid learning, according to Lion Supt. Johnson.

Island Home of The Bob Harps Damaged in Samoan Hurricane

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harp, Church of Christ missionaries in Pago Pago, American Samoa, was badly damaged in the recent hurricane in that area. Graphic description of the destruction is written by Mrs. Harp in a bulletin-letter to friends in the states.

She also tells of family and religious activities on the island, in the interesting newsletter, which the Tribune is publishing in serial form, beginning here.

February, 1966

Dear Friends:

The rain is falling softly outside the window, as I begin this letter to you. The thought of getting my newsletter underway has been burning in my mind all week and it was just impossible to sleep tonight until a start was made. So many of you have been so wonderful to write and inquire about us and to offer your help following the hurricane, we are reminded over again how God has blessed us with friends all over the world who care.

There are many things to tell you I won't start from the beginning, but the present and tell you the condition of the island following the most devastating hurricane of the history of Samoa, that has been recorded.

As Providence would have it, Bob and I were in Tonga during the storm and our children were with American friends at the other end of the island. It was most fortunate that none of us was in the house, because the whole neighborhood was hit very hard and our house sustained damage.

The rooms were filled with jagged pieces of glass from the louvre windows that were smashed. The back porch roof was blown off and part of the large mango tree fell on the house. The tremendous winds blew rain and mud through the house and the water pipes that run above the ground were twisted and broken. Still we are very fortunate, for many of our neighbors lost all they possessed. The week before we left for Tonga and even the day we left on the little copra ship, the weather lay so hot and heavy upon the island it was almost unbearable. When the sun set in the evening I had the curious feeling that a crisis had passed. Each day was the same. I'm sure this was a build-up to the destructive storm that ripped through the islands with winds up to 130 miles per hour. The mountains, once emerald green and lush, have been stripped bare and stand brown and parched in the hot sun. The lovely coconut palms that were spared, are clothed in tattered rags of leaves that wave sadly in the breeze. The crops were completely destroyed and the natives now live on rice and flour. However, among the piles of rubble and ruin, early hammering and sawing can be heard and it continues and will continue until each man has re-built his home. The Samoans have retained their happy, easy-going outlook on life, even though future months will be difficult.

The week we arrived home from Tonga, over 30 boxes of clothing awaited us at the post office.

The churches in Irving, Texas, and Matador, Texas sent boxes, and clothing came from Gary Legg in New Mexico and Mollie Moses in California.

It was a genuine thrill to be able to help people in need and one family in particular that has 14 members and lost everything when their fale was blown away. The heavy clothing will be shipped on to Tonga where they will be put to use during the cold season there.

In his South Pacific Mission Newsletter Bob explains: "We had made an appeal for clothing for the people of Tonga, and when we arrived home from Tonga we had over thirty boxes of good used clothing waiting at the Post Office... since that time we have received more boxes of clothing, all of which we distributed here, and the rest, the heavier clothing, we have already sent to the church in Tonga."

B. F. Yeales With Extension Service

COLLEGE STATION, (Special) B. F. Yeales, a former employee of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, on March 1 returned to the Service as assistant Extension Director John E. Johnson said Yeales succeeds Dale Burnett who resigned December 31 to join the American Quarter Horse Association as director of their activities. Currently, the director said, his project is one of the best growing programs among state's 4-H Club members and is increasing in interest among adult horse breeders and owners. In his new position, Yeales will give overall leadership to the Service's educational programs in horse production and related fields, the director said.

Yeales is a native of Dickens County, a graduate of Patton Springs High School and Texas Technological College with a B. S. degree in animal husbandry. He was an honor student at Tech and is widely recognized for his knowledge and abilities as a horseman. He served as a judge in the 1965 State 4-H Horse Show. Yeales served as assistant county agent in Hale County from 1955-61 and as county agent in Dallam County from 1961-63. He has managed sizeable ranches in both Texas and New Mexico where horse production was important. Since 1964, he has served as sales supervisor for an agricultural chemical concern in Plainview. The new specialist, during his service in Hale and Dallam Counties, developed many outstanding 4-H Club programs and supervised the work of several state and national individual winners, including demonstration and judging teams. He served in the U. S. Army from 1951-53 with overseas service in Germany.

West Texas Utilities Co., Wins Motor Vehicle Safety Contest for Sixth Time

For the sixth consecutive year the employees of West Texas Utilities Company have won the coveted Bureau of Safety Motor Vehicle Accident Prevention Contest awarded annually to the electric utility company having the lowest accident frequency rate. This is unprecedented, for no other competing company has approached the record of WTU.

In 1965 WTU employees drove 338 motor vehicles a total of 5,377,392 miles for a record of 3.16 chargeable accidents per 1,000,000 miles. This was a substantial reduction from its 1964 rate of 4.63. The average rate for all contestants was 6.63, and the estimated rate for all electric utility companies is 10.51.

Lyle A. Westrom, Bureau vice president, said in a letter to R. W. Hardy, WTU president: "We offer our warmest congratulations to you and your employees for this remarkable safety achievement and wish you continued success in the future."

"We have been pleased that your employees were not satisfied with being in first place for so long, but have actually made a sizable reduction in an already excellent driving record."

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

Beware of the itinerant door-to-door plant salesman or the fly-by-night peddler who locates his truck on a vacant lot. These individuals sell on price alone and the buyer usually gets what he pays for. It is safer and in the long run more economical to purchase landscape materials from reputable, well established nurseries and garden stores in the area. The itinerant nursery salesman may give a verbal guarantee with his plants, but how acre inches per hour by dividing by 450. Take this figure multiply by the hours per set then divide by acreage covered per set. This will give you the number of inches applied per acre.

As irrigation is not 100% efficient, the above factor should be multiplied by 7 to obtain the amount of water actually applied to the land.

Prevention is still the best method of disease control in livestock. Giving attention to newborn animals is an item to remember.

One of the greatest dangers to newborn animals is infection through the umbilical cord which connects to the liver and kidneys. This can be prevented by dipping the stump navel in a solution of iodine immediately after birth. Strength of the solution should be 10%, with iodine normally advised for humans of little benefit as the percentage of iodine is too low.

I want to take this means of thanking my many good friends and relatives for their splendid remembrance of me during my stay at Stanley Hospital. Your special prayers helped so much. Thanks so much to Dr. Stanley and his wonderful staff. They just couldn't be beat. Also those who have been so kind since my return home, and special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Garcia for the nice chicken fried and salad lunch. May God richly bless each of you in my prayer.

SECOND graders greatly enjoyed slides shown by Mrs. Keith Patton last week. The slides were of Europe, New York City and Matador from the air. Students had fun trying to discover their homes from the aerial view.

Friday, March 4, at 10:00 a. m. the THIRD grade had an assembly program in the high school auditorium. The play, "Prescription for Safety," along with several songs was presented by all the members of the class.

Mrs. Earl Byerley, third grade teacher, directed the play and was assisted by Mrs. Ronald Davenport.

FOURTH graders have decorated their room with pictures of children from other lands which they are currently studying.

Senior Spotlight

by Janie Killingsworth

Carolyn Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Perkins, was born in Matador on March 11, 1948, and will celebrate her eighteenth birthday tomorrow. Carolyn's individuality makes her a favorite with all Matador High School students.

During her four years in high school she has taken an active part in all organizations and activities. She has been a member of the Future Homemakers of America for four years, two of which she served as an officer. In 1964 she was selected to attend the State FHA meeting in Austin.

This very adaptable girl can step from her duties on the paper and annual staffs to the stage as she did for the junior play last year and make the transition with ease.

Reading, swimming and sewing are Carolyn's favorite pastimes and English is her favorite subject.

Carolyn's plans for the future are to attend Texas Tech and major in secondary education.

Literary Land

by Karen Elliott

The two acts and requiem of Death of the Salesman by Arthur Miller constitute one of the finest and most unforgettable dramas of modern time.

The play differs from the traditional tragedy in that it is modern and personal, not classic and heroic, and its central figure is a little man sentenced to discover his smallness rather than a big man undone by his greatness.

The play has the power to draw one on stage and make him one of the cast because he sees something of himself in one or all of the characters.

Willy Lowman is sixty-three and the father of two sons in their early thirties. He loves his sons and when they were growing up was rewarded by their love. His misfortune is that he, like Shakespeare's King Lear, has grown old before he has grown wise. He does not know himself because he has never dared take stock of himself and though a salesman, he cannot sell himself.

His ambition in life is to be not liked but loved and he has always dreamed of the easy back-slapping, locker room popularity. He tells his sons, Biff and Happy, that the world is theirs for the asking. In addition to ruining his sons, his standards turn both boys against him. They see through him and despise him; his wife sees through him and defends him. What is worse, however is that when fired by his company, he sees through himself.

Willy Lowman is one of the most complex and haunting characters any playwright, poet, or author ever created. Death of the Salesman, his life's story, has received prodigious praise, including the Critics Circle award, Front Page award and most important, the Pulitzer Prize.

Track and Field Practice Started

by John Barnhill

Once again agile youths daily brave the sand and wind of a Texas spring to train in contests of speed and strength that were ancient when Rome ruled the world. The contests are, of course, the various track and field events backbone of any school's athletic program.

To provide a foundation on which to build his team, Coach Myers has three returning district winners: Ronnie Cox, shotput; Charles Meador, pole vault; and Luis Moore, 440 yard dash. In addition, Matador High School is expected to have strength in the 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash and the 440 and 880 yard relays.

Boys in Practice Meet

In a practice meet Tuesday, March 1, with Turkey and Silverton, Matador revealed a hint of its potential as Dick Moss won the mile, Pete Richardson the 100 yard dash and Luis Moore the 440.

Wellington High Names Who's Who

Barry Johnson, 15, and David Groves, 16, were among twelve students named to Who's Who in Wellington High School recently.

The boys were chosen by the faculty for exhibiting outstanding leadership, citizenship, scholastic ability and community spirit.

Barry, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ober Johnson, former Matador residents, moved to Wellington from Quitaque late in August 1965. He was, however, one of the three freshmen chosen from the seventy in his class to be honored with the recognition. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Berryman, Matador, and his mother is the former Wandell Berryman.

David, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Groves, is a sophomore at Wellington High School, and was one of three chosen from his class. David is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Barton Sr. His father and mother, the former Pauline Barton, were both reared in Matador.

You can have a radio in any car, but Ford offers a Stereo-Sonic Tape Player option that turns your car into a concert hall with music of your choice. Most station wagons have a one-way tailgate, but Ford's Magic Doorgate swings out like a door for people and down like a tailgate for cargo. Letters to the Editor

Following letters were received by the Tribune, following a visit to the print shop on Feb. 3, by the Matador Cub Scout troop, accompanied by Den Mothers, Mrs. Bill Palmeyer and Mrs. Kirby Campbell. This is only a partial list of the letters. Others will be published at a later date.

Dear Mr. Meador,
Thank you for taking us through the Tribune. I liked the refreshments too. Thank you for giving us our name.
Your friend,
Frank Welling

Grandma paid $2070* for a coast-to-coast call.

Now it costs you only $1.00* after 8 p.m. and all day Sunday

In 1915 a coast-to-coast phone call cost $20.70*. By 1954 the rate had been reduced to $9.00. Today the same call costs you only $1.00* if you place your call station-to-station after 8 p.m. or anytime on Sunday. And, it costs even less for shorter distances.

What's more, if your area has been converted to Direct Distance Dialing, you can use this fast, easy service to dial directly, at no extra cost.

Today, there's more reason than ever to use Long Distance for all its worth.

*Plus 7 minutes, station to station, including tax.

Representative Healy and Mr. Lovell, one of the inmates introduced the program "Over 40" of those within our walls are between the ages of seventeen and twenty-four, and even more alarming, one out of five in that age group is under twenty-one," he said.
Following the introduction, each of the four men, whose prison sentences total 324 years, gave a moving account of his steps on a road that led to prison. Crimes ranged from robbery to murder.
In conclusion another of the four pointed out to the audience that in each instance their present position was the result of a series of crimes, (not just a single incident) each progressively worse than the last.
He reminded the youth, "Right now is the most important time in your life, because the friends and attitudes you assume now will determine whether you become tomorrow's doctor, lawyer or teacher or tomorrow's skid row bum, dope pusher or killer."
The four men remain anonymous to save their families any further disgrace as a result of their conduct.
The audience included the six through twelfth grades of both the Matador and Roaring Springs schools as well as local residents.
