MC Athletic Dept. To Host Powerlifting Meet Saturday

For the second weekend in a row, Motley County Athletic Department will host another sporting event. This time it will be a powerlifting meet. Approximately 100 lifters representing ten schools will compete in the Motley County Powerlifting Championship. The meet will be held in the old gym. Teams participating will include Motley County, Levelland, Paducah, Patton Springs, Childress, Kress, Lorenzo, Lubbock, Monterey, and Post.

Weigh-in begins at 7:30-9:00 and the lifting will begin shortly after.

A special thanks to Quail Pipe for sponsoring the meet for the second year. Come out and support our kids and see some outstanding lifters.

Lions Club News.....

Twenty-two Matador Lions and three guests met January 18 for a delicious meal and interesting program.

Heather Turner, Lions Queen and 4-H member for nine years told of her 4-H achievements and experiences.

Heather is a Gold Star winner, which is the highest award for individual accomplishment. She has learned not to be shy and enjoyed the many trips, camps, and retreats offered by 4-H. She also has enjoyed meeting people and making many friends.

Acting Boss Lion, Michael Clawson, made announcements as follows:

* Pancake Supper, February 4, 5:30 p.m., Motley County Cafeteria.
* District 2T-2 Meeting in Seminole, January 29-30.
Meeting adjourned.

Easements May Help FmHA Farm Borrowers Restructure Debts

Temple - "Farmers with loans from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) may be able to put flood-damaged land under conservation easements in exchange for a reduction in their debt," George Ellis, FmHA Director said today.

Use of the easements is not limited to flood areas, but it may be particularly helpful in such areas.

"Eligible lands may include wetlands, marginal farmland, highly erodible land, woodland, wildlife areas, and several others," Ellis said. "In certain areas, there may be instances where farmland was damaged so severely by the recent flooding that restoring it may cost more than its agricultural value."

"In those cases, a conservation easement may be a solution. Under this program, a voluntary easement can be placed on a portion of the land in return for a reduction in the amount owed to FmHA." Ellis said the easements are for 50 years or more and can help rebuild soil conditions as well as encourage development of wildlife habitat.

"Not only can FmHA farm borrowers take marginal acreage out of production in this way, they also can materially reduce their farm operating costs," Ellis said.

Farmers who think they may be eligible should contact their local FmHA County Office for further information.

Farmers Home Administration, as an Equal Opportunity Lender, makes loans or grants to individuals or groups and guarantees to approved lenders without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, familial status, and handicap. ## TxDOT Kicks Off Massive Recycling Program

The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) has been involved in conservation efforts since its inception, but effective January 27, 1994 the most ambitious recycling program will begin.

The project has several goals for the Recycling and Recycled Products Program. Two goals will have the greatest visible and effective benefits in less than twelve months.

The Department plans to:

1. Reduce by 40%, the amount of solid waste TxDOT generates by January 1, 1995.

2. Spend at least 10% of our consumable supply, material and equipment budgets on products that are recycled, remanufactured, or environmentally sensitive by January 1, 1995.

These goals will be measured against a baseline assessment made in December 1993.

Texas Department of Transportation has more than 13,000 employees across the state. Each and every employee will have an opportunity to participate. The Childress District comprises thirteen counties and has 218 employees, all of which will be encouraged to make greater contributions to the recycling and reuse effort outlined by the Department.

Efforts to recycle and use recycled materials in roadway construction are staggering. Over 214,000 tons of sly-ash, a by-product of electrical power plants, was used in Texas highways in a recent twelve month period. All used motor oil, freon, antifreeze, hydraulic fluids and worn tires are collected for recycling. Salvageable materials, such as steel girders and beams from the old bridge crossing the Red River between Childress and Wellington, are also recycled. In some sense, TxDOT may be considered the largest recycler in the State of Texas.

Locally, efforts are underway in the Childress District to salvage waste paper and other materials. Part of the recycling plan is to re-use materials when possible. For example, first drafts of correspondence will be printed on scratch paper when feasible. Old file folders will be used with new labels. The backside of old stationery will be used in FAX transmissions when applicable.

According to the Sierra Club and Earthworks Calendar, unless recycling is used, various materials can take many years or decades to decompose.

- For example:
- * Orange and banana peels - up to 2 years.
  - * Cigarette butts - 1 to 5 years.
  - * Wool socks - 1 to 5 years.
  - * Plastic bags - 10 to 20 years.
  - * Leather - up to 50 years.
  - * Tin cans - 50 years
  - * Plastic 6-pack rings - 100 years
  - * Aluminum cans and tabs - 500 years.
  - * Glass bottles - 1,000 years.

* Plastic bottles and plastic foam - indefinitely.

In the thirteen counties that comprise the Childress District, recycled materials are already being used to fill cracks along area highways. A substance called "crumb-rubber" is added to the rubber asphalt crack sealant used in sealing cracks in the roadway. Crumb-rubber is a recycled material made from old tires. Such usage provides one solution to the many millions of old tires that are disposed in land-fills each year. A single used-tire may take many hundreds of years to decompose, but through recycling, the material again has useful benefits for mankind.

First Baptist Church To Host World Mission Conference

The world is coming to First Baptist Church, Matador, with a World Missions Conference, February 6-9. Missionary Franklin Kilpatrick from Zambia will be the Sunday morning speaker, February 6 at 11 a.m. He will also be the guest of honor at a noon luncheon.

Missionary Elizabeth McCormick from Nebraska will bring the Sunday evening message at 7 p.m. Missionary Mark Sacco from Lebanon will bring the February 7 service at 7 p.m. Missionary Ray Spockoran from Minnesota will be the featured speaker Tuesday February 8 at 7 p.m. Missionary Fred Hinstead III from Brazil will present his work Wednesday February 8 at 7 p.m.

Everyone is invited to hear all speakers and to the fellowship lunch.

State Comptroller Sends January Sales Tax Rebates 2.8 Percent Increase Over Last Year

(AUSTIN)—"Consumer confidence proved itself when Texans set out on some early Christmas shopping in November," Comptroller John Sharp said today, as he delivered more than $123 million in January sales tax rebates to 985 Texas cities and 111 counties.

"This represents an impressive, near 25 percent increase over the monthly sales tax payments delivered a year ago," Sharp said.

Texas cities received $110.6 million, up 25.3 percent above the $88.2 million of last January. Counties received a total of $12.6 million for their January rebates, a 20.5 percent increase over January 1993 payments of $10.4 million. These payments include taxes collected on November sales and reported to the Comptroller in December.

"For the fourth consecutive month, year-over-year employment increased statewide," Sharp said, "for an average of 2.1 percent above last year's figures."

The city of Houston received a monthly payment of $15 million, the largest city sales tax rebate for this month, a 15.1 percent over last year's $13 million.

"Employment in the Houston metro area grew less than 1 percent," Sharp said, "partially due to a 3.5 percent decline in construction jobs."

The $9.9 million payment to the city of Dallas was the second largest payment for January, up 29.4 percent above the $7.7 million sent to the city for the same period last year.

Special purpose districts around the state were sent monthly payments totaling $1.2 million, up 37.7 percent over the $872,565 sent for the same period last year.

Totals for Motley County are as follows:

Matador: current rate, 1.00%; net payment this period, 1,046.21; comparable payment prior year, 1,163.69; % change, -10.09%; 1994 payments to date, 1,046.21; 1993 payments to date, 1,163.69; % change, -10.09%.

Roaring Springs: current rate, 1.00%;

net payment this period, 1,118.80; comparable payment prior year, 776.57; % change, 44.06%; 1994 payments to date, 1,118.80; 1993 payments to date, 776.57; % change, 44.06%.

County total: net payment this period, 2,165.01; comparable payment prior year, 1,940.26; % change, 11.58%; 1994 payments to date, 2,165.01; 1993 payments to date, 1,940.26; % change, 11.58%

Garry Mauro Seeks Re-Election As Texas Land Commissioner

Garry Mauro has filed for re-election as Texas land commissioner, subject to the Democratic primary. If re-elected, he said he will continue to work to create new jobs through developing environmentally "clean" industries in both the rural and urban areas of the state.

He said his efforts to convince fleet operators to convert their vehicles to run on natural gas or other alternative fuel, such as propane, which Texas produces in abundance, and to make recycling a consistently profitable business in Texas, would be among his top priorities in new four-year term.

"We produce a lot of natural gas on state lands that are reserved for the Permanent School Fund (PSF), and I want to do everything I can to promote the increased production and sale of this environmentally-sound resource," Mauro said. "By creating new markets for natural gas we not only create additional jobs in the countryside and more money for public education, we reduce air pollution in our larger cities. Texans have only begun to realize the benefits of fueling vehicles such as buses on Texas products such as natural gas and propane, and I am asking the voters for another term so I can continue to work on it."

Mauro heads a national task force commissioned by President Clinton to recommend ways to convert the federal fleet to alternative fuels such as compressed natural gas and propane in order to reduce air pollution, cut the nation's dependence on foreign oil, create domestic jobs and develop the infrastructure to encourage the conversion of private fleets.

Mauro said recycling is "taking off" as a new industry for Texas, and a good deal of the enthusiasm is attributable to General Land Office efforts to involve individuals, schools and organizations in collecting recyclable materials, and convincing governmental entities and businesses to buy products made from them. Mauro became interested in recycling because as land commissioner he receives inquiries about the acquisition of state property for landfill sites. He led a campaign to have state agencies separate their recyclable materials for collection and successfully pushed legislation to require proper disposal or recycling of used motor oil, old tires and batteries.

The 45-year-old Texas A&M graduate also said he would continue to foster the important Texas tourist industry through the Adopt-A-Beach program which mobilizes the efforts of thousands of volunteers to keep Texas' beaches clean. Mauro initiated the program in 1986, and it has resulted in the removal of more than 2,000 tons of garbage from the public beaches. The program has furnished the underpinning for Mauro's successful drive to convince the U.S. Senate to ratify the international MARPOL (Marine Pollution) Treaty which outlaws the dumping of plastics in the oceans of the world, and approval by the International Maritime Organization to confer "special area" designation of the Gulf of Mexico and Wider Caribbean, which curbs ship-dumping of garbage in those waterways. Mauro pledged to continue working with the U.S. Coast Guard to enforce the anti-dumping regulations and convince shipping interests to comply.

During another term he wants to complete the coastal management program which seeks to stem coastal erosion, guarantee public access to the beaches and protect dunes and wetlands, and make certain that the land office's oil spill division has maximum capability to prevent and respond to spills in state waters.

At Mauro's urging, the Legislature gave the land office responsibility for the oil spill and coastal management programs in 1991. The land office manages 20.5 million acres of state lands and mineral rights, including the "submerged" Gulf of Mexico lands ranging from the mean high tide line out to 10.3 miles.

Mauro contends he has fulfilled the two most important obligations of the office. Since he first assumed the job in 1983, the land office has deposited more than $2 billion in the PSF primarily from oil and gas leases on state lands, and has made more than $1 billion in low-interest land and housing loans to Texas veterans. As land commissioner, he is chairman of the School Land Board, which oversees leasing, trades, purchases and sales of state acreage to help finance public education, and the Veterans Land Board.

"I have worked hard and land office employees have worked hard to give the taxpayers their money's worth," he said.

Barbara's Bylines

We have an interesting article on recycling in the paper this week. With the problems of the landfill running out of room we should have started years ago doing things to help. It is still not too late to help in every way possible.

It is sad we wait until changes cost us money, but seems we have to have a rude awakening before we decide we need to make changes to help our town/county and the environment.

Let's all take a look around us and see just one new habit to get in to help. Save aluminum cans, etc. for some worthwhile project.

BEWARE OF A NEW STRAIN OF E. COLI

The Escherichia coli (E. coli) pathogen continues to make headlines and many continue to do so.

Most strains of E. coli are harmless but some will cause distinct symptoms of diarrhea disease. Such E. Coli are commonly found in intestines of human and warm blooded animals but do not cause the same response as a new strain of the E. coli pathogen, E. coli 0157:H7.

This new strain of E. coli that surfaced in 1982 is now recognized as an important cause of foodborne illness with outbreaks having been reported in the United States, Canada, and the United Kingdom.

Symptoms of the new strain of E. coli can range from self-limiting watery diarrhea to life-threatening symptoms such as severe bloody diarrhea, kidney failure, and blood clots in the brain. It causes severe bleeding in the intestine. Major symptoms include sudden onset of severe abdominal cramps, followed within 24 hours by watery diarrhea that later becomes very bloody and vomiting with little or no fever.

The incubation or the time from exposure until symptoms develop is from three to nine days. The illness usually lasts from two to nine days with the midpoint being four days. It occurs more often in the elderly.

The illness may affect the central nervous system and may cause blood clots in the brain and death.

To prevent contracting this foodborne illness, follow these three simple rules:

— Cook all ground beef until it is well done and the juices run clear. Grinding meat exposes it to the air and mixes many sources of the meat together. Thorough cooking kills most bacteria that could be present. Less heat gets to the center of the ground beef and bacteria present may not be destroyed unless the cooking is thorough.

— Practice good personal hygiene. Wash your hands after using the rest room, before touching food and before eating. E. coli on hands can be spread by touching another person and also by touching foods which will not be cooked sufficiently.

— Avoid cross contamination of foods. Do not allow any uncooked meats to touch any salad ingredients or other foods that will have no additional cooking.

Other precautions can also help prevent foodborne illness. The Food Safety and Inspection Service recommends these tips:

— Never drink raw milk. Use pasteurized milk.

— After shopping, quickly freeze or refrigerate perishable foods.

— Use refrigerated ground meat and patties in 1-2 days; frozen meat and patties in 3-4 months.

— Wash hands, utensils, and work areas with hot soapy water after contact with raw meat and meat patties.

— Follow rules of personal hygiene, especially after bathroom use or after diapering of infants.

— Cook meat and patties until the center is gray or brown. Juices should run clear with no trace of pink. All meat, poultry and fish should be well cooked.

— If eating out, send back any meat, poultry or fish product that does not appear thoroughly cooked.

— Serve cooked foods with clean plates and utensils.

— Microwave carefully. If your oven is a lower wattage than what is shown in the instructions, you'll need to cook food longer or at a high setting. Cover and rotate food for even cooking. Let food stand outside the oven after cooking if so directed. The food will finish cooking as it stands.

Brother And Sister Celebrate Birthdays With Surprise Party

France Barton, Allie Hart, Dude Barton, and Mollie Burleson enjoyed a Barton get-together hosted by Dixie Campbell, Brigid Brooks and Coke Barton.

It was a clandestine affair, a covert operation in a family not known to keep secrets. But this secret a multitude of family and friends kept until Saturday, January 15, when they completely surprised Dude Barton and France Barton at the Senior Citizens Center in Matador. The occasion was the sister's 70th and the brother's 74th birthday.

"The best birthday I ever had," was the way Dude, the little sister from a clan of nine children, described the day. France, the tall, silent type, expressed his delight with a big, broad smile. Joining the pair in the limelight of the head table were sisters, Allie Hart and Mollie Burleson.

The plotting hostesses and host were Dixie Campbell, who gathered the clan, Brigid Brooks of Albuquerque, who provided the cake decorated appropriately with a quarterhorse, and Coke Barton of St. Lawrence, who barbequed what seemed like a side of beef.

A table groaning under the handiwork of a family of great cooks reminded cousins of the long table at the Barton home of their youth. In shifts the large extended family took turns sitting on the benches and enjoying fried chicken, blackeyed peas, creamed potatoes, and vinegar pie.

The bounty of the labor of a farm family was there to be shared. Freshly-killed fryers, thick cream and slabs of butter from the cement milk house, watermelons carefully selected by Grandad from plugs (yellow-meated were a special treat), beef from high off the windmill, and eggs just gathered from the henhouse were ready to nourish any and all who journeyed to the farmstead perched on the banks of the North Pease.

The busy children of Wilburn and Ella Orr Barton who grew up tilling the sandy loam, each with their own span of mules, riding the ravines for strays, or preparing food for the hungry hoards were Opal (Mrs. Wade Martin), Eliza (Mrs. Crabill Jones), Clayton, Millard, Allie (Mrs. Clay Hart), Mollie (Mrs. W.E. Burleson), France, and Mary Ellen, nicknamed "Dude". A baby brother died in his infancy.

A family story often re-told whenever the family gets together begins. "Once upon a sandstorm, France and his older brothers and sisters had been directed to harness up their individual mule teams to go-devils. Their mission was to help their father Wilburn fight sand blowing in the fields. The stinging sand was destroying and burying the tender crop shoots. Not yet old enough to help, but wanting to imitate the others, the inventive little girl

Dude saddled up Old Jim and tied on a piece of tin behind him. As she joined her family in the fields, the clanging, bouncing sheet metal frightened and spooked the mules. The resulting runaway crippled consumer of oil and gas as well as by-products of the oil and gas industry.

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) prohibits discrimination in its programs on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, political beliefs, and marital or familial status. (Not all prohibited bases apply to all programs). Persons with disabilities who require alternative means for communication of program informa-and killed some of the seven or eight four-mule teams. The panic that innocent melec produced was never forgotten by members of the family."

It was a given that as the brothers and sisters grew up, they worked together performing the unrelenting farm and ranch chores. Friends that they were, Dude and France also "played" together, traveling to local rodeos to compete in contests of riding and roping until France was drafted for service in World War II. Dude rodeoed until about 1947, earning the recognition that would propel her into the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame in 1984. After France returned to his farm, she and he would continue their working tradition, helping each other out as needed throughout the years, developing a very special brother-sister relationship.

On this day many friends and relatives gathered to extend their good wishes and enjoy the fellowship of the far-flung Bartons. They included Wilson Barton, Kathryn King, Harry and Loretta Scrivner Race from Arkansas, Alfred and Louise Barton, Kenny and Olivia Barton, Roy Gene and Joanie Stevens, Dan Barton, Bud Barton, and Viola Stinson, Frank Montgomery, Mike Hoyle, James and Dorothy Meador, Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Parks, C.D. and Evelyn Garrison, Debra Scott, E.A. and Dorothy Day, Sylvia Fogerson, Stanley Fogerson, Bobby and Alene Echols, Wilburn and Trula Martin, David and Karen Martin and children, Marilee Pilcher, Herb and Geneva Martin, Kathy Shorter, and Tommy Merritt, M.C. ### ASCS News

by Billy Wayne Denison
County Executive Director

You, the American consumer, are the greatest beneficiary of all the USDA programs. We cannot allow this great country to become dependant on imports of food and fiber from other countries. A recent survey shows that the average American family only spends 10% of their income on food. Families that live in the old USSR spend 28% of their income on food, Mexico 32%, China 48%, and India 53%. If we allow ourselves to become solely dependant on imports of food and fiber we could be in the same situation as China or India in a very short period of time. Put this on top of 35% of your income going to taxes, we in the U.S. would not have much left to live on.

Not many people realize the following facts about farming and ranching, especially those that live in the large cities across the country. I would think that you would want to pay special attention to these facts and the impact that agriculture has on the entire U.S. economy. You may not realize it right now but your job might be 100% influenced by agriculture.

Income from agriculture represents 16% of our nations Gross National Product, probably the largest impact of any 1 single industry. Agriculture provides 1 out of every 6 jobs in the U.S. and generates an estimated 21 million jobs, about 17% of the entire U.S. work force. Approximately 90% of the 21 million jobs are off the farm. For an example, there are an estimated 341,480 national jobs that are created through the cotton industry alone which generate revenues of more than $28.3 billion annually. In Texas alone, the cotton industry creates approximately 66,000 jobs with an annual revenue of $4.4 billion. Most of these jobs are off the farm.

We seem to forget that food and fiber comes from the farm and ranch - not the store around the corner. Less than 2% of the U.S. population lives on our farms today but they produce 15% of the world's feed grains, 25% of the world's beef, 11% of the world's food grains, 15% of the world's pork, and 16% of the world's cotton. One American farmer/rancher provides for 128 people, 94 in the U.S. and 34 abroad. There is 54% of the American farmers/ranchers that work second jobs off the farm.

The American farmer/rancher is the world's largest exporter of agricultural products. In 1990 the U.S. exported $40.2 billion dollars worth of farm products, cutting our deficit in non-farm trade by about 17%. Every dollar in agricultural exports generates another $1.59 in economic activities such as transportation, financing, production, and etc.

More than 2 million land owners and operators have signed up with local conservation districts to apply conservation measures on their farms and ranches. In addition, there are approximately 34 million acres of farmland that are in the Conservation Reserve Program which was designed to protect highly erodible land. Farmers and ranchers know better than anyone of the importance of conservation of the land. Most of our farmland is land that has been passed down from one generation to another and good conservation measures only insure that they will be able to continue to pass the land on to the next generation.

One bale of cotton will produce any of the following products:

- Men's handkerchiefs: 8,700
- Women's handkerchiefs: 27,100
- Men's Dress Shirts (Long & Short Sleeve): 770
- Men's Work Shirts: 420
- Men's Woven Undershorts: 1,640
- Men's Knit Briefs: 2,340
- Men's Sleeveless Undershirts: 1,930
- Men's Dress & Sport Trousers: 270
- Men's Work Trousers: 260
- Sheets, Flat, Full Size: 210
- House Dresses: 610
- Street Dresses (Knit & Woven): 520
- Brassieres: 5,310
- Men's Flannel Work Gloves: 2,150 pr.
- Women's Knit Panties: 3,370
- Men's Slack Socks: 3,930 pr.
- 20" x 40" Terry Bath Towels: 1,230
- Pillow Cases: 1,210

* Figures based upon average size requirements.

As an example of the income that is generated from 1 bale of cotton lint - not to mention the seed and etc.

1 - 500# bale of cotton sold at .55¢ per pound will GROSS the farmer $275.

The end product of Men's Dress Shirts - that 1 - 500# bale will make 540 shirts. 540 shirts sold at $25.00 each will GROSS $13,500.00.

Agriculture works hand-in-hand with many businesses that we enter on a daily basis, the grocery store, the clothing store, and one is of great importance to us in the Permian Basin - the oil and gas industry. Agriculture is one of the, if not the largest

Lindsey's Lines

by Lindsey Williams

Every year at about this time everyone signs up and starts practicing for ULL. There are a number of different activities that one can be involved in after one signs up, he or she will set certain times to practice. To decide which students will go in each event, we have eliminations. Usually, there are three students and an alternate that will go to the contest.

Many students will go to the practice meet in Clarendon on January 29. This will give us an idea of what we'll need to do to better prepare for the actual contest. There will also be a practice meet here. It will be on the 12th of February.

To be ranked the best as a school, we must get people involved in every group. I hope that everyone gets involved and that we do our best. We could show off our talents by winning first place as a school.

MC Students Participate in South Plains Tech Prep

Motley County Students, Scott Sailsbury, Dustin Davis, and Chance Martin study in the Tech Prep program.

Looking for a job in today's market can be sobering. Even young people armed with college degrees are finding it harder to land careers in their fields. But there are jobs available — just look at the high demand areas of health care and business/computer occupations. These jobs require technical skills that students still in high school can acquire through a program called Tech Prep. This is why students at Motley County High School are now being offered Tech Prep as an option.

Starting in the fall of 1993, students began to take computer and accounting classes for college credit as a part of a Tech Prep Microcomputing Program developed through an agreement with South Plains College. Students benefit from the Tech Prep program because they develop strong academic competencies while obtaining a quality technical education. Even more important, they develop the competence and confidence to succeed in a fast-changing high-tech society. The program prepares students for high-skill technical occupations and allows direct entry into the work place after high school graduation or continuation of study leading to an associate degree at South Plains College.

Tech Prep allows students to take college-level courses at Motley County High School from their high school teacher at no cost to the student. The teacher uses a set of community college competencies for the course and once the teacher sees that the student has mastered the competencies, then the student is awarded Tech Prep credit that shows up on the school transcript. At the same time students are receiving college credit for the course. Students are also given a Competency Certificate for each Tech Prep class in which they master the competencies. The certificate will show employees exactly what type of skills the student is capable of doing.

Tech Prep is a national initiative that is funded through the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Applied Technology Education Act of 1990. The funds provide a Tech prep staff to facilitate program development between the secondary and post-secondary schools. The grant funds also provide equipment and additional resources to the schools involved, along with professional development for teachers and counselors. The program is operated regionally by a consortium made up of business, secondary and post-secondary educators, counselors and administrators.

Programs are developed in various occupational areas using data from the South Plains Quality Work Force Unlimited for demand occupations for the South Plains region. The occupational clusters developed through Tech Prep must be on their top twenty targeted job list.

A 1991 report from the U.S. Department of Labor says that "more than half our young people leave school without the knowledge or foundation required to find and hold a job". Teaching our students skills is important to our survival as a nation as we move toward being more competitive in the world market place. Our world has become very technical in nature, hence the reason for providing students with technical skills.

Most jobs that offer growth and challenge, along with greater earning potential require advanced technical skills and an ability to understand complex theories and processes. People are also required to have a working knowledge of mathematics, science, technical principles and information/communication skills. The way of teaching these skills is through what Tech Prep calls integration. Integration is placing real world examples into each of these teaching areas.

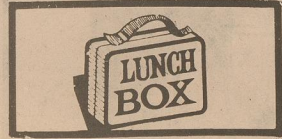

Through professional development, teachers are able to make contact with the business people to determine what business wants and experts from employees School counselors are also a key component to the success of the program. Tech Prep provides job market information to counselors, along with professional development opportunities.

The South Plains Tech Prep Consortia covers a fifteen-county region of over 13,000 square miles.

"Sing unto the Lord, praise ye the Lord; for he hath delivered the soul of the poor from the hand of evil doers."

FORMER RESIDENT HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Former Motley County resident, Mary Helen (Stephens) Cross, was honored on her 60th birthday with a party on Sunday, January 8 in her home in Plainview. Hosting the party were her husband, Doc, her daughters, Delores and Tanya, and son Steve, and their families.

Two of her friends took her out for lunch and kept her about 2 hours so the party could be made a surprise to her. One aunt, Katherine Stephens of Tulia, a former resident of Whiteflat, and a lot of cousins and friends attended.

The family took each of the cars and parked them in someone else's yard so Mary Helen wouldn't know there was anyone there. She knew no one was there except Doc. She and the friends got home and walked into the living room where everyone sang Happy Birthday. There were approximately 70 people attending.

Doc and Mary Helen's grandchildren served cake, punch and coffee to family and friends. Pictures were taken of Mary Helen and cousins on the Murphy side, Laverne Murphy Price, Mary Murphy Jones, Judy Murphy Cartwright, Audrey Lee Murphy, Martha Murphy and Nubin Murphy, and on the Stephens side of the family, Nora Belle Stephens Dun-

KEITHS RETURN FROM EARTHQUAKE COUNTRY

Joan and Charles Keith returned Sunday from quake-devastated Northridge, California, where they helped Joan's daughter recover many of her possessions from her apartment that was at the epicenter and condemned from the extensive earthquake damage. They also helped Judi, who had been made homeless by the quake, find another home, which was no easy feat since most of the multi-unit buildings had significant damage. They are grateful for everyone's prayers and are happy to be settled in Matador!

Visiting Mrs. Douglas Meador during the Jan. 15-17 weekend were her sister, Mrs. Jack Crider and daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Kirkland and young son, Koby, all of Odessa. Other recent visitors were Mrs. Freida Maxey and Mrs. Bennie Taylor of Paducah.

PRESENT SEMINAR ON JAPAN

Mrs. Hinton, the teacher in charge of Extracurricular Activities at Sam Houston Elementary School, of Odessa, asked Mrs. Noilene Bowden to give a Seminar on Japan, as she had lived there for three years. Mrs. Bowden in turn asked her mother, Mrs. Eugenia Bethard, to help with the Seminar, and to bring her Japanese items. The Seminar was for three days. The slides of their travel and home in Japan were shown by Mrs. Bethard. The Museum, artifacts brought back by the family, was held in another room. There were four hundred children that saw the items and slides. The Sam Houston School is a specialized school for the handicapped and learning impaired. This was a learning experience for them, and their enthusiasm was exhibited when they went home from school and told their parents about the Japanese program that the school had for them. This enthusiasm was well worth the time and effort that it took to prepare for.

Mrs. Dorothy Lee visited her daughter, Mrs. Linda Schwarz and family at Lubbock the past weekend. She had the pleasure of seeing her grandson, 11 year old Christopher Schwarz and his team win an indoor soccer game.

Mrs. Evelyn Davis and family of Portales, New Mexico, joined her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Lee at the Schwarz home in Lubbock Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Long visited from Friday until Monday in Eagle Nest, New Mexico with their son and family, Jerry, Cindy and Ashley Long. Mr. and Mrs. Tyke Williams of Wichita, Kansas, here the past week with her aunt, Miss Bess Ferguson, took the latter to Plainview for a medical check up on Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Williams returned home on Tuesday.

Leslie and Todd Mullins of Lubbock visited with their grandmother, Mrs. Odessa Mullins Saturday morning.

MRS. J.T. SWIM HOSTS GUILD

Nine other Guild members braved the extremely cold weather Wednesday evening of last week to meet with Imogene Swim in her Third St. home.

Mrs. Chelsea Read opened the meeting with a prayer. Mrs. Lee Peacock brought the devotional, "A Sermon for Me". The Bible lesson using Phillipians chapter 4 on the theme, "More than Conquerors" was presented by the study leader, Mrs. Chelsea Read. Rev. Mary Helen Cross closed the meeting with a prayer.

Others present besides those mentioned were Mesdames JoEita Bumgardner, Billie Clifton, Mary Lumsden, and Grace Zebelski, and Misses Freda Keahey and Lula Swim.

Mrs. Dorothy Lee conveyed Mrs. Ora Stonecipher to Floydada to keep a medical appointment Wednesday of last week. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Swinney made a business trip to Lubbock last Thursday.

Mrs. Cleo Watson was a Lubbock visitor Friday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MASONIC LODGE STATED MEETING
The Masonic Lodge #824 stated meeting every second Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m.

WORLD MISSIONS CONFERENCE
The world is coming to our church... Attend the World Missions Conference, February 6-9, 1994, First Baptist Church, Roaring Springs. Sunday morning at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. each evening.

COMMODITIES TO BE DISTRIBUTED
Caprock Community Action will distribute commodities at the Senior Citizens Building in Matador, Wednesday, February 9, 1994, 3:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Please do not arrive before 3:00 p.m. The people of Matador are in danger of losing part of their food allocation to other areas because of low participation in this program.

If you cannot be there, give your card to someone you can trust to pick up the food. We need you to help keep this program going. PLEASE BE THERE!

Bring your white commodity card. New applications will not be accepted after 4:45 p.m.

The following items will be distributed: Tuna (12 1/4 oz. can), Rice, Peanut Butter, Butter, Raisins, Apple Juice, Corn Meal, Fruit Cocktail, Dried Pinto Beans.

Benefits are available to all regardless of race, color, national origin, age, sex, disability, political belief, or religion.

BRING A BOX OR SACK!

"For we are God's workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do."
Ephesians 2:10
